AFTERNOON'S RACES WILL BRING WATER CARNIVAL TO CLOSE

Winnipeg Wins Pair-Oared Race on Lake During Morning.

Water and Weather Promise to Be Ideal for Final Contests.

Winnipeg Will Get Next Regatta—Riley Slated for President.

TODAY'S PROGRAM.

Senior singles.
Junior doubles.
Senior eights.
Lapstreak fours.
Free-for-all race for motor boats.
Novelty sports.

This morning the Winnipeg pair oared crew, "Paddy" Allen and E. B. Eadie, won the pair oared event, the time being 9:30.

The race was rowed on the lake, the start being made shortly after 10:30. The Winnipeg men led from the start and won by about seven lengths. The win this morning is the fourth of the present regatta for the Winnipeg Rowing club.

One of the big features carded for this afternoon, outside of the rowing races, is the meeting in the free for all motor boat race for the Fairbanks-Morse engine, of the Little Bob, the crack Barnes boat, and the D. B. C., the new Schell boat, of which much is expected.

After the rest of last night, dope was again going strong this morning. The old dope person is almost equally divided between the St. Paul and Winnipeg senior eights, with perhaps some leaning to the Canadian crew. Con Riley, the redoubtable, is stroking the Winnipeg eight, and in addition to Riley there is the English Henley winning four and some of the veterans of the Winnipeg club.

St. Paul has all of its best veterans in her boat. Cush Wright is stroking the eight, with Stringer, Davis, Wolf, who stroked both St. Paul eights to victory last season. Mackmiller, a Wisconsin varsity oar, and some other cracks are in the boat.

One Change in Duluth.

Duluth will start her junior eight with but one change. "Bill" L'Estrange, a faithful oarsman, who has been around all season, will replace Forgette at No. 2. Ten Eyck has announced that the senior man is no better than Forgette, last season's captain, but that with conditions equal

SENTIMENT IN POLITICS

Taft Keeps Word He Gave to Dying Congressman.

Kansas Postoffice Job Goes Without Opposition By Senators.

Washington, July 22.—In sending to the senate the nomination of Charles S. Finch as postmaster at Lawrence, Kan., President Taft today complied with the dying request of the late Representative A. C. Mitchell of the Second Kansas district and proved that politics is not always so cold blooded as painted.

Mr. Mitchell promised the president to vote for reciprocity early in the special session. Long before the time for a vote came, however, he was taken seriously ill. He returned to Kansas and physicans told him that he was a very sick man. He said that no matter how sick he might be, he would keep his promise to President Taft to come to Washington and vote for reciprocity. In spite of the physicians he made the trip and cast his vote for the bill. Soon after his return to Kansas he died.

Wrote to President.

A day or two before his end, Mrs. Mitchell wrote to President Taft for her husband, asking that Mr. Finch be made postmaster at Lawrence. Mrs. Mitchell added that Senator Bristow was opposed to Finch, and that Senator Curtis might not prove favorable.

The same day the letter reached the White House Mr. Mitchell died. The president called in the two Kansas senators, told them the story and asked if they would oppose the nomination of Finch. They assured him that there would be no opposition and they would gladly help grant the request.

EXILED RULER IS TRYING TO COME BACK

MOHAMMED ALI MIRZA, Deposed Shah, Who Is Seeking to Regain the Persian Throne.

"BIG MISTAKE" SAYS TEDDY

Roosevelt Writes on Action of Department of the Interior.

Discusses Opening of the Controller Bay Land to Ryan.

New York, July 22.—Theodore Roosevelt has an article on the development of Alaska in today's issue of the Outlook. He declares two factors to be responsible for retarding progress in this direction: "Great capitalists who wished to 'develop' Alaska by making enormous fortunes for themselves outside of and in defiance of the law," and the congressmen who, "under pretense of hostility to the corporations, decline to permit the passage of legislation which will enable them to do their work honestly and to develop the coal fields with a fair profit to themselves, while doing justice to others."

Controller Bay Case.

Referring specifically to the Controller bay case, Mr. Roosevelt says:

"In this connection I wish also to call attention to the essential facts as regards the Controller bay situation. Controller bay, under actual conditions, offers the only chance, or at any rate very much the best chance, for a free outlet from the great Bering river coalfields. It was the imperative duty of the government service to keep this outlet free and not to dispose of it to any individual or individuals.

Should Have Held It.

The government should have held this land in perpetuity, permitting its use by any individual or corporation only under conditions that would subserve the general public interest. Unfortunately, the interior department last October eliminated from the government not only the 320 acres, the elimination of which was mistakenly

REBELS MARCHING ON HAITI'S CAPITAL

Government Cruiser Recaptures Gunboat From Enemy.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 22.—The revolutionists are marching on this city, the capital. The situation of the government is critical.

President Simon, who is disheartened by the reverses of the government troops at Fort Liberte, is seriously ill with pulmonary troubles. He is at the palace.

A ray of hope is found in the news today that the Haitien gunboat Vertieres, which was recently taken by the insurgents at Gonaives, has been recaptured by the government cruiser Antoine Simon. The gunboat was overhauled between Gonaives and St. Marc and surrendered without resistance when a blank shot was fired by the Antoine Simon. The Vertieres was brought back here.

DENIES IT IS HIS SHOTGUN

Virginian Accused of Wife's Murder Disputes Cousin's Story.

Beattie Insists Stranger Killed Woman While Out Riding.

Richmond, Va., July 22.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who is under arrest charged with the killing of his young wife, sent a message to his father today in which he declared "absolutely untrue" in every particular the signed statement of Paul Beattie, his cousin, to the effect that he had bought the shotgun with which it is alleged Beattie shot his wife on a lonely road near here.

Both Beattles are under arrest. Paul's statement said that, at Henry C. Beattie's request, he bought for his cousin the shotgun with which young Mrs. Henry C. Beattie was killed. The police today set about to strengthen as far as possible their case against the accused husband.

The latter did not seem surprised when informed of the statement made by his cousin, but said nothing to indicate that he would abandon the story he has told from the first, that his wife was shot to death by a strange man from the roadside while seated beside him in his automobile.

Paul Beattie went into convulsions when arrested and was unconscious for some time.

The coroner's inquest was resumed today.

HOTTEST IN FIVE YEARS IN LONDON

Lord Justice Even Doffs Wig During Session of Court.

London, July 22.—London yesterday sweltered in the hottest weather in five years, the temperature reaching 88 deg. in the shade. Lord Justice Williams, presiding over the appellate court, made an almost unprecented sacrifice of the judicial dignity to comfort by doffing his wig and permitting the barristers to follow suit.

The hot spell has been unbroken for two weeks and London is threatened with an ice famine.

BAR STUDENT STRIKERS FROM COIMBRA SCHOOL.

Coimbra, Portugal, July 22.—Republican guards now occupy the entrances to the University of Coimbra, in order to prevent the "striking students" from getting into the building. Otherwise the city is quiet.

Coimbra recently was the scene of street fighting in connection with the present political agitation, as a result of which many persons were injured.

SUSPECT IN BELLEVUE

New York Health Authorities Study Case in Heart of City.

Cholera Death Roll at Swinburne Island Totals Eight.

New York, July 22.—The cholera guard today centered attention upon Bellevue hospital, in the heart of the city, where a case that arouses suspicion has been discovered.

Thus far the physicians have been unable to satisfy themselves regarding the nature of the patient's disease. If the bacteriological examination undertaken today shows the presence of the dread cholera germ, he will be hurried to Swinburne Island hospital, where twelve patients are now confined.

The suspect is Manuel Bermudes, a Spaniard, who arrived here from Liverpool July 1, a fireman on a tramp steamer originally from South America. Some anxiety has been caused by the fact that the man was taken sick at a sailors' boarding house here before his removal to the hospital.

The cholera death roll at Swinburne island remained at eight, and no new cases had been reported among the other immigrants at quarantine.

Task Will Be Easier.

The steamer Roma, which arrived yesterday from Marseilles and Barcelona, is still in quarantine, but since she did not touch at Naples, as usual, the health officers expected to be able

OPEN SIXTY MORE POSTOFFICE BANKS

Ten First Class Cities Designated for New Service.

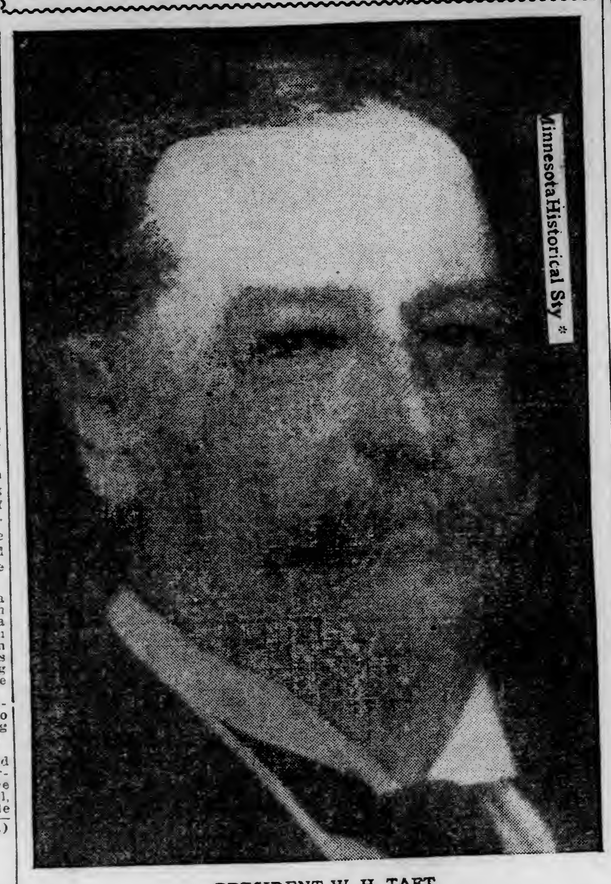

Washington, July 22.—Ten first-class postoffices in addition to the four already designated, were named today by Postmaster General Hitchcock as postal savings banks. They are:

Phoenix, Ariz.; South Bend, Ind.; Pueblo, Col.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Springfield, Mo.; Butte, Mont.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dallas, Tex., and Norfolk, Va.

Prior to June 30, more than 15,000 persons had opened postal savings accounts in 400 offices. Mr. Hitchcock says that at Bedford, Ind., all of the depositors during the first three days of business were foreign born and 50 per cent of the depositors during the first month's business at Miami, Fla., were other than native Americans.

Fifty additional second class postoffices today were designated as postal savings banks. They will begin to receive deposits Aug. 21.

HIS RECIPROCITY PLAN GETS SENATE O. K.

PRESIDENT W. H. TAFT.

BURN HOUSES TO HIDE THEFTS

Chicago Thieves Imperil Many Lives By Their Action.

Chicago, July 22.—One woman was severely injured, scores of lives imperiled and six residences destroyed on the North side today by a blaze which the police believe was started by burglars who planned to rob the houses under cover of the smoke and flames. The alleged incendiaries escaped.

For a time the entire block was threatened by the flames which spread with remarkable rapidity.

Castro "Not In Venezuela."

Willemstad, Curacoa, July 22.—The Venezuelan consul here has received an official communication from his government that all reports of Castro's landing in Venezuela are untrue.

GRILL HINES ON NEW LINE

Senators Ask Him About Work to Prevent Lorimer's Unseating.

He Says Cook Threatened Him—Penrose Sustains Chicagoan.

Washington, July 22.—The activities of Edward Hines, whose name has been linked with the election of Senator Lorimer, to influence the vote of the senate last spring on unseating the Illinois senator were inquired into today by the senate Lorimer committee.

Hines was on the stand again and testified that he called on President W. C. Brown of the New York Central during the Lorimer fight in the senate. Hines was asked if he was seeking to influence the vote of Senator Depew. He answered in the negative.

Hines did say that he spent a month in Washington just preceding the vote on the Lorimer case, seeing senators, inducing others to see them, and writing letters to some of his friends to "tell the facts to their senators."

In Session Only an Hour.

The committee was in session only an hour and then adjourned until Monday, in order to attend today's reciprocity session of the senate.

Carl R. Nelson, private stenographer to Hines, testified that the latter was constantly in Washington during February, 1909, except for occasional trips to New York. The object of this was to show that Hines was not in Chicago during the latter part of February, when Clarence S. Funk said Hines called upon him about the famous Union league conversation. Funk said Hines asked him to contribute to a Lorimer election fund, but Hines said Funk offered to contribute.

Would Not Buy Cook Stock.

Mr. Hines testified today about a proposal to him to purchase Wirt H.

EXILED SHAH IS GETTING SUPPORT

Mohammed Ali Mirzah Cheered By Astrabad People.

St. Petersburg, July 22.—Mohammed Ali Mirza entered Astrabad this morning amid the cheers of the people and the firing of guns in welcome. Astrabad, which is the capital of the province of Astrabad, had already declared for the exiled shah.

There is only one practical route connecting Astrabad with Teheran, the capital of Persia, and this undouttedly is guarded. The former ruler is expected to try to make his way through the mountains, which will be an exceedingly wild trip and will occupy at least ten days.

Meet Him With Artillery.

Teheran, Persia, July 22.—Yeprim, of the Bakhtiaris is organizing a force, including cavalry and artillery, to oppose the advance of the ex-shah.

June 13——Finance committee reports without recommendation.
June 14—Senate debate begins.
June 26—Senate defeats Root paper amendment to bill.
July 22—Passed senate, 53 to 27.

Washington, July 22.—The Canadian reciprocity bill passed the senate without amendment today by 53 to 27. All amendments had been previously defeated.

It becomes law upon the president's signature, the senate measure being the bill that passed the house.

The bill cannot be presented to the president, however, until next Wednesday, the house having adjourned at 12:09 p. m., until that time. Legislative rules require that the reciprocity bill, a house measure, be engrossed by the house while the latter body is in session.

It was just 1:36 p. m. when the bill passed the senate. The final vote came at the close of a lively session, begun shortly after 11 a. m.

Numerous Roll Calls.

There were numerous roll calls on the various amendments, but no attempt at any time to delay final action.

The senate chamber was well filled, many members of the house having gathered in the rear of the hall. The galleries were crowded.

News of the passage of the reciprocity bill was telephoned at once to the White House. President Taft made no attempt to conceal his pleasure. He was particularly glad that the bill had passed prior to his departure at 5:35 p. m. for a week-end visit to

ASQUITH HAS AN AUDIENCE

Plans to Meet Last Onslaught of Veto Bill Opponents.

Unionist Member of Commons Calls Meeting of Forces.

London, July 22.—Premier Asquith had an audience of half an hour with King George at Buckingham palace today, when he placed before his majesty the government's views on the latest phases of the political crisis and made final arrangements to meet the possible contingency that action by the insurgent Unionist peers necessitates by the creation of new members of the house of lords.

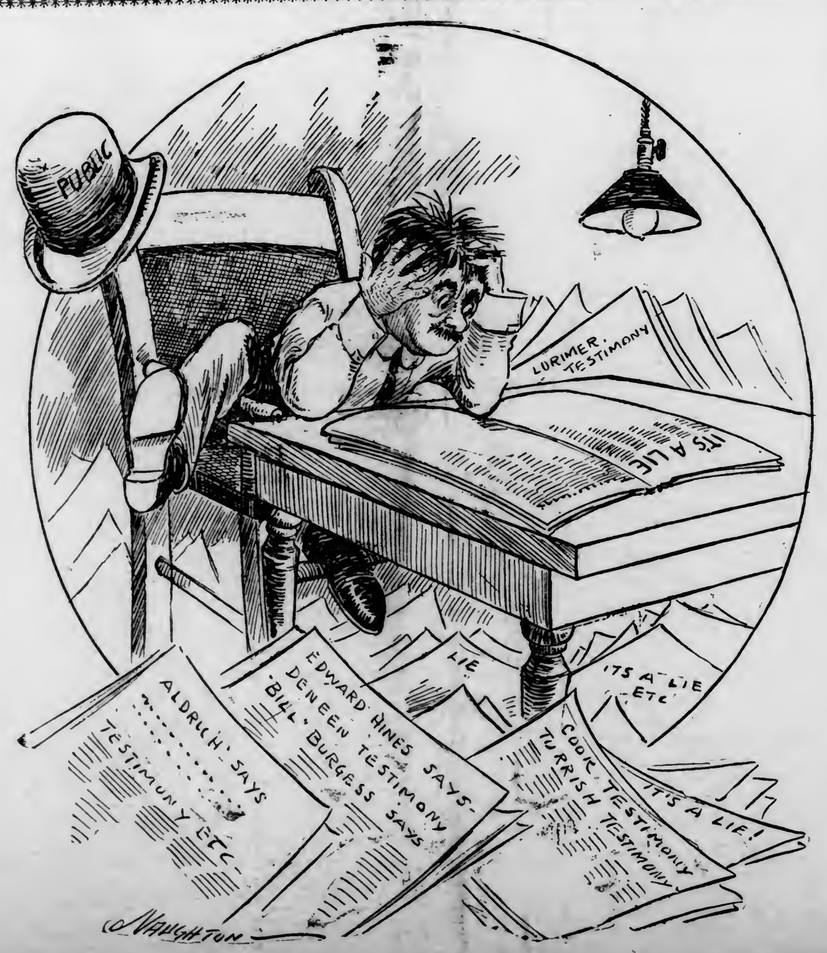

That the "stand patters" are still in a fighting mood is shown by a trumpet blast from Frederick E. Smith, Unionist member of the house of commons for the Waltham division of Liverpool, summoning the lords and members of the lower chamber to a public dinner next Wednesday in honor of the Earl of Halsbury.

Support Lansdowne's Ideas.

The banquet is to be given, it is proclaimed, "in recognition of the services that he has rendered to the state in the present crisis, and to support him in a determination to insist upon Lord Lansdowne's amendments to the veto bill as the last remaining safeguard in the constitution for consulting the nation in a matter of the gravest national importance."

The Earl of Selbourne will preside at the dinner.

RACES FOR SAIL BOATS

Results of Contests on Second Day of the Carnival.

Stiff Breeze Makes Some Exciting Sport for the Sailors.

The sailing yesterday afternoon furnished one of the enjoyable events of the carnival and helped entertain the crowd that was waiting for the belated start of the rowing races.

There were races in the divisions, the 22-foot class, the 28-foot class and in the 32-foot class and 18-foot class.

Charles Brewer won the first in the 32-foot class, after a pretty race with the Navaled, and in the first division of the 28-foot class boats Holland's Scud finished ahead. The Banshee won the second division honors in this class. The Nemadji was the winner in the 22-foot class and the Edola in the 18-footers.

The wind was stiff all during the races, making some of the finishes very close and exciting. Some of the boats nearly went over during the afternoon, and the crowd evidently enjoyed seeing the boats riding clear over on their beam.

to give her a clean bill of health and let her dock today.

The health officers look for an easier task in the future, owing to the fact that most of the steamers from the Mediterranean will not take passengers from Naples and Palermo while the cholera epidemic lasts there.

A report that the investigation of Health Officer Doty's administration had been suspended under orders from Governor Dix to save the local health department from interference during the present stress, was denied today by the commissioner in charge.

The investigation will continue next week, but will be arranged so that none of Dr. Doty's assistants will be called away from their duties at the quarantine station.

recommended by the agricultural department, but 12,840 acres.

Whether there was or was not impropriety in the way in which the elimination was brought about, whether or not there was impropriety in the action which resulted in the instant filing of claims by Mr. Ryan and others, does not go to the root of the matter. The root of the matter is that no such elimination should have been made by the interior department.

Against Public Interest.

"The public interest demanded that this land should be kept under public control, and that to prevent monopoly its use should be permitted only under such conditions as the public need required. Remember always that such action would not have hindered development, for it would have enabled any honest corporation to come in and do its part in developing the country without fear of being crowded out by some other corporation, which, through unwise government action, might obtain a monopolistic right. It is absolutely essential to the proper development of our waterways within the United States, and it is essential to the proper development of the Alaska coal fields."

Cook's stock in the Virginia & Rainy Lake Railway company. Cook has testified that Hines, over the telephone, said he would go to Springfield on the day Lorimer was elected "with all the money necessary."

"It would have taken about $300,000 to purchase Cook's stock, and inasmuch as I had previously received a letter from him which I figured was in the nature of blackmail, I decided not to buy the stock," declared Hines. "He claimed he would make some exposures unless I purchased his stock."

On a trip to New York in February, 1911, Hines said he called on W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central. On another trip he called on E. H. Gary of the United States Steel corporation.

He protested against being compelled to give these names, "because some of the newspapers might say they had something to do with this Lorimer business."

"Brown Might Object."

Mr. Hines declined to give his conversation with President Brown, "because Mr. Brown might object." He said, however, that Lorimer's name was mentioned, although Hines did not intend to discuss Lorimer when he went to call, he said.

"Mr. Brown said he had known Senator Lorimer for twenty years and had the highest regard for him," declared Mr. Hines.

"Did you ask President Brown to speak to Senator Depew about Lorimer?" inquired Senator Kenyon.

"No, sir, nor to Senator Root. Inasmuch as President Brown had spoken so highly of Senator Lorimer, I told him it might be well to put that out. I did not say it to any senator; I had people in general in mind."

Only Lorimer Matter.

"Had you any business in Washington at that time other than the Lorimer matter?" asked Senator Jones.

"No, sir."

"Did you call on senators and talk with them about the Lorimer case?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"Yes."

"Who?"

"Well, several of them."

After a moment's thought he continued:

"I remember Senator Jones was one."

"You didn't have much influence with him did you?"

"No, but I felt free to talk with him."

"Did you use your influence all over the country in favor of Lorimer?"

Knew of No Influence.

"I don't know that we had any influence. If I saw a man in Washington who believed what I told him about Lorimer, I would probably ask him to see his senator about the case."

"Did you go out into the states and write letters asking your friends to bring pressure to bear on senators?" sugested Attorney Marble for the committee.

"Well, I would not say pressure. I wrote to some lumbermen who knew some of the things told here were not the truth, to write their senators explaining the facts."

Attorney Elbridge Haney, representing Lorimer, asked to make the statement that Senator Depew signed a report fro mthe committee on privileges and elections in favor of Lorimer as early as December, preceding Hines' visit to President Brown.

Mr. Hines was interrupted by adjournment of the committee.

Penrose Backs Up Hines.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania brought joy to the Lorimer-Hines followers when he told the committee on the part he took in the election of Senator Lorimer. They claimed that he substantiated the testimony given by Edward Hines as to Senator Penrose's desire to have Mr. Hines exert his influence for Lorimer's election.

Besides his story, yesterday's testimony brought out that the office of secretary of state of New York asked $1,000 for a certified copy of the contributors to the Republican national campaign fund in 1908. The list was desired to show whether Cyrus McCormick was among the contributors. Mr. Hines laid before the committee what he said was a telegram he received in regard to the matter, dated July 12, 1911, and reading:

"Will deliver to you original of Sheldon's statement filed in this office Nov. 23, 1908 for $1,000."

This was signed "James J. Neville, secretary of state's office."

Letter From Burgess.

A letter mentioned several days ago as having been sent by William Burgess of Duluth to H. H. Kohlsaat of Chicago, regarding the Lorimer matter, was read. Among other things Burgess said he understood there was a man in Duluth who was in Hines' office when Hines received a telegram from President Taft asking him to "have the matter hushed up as quickly as possible."

Neither Burgess nor Kohlsaat spoke about the incident when on the stand.

No further details regarding this hearsay talk were vouchsafed and members of the committee treated the matter lightly.

"Is there a copy of the telegram?" asked Senator Kenyon, laughingly.

"No, sir," said Attorney Haney for Senator Lorimer, "nor is there anything in the letter about the Father Green incident as he (Burgess) said there was."

This closed the incident.

Senator Penrose told of meeting Hines in connection with the lumber schedule in the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill.

He Liked Hines.

"I became impressed early that he was a bright, active man, generally familiar with conditions throughout the country," the senator explained.

The senator said he was bothered with many Illinoisans on account of the senatorial vacancy, and that on this account, he thought, he invited Hines' activity.

He admitted he made inquiries of Hines if Albert J. Hopkins could be re-elected, explaining that because of his acquaintance with Hopkins he hoped to see him returned. When Hines told him that it seemed Hopkins could not be returned, the names of Frank O. Lowden and H. S. Boutell, then in congress, were discussed at different interviews, and finally Hines, "as a last resort," suggested Mr. Lorimer's name.

Did Not Know Lorimer.

Senator Penrose said he did then know Lorimer and had never seen him, but knew he was a competent man and a leader, so he urged Hines, as a citizen of Illinois, to do what he could to bring about an election and to support Lorimer when Hines said he believed Lorimer was the only man who could be elected.

He declared he believed Hines in his activities was not prompted by a desire to win a vote for the lumber schedules, but felt a high patriotic motive to have the seat filled.

"The lumber schedules had more votes than most of the other schedules," added the senator.

Several person employed in Hines' office testified that to their knowledge Hines was not in Chicago in February, 1909, when Clarence S. Funk says Hines came to Funk's office to refresh his recollection as to the famous Union League club conversation about the Lorimer election fund. Hines was recalled by counsel for the committee to tell in detail of his movements on the day Lorimer was elected and the day following.

L'Estrange has a right to a chance in the bout.

In regard to the meeting in the free-for-all motor boat race between the Little Bob and the Schell boat, there is little that is known regarding the new Schell entry.

The Little Rob is fast, there is no doubt about that, and the question remains as to the worth of the boat Richard Schell has brought to the Head of the Lakes.

Mr. Schell has never owned a bloomer as yet, and whispered rumors are that his new boat is some bear cat.

Annual Meeting.

This afternoon the annual meeting of the officials of the regatta association is being held. The next regatta will be held in Canada, as the rules of the association state that alternate meets shall be held in the United States and Canada.

Winnipeg is slated for the 1912 regatta and the famous Con Riley, one of the best and justly perhaps the most famous oar that the present association has ever turned out, will be the next president of the association if the plans being discussed this morning are carried out.

There will also be a more definite ruling regarding the lapstreak races formulated. Shell men will not be allowed to enter the lapstreak races in the future, in all probability.

Duluth's bantam four will not be sent into the junior four event. The death of St. Pierre's father put an end to this idea, if Coach Jimmy Ten Eyck ever entertained it.

With weather conditions ideal this morning for rowing, the chances are that the last day's program of the rowing races will be attended with great success and that the crowd will be given a treat.

It has been announced that the races will start promptly at 3:30 no matter what the weather is.

Marine Spectacle.

There was some delay in starting the big Monitor-Merrimac marine spectacle, which closed the carnival last night, but the big crowd with true carnival spirit waited patiently, and their patience was well rewarded. The spectacle was all that was promised for it.

The first of the old style frigates was towed around the end of the grandstand into place and anchored off the signal tower shortly after 10 o'clock. One of the vessels stranded and caused some more delay, but soon all of the fleet was in place. Then the principals in the reproduction of the great naval battle of the Civil war appeared. The Merrimac "steamed" down on the Union fleet and commenced the attack. The frigates had been filled with oil-soaked combustibles and were soon blazing brightly, and illuminated the real fight between the two "Iron Clads." The reproduction of the battle was wonderfully effective, and great credit is due the designer of the craft. The guns of the two novel fighting craft belched smoke and fire and noise in realistic style, and nothing was lacking to give proper atmosphere to its presentation. The boats finally sank, one after another, and it was not until the last one went out of sight in a cloud of smoke and steam that the big crowd finally filed out of the grandstands.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

Newbro's Herpicide Is the Only Original Remedy

Just because you happen to see or hear the statement somewhere that another preparation will kill the dandruff germ, stop falling hair and is just as good as Herpicide, don't be fooled and allow yourself to be swindled out of your money.

You want Newbro's Herpicide, the remedy that has been tried, has stood the test of time and now has more satisfied users than all other similar preparations combined. An attempt to sell you something else is merely another effort to profit from the good name established by the only genuine dandruff germ destroyer.

Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, and prevents falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

It may be claimed that other hair remedies will do the same things, but Herpicide really does them. Its years of success prove this.

Send 10c in postage or silver for sampel and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

All druggists sell Newbro's Herpicide. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Lyceum pharmacy and Lenox drug store are special agents for Duluth. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed.

NUMBER 40 DULUTH, JULY 22, 1911

Municipal Plants' Own Figures

Taking a further group of ten in the alphabetical list of the leading American cities and towns which today have municipal electric plants, the following table gives the official figures, obtained from the men who operate these municipal plants, on the number of lamps in use for city lighting and the cost to the city of each light:

City—	Population.	No. of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per year.
Galion, Ohio	7,500	136	$50.00
Galveston, Texas	37,000	300	60.00*
Grand Forks, N. D.	12,500	118	67.00
Grand Island, Neb.	10,500	81	72.00
Grand Rapids, Mich.	113,000	881	57.21
Greenville, Texas	9,000	(Plant leased to a private operator.)
Hamilton, Ohio	35,500	360	65.00
Hannibal, Mo	18,500	150	60.00
Harrisonburg, Va	5,000	41	50.00
High Point, N. C.	10,000	120	60.00

*The City Superintendent of Electricity of Galveston, who sent us this information, says: "This figure is based on operating expenses only, and NOT including interest, depreciation, taxes, insurance, etc."

The construction and maintenance of a municipal electric plant in Duluth would cost a great deal more than in any of the above named towns, because (1) Duluth is larger than any of them except Grand Rapids; (2) Duluth extends over more territory in long thinly populated lines, thus requiring more and longer stretches of wire to carry electricity to the lamps; (3) Duluth is built on solid rock, which makes the construction of distribution lines, both overhead and underground, abnormally costly.

Do YOU think that a municipal plant in Duluth could light the City at a lower cost than any of the above municipal plants which have cost far less than such a plant here would cost? That's absurd, on the face of it.

The only hope of the agitators for a municipal plant is that such a plant could make up some of the extra-heavy cost of city lighting by selling electricity to private customers. Where is it to find those customers? Do you imagine that large numbers of people are going to "fall over each other" to pay a municipal plant more for electricity than they can get it for from the Duluth-Edison Electric Company?

You see, competition with this company is inevitable for a municipal plant seeking to do any commercial lighting, and where such business simply could not be secured except at a loss how could it reduce the cost of city lighting?

We offer to light Duluth at $45 a year for each arc lamp. Make your own comparisons of this price with the cost-figures from municipal plants; and remember those figures are as low as the managers of those plants can conscientiously make them.

More facts and figures from municipal plants will be given in the next Lighting Talk. Watch for it in next Tuesday's Herald.

OWES LIFE TO TIGHT SHOES

James Mulligan Had Taken Footwear Off Before Boat Capsized.

Could Swim But Little—Would Have Drowned With Shoes.

James Mulligan, aged 45, a West Duluth bartender, owes his life to the fact that he had no shoes on when he and three other men were tipped into Spirit lake yesterday afternoon from a row boat.

All were good swimmers except Mulligan, but he managed to get along after a fashion. His feet were not handicapped by heavy shoes, and with a little assistance from one of the other men, he was helped to safety.

The other men who were in the party and had narrow escapes from drowning were Simon Tracey, Frank Broadwell and Dell Johnson, all employes of the Carbolite plant at West Duluth. The accident occurred about 150 feet from the shore and at 4 o'clock.

The high wind of the afternoon blew up a squall, which capsized the row boat and spilled the occupants into the water. The boat filled with water and sank to the bottom and the men were obliged to swim for shore. Mulligan, who had been rowing, had taken off his shoes, because they hurt his feet, and did not have any footwear on when the accident occurred.

The four men started out for Fond du Lac, where they intended to camp for a few days. They were obliged to go to New Duluth and get some dry clothes.

CHRONIC DISEASES PROVE TO BE CURABLE

Duluth Progressive Doctors Have Great Success In Treating Stubborn Troubles of Sick Men.

If you carefully take some of the mucous from the larynx of a diphtheria patient, spread it on a slide and put it under a microscope to be magnified 1,000 times, you will find millions of diphtheria germs in less space than that of a pin's point. These and all other germs live on the blood or other tissue of the patient, multiply very rapidly and secrete poison, which, if the resistant power of man is not strong enough, will kill the patient. Some germs are extremely slow in the poisoning effect, but in their course of long living are just as dangerous to wreck the health and life of men. Of the quickly killing germs are those of diphtheria, pneumonia, smallpox, lockjaw, cholera. Those of the slowly killing type are the germs of consumption, blood poison and other most dangerous diseases. These are most horrible in their consequences if the cure is neglected. In consumption the lungs are eaten up, in blood poison, in the first stage the disease heals, apparently, but in its second stage ulcers break out on the legs or any parts of the body, a man takes a few treatments and the sores heal up and he is under the impression that he is cured, but the most horrible of all diseases appear in the third stage, where he can neither live nor die. Some germs are doing harm locally for they are causing decay of the tissue, and in later years the disease often goes into the blood and causes rheumatism, bladder disease and kidney trouble, heart and skin diseases. Often a man never had any disease to his knowledge and thinks he can never get sick. He forgets the human body, through wrong living, needs repairs as well as anything else and if this is neglected he will die many a year before his time is up.

Some new cures have been made by the Duluth specialists, who have treated several cases successfully in their offices at No. 1 West Superior street. As no other doctors in the city have the requisite scientific machines to cure successfully all sufferers, they would do well to submit their cases to these specialists, who will give a free examination.

VILLAGE IS DESERTED

Remaining Houses in Pittsburg Are Being Moved to Gary.

Residents Fear Their Homes Will Be Destroyed By Firebug.

Fearing that their homes will be destroyed by incendiary fires, the people of Pittsburg have deserted the small hamlet, which is located about a mile and a half from the steel plant.

Only four families were left there after the last blaze and this week, the houses are being moved to Gary. On July 4, a fire, which is believed to have been set, wiped out five houses, the occupants losing everything in the fire.

Since that time, another house was burned. All of the places were well insured and the burning is being investigated by the fire marshals. It is said that some evidence has been collected but not enough to result in any arrests yet.

Insurance companies have refused to write new insurance for any houses in that location and a West Duluth company a few days before the fourth of July, cancelled its policies, which were held by Pittsburg people. In cancelling the policies, a ten day's notice is required. Two days after the notices of cancellation had been received by the Pittsburg parties, the places burned.

The four families now left at Pittsburg will live at Gary and all that will be left of the town will be a few piles of ashes and a memory which is closely associated with the ravages of the supposed fire demon.

Pittsburg was platted about eight months ago by a Duluth real estate agency and a dozen houses were built there as a nucleus for a village. For a while everything pointed towards a thriving and prosperous hamlet, and many of the laboring men who worked at the steel plant bought lots there with the intention of building there this year.

This year, however, the numerous incendiary fires around Pittsburg have alarmed the residents and no one cares to live there. The nearest houses to Pittsburg are at Gary, a mile and a half away. Pittsburg is located about one mile northeast of the New Duluth bridge which was burned this summer.

It was at Pittsburg that a family saw the firebug recently. It was claimed that he made three attempts to set fire to a boarding house on the same night.

ONEOTA STREET BRIDGE WILL BE REBUILT.

Within ten days work will be started on the rebuilding of the Oneota street bridge at Fortyninth avenue west. It will be constructed for the city of steel by the Canadian Northern railway.

The contract has been let at a figure said to be around $25,000, but the contractor is waiting for the material before operations can be started.

The bridge will be built in sections, so that the street car traffic will not be interfered with. It will be four feet higher than the present structure and 400 feet long. The approaches will be gradual on each side.

Under the bridge will run the terminal lines of the company to the water front docks, elevators and warehouses. It is expected that these will be started this season.

PASSENGERS GET A BATH

Street Car Runs Over Fire Hose, Cutting It in Two.

Big Stream of Water Drenches Occupants of the Car.

Passengers on a street car on the West Third street line were given a drenching shortly after noon today, when an eastbound car ran over a line of hose which had been stretched across the car tracks by firemen, who were called to a blaze at 326 North Twenty-third avenue west.

The nearest water main to the fire was on the lower side of West Third street at Twenty-third avenue west, and the hose was attached to this. The motorman on the car did not see the hose in time to stop, and the line was cut in two.

The end of the hose nearest the main threw a stream of water through the open windows and gates of the car, and many of the passengers, including women, were badly drenched.

The fire was a small blaze and was easily put out by firemen from Company No. 2. Mrs. M. Horton lived there.

Huntley Increases Lead in Regular Event With a Perfect Score.

Shooting in the regular program event of the Duluth Central Gun club's shoot was resumed on the Twentieth street range, Park point, this morning, but owing to the fact that things did not get started until late and because the contestants laid off to watch the pair oared race which was held in the lake this morning, only two of the ten remaining rounds in this event were shot off before noon. Shooting in the state championship will not start until the latter part of the afternoon.

S. F. Huntley, Sioux City, Iowa, amateur, increased his lead with two perfect scores, getting all fifteen birds in each round. H. G. Taylor, professional, U. M. C., of Meckling, N. D., is second with a score of 173 to Huntley's 176, and Fred Slocumb of Watertown, S. D., is tied for third with J. P. White, also of Watertown, at 170 out of a possible 180 birds. The weather conditions this morning are ideal for shooting and the grade of the work is steadily improving as the tournament progresses.

Oldest Newspaper in World.

The Tsing Pao, or Peking News, is the oldest newspaper in the world, having been regularly issued for the past 1,400 years. The extreme care in printing the paper until recent years is apparent, for a simple error was punishable by death. The Riu Pau, another Chinese paper, is 1,000 years old. And yet neither of these papers have the circulation of golden grain belt beers, which are brewed without an error, and are the most perfect beers in the world. They make friends everywhere. Sweetheart Whom Ed. Zadroski Brought to America, Developes Tuberculosis.

Girl Will Be Deported Following His Refusal to Marry Her.

The love affair of Stefania Wisniewska, 24 years old, terminated rather sadly today, when she was deported by the United States immigration inspectors because she had developed tuberculosis after her arrival in the city last February.

Her deportation follows the refusal of her fiance to marry her after she had been sent for by the young man, fitted up with American-made clothes, and given money with which she might have a joyful time.

Her fiance was Ed Zadroski, a young Pole, who lives with his parents in the West end on Winnipeg avenue. He came to this country seven years ago, at the age of 17 years, all alone, and by industry and frugality, managed to save enough money to send for his parents. They have since worked hard, and are now the owners of their own home.

Later young Zadroski decided to marry, and he recalled Stefania, the childhood playmate in Poland. He told her he wanted to marry her, and sent her the ticket. She arrived here last February, appearing to be in the best of health. Zadroski wanted to marry her immediately, but the girl learned that her brother, who is living in Duluth and married to Zadroski's sister, was ill in St. Mary's hospital, where for ten weeks he had suffered with rheumatism. She decided that she must work and assist him a little, so she secured a position in the laundry of St. Mary's hospital, where she worked for some time.

However, during her work there, she developed tuberculosis. She was taken to the poor farm tuberculosis sanitarium. However, she did not like to stay there, and after her second day, departed for the home of her fiance's parents.

When Zadroski learned that his fiancee had become ill he refused to marry her on the grounds that he did not want a sick wife. Attention of the immigration officers was then called to the case, and a request made to have her deported.

The matter stirred up the Polish people in the West end, some of them claiming that Zadroski was right in his claim, others that the girl had been badly treated, while some said that the girl was not sick. However, the two tests made by the county sanitarium officials showed that she had the disease.

A lawyer was consulted, and efforts were made to start a breach of promise suit against the young man, but they fell through. The girl said she would agree to a deportation, but some of her friends urged her not to go, and attempts were made to have her escape.

She has finally decided she will submit to a deportation and will leave this evening for New York, from which port she will sail on July 25, on the steamer George Washington. Her destination is Wrochoyne, Guberna, Russia.

C. A. Spreckels Tells Congressmen About Sugar Trust Affairs.

Says He Wanted to Increase Output and Reduce Prices.

New York, July 22.—How the war between the Spreckels interests and the American Sugar Refining company was settled, and how in the deal the Havemeyers and John E. Searles made an enormous profit, was told to the special congressional committee investigating the trust today by Claus Augustus Spreckels.

The witness is president of the Federal Sugar Refining company of Yonkers, and son of the late Claus Spreckels of California. Mr. Spreckels said:

"The war started soon after the formation of the trust in 1887, and continued until 1891. It was very fierce."

"How did the end come?"

"I was manager of the Spreckels refinery in Philadelphia in 1891, when John E. Searles, secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, came to me in Philadelphia and made a proposition to settle the war.

Competition Was Ruinous.

"He said the bitter competition had been ruinous, and he said if we would sell 51 per cent of the stock of the Philadelphia plant it would close its competing plant on the Pacific coast. I wired my father about it, and after much parleying Searles went out to California to negotiate with my father.

"The result was that the Western Refining company was formed, embracing the American and Spreckles interes s in a $5,000,000 corporation. The American took $2,225,000 in the capital stock and I delivered it to H. O. Havemeyer, Theodore A. Havemeyer and John E. Searles in New York. They told me they were the purchasers and not the American. They paid me half cash and half in short time notes, which they later paid.

Sold For $10,000,000.

"Six months later the Havemeyers and Searles, with my father, sold the total capital stock of the Western company to the American for $10,000,000 in preferred stock. Of this my father received $5,000,000 and the Havemeyers and Searles got the same for their interest, for which they had paid my father $2,225,000. They also, in the settlement of the war, acquired a 45 per cent interest in the $5,000,000 Spreckels Philadelphia plant.

"My quarrel with them started when they wanted to limit the output of the Philadelphia plant. Their idea was to reduce the amount of production and thus force up the price. My plan was to increase the output and decrease the prices."

Swelled Campaign Fund.

The American Sugar Refining company contributed $10,000 to help Benjamin Harrison in one of his campaigns for the presidency against Grover Cleveland. The contribution wa sgid of by John F. Parsons, former attorney for the company, in his testimony before the committee. He could not remember whether it was the first or second Harrison campaign.

ACCUSE BRIGGS OF AIDING CROOK

Former Politician of Minneapolis Named in the Complaint.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 22.(—Special to The Herald.)—A complaint charging him with aiding a criminal to escape has been sworn against Fred Briggs, former Minneapolis politician.

Briggs, the police hold, was the leader of an alleged "robber gang," and friend and adviser of Jerry McCarthy, alias "Tom Hatch," outlaw and ex-convict, recently slain by Patrolman Olinger in a duel that cost the officer his own life.

Briggs is in jail charged with highway robbery and burglary with bail fixed at $10,000. The police, it is said, prepared the additional charge against the former politician to preclude the possibility of furnishing bail.

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN MARINE TRADE.

While marine business is not active, and the shipments of ore very light as compared with those of last year at this time, still the shipments during the past week were considered fair. In all, the week's business, ending at 12 o'clock today, amounted to 602,000 tons of ore, which required eighty-six of the larger ore boats for its transportation.

During the same week fifty-four boats carried coal from the lower lakes to the Head of the Lakes. Most of these boats were the ones which carry ore down the lakes, so the cargoes were big. The amount that these boats carried up, is not known.

Federal Court Cases.

The case of H. E. Skeaps against the Duluth Street Railway company was this morning continued until the next session of the federal court, upon request of the plaintiff's attorney, who was called out of the city.

Judge Morris took up the case of L. J. Picket against the Northern Pacific railroad, the Continental Insurance company and the National Fire Insurance company of Hartford. The case is really one in which the fire insurance companies are the plaintiffs. Picket had a house insured, which was burned down, the alleged cause of which was a spark from a locomotive. The fire insurance companies paid the loss and now they are suing the railroad for the damages.

ANALYZING BLOOD STAINS

Modern Methods Enable Analyst to Determine Whether Blood Was Human.

London, July 22.—For the first time in the history of the criminal courts of England a skilled analyst has been able to say positively that the stains found on the clothes of a prisoner were made by human blood, and not only that, but that the blood was from an anaemic person.

In many murder trials the guilt or innocence of a prisoner has turned on the evidence of the analyst, who heretofore was unable to swear positively whether the stains were made by mammalian or human blood. The point came up in the Crippen case, and it was then said that science was at work on the subject and a successful outcome of the investigation was anticipated.

In the case in question a man was charged with killing a woman and when arrested stains were found on his clothes. Dr. Wilcox, the government analyst, who was a witness in the Crippen case, stated in evidence that modern methods now enabled him to say that the blood was human and that it came from an anaemic person, which the victim was. The prisoner was found guilty and sentenced to death.

Gen. Nogi, the Japanese hero, who captured Port Arthur from the Russians and assured the success of his country in the battle of Mukden, is about to visit his former foes.

The general, a veteran of many battles, with less of the reticence that distinguishes his fellow countrymen, came to London as a member of the special mission from Japan to the coronation. The head of the mission, Prince Higashi-Fushimi, with the Princess Higashi-Fushimi, after having almost made up his mind to return home through America, finally decided to go by steamer as he came. Admiral Togo, the naval representative on the mission, is going to America at the invitation of the American government after he makes a tour of England, while Gen. Nogi goes to Russia.

The general, when seen before his departure, seemed rather pleased with his prospective trip. He first visits Turkey, doubtless to see what the Germans have done with the Turkish soldier. Then he goes to Berlin for an audience with the emperor, and from there to St. Petersburg. His host in the Russian capital is to be Gen. Stoessel, who defended Port Arthur against Nogi, and who was court-martialed for surrendering. The last time the two warriors met was on the day the Russian flag was hauled down and Stoessel handed his sword to the man he has now invited to visit his home. The meeting must be an interesting one.

Gen. Nogi is also anticipating with much pleasure an audience with Emperor Nicholas. Both he and Admiral Togo were very popular in London and received ovations wherever they went. They were among the few who drove to the coronation ceremoney at Westminster Abbey in an open carriages and were cheered all along the route. Admiral Togo is quiet and has little to say even to his own countrymen. Gen. Nogi, on the other hand, is a good companion, and talked continuously of what he had seen and hoped to see.

Diplomats are beginning to wonder whether there will ever be an end to the negotiations over the various Chinese loans. They got the railway loans off their hands and thought there was nothing more to be said about the Manchurian loan. Lately, however, it has again cropped up in the dispatch bags. Japan and Russia objected to the clause that provided that in future loans the country supplying the money in this instance should be given the first option. Russia and Japan thought that established a monopoly, and the ambassadors in London complained to the foreign office.

It has been pointed out that such a clause is put in all loan agreements, and is a usual business arrangement. No formal answer has been given as yet, but it is believed that steps will be taken by the interested powers to allay the feeling in Japan and Russia that they are being shut out of any loan transactions in China.

THE HOBBLE SKIRT.

Los Angeles Times: "The hobble skirt, the jupe entravee, is a very pretty and graceful new fashion, but it is rather inconvenient," said Miss Ethel Barrymore at a dinner in Bristol, R. I.

"The skirt is exceedingly tight from the knees down, but for that matter it is tight all over. A young woman in one of these hobble skirts came out of Sherry's on a spring afternoon and proceeded, with some difficulty, to enter her motor car.

"'What do you think of that skirt?' a man who was passing said to his companion.

"'It reminds me,' the other answered, 'of the bridge trains in the rush hours. Standing room only, and very little of that!'"

WOLF HUNTERS IN NAME ONLY.

Westminster Gazette: Wolves have long been extinct in France, yet there are a hundred "lieutenants de la louveterie" whose nominal duty is to keep these animals under. Among the holders of this office are aristocrats such as the Prince d'Arenberg and the Marquis de Clermont Tonnerre and millionaires like the Conte Greffulhe and M. Paul Lebaudy.

They draw no salary, but the state provides them with a showy uniform, the buttons of which are adorned with wolves' heads. The distinction is keenly sought after, as the "lieutenants de la louveterie" have shooting rights in all the state domains and thus enjoy some of the best sport in France.

EARLY HOME OF DICKENS.

Pall Mall Gazette: Johnson street, Somers Town, where the London county council have decided to erect a memorial tablet to Charles Dickens, was associated with what was practically the first ray of sunshine that broke through the clouded sky of the novelist's childhood. It was in 1825, when Dickens was 13, that a sudden improvement in his father's finances enabled the family to leave the Marshalsea prison and take a house in Johnston street.

For Charles, who had boarded out during his father's detention in the debtors' prison, this meant the resumption of home life. It meant also relief from the slavery in the blacking factory, for his father was now able to send him to a fairly good school in the neighborhood of their new abode. The lickenses remained in Johnston street for four years and descriptions of the locality occur, it will be remembered, in "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Bleak House."

MEREDITH'S DAYS OF PENURY.

London Daily News: The city council is to be asked, and no doubt it will consent, to place memorial tablets on the house once occupied by William Morris, Burne-Jones and Dante Gabriel Rossetti at 17 Red Lion Square, W. C.

George Meredith in the days of his extremest penury joined with those other three young men in their bachelor establishment. The state of his boots, we are told by one of the biographers, at length arouse the solicitude of his fellow tenants, who one night stealthily replaced them by a new pair. But Meredith was so much piqued by what was meant in all kindness that he withdrew from the fellowship the next day.

'ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT'

Began by Little Pimples. Scratched Until Blood Came. Kept Getting Worse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the First Day They Relieved Itching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies [Soap and Ointment] cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrki, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.

The Cuticura Remedies afford the speediest and most economical treatment for skin troubles. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., 139 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

ST. PAUL PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL FROM DULUTH CHURCH

REV. O. J. FLAGSTAD.

Rev. O. J. Flagstad, after seven years' service in St. Paul, has accepted the call from the Trinity Norweglan Lutheran church of Duluth. Installation ceremonies were conducted by Rev. Jens Halvorsen of Ashland, Wis., last Sunday evening.

At the annual meeting of the Lutheran Free church, held at Willmar last June, Rev. Flagstad was elected to serve as president of the Home missions, which position he declined to accept in order to serve the Duluth congregation.

HERALD EXCURSIONS FOR NEXT WEEK

Trips to Fond du Lac Monday, and to Two Harbors on Wednesday.

Next Monday The Herald will offer the public another opportunity to enjoy a bargain excursion. The trip is the regular Monday ride up the beautiful St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, the famous Indian trading post, the magnificent resort where every summer thousands spend their vacations.

The excursion will be made on the new steamer Columbia, one of the handsomest excursion boats on the Great Lakes. It is of solid steel, and is swift and safe, and will acommodate 1,000 passengers without crowding or inconvenience. The boat will leave the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west at 9 o'clock in the morning and returning, leave Fond du Lac at 4 in the afternoon.

For a family gathering at Fond du Lac on a week day, no better offer could be made than that from The Herald. The round trip, if the tickets are secured in advance from The Herald office, is only 25 cents, or one half of the regular fare. This gives the people of Duluth and vicinity and the many visitors, a chance to enjoy a great recreation at a very moderate price.

The regular trip to Two Harbors on the Steamer Easton, of the Booth line, will be made on Wednesday next week instead of Thursday as heretofore. The boat will leave at 4 o'clock in the afternoon from Booth's dock, at the foot of Lake avenue, and will return by moonlight at 9 o'clock.

BIG UNDERGROUND WORK ALL PLANNED

New York Lets Contract to Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

New York, July 22.—Within ten days thousands of men probably will begin their long task of burrowing under the city in the making of the most elaborate system of underground thoroughfares in the world. So announced Chairman Wilcox of the public service commission and Frank Bradley, the contractor, at the conclusion of a meeting of the board of estimate, when the entire new system, involving the expenditure of approximately $225,000,000, was awarded to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company.

Four of the five construction contracts were signed and bonds approved last night, and the only formality now barring actual work is the procuring of a permit.

After the meeting adjourned, a lawyer announced that he would immediately apply for an injunction on behalf of a taxpayer to prohibit the letting of a portion of the extension to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company. Members of the board believe, however, that he is too late.

The system will require from three to four years to finish in its entirety, although engineers estimate that portions here and there may be completed within eighteen months to two years.

BUTTONS AND STAMPS FOR McNAMARA FUND.

Washington, July 22.—The American Federation of Labor has inaugurated a vigorous campaign to raise money with which to conduct the defense of the McNamaras, charged with dynamiting the plant of the Los Angeles Times. In addition to a general appeal through the press of the country, it is planned to augment the fund by the sale of buttons bearing a picture of J. J. McNamara and the word "kidnaped." Stamps carrying a photograph of McNamara and designed to be used on the backs of envelopes, also will be offered for sale.

TELLS HOW TO KEEP SERVANT IN HOUSE.

Chicago, July 22.—Mrs. Samuel Faulkner, who has kept one servant in her employ for fifty years, declares that kindness will solve the servant girl problem in every house. The servant's name is Barbara Ritter and she is now 64 years old.

"Treat them kindly all the time if you want to keep them," said Mrs. Faulkner. "Treat them as if they had feelings. Greet them with a cheery good morning and say 'good night' when they go to bed. Do not overwork them. If they do extra work, pay them for it. Let them have a reasonable amount of company. Never tip your maid; because that spoils her."

RATTLESNAKE LIVED AT POPULATION CENTER.

Bloomington, Ind., July 22.—In tangled underbrush on the farm of William L. Mosier, eighteen miles northeast of this city, the exact center of population of the United States was located yesterday, but the only inhabitant of the immediate neighborhood found was a large rattlesnake which slid out of the bushes and was killed by one of the party of Prof. Cogshall of Indiana university, who discovered the spot. The place will be distinguished by a tablet.

Prof. Cogshall located the "hub of the country" by finding the longitude by observation of the stars at night and the latitude by the sun by day.

CARNIVAL VISITORS AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Following the close of the carnival with the ending of the rowing races this afternoon, there will be a program of special attraction at the big Auditorium roller skating rink, one of the finest of its kind in the country.

Brilliantly lighted, decorated in gay Japanese style, and having the famous sciopticon, with its beautiful and spectacular electrical illusions, such as the northern lights, the aurora borealis and other features, the rink is a place where carnival visitors will find a cordial welcome.

Those who have never skated will find courteous attendants in uniform whose business it is to teach patrons of the rink how to skate.

The big rink will be specially lighted up this evening and a special program will be put on for the entertainment of the visitors. During the past three days large crowds have been flocking to the big Auditorium, and there is not a visitor who has been up to the big building who has not voted it one of the best rinks in this part of the country.

The Slim Summer Girl Is Winning

The day of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dressmakers, "and the more comfortable," say those whose fat makes summer intolerable.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, even on the hottest days, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person to losing fat at the rate of 12 or 14 ounces a day. Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tablet in stock, but should yours be sold out, you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, the Marmola Company, 491 Farmer building, Detroit, Mich.

DRINK HIS MASTER

Why a St. Paul Business Man Took the Neal Cure.

Interesting Story Told at Recent Banquet Behind Down-Turned Glasses.

(St. Paul Pioneer Press, July 16.)

When a man who has traveled a good many years with a reputation of a big "carrying capacity" turns down his wine glasses at a banquet, people often look twice.

This is what happened at a dinner in St. Paul the other night. A row of crystal, "bottoms up," fringed the plate of one bright business man, whose friends had long since mentally marked him for ruin through excessive drink.

There wasn't a happier man at that dinner than the one referred to. The surprised look of inquiry which his nearest neighbors gave him was responsible for a story worth while repeating to every man and woman whose drinking habit is giving friends grave concern.

"No more liquor for me," said the man behind the empty glases. "I'm NEAL cured of that dangerous habit and am done with it."

Then with intense earnestness he gave this recital of an experience which he counts as priceless:

"Months ago," he said, "I made up my mind that I ought to quit drinking. I realized that I was no longer master of my appetite, but that liquor was bossing me. I had heard about the NEAL treatment, but I didn't believe it could do me any good. I went out to the NEAL Institute, however, met Dr. Austin, and this is what I told him:

"'In the past five years I've seen men who never quit drinking until the finish, and I feel I am nearly done for. I thought I could drink in moderation, and did so for a while, but when I said "Drink will never get the better of me," I was just fooling myself. I do not believe that there is any hope for me. I did not realize until recently how far gone I really am. The boy I reared and loved as much as my own son has left me because of my drinking. My friends are fast deserting me. My business is going to pieces. I am here to take your treatment. If that fails, then it is all over with me.'

"The doctor explained the NEAL Treatment to me and I stayed. On the fourth day I left the Institute happy and well. Why, those three days were the most profitable I have lived in years! Think of it, from a slave of drink to a free man in three days! I guess you'll understand why the glasses are down and you can bet they'll always stay down!"

Welcomed back by old friends and associates, his business once more on a solid foundation, his nerves restored, this man is telling all who need help that the NEAL WAY ends the drink habit without the tortures suffered by those who try to stop of their own accord.

If you have relatives, or one who is near and dear to you, a friend or acquaintance who is drinking, speak to him kindly, urge him to go to the Neal Institute. You can call the Institute by phone and make an appointment for an interview at the institute or in your home. Everything shall be sacredly confidential.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DEATH ENDS DRINK BOUT

Peter Skoglund of Ericsburg, Minn., Sustains Crushed Skull.

Returning From Town With Wife and Friends, He Takes Misstep.

International Falls, Minn., July 22.—After investigating the death of Peter Olaf Skoglund at Ericsburg this week, Coroner Swinnterton issued a certificate of accidental death, although there were some elements about the tragedy that looked suspicious.

Skoglund fell off the bridge at Ericsburg, alighting among some logs in the river underneath and crushing his skull. He had been to Ericsburg with his wife and some friends. All had been drinking and started home about 11 p. m., Skoglund in the lead. Suddenly, he lurched and fell and when taken from the water was dead. The accident was attributed to a misstep, but the coroner's examination disclosed the fact that he had struck a raised spike in a tie, as the print of the same was plainly apparent upon the soles of one foot. A fact which makes the death of Skoglund the more deplorable is that his widow is soon to become a mother.

Marinette Man Dies.

The coroner this week also looked into the death of Pat Carrigan, a cook, who expired in bed in his room above a saloon. He had been drinking considerably the night previous, leaving the saloon in apparently normal health. Not responding to a call next morning, the door was forced and he was found dead. Death from heart failure was the coroner's opinion. The deceased formerly came from Marinette, Wis., and had resided in this section many years, being well known in lumbering circles.

BEMIDJI MAN IS NOW ON TRIAL

Facing Jury at Bottineau, N. D., on a Charge of Assault.

Bottineau, N. D., July 22.—G. Mefford of Bemidji, Minn., is on trial in the district court charged with criminal assault. Mrs. Arne Hamilton, a widow of only seven weeks, her husband having been killed about the time of the alleged assault, is the complaining witness. Mefford is accused of attempting a get-rich-quick game, which also resulted in intervention upon the part of the public administrator.

In the Paul Gore blind-pig case a verdict of guilty was returned, while in the McDougal case no agreement was reached.

Lee, field manager of the Golds Iron company of Superior, is here with an iron drill and a car of coal to be used in drilling operations on section 32, Villard township. Numerous specimens have been secured which lead to the belief that there is iron ore in this section near the surface.

The city is to have a combined bargain market-circus day on Tuesday, Aug. 1. The Kit Carson's shows will exhibit on that day and the business men will combine their monthly market day with that event to insure the surrounding farmers a good time. The monthly market days have proven a success.

All grain in this section is in fine condition. The splendid weather and exceptional rain fall has placed all crops in good condition and everything points to a bumper crop in all grains.

COURTS MUST DETERMINE

Controversy With Indian Women Over Rolette County Claim.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Margaret Demaris vs. Anna Johnson contest, involving the possession of a valuable claim in Rolette county, and the plaintiff being an Indian woman, must be thrashed out before the United States land office. A motion to dismiss by the defendant, on the contention that there was insufficient evidence, was denied, the land office holding that there appeared at that time to be enough evidence to substantiate the claim that the Indian woman had claimed the land several years before Anna Johnson went on it.

CANADIAN SOO WOMAN ROBBED.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.) — While Mrs. W. G. Wilson, wife of an official of the Lake Superior corporation, was shopping in the business section yesterday, burglars entered her apartments in the Algonquin hotel and took jewelry valued at $1,200.

The gems were in a small chamois bag in a trunk, which was forced by the robbers. There is no clue.

REPTILE IN BANANAS.

Central American Snake Five Feet Long Startles Moorhead Clerk.

Moorhead, Minn., July 22.—A snake five feet in length was discovered Thursday afternoon coiled in a bunch of bananas to Charles Hagelin's store. As Archie Loudon reached up to the bunch to cut out an order of bananas his fingers clutched something of an uncanny feel and in an instant he was gazing into the beady eyes of the flat-headed reptile. Dave Wright, who was at hand, seized the bunch with bananas and threw it out on the sidewalk. As it struck, the snake uncoiled itself and darted for the street. Dave stopped him with a firm heel planted on its flat head, and the snake was done for.

Straightened out, the snake was five feet long and was of a mottled color. The reptile must, of course, have come from the Central American country, from which the bananas were shipped.

CARLTON POSTPONES WATERWORKS PLAN.

Carlton, Minn., July 22—(Special to The Herald.)—A mass meeting of Carlton people was held in the city hall Wednesday evening to discuss a proposed waterworks and sewer system for the town. Bemidji—Lake Bemidji has gone down six inches during the past week, and it is with difficulty that the larger boats cross the sand bar which runs across the entire lake, from Diamond point to the outlet of the lake. Boats which have gone down the river with practically no trouble so far this summer, now have much trouble in doing so, and landing at various places on the lake is made impossible.

Princeton—In less than two hours the fair-soliciting committee raised almost $1,000; there was five subscriptionse of $100 each, several signed for $50 each, more for $25, and there were $10 and $5 subscriptions. The committee would not accept anything less than $5.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Racine—Representatives of Chicago ice companies were here and endeavored to purchase the entire supply of ice now in the local houses. The owners were offered as high as $50 a ton for the supply, but refused to sell because of their wish to supply the local market.

Janesville—After a week's mysterious disappearance from his home at Albany, Wis., 14-year-old Chester Roberts has returned to involuntarily clear the mystery, which for a time surrounded the theft of $5,500 of the savings of Fred Burt, a railroad section foreman, from his shanty near here last week.

Madison—State Supt. C. P. Cary has appointed Duncan H. Reed of Oxford to be county superintendent of schools of Marquette county in place of J. H. Wheelock, who resigned to become head of the county training school of Waushara county.

Manitowoc—To do away with the too frequent presence of hoboes the police committee will ask that steps be taken to compel tramps taken into custody to work in the city gravel pit or on streets.

Eau Claire—Edward McMurchey, aged 53 years, who owns a farm near Wheeler, Wis., was brought to Eau Claire Thursday to the Sacred Heart hospital a maniac. He has been in this state since the 28th of last June. On that day he was raking in one of the hay meadows on his farm, when the horses bolted. Mr. McMurchey was thrown from the rake and his clothes catching in the teeth, was dragged a considerable distance. He sustained severe injuries about his head.

GRAND FORKS IS READY FOR THE STATE FAIR

MAIN BUILDING AT NORTH DAKOTA FAIR.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Looking for a stock exhibit that will surpass anything ever seen in North Dakota; enthusiastic at the prospects for tremendous crowds and already assured that the exhibits in the machinery, commercial, educational, women's fine arts and agricultural products will set new marks, officials of the North Dakota State Fair Association of Grand Forks are awaiting only the arrival of the hour for the opening of the exhibition, 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

The machinery display will be elaborate, for already over a half hundred companies have secured exhibit space. In addition there is the twenty acre plot set aside for plowing exhibitions alone. Commercial exhibits in Liberal Arts building will also establish new records. The main exhibition floor comprises 128 exhibit spaces, and the last of these were disposed of two weeks ago. The upper floor will be given over to the educational, women's department and the fine arts exhibit, each of which departments will be filled to capacity.

Poultry show activities are unusual this year, the poultry being made up principally of small exhibits, very much greater than ever before. The "car lot" exhibit is now permitted to compete in the poultry department under a new ruling made this season.

Attraction programs are also of the very best, four bands will be used during the week.

The race card promises to be an exceptionally fast one, the complete list of entries being announced yesterday.

Is This Man Gifted With Strange Power?

Prominent People Say He Reads Their Lives as an Open Book.

Do You Want to Know About Your Business, Marriage, Changes, Occupation, Friends, Enemies, or What to Do to Achieve Success?

TEST READINGS FREE TO ALL HERALD READERS WHO WRITE AT ONCE.

Attention of the mystically inclined seems to be centered at present upon the work of Mr. Clay Burton Vance, who, although laying claim to no special gift of supernatural powers, attempts to reveal the lives of people through the slender clue of birth-dates. The undeniable accuracy of his delineations leads one to surmise that heretofore palmists, prophets, astrologers and seers of divers beliefs have failed to apply the true principles of the science of divination.

It is not to be denied that astrologers have excited the interest of enlightened people of all ages, but there have been many earnest thinkers reluctant to accept the theories of the ancient Chaldean science. One can only judge the potency of the science of Astrology by a personal application of its principles. To have all the cardinal events of your life spread out before you; to read an undeviating description of your true character, habits and inclinations, is proof positive that the mighty power that shaped the universe and set the hands on the dial of time to mark the destiny of man has not left us without the means through which we may know ourselves, through which we may fathom the mysteries of life. Asked to explain the method by which he gives his delineations, Mr Vance replied: "I have simply resurrected an ancient science and moulded it into a key to human nature."

The following letters are published as evidence of Mr. Vance's ability. Mr. Lafayette Redditt writes: "My Reading received. With the greatest amazement I read, as step by step you outlined my life since infancy. I have been somewhat interested along these lines for years, but had no idea that such priceless advice could be given. I must admit that you are indeed a very remarkable man, and am glad you use your great gifts to benefit your clients."

Mr. Fred Walton writes: "I did not expect such a splendid outline of my life. The scientific value of your Readings cannot be fully appreciated until one has his own Reading. To consult you means success and happiness."

Arrangements have been made to give free test Readings to all readers of The Herald, but it is especially requested that those who wish to avail themselves of this generous offer make application at once. If you wish a delineation of your own life, if you wish a true description of your characteristics, talents and opportunities, simply send your full name, the date, month and year of your birth, and also state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss. Send your letter to Mr. Clay Burton Vance, suite 542-A, No. 14 Rue de Richelieu, Paris, France. If you wish you may inclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Please note that 5 cents postage is required on letters posted to France. Do not inclose coins or silver in your letter.

OPEN BIDS ON ROAD WORK

Farrell, Sundby and Getchell Roads Will Be Improved.

Comference Committee Allowance Insufficient to Do All Work Required.

The board of public works will open bids next Friday for the grading of three roads leading into the city from the nearby farming districts. They are the Sundby road, the Farrel road and the Getchell road. The Farrel and the Sundby roads come into Duluth in the Second ward and the Getchell road enters in the Eighth ward.

The conference committee allowed $2,000 for the improvement of the Farrel road and $3,000 for each of the others. It is not expected that these sums will be sufficient to put them in the desired shape by any means. The idea is to spend several thousands dollars a year on them until they are in first-class condition. The finances of the city will not allow of a sufficient fund being spent at one time to improve them as they should be. All of them lead to the farming sections immediately tributary to Duluth and it is deemed highly important that they be made as easy to travel as possible. The bids for the work will be opened Friday, but the contracts will not be let until the following Monday.

Bids will also be opened for the improvement of the Hartley road near Woodland. It will be graded and either graveled or crowned with crushed rock. The road is about one and one-half miles long. Thirteenth avenue east, between Second and Fourth street, will be graveled or paved and the bids will be opened next Friday. The works board reports that many improvements are under way and that satisfactory progress is being made. Competition is keen and the prices submitted in the bids are considered very low, the property owners getting the benefit.

ASKS STATE TO SETTLE.

Ditching Firm Claims It Lost $17,500 on Work.

St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saying that his firm already has lost $17,500 on contracts to construct state ditches in Koochiching county, R. A. Elzy of Elzy & Son, St. Paul, has asked that the state settle with him on the contract. The state is holding back about $2,000.

Some of the ditches run through a muskeg soil and Mr. Elzy says that as fast as he cleans out the ditches the mud runs in again and it is impossible to keep them clean. When he bid on the work he overlooked the nature of the cuts, he said, and this resulted in a loss of more than $17,000. George Ralph, drainage engineer, is out of the city and no action can be taken on the request till his return.

HERALD CONCERT AT CHESTER PARK

Public Is Cordially Invited to Second Open Air Park Entertainment.

The Herald will entertain at Chester park tomorrow afternoon at the second of the series of the open air band concerts to be given in the different parks during the summer.

The music will be furnished by the Third Regiment band between 3 and 5 p. m. Bandmaster Jens Flaaten will act as director.

Chester park is located at Fourteenth avenue east and Fourth street. It is of easy access to everyone, being centrally located and on the Fourth street car line.

It is one of the most beautiful parks in the city. Because of its many natural features it has been for years one of the most popular of the city parks. It extends from Fourth street to the boulevard.

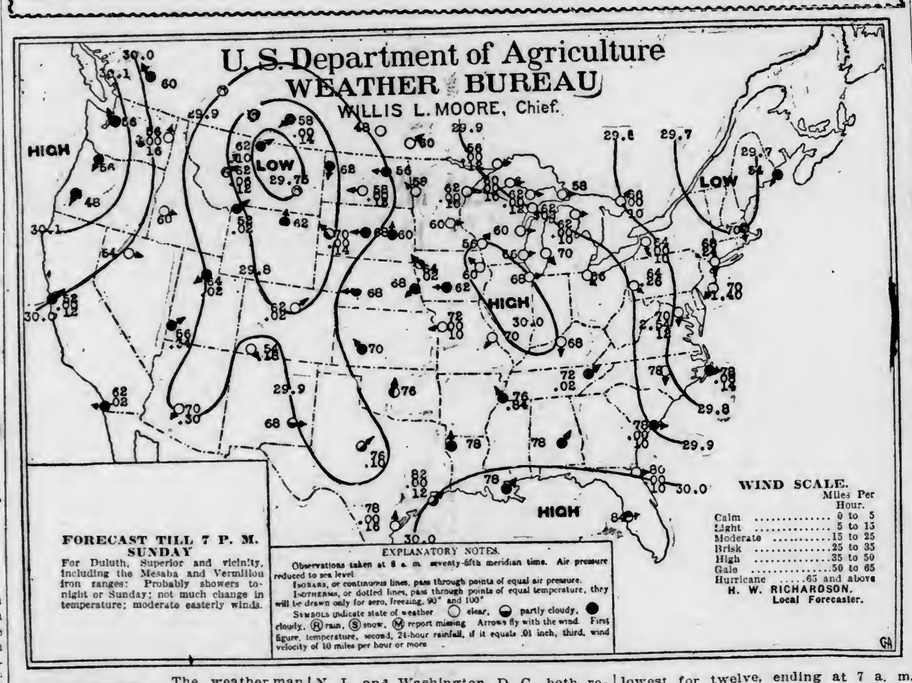

Last Sunday the concert was given at Lincoln park, and if attendance is any indication of appreciation, it was a big success.

There are fine picnic grounds, the scenery is natural and typical of Duluth, there are fine shade trees and a good stream in which the children may wade.

Everybody is invited to The Herald concert Sunday afternoon at Chester park.

Have you secured a permit to smoke on the street.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The weather man has been one of the most enthusiatic boosters for the water carnival so far, and he started out this morning to wind things up with another ideal day. The prospects for the afternoon and evening are of the best, and while unpleasant weather may develop late tonight, it will be too late then to have any effect on the carnival celebration.

The sun rose this morning at 4:35, and after fifteen hours and eighteen minutes of sunshine is due to set at 7:53. The prevailing wind through the day has been a little west of south and the temperature has been somewhat higher than during the other carnival days.

Forecaster Richardson says of conditions:

Temperatures of 90 deg. were general Friday in Missouri, Kansas, Eastern Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Western Texas, Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. The low pressure areas centered over Montana and New England, respectively, caused light to copious showers over the Rocky mountain region and extreme Southwest and over Middle Atlantic states and Tennessee. Atlantic City, N. J., and Washington, D. C., both report heavy rainfalls during the last twenty-four hours. At the Head of the Lakes there is a likelihood of showery conditions developing late tonight or during Sunday."

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Knox Quits Money Commission.

Washington, July 22.—A battle royal over a financial bill in the next session of congress was foreshadowed when, in accordance with a general agreement among those concerned, Secretary of State Knox tendered to the senate his resignation as a member of the national monetary commission, and Senator Penrose, chairman of the committee on finance, was designated by Vice President Sherman to succeed Mr. Knox. The change was made to enable Mr. Penrose to give especial attention to the bill which the commission will present at the beginning of the regular session of congress next December.

Immediately following the change, Senator Penrose reported from the finance committee the Cummins bill providing for the abolition of the commission at the beginning of the regular session. The report was the result of a poll of the committee taken after a consultation between Senator Penrose and Chairman Aldrich of the committee. In Mr. Cummins' absence there was no effort to act upon the measure, and it went on the calendar.

On Stephenson Case.

Chairman Dillingham of the senate committee on privileges and elections appointed Senators Heyburn, Sutherland, Bradley, Bailey and Paynter as a sub-committee to suggest what recommendation shall be made to the senate on the request for an investigation of the election of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin. Senator Clapp asked to be excused from service on the sub-committee.

Get Ready for Canal.

The nearness of the completion of the Panama canal is emphasized by an order issued by Postmaster General Hitchcock looking to the establishment of an ocean mail service between the principal ports on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the ports of Panama and Colon. The employment of fast steamers in the service will develop a great commerce between the two Americas, it is expected.

The order calls for a service which shall begin in the autumn of 1914, so as to be in operation when the canal is opened. Under the contract called for, sixteen steel steamers will furnish a weekly service between New York, New Orleans and Colon, and between Seattle and San Francisco and Panama.

Mr. Hitchcock expressed the opinion that the surplus of the postoffice department would be sufficient to meet the cost of the proposed ocean service, which will approximate $1,000,000 a year.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

NO LOANS MADE ON PETTIT NOTES

Chicago Banker Denies Report of $1,400,000 Transaction.

Chicago, July 22.—Frank O. Wetmore, vice president of the First National bank and chairman of the bankers' committee in charge of the affairs of F. H. Peavey & Co., and the Peavey Grain company, declares that so far as the investigations of the committee have shown, none of the bank creditors of the Peavey concerns loaned any money personally to James E. Pettit. Mr. Wetmore denied a published report that $1,400,000 of the total indebtedness of the Peavey concerns was loaned to Pettit on his personal notes.

"Not a dollar of Mr. Pettit's personal paper is held by any of the banks that have the securities of the companies so far as we know," said Mr. Wetmore. "Absolutely no negotiations of any kind have been begun for the sale of any of the Peavey property. There will be nothing new in the situation until after Aug. 1, when it is expected that the audit of the books of companies will be completed."

Carl Carlson Furnishes Board of Control With Shocking Tale.

St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—Carl Carlson of St. Paul gave sensational testimony at the Red Wing training school hearing before the state board of control in charges against Superintendent Whittier. He was struck in the face the first day he was at the school for not being in the right place in line, he said. He was strapped black and blue for not putting the dishes away. He was beaten a number of times by Mrs. Anderson, the officers' cook, he said. Finally he told of one boy being beaten and kicked so that he spit blood and had to stay in the hospital two weeks. The boy died two months after that, but no testimony was offered to show that his death was due to the beating.

Most of the testimony for the complaint, Ralph Wheeleck, the governor's secretary, has been offered, except what will be taken from boys who are now at Red Wing. The state board of control will go to the training school next Thursday to continue the hearing and at that time they will also hear two more girls, who are now living at Stillwater. The two girls came to the capitol yesterday and it was stated they would give some testimony of a sensational nature.

Charles Lundmark of Virginia High Attains Highest Rank in Studies.

School Census of Virginia Presents Some Very Interesting Statistics.

Virginia, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles W. Lundmark, a graduate of the last class of the Virginia high school, has been awarded the Bliss high scholarship gold medal, having attained the highest rank in all his studies, according to the state high school board examiners, for five years of work, taking in both eighth grade and high school subjects. He expects to continue his work in college next year. Charles is a son of Claus Lundmark, a locomotive engineer in the employ of the Oliver company.

Supt. Bliss has just completed a census of the district, showing the names and ages of all the children in the district. The district extends over considerable more territory than is included in the city limits.

Population of District.

The population of the district is 14,500 while the federal census gave Virginia a population of 10,474. These last figures do not include the mining locations contiguous to the city. The number of families having children in school is 1,073. It is estimated that there are about the same number of families in the district whose children are too young to be enrolled in the schools. The total number of children shown is 3,649; number of children of school age 2,793; children not of school age in these same families 856. This last does not include those families who have never sent any children to school. In the district there are ten families who send children to school having ten or more children each; ten families having nine children each; twenty-five families having eight children each; forty families having seven children; seventy-eight families having six children and 810 families having five or fewer children.

Thirty Nationalities.

Thirty nationalities by families are represented as follows: Finnish 242 families, American 151, Swedish 143, Norwegian 71, Irish 61, Polish 47, English 47, German 46, French 41, Austrian 30, Italian 21, Scotch 21, Jewish 20, Bohemian 9, Slavonic 7, Hungarian, Russian, Dutch, Dane, Canadian, Chinese, Manx, Welch, Armenian, Mexican, Grecian, Croatian, Montonegrin. Assyrian and Spanish are represented by 5 or fewer families. There are no Negro or Indian children in the schools. The census shows that 972 of these children were born in Minnesota.

The Virginia night school for the year just closed, enrolled 400 men, 160 of whom were between 16 and 21 years of age, and 240 men ranging in age from 21 to 58 years; 167 of these men took out their first naturalization papers.

BIG POWDER MILL SOON TO OPERATE

Great Plant Seven Miles From Hibbing Cost About $250,000.

Hibbing, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Within seven miles of Hibbing at Wilpen, one of the largest and best equipped powder mills for the manufacture of black powder will soon be in operation.

The new plant is under the control of the DuPont de Nemours Powder company, which operates probably fifty mills of this kind in the United States. It has been in the process of building for the past few months, ever since the early spring and has cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. It is situated over a mile directly south of Wilpen, five miles from Hibbing and is near the shore of a beautiful little lake in the midst of a stretch of timber land.

Six buildings constructed of solid cement with galvanized iron roofs and sheet iron doors constitute the plant. The largest of these of course is the mill itself, which is built half underground and is of a pyramidical shape. The mill is about half as large as the Jefferson school house. In it is being installed the latest machinery and appliances for the grinding and mixing of black powder, which is the only explosive the new plant will manufacture. The Missabe road has constructed a spur track from Wilpen to the mill.

Quick Transfer of Explosives.

The vicinity of the powder magazines and other buildings is threaded with tramways for the quick transferance of the explosive from one building to another. When in operation the output of the new plant will be 2,000 kegs of powder daily and about seventy-five men will be employed in its manufacture, the majority of the number at a high rate of wages.

The open cuts in connection with stripping operations in Northern Minnesota iron propositions necessitate the consumption of a large amount of black powder. The manufacture of the explosive has therefore grown enormously. In 1886 where 20,000 pounds of powder per month were consumed on the range the deliveries today have multipiled to about 300,000 pounds.

VIRGINIA BEATS GOPHERS.

Other Current Notes From Mesaba Range City.

Virginia, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Litman has sold his interests in the Eastern Dye Works and will leave Monday with his family for Minneapolis, where Mr. Litman will open a large cleaning and dyeing establishment.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Jeannette Cain to Samuel Kratzestein of Milwaukee. Miss Cain is a niece of Herman Baer and A. (BY BRUCE.)

Yesterday afternoon our Canadian cousins from the North won three of the big events of the regatta, showing speed, stamina and skill that augurs well for the success of the entries of the Winnipeg rowing club in the closing events of this afternoon.

Winnipeg won the senior four event, the senior doubles and the classic event of the first day, the junior eight, an event that the eight of the Duluth Boat club had confidently counted upon.

To Duluth went the bantam four event. This is the first race a Duluth crew has won since 1906, and as the little Duluth banties swept down the finish line, hitting up the stroke to a 38 and swinging together in fine style, the big crowd in the stands leaped literally to its feet and cheered long and loudly.

In the senior doubles the Peggers added to their stock of glory for the day, St. Paul saving itself from going without victory by Ed Foley finishing first in the junior singles, the first event of the day.

Long before the time for the races to be called the long stands that line the finish line and those further down the course, as well as the balcony of the club and every conceivable space of vantage ground at the club, were crowded with interested spectators. Boats, large and small, dotted the space along the line of the course, giving the whole picture the appearance of some gay festival.

Have Long Wait.

From 3 until after 6, this crowd waited patiently. It was impossible to hold any shell races in the high seas that were running during the whole of the afternoon, and while the huge crowd took the matter philosophically, there was disappointment and regret.

Shortly after 6 o'clock the officials climbed into the official boat and went over to the lake and inspected the emergency course that had been surveyed out along the lake shore.

With the return of the officials the junior single men were ordered out and those remaining of the large crowd of the afternoon hurried over to the shores of the lake, where from a point near the pier the first two races of the afternoon were viewed.

It was nearly 7 o'clock when Starter Hans Haroldson lined up Ralph McGuckin and Ed Foley of the Minnesota Boat club and big George Taylor of the Winnipeg Rowing club for the first event of the day.

At the crack of the pistol McGuckin caught the water and was off in the lead. He was followed by his rowing mate, Foley, who rowing a slower stroke, trailed McGuckin. Taylor veered over near the short line, going out of his course with the idea of getting better water.

For the first half mile the race was an even one between McGuckin and Foley, with the latter rowing a slower stroke and apparently going easy. Taylor was about half a length in the rear and continually veering toward the shore line.

From the half-mile mark on to the finish line Foley slowly but steadily drew away from his club mate. At the three-quarter-mile mark McGuckin increased his stroke in an effort to overcome the lead of Foley. He only succeeded in cutting down a little of the lead and Foley had not raised his stroke.

Hit Old Crib.

Before the finish line was reached Taylor struck an old crib that extends out from the shore line at a point near the finish. Taylor was behind at the time and had just started to increase his stroke when the accident happened. His shell was smashed badly and he failed to finish.

Foley barely increased his stroke at any time during the latter part of the race, rowing over the line an easy winner by about two lengths in the time of 12:28.

Great interest centered in the senior four battle between the crack crews of St. Paul and Winnipeg. In the St. Paul boat sat Cush Wright, a veteran oarsman and the winner of many a gold medal; Carleton Schaub, another veteran and National regatta point winner; W. F. Mackmiller, a University of Wisconsin product, and E. S. Stringer, considered by many to be one of the best bow men in the country.

Against this aggregation Con Riley, the famous and only Con, a grizzled veteran of years of victorious efforts, stroked a crew. In the Winnipeg boat were three of the men who went to England and created a sensation throughout North America by winning the famous Stewards' cup, a trophy competed for by the crack fours of England.

Riley, Aldous and Carruthers rowed in this four, Henderson at No. 2 taking the place of Allen of the Henley winning combination.

Take Lead At Start.

At the crack of the gun the Winnipeg men caught the water like a flash. Their boat seemed to be fairly lifted out of the water and sent forward in a mighty effort, behind which there was the instant action of four men working in perfect unison.

For the first few strokes the veteran Riley ran his stroke up around the 38 mark. Gradually the white-shirted men of the Winnipeg boat drew away from the red-jerseyed four of the Minnesota Boat club, opening the gap between the two boats before the half mile was reached.

Wright increased his stroke and the St. Paul men put every ounce of power and energy into the effort to catch the flying Canucks, or at least stay the rapidly increasing lead.

But those men with the white shirts and the W. R. C. emblem on their breasts were rowing a magnificent race. Swinging easy and in as perfect rhythm as it is possible for four men to act in, they rowed an easy and powerfully effective stroke that for the latter part of the race averaged around the 36 mark.

Gradually the lead of the Winnipeg boat was increased. Putting up the stroke as they did, and taking the boat along in repeated spurts, availed the Minnesota men nothing, for they were racing a wonderful combination; four men with brain and brawn and the subtle art of rowing born in them.

From the start the lead of the Canadians was increased, not by spurts but every foot of the journey. That smooth and machine-like stroke and movement of old Con and his mates was eating the distance up like a prairie fire eats its way along the grass. The Winnipeg four crossed the line something over two lengths in the lead, with only a slightly perceptible increase of the stroke at the finish. The time was 9:45 2-5.

Bantams Are Favorites.

There was not perhaps a Duluth man or woman in the big crowd that climbed back into the stands when the races were switched back to the regular course in the bay, but who hoped that Duluth would win the bantam four event.

The announcement of this race brought the first big thrill of the afternoon. Sentiment perhaps played a larger part in this race that this tender feeling does in most rowing contests.

Just the day before yesterday the father of little St. Pierre, No. 3 of the Duluth boat, died. For several weeks before the death of his father the little fellow had watched at his bedside, rowing each evening with the grim spectacle of death hovering in his thoughts.

The boy did not get sleep or rest. He trained under a nervous strain that threatened to put him and the bantam four out of the race. Then came the hourly expected death of the boy's parent.

It was thought at first that St. Pierre would not row. But his mother told her son to enter the race. There were those in the big stands and in the vast throng that crowded the finish line, who knew of this.

Then there was little "Eddie" Walker. This little fellow has been rowing for years. He has rowed in eights with men almost twice his size and it has never been said that he didn't do his share of the work. A diminutive iron man, some strange and perverse fate of ill fortune dogged his tracks, and until last evening in the gathering gloom, this little fellow had never won one of those coveted medals. He said he would row until he did win, and he made good.

Duluth and Kenora were off at the crack of the gun. Both the little men from the Canadian summer resort at the beautiful head of the Lake of the Woods and the Duluth men put the stroke up high at the start. Winnipeg and St. Paul trailing in the wake of the other two boats, were rowing a lower stroke.

Followed Instructions.

Slowly Kenora cut down the lead of the Duluth banties. Walker was following to the letter the instructions of Coach Ten Eyck. "Hold on and don't sprint until the stands," said Ten Eyck, and Walker didn't.

At the end of the first half mile Winnipeg and St. Paul were coming strong and the race was one of the prettiest ever rowed on the waters of St. Louis bay. Then suddenly something happened to Winnipeg.

One of the outriggers broke and the little lads in white suits were out of the race, just at a time when they were making a sprint that was cutting down some of the lead of the two crews out in front making the running.

St. Paul was veered out of its course slightly by the accident to the Winnipeg shell. St. Paul could not have won, but perhaps this accident made the little Apostles finish further behind than they would have, had the unfortunate circumstance not occurred.

At the three-quarter-mile, at the mile and so perilously near home as the mile-and-a-quarter the Kenora bantams lead the Duluth four, Walker, St. Pierre, Rufus and Mapp. Then something happened. Walker started the sprint that had been held in cool reserve all the way down the course.

Start Their Spurt.

They struck the south end of the long stands on somewhat fairly even terms. Here Walker raised it to something around the 40 mark, perhaps going over this figure. Every muscle in the body of the hugely muscled little man raising the stroke, stood out in magnificent effort. Every muscle in the three gallant little men rowing behind him responded in this magnificent spurt.

Slowly the Duluth shell drew away. From the south end of the stand there arose a mighty shout, reaching the verge of hysterical frenzy as over the finish line flashed the dark blue jerseys of the Duluth bantam four in the lead.

Right behind them came Kenora, gallant and game and dangerous. Bringing up the rear and rowing with that desperate resolve that ever makes St. Paul a dangerous and gallant enemy, came the little Minnesota men, beaten but earning the great ovation a generous and courteous crowd gave them.

It is hard to describe the noise, the pandemonium that broke loose when the Duluth four passed back along the long reach of grand stand. Men stood and cheered and threw hats into the air. Women added sweet noise and the proper dash of sentiment, and one thinking calmly, if only for the minute, might believe that that one such glorious time was worth the long hours of work, the privations and the unceasing grind that marks the training period.

The time of the race was 8:46 2-5.

A sort of anti-climax was furnished to the strenuousity of the bantam struggle in the senior double event. The ever-there, or the ever-wear, Riley, with Aldous as a partner, handily defeated the speedy Monty Cochran and Holyoke Davis of St. Paul.

St. Paul got away first and held the lead for perhaps an eighth of a mile. Here Riley and Aldous took up the stroke and passed St. Paul and soon left open water between the two shells.

Half way down and then again near the finish line Davis and Cochran raised their stroke, but they were unable to catch the Winnipeg pair. The race was rowed in 9:12.

The Eight-Oared Race.

And then came the junior eights.

It was the race people had sat in the stands most of the afternoon waiting for; had walked over to the lake front and back to see; a race that Duluth people have been discussing for the past two weeks. The big moment was at hand.

Out through the deepening gloom that settled over the bay like a pall and made the twinkling lights at boat heads and the myriad lights of the buildings the brighter swept the Duluth junior crew.

Through the deep gloom of settled evening those in the official boat and in the press boats could hardly make out the men. Following close in the wake of the first boat came the gallant second boat, not confident, but filled to the very brim with fight and determination.

Then Winnipeg swept along. The white suits of the men flashed now and then, and occasionally you could catch that long, rythmic swing and full and quick getting on of the power of every pound of the back and legs.

Out from the float, the cheers of their club men ringing in their ears, came the St. Paul eight, a light and scrappy bunch of youngsters, confident of a fighting chance and hopefully looking for victory.

Down along the course the four eights swept. In the gloom men and women almost held their breaths and waited for the faint boom of the starting gun that was to send thirty-two men away on a grim and desperate contest of brain and muscle.

They're Off.

Suddenly those in the boats down the course heard the crack of the gun. "They're off," shouted some excited individual, and they were.

Even before those on the second press boat stationed down the bay could see the first somber outline of shape through the darkness, the short growls of the coxswains were heard; those commands, those exhortations, the pleadings, the encouragements that one man gives in time of strife to his fellow man.

The short bark of that Canadian cox that has rung out on other courses, and then the shout and "eah" of little Artie Michaud as he drove his men out and urged every ounce of speed out of them.

Since Dawson in the St. Paul boat was calling on his men, and over near the shore line, little McKenzie, a figure unknown at Northwestern regattas, was filling with fire and spirit those boys in Duluth's second eight, who slowly down that course, ate up the lead they had lost at the start.

It was a race that will not be forgotten soon. Out of the gloom into the half light caused by the hundreds of blinking lights, came the white shirts of Winnipeg. For a while it seemed as if Duluth and Winnipeg were rowing on even terms. But through the glasses it could be seen that the men from Canada were leading, even that there was open water between the two boats.

Second Eight Fights Gamely.

Then suddenly out of the darkness crept another figure. Some one asked what boat that was. He didn't even know that Duluth had such a thing as a second eight.

Slowly this figure loomed larger in the circle of light that radiated out from the clubhouse. With Winnipeg leading Duluth home and the race safe, those in the vast stands concentrated their gaze on a great race between the two eights of the local club.

Inch by inch the second men cut down the lead of the first eight. At the finish there was about a quarter of a length between the two boats. But there in the inky blackness of night, where the second boat boys had done some gritty and game fighting, there was at one time open water between the two boats, and the first boat was far ahead.

The winning of third place by the second eight will stand as a great achievement for every man in the boat.

Winnipeg was off in the lead at the crack of the gun. The boys in white were never headed. The lead was nearly half a length at the first half mile and was gradually increased from there on. Beyond the mile and a quarter mark the Winnipeg men made a beautiful spurt, raising their stroke up from around 36 to 38 or 40, and increasing their lead over Duluth.

Better Boat Wins.

Starting with a fairly high stroke Duluth fought gamely to get back the lead that the Canadians had won at the start. Thompson raised the stroke and Cox Michaud got a response out of every command to his men; but the faster boat won, and won cleanly and cleverly.

St. Paul, with its light crew rowed a very commendable race. The stroke was high at the finish, but the Apostles could not hold the gradually increasing lead of the other three boats.

It was a grand race, rowed every foot of the way from the stake boats; a race in which a fine and well trained eight was forced to fight every inch of the way to keep in front of a grim bunch of men, who fought as only game men will fight to win.

Duluth lost, but it was such a defeat that only excites regret and not derision. There is praise for both eights, for they both rowed great races.

The race was rowed in 8:25.

TWO OF THE VICTORIOUS BANTAM FOUR

ED. WALKER.

ED MAPP.

The two "Eddies" have been faithful, and faithfulness is invariably rewarded.

"Eddie" Walker and "Eddie" Mapp have been rowing since the mind of the veranda crowd runneth. They have both rowed in the bantam four before, and they have both rowed with eights, in which the rest of the crew towered above their heads.

Both of these boys have the reputation of being able to pull like a hungry grizzly that has a young heifer on one end of his brawny paw. They are two of the strongest and gamest little men who have ever sat in a boat.

But someway they have never won. Last season Mapp didn't row and Walker did. "Eddie" Walker almost winning, while "Eddie" Mapp sat on the long float at Kenora with his eyes sticking out of his head.

Then "Eddie" Mapp figured that if "Eddie" Walker could come so close to winning, there was hope indeed, and he decided to go back and try once more.

Then "Eddie" Walker whistled for his resolution that called for retirement, sent it into the shed, and decided that this season would be his last.

Both of the "Eddies" won, and there is not a person who knows anything about local rowing who isn't supremely glad.

Walker has been a member of about every bantam four ever organized here. He rowed at White Bear, at Winnipeg as a bantam, and then at St. Paul as a member of the senior eight that won second, finishing ahead of Con Riley's famous eight.

Last season "Eddie" stroked the Duluth bantams to an almost victory. This season the reward is his.

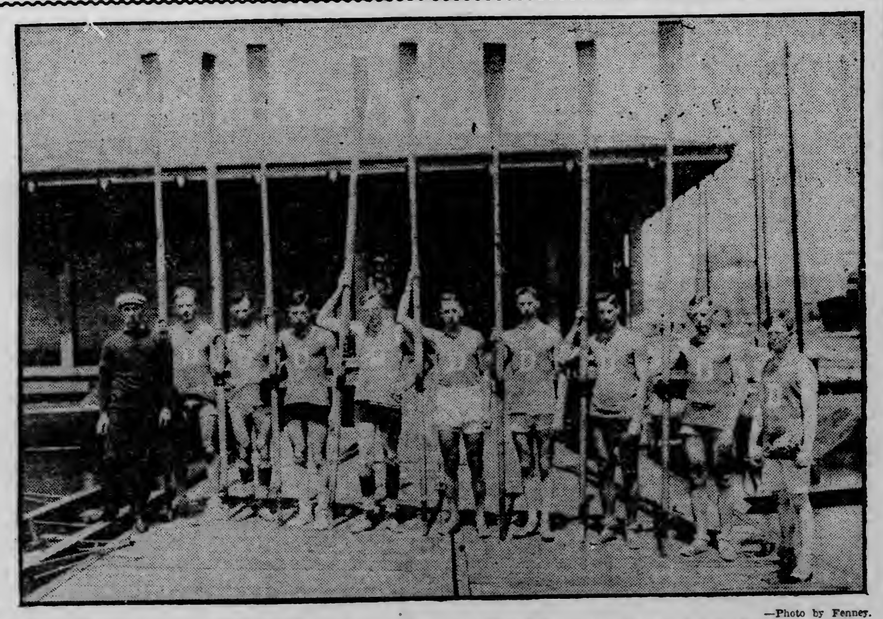

The other "Eddie," "Eddie" Mapp, is also a veteran. He rowed in the same boat with Walker at White Bear. Then he rowed at Winnipeg. When Walker stepped out of the bantam four into the senior eight the other "Eddie" did something very similar, for he stepped into the junior eight.

Last season "Eddie" Mapp said he was tired of being a trailer, and with firm determination remained out of the rowing game for a season.

This season he came back. One of the genuine comebacks.

The medals will beg reat for the two "Eddies," and there isn't a doubt but that they will appreciate them, for they have worked hard for them.

WHITE SOX COME BACK

Errorless Ball and O'Brien's Home Run Win Snappy Game.

New Recruit and Shifted Infield Put Ginger Into Team.

The Sox came back in fine style yesterday and played the kind of ball the fans delight in. They gave an errorless exhibition of good snappy ball and pulled out a 3 to 2 victory that was a clearer win than the score indicates.

Eau Claire pulled into the lead in the first inning when with Blanche in the box they hammered out three singles in rapid succession and pushed two men over the plate. In the next frame Kramer went in and from that time on there was nothing to it. The visitors only got three safe ones off Kramer in the last eight innings and at no time did they look dangerous.

The Sox scored one in the third after two were down. Kramer hit to center, stole second, and come in on Leber's two sacker. Then in the fourth Darby O'Brien won the game with a homer after Sam Menefee had placed on the first sack. This put Duluth in the lead and ended the scoring. The hitting of Leber may be mentioned, the little third sacker getting two two-base hits.

There were some shifts in the Duluth line up. Olson, ex-Davenport of the Three-I league, was in the left field, Darby came in to his old stand at second, and De Haven took Walliser's place at short. The change worked better all around, the infield playing with more snap and life than has characterized the work of the team for several weeks and everything going in better style from every standpoint. Olson looks like a ball player, and while he did not have much chance to show up yesterday, the fans were pleased with the addition. De Haven took five chances at short without a slip.

Chase escaped with six hits, but brilliant support by his team mates spoiled several that looked good for safe ones and he kept the Eau Claire infield jumping throughout the game.

GOLF STARS MEET ON DETROIT LINKS

Olympic Cup Competition Brings Together Great Field of Players.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—Never in the history of the Olympic cup competition has this golfing classic brought together a more formidable field than that assembled for the contest which began this morning on the links of the Detroit Golf club.

The honor of leading the procession has been extended to W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburg and C. A. Hutton, national champions respectively of the United States and Canada. Fourteen teams in all are entered to compete for the trophy.

Great disappointment was expressed at the failure of "Chick" Evans, the new French champion, to reach Detroit in time for the competition, but it is announced that he will be on hand for the amateur championship, play in which event begins next Monday.

OUTCASTS BENCH TWO

Gilchrist and Jensen Are Batted Out in Fourth Inning.

Superior Is Given an Awful Drubbing in 8 to 2 Swatfest.

Twelve hits off Gilchrist, Jensen and Cummings, which the La Crosse aggregation gathered during the course of nine spasms of an awful swatfest at Hislop park yesterday afternoon, resulted in an 8 to 2 win for the visitors. Brenton, who did the work for the Outcasts, let Taylor's hopefuls down with three scattered hits, and would have held them scoreless if it had not been for a couple of wild pegs in the first which let in the Superior tallies.

The fourth frame was the tragedy. After Kelley had grounded out, Safford lifted a double over the left field fence. Then Kernan sent a high one to Landry who misjudged it, coming in too far and tripping on the recovery, with the result that Safford tallied and Kernon got credit for a three-bagger. Then Wals scored Kernan with a single and took second on a wild pitch. Black singled, scoring Wals, and went to second on a bad throw in. He scored a moment later on Gilchrist's wild heave to second trying to nab him. Jesen replaced Gilchrist, and two errors followed by a pair of singles scored two more. Cummings replaced Jensen and a double play ended the agony. A single, a steal, two two-sackers and another single gave the Outcasts two more in the sixth, which ended the scoring.

McLOUGHLIN AND CLOTHIER OUT

Boston, Mass., July 22.—Upsets were the rule in the Longwood singles tennis tournament yesterday. In the fifth round William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, former national champion, was defeated by Melville H. Long of San Francisco, while Maurice E. McLoughlin of the Pacific coast was eliminated by Gustave F. Touchard of New York.

Touchard out-played and out-generaled his opponent during the greater part of the play. Before the match McLoughlin was an overwhelming favorite, but after the sets were 2 to 1 against Touchard the latter actually had McLoughlin chasing all over the court and in the last set Touchard ran away from his opponent. The score was 2-6; 6-4; 1-6; 6-2; 6-4.

There was some solace for the Pacific coast, however, when Long defeated Clothier, whose work was listless, while Long played a strenuous game. The results of yesterday's play bring together Long and Touchard and Bishop and Larned on Monday.

EN ROUTE TO DEVILS LAKE.

Twin City-Helena Automobile Tourists' Long Run for Saturday.

Fargo, N. D., July 22.—The Twins-Helena automobile tour was given a thrill yesterday when the car of John Ringling, the circus magnate, skidded and overturned, spilling its occupants. In the machine besides Mr. Ringling, were two of his nephews, W. P. Kenney, general traffic manager of the Great Northern railroad, and the driver. None received serious injury. The mishap occurred near Ashby. Mr. Ringling and his party continued the tour today.

The automobilists, after passing through the heart of the great potato district of Minnesota, arrived here yesterday afternoon amid enthusiasm. As far as the contesting cars are concerned, all up to this control have shown themselves well behaved. But one penalty has been imposed, and that of little consequence.

The Ringling car is not a contestant, although it is accompanying the party.

Today's run is to Devils Lake. The run is a long one, but the roads are reported to be good.

John Ringling has offered an unshopworn elephant as a prize to the pilot of the car finishing with high score at Helena. One condition is said to be that the winner shall ride the animal bareback from the show to the Twin Cities.

MAGEE IS OUT FOR THE SEASON

Suspension of Player Who Attacked Umpire Made Definite By Lynch.

New York, July 22.—The suspension of Sherwood Magee, outfielder of the Philadelphia National League club, will extend over the remainder of the league's playing season. Magee was indefinitely suspended by President Lynch as a result of his recent attack on Umpire Finneran during a game at Philadelphia. Yesterday President Lynch, who had previously imposed upon Magee a fine of $200, the limit allowed by National league rules, made his suspension definite. In his announcement President Lynch says:

"The assault was followed by public statements coming from the players and accepted by officials of the Philadelphia club to the effect that Umpire Finneran had applied a vile name to the offending player. This charge has been found absolutely untrue."

Fogel is Irate.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 22.—Horce S. Fogel, president of the Philadelphia Nationals, after reading the decision of President Lynch suspending Magee issued a long statement attacking the league president. President Fogel claims the suspension amounts to expulsion and that this drastic action is not legal. Fogel adds that President Lynch is persecuting the Philadelphia club and says he will appeal the case to the board of directors.

ADAMS PLAYS L. H. WAIDNER

Armstrong Defeated in Match for Right to Meet Tennis Champion.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 22. — John Adams of St. Paul won the right to challenge L. H. Waidner of Chicago for the title of Northwestern champion, when he defeated Joe Armstrong in the finals yesterday of the Northwestern tennis tournament by the scores of 8-4; 4-6; 6-4; 10-8.

As the scores show, the match was close throughout, the critical stages in the game deciding the outcome. It was a battle for the net and the older man won out. A large audience was kept in a nervous state as the game see-sawed between advantage and deuce. In the last set Adams had the advantage at least fifteen times, but Armstrong rose to the occasion each time and made it even.

In the doubles yesterday Armstrong and Adams defeated Graves and Strickland 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

Today Adams will play Waidner, Northwestern champion, and Armstrong and Adams will play Ward Burton and Louis Northrup for the doubles championship.

ELGIN RACES AT CHICAGO

Noted Drivers Enter and Much Interest Taken in Annual Event.

Ralph Mulford, Last Year's Winner, Enters With His 1910 Car.

The increasing interest in the Elgin National Stock Chassis road races, to be conducted by the Chicago Motor club in conjuntion with the Elgin Road Racing association, over the fast course at Elgin on Aug. 25 and 26, is further evidenced by the additional entries which have been received by the Chicago Motor club during the past week.

The success of the meeting again this year is now assured.

The oiling of the course and the preparation and widening of the roadway is progressing and nearing completion and "the open season" for practice will begin in the near future.

Advices have been received to the effect that the Elgin Watch company is now considering awarding to the successful competitor in the event for the Elgin trophy, a really handsome gold medal of the value of $500, which contains a replica of the Elgin trophy itself.

When this additional prize is offered the Elgin Watch company will probably bestow a similar medal upon Ralph Mulford, the winner of the Elgin trophy in 1910, who has already entered for the Elgin events again this year, driving the same car. Three Alcos are also entered in this event with two Nationals. Harry Hartman and Frank Lee will drive two of the Alcos, while the third will be handled by the man whose name is so well coupled with Alco cars as to need no mention—Harry Grant. The drivers of the Nationals are not yet named.

Interest is considerably heightened as to what will be the outcome of the big event in which both Mulford and Grant are entered. Since having won the 1909 and 1910 Vanderbilt cup races and winning two out of three events at Indianapolis Speedway last July, Grant has been unfortunate in his starts, both in the Elgin last year and in the recent Speedway sweepstakes. In the meantime, Mulford, with his Lozier, has been a most consistent finisher.

With the $3,500 Elgin trophy, the $1,000 cash prize and the $500 gold medal, assurances have been received that one of the leading manufacturers of rims will offer an additional $500 cash as a bonus to be distributed among the drivers finishing first, second and third in the Elgin National. Accessory manufacturers and the makers of tires are yet to be heard from, but undoubtedly the award for this event to the successful driver and car will be more than gratifying.

MANY CAME BY AUTOMOBILE

Duluth Was Central Point for Tourists During Carnival Week.

The large number of Twin City automobiles in the city has been the feature of the past week in automobile circles.

It is safe to say that during the week there have been at least thirty-five outside automobiles stored and cared for at local garages.

At least twenty of them have been from St. Paul and Minneapolis. Many Twin City people made the trip to Duluth for the purpose of taking in the water carnival and many from surrounding towns on the ranges and from the West and South have come to Duluth in their cars for the same purpose.

There have been more strange cars on the streets of the city during the last week than in any other stated time since automobiles became common. The number mentioned does not include the large number which have been from time to time shipped to Duluth by boat from Eastern points. After a stay of perhaps a week in nearly every instance, the owners have journeyed back East in them.

Ordinarily well filled and busy, the Duluth garages have, during the past week, been swamped under an avalanche of work.

An Easterner, while waiting for his car at one of the local garages, remarked to the owner yesterday, as he watched the cars come and go, that Duluth probably has more automobiles than any other town of its size in the entire country.

ANNUAL REGATTA AT OSHKOSH, JULY 27.

Oshkosh, Wis., July 21.—The annual regatta of the Oshkosh and Lake Butte Des Morts Yacht clubs will be held July 27-29. On Thursday, July 27, the regatta will open on Lake Butte Des Morts and on Friday and Saturday following the official course of the Oshkosh Yacht club on Lake Winnebago will be the scene of the contest. The Class A boats will race on Lake Butte Des Morts for the Sawyer challenge cup and the yacht club's trophies.

HARRY STEINFELDT HAS NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

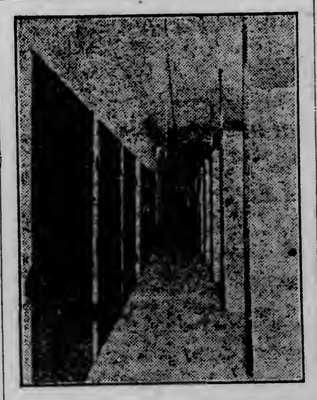

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 22. — Harry Steinfeldt, third baseman for the Boston National league team, is seriously ill at his home in Bellevue, Ky. The attending physician is authority for the statement that Steinfeldt is suffering from nervous prostration brought about through worry over his release from the Chicago team early in the season. Last Monday Steinfeldt came home from Boston under the care of his wife and a nurse and has been under the observation of specialists in nervous diseases since.

Herzog Is Traded.

Boston, Mass., July 22.—Charles L. Herzog, who was recently suspended for a few days by the Boston National league club, on account of a controversy with President Russell was yesterday traded to the New York Nationals for Albert Bridwell and Henry Gowdy. Herzog is a fast infielder. So are both Bridwell and Gowdy, the latter a comparatively young player.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

Gus A. Forbes will enter upon the fifth week of his Duluth engagement with a play never before presented in this city and he has chosen a drama that deals with the topics that are today most near the hearts of American people. "A Man and His Wife" is the title of the play which is the work of Shipman and Shea, two men widely known in the theatrical world. Thomas Shea is a well known actor of classic roles and although he has not visited Duluth he is known by reputation to those familiar with the people of the theatrical world.

"A Man and His Wife" will be given in New York city for the first time in the autumn. The play tells the story of Ben Clarke a self-made man who has married a woman who was most concerned at the time of her marriage in weddings a man whose financial condition would always be satisfactory. She is also loved by Reed, her husband's business opponent.

Clarke establishes a number of day and night banks in New York's East side for the benefit of the people of that section. The enterprise is a most successful one and when the idea has been well worked out and its feasibility well established Clarke's competitor in the world of finance desires to secure control. He refuses to give over control of his most cherished life work and his enemies start rumors of the insolvency of his banks. The easily excited depositors who see the savings of their lives in danger, precipitate a run on the bank and this panic is the tremendous climax of the third act. In the last act matters are adjusted and Clarke wins the love and respect of his wife and his enemy is worsted.

Mr. Forbes will appear as Benjamin Clarke the self-made man and it is a role quite different from anything Mr. Forbes has done this summer. The play is a powerful one and should give every member of the company fine opportunity.

Miss Jane Stuart will appear as Emily, Clarke's wife and the role is a heavy emotional one. Mr. Brandt who has thus far during the season played pleasant and agreeable roles will blossom forth next week as the villain. Percy Goulden has what is known as a "character role" and will appear as a Russian Jew. Petite Miss Nesta De Becher and Ray Phillips will be the juvenile lovers and the other members of the company will find congenial roles.

The first performance of "A Man and His Wife" will be given Monday evening and the play will be continued every evening during the week except Thursday with the usual Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

The concluding performance of "Brewster's Millions" will be presented tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night. The play has proved the most popular of any yet presented by the Forbes Stock company and large audiences have witnessed every performance this week.

May Robson in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," is coming to the Lyceum theater on Thursday night, July 27.

This exceptional play is undoubtedly one of the definite successes, since time only ripens its fame and interest. But much of this is due to the excellent characterization of Aunt Mary by Miss Robson, whose unction in the expression of humor is a rare gift and but few women possess it.

The story is as follows: Aunt Mary, a generous warm hearted woman is bound up in her nephew who is rather inclined to be wild and irresponsible. She is a woman of wealth, alone in the world—except the nephew and Lucinda, a maid—hence it is that her affection for her nephew is full of tenderness and motherly protection, and no appeal to this affection ever remains unanswered. Her life in retirement aided or rather enlarged her peculiar views of the great city until she regards it as a den of iniquity of the Sodom and Gomorrah type and her imagination did the rest to cement her prejudice. She looked after her nephew with a motherly solicitude and whenever he became involved in some boyish escapade, she would fly to his assistance. But the troubles of Jack became very frequent and more alarming and she determines to disinherit him, and turn him adrift when she hears of a breach-of-promise suit begun by a girl from Kalamazoo. That settled it.

One morning when in this mood she receives a letter apprising her that Jack was down with the measles and her nervous excitement visibly increased as she prepared for an immediate journey. Nothing in the world would ever tempt her to visit New York except that Jack was ill or in trouble. She recalls him full of alarm only to find him enjoying himself with a number of friends. Jack and his companions take her everywhere and for three weeks Aunt Mary never balks—apparently the novelty pleases her; she takes trips on dizzy merry-go-rounds, sight seeing from the deck of a Fifth avenue bus and from the rubberneck wagons, roof gardens appealed to her, late dinner, cigarettes and with Jack's sweetheart Betty, disguised as her own maid, wins her affections and gains Aunt Mary's consent to her marriage with Jack, and thus ends the rejuvenation of our Aunt Mary.

Mrs. Fiske's coming engagement in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," which is scheduled for the Lyceum, Aug. 5, is one which will spread an indubitable luster over the season as a whole and remain a fragrant memory, no matter what has preceded or is to follow it.

In presenting "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," Mrs. Fiske offers a success which she brings fresh from New York, the play not having been presented in any territory between that city and that embraced in her Western and Pacific coast tour. In fact, it was not at first intended to bring the play to the West but the plans for next season would not admit of an Eastern tour in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," and the theatrical season, of course, in the East having already closed, the only outlet for the play was the tour upon which Mrs. Fiske is now engaged, and to have completely "shelved" a success after a New York engagement of ten weeks would have been a new theatrical policy indeed.

NELLIE LYNCH
Of Weston & Lynch at the Empress Next Week.

IDA BARR,
At the Empress Next Week.

AT THE EMPRESS

The bill which comes to the Empress for a week beginning with Sunday matinee, is one that should meet with great favor. Heading the bill are the Seven Colonials who are coming direct from European triumphs. This is by far one of the most wonderful exhibitions of sensational acrobatic and gymnastic work that has ever been witnessed at the Empress. For weeks the coming of these great athletes has been heralded, for their tremendous success in other cities and abroad has reached the ears of everyone in touch with vaudeville matters. Without fear of contradiction, the Seven Colonials are declared to be the world's greatest acrobatic sensation. As the curtain rises on the opening of this gymnastic spectacle the audience beholds a gorgeous colonial garden with the artists disporting with instruments and songs, but as quick as a flash, several members are thrown into the air and soon the entire aggregation is in action. Sensation follows sensation in quick rotation and thrills come and go, as if they were a simple thing, not to consider that every feat performed by these athletes courts serious, perhaps fatal, injury. Their ground acrobatics and twirls from shoulder to shoulder create no end of enthusiasm. Each of these acrobats is especially expert in novel features and their stunts are extraordinary. This is one of the swiftest acrobatic acts yet seen on a vaudeville stage and if one is interested in physical culture he will be delighted with the Seven Colonials. The following is a recent notice from the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "Acrobatic acts as a rule are on the same order, but the Seven Colonials, who head the bill at the Empress theater this week, have an act that for speed and sensations, is easily one of the best ever seen in the city. These acrobats have a series of stunts that are bewildering and they perform them with a reckless ease that gives one a chill. The act is gorgeously costumed and is novel from start to finish. They topped the show at the Empress last night."

Idea Barr, heralded as England's most winsome comedienne, is bringing to the Empress a budget of clever songs that have never been sung in this city. Miss Barr is making her first appearance in America and comes with the higest recommendations from the leading music halls of England. She is making her premier Western tour under the sole direction of Sullivan & Considine and will appear at their houses only. Miss Barr is said to have a remarkably faculty of winning her audience from the outset and this interest develops into a glowing admiration as her work proceeds. Miss Barr has been the premier hit of the London music halls and at the Palace theater, recently, she was a veritable furore, and everywhere her songs were sung and whistled. The West has been invaded by many English singing comediennes in the past few months but judging from foreign managerial reports, few excel Miss Barr in cleverness and originality. So keen is the artist in presenting her songs in her best possible form, that she spends months upon a single song so that she may put it over the footlights in the most effective manner. Miss Barr's repertoire of lyrics is affirmed by critics to be matchless in musical perfection and otherwise fitting her graceful talents. She holds the prediction of duplicating her foreign successes, if not exceeding them in many instances, for it is doubtful if any English artist has crossed the Atlantic with such praises as proceed Miss Barr's engagement.

The wide popularity of the late Jules Levy, the world's greatest cornetist, will be awakened pleasantly, for this bill will contain the charming widow and family of this great musician. Mrs. Jules Levy and family present a musical melange introducing Miss Louise Levy's remarkable violin playing and the cornet solos of Jules Levy Jr., which will bring back delightful memories to those who remember the virtuoso of the venerable cornetist. The Levy family have a musical offering that is a rare treat to the lovers of good music for it combines instrumental, virtuousity and music far above the average offered in vaudeville, and there is a charming air of refinement about their whole offering which cannot help but please. The Levy family became so popular in Louisville, recently, that Sullivan & Considine were obliged to break one of their rock-bound regulations and hold the act over for a second week.

Lovers of the art of dancing and those who are interested in and familiar with this kind of entertainment will rejoice at the mention of the team, Miller & Mack, and they will say that Duluth will have an opportunity of seeing absolutely one of the greatest dancing teams in the world. The work of these boys is artistic and enlivening and in many respects novel, for they are progressive and are constantly introducing new steps and ideas. In fact, they are the most copied team of dancers before the public and it is a common thing for five or six teams of dancers to be in the audience every time they appear in New York in order that they may copy their ideas. Although they may succeed in gaining some idea of how these boys work, none have ever succeeded in putting it over in the same manner. There is a snap and vim and at the same time a pleasing style about their dancing that make them big favorites wherever they appear and it is a safe prediction that they will meet with wonderful success during their engagement in this city.

Albert Weston, the noted English comedian, whose recent success in Ziegfield's "Follies of 1910" made him a popular favorite with metropolitan theatergoers, and Nellie Lynch, the former fainting girl in Lew Fields's "Jolly Bachelors," have combined their talents for vaudeville and will present as the extra attraction for the week an extremely laughable farce, "The Fainting Girl." Their comedy is one fast series of ludicrous situations and pantomime comedy and gives these clever players an opportunity to display their talents. Mr. Weston interprets the role of a gentleman returning from the club, after tarrying too long with wine. His contortions, facial and body, as "The Inebriated Swell," are amusing in the extreme. He also gives an imitation of a wrestling match that is said to be an exceptionally clever bit of pantomime work. Miss Lynch also displays her versatility by giving characterizations from an extremely vivacious and captivating young woman to a boneless rag doll. A farcical satire on one of the leading dramatic plays is also given and the ridiculous efforts of each to carry out several roles with the simplest sort of change in costume are productive of unbounded hilarity.

The moving pictures will close the show as usual. Matinee daily at 2:45. Evenings 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either phone. Special school children's matinee every Saturday at 2:30. All scholars under fourteen years of age admitted for five cents. Special attention paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at the Empress at all times.

The cast of "Macushla" included Chauncey Olcott, Robert V. Ferguson, E. H. Reardon, George Brennan, Gatenby Bell, Edmund Shalet, Gail Kane, Jennie Lamont, Katherine Clarendon and Alice Farrell.

Werba & Luescher are engaging managers and agents for their numerous attractions next year. They have signed Willard Coxey, formerly general press representative for William A. Brady, to be business manager for Louis Mann's tour in "Elevating a Husband." Mr. Coxey was formerly associated with the Boston Opera company, and is one of the best known advance agents since Mark Hanna's day. Charles Marks, who for a number of years has been directing the tours of Richard Carle, has been engaged as business manager for Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth in "Little Miss Fix-It," and will go to Chicago to handle the advertising campaign during the summer run of this play at the Chicago Opera house. Edward A. McFarland has been engaged as manager for the Bayes-Norworth company, and will take charge immediately, allowing George Washington Sammis to return for a vacation at his summer home in Sound Beach.

BeulahPownter closed her summer engagement at Lakeside Park, Denver, Colo., on June 24. After a short vacation, during which she will visit the different summer places of the Rockies, she will return to the East to look after the cast and production of her new play for the coming season. Miss Poynter will not only superintend the production of her own play, but will rehearse and produce "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," her latest dramatization. The dramatic rights to this story were secured from the Eggleston estate. This is her sixth season on the Stair & Havlin time. Her season opens September 3 under the direction of Burt & Nicolai.

Joseph M. Gaites has made what he considers a very great find in Miss Venita Fitzhugh, a young girl with a remarkable voice and of an unusually charming stage presence. She will be seen in an important part in "The Enchantress," the Victor Herbert opera in which Kitty Gordon is to be starred. Miss Fitzhugh comes by her talent naturally, her mother being Ida Fitzhugh, a well-known vocal teacher and prima donna and her father being Bert Shepard, the vaudeville performer who for the past eight or ten years has confined himself to the London music halls, where he is a great favorite. Mr. Gaites has placed Miss Fitzhugh under a five-year contract.

The George Evans Honey Boy Minstrels are organizing, and the company will be under full headway early next month.

The form of entertainment this season will be old-time minstrelsy in a 1911 setting. White face will have no part in the entertainment. Following the semicircle portion of the program there will come a series of Southern comic pictures without the usual vaudeville bill. A musical comedy in blackface has been selected for the final number.

It is called "The Dixie Derby." Book, lyrics and music are the work of Evans himself. He will act the part of Snowflake Lincoln Crump, jockey 7-11, the winner of the derby.

In the big company will be found John King, Vaughn Comfort, Sam Lee, Tommy Hyde, Charles Hilliard, Pierce Keegan, Lew Gilmore, James Castle, Sam Lloyd, Al Fontaine, James Meehan, Willie Lee and the Five Banjo Fhiends.

James Gorman is directing the rehearsals.

An interesting engagement made by Liebler and company recently was that of Henry Stanford, one season with the New Theater company. Mr. Stanford will be assigned to the company of Viola Allen, who is to have a new play.

Another Liebler and company engagement is that of Edmund Elton for the part of Bill Avery in "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

A pleasant piece of news is the announcement that Josephine Cohan will return to the stage next season. Miss Cohan's serious illness, which began just before the Pacific Coast trip of "The Yankee Prince" company, of which she was a member, was a source of general regret.

The process of regaining her health has been a slow one, and at times there have been grave fears of her ultimate recovery. But she is now well again, and while she may not resume dancing for an indefinite period she will be able to take a less strenuous part in stage performances.

Next season Miss Cohan will have the leading role of Betty Graham in one of "The Fortune Hunter" companies. She will be a member of the organization in which her husband, Fred Niblo, acts the title part.

The real situation regarding the Colt-Barrymore affair has at last been given out. From the beginning the whole affair was somewhat of a mystery to those who were unable to recognize the fact that Miss Barrymore is a devout Catholic with the rumor that she was to sue for a divorce.

However, through the assiduity of John Drew, her uncle, and Jack Barrymore, her brother, it is believed that the two will be reconciled and the separation papers recalled.

Jules Eckert Goodman's plays have been seen and judged by the experts at the theatrical metropolis—New York—and have been declared worthy additions to the literature of the American stage. Among the Goodman plays, the most popular has been "Mother," which is scheduled for presentation in Duluth during the coming season with a company which should fulfill every opportunity the play affords. As its title indicates, Mr. Goodman has written a play about the home. In Mrs. Wetherell Mr. Goodman has indicated a character which is full of the everlasting quality which is always noticeable in the work of the master-craftsman. As one critic has said of her, "Through the four acts of the play she moves softly, quietly, patiently, hopefully, never even in her moments of greatest stress permitting any ruffling of the smoothness of the whole." Coming with a William A. Brady company, "Mother" is bound to

The high lights of farce shine clearly on "Baby Mine" that very funny comedy written by Margaret Mayo, which was presented during the past season in four New York theaters, affording the lovers of bright laughter and skilfully handled situations to realize that "Baby Mine" is a masterpiece of fun. At the present moment it is being played in London at the Vaudeville theater with Weedon Grossmith, the English comedian, in the role of Jimmy Jenks, who unwittingly steps into trouble. Local play-goers who have seen "Baby Mine" in other cities are aware of the fun-provoking qualities it possesses and have been on the lookout for the play since witnessing the performances given elsewhere. It is to be seen here early in the coming season and will be played by a characteristic William A. Brady company.

William A. Brady, the astute theatrical manager, is at present in England arranging for London productions of "Mother" and "The Boss," the Edward Sheldon play in which Holbrook Blinn, the virile actor, who will be remembered because of his playing Jim Pratt with Mrs. Fiske in "Salvation Nell," is to be seen on tour during the coming season. Robert Mantell, the Shakespearean actor, will continue in the repertoire he has of the Bard's plays, while Grace George will head the Playhouse company at the Playhouse, New York, and be seen in an extensive repertoire along the line laid down by the New theater regime. "Over Night," the novel farce, is to be seen here during the coming season under Mr. Brady's management and there is a possibility that the all-star revival of "Lights O'London" may be seen on tour during the season with a superb organization similar to the one seen in New York city in the revival which closed the past season.

BIG ACTS FOR NEXT SEASON

Manager Pierong Returns From New York Trip With Strong Bookings.

H. W. Pierong, manager of the Orpheum theater, returned this morning from New York, where he went to arrange for next season's bookings.

The Duluth Orpheum will open on Sunday, Aug. 6.

"I was fortunate," said Mr. Pierong, "in being allowed to check over the bookings for next season, as far as they have been made, and practically select the acts for the Duluth theater. There were a few acts booked in that I did not want, and I had other acts substituted for them.

"I believe we are going to have even better acts than last year. Martin Beck, the general manager of the circuit, is now in Europe booking new attractions, but from the list already offered, we should have stronger shows than last season. There will be very few acts seen last year on the circuit again. The Four Fords will be back, and Julius Tannen, but there are few other big acts due to repeat. Among some that the Duluth house will get, are: McIntyre & Heath, Johnnie and Emma Ray, Nat Wills, La Titcomb, Willa Holt, Wakefield, Rooney & Bent, Ed Reynard, Genaro & Bailey, The Pianophiends, 'A Night in a Turkish Bath,' the International Polo Team, the Australian Wood Choppers, Fred Lindsey, The Rolfoutans, Nana, 'The Courtiers,' Gen. Ed LaVine, Camille Ober, 'Romance of the Underworld' and Lily Lena.

"Anybody who knows vaudeville and follows it closely, will appreciate the class of the acts mentioned above.

"They know all about Duluth down in New York, in theatrical circules, and they look on this city as a 'live one.' The Duluth theater made a good showing last year and the booking office of the circuit has a warm spot in its heart for Duluth."

TWIN BABY ELEPHANTS WILL BE SEEN IN DULUTH

H. H. TAMMEN
Of Denver, Owner of the Sells-Floto Circus.

Kas and Mo, the twin baby elephants, which were imported from India at great expense in the middle of last season, will again be seen with the Sells-Floto shows when they visit this city on Friday, Aug. 4.

As everyone knows, the elephant grows more slowly than almost any other animal, but a perceptible increase both in weight and height will be noticed this year. Prof. Allspaw, the head trainer of the circus, has been hard at work all winter in teaching the little fellows the rudiments of the actor's art. He really succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations of the management. So much so, indeed, that the twin babies will be seen both in the parade and tournament, driven tandem to a high-wheeled carriage by Mlle. Zora. While so hitched they go through the evolutions of the kindergarten, which includes walking upon bottles, standing upon their heads, saluting, cake walking and many other interesting and, for their age, marvelous feats.

It is said by competent trainers that these little animals show more precocity than any two baby elephants ever exhibited in captivity in this or any other country.

PARK RAPIDS

Park Rapids, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday evening a fire broke out in the dwelling house of Fred Petersdorf on Central avenue, east side. The house burned to the ground before the fire department reached the scene. The long run was made in record time by the department but too late to do much good. The fire started at about 10 p. m. in the bedroom and is supposed to have been set by the point of a match flying off and igniting the bed clothes. The children, three in number, were carried out. Nothing but one trunk was saved.

Akeley and Walker are playing a ball game here today. This game is to decide the championship of the two teams. They have played at both Walker and Akeley but decided to play on neutral ground for the tie game.

Light showers have done much good. Rye is all harvested. Thrashing begun Friday. The yield is good but the grain is shelling badly this year and will cause considerable loss.

Rev. Father Klinkheimer, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, has been appointed to a new parish by the bishop. He resigned his pastorate here and will take up his new duties at East Grand Forks. This change is a promotion and in recognition of his splendid work here.

Miss Ruby Jacobson who has been attending summer school here has returned to her home in Verndale.

Mrs. Harry Gillham of Virginia is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shearer.

Dr. P. A. Walling returned home from Duluth Saturday morning. He attended the State Druggists' convention held there.

Walter Bumgardner and wife of Melrose were visiting Mr. Bumgardner's parents the fore part of the week.

WICKERSHAM TO HAVE HEARING

Will Explain Alaskan Charges to Committee of House.

Washington, July 22.—Attorney General Wickersham will be given a hearing next Monday before the house committee on judiciary relative to the charges preferred against him by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska, that the attorney general had refused to investigate the alleged "grab" of waterfront sites in Controller bay, Alaska, after proofs had been lodged with him. The hearing was decided upon by the committee after the attorney general had expressed a desire to appear before it.

The attorney general recently declared the whole matter had been investigated and had not been "outlawed," as had been alleged by the Alaskan delegate. There is now a certain phase of the matter under investigation, but just what it is the attorney general has refused to divulge.

"Best He Knows How."

Hancock, Mich., July 22.—"I will answer the charges the best way I know how," replied Attorney General Wickersham in answer to a query as to what stand he would take on the attack of Delegate Wickersham.

"How will that be?" he was asked.

"I can't say."

TRADE CONDITIONS ARE SOUND

New York, July 22.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s Review of Trade today says:

Trade continues quiet, but conditions are essentially sound. Better weather throughout the crop area has largely relieved the apprehension about the staple crops and lower temperatures in the large cities have helped general business especially retail lines.

Progress in iron and steel augurs well for the future. While improvement is not pronounced, consumers are more disposed to cover requirements, and mill operations are steadily broadening. Evidence of the increasing demand is furnished by the placing of orders for about 100,000 tons of steel products for early shipments with a Western subsidiary of the leading interest, the greater portion of these bookings comprising rails and track fastenings. The volume of structural shapes, plates and bars included in the contracts was also considerable. In finished lines there is a more favorable showing at Chicago than in the Pittsburg district where the plants are estimated to be working at between 60 and 65 per cent of full capacity, with activity confined mainly to the sheet division. There is a better demand for sheets, tin plates and steel bars. Structural work is being pushed with greater vigor in the west. Further expansion appears in the demand for pig iron in some sections. Selling agents in the cotton goods market have cut prices in good to stimulate the movement in all accumulations of odd lots. A drastic revision in bleached cotton, following the removal of restrictions on staple prints, adds to the uncertainty. The volume of curtailment is increasing. Export trade is still favorable and stocks are relatively light. Dress goods and men's wear merchants are opening their new spring lines and prices generally show considerable reduction but buyers are not ready to proceed at the new quotations and most of them are ordering sample pieces only on very trifling filling in supplies.

Conservatism is displayed by wholesalers in the footwear markets, although the movement is expected to increase, as buyers are quite numerous in the Boston market. Leather is a little more active. Prices are very strong and the lack of large sales is partly due to the disinclination of tanners to sell much ahead of current receipts. Packer hides show some signs of weakness, but no quotable declines of account are recorded. Country hides are easy, but unchanged, while the foreign markets continue firm.

TO THE CITY'S GUESTS.

Now that the Water Carnival is ending, we hope that Duluth's guests have enjoyed themselves, and that they will come again when they can stay longer. To be frank about it, one object of the show was to tempt folks to come here and see why Duluth is so proud of itself and its summer weather. Duluth likes to have visitors. The latchstring is always out. Come often, stay as long as you can, and bring all the folks.

And remember, please, that this year's carnival is only the beinning, and that Duluth plans to have it every year, and to make it bigger and better with each successive production. Also, that the charming summer weather that you have been enjoying, with joyous days and cool fresh nights when you sleep with a blanket over you, isn't specially provided for carnival week. It's here all summer and until very late in the fall.

BREAKING UP THE TRUSTS.

Attorney General Wickersham made an important announcement in his Hancock speech yesterday. The government isn't going to be contented with a merely formal compliance with the command that the convicted trusts dissolve.

"Take my assurance for it," he said, "that those big combinations are to be split up into a number of separate and distinct parts, no one of which shall have any connection with or control over any other, and no one of which shall have so large a percentage of the business as to be anything like a monopoly."

This announcement will please a great many people, indicating as it does an intent on the part of the government to proceed vigorously against the trusts and not to be satisfied with mere technical compliance with the orders of the court.

But suppose that instead of a Standard Oil octopus we have the Standard Oil twins, or triplets, or quadruplets. There is no gain unless they compete, or unless the government regulates their service and charges. Will they compete? If they do not wish to do so not all the power of the law can make them.

HEALTH.

Do you realize that good health is worth striving for? Do you know that if you have it it is worth working to keep, and that if you haven't it there is nothing else on earth more worth cultivating? Because it is the foundation. Good health means efficiency. Bad health means inefficiency or curtailed efficiency. Men in poor health have done great things—but they could have done greater if they had been well.

A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania state board of health draws this moving picture of health:

"What a different world is this seen through the senses of the healthy man from that seen through sense dulled by disease!

"As he rises from his slumbers he feels refreshed and delights to see the new day that has overcome the night. The song of the birds calling to their mates is sweet in his ears. He looks forward to his daily labors with a heart full of good cheer. Breakfast is relished. The dishes prepared by the housewife or the cook are delicious to his palate. He enters upon his daily work with a clear brain and a steady hand. The engineer, after looking over his locomotive, jumps into the cab and seizes the trottle with a strong grip and a mind intent upon the track. The mother washes and dresses her little brood, singing as merrily as the robin in the tree and looking forward to a day of joy in their sweet care and companionship. The banker finds that the problems and anxieties which oppressed him when he laid his weary head upon the pillow have slipped away, leaving his mental vision clear and unobstructed. Even the physician, profiting through long habit by the brief hours of sleep allowed him by his exacting patients, finds his cases looking more hopeful and that he has gained a new insight into their perplexing maladies while he slumbered. And so, under the touch of the magic wand of the brighteyed goddess of health, the good old world goes spinning merrily around its daily course.

"The traveler speeds safely on from city to city toward his destined goal without a thought of danger, knowing that there is a firm hand and a steady eye on the engine. The happy children bubble over with the mere joy of living, repaying the tender mother a thousand-fold for her fostering care and giving a promise of a noble race. The business world bravely and blithely pursues its manifold occupations. Under the stimulus of finance, wheels turn, machinery hums, the keel ploughs the foaming seas, even the air itself is rent by the sweep of the airship and life becomes indeed worth living."

The bulletin adds to this picture of the abounding joy of health a more dismal picture of the palsying, confusing miseries of ill health, but never mind about that. That picture is too familiar to too many.

Guard your health as the apple of your eye. If you have it, keep it. Let no false pleasures, no enfeebling indulgence, take it from you. If you haven't it, bend your energy and your intelligence to getting it. Plain living, fresh air, plenty of sleep, freedom from worry, plenty of work but not too much, more fresh air, wholesome exercise clean diversion for the mind, still more fresh air—these are as good prescriptions for the making of health as any.

And be sure that without them you cannot keep your health, no matter how rugged and indestructible it may seem to you now.

VERY KIND, BUT—

Washington dispatches relate that Senator McCumber of North Dakota has a plan to relieve Minnesota of some embarrassment.

He has an amendment to the congressional reapportionment bill that would give an additional house member to the Dakotas, taking this representation away from Minnesota and leaving it with nine congressmen, as at present.

Also, it is related that "on consultation with some of the Minnesota members he finds that they are agreeable to the proposed amendment."

This is the explanation of this curious incident of representatives from Minnesota agreeing to forfeit representation in congress to which the state is entitled: "An extra session of the state legislature would have to be called to redistrict the state under the provisions of the reapportionment bill as passed by the house, or else an election of a congressman-at-large would be necessary, and there is objection to both propositions."

Are the people of Minnesota to have nothing to say about this? Is the necessity of avoiding a special session of the legislature so great that it will warrant this state in sacrificing representation in congress that belongs to it?

We knew that there was great necessity of avoiding an extra session of the legislature because it would surely result in achieving something toward redeeming the state from the ignominy of high railroad rates and ridiculously low railroad taxes. That necessity has been evident for some time. A majority of the newspapers of the state have approved the idea of calling the legislature in extraordinary session to increase the railroad gross earnings tax, thus saving two years' increase in revenues which will be lost if action is postponed until the regular session of 1913. The state tax commission, which has recommended an increase in the railroad gross earnings tax, has reported that it found throughout the state an earnest desire on the part of the people for an extra session for this purpose.

Yet the powers that control the state have thus far been successful in preventing the governor from issuing a call for such a session.

So it is clear that the need of averting an extra session is very great. But we had not supposed it to be so great that it would be thought worth while to deprive the state of its due representation in congress in order to head off the extra session, and the news that comes from Washington is therefore very interesting indeed.

It would be a very neighborly act to give the Dakotas more representation than they are entitled to at the cost of leaving Minnesota with less than it is entitled to; but it isn't customary to do this sort of thing, and probably the Dakotas do not expect Minnesota to do it.

Further details are needed. We should like to know what representatives of Minnesota have agreed to this charitable proposition, and why? What is there about an extra session of the legislature that is so dreadful that it must be averted at this cost? A number of the states are having or have had extra sessions. Indeed, in practically every state where the legislature failed in its duty and there was a governor of firmness and character, the legislature has been summoned in extraordinary session to do the things it should have done at the regular session.

Is Minnesota so anxious to avoid an extra session of the legislature that it is willing to sacrifice due representation in congress to do it?

PURE FOOD AND THE GOVERNMENT.

The attack on Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, isn't going to result in handing his official scalp over to the dishonest food manufacturers who seek it, but it is going to have one very excellent result: it is going to show up some of the difficulties Dr. Wiley has been working under in his attempt to insure honest food.

Attorney General Wickersham is highly indignant because Dr. Wiley paid an expert a little more than the law allows; but it would be interesting to know why he was not equally indignant with the unlawful creation of the "Remsen board," which he sanctioned.

The Remsen board was created as a check on the activities of Dr. Wiley. Under the pure food law it is required that when the chief of the bureau of chemistry declares an article of food or drink to be adulterated, the secretary of agriculture shall proceed against that manufacturer.

When the law was pending, food manufacturers tried to get an amendment adopted providing for a referee board of scientific experts to which the secretary could appeal if he didn't like to act on the recommendation of the chief of the bureau of chemistry. Congress refused to adopt the amendment, but provided instead for an appeal to the courts by manufacturers not satisfied with Wiley's rulings.

The storm broke when Wiley said that benzoic acid was used to disguise decayed and rotten food products, and that its use was prejudicial to health. It was bad, he said, in both ways: as a drug in food and as a concealment of putrefaction. Manufacturers who used it swarmed to Washington, and the result was that Secretary Wilson did what congress had refused to authorize him to do — appointed a referee board of experts, known as the Remsen board, to pass on Wiley's rulings.

Though the appointment of this board was as far outside the law as Wiley's alleged overpayment of a scientist, it received the enthusiastic sanction of Attorney General Wickersham. Furthermore, it did the business for which it was created: it gave benzoic acid a clean bill of health. To quote the New York Times: "What congress had feared then came to pass. The Remsen board was not asked whether, by the use of benzoic acid, offal might be prepared for introduction into the bakeshops, delicatessen stores and restaurants of the nation in the form of cheap jams, jellies, fruit pie fillings, pickles and other bulk preserves. It was not asked whether children, the aged, the sick and persons in varying degrees of ill-health could withstand in their daily diet the cumulative effects of this preservative. It was not asked whether every article of food which had been commonly preserved by means of benzoic acid or benzoate of soda could not be preserved and offered to the consumer in perfect condition without the aid of any chemical preservative whatever. The questions put were answered by a verdict that minute daily doses of benzoate of soda were not found to be deleterious when fed to young men in vigorous health during a period of three months."

On that ruling Secretary Wilson based his decision that medicated garbage could be fed to the American people. The other day a subordinate in Wiley's department who had refused to sanction the use of benzoate of soda when directed to do so by the department was summarily discharged for insubordination.

The housewife who preserves fruits and vegetables never has to use drugs to keep her preserves. No manufacturer who uses fresh and wholesome raw materials needs it. Only those who use rotten and unwholesome products need chemical preservatives.

Yet to protect the infamous industry of selling decayed garbage doctored up with drugs, the will of congress has been ignored with the attorney general's approval, and an attempt is being made to get Wiley discharged on an absurd technicality.

SAME TO YOU, PREXY.

That was a very pretty compliment quoted in The Herald last night from President Vincent of the state university:

> What a hospitable, beautiful, enthusiastic place Duluth is! I feel the contagion of it every time I visit it.

Few who have observed Dr. Vincent would suppose that he needed the stimulus of this or any other contagion. He always impresses us as a human dynamo in full hum.

Anyway, Duluth appreciates the very pleasant compliment. Also, we can assure him that Duluth made no pleasanter impression on Dr. Vincent than Dr. Vincent made on Duluth.

INTERVIEWER AND INTERVIEWED.

When you see a man in public life disclaiming a published interview, don't be too ready to condemn the reporter.

Misquotations of that character are very rare. They happen, of course. Reporters are humanly fallible, and they make mistakes. But such mistakes do not happen nearly so often as the interviewed try to make out.

Many a man, bubbling with enthusiasm over a pet idea, has given out an interview about it, and then when he saw it published and realized for the first time that somebody's toes have been trodden upon and somebody's corns crunched, he grew appalled at his temerity and promptly disclaimed his interview, throwing the blame upon the reporter.

Every newspaper office is familiar with such cases, far more familiar with them than it is with the reporter who deliberately distorts an interview.

And yet, though it may be betraying a professional secret to say so, very few interviews appear just as they were given. If they did newspapers would be a lot funnier than they are.

The other day the Baltimore Sun published an interview with a local citizen about the public schools. Here is what appeared:

> No one can deny that the present embroglio is disorganizing the schools and diminishing the efficiency of the teachers. Reports that I have received from parents convince me that the experiments attempted by Mr. Van Sickle—the superintendent—have failed to improve the system or to benefit the pupils. Whatever the demerits of the old curriculum, it at least laid a firm foundation and gave the pupil a working knowledge of the fundamental branches. The new curriculum does not accomplish this. I believe a change in the office of superintendent would be to the advantage of the schools.

The giver of this interview repudiated it. He said that that wasn't what he said at all. The trouble was, apparently, that he was a good deal braver when he was talking with the reporter than he was when he saw his remarks in print. So he complained that he had been misquoted, and the Sun obligingly printed verbatim what he had said to the reporter. Here it is:

> Don't talk to me about no Van Sickle. The scholars in the schools don't learn half what they used to. When I went to school things was different. Today they waste their time on knittin', mud pies and such damn monkey business, and I heerd the other day that they don't learn the children spellin' at all no more. I'm in favor of cuttin' out all that fancy stuff and givin' 'em somethin' that'll stick to the ribs. Have a cigar? Say somethin' good and strong. Tell 'em I'm against it.

Clearly, this indignant citizen was right. His interview wasn't published—at first—as he gave it. Curiously enough, they say he is madder now that it has been published as he gave it than he was when it was dressed up for publication.

Reporters—good reporters of the kind that can hold a job on any reputable newspaper — don't twist interviews even to make the "story" better. That they often twist them as the Sun reporter did is true—and a mighty good thing it is for many of the interviewed.

HE WOULDN'T BE THERE.

A Twin City newspaper runs a picture of Governor Eberhart watching an educated horse at an amusement park doing a sum in addition. If the animal, out of its horse sense, had written something about the need of an extra session of the legislature to meet the railroad rate crisis, the photographer would have had to have an uncommonly active shutter to catch the governor in the picture at all.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ABUSING MAN'S BEST FRIEND AMONG ANIMALS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is one form of cruelty to animals less recognized than others by those pleading for humane treatment of our "brothers and sisters" (as they are sometimes called), of the brute creation.

The over-worked, abused horse has found many to plead in his behalf, and something toward making his useful life less burdensome and painful has been accomplished.

But there is one hindrance to his ability to work and to his convenience in so doing that is usually overlooked by those espousing his cause—that of high checking.

This is a form of cruelty in the case of work horses, as it interferes with their ability to draw the load.

Fortunately this is generally known. My plea, therefore, is more for a discontinuance of such checking of all horses.

We are occasionally pained by the sight of horses which but for this practice might be almost thought to be enjoying the pleasure of the drive in common with their masters, but whose appearance with head awkardly and piteously stretched forward and upward in a position indicating great discomfort if not pain, calls forth no admiration on our part but pity for the abused creaures so willing to do man's bidding and something stronger than pity for their cruel and unthinking drivers.

Man's most useful friend of the lower creation deserves all the freedom, consideration and kindness possible, compatible with his service to humanity. R. E. H.

WELCOME LETTER FROM RECENT GUEST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Gentlemen: I wish to thank you very much for the very full and timely report which you made of the proceedings of the Minnesota State Bar association recently held in your city. I further wish to commend you for your very kind, and every lawyer thinks very just, editorial concerning the legal profession. The hoary old joke of the lawyer having to lie in a crooked bed in order to conform to the sinuosity of his character is fast passing away and nothing goes further than such editorial utterances to dispel from the minds of the unthinking such foolish things.

The members are saying that the session just closed in your city has been the most successful meeting ever held, quite largely due to the activity of the local committee and the hospitality of your people.

Again thanking you, I remain,
Yours very truly,
JAMES D. SHEARER,
Ex-President.

Minneapolis, July 21.

The House by the Side of the Road.

He was a friend to man, and lived by the side of the road.—Homer.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynics ban—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles or their tears—
Both parts of our infinite plan;
Let me live in the house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead,
And mountains of wearisome night;
That the road passesss on through the long afternoon
And mountains of wearisome height;
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man that dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Maybe foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in the house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

—SAM WALTER FOSS.

Not to Be Fooled.

Lippincott's A mission worker in New York tells of a youngster who had never been to "the country" until the occasion of a "fresh-air" excursion whereof he was a member.

One day this lad was seen closely examing a certain trim, well-made object on the farm. He stared at it for a while and then shook his head dubiously.

"What are you looking at, son?" asked the farmer.

"Where's the doors and windows?" inquired the boy.

"Doors and windows? Why, that's not a house; it's a haystack."

"Excuse me, pop!" returned the youngster. "You can't string me that way. Hay doesn't grow in lumps like that."

Where Little Children Die.

Chicago News: In a recent address before an audience in Birmingham, Eng., David Lloyd-George, Britain's brilliant and progressive chancellor of the exchequer, said amid cheers:

"I would treat the man who receives rents or ground rents from insanitary dwellings which kill little children—I would treat him as I would the receiver of stolen property."

Readers of The Daily News should let these words sink into their memories.

The movement now beginning in Chicago on behalf of better housing conditions should have the sympathy and moral support of the public. It is in response to a great need. It is in harmony with the best thought of the entire civilized world.

Laughter.

Tim Murphy, comedian: Here's to laughter! The sunshine of the soul, the happiness of the heart, the heaven of youth, the privilege of purity, the echo of innocence, the treasurer of the humble, the wealth of the poor, the head on the cup of pleasure; it dispels dejection, banishes blues and mangles melancholy, for it's the foe of woe, the destroyer of depression, the enemy of grief; it is why kings envy peasants, plutocrats the poor, the guilty the innocent; it is the sheen on the silver of smiles, the ripple on the waters of delight, the glint on the gold of gladness. Without it humor would be dumb, wit would wither, dimples would disappear and smiles would shrivel, for it's the glow of a clean conscience, the voice of a pure soul, the birth cry of mirth, the swan song of sadness. Laughter!

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Louisville Courier: "What cured him of flirting?"

"He started a flirtation with a lady who turned out to be selling an encyclopedia at $200 a set."

Woman's Home Companion: Ambitious Author—Hurray! Five dollars for my latest story, "The Call of the Lure!"

Fast Friend—Whom from? Ambitious Author: The express company. They lost it.

Sacred Heart Review: "Father, I am not sure whether I shall be a specialist for the ears or the teeth."

"Choose the teeth, my boy; every one has thirty-two of them, but only two ears.

Youngstown Telegram: "I have just finished writing a modern novel."

"Does the heroine marry the hero?"

"Yes, indeed! A different one in each chapter."

Washington Herald: "Our new bookkeeper seems to have a wonderful grasp of detail."

"That's right," declared the junior partner. "He knows the records of most all the ball players."

Everybody's Weekly: Mr. Toppitt—Sorry I did not give you a better game. Fact is, I had rather a bad toothache.

Mr. Plus-Play — I have never yet beaten a man who was in perfect health.

London Opinion: Connisseur — Ah, there's no doubt they mixed their colors with brains in those days!

His Lady—Oh, how dreadful! But it was a frightfully cruel period, wasn't it?

Houston Post: "Could I interest you in our orange grove proposit'on"

"Nope. I have already put all my money into a fruit orchard."

"Where?"

"On my wife's hat."

Judge's Library: Crank—Yes, that great baseball player was married last week.

Fan—So? Any change in him?

Crank—Not a bit! He is running and sliding for home more than ever.

The Kerry Cow.

It's in Connacht or in Munster that yourself might travel wide,
And be asking all the herds you'd meet along the countryside,
But you'd never meet a one could show the likes of her till now,
Where she's grazing in a Leinster field —my little Kerry cow.

If herself went to the cattle fairs she'd put all cows to shame,
For the finest poets of the land would meet to sing her fame;
And the young girls would be asking leave to stroke her satin coat,
They'd be praising and caressing her, and calling her a dote.

If the King of Spain gets news of her he'll fill his purse with gold
And set sail to ask the English King where she is to be sold:
But the King of Spain may come to me, a crown upon his brow,
It is he may keep his golden purse—and I my Kerry cow.

The priest maybe will tell her fame to the Holy Pope of Rome,
And the Cardinals' College send for her to leave her Irish home;
But it's heart broke she would be itself to cross the Irish Sea,
'Twould be best they'd send a blessing to my Kerry cow and me.

When the Ulster men hear tell of her they'll come with swords and pikes,
For it's civil war there'll be no less if they should see her likes:
And you'll read it on the paper of the bloody fight there's been,
An' the Orangemen they're burying in fields of Leister green.

There are red cows that's contrary, and there's white cows quare an' wild,
But my Kerry cow is biddable an' gentle as a child.
You might rare up kings and heroes on the lovely milk she yields,
For she's fit to foster generals to fight our battle fields.

In the histories they'll be making they've a fight to put her name,
With the horse of Troy and Oisin's hounds and other beasts of fame.
And the painters will be painting her beneath the hawthorn bough,
Where she's grazing on the good green grass—my little Kerry cow.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Treat an inferior as an equal and he'll soon consider himself your superior.

Alas, it is the girl who can't play that has a mania for working the piano overtime.

A man can talk on a dozen different subjects easier than a woman can stop talking on one.

Listen to some people and you will hear enough about their ailments to fill a patent medicine almanac.

Usually a man who would rather be right than be president soon acquires a reputation for being poor but honest.

A conceited young man imagines that every engaged girl would like to break off the engagment after meeting him.

Even if a man doesn't get busy and make love to a pretty girl the first time they meet she always suspects that he would like to.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A woman never gets so fat that she can't thank heaven she isn't stout.

A man takes devotion from his wife in the matter of fact way she takes trading stamps.

It takes so much money to pay for some people's luxuries that they have nothing left for the necessaries.

It's queer how a man who has even sense enough to keep out of lawsuits won't have enough to let other people do all the family quarreling.

A Mountain of Absurdities.

Chicago Tribune: The friends of the parcels post will continue to pile one absurdity of the express monopoly on top of another until there is a mountain in exhibit. In argument in support of the Lewis bill it is pointed out that the average charge in Argentine for carrying a ton of express it $6.31, in Europe $4.12, and in the United States $31.20; that in other countries five times as much is charged to carry a ton of express as a ton of freight and here sixteen times as much.

Busines interests not directly associated with the express companies, but nevertheless supporting their monopoly in fear of the parcels post, will learn that business does not need the protection of absurdities.

A Sure Test.

Lippincott's: On a pleasant Sunday afternoon an old German and his youngest son were seated in the village inn. The father had partaken liberally of the home-brewed beer, and was warning his son against the evils of intemperance. "Never drink too much, my son. A gentleman stops when he has enough. To be drunk is a disgrace."

"Yes, father, but how can I tell when I have enough or am drunk?"

The old man pointed with his finger. "Do you see those two men sitting in the corner? If you should see four men there, you would be drunk."

The boy looked long and earnestly. "Yes, father, but—but—there is only one man in that corner."

A Gentle Tip.

Lippincott's: They were sitting on the bathing beach at the summer resort. He was very bashful, and he had let countless opportunities slip by.

"Isn't this sand wonderful?" he said, after a moment's lull in the conversation.

"Wonderful!" she replied. "And just think, there is so much here going to waste when so many people need some in their systems!"

Then he caught on—and caught up!

Just As Good Financially.

Washington Star: Dr. Bertha C. Downey at a luncheon in Worcester, Mass., eloquently pleaded for her tax on childless husbands.

"There would be fewer childless husbands," Dr. Downey ended, "if there were fewer extravagant wives. Take the case of hats alone. It is nothing for a woman to decorate her hat with aigrettes and paradise plumes worth $80 or $90. Few men can afford aigrettes, paradise plumes and children at the same time.

"Why," said Dr. Downey, "I heard a story the other day about a man who said:

"'Brown seems to be succeeding now. What is the secret of it?'

"'Well,' was the reply, 'he met Gobsa Golde's daughter, an heiress, who spends $1,000 a year on hats alone, and—'

"'And, of course, he married her, eh?'

"'No, no! He married her milliner.'"

"She cannot talk," his hearers cry—
"I know," says he, "but cannot I?"

"I know some tribes beyond the seas—
Their home's so hot it fricassees.'
"How do they live?" the audience cries—
"Away for home," B. M. replies.

Munchausen said: "The Japanese

"Where does it grow?" the audence cries—
"On other trees," B. M. replies.

"The people drink their whisky fried."
"How can they?—tell us!" all insist—
"Because," says he, "they don't exist!"

Great Authors Appear in Pairs.

Century Magazine: It is rather curious how often great writers appear in pairs, and are forced by the reading public into the false position of rivals. This is true not only of Thackeray and Dickens, but of Richardson and Fielding, Goethe and Schiller, Tennyson and Browning, Hardy and Meredith, Longfellow and Whittier, Hauptmann and Sudermann, Bjornson and Ibsen, Turgenieff and Tolstoy. There is, however, an advantage to such double stars in our intellectual firmament in the stimulus given to general discussion and analysis of their respective claims.

On the Peaceful Farm.

Popular Magazine: Will R. MacDonald of Washington rented a farm a few miles outside of the city to escape the din and noise of town, but he soon tired of the trouble of looking after the place.

"I'm going to hire a manager to look after this farm," he told his family at breakfast one morning, "then I won't have any more trouble. He can occupy a room on the top floor and we will all have a quiet, easy time."

MacDonald leaned back and smiled serenely in anticipation of the coming rest and peace.

That night as the new manager passed through the hall on his way upstairs, MacDonald stepped out and asked him if he cared to have the afternoon paper.

"No thank you," replied the fount of rest and quiet; "I have a flute on which I always practice two hours before going to bed."

A Slight Mistake.

Toledo Blade: Oliver Herford once entered a doubtful looking restaurant in a small New York town and ordered a lamb chop. After a long delay the waiter returned, bearing a plate on which reposed a dab of mashed potatoes and a much overdone chop of microscopical proportions, with a remarkably long and slender rib attached. This the waiter set down before him and then hurried away.

"See here!" called Herford, "I ordered a chop."

"Yes, sir," replied the man, "there it is."

"Ah, so it is," mused Herford, peering at it closely. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."

It Was "De Second Time."

Metropolitan Magazine: A passenger on a New York-Cleveland sleeper, on awakening in the morning, found under his berth one black shoe and one brown one. He called the porter and directed his attention to the error. The porter scratched his woolly head in utter bewilderment.

"Well," said the exasperated passenger, "what's the matter?"

"Now, if dat don't beat all!" exclaimed the porter. "Dat's de second time dis mawnin' dat dat mistake's happened."

The Glory-Worshippers.

The Clymer-Snobbs are home again,
Chuck-full of exaltation,
Because they've seen
A King and Queen
En route to coronation.
Puffed up? They are so high in air
We scarce can hold them down,
And common folks
To them are jokes
Down here in Punkintown.

Why, Mrs. Clymer-Snobbs, she has
A paving-stone, they say,
Dug from the Strand;
A peer so grand
Stepped on it on his way.
She wears it as a diadem
As she might wear a crown;
Ten pounds it weighs,
But then, she says,
It staggers Punkintown.

Young Tommy Snobbs upon his brow
Still sports a bump he got
By being hit
A little bit
By a guardsman's rifle butt.
He's had it gilded so 'twill last
And nevermore go down;
And 'twill surprise
And dim the eyes
Of us in Punkintown.

They have a cabinet full of things—
A chunk of London fog.
A whisker pale
Sneaked from the tail
Of Lady Pluggbugg's dog.
They cost so much they've got to skimp
And keep their meat bills down;
But what of that?
It makes "eclat"
For them in Punkintown!

Tact.

London Punch: The narrative of one of the passengers on the damaged Cunarder, as given to a reporter of the Birmingham Daily Mail, contains this passage:

"The baggage master deserved special praise. He had only been asleep a couple of hours when called up, but he arranged the baggage so clevery that not a piece was lost save such as belonged to the steerage passengers."

A truly first-class touch. To a steerage passenger, who has little enough to begin with, the lost of baggage is, of course, nothing.

A CHIEF AND A REMINISCENCE

By SAVOYARD.

The Hon. Boise Penrose is the titular leader of the United States senate, the successor of Nelson W. Aldrich in that station, perhaps the most adroit, the most dexterous, the most skillful political manipulator the senate ever knew. In reality Aldrich was leader of both sides, and for at least a dozen years he was the United States senate. Of course a rebellion was bound to overtake his absolute sway, as it did that of Diaz, and when Dolliver made his brilliant campaign of insurgency, Aldrich saw his reign was over and retired, taking Mr. Hale with him. Aldrich was not only the United States senate his last two terms, but he was the United States congress, ruling the house as effectually as he did the senate. Nothing could become a law that he opposed; everything became the law that he approved.

Penrose is unfortunate in that he hails from the Plum Orchard, which is the state of Pennsylvania, and he was trained in the political school of "Addition, Division and Silence." Not that he is personally corrupt, not that he would grow rich in the public service. He is too honest and too proud for that; but Penrose actually believes that certain interests should be granted privileges and advantages in order that they may take care of the people. It is the feudalism of wealth as the other was the feudalism of arms. The Steel trust could ask nothing of the Republican leader that he would refuse and be firm in the belief that he was doing his country and the American people a great and beneficent service. There is popular belief that Penrose is only a brutal ward politician. It is a mistake. He is a man of great ability, highly educated and admirably cultured. If Penrose had been reared in Iowa, or Minnesota, long ago he would have been looked upon as presidential timber. But his lines were cast in Pennsylvania, and in Philadelphia at that. He fetched and carried for the old Cameron machine, and when Matt Quay grasped the crown he made Penrose his vizier, his chief-of-staff. Quay died and the crown fell to Penrose, and he is just as good as any of them and far better than many of them.

Quay was a vicious character. He had profound contempt for human nature. It is possible that he held some woman to be chaste; it is certain that he believed no man to be honest. He speculated in the public funds, was indicted upon a charge that reached to the dignity of a felony, and stood his trial without shame or fear, and with insolence. He, too, was a man of very great ability and much culture. In his library were thousands of volumes treating of the individuality and the career of Napoleon Bonaparte, and it is possible that Quay was better versed in the history and the character of the Corsician demi-god than any other American of his or any other day. And in fact he practiced in politics Napoleonic tactics as no other American ever did, and it is to be hoped, as no other American ever will.

Ben Harrison was nominated for president in 1888 with the assent, if not the approval, of Quay. He elected because Quay managed the campaign and had at command unlimited boddle, fat fried out of the protected interests. With Napoleonic genius Quay saw that the election was to be decided by the votes of men who lived within a radius of five miles of the New York city hall. He directed that the boddle be poured into Brooklyn, and he carried the election right there on Long Island.

Harrison had been defeated for governor of Indiana in 1876 by "Bluejeans" Williams; but in 1881 he got Joseph B. McDonald's seat in the United States senate. The day he went into that body James G. Blaine went out of it, and those two men were practically strangers when Harrison appointed Blaine secretary of state in March, 1889. Neither did Quay nor Tom Platt know Harrison. Had they and Blaine known him as well the summer of 1888 as they did the summer of 1889, Ben Harrison would not have been nominated for president in 1888, or, if nominated, he would not have been elected. Blaine expected to run the show as he had run Garfield. Platt expected to be secretary of the treasury. Quay expected to control the patronage; especially the Pennsylvania end of it.

But they reckoned without that duck-legged, dish-faced little man they had made president. He had as great a mind as anybody who ever held that great office, and he had character. Had he been as liberal toward the South as William H. Taft he would have made a better place in history; but he championed the Lodge force bill and that infuriated the South and repelled New York and other pivotal communities of the North. He approved the Sherman silver law and that put the country on a silver basis and it took a Grover Cleveland to extricate it from universal bankruptcy in the midst of a panic, due solely to the Sherman silver law, that brought financial disaster in every community in the United States.

When Ben Harrison was elected everybody said Matt Quay was the greatest man of the lot. But Ben Harrison was not William McKinley, and Mr. Quay did not play the part subsequently so brilliantly executed by Mark Hanna. The presidency would have been valueless to Ben Harrison unless he were president and he alone.

Congress met a few weeks after Harrison was elected. In those days senators had a habit of congregating on the floor before the body was called to order together. There were Democratic senators delighted with the result and ready to hail Quay chief, or boss. The Republican senators were gathered in groups congratulating each other, and the galleries looked down on a scene rather lively and wonderfully expectant.

Suddenly from the main entrance came Quay, and all was hushed—he the conquering hero. His walk was a progress, his gait a process. It was a snail's pace. It was careless, provocative, defiant, vindictive. Every one of us has seen a school boy, the cock of the walk, assume his attitude, take on his air. I think every senator on the Republican side was considerably agitated except Father Dawes and Father Hoar of Massachusetts. Even Aldrich and Hale were under the spell.

And I thought of a scene not altogether unlike some four score years earlier, when at the Tuileries there was a gathering called the "Hall of the Marshals." They were rugged men who had gained fame and rank at the cannon's mouth. They were in animated converse, some talking of Sambre et Meuse, others of the Rhine, some relating anecdote of Italy, and others of Egypt. There were the avaricious Messina, the fierce Davoust, Lanness, who grew from pigmy to giant; Murat, "the brilliant ass" as his master named him, Ney, "the man of 2 o'clock courage," Macdonald, Victor, Oudinot, and others.

Suddenly the door unfolded and a little man came in more plainly garbed than any of them—these each of whom might have disputed with all the others for title "the bravest of the brave"—and every head bowed, every tongue stilled, for each one knew that his master was come.

It was not quite that in the case of Quay, but something somewhat suggestive of it. But six months later all of 'em found out that Ben Harrison was president, and he utterly ignored Quay and Platt, and subsequently quarreled with Blaine.

SPLIT IN THE GERMAN HANSA BUND

Manufacturers Withdraw Because of Vigorous Attitude Against the Agrarians—Say Bund's Course Endangers the Protective Policy.

Berlin, July 22.—A split in the Hansa bund is the latest event in the internal politics of Germany. This is a great organization formed about two years ago for augmenting the influence of the commercial classes over legislation and for combating the Agrarian movement.

It now consists of about 250,000 individual members, besides some 750 commercial and industrial organizations of various kinds. Thus the total membership of the bund, direct and indirect, is considerably above 1,000,000; and it is therefore by far the largest private organization of any sort in Germany. In June the bund held its annual convention in Berlin; and, in view of the near approach of reichstag elections, the speeches took on a very aggressive character against the Agrarians and the parties supporting them. The president of the organization announced a policy which means, practically, that the bund prefers to see a Socialist elected rather than an Agrarian.

His attitude has given great offence to the Central Association of German Manufacturers, the national organization of the largest manufacturers of the empire. This body has just announced its withdrawal from the bund because of the vigorous attitude adopted against the Agrarians at the convention. The association explains its action by alleging that the course adopted by the bund endangers the protective policy, which is supported by a tacit alliance between the manufacturers and large land owners. The secession of the association does not mean that all the manufacturers of the country will desert the bund; and on the other hand, many of the organizations of the smaller and medium sized manufacturing establishments have declared their support of a vigorous attack upon the Agrarian and the Conservative parties.

In some quarters it is believed that the defection of the association will help the bund since it will enable it to put forth more energy in its struggle with Agrarians. It is also believed that it will tend to draw the lines more clearly between the supporters of the present tariff policy of the empire and those who prefer a more moderate form of protection.

An inventive German has recently taken out a patent for a pistol for producing apparent death for a brief time. It is loaded with a bullet made of a chemical composition, to which is added enough powder to propel it. The bullet explodes and causes a thick cloud of vapor, which envelopes the victim, makes it impossible for him to see, renders his breathing difficult, and he finally falls into a swoon that lasts from ten minutes to a half hour. It is believed that the new pistol will be of importance for policemen, as they may be able to overcome rowdies or even unmanageable crowds effectively without killing anybody.

The important island of Rugen, in the Baltic sea, which has belonged to Prussia since 1815, is being so rapidly worn away by the action of the sea that Prussia has had to assert her rights of eminent domain and take measures to prevent the island from being gradually washed into the sea.

Large sums have been spent by the state in planting trees along the coast and in getting the dunes sodded with panic grass. Those parts of the coast most seriously threatened have been protected by strong stone walls. Until recently it frequently happened that after a storm the coast line would be found to have retreated in places as much as 150 feet. This work of the state does not affect the private ownership of the dunes and beaches.

Though planted by the state, the trees become the property of the private land owners and may later be cut down with the consent of the state forestry department; but in this case other trees must be set out by the land owner.

Butte & Superior Company Likely to Erect Plant in Near Future.

Tuolumne to Resume Sinking Shaft Down to 1,800 Feet.

Butte, Mont., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wolvin of the Butte & Superior company has been in the city looking over the property and consulting with heavy stockholders as to the erection of a concentrator of about 500 tons capacity. Mr. Wolvin is strongly in favor of the erection of the mill and there seems to be no doubt that in the course of a short time definite plans will be arrived at. The president visited the property and made a very thorough inspection of the mine. He expressed himself as well satisfied with conditions and said the company was earning good money. He was unable to say just now whether the Basin Works would be abandoned for the treatment of the company ore after the concentrator planned recently, but was inclined to believe that if a mill was built on the company property the Basin Works would still be used and the output of the mine increased. Mr. Wolvin said that there was a very large quantity of ore blocked out and the company could easily increase its output to double the present amount.

Montana-Clinton.

The Montana-Clinton company is endeavoring to interest Eastern capital in its property which is located near Missoula. The company has considerable ore blocked out, but is crippled by the condition of the treasury, the annual report showing bills payable $4,813 and only $325 cash on hand. Manager Fredericks says that much could be found that would pay to ship if funds were available for the purpose. Some ore is now being shipped and an effort is being made to secure enough money from that source to carry on operations but this is a very questionable proposition. There are said to be some very promising ore bodies in sight if only enough money could be secured to sink another 100 feet.

Raven.

Those who seem to be familiar with the Raven property are quite confident that it is on the eve of turning out to be a producing mine and all that is needed is a prompt response to the 25 cent assessment to provide the funds to carry development work on for a few months. An electric pump has been installed on the 1,300-foot level and just as soon as the water has been got out it is believed valuable ore bodies on the lower levels will be found.

Developing Gagnon Hoist.

The Gagnon and Original mines have bee connected and hereafter the ore of the Gagnon will be hoisted through the Original, once the property of W. A. Clark. The hoist of the Gagnon is being demolished, as there is no further use for it and is liable to prove a menace to property in the locality in the case of fire. Apart from very other consideration the removal of the hoist concerably reduces the fire risk. The new Gagnon shaft is now down about 1,700 feet and it is to be sunk to a depth of 2,300 feet and until it is completed the ore will be hoisted through the original shaft. The old Gagnon inclined shaft has been cut through to the 1,600-foot level and is being used as an air shaft. The shaft is to be kept open for ventilating purposes and the Gagnon is now one of the best ventilated mines in the district.

Tuolumne.

It was stated some time ago that sinking had been discontinued in the Toulumne mine after a distance of 1,600 feet had been reached. This was over a month ago. Now it has been decided to resume sinking and carry the shaft down to a depth of 1,800 feet. At the same time the development work which is proceeding on every level and the hoisting of about 150 tons of ore every day will be continued as usual. At the time sinking was stopped it was felt that with the present plant it was too much to carry on development work, hoisting of 150 tons a day and sinking all at the same time, but Supt. Sheehan has decided that it can be done. he new surface equipment for the company has arrived and the work of placing it in position has commenced. It is estimated that at least three months will be required to erect the gallows frame and hoist in position, so that it will be well in October before the new plant is in operation. There will not be any delay in the work of the mine while the installing of the plant is in progress as it is to be built around the present equipment. Ore is now being shipped direct to the Washoe smelter from the mine, as the spur of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railway has been completed.

Road to Georgetown District.

The Anaconda Copper Mining company is considering the question of building the road from the Georgetown district to connect with its line running to the Washoe smelter. The Lake George Mining company under its charter has power to build the connecting link, but there is no doubt if the Anaconda company will undertake to construct the line it will be perfectly satisfied. The distance is twelve miles and a survey has been made, but John D. Kyan says that the question of building the road will require consideration from the standpoint of whether the district can supply sufficient ore to pay for the money invested. Just now there is not much activity in the district and the various persons interested say that this is due to the fact that there is no use of getting the ore out unless there is a cheap means provided to get it to the smelter. The wagon road is in a wretched condition and the price demanded by the people owning teams is very high, leaving little margin for the mining man. Only a few men are working at the George mine and the amount of ore blocked out is small, the owners claiming that it is useless to expend money in getting out the ore until there is some assurance that it can be got to the smelter at a profit. The Southern Cross, which is beyond question the richest mine in the district, has anywhere from 700,000 to 800,000 tons of ore blocked out, is now idle and the owners have no idea of resuming operations in the immediate future. Mr. Ryan is having an investigation made of the amount of ore in sight in the different properties and the possibilities of the mines, and until he receives this report, he will not be in a position to give an answer as to the Anaconda company undertaking to build the road.

Compressed Air Plants.

There are now two mines in the district hoisting ore, by the compressed air plant system, the Mountain View and the Diamond. The latter was started up a few days ago and the system is proving a success in every respect. The third mine, the High Ore, is now receiving the necessary changes to its engine and by the latter end of August it will be also in operation under the system. Mining men say that the compressed air plant is doing more efficient and satisfactory work than was given by the steam plant.

Pilot Butte.

The working of crosscutting from the 1,200-foot level of the Black Rock claim of the Butte & Superior company to the Pilot Butte claim at a depth of 1,300 feet, a distance of 560 feet, will be completed in about two months, and then up-raising will be commenced to meet the shaft-sinking party. In about two weeks the water will be removed from the shaft of the Pilot Butte, which is down 520 feet, and then sinking will be started. The estimate just now is that the sinking party and the men engaged in working up will meet somewhere early in December, and that by the first of the year the Pilot Butte will be in the course of development at depth. The people are building their hopes in encountering the rich vein of the Badger State of the Boston & Montana company.

All Mines Connected.

So complete a system of connections with the various mines has been established by the Anaconda company that now every mine owned by the company can be entered through the Belmont shaft and entrance thus gained through the Anaconda mine to all the properties. In case of accident or the temporary closing down of a shaft, all the men can be brought out through the Belmont.

Davis-Daly.

There is a report that a high-grade body of ore has been encountered in the Colorado mine of the Davis-Daly company well west of the shaft, but those who would be competent to either affirm or deny the report have nothing to say. If the development now going on in accordance with the recommendations of W. H. Wiley is bringing about any results, the officials will not divulge the fact.

New Sucking Machine.

Practical tests of a sucking machine invented by one Norman Ebbley is attracting a great amount of attention. It weighs 8,500 pounds, is 35 feet long, including a 12-foot hangover. The machine is operated by compressed air, and its success lies in the valve control which operates a heavy reciprocating shovel, three feet wide at the mouth, with a retarding stroke forward and an accelerated motion to the rear. This makes the work of the big shovel similar to that of a shovel in the hands of a man.

ENLARGING THE C. & A. SMELTER

Nearly One Hundred Men at Work Excavating on Site.

Douglas, Ariz., July 22.—Preliminary work has been well started at the Calumet & Arizona smelter in this city, in connection with the proposed new plant of that company, which has been planned.

There are now nearly 100 men at work on excavations for foundations and cutting ditches required for a complete sewer system for the accommodation of the entire plat of ground to be occupied by the new plant and the buildings connected with it.

A vast amount of grading has been done and slag is now being deposited in the low places to give a level plat for the buildings and surrounding grounds. To do all the preliminary work required will take two or three months, but by that time it is expected that all the detail plans will be completed and by early in the fall material for buildings and furnaces, reverbatory and blast, roasters, etc., will no doubt begin to arrive and by the end of the present year the construction work will no doubt be well under way.

Mr. Reppeth, the mechanical engineer in charge, has a good force still in his office in the Brophy-Douglas building working out all the details of the plant and Capt. Greenway is making frequent trips here from the general offices of the company at Warren for consultation.

VERY INGENIOUS MINING DEVICE

Ishpeming, Mich., July 22.—J. M. and O. R. Johnson of this place have recently received patents on a new recording and signalling device for mines. It is not only a signal to the engineer, but faithfully records the action of the skip in the shaft. It accurately tells when the skip is signalled for, from what level, how long it takes to reach its objective point, how long it remains there, and in fact shows its every movement from the time of descent until it delivers its load at the mouth of the shaft. The device also accurately gives the class of ore hoisted, the number of skips handled; will show any delays in the answering of signals; and show, too, just what place the ore came from.

The signalling system shows an oral and visual signal with a pointer operating over a dial. Patents on these dials are soon to be received, having been promised several months ago. There is an arrangement making it possible for an engineer to have a signal repeated in case he may have been absent when one had been given, or for any other reason that might arise. No disarrangement of the recording means will result from such repetition. It is apparent that with this mechanism there is always a check against engineer and men in the mine.

The device is a most ingenious one, a combination of electrical and clockwork mechanism keeping accurate time and perfectly recording the movements of the skip, etc., on a sheet worked in ink both longitudinally and vertically, this sheet being held tightly to a revolving platen and may be of any length desired, although one of twelve hours' duration will probably prove the popular size.

INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL

Of Calumet & Hecla Merger Properties Asked By Stockholder.

Excellent Copper Ground Is Opened at the New Baltic.

Houghton, Mich., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. F. Jackson of the Wisconsin Bridge & Iron company has begun suit against the Calumet & Hecla officials to compel an independent appraisal of the several properties which the Calumet officials and majority interests seek to bring into a consolidation. This suit is said to be a sequel to the suit of G. M. Hyams in the federal circuit court for the Eastern district of Michigan and which was recently decided in favor of the Calumet and defendant companies. Mr. Jackson is the owner of considerable Ahmeek stock. The suit of the Chadbourne heirs, in which an injunction is sought, will come up for final hearing in the supreme court of the state late in August. In this suit the Calumet officials were sucessful to the extent that no injunction was granted in the state circuit court. A similar suit is pending in the state circuit court in Ingham county.

New Baltc.

The New Baltic Copper company has opened excellent copper ground at two points on the 360-foot level in the exploratory shaft sunk in what is generally believed to be an extension of the big Baltic lode. The mineral occurs in the form of heavy shot copper and small masses and makes a very fair showing. The proposition is generally known as a Hayden, Stone & Co. enterprise.

Victoria.

The Victoria Copper Mining company continues to center all activity in the Forest amygdaloid and more recently has succeeded in opening copper ground at points generally thought to be of no promise. A very good showing is at the moment being had in the tenth level. The deeper levels disclose excellent ground in many places but in general show no permanent improvement from that noted in the past. The main shaft remains bottomed at the twenty-second level. The new shaft is down around 700 feet. It discloses nothing in the way of commercial copper ground as far as it has gone, but promises to do so with additional depth.

Wolverine.

The Wolverine Copper Mining company is again sinking in the Osceola lode opened in the new No. 5 shaft. Development work on the first level shows small values in this formation About 600 feet of drifting was done. The company is doing further exploratory work in the horizon east of the main workings on the Kearsarge bed and expects here to open a copper bearing lode previously opened by the Old Colony company and which was said to have made more than an ordinary showing. The Kearsarge lode mine is yielding less copper per ton of rock milled than in former years but is yet among the very richest producers of this district. The average yield for the past year is given at approximately thirty-two pounds mineral per ton of rock mined.

Atlantic.

The Atlantic Mining company has now become a subsidiary of the Copper Range Consolidated company. All underground work was suspended some months ago and promises to remain at a standstill for some time to come. The old management gave the Section 16 property a thorough going over but without good results, and it will be interesting to note the success of the new management than which there is none better and which may confidently be expected to get the best results possible. The Copper Range Consolidated is said to own approximately 80 per cent of the outstanding shares of the Atlantic company.

Ahmeek.

The Ahmeek Mining company is getting better results in every way with each succeeding year. The mine is opened in ground of exceptional richness, as evidenced by the yield for June, which is reported as averaging 29.7 pounds refined copper per ton of rock milled. The present yield of the Calumet & Hecla rock output is but little greater and frequently less. The Ahmeek cost of production is very low and for May is given as 6½ cents, including construction. No other mine in this district, with the possible exception of the Wolverine, produces its copper at such figure. The cost spread over an entire year, however, may be expected to be somewhat greater in both cases, and probably will exceed 7½ cents for such period with Wolverine leading and Ahmeek a close second.

DOUBLE SHIFTS AT MOONLIGHT

Spokane, Wash., July 22.—Two shifts at work on the 1,000-foot extension, which the Moonlight Mining company is driving on the Trade Dollar tunnel, to intersect its own vein at a depth of 600 feet below the old workings, are advancing fully five feet a day. The Moonlight property adjoins the Hercules mine in the Coeur d'Alenes. The company has acquired a lease for forty years on the Trade Dollar tunnel. Experts are enthusiastic over the prospects of this property and even the most conservative declare it will enter the shipping ranks within twelve months. The claims are controlled by Duluth people.

Work with three shifts will be resumed at once on the Tam O'Shanter property, adjoining the Coeur d'Alene Nellie in the Osborne district. Manager Elsman reports that the development will be pushed throughout the year. This was decided at a meeting of the directors on July 10. The drift is in 400 feet and it is expected the ore shoot exposed on the surface will be encountered within 100 feet. The property has one of the best surface showings in the district.

Gold Hunter mill, near Mullan, Idaho, has resumed after a shutdown of two weeks to increase its capacity from 150 tons to 300 tons a day. A sorting plant is being installed and will be ready for operation in thirty days. On its completion the output of the mine will be greatly increased. The Hunter is in excellent condition for progressive development and the new ore body, opened on the 600-foot level, carries good values.

IRON TRADE IMPROVED

Turn for Better Noted in Lake Superior Mining Region.

Dale-Uno in Hibbing District Is New Shipper This Year.

A turn for the better in the iron trade is noted in the Lake Superior mining region. The change is not of great proportions, but it is clearly in the right direction and there is promise it will gain impetus. Ore shipments are more brisk than heretofore this season. During the month of April the mines forwarded only 331,645 tons; in May, 3,684,319, and in June 4,826,505. The movement in July is expected to reach the 6,000,000 ton mark. The outgo for the season is materially smaller than a year ago—the loss Aug 1 probably will approximate 7,000,000 tons—nevertheless there are indications the shipments henceforth will be almost if not wholly on a par with those of 1910, in which event the falling off this season will be considerably less than appeared likely early in the spring. The mines are putting additional steam shovels in commission, the railroads are increasing the number of train crews and more lake carriers are arriving at the upper lake ports.

The Great Northern enjoys the distinction of being the only ore-hauling railroad in the region that is transporting a large traffic from the mines this season than a year ago. Because of its contract with the United States Steel corporation, the provisions of which are well known, it is expected to handle more than 10,000,000 tons at its docks at Superior, Wis. The road already is planning increased shipping facilities. It has room on Allouez bay for one more large dock, and it is reported that this one will be built next year or at least will be in readiness for use in 1913. The bulk of the ore handled by the Great Northern at present is from the Western Mesaba range. The biggest individual shipper is the Steel corporation's Hill mine, which alone this year is expected to send out 2,000,000 tons.

The shipments over the Great Northern have been increasing steadily, until now close to 100,000 tons are leaving the big assembling yards at Kelly Lake daily. This means the use of almost 2,000 cars. The big Mallet engines, of which the road now has a complement of twenty-five or thirty, are more than meeting expectations. They each are hauling a train of 125 loaded cars without trouble. These big engines are not as speedy as the older type of ore locomotive but, their capacity considered, they are much more economical. Trains of 200 empty cars are hauled easily. The engines have fourteen driving wheels and rank with the most powerful locomotives ever built. The Great Northern is employing forty-five train crews and fifty switching crews on its Mesaba range division, and practically all of these are engaged exclusively in the ore service. Among the heaviest shippers are the Dale-Uno, Hill, Leonard, Stevenson, Mahoning, Kinney, Chisholm, Grant, Latonia, Clark, Commodore, Euclid and Albany mines.

Dale-Uno is Active Shipper.

The Dale-Uno is a new shipper this season, notwithstanding which it is one of the most active properties in the Hibbing district. It really consists of two separate mines, located side by side and adjoining the big Mahoning pit. Eight railroad tracks have been put in by the Great Northern to handle the shipments. The Dale-Uno is a Steel corporation property. The shipments over the Steel corporation's own roads—the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Iron Range—have not been particularly brisk to date this year, although rather more activity is noted now than heretofore. The Missabe's assembling yards at Michell, in the outskirts of Hibbing, are very extensive, capable of handling an enormous tonnage, and they have been augmented this season by the opening of the new Hull yards, southeast of town. At the Mitchell there are twenty-four tracks, electric plant, water plant, engine house, round house, coal docks, depot, hotel and dwelling houses. The cost of the yards was in excess of $500,000. At the Hull terminal there are twenty-two tracks. All the ore from the Hull-Rust, the Sellers and the Burt, three of the biggest iron ore pits in the world, is handled through these latter yards.

At its Leonidas property at Eveleth, the Steel corporation is opening a mine which will be one of the very deepest on the Mesaba range. The shaft already is close to the 400-foot point and will be carried down 200 feet further. Twenty additional dwelling houses, making fifty in all, are being erected. At Marble, the Hill mine location on the Western Mesaba range, the Steel corporation is constructing a large hospital building, as well as more boarding houses and dwellings. Three steam shovels are engaged in stripping the Steel corporation's Sparta property. The old townsite, formerly the home of a thriving village has been obliterated, not a single building remaining. The Williams mine at Biwabik, recently restored to the active list, after a suspension of several years, is expected to give steady employment to 200 men. The property is an underground proposition, although opened at shallow depth. It produces a hematite bessemer and non-bessemer ore. The Thomas Furnace of Milwaukee is the operator.

On the Marquette.

Half a dozen steam shovels are now engaged in loading ore from stockpiles on the Marquette range. This is about as many as are employed in normal seasons. There has been an increase in the number of train crews also. Up to this time the Breitung interests have been the heaviest shippers. They were the first to put a steam shovel at work, and this machine has been in operation constantly since the season opened. M. A. Hanna & Co. have two shovels in commission, one each at the American and Richmond mines. The former has been active almost continuously and the ore in stock will be entirely removed to the close of navigation. The Richmond an open pit property, is employing its usual force of men. The Steel corporation is operating shovels at the Lake Superior Hard Ore mine at Ishpeming and the Regent group at Negaunee. Similar work is in progress at the Volunteer Ore company's mine. The largest stockpile on the range is at the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's Lake mine at Ishpeming, where the stocking area is practically exhausted. The ore that is not being shipped direct to the docks is being stocked at Marquette.

The Foster Construction company of Milwaukee has been awarded a contract for the erection of a modern "dry," laboratory, sampling house and warehouse building at the Cleveland Cliffs company's North Lake mine, west of Ishpeming. The dry will be located near the No. 2 shaft, from which ore is now being hoisted. It will be solid brick, 203 feet in length, exclusive of a wing, and will be given a fireproof equipment. In time a building of similar design and dimensions will be constructed for the accommodation of the men at the No. 1 shaft. The ore at this latter point lies considerably deeper and the shaft will not be producing for some time yet. In addition to this work awarded to the Foster company, Ishpeming builders have been given a contract to erect seventeen additional dwellings, fifteen of these will be double houses.

The North Lake mine has only just entered the shipping list, after the expenditure of a great sum of money. The ore lies under a swamp and it is not unlikely that North lake itself will be drained in the near future to permit of mining the deposits beneath it. The mine has been given an expensive plant. The buildings are all of solid brick. The entire plant is operated by electricity. Both shafts have steel head frames. There is perhaps not another iron mine in the Lake Superior region where such a large area is available for stocking grounds. The ore space between the two shafts, a quarter of a mile apart, has been prepared for that purpose, and still other ground can be used if necessary. The location of the town, attractive naturally, is being improved by landscape gardeners. Twenty double houses already have been erected. A waterworks system has been installed, as has eelctrical service. A school building is in course of construction. West of the North Lake the Cleveland Cliffs ompany is opening the Barnes property. While the Barnes has not yet started to ship, shaft sinking and development work are progressing satisfactorily.

Michigamme District.

In the Michigamme district of the Marquette range, only the Cleveland Cliffs company's Imperial mine is producing ore. The Imperial has been exploring with the drill and has been successful in adding some values to former known deposits, but the market does not warrant the operation of the property vigorously. In dull times the low grade ores feel the adversity more than do those of higher grade and the ores of the Michigamme district are low in grade. The Katherine Mining company, which is conducting diamond drilling operations, has located an entirely new run of ore 1,300 feet north of the formation holding the Imperial and Ollio deposits. While it is yet too early to pass judgment on the extent of the discovery, it is important that ore has been found in that particular locality. Michigamme would be greatly benefited had it at least one bessemer producer, and there is a belief that some day such a property will be found.

After having conducted exploratory work nearly a year past, Corrigan, McKinney & Co., have decided to surrender their option on the Barasa mine at Negaunee. A diamond drill has been operated, without success in locating satisfactory ore bodies. There are many who still believe good-sized deposits will some day be found in the Barasa. The property is most favorably located. It adjoins the Negaunee mine on the north and it is adjacent also to the big Mass property. Various interests have had the Barasa under option from time to time, and a great deal of work has been done, yet without satisfactory results. The mine has a fine shaft which was put down by the owners at heavy cost.

The Wickwire Steel company of Buffalo is extending its interests in the Iron river district of the Menominee range. It entered the field some months ago, when it took over the Purcell property, in Section 14, 43-54, adjoining the James and Davidson mines, and it now has acquired two other well-located tracts. One of these is in Section 34, 43-35, midway between the Hiawatha and Sheridan mines, and one is in Section 33, 43-35. All three properties are known to contain ore. The Wickwire company will push exploratory work.

GREENE-CANANEA RESUMES WORK

Operations Begun at Puertocitos Property—Big Mineral Deposits.

Cananea, Mex., July 22.—The Cananea Consolidated Copper company (Greene-Cananea) this week resumed operations at the Puertocios property, which is located at the Western extermity of the district. This property has been idle for over a year and but little work has been done in that locality since that time.

Recently the company decided to do some prospecting on the Puertocitos and it is understood that some gratifying results have been obtained. In fact, it is believed that work is being resumed at the property on account of the ore finds made in that locality.

Operations will be conducted on a larger scale than heretofore and besides the quarrying there will also be sime underground work done.

Heretofore the operations at Puertocitos consisted of quarrying the surface ore, of which there is a body about 800 feet wide, with a bend of richer ore in the center about 200 feet wide and which is thought to pass through the hill, as there is a strong outcrop of richer ore on the other side which is similar n its relation to the poorer ore on either side of it. The amount of ore at this property is immense and it is supposedly the plan of the company to block out this by means of drifts and shafts.

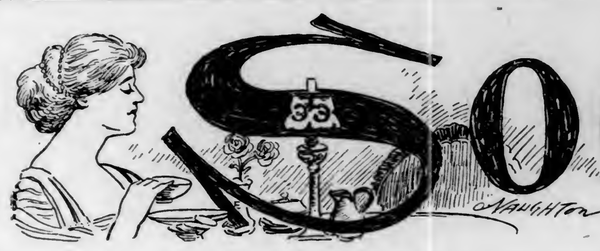

The ore is mined in benches 100 feet apart and up to the time of ceasing operations had advanced 125 feet or more into the ore without a sign of sumface or carbonates. This passing through the carbonates. This blanket is probably 150 to 200 feet on dip and lies like a blanket over the hills. There are three benches, two of which are in ore. It is roughly estimated that there are at least 1,000,000 tons of this ore remaining awaiting transportation to the reduction plant, via the narrow gauge railroad, a distance of about six or seven miles.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Deadwood, S. D., July 22.—Figures given out at the local United States assay office for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, show a bullion total of $1,889,233.32 produced from Black Hills mines from April 1. The figures for the year were not given out, but were understood to be a trifle over $7,000,000. This is the first time that official figures have been given. The figures for the year are the largest actual production the Black Hills has ever had. As the Homesteak, the largest producer, did not begin shipping to the assay office until August the figures might have been higher. At the present rate of production the total for the fiscal year ending next June will reach nearly seven and a half million. This is expected to be increased by several properties that are now rapidly nearing the production point. The present figures cover the Homesteak, Wasp No. 2, Golden Reward, Mogul and Lundberg, Dorr & Wilson properties, with a slight addition from the Golden Slipper. They will be increased this month by the Trojan, formerly the Portland and Clinton at Portland, one of the heaviest shippers in this section, which has been sending everything to Denver. Their new mill will go into commission this month and their product to the assay office.

The Trojan Mining company, operating in the Bald Mountain district, has put into use the first gasolene locomotive engine used in the Black Hills for mine hauling. It is used for transporting ore from the Decorah workings to the mill, 4,500 feet distant through a tunnel just completed.

The North Homesteak Mining company, in the Maitland district, is sinking its main shaft below the 200-foot level and has reached a depth of 320 feet. The company is after the slate formation, where some verticals are known to exist, having been located by the diamond drill at about 400 feet. It is the intention to sink to about the 500-foot level and start development at both 400 and 500 feet.

SOCIETY

OF COURSE, the carnival has been the principal event of the past week, with its attendant informal parties at luncheon and dinner and boating parties for the evenings, but the next week promises much gayety, especially among the younger people. The many out-of-town guests have been generously entertained at both boat and country club.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Denfeld to Irving McLaren Hudson is an event of the near future which is of much interest, and a number of affairs will be given next week for Miss Denfeld. Monday Mrs. W. E. Richardson will be hostess at an afternoon tea in her honor at her home, 2525 East Second street. Miss Wilhelmina Fitger has invitations out for a luncheon Friday at her home, 629 East First street, for Miss Denfeld and her wedding party, and Saturday afternoon Mrs. Fred Downey Rollins of 1809 Jefferson street will give a tea at which Miss Denfeld will be the guest of honor. Other affairs are being planned.

The performance of "Jappyland" which will be given Thursday and Friday nights of next week at the Lyceum theater by about 300 of Duluth's society people for the benefit of the Children's home will be one of the biggest events of the summer socially. The boxes have all been engaged and society will turn out in full evening dress for the event.

There will be a number of private dancing parties at the clubs next week. Miss Helen Williams will be hostess at a dance at the Country club Monday evening, and Miss Emelyn McDougal has invited guests for dancing Tuesday evening at the main house of the boat club.

Motor parties to the surrounding lakes and inns have been much enjoyed, and during the week the Duluth people who visited the Island Lake inn in automobiles were: Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Dowse, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Sellwood, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Luster and M. Veale, who made up a party there Monday. Thursday Dr. J. J. Eckland and party, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilke and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Clough, were guests there.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Denfeld of Hunter's Park have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter Miss Margaret, to Irving McLaren Hudson of Benson, Minn. The event will take place at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening, Aug. 2, at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Faries, pastor of the church will read the service. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Denfeld home, 18 Oxford street and Mr. Hudson and his bride will be at home in Benson, Minn., after Sept. 1.

Several functions are being planned for Miss Denfeld and a large number of relatives and friends are expected from out-of town.

Miss Denfeld will have as her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Katherine Denfeld and the bridesmaids will be Miss Irene Hudson, Miss Emma Waugh, Miss Genevieve Washburn, Miss Anna Macfarlane, Miss Helena Denfeld and Miss Wilhelmina Fitger.

Dr. DeForest Davis of Minneapolis will attend Mr. Hudson as best man.

Announcements have been received here of the wedding of Miss Nellie Josephine Lundberg of Tacoma, Wash., to Walter Allen Reynolds, also of that city. The event took place Monday, July 10 and they will be at home after Aug. 15 at 1604 North Adler street, Tacoma. Miss Lundebrg was a former Duluth girl and left here three years ago for the Western city.

Announcement of a marriage which comes as a great surprise to many here is that of Miss Jane Cox of this city and Edward P. Kennedy of Minneapolis, which took place last week in Minneapolis. Miss Cox is very well known here having been established in the millinery business for some time. Mr. Kennedy was formerly connected with the Holland hotel.

Miss Elsie Silberstein in Historic Eternal City

MISS ELSIE SILBERSTEIN PLAYING SHUFFLEBOARD WITH TWO FRIENDS ON BOARD THE KONIGIN LOUISE.

B. Silberstein has received another interesting letter from his daughter, Miss Elsie Silberstein, who is traveling in Europe and is just now in Italy. Under date of July 6, she writes from Rome:

"We arrived here night before last at 12 o'clock from Naples. I will go back to my visit at Amalfi. We stayed there two nights and a day and the beauty of it just intoxicates one. Sunday morning we took a long walk up the mountain and had an expansive view of the surrounding country. Scattered all over this vicinity are ruined monastaries and stone tables with stone seats, at which the monks used to sit. The cloisters at the Monastry hotel date from the twelfth century. On our return from the walk some of us were thirsty and shook some oranges to refresh ourselves, and arriving at the hotel, they had just picked a platter full of delicious cherries. In the afternoon Miss Raymond, Miss Johnson and myself walked down the terrible 186 steps to the village, but did not stay long. One must only enjoy the beauty of Italy from the outside.

"Monday morning we took a long ride way up the mountains to Revello, a small town three miles from any railway. We had lunch at the Hotel Palumbro, which was formerly the bishop's palace. The hotels are all lovely and first-class in every particular and the view from this place of Salermo bay was lovely. The only structure of interest in Revello is the old cathedral. After resting until 3 o'clock we drove down to La Cava to the Le Landres hotel, where we spent the night. In the morning we took the train for Pompeii. The trains are not so bad, although the carriages are queer and one's traveling companions interesting to watch. My French comes very handy, as so many Italians speak it; in fact, neither my German nor French has been out of place. At Pompeii, which is entered by a long, beautiful passageway with flowers on either side, we spent the morning of the Fourth, (in a very sane way.) I cannot describe in a letter all I saw, but it is all in a fine state of preservation and they are still excavating. In the museums under the grounds, they have loaves of bread, rope, utensils, all found after the earthquake, and there are human forms, showing the agony in which they died. They were made by pouring plaster into the cavities formed by the bodies, which, of course, decayed, but the cavities which they made were preserved by the falling lava. We went to Naples and visited the museum and then did a little shopping. At 6 o'clock we took the train for the Eternal City. It was a long ride. Part of the time we slept and part we sang American songs to celebrate the Fourth, as there were no other signs of it anywhere. We are here for five days, and years of living here could not give one ample time to digest the centuries of civilization realized here. We started yesterday morning and visited the Pantheon and St. Peter's and the latter completely overwhelmed me. You cannot, in the least, imagine the extent and the magnificence of it all. A little time to give you an idea of some of its treasures.

Michael Angelo's Pieta is here; also twelve columns from the Temple of Solomon, numberless large and wonderful mosaics all made at the Vatican.

"We came back to the hotel for lunch and took a rest until 3:30, as that is the hottest part of the day and a good many places close during those hours. We then drove to the Protestant cemetery. Here Keats, Shelley and the Storey family are buried. Then we drove to St. Paul's, the marbles in it are the richest collection in the world. From there we went to the Forum, where we spent the rest of the afternoon. Here are all ruins of the Temple of Castor and Pollux, Vestal Virgins, the Temple of Fortune, the rostrum where Mark Antony's famous oration was given. The modern buildings have been built over these ruins and they are and have been for many years excavating and finding new treasures. At 1 o'clock, which is the promenade hour here, we went to Lacchinis, the famous pearl place, and there was quite a scramble for pearls. Everybody views this place. Mr. Lacchinis is 83 years old and he has seen three popes in state.

"July 8.—Yesterday morning we went to the church of St. Peter, where Michael Angelo's "Moses," and the monument Julius II are. "Moses" is a wonderful statue. Even the veins stand out in relief. In this church are the chains which were supposed to have been brought from Jerusalem and which enchained Peter. From there we went to the Coliseum, and are going to see it again by moonlight some time before we leave. It was built by Jews taken prisoners by Titus, who held 1,000,000 people. We saw one of the cells where the prisoners who were to fight the beasts were kept, the underground passageway, etc. Rome was raptured with the glorification of Nero, Caesar, Constantine, and all the other scoundrels of old. We spent the rest in the morning at the Capitol museum, where the famous statues of the Dying Gladiators, the Faun of Praxiteles, which Hawthorne writes about; Appollo Belvidere and numberless famous pictures. The beautiful monument to Emmanuel II was just dedicated in June.

"Late in the afternoon we viewed several churches and the famous Scala Sancta. The steps which were brought from the house of Pilate and are supposed to have brought stains of Christ on them are here, and the people are only allowed to go up these steps by kneeling on each step. St. Lawrence has a $3,000,000 chapel, the money being given by Catholics from all over the world, and it is all in mosaic, and the church of St. John Lateran is the mother of all the Catholic churches all over the world. Here re-ose the skulls of St. Peter and St. John, and every church has its relics. You cannot move without being annoyed by beggars at every corner within and without.

"I forgot to mention that yesterday morning at the old capitol four of us climbed 216 steps to the belfry and within view of the city. Late in the afternoon we did a little shopping at the Corso, the famous street, and then drove to the Pincio gardens. They were given to the city by the Borghese family. It is surprising how natural one takes the foreign cities and the general aspect is like our cities.. I am enclosing some pictures which I have taken as opportunity offers itself. Will continue in my next letter.

Miss Henrietta Mathiesen

Announces the much-delayed opening of her photograph gallery, 22 West Superior street. Miss Mathiesen has spent a great deal of time and money in equipping this studio in Duluth. She now has one of the nicest, if not the best, gallery to be found in the city.

Unlike many people who open up their business in a new town, Miss Mathiesen has been busy. Her patrons in Superior (where she was formerly located) like her work so well they come to Duluth for it. Especially with the children Miss Mathiesen makes a hit. As a means of getting acquainted she has arranged to give low special rates to the people of Duluth.

"Jappyland," the snappy Japanesy musical comedy to be put on by local talent at the Orpheum theater Thursday and Friday evenings for the benefit of the Children's Home by the American Amusement company of New York, under the personal direction of E. H. Coates, promises to be one of the most brilliant musical extravaganzas ever given on a local stage. From the general trend of rehearsals the choruses and principals have worked out their numbers with a vigor and polish unusual in any amateur production, and with a pretty little plot running through the opera and scores of dainty little specialties following each other in quick succession the evening promises to be one well worth while.

The scene of the opera is laid in the "Island of Dreams," with a stage setting of a cherry blossom grove with wisteria gardens in the distance. This is a Japenese island to which an American yachting party comes, and the contrast of the gorgeous Japanese and Chinese costumes with the wonderful Paris creations and charming costumes to be worn by the choruses, makes a most spectacular scene.

One of the prettiest numbers is the Spanish love dance, full of Spanish dash and abandon, in which twelve of Duluth's prettiest girls in fantastic costumes will dance an intricate and scintillating fandango to the accompaniment of tambourines and castanets. Miss Thelma Gilmore of New York, who sings the prima donna role in this opera, will lead this number with a pretty solo dance and song.

The principal parts of the opera are taken most ably by talanted singers chosen from among the best musical talent of the city augmented with Miss Gilmore, prima donna of New York, who aids Mr. Coats in staging the production, and Ralph Erroll of New York, who is a professional tenor, having sung a leading tenor part in an opera in New York all winter. Miss Patsy Ann Epperson of Louisville, Ky., will also have one of the leading roles. Phillip Gordon Brown, as Emperor, makes a most effective ruler and his splendid baritone voice and his professional training make him exceptionally well suited to his part. Miss Elcey Cole will take the part of the Empress, and looks her part splendidly. C. Herbert Smith makes a very good "Banko," matrimonial advisor, and Mrs. Ralph Erroll, known here as Miss Marie Clark, will sing the part of "Dorothy, an American girl." Other leading parts will be taken by Miss Jean Wanless, Miss Frances Burris, Miss Barbara Rupley, Miss Marie Agatin, James McLennan and little Miss Virginia Harrington.

The girls who will dance in the Spanish number are Misses Marjorie Shiperd, Dorothy Dowse, Marie d'Autremont, Melville Silvey, May Jeffery, Caroline Marshall, Marjorie Morrow, Margaret McKindley, Dorothy Baker, Natalie Smith, Constance Mitchell, Lydia Woodbridge.

PEACE PACT IN TEN DAYS

Taft Makes Prediction in Speech at Bull Run Reunion.

President, Senator Nelson and Others Have Strenuous Auto Trip.

Manassas, Va., July 22.—President Taft announced to the blue and gray veterans here yesterday that France has expressed willingness to enter into the arbitration treaty being negotiated between this country and England and that both treaties will be signed within ten days. He added that he expected at least three other nations to come into the treaty within a few days.

The president's trip from Washington to Manassas would have thrilled the heart of a moving picture man. He left a trail of stranded automobiles in his wake; made perilous voyage across streams out of their banks; stopped on his way to rescue a party of marooned senators—demanding votes for reciprocity as a reward—plowed his way through rainstorms and mud, and finally wheezed into this historic little village at sun-down.

Secret Service Men Stalled.

The car containing the secret service men, which started bravely beside the president as he left the White House, held to the race gamely until within a few miles of the battlefield, and then gave a despairing gasp and stopped in the middle of what once upon a time was a peaceful brook, but which had become a muddy torrent. This stream had daunted the courage of the president's chauffeur, who up to this time had successfully navigated three other fords. So the secret service car was sent ahead to test the depth of the water, and died in the attempt to make the crossing. By a detour the president managed to negotiate this stream at a more shallow point.

Lot of "Stampeders."

Several of the rescued senators stowed away with the secret service men after their auto shipwreck at an earlier ford this time were left stranded with the declaration by the president that they were a lot of "standpatters."

Five miles out of Fairfax, the president's car mounted a hill, dipped down into a valley and discovered a big touring car stalled in the middle of a stream that in ordinary days is two feet wide, but which today was broadened into 100 feet of yellow swirling water. Seated in it calmly awaiting their fate, were three United States senators, Nelson of Minnesota, Bacon of Georgia and Overman of North Carolina and Solicitor General Lehmann, Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, owner of the senatorial car, had abandoned his friends in midstream, and had gone ahead to secure the services of a horse or two to pull them out.

Butt Hero of Hour.

Maj. A. W. Butt, the president's personal aide, took one look at the stream and another at his yellow boots. Then the boots came off and the major was in the torrent up to his waist. He scouted to right and left and finally waded across and back again.

"We can get across," said he, as he came back to the waiting White House car bedraggled but happy. The president raised his hat in dignified fashion.

"Thank you, Major," he said. "Get in and we'll try it."

As he passed Senator Brandegee's machine, the president gravely saluted.

"How do you do senator," he said.

The two machines that had started from Washington with the president made the ford in short order. On the further bank they stopped. Passing carriages were called into service and those marooned were lightered to shore.

Senator Nelson was taken into the president's car. He took glances at his colleagues, sat back comfortably, took a fresh chew of tobacco and was prepared for the worst.

Two miles further south the scene was repeated. This time the attempt at fording failed miserably in spite of Maj. Butt's gallant efforts to find a sounding. One of the three cars was sent ahead manned by secret service men only. It died in the channel and the secret service men waded back to shore.

Farmers as Spectators.

Maj. Butt, wet to the armpits, came back disconsolate to meet the president's salute. At this crossing a few neighborhood farmers with their wives had gathered, checked also in their efforts to get to Manassas. They looked at the president in awe and at the major in some amusement.

"Hasn't he got handsome feet?" said one as she gazed at the unshod feet of the aide.

Back over the same road they had just traveled, the White House car, now containing another senator, traveled with care. Behind it came a second car, loaded with more senators and secret service men. At the ford they had crossed a short time before they had to resort once again to horse and carriages, but once across they got into the machines again and by another road sought the battlefield.

Hung Socks on Wind Shield.

Maj. Butt, wet to the skin, hung his socks on the wind shield of the president's car. At times he was forced to quit the car to quiet frightened horses, for the law of Virginia requires an automobilist to perform this duty, and the president would obey it. Representative Carlin of Virginia, who started with the president, alternated with the major in calming horses and trying to look happy.

When the president finally chugged into Manassas, Senators Martin and Nelson, Representative Carlin, Secretary Hittes and Maj. Butt—with his boots on again—were the only survivors. The rest were somewhere in the disastrous rear, stuck in the Virginia roads or the Virginia creeks.

IF one should speak in a general way of men who have trained others for their life work, the average person would probably think of schoolmasters or college professors. And yet some of the men who have been most successful in training others have not been educators in the professional sense. They are men who by personal influence, by example and by precept have instilled their lessons at the work bench, in the law office, or at the desk. A man may be very successful in his own work, of course, without being able to impart the secret of his success to other men, or to stimulate them to achievements like his own. But some of the most prominent and successful men of the day have shown that they possess this peculiar ability in a very marked degree and they may rightly be called great trainers of men.

A Trainer of Great Legal Minds.

The training that they received in the practice of the law under the guidance of William B. Hornblower played an important part in shaping the careers of four distinguished men. One is now an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. Another is attorney general of the United States. Another has won fame as a special prosecutor for the government of anti-trust cases, and the fourth dide recently while holding the office of solicitor general of the United States. All four of them served their apprenticeship in Mr. Hornblower's office in New York.

While these proteges of Mr. Hornblower attained greater success—if office holding be taken as the criterion—than Mr. Hornblower himself attained, it is a mere accident of politics that this is the case; for if it had not been for peculiar political complications in New York state, in the days of the late David B. Hill's ascendancy, Mr. Hornblower would himself have been an associate justice of the United States supreme court. For many years he has been acknowledged one of the leaders of the New York bar, and a jurist of the first rank.

He comes of a New Jersey family that was prominent successively in the Federal, Whig and Republican parties. Mr. Hornblower himself went over to the Democratic party on the tariff issue, but his politics has always been of a very independent sort, and in New York city he has figured prominently in several of the non-partisan movements against Tammany hall. It was the part he took in the New York Bar Association movement in opposition to the presidential candidacy of David B. Hill that prevented him from becoming a United States supreme court justice. When President Cleveland sent Hornblower's name to the senate, Hill had become a member of that body, and he opposed the confirmation of the appointment. Senatorial courtesy did the rest, and Mr. Hornblower was rejected.

Mr. Hornblower was one of the most prominent and busy of the younger lawyers of New York city, when Charles E. Hughes, now on the supreme court bench, became managing clerk in his office. Mr. Hornblower was at first more struck with the genial nature of the young lawyer than he was with the serious studious side of his character. Mr. Hughes could stop in the midst of a most serious and perplexing piece of work to chat pleasantly or joke with any one who came in. Mr. Hornblower soon perceived that this little characteristic was an indication of mental strength—of an unusual and peculiar poise resulting from a remarkable control of his intellectual faculties on the part of the young lawyer. Mr. Hughes, in fact, could lay down an involved and difficult train of thought and take it up again without the slightest inconvenience. He was one of those men of such perfect self-control that they are not disturbed by interruptions.

A somewhat different impression was made by Attorney General Wickersham when as a young man he entered Mr. Hornblower's office. He was much more serious in manner than Hughes, and seemed much less able to relax mentally. It is a curious thing that the later and popular impression of the two men should have been so completely the reverse of that made by their personalities on Mr. Hornblower in those early days; yet, as a matter of fact, they have not changed essentially.

Between Henry W. Taft, who is a younger brother of President Taft, and who entered Mr. Hornblower's office about this time, and Mr. Wickersham there sprang up a very warm friendship. Mr. Taft is one of the best known of the younger members of the New York bar today, and he has figured as counsel in many cases of far-reaching importance. He served as special assistant to the attorney general of the United States in the investigation and prosecution of the tobacco trust. Several times he has been very seriously considered for the Republican nomination for governor of New York.

The late Lloyd W. Bowers, who was United States solicitor general from early in 1909 until his death last summer, was for a time managing clerk in Mr. Hornblower's office. Had he lived a little longer Mr. Bowers would in all probability have been appointed a member of the supreme court of the United States.

To the training of such men as these, Mr. Hornblower brought a peculiar, sympathetic insight that enabled him to measure the temperamental and intellectual qualities of each. He is singularly lucid in the exposition of legal principles, and the application of them to particular cases, and those who associated with him learned much, both as to theory and practice, that they could not glean from books.

Edison's Methods as a Trainer of Men.

It is a fact not generally appreciated, probably, that Thomas A. Edison, great as he is as an inventor, is almost equally as great as a trainer of men. Almost all those who in the formative years of their lives were associated with him in his work have risen to positions of great prominence and wealth, and among the men who stand today at the head of the profession of electrical engineering, who are acknowledged as among the highest authorities on electricity, or who are directing great industrial enterprises depending on the utilization of electricity, some of the most notable are proud to name Edison as their teacher.

It is somewhat of an anomaly that a self-trained man, such as Edison is, should be an almost ideal trainer of other men. The fact is suggestive of the towering intellect of the master inventor, of the extraordinary powers of inductive and constructive reasoning that are his. But Edison's success as a trainer of men has been due to more than his genius as an inventor. It has been due quite as much perhaps to a quality of personal magnetism, a natural capacity for leadership, which have made it easy for him to inspire those associated with him with his own enthusiasm, and make them take almost instinctively to his own methods of work. Mr. Edison's assistants in the work on many of his greatest inventions were for the most part men of about his own age. Some of them had received technical educations before they went to him. Some of them were masters of learned ways of doing things which could serve them in situations where Edison himself would have to fall back on native ingenuity or common sense. But always Edison was regarded as the master spirit in each undertaking.

Menlo Park, N. J., where for some years before he moved them to West Orange, N. J., Mr. Edison had his workshop and laboratories, was, in fact, a sort of university where the most valuable thing acquired was something that has been spoken of as the "Edison spirit." This was, first of all, an enthusiasm and a concentration of effort that knew no weariness until the object sought had been attained, which could keep Edison himself at work continuously for five days and nights, for example, on a single problem. Secondly, it was a passion for thoroughness, which could be satisfied with no solution of a difficulty but the right one. Edison taught his associates to attack a problem with the dash of a cavalry leader, and at the same time with the cool calculation of a commander planning for a long siege.

Fame and Fortune Through Edison Training.

At a single bench in Edison's shop there worked at one time three men all of whom attained fame and fortune. One of these was Sigmund Bergmann, who later assisted Edison in the development of his electric lighting system, and became a master of the whole subject. Mr. Bergmann is now the head and principal owner of electric lighting works in Berlin, Germany, which employ 10,000 men. The late John Kruesi was another. It was Kruesi who made the parts for the first phonograph, Mr. Edison has told with enjoyment of the astonishment of the young German when he heard the phonograph talk for the first time. Edison had not informed Kruesi what the purpose of the machine was until they had set it up. Kruesi said he didn't believe it would work. But the very first time Edison tried it the words came with perfect clearness. For a moment Kruesi stared, and then said slowly and solemnly: "Mein Gott in Himmel!"

Mr. Kruesi afterwards became chief engineer of the General Electric works at Schnectady.

A young man named Schuckert, a native of Nuremberg, was the third member of this trio. After being with Edison for some time he returned to his native city where he established the extensive electric works of which he is today the head, and which, with one exception, are the largest in all Germany.

A man of multifarious achievements who had the benefits of Edison's training is Frank J. Sprague. As an engineer and inventor Mr. Sprague is as well known in Europe as he is in this county. He was educated at the United States naval academy, and was a lieutenant in the navy for a time, but resigned to go with Edison. He was one of Edison's chief assistants in the perfecting of inventions pertaining to electric railways, and it is with the development of electric railways that his name is chiefly associated. He constructed in Richmond, Va., the first trolley road that was put in operation in this country, and he is the inventor of the multiple unit system of operating electric trains now extensively employed. It is to him that the modern high-speed electric elevator is due, and he was a pioneer in the application of electricity to naval uses. He is consulting engineer to a number of the largest electric industrial corporations in the country.

"Whatever knowledge I have of the electric light and power industry I owe to Thomas A. Edison," was a statement made recently by Samuel Insull, who is president of more big electric light, power and traction companies than a man could count on the fingers of his two hands. Mr. Insull was born in London and educated at Oxford. He came to this country as a very young man to become private secretary to Mr. Edison, and became virtually his business manager, representing him in various organizations formed for the manufacture or exploitation of his inventions. Mr. Insull's career has been identified with the business rather than the technical side of electrical development, but the training he received when he was with Edison was one of the things that especially fitted him for the positions he now holds.

John W. Lieb, Jr., now one of the best known experts in matters pertaining to electric power and lighting, and an officer in many electric corporations, was employed first as a mechanical draftsman by Mr. Edison. He was soon selected to take charge of the first electric lighting station that Mr. Edison put up, and he assisted in experiments that were made there. Among his notable achievements were the installation of an electric lighting system and a trolley system in Milan, Italy.

Among other famous pupils of Edison are Dr. Edward G. Acheson, who is the inventor of carborundum, siloxicon and other valuable substances, and has built electric light plants in Italy and in France. T. C. Martin, who was for many years editor of the Electrical World; Arthur E. Kennelly, who laid the Vera Cruz-Frontera-Campeche cable for the Mexican government, and is the author of many works on electricity; S. S. Wheeler, who has taken a prominent part in the development of the electric motor, and William J. Hammer, who established in London the first central station in the world for incandescent electric lighting.

A Trainer of Bank Presidents.

Algernon Sydney Frissell for more than thirty-five years has been president of the Fifth Avenue bank of New York, an institution that is noteworthy for two reasons. In the first place, its stock is quoted higher than that of any other bank in New York, its surplus and undivided profits aggregating an amount more than twenty-two times as large as its capital. In the second place, it has been a remarkable school for successful bankers, and a list of all the men who have gone from it to accept high positions in other similar institutions would be a long one, and would include presidents, vice presidents and cashiers of many of the greatest banks in New York, and hence of the nation.

Mr. Frissell has long had among bankers the reputation of being a great trainer of men, and he has often been appealed to by heads of other banks to supply men for important positions. The late Frederick D. Tappan, for instance, when a vacancy occurred in the office of cashier of the Gallatin National bank, of which he was president, went to Mr. Frissell.

"Haven't you a man in your bank whom you could recommend for cashier of the Gallatin?" he said.

Mr. Frissell had just such a man. His name was Samuel Wolverton. Mr. Wolverton was made cashier of the Gallatin bank, and he succeeseded to the presidency of that bank on the death of Mr. Tappan. A man of singular force and firmness, broad of view, yet conservative, Mr. Wolverton is one of the strong personalities in the banking world today.

James G. Cannon, president of the Fourth National Bank of New York city, is one of the men now prominent in the financial world who owe something to training received while they were associated with the institution of which Mr. Frissell is the head. Mr. Cannon is known not only as a practical banker, but as a speaker of ability, who in public addresses treats business and financial problems with rare powers of exposition and analysis.

William H. Porter went from the Fifth Avenue bank to a small bank, and from there to the nationally famous Chemical National bank, of which he is now president. There was a time when to be president of the Chemical bank was to have attained the summit of success in the banking world. The era of great consolidations in the banking business, which resulted in the formation of banking institutions of a magnitude undreamed of before, has created new heights for the banker's ambition to aspire to, but the presidency of the Chemical bank is nevertheless a position of very great honor today.

Horace M. Kilborn, vice president of the National City Bank of New York city, the country's largest bank, was also trained in the banking school of Mr. Frissell. It has been said that to be chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives is equivalent in honor to being a member of the president's cabinet, and it might be said likewise that to be a vice president of the National City bank, that giant among banks, is a distinction as great as being president of any one of a number of big banks.

Another protege of Mr. Frissell who has become prominent is Samuel S. Campbell, president of the Night and Day bank of New York city, which was organized by the late E. H. Harriman to accommodate people who could not conveniently bo business in regular banking hours.

Trained to Quick Thinking.

Two of the qualities that Mr. Frissell seems to be especially successful in developing in those who come under his training are the ability to think and decide quickly and a pleasing personal address. These qualities are very strongly marked in the eminent bankers who have had his tuelage; they are qualities that Mr. Frissell emphasizes as specially valuable to a banker.

An amusing story of a young employee of the Fifth Avenue bank is not inapropros here; it illustrates how Mr. Frissell inculcates some of his lessons. The telephone rang one day when the young employee was especially busy, and he had to stop work to answer it. The person calling wanted to find out about some matter of business in the bank.

"I don't know a dam thing about it," the young man said impatiently.

"What's that?" came the voice over the wire. "This is Mr. Frissell, the president of the bank speaking."

"Wrong number! Ring off!" the young man replied on the instant, and hung up the receiver.

A few seconds later the telephone rang again as he expected it would. The bank president repeated his question and this time he got the information he was seeking.

The young man's ready wit had saved him from an awkward situation. He was already pretty adept in quick thinking, but he learned on this occasion a lesson in the value of always having a pleasant personal address that he was not likely to forget.

Mr. Frissell is a stickler for punctuality, but while fastidious even in the smallest matters, he encourages those under him to acquire breadth of view by interesting themselves in affairs beyond the immediate range of their business. He himself has been actively interested in civil service reform, and various philanthropic and educational undertakings, and he is especially interested in the work that is being done by his brother, Rev. H. B. Frissell, as principal of Hampton Institute.

The Stage's Great Trainer.

David Belasco is famous as a dramatic author and manager, but his achievements as a writer and producer of plays are almost equaled by what he has accomplished as a trainer of men. The greatest success of some of the best known actors of the past twenty-five years followed the association of those actors with Mr. Belasco.

Perhaps the most striking illustration of Mr. Belasco's powers of training those with whom he works is afforded by the career of David Warfield. He discovered Warfield doing character sketches on the vaudeville stage, recognized his talent and decided to make a star of him. The result was that Warfield, who had been noted chiefly as one who was very clever in the humorous protrayal of quaint types, became in a few years an emotional actor of great power.

E. H. Sothern, early in his career, was presented by Mr. Belasco in one of Belasco's own plays, "Lord Chumley." Although Mr. Sothern had been previously well known as an actor, his great success as a star began at that time.

Several famous women players have been greatly influenced, if not entirely made, by the training of Mr. Belasco. Mrs. Leslie Carter, Blanche Bates and Henrietta Crossman are some of those who have been presented by him.

Mr. Belasco moulds a player to his ideal much as a sculptor shapes a perfect form from the marble, with an infinite number of delicate strokes. A touch here, a suggestion there, every detail studied out with ceaseless care—that is his method.

A Great Trainer in the Cabinet.

A trainer of men whose position is in many respects unique, is James Wilson, secretary of agriculture since the beginning of McKinley's first administration. If among those who have benefited by his training there are not to be found men who have won great fame, like the proteges of the other great trainers who have been mentioned, this is due to the fact that agriculture is a pursuit that does not naturally lead to fame though it may lead to wealth. On the other hand, those whom he has helped to success are a multitude. They are to be counted by thousands. Mr. Wilson's influence as a trainer of men has probably been more far-reaching than has that of any other living man in this country, and if the farmers this year are going to raise crops whose total value will reach the staggering sum of ten billion dollars, as now seems probable, Mr. Wilson's training will have contributed very considerably to the result.

Secretary Wilson is no mere theorist. He is a practical, successful farmer himself, and while he is, in his official capacity, first of all an administrator and director of scientific work, he aims at getting in personal touch with the farmer as a means of achieving the greatest practical results. And he does get in personal touch with them, and that is one of the secrets of his success.

One of the very greatest of living trainers of men is, of course, James J. Hill, the great railroad builder and developer of the Northwest. Andrew Carnegie, who drilled such men as Charles M. Schwab and William E. Corey, and made them masters of the steel business, is another. The late A. J. Cassatt, as president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and before that as general manager and vice president, was the equal of either Mr. Hill or Mr. Carnegie in the educative influence he exerted on the men under him. This was strikingly shown by the fact that the great terminal improvements of the Pennsylvania railroad at New York, which he conceived and planned, were not interrupted in the slightest by his death which occurred when the great work was in its early stages. So thoroughly had Mr. Cassatt trained the men under him that they were able with no difficulty to go on with the work just as he had planned it. It was carried on to completion by Samuel Rea, second vice president of the Pennsylvania, who had the benefit of Mr. Cassatt's training in a special degree.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

BOOM IN BUILDING LINE BEING FREELY PREDICTED

Architects State That Fall Rush Will Soon Be in Order.

Many Building Permits Were Issued During the Past Week.

There has been a considerable clearing up in the building atmosphere during the past week, and according to statements from leading architects of the city, there is now about to start a little boom in the construction of buildings.

Several small jobs were let during the week, and others are ready to be awarded within the next week or ten days. The encouraging feature in the building line, is that nearly ever architectural firm has now on the boards plans for jobs which will materialize.

During the quiet times there seems to be a tendency on the part of prospective builders to have the architects prepare plans for them, but like many other adventures in the business lines, they have fallen through after the plans were made. However, the architects state that there is a change in this regard now, and nearly everything that they are working on will be carried out this fall.

During the past week the building inspector's office has been fairly busy issuing permits. There were twenty-six issued, with a total estimated expenditure of $92,100, which is a very fair week. The amount was swelled by the permit taken out by the Northern Storage company, which is constructing a seven-story brick and reenforced concrete building at Seventh avenues west on the bay front. The permit for this was $45,000.

Among the other permits was one for $10,000, taken out by Edward Wendorf, who is erecting a brick apartment house on Jefferson street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east.

The plans for H. B. Fryberger's new brick residence, to be erected at Columbus and Melrose streets, in Woodland, have been completed by W. A. Hunt, architect, and bids will be received on Monday, Aug. 1. When finished it will have cost about $30,000 and will be one of the handsomest residences in that section.

Work was started during the past week on the addition of two stories to the Wolvin building, by George H. Lounsberry, the contractor. The addition will make the building ten stories high, and will cost about $100,000. The same material will be used in the addition as in the rest of the building, and it will be the best that can be bought.

J. J. Wangenstein expects to have the plans for the new manufacturers' building, to be erected on the southeast corner of Second street and Second avenue west, completed during the coming week, and ready for the figures of contractors. It is to be a four-story building, of steel frame, stone and brick, costing about $100,000.

Figures for the one-story addition to the Massachusetts Realty company's one-story building at Tenth avenue east and Fourth street will be received by the architects, Frank L. Young & Co., which are well arranged and equipped in the most modern way. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

These architects received a wire from the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company, to prepare plans for twelve frame dwellings to be constructed at Spooner, Minn. They are also preparing plans for a $5,000 residence to be erected at Thirtieth avenue east, between Superior and First streets.

The biggest contract let during the week by local architects was that of the new Eveleth grade schools, plans for which were prepared by Bray & Nystrom, and awarded last evening at the range city. The estimated cost of the building is $60,000. John Donland of Superior was the lowest bidder for the general contract, his bid being $4,870. Joseph Polak of Biwabik was awarded the plumbing contract at $3,200, and the heating plant will be installed by the Northern Plumbing & Heating company of Eveleth for $7,618. The other contracts will probably be awarded today.

The building will have ten rooms for grade work and a large gymnasium, 30 by 70 feet. The other feature of the building is that a playroom has been planned for the boys and another for the girls, off the side of each there being a large toilet room with several shower baths. In every detail it will be one of the best and most modern schools in the northern part of Minnesota, and is of brick and terra cotta, and a steel frame.

P. M. Olson, architect, has just completed plans for a brick and stone two-story building to be erected by C. G. & R. G. Mellin on the upper side of Fifth street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues east, at a cost of about $6,000, bids for which will be received next Friday.

Mr. Olson is also preparing plans for a single and stucco bungalow to be built at the Crescent View park for H. W. Hodgdon, costing about $7,000.

Plans are also in the course of preparation by Mr. Olson for a brick and stucco residence for C. E. Erlson, costing about $7,500, to be erected on Second street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues east. Bids will be received next week.

Th plans for the T. F. McCarthy residence at Twenty-seventh avenue east and Seventh street have been completed by Mr. Olsen and bids will be taken next week. It will be of brick and stucco, costing about $8,000.

The Duluth Marine Supply company is having plans prepared for a big brick and reinforced concrete building to be erected at the foot of Fifth avenue west, to replace the building which was destroyed a week ago Wednesday by the fire which swept the water front.

A. Terryberry, architect, yesterday completed plans for a frame dwelling to be constructed by A. T. Carlson at the Highland division at Duluth Heights, which will cost about $2,500. He has also finished plans for a frame dwelling for Mrs. Herman Beiger, to be built at Sixteenth avenue east and Fourth street for $3,000, and let the contract to Fraser & Falkner. Mr. Terryberry also made plans for a frame house for Joseph Roth, to be erected at Eighth avenue east and Sixth street, for $3,500.

C. F. Colman has taken out a permit for the construction of four frame dwellings to be built on the Colman's addition, at a cost of $6,500. Work has already been started on the houses.

Work has been begun on the brick flat for Henry Fee, on Superior street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues east, the permit having been issued during the past week for $6,000

The St. Stephen's German Lutheran church of West Duluth has taken out a permit for the building of a frame residence on Fifty-eighth avenue west between Main and Nicollet street, for $2,000.

* * *

J. S. Hoppa is building a frame residence on First avenue ast, between Seventh and Eighth streets, costing $2,000.

Arthur Hanford, architect, is receiving bids for the following frame dwellings: William Fenstermacker, a one and a half story building at Seventh street and Eighteenth avenue east, costing $2,000; R. P. McDermott, at Twenty-second avenue east and Fifth street, costing $3,000, and Sidney B. Suydam, 220 East Fifth street, for $4,000.

* * *

J. R. McGiffert will construct a $11,000 residence in the Normal school district, plans for which are being prepared by Anthony Puck & Holstead. Bids will be called for in the course of a week or two.

The Thompson Furniture company of New Duluth has had plans made for a $10,000 plant to be built at Commonwealth avenue and Hurd street.

Otto Krueger of New Duluth has started work on a $3,000 one-story brick block on Commonwealth avenue.

HAVE YOU READ ABOUT "RIP?"

Who has not read that charming and quaintly told tale of Dutch life, "Rip Van Winkle," from the pen of Washington Irving?

"Rip" fell asleep in the Katskill Mountains, awakening twenty years later; and, after picking his way painfully back, found the village changed almost beyond recognition, nearly every landmark gone.

If one had fallen asleep eleven months ago in Colman's Addition at Woodland, and awakened today, the senses would be astounded at the marvelous changes wrought here in this short time.

Where, less than a year ago, virgin forest and tangled brush grew in wildest confusion, today many comfortable homes are picturesquely set; where then solemn silence was unbroken save for the sound of forest creatures, today the voices of children in gleeful play, and the sounds of a hundred men at work, fill the air with gladness and vibrant activity.

$20,000 ARE BEING SPENT NOW
for home building, water and gas-main laying. Being most favorably situated—no lot lying more than three blocks from the car line—it will be only a very short while before home-builders, wishing to locate in this ideal, desirable home-center, will be too late. Arrangements with us must be made at once. Come today.

FORCEFUL FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING:
Colman's Addition is the Fastest Growing Addition in Duluth. A wilderness less than a year ago—today the stte of many new homes. Graded Streets. Sidewalks. Water. Gas. Telephone. Electric Light. No lot lies more than three blocks from the street car line.

Prices, $175 to $300. Easy terms, $1.50 to $2.50 a week. No interest — no payments when sick.

HOW TO GO:
Take Woodland car, get off at Winona Street, walk two blocks West and call at the log cottage and we will gladly show you over the addition.

HOME FOR LOT ON UPPER SIDE OF STREET WHICH WOULD COST $6,000

Here is a somewhat unique and novel plan for a house on the upper side of the street on a narrow inside lot. Such problems are not infrequent and this is a carefully worked out solution. The entrance is on the side and so places the sunroom, living room, hall and dining room axially which would give a very pleasing and spacious effect to the interior.

The arrangement of the rooms works out excellently, and there could be a servant's bedroom and store room in the large attic.

The exterior walls would be constructed of terra cotta hollow tile blocks finished with plaster applied directly to the blocks for interior finish, and externally finished with rough cast stucco. The partitions, floors and roof would be constructed of wood framing.

The finish of living room, hall and dining room would be in oak. The kitchen and pantry in birch, and the bedroom in pine for white enamel.

Such a house would cost to build inclusive of heating and plumbing $6,000 in Duluth or vicinity.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENTS

Duluth Dealers Quit Work to Attend Carnival—St. Louis County Garden Produce Profits—Duluth and the Building Managers.

THE mid-summer water carnival, which closes today, has been a great factor in the boosting of the city, and real estate men have made good use of their time showing the many visitors the many advantages that Duluth has over other cities for investment of capital and labor, and the brilliant opportunities to enter business here.

Many of the offices were closed or left in the care of the office boy, while the members of the firms entertained their friends at the carnival and on sight-seeing trips throughout the city. This affords them ample opportunity to interest the strangers in Duluth and plant the seed, which will undoubtedly grow, for their ultimate coming to the Zenith City.

THE reports that are continually coming from farmers within the vicinity of Duluth are attracting considerable interest for they show what is possible here.

The big crops of head lettuce which G. G. Hartley is raising on his farm at Island, with its profit for this year between $10,000 and $15,000, are enough to make any one's eyes open. The garden produce raised at the Head of the Lakes is far superior to any produced in other parts of the country, and this is proven by the fact that it is in great demand, and in fact, the demand cannot be met, for enough is not raised. The Hartley farm will produce about 8,500 bushels this year, and other farms will increase this greatly, but the demand is for the carload lots, all of which is going to Chicago, St. Louis and other cities in that locality. The reason assigned for the good quality of the produce of the Duluth lands is that the weather here is cool, with sufficient rains to bring everything to maturity, while farther south the heat is such that the truck must be picked before it is ripe because otherwise it will spoil.

The many things which have been put on the market from the lands about Duluth are evidence enough that it pays to be a farmer in Northern Minnesota.

WHITNEY WALL returned during the week from Cleveland, where he attended the fourth annual convention of the National Building Managers. He reports there were about 250 in attendance, representing practically every large city of the United States and Canada. The membership fee to the association is now only $10, and this will be raised probably next year. Mr. Wall is interested in getting many Duluth men to join, and he hopes to have enough of them by the time for the next convention, which will be held at Seattle, and to induce them to attend, so that the sixth annual convention can be landed for Duluth. At every meeting he has boosted this city and has urged that the convention come here, but so far he has not succeeded, although he has managed to draw a few votes. The managing of buildings has become a profession and the recognition of this has been made by the government, which at the last convention asked that a committee be appointed and sent to Washington to look over the plans for government buildings which are now being planned.

Before this convention, Mr. Wall read an interesting paper on "Management and the Charting of Reports." Many of the leading building managers and real estate men of the country read papers on subjects relating to the mangement of buildings.

THE annual convention of the National Real Estate Exchanges association, closes today at Denver, after a most profitable week's gathering. Several hundred men from all parts of the country were gathered there, many of whom spoke on important subjects. Duluth was represented at the convention by N. J. Upham and T. W. Wahl.

MANY "PROSPECTS" AMONG DULUTH CARNIVAL GUESTS

Real Estate Men Impressing Duluth's Possibilities on Summer Visitor.

Activity of Past Week Confined Chiefly to Suburban Districts.

Taking advantage of the midsummer dullness, nearly every real estate man has been devoting his attention to the sports that have been occurring during the latter part of the week at the Duluth Boat club. Thousands of people have visited the city, many of whom are largely interested in the business affairs of Duluth, and some of whom are good "prospects" for purchase of real estate. These men have been well cared for by the dealers in realty, and have been shown some of the big bargains now floating about.

Several dealers have exceptional offers to make in vacant lots. One prominent real estate man stated yesterday that there are in Duluth today more real bargains than the city has ever before had, due principally to the fact that owners are in need of immediate cash to carry on other deals which they have under consideration.

The bulk of the week's business was confined to the sale of lots in the different districts about the outskirts of the city. Little interest has been shown in the central properties, although one firm stated that there are now under way four deals, none of which, however, is on Superior street.

The four deals which have been pending for the Superior street properties, are still under fire, and there is some question whether the owners care to dispose of their holdings. The prices offered, are said to be fair ones, but owners of Superior street frontage do not seem inclined to sell.

Interest in the lands about the steel plant is still growing, and the agents for different divisions about the plant are continually receiving numerous inquiries regarding the land and the possibilities. Many deals are being closed up every week, and new prospects are appearing, many of whom are intending immediate improvement.

During the past week, A. C. Volk & Co., who are representing the Gary First division, sold twelve lots in this division, the purchasers of which intend to build. Anton Gerzin, a range man, who recently purchased a 33 foot lot from this firm has plans for a two story boarding house, costing $4,000, to be erected there soon.

Among the improvements that are being made there is the construction of the concrete culvert, to replace the old bridge which burned, north of Gary. The ends will be filled in.

A deal was closed by A. C. Volk & Co., with a Gary, Ind., party for a lot in the First division, upon which a two story business block is to be erected.

Activity in the Norton Steel Plant addition, which is represented by A. W. Kuehnow, is continuing. This week five sales of lots were closed up, making 185 lots sold in all since March 1. Many buildings are now in the course of construction, and more are planned. Among those which have been finished within the past six months in the Norton Steel Plant addition are a hotel of twenty-four rooms, with a restaurant and barber shop, at Ninty-sixth avenue west; two boarding houses at Ninty-seventh avenue; two boarding houses and a residence on Crestline court; three dwellings on Ninty-eighth avenue; a general store, hotel, two boarding houses and fifteen small dwellings on Commonwealth avenue.

The return to the three cent fares on the railroads has put a new phase to the activity about the steel plant. There are about 700 men working on the day and night crews which are constructing the big $25,000,000 steel plant many of whom are living in West Duluth, because they have been unable to secure accommodations in the vicinity of where they work.

The additional fare has increased their expenses, and many are now planning to purchase lots and build near the plant. This means that within a short time many dwellings will be under the course of construction and also mean the influx of more stores and a greater business center.

On the Duluth Heights there is a little boom on in the large lots and acreage lands, and the N. J. Upham company report that business in Home Acres has ben fairly lively during the week, several deals having been closed, and many still pending. The Highland company, which has a large division on the Heights, also reports considerable business there, and a number of homes under construction.

Business in the lands east of the Woodland car line received a boost during the week, as a result of the sale of 160 acres of land to C. F. Colman. It adjoins the Colman addition.

William M. Prindle & Co. report the sale of twenty lots in the Crescent View park during the past week, nearly all of which will be improved during the fall and winter. This company will also open up a new section of land which has been platted into tracts of two and a half acres each. The land is described as section 24-51-14, and is near the lands which were sold by this company in five acre tracts about two years ago.

Charles P. Craig & Co. report that several big sales are pending and will probably be closed during the first part of next week. The Lakeside Land company has been doing a fair business, several contracts having been closed for lots, and including contracts for buildings. Several Greysolon farms were sold.

TWO CLASSES OF WALKERS.

Los Angeles Times: James M. Beck, the famous corporation lawyer of New York, is a native of Philadelphia, and to Philadelphia he often returns to see his old friends.

Mr. Beck, at a recent banquet in Philadelphia, defended corporations with an epigram.

"The trust buster and the Socialist may do what they please," he said, "but mankind will still be divided into two great classes—those who walk to get an appetite for their dinner, and those who walk to get a dinner for their appetite."

BACTERIA IN ICE CREAM

Nearly Eleven Million Germs Per Centimeter in One Sample.

Half Million Is Limit Allowed By the Pure Food Law.

One sample of ice cream taken July 19 by the health department showed 10,900,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, acording to the report received by Health Commissioner Webster this morning. The limit allowed by the pure food law is 500,000 bacteria.

The ice cream was manufactured by Murray Bros., located at West Duluth. Another sample manufactured by the same firm showed the presence of 4,300,000 bacteria, as counted by the local laboratory. Another sample was taken from ice cream shipped into Duluth by J. S. Drake of Hinkley, showing 2,300,000 bacteria.

Following several complaints made to The Herald, and transferred to the health department, of sickness resulting after the eating of ice cream cones, samples of ice cream were taken in different parts of the city by an inspector from the health department. Both the cones and the ice cream were analyzed, and the indications thus far are that the trouble was probably caused by the ice cream and not the cones.

The presence of over 10,000,000 bacteria is considered by officials as being very unfavorable. They state that the count should not run over the limit set by law, 500,000. Even that, they say, is a sign that the ice cream, or milk or cream, is not in proper condition. The places of the persons who manufactured the ice cream showing the millions of bacteria will be thoroughly investigated and such changes as are necessary will be ordered.

Several samples of ice cream manufactured by the Bridgeman-Russell company were taken. They proved satisfactory, the tests running from 125,000 to 190,000 bacteria. At the foot of the report the statement is made that the samples were brought into the laboratory July 19 in a partly melted condition.

MARINE

WIRELESS ON THE CANADIAN BOATS

Northern Navigation Co. Will Install Operators on Passenger Carriers.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—General Manager Holton of the Northern Navigation company announced here this morning that the company would erect a wireless station here within the next two months. He also announced that wireless outfits and operators would be placed on the steamers Huronic, Hamonic, Saronic, Majestic, Germanic and Midland as soon as the station had been installed here and that the Anchor line and C. P. R. boats would also probably follow suit.

COMPASS GUIDES BOAT OFF COURSE

Explanation Suggested for Obstructions, Which Are Not Located.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—Torough sweeping of the channel in the vicinity of Detour, under direction of Col. C. McD. Townsend, engineer corps, U. S. A., in charge of Detroit district, has failed to show the obstruction which the steamer Robert Fulton of the Pittsburg Steamship company's fleet struck about a month ago. In this connection, a local vessel man suggests, the Fulton may have been slightly out of her course.

"In several instances this season, and more or less frequently in previous years," says he, "vessel masters have reported striking some unchartered obstruction in the main channels of traffic. Sometimes investigation shows there is an obstruction. More often nothing of that description is found.

"Probably, if careful inquiry were made in each case, it would be found that where complaint is made of an obstruction that cannot be located, the vessel has diverged from her course and struck a shoal or the channel bank outside the usual path of navigation.

"With a slight deflect in the compass, one which might not be apparent without close examination, such an accident would not only be possible but very likely to happen, and the navigator naturally would report encountering an obstruction in the regular channel."

MILWAUKEE GAINS.

Inbound Tonnage Increases 491,828 Tons for Fiscal Year.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 22.—Milwaukee's marine tonnage for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, shows a gratifying increase over 1910. Little Activity During Short Trading Period—Weakness at Close.

The copper market dragged through a quiet short session today. In the early part there was little trading of any kind, and values held up well at about yesterday's closing level. Toward the close there was some activity by traders averse to carrying their holdings over the week-end, and the prominent issues dropped off fractionally under the slight pressure.

Amalgamated opened at $69.12½, advanced to $69.37½ and closed at $69.25. North Butte opened at $33.25, advanced to $33.50 and dropped off at the close to $33 bid and $33.50 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $18.25 and closed at $17.75 bid and $18.50 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $57.75 and closed at $57.75 bid and $58 asked. Giroux opened at $6.25 and closed at $6.18¾ bid and $6.25 asked. Greene Cananea opened at $6.87½ bid and $7.25 asked, and closed at $7 bid and $7.25 asked.

There was little trading on the Duluth stock exchange during the short session, but the issues held up well under the neglect. Cliff sold at 90c, Calumet & Sonora at $7, Keating at $3.06¼ and North American at $1.50. Butte-Alex Scott was quoted at $7.50 asked, ButteBallaklava at $4.50 asked and $5 bid, and Denn-Arizona at $5 bid and $5.62½ asked.

The resolutions declare the order requiring postmasters to account for excess postage not in keeping with the receipts of same should be abolished; that the dispatch of mail would be hastened if all postmasters were furnished suitable facing slips free of charge; recommending the merit system; favoring the local parcels post as advocated by postmaster general; that a just and equitable allowance be given for clerk hire, rent, light and fuel based upon the amount of labor and expense attached to each office; that postmasters should attend the league meetings and compensation should be allowed them while attending; recommending all postmasters placed under classified service rules; that the department should own the postoffice fixtures in all offices and not expect an underpaid third of fourth class postmaster to purchase his own fixtures; recommending that when the total compensation of a postoffice of the fourth class for four consecutive quarters shall amount to $1,000 and the sales for the same period amount to $1,900 the postmaster general shall assign such office to its proper class.

MUCH TALK ABOUT NEXT GOVERNOR

Frank Eddy Makes Some Remarks on Politics.

St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Everytime I read the suggestion of La Follette for president," said Frank M. Eddy, former congressman, "I think of what somebody said about the way he plays politics—'if you were to drive a nail in his head you'd pull out a corkscrew.' That's how crooked it seems. I don't think he is dishonest, but he's selfish and ungrateful."

The Sauk Center politician said the Gordon-for-governor boom is increasing throughout the state, and that well alongside it is one for George T. Simpson. Mr. Eddy says he hears very little criticism of Governor Eberhart. Most of the talk is relative to his successor.

LAWYERS FOR THE CAMORRISTS QUIT

Strike of the Attorneys May Mean Trial to Begin All Over.

Viterbo, Italy, July 22.—The lawyers for the defense have struck, and as a consequence the Camorrists' trial was adjourned today until next Wednesday to afford them time in which to decide upon their future attitude. Unless some agreement is reached with the court and the prosecution before the sessions are resumed, it is probable that the trial will be definitely stopped and later begun all over again. Today's "strike" was a result of yesterday's trouble when Capt. Fabroni denounced Lawyer Lioy as a suborner of perjury.

The prisoner objected to delay and protested that between the uncompromising attitude of the lawyers on the one hand and the red tape of the court procedure on the other, they had already suffered five years' imprisonment.

SUPERIOR

ONE FAMILY TO A ROOM

Superior Census Probe By Grand Jury May Show Considerable Padding.

Evidence Not Made Public But Tends to Show Curious Methods.

More than fifty witnesses are expected to appear before the grand jury in the federal court at Eau Claire, where the alleged padding of the Superior census is being probed. The census probe was taken up this week, and several witnesses have been examined.

The proceedings before the grand jury are not made public, but it is understood that evidence has been presented, which would tend to show that the last census at Superior was considerably padded; that enumerators turned in reports showing a certain number of families residing on certain lots, whereas an investigation showed that the lots in question were vacant lots; that in some apartment houses the enumerators turned in reports showing a family for every room; that hotels and boarding houses were given a resident list of boarders and roomers that was so large that the hotels or boarding houses could not hold them. It has been reported that the total number of names turned in and whose given street numbers proved to be vacant lots was over 3,000.

It is expected that the proceedings will be finished within a week and that the grand jury will return several indictments.

TOWER AVENUE WILL BE DECORATED FOR VISITORS.

Tower avenue will be decorated with bunting and flags for the two conventions which will meet in Superior next week—the gathering of the Wisconsin Municipalities league and the convention of the Wisconsin Firemen's association. The former will start on July 26 and will last three days, and the latter July 25 and continue for three days. It is expected that about 300 visitors will be brought to the city.

BUT FEW CASES TO BE HEARD

It Is Fag End of the May Term in District Court.

It is the fag end of the May term of the district court. There are but a few more court cases to be heard. It is expected that with but two courts going the calendar will be finished during the coming week.

The jury was dismissed some time ago. The fact that the hearing of cases will soon be over for this term does not mean that there is no further work to be done. All the local judges are known to have more work laid up than they can do before the opening of the September term.

With the opening of the September term the grand jury will meet for the first time since May. Needless to say the criminal term will be heavy. It is expected that there will be nearly seventy-five cases to come to the attention of the grand jury. The session will probably be the longest in some years.

During the month of August a great many employes at the county building will take their vacations. This, with the fact that but little is going on in the courts, makes the big building less busy than at any other time of the year.

TOOK CASH AND DISAPPEARED

The police are looking for Oscar Hoyer, 20 years of age, who ran away from the city yesterday after tapping the till of the Le Richeux drug store at Fifth avenue west and First street for $24.

Hoyer and a chum "blew" into Duluth about two months ago. They said that they had been beating their way from town to town, but did not state where their home is. Hoyer secured a position at the drug store shortly after he and his companion came here. He appeared trustworthy and had access to the cash register. Yesterday the police state that he stole $24 and disappeared. There is no clew as to his whereabouts.

BLACK RUST DAMAGING

American Wheat Markets Advance on Reports From North Dakota.

Accumulation of Wheat in Chicago Is Offset to Bull Movement.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 22.—The wheat market gained again today on persistent black rust reports from North Dakota and the indication that the crop is deteriorating rapidly through the ravages of that plague. The market in Duluth advanced ½c and the other American markets also showed gains.

In the face of the black rust reports from North Dakota, the heavy accumulation of wheat stocks in Chicago is a deterrent to the bull movement. Duluth and Minneapolis stocks are decreasing, but the Chicago stocks are almost up to the elevator capacity of that primary point and some of the traders are decidedly wary of a bull movement at that time.

There is little doubt in the minds of those who have investigated, that black rust has done serious damage in North Dakota and that the damage is increasing daily. The reports were looked upon by wary eyes by some traders for a time, but reliable information to some Duluth traders indicate that there has been little exaggeration.

Whereas, with average conditions, the acreage of wheat in North Dakota should have produced 120,000,000 to 130,000,000 bu. this year, it is estimated now by reliable experts that the black rust invasion has decreased the prospects to 80,000,000 to 90,000,000, and unless the plague is checked a further deterioration is not beyond the possibilities.

A dispatch from Grand Forks this morning stated that black rust has just shown up in that vicinity in the last few days, but that it is doing great damage to the crops. Another dispatch from Fargo states that a man who has covered the state thoroughly in the last week says that the damage is fully 50 per cent and that the state will not raise over 50,000,000 bu. That report is believed here to be an exaggeration, but the fact that the crop is being greatly damaged remains and the state will not come up to the expectations of even an average yield.

There was nothing doing in July wheat on the Duluth board today and it closed ½c up at $1.00⅝ nominal. September wheat opened unchanged at 97⅛c, advanced to 97½c, declined to 97¼c, advanced again to 97¾c, fell off to 97¼c and closed at 97⅝c.

The linseed market was almost lifeless. July linseed opened unchanged at $2.15 and closed at that figure. September linseed closed unchanged at $2.09 nominal. October linseed unchanged at $2.00 bid.

Cash wheat held strong in Duluth at 3c over September.

Oats were ⅜c up at 42⅞c. Rye was unchanged, and corn was ⅜c up at 64½c.

The foreign markets were a little weaker today. Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The wheat market showed a steady undertone at the start with prices unchanged to ⅛d lower. The weaker American cables were offset here by the unfavorable political situation. Following the opening shorts became nervous and covered some and prices advanced ¼d to ⅜d on the easiness regarding the American spring wheat outlook and the improved demand for both parcels and cargoes. Reports from India were less favorable and Argentine advices are to the effect that rains in the north were insufficient and this was reflected in the closing steadiness in Buenos Ayres. The market was dull on the whole but traders inclined to cover over the week. At the close the undertone was firm with prices unchanged to ¼d higher than yesterday.

"Corn opened ¼d lower in sympathy with America, later the decline was recovered and more too on the forecast of no American shipments to Liverpool this week and the firmer European offers."

Chicago: On Thursday in Kansas City 117 cars of hard wheat, ranging in grade from 1 hard down to 4 hard, sold off the tables at an average price of 86c per bu or equal to 93c in Chicago. Forty cars of No. 2 red sold in the same market on that date at 82c or equal to 89c in Chicago as compared with our close of 88⅝c for September wheat on same date. Thus, this seems conclusive proof that there will be no pressure on hard winter wheat on this crop.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Advance on Reports From Fields.

Chicago, July 22.—Less favorable crop reports today from both sides of the Canadian line put up the price of wheat. Discouraging advices regarding India and the Argentine were also factors on the bull side. Fair inquiry by exporters counted, too, against the bears. Belief that the reciprocity bill would be enacted today appeared to have little influence on the market, an idea prevailing that the event had been discounted long ago. Opening prices were ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c up. September started at 88¼c to 88½c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether. A rise to 88⅝c followed.

Anxiety, said to exist concerning possible serious European complications, added to bull sentiment. The close was easy, but ¾ net higher at 88¾@88⅞c for September.

Dry weather and a forecast of more gave corn a decided lift. Attention was likewise turned to the fact that receipts here were 2,000,000 bu less than shipments out. September opened ⅛c to ⅞c higher at 64⅞c to 65¼c, but fell back to 64¾c.

Wheat strength later sustained the market, except during one temporary sag. The close was firm with September ⅝c up at 65c.

Hedging sales by cash houses relatively weakened oats. There was moderate commission house demand, which prevented a decline, however. September started unchanged to ⅛@¼c dearer at 41¼@41⅜c, to 41½c, touched 41⅝c, and reacted to 41⅝c.

Although slow, provisions held steady with hogs. First sales were the same as last night to 2½c up, with September delivery $8.27½ for lard, and $8.50 for ribs. Practically nothing was done in pork.

ALL GAINS WIPED OUT

Upward Movement in Stocks at Start Is Not Held.

Dullness and Sagging Tendency in Late Trading, Closing Easy.

New York, July 22.—The upward movement in stocks was resumed at the opening of the market today. Union Pacific was the strong feature of the list, advancing ⅝ to 192⅜, its high price of the year. Gains elsewhere were small, but virtually the entire list shared in the advance.

After opening gains had been increased fractionally, the market eased off. Selling orders were met easily and the list retained parts of the grains. New Haven, American Woolen preferred, and American Car & Foundry preferred gained a point.

The market closed easy. The firmness of the first hour gave way to dullness and the sagging tendency in the later trading, all the gains being lost. Canadian Pacific declined a point, but elsewhere recessions were fractional. Among the specialties National Enamelling common and preferred gained 1¼ and 2½ points respectively.

Vote By Parties.

An analysis of the vote showed that 24 Republicans voted against the bill and 21 in favor of it; while 3 Democrats voted against and 32 in favor.

The senate took up Canadian reciprocity as soon as a quorum was obtained at 11:15 a. m., the call showing 78 senators present.

The amendment of Senator McCumber of North Dakota, reducing duties on many necessaries of life and increasing the free list, was first taken up and defeated 16 to 64.

The defeat of the McCumber amendment was indicative of all votes on amendments to the bill.

Nelson Voted Down.

The Nelson amendment restoring half of the duty on grains and farm produce, made free in the reciprocity bill, was then defeated, 23 to 58.

An amendment by Senator Simmons of North Carolina putting fresh meats and meat products on the free list in the reciprocity bill was defeated, 16 to 64.

Senator Simmons then offered his amendment to put flour and cereal products on the reciprocity free list and it was defeated, 17 to 63.

The Cummins amendments then were taken up. The first, reducing the duty on various steel products, was defeated 17 to 64. That reducing the duty on oil cloth and lineoleum was defeated by a viva voce vote.

Killed La Follette Amendments.

Senator La Follette then called up his amendment comprising a general revision of the woolen tariff. It also was defeated by 16 to 64.

The La Follette amendment for revision of the entire cotton tariff and the tariff on artificial silk went out 15 to 63.

A third amendment by Senator La Follette admitting free of duty, after Jan. 1, 1912, all wood pulp, news print and paper board, was defeated, 11 to 67.

Senator Bailey called up his amendment proposing to attach the farmers' free list bill to the reciprocity measure and it was defeated, 15 to 63.

McCumber Voted Down.

Two amendments by Mr. McCumber of North Dakota, Republican, one to put harness and saddlery on the free list and the other to prevent free admission of Canadian barley and other cereals now held in bonded warehouses in the United States, were defeated, the votes being 15 to 64 and 21 to 54 respectively.

Under the general tariff laws, all foreign foods held in bonded warehouses are entitled to a new tariff rate as soon as such new rates become law. Mr. Bristow's amendment to reduce the duty on printers' type and type metal was defeated 16 to 61.

The Bristow amendment revising the tariff on rubber products and fixing the duties at 25 per cent and the Crawford amendment, reducing duties on Canadian manufacturers' products were defeated without a roll call.

The Bailey amendment to put cotton bagging and cotton ties on the free list was beaten, 17 to 62.

The bill is the first of the measures to be disposed of under the voting agreement, which also provided dates for votes on the wool tariff revision, free list, New Mexico-Arizona statehood and the congressional reapportionment bills

Started Sixteen Months Ago.

The fight for reciprocity, the supreme campaign of the present administration, had its inception at a conference sixteen months ago at Albany, N. Y., between President Taft and Canadian Minister of Finance Fielding, and since then it has been carried along through two congresses, fruitlessly through the last one because it was becalmed in the senate, and successfully in the present extra session convoked by the president expressly for the ratification.

The bill passed by the Republican house last session, was introduced by Representative McCall of Massachusetts. The present measure was fathered by Democratic Leader Underwood of the house, chairman of the tariff making ways and means committee.

MAY GO ON TOUR DURING THE FALL

Duluth Wholesalers Planning Big Expansion Excursion to Visit Trade.

If the plans of the wholesalers committee of the Commercial club materialize, it is probable that the heads of the Duluth wholesale houses will go on a trade expansion excursion, similar to that taken by the Milwaukee wholesalers some months ago, at some time during the fall months.

The committee has decided in favor of the plan, and it is now merely a question of how many of the Duluth men will be willing to go on such a trip. A number of prospective itineraries have been planned for by the Commercial club, and will be submitted to the wholesalers, and if enough of them can be made to see the advantages of such a trip it is probable that one of them will be adopted and carried out this fall. The plans drawn up include visits to important towns in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Iowa and all of the country tributary to Duluth.

He probably will discuss the reciprocal agreement with Canada and the benefits accruing through such an agreement to the American people.

Possibly he will also state his stand of the matter of accepting a second term as governor.

FARM COLONIES FOR ITALIANS

Plans in Behalf of Returning Emigrants—Suggestion for Checking Tuberculosis—Our Climate Disagrees With Italians.

By CONTESSA LISI CIPRIANI.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

Senator Villari, in an article published recently in the Corriere della Sera of Milan, Italy, suggests the formation of a syndicate to buy up land with the purpose of selling it again at cost to the returning emigrant. This, he thinks, would stop the undue exploitation of those emigrants who after years of hardships return to Italy with a small capital with which to buy a homestead. Now they often have to buy poor land at triple its value, and finding it impossible to cultivate it with sufficient profit, they are compelled to sell it to the man from whom they bought at such a price as to entirely lose their hard earned savings.

If the welfare of the returning Italian emigrant demands that they be protected in any attempt to enter upon agricultural pursuits in their own country where they understand the language, public welfare in the United States demands it no less. It is imperative that large numbers of Southern emigrants, by no means Italians alone, should be induced to leave the city and take up agricultural pursuits, but it is also imperative that a limited number of them, particularly Italians, should have every facilitation when returning to agrarian occupations in their own country.

The congestion of population, the low standard of living due to insufficient wages, and the natural difficulties of acclimatization in the rigid Northern climate, have resulted in a deterioration of the race which demands effective curative and preventive measures. As every emigrant who has resided in this country more than three years becomes, in case of illness, a burden to this country, the amazing figures furnished by the investigations of the committees for the prevention of tuberculosis suffice to prove the need of concerted and strenuous effort.

Dr. Antonio Stella of New York City says: "The proportion of Italian consumptives returning to Italy in 1903 was 2.92 per 1,000; in 1904, 2.75; in 1906, 5.61 per 1,000. But this average is far below the real condition, because it only takes account of the very advanced bedridden cases among steerage passengers, isolated in the ship hospital, who constitute a small fraction indeed, as compared to the large army of those in the incipient or moderately advanced stages and those traveling second or first cabin. From what I have heard and seen, I am ready to venture the statement that fully 50 per cent of the second class passengers are suffering from tuberculosis in some form or other, and during certain seasons, and on certain cheap lines, the percentage may be still higher."

To these appalling figures may be added the no less impressive statement that last year the committee for the prevention of tuberculosis in New York City found 20,000 cases which had not been reported at any of the various institutions which treat tubercular patients. And when we consider that a bed for an adult in a hospital for tuberculosis can cost no less than $4,000, while the place of a child in the children's hospitals treating the various diseases of the bones which tuberculosis causes, cost $8,000, the material interest of the more fortunate classes in the United States in bettering conditions is easily brought home even to the least philanthropically inclined. For all immigrant tubercular patients that cannot be sent back to their own country will have to be cared for by public or private institutions in the United States, and few reach the stage when they are unable to support themselves before they have been in this country three years. The expense to the country, will, with the number of cases, increase at a tremendous rate.

For emigrants from Southern Italy the ideal solution is the establishment of farming villages, where they could be gathered in groups and employed as day laborers until they had gained enough experience in new methods of cultivation and had saved enough money to acquire small farms on their own account.

Southern Italians who come to this country, though they mainly come from agricultural districts, have only worked as day laborers on the estates, and the attempt to make them landholders with a small capital and lacking experience can scarcely be successful. Nor are they accustomed to the isolation of the life on the farm and this is no doubt one of the reasons why they cannot be induced to leave the city. The United States could furnish experts to instruct the people in certain lines of intensive farming and the Italian government would no doubt be willing to assist in many ways not only in increasing the number of Italian emigrants ready to settle in such villages, but in assisting them during the period of adjustment, just as it morally and financially assists in the camp schools carried on by the Society for Italian Emigrants.

But a number of Southern Italians now settled in New York, and suffering from incipient tuberculosis, could be restored to health and strength in their native climate, while they are not in condition either to stand the conditions they find in the city, or to face the rigor of the Northern winter in the out-of-door work in the country. And these should as fast as possible be enabled to return to Italy and take up their old pursuits here.

On the other hand the agricultural experiments conducted in the United States have given results which would prove invaluable to the semi-arid regions of Southern Italy and American methods in intensive farming, dry farming, preserving and canning of fruit might bring wealth to many of our depopulated Southern district, if the returning emigrant were aided in capital and instruction. It would be highly beneficial to both countries if there could be concerted prompt and efficient action in dealing with the encouragement of agricultural pursuits in the United States and in Italy.

The return of a considerable number of Italians afflicted with tuberculosis might temporarily decrease the immigration to this country, but this should scarcely be regretted. Statistics show that during the year 1910 the number of Italian immigrants in the United States has reached the figure of 222,000. And Senator Villari in one of his articles points out there are in Italy 28,000 agents for the steamship companies artificially fostering emigration. This is to the loss of both countries, for Italy cannot afford to lose its citizens in such numbers, and New York, where the majority of them stop, is in no way ready to receive them. The state and the country as a whole will have to suffer from the excessive congestion, and anything that will, if only temporarily, check immigration will in every way benefit the United States.

MEETING WAS SUCCESSFUL

Members of Loyal Liberty Protective League Closes Three Days Session.

Last Day Given Over to Sight Seeing About the City.

The delegates to the convention of the Loyal Liberty Protective league, consisting of the retail liquor dealers of the state, close a three-days' convention in Duluth today. This morning they viewed the city from the boulevard and this afternoon they wound up with a business session.

The members of the league went on record yesterday as favoring regulation of the liquor traffic rather than prohibition. They claimed that the business is legitimate if conducted in the proper manner and indorsed the action of the brewers in aiding in the campaign for the elimination of disreputable resorts.

Their position was set forth in lengthy resolutions, the substance of which are as follows:

"That the products handled in the business in which the membership is engaged are intended for the use, benefit and enjoyment of mankind.

"That the use of such beverages is everywhere recognized as proper and even necessary, their abuse only being condemned as is also condemned the excessive use of solid foods or other 'gifts of nature.'

"That the sale of liquor has always formed an honorable and important feature of the commerce of the world.

"That theorists and so-called reformers, usually from pecuniary motives, have been constantly seeking legislative enactment to place restrictions upon the traffic of the association with the ultimate purpose of 'blighting the country with the curse of prohibition,' but that such legislation unsupported by public sentiment always proves harmful to public morals, invoking the experience of the ages to support the contention.

"That the regulation and not the prohibition of the liquor traffic be favored."

The assistance which has been rendered by individual brewers throughout the country in the extinction of disreputable resorts, is acknowledged by the league to have been of assistance in enabling the organization to mould a healthy public sentiment for the betterment of the business.

The appeal of a prominent brewer at a recent convention in the following words is indorsed:

"Reform should begin at home with ourselves. The idea of profit-making and the effort to conduct our business upon lofty standards is not inconsistent. Less trade of better character, and therefore safer, is better than more extensive trade of varied character, entailing greater hazard."

Social Session.

Last evening the delegates were entertained at a social session and this afternoon they are selecting the city for the next annual convention. Yesterday they enjoyed a trip down the lake and around the horn.

This morning the delegates, which number nearly 300, were taken on a trip about the city in automobiles. The convention which closed this evening is said to have been the most successful in the history of the organization.

SOO MAN DROWNED IN LAKE SUPERIOR

Boat Swamped and He Sank in Sight of Wife and Children.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.) — Frank Berger of this city was drowned in Lake Superior twenty miles above the Soo late yesterday afternoon in the sight of his wife and children, who stood on the banks of the lake, where they were camping. Berger and two companions were in a small boat in a heavy sea attempting to attach a heavy anchor to their launch when their craft was capsized.

Berger shouted to the others: "I'm all right, I can swim." Hardly were the words out of his mouth when he was seized with cramps and sank from sight. The body was recovered in a few minutes after the accident, but life was extinct.

STEEL AGREEMENT IS PUT UPON RECORD IN HOUSE INVESTIGATION

Apportionment of Business Among Eleven Companies Is Shown.

Heavy Penalties for Any Who Dared Violate Its Terms.

Lindabury Protests Against Its Introduction as Evidence.

Washington, July 24.—When the house steel trust committee resumed its sessions today Chairman Stanley put in the record a copy of the iron clad agreement which the Steel Plate association of the United States entered into Nov. 9, 1900. The agreement has been in possession of Chairman Stanley for some time and a number of witnesses have been questioned regarding it. Eleven great steel companies entered into the agreement and apportioned among themselves all shipments of steel plates.

The steel company that dared violate the agreement laid itself liable to heavy penalties, and it is said that fines of $1,000 finally were imposed on members of the combination when complaints were filed with the executive committee. Each firm was required to make monthly sworn statements relating to shipments, rolling production, etc., and any member who shipped more than his apportioned amount was required to pay a penalty on each pound of such excess, the money thus collected being apportioned among the members who did not ship up to their allotted share.

Apportionments Allowed.

The agreement showed the following apportionment of shipments allowable by the various companies party to the agreement:

Carnegie Steel company, 46.25 per cent; Jones and Laughlin, Ltd., 4.75; Illinois Steel company, 11.00; Crucible Steel company of America, 4.50; Otis Steel company, 2.50; Tidewater Steel company, 3.00; Lukens Iron & Steel company, 7.50; Worth Brothers company, 7.00; Central Iron & Steel company, 8.00; American Steel & Wire

SHOW FINEST OF CAMERA'S WORK

American Photographers Gather for Meeting in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every state in the Union will be represented by delegates and specimens of photography when the annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America opens its business session in the Armory tomorrow morning.

Today while the late arrivals were coming in, the finishing touches were being put on the exhibit of pictures, which it is said will eclipse in number and merit all previous exhibits.

The foreign exhibition will comprise more than 1,000 pictures and contains portraits posed for in every country of Europe. A reception in the St. Paul hotel tonight will inaugurate the convention.

PLANT TIE BEFORE CROWDED TRAIN

Would-be Wreckers Fail to Cause Smash on Long Island Road.

New York, July 24.—Bloodhounds are aiding detectives who are searching today for the highwaymen who made an attempt to wreck a Long Island railroad train near Valley Stream, L. I., last night. A fifteen-car passenger train, crowded with pleasure seekers, was speeding into this city when Engineer Whitford saw an obstruction on the tracks. He threw on the brakes, reversed the engine and brought the train to a stop within fifteen feet of the obstruction.

A tie had been planted in a hole dug between the rails, the end tilted toward the approaching locomotive. It had been firmly spiked down between two ties and then securely tied by ropes.

BLUE PIKE IN LAKE ERIE ARE DYING OUT.

Buffalo, July 24.—Blue pike, which forms a large part of the catch in Lake Erie, are threatened with extermination. A mysterous plague, a fungus growth on the gills, which baffles experts, is killing thousands of young fish and great numbers of them are being washed ashore. The large fish are not affected. The unusually low temperature of the water is believed to be one of the causes.

SERIOUS STORM IN PORTION OF OHIO.

Akron, Ohio July 24.—One death and thousands of dollars in damage resulted from the electrical and wind storm that passed over this section last night and early this morning.

Clence Beck, a small boy residing near Palmira, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

HOWLED DOWN BY BRITISH COMMONS

PREMIER HERBERT ASQUITH.

FIRE SWEEPS ANCIENT CITY

Two Square Miles of Buildings Burn in Constantinople.

Conflagration Is Laid to Work of Incendiaries.

Constantinople, July 24.—A conflagration which started yesterday afternoon continued until 3 o'clock this morning, by which time the flames were got under control, practically because there was no further fuel in their path. The distaster was the greatest since the great fire in Pera, the European quarter, in 1870.

It is believed that the present fire was the work of incendiaries. It broke out simultaneously at several points in Stambul, the ancient city, while the people were celebrating the anniversary of the new constitution.

Near Ministry of War.

The most formidable blaze flared up near the ministry of war and was borne by a strong north wind through the residential section to the southern coast. From the square in front of the war ministry east of the center of Stambul, to the Sea of Marmora on the south, practically nothing was left standing.

Two square miles of the city were devastated. It is roughly estimated that over 5,000 houses were destroyed. The greater number of these were wooden buildings, but several important stone structures were ruined.

European Quarter Safe.

The European quarter, across the Golden Horn to the north and east, was at no time in danger, owing to the contrary direction of the wind.

Stambul, having the Sea of Marmora on the south and the Bosphorus on the east, with the Golden Horn, an inlet of the Bosphorus, on the north, has a sea front of eight miles. On the west it is walled. This district contains the Seraglio, the sultan's palace, the principal mosques, the mausoleums, the public offices, the baths and the bazars and the remains of ancient Constantinople. Here chiefly reside the Turks, Jews, Armenians and Greeks.

EIGHT HURT IN GARY EXPLOSION

Three-Story Building Wrecked By Concussion; Occupants Lay It to Bomb.

Gary, Ind., July 24.—Eight persons were injured and many lives imperiled today by an explosion which wrecked a three story building occupied as a restaurant, and shook the entire business section of the city. The police believe the explosion was caused by a leaking gas pipe in the basement, but occupants of the building express the opinion that the building was wrecked by a bomb.

Immediately following the explosion fire spread through the structure, and for a time the First National bank, which is next door, was threatened. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

DULUTH FIRM'S AGENT IN PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

Bismarck, N. D., July 24.—F. W. Clark, local manager for Stone-Ordean-Wells company, wholesale grocers, is still in a very critical condition at the Bismarck hospital, and physicians are as yet unable to state what his chances are for recovery. Clark was seriously crushed and injured last Wednesday night when his auto turned turtle about half a mile east of the fort, pinning him under the machine.

Sugar Advanced Again.

New York, July 24.—All grades of refined sugar were advanced 10 cents a hundred pounds today.

WILD SCENE IN COMMONS

Premier Asquith Is Unable to Speak on Veto Bill.

He Is Repeatedly Howled Down in the Chamber.

London, July 24.—Scenes of wild disorder marked the session of the house of commons today. Half a dozen times the premier rose to move consideration of the lords' amendments to the parliamentary bill, and each time he was howled down by a din so terrific that the speaker had difficulty in making himself heard as he appealed to both sides to observe parliamentary decorum. Again Asquith essayed to speak, but was unable to prevail against the uproar.

After trying vainly for three-quarters of an hour to get a hearing, Premier Asquith cut short his projected speech, and amid a hubbub declared that if the lords would not consent to restore the veto bill, even with reasonable amendments, to substantially its original form, the government would be compelled to invoke the exercise of the royal prerogative of creation of the new peers.

Galleries Were Crowded.

No parliamentary event of modern times has so quickened the public pulse as the present political crisis arising from the veto bill, and anxiety to know the exact terms of Premier Asquith's ultimatum to the peers crowded the house and its galleries in a way not seen before in many years.

The members of the lower chamber gave vent to their feelings by rising and cheering frantically and waving handkerchiefs as their respective leaders entered. There were some groans from the Unionists benches, intermingled with an occasional shout of "traitor," when Asquith made his appearance.

The opening scenes of the historic session were among the stormiest ever witnessed in the house. As he rose to speak, the premier was encouraged by a roar of applause from the Radical, Irish and Labor benches, but an answering volley of cheers came from the opposition while a small group of standpatters busily chanted "traitor, traitor, traitor," until Speaker Lowther warned them to control themselves.

Lord Hugh Cecil Prominent.

Prominent among the disorderly ones was Lord Hugh Cecil, the Conservative free trader from Oxford university.

Premier Asquith stood at the table

POPE PIUS HAS SEVERE COLD

Pontiff Is Directed to Abandon Audiences for Time Being.

Rome, July 24.—Pope Pius has taken cold and is suffering from a sore throat, as well as experiencing the inconvenience of hoarseness.

Dr. Ettore Marchiafava, consulting physician to his holiness, visited the latter today in company with Dr. Guiseppe Petacci, the pontiff's private physician. They found that the patient had a slight temperature and ordered that his audiences for the present be abandoned. It is believed that the pope will be restored after a few days' rest.

INVITED TO HEAD THE MALCONTENTS IN CUBA

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

GEN. GUISEPPE GARIBALDI.

New York, July 24.—Gen. Guiseppe Garibaldi has been invited to lead the revolution now being cooked up in Cuba. He says if the Cuban people are being oppressed it will be his duty to go to their aid. Gen. Garibaldi is now here. He is a grandson of the great liberator. Recently he fought at the head of the foreign legion under Madero in Mexico.

ASK ARBUCKLE ABOUT TRUST

Sub-Committee Goes to Home of Aged Sugar Magnate.

New York, July 24.—More secrets of the wars between the American Sugar Refining company and its rivals were expected to be unearthed today when a sub-committee of the congressional committee which is investigating the alleged sugar trust went to New Paltz, N. Y., to take the testimony of John Arbuckle, for many years a vigorous rival of the Havemeyers.

Mr. Arbuckle is an old and feeble man and his physicians said he could not stand a trip to this city to give testimony. The committee is anxious to find out from Mr. Arbuckle whether the long, bitter conflict with the American company was ended with an agreement or whether both sides by common consent decided to let each other alone.

Meanwhile other members of the congressional committee will continue their investigation of the sugar matters in this city with Claus A. Spreckels, president of the Federal Sugar Refining company of Yonkers, ready to continue his testimony which he began last week.

AMERICAN'S BODY IS FOUND IN GLACIER.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 24.—The body of Homer Diman, the 18-year-old youth of Arlington, Mass., who was lost on the Dent du Midi, in the Alps, July 5, was found today imbedded in the ice in a crevasse of a great glacier on the side of Dent du Midi. The body was brought to Silvan, where the young man had been living, with his mother.

SAY BERLIN MUST MOVE

French Gain Confidence From Speech By Lloyd-George.

International Crisis in Moroccan Affair Is at Hand.

Paris, July 24.—Opinion in France is that the time has arrived for Germany to say what she really wants in Morocco, since the present situation of uncertainty is entering upon a stage which may disturb international relations.

Officially, the foreign office had nothing to say today concerning the pessimistic talk, except that conversations continue between Baron von Kiderlein Waechter, the German secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, upon possible solutions. Unofficially, hints appear in the press that the time is arriving when the futility of the conversation is obvious.

British Warning to Germany.

Meantime the speech of David Lloyd-George, the British chancellor, before the London bankers last week is interpreted as a direct warning to Germany and is considered as having enormously stiengthened the attitude of France, which will not accept any German proposal for a wholesale turning over of French colonial territory.

The press is unanimous in its opinion that Lloyd-George's words signify that the British-French entente is really an alliance with which Germany must reckon. Russia naturally is expected to throw her influence with the other two members of the international agreement which the world calls the triple entente.

Calls Methods "Brutal."

Although the press remains calm, there is a distinct tendency to re-emphasize Germany's manner of forcing the negotiations as "brutal," and the Temps, which is in close relation with the government, declares succinctly that Germany has lost the confidence of the other European powers.

CALUMET MAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Sudden Summons Comes to Holly Lanctot at Crookston, Minn.

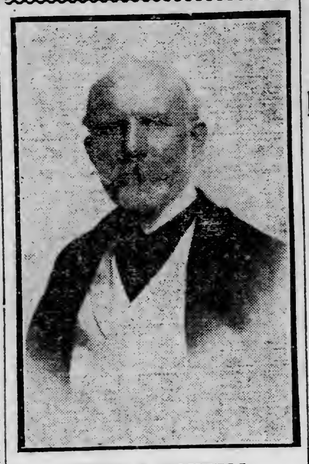

Crookston, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Holly Lanctot of Calumet, Mich., employed since last March by the Crookston Gas company, was found dead in his bed this morning at the Germania hotel. He had been in perfect health and did not drink. He was single, aged 24. Death is supposed to have resulted from heart trouble. An inquest is being held this afternoon.

LA CROSSE MERCHANT DROWNS IN MISSISSIPPI.

La Crosse, Wis., July 24.—F. A. Wenzell, a wealthy merchant and manufacturer, was drowned in the Mississippi yesterday when a squall overturned his launch.

WETS CARRY TEXAS VOTE

Prohibition Leader Declares They Won By Fraud Methods.

Claims Majority Will Not Be Found to Be Over 5,000.

Dallas, Tex., July 24.—The "anti" majority in the Texas prohibition election was 4,387 at 1:45 this afternoon, according to nearly complete but unofficial returns to the Associated Press. The anti-prohibition vote from these returns totalled 230,136. The prohibition totalled 225,749.

Houston, Tex., July 24.—At 10 o'clock this morning Chairman Ball of the state wide Prohibition committee conceded anti-Prohibitionists will have a majority not exceeding 5,000 on the face of the present returns from Saturday's elections. He claims frauds have been practiced and will resort to the courts.

At 10 o'clock Chairman Walters of the Anti-Prohibitionists say the returns up to that hour indicated that the majority against state-wide prohibition would be slightly above 10,000.

The contest is the closest in the history of the state. Tens of thousands of people, collected around bulletin boards, watching the returns.

The total vote probably was about 475,000, which with one exception, is the largest vote ever polled in Texas.

OPPOSES SENDING WOMAN TO ASYLUM

Attorney for Cincinnati Home Gets Delay in Proceedings.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 24.—The case of Mrs. Laura Gallagher, treasurer of the Cincinnati Home for Incurables, whose accounts are under investigation, was up in probate court again today. Judge Lueders of that tribunal recently ordered the woman to the county insane asylum, and today he was asked to appoint Dr. J. C. Cadwalader, a cousin of Mrs. Gallagher, as her guardian.

The request was made by Dr. Cadwalader in person. He appeared in court accompanied by Mrs. Gallagher's son and an attorney, but Judge Lueders refused to act on the application until the attorney for the home has been consulted. At the instance of the latter, action was delayed until Thursday.

HOWARD PEW, JR., KILLED BY AUTO

A dispatch from Atlantic City, N. J., says that Howard Pew, Jr., 11-year-old son of Howard Pew, the well-known manager of Creatore and other band organizations, was killed by an automobile in front of a hotel there late Saturday afternoon. The driver, H. G. McWilliams, a New Rochelle, N. Y., millionaire, was arrested.

Mr. Pew, father of the boy who was killed, is known to many old residents of Duluth, having been business manager of The Herald and also engaged in the real estate business in the late 80's.

SAYS BOUTELL TOLD HIM SO

Produces Undated, Unsigned Note Before Senate Committee.

Recounts Conversation Which He Claims Proved Its Authenticity.

Answers Questions Relative to His Visit to Judge Gary.

Washington, July 24.—Edward Hines of Chicago caused a sensation today by testifying before the senate Lorimer committee that Representative Henry S. Boutell of Illinois, now American minister to Switzerland, told him that President Taft, regarding Lorimer as an acceptable senatorial candidate, was anxious to have him elected, and would be very glad to assist in his election.

Questioned by Haneey.

Today's session of the committee began with Attorney Haneey, counsel for Senator Lorimer, questioning Hines further about his trips to New York last winter, when the Lorimer election issue was pending before the senate.

Hines testified that on one of these New York trips he called on E. H. Gary of the United States Steel corporation, to see about the price of stock in a Colorado iron company.

Suddenly, at the instance of counsel, Mr. Hines produced a sheet of paper without letterhead and without signature or date, but which Mr. Hines swore was in Mr. Boutell's handwriting. This little sheet contained these words:

"I should like to have the senator know who was the only man in Washington who went to the president in his behalf AND BRING OFF (sic) THE GOODS."

Talked With Boutell.

Mr. Hines declared that the senator referred to was Senator Lorimer and that his election to the senate was the subject of the note. The witness explained that he was sure of his explanation, because a little while after he got the note from Mr. Boutell he had a conversation with him which cleared the matter. Mr. Hines declared that in his conversation Mr. Boutell said he had gone to see President Taft and had told him that Lori-

AVIATORS TRYING FOR BRITISH PRIZE

One American Is Entered in Flight to Edinburgh.

Edinburgh, Scotland, July 24.—J. Vedrine, the French aviator, in a Morane-Borel monoplane, maintains the lead in the circuit of Great Britain aviation race for the Daily Mail's prize. He covered the distance of 343 miles from Hendon to Edinburgh this morning in less than six hours actual flying time.

Beaumont followed Vedrine closely. Weymann, still experiencing bad luck, was held up at Hendon, awaiting the arrival of a new propeller. It was noon before Weymann had equipped his machine anew. Then he started on a trial flight in a fickle wind. His biplane bucked like a broncho, but he made a safe landing. Later word was received here that the American had again headed for this city, going with the speed of a pigeon.

CHOLERA SITUATION IS WELL IN HAND

Stringent Measures at New York Likely to Succeed.

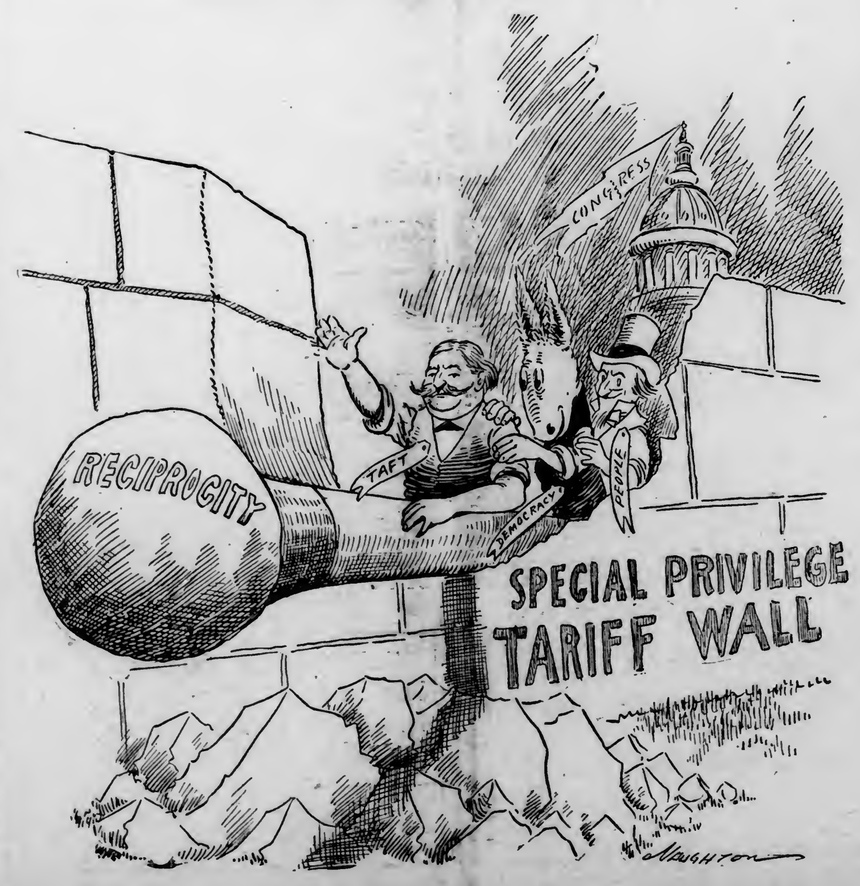

New York, July 24.—The stringent measures taken to prevent an epidemic of cholera here undoubtedly will prove effective, according to the health officers, who today noted that no new cases had developed since last Saturday, when Manuel Bermudes, a Spaniard, was found to be suffering from the disease at Bellevue hospital.

Reports from Hoffman Island this morning stated that there were no further suspicious cases of sickness among the detained passengers of the steamship Moltke, and that more of these passengers probably would be released soon from quarantine. No further deaths were reported from Swinburne island, where Bermudes is said to be in the same condition as when he arrived there from Bellevue hospital.

The steamers Perugia and Principe Di Piemonte are still at anchor off the quarantine station.

Health officers are trying to run down the sailors who were occupants of the sailors' boarding house where Bermudes was taken ill with cholera before he went to Bellevue, where the nature of the illness was discovered.

WANT STREET CAR LINE EXTENDED

A petition with sixty signers which has been circulated among the property owners and residents on Sixty-third avenue west and vicinity, requesting the council to order an extension of the street car line, will be presented to the council by Alderman L. A. Barnes at the meeting this evening.

The petition reads as follows: "We, the undersigned, residents of South Sixty-third avenue west and vicinity, do hereby respectfully petition you to order the Duluth Street Railway company of this city to extend its line from the present terminal on Raleigh street near Sixty-third avenue west south on Sixty-third avenue west to the bay front. Such an extension would be a benefit to us all."

WILL BURY ITS WIRES

The Duluth Telephone company has made application to the city for permission to lay conduit tubes for underground wires on the south side of Grand avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west.

This is the first concession that the telephone companies have made West Duluth in this respect and the underground wiring system is a welcome improvement. There has been more or less agitation for some time past for this.

SPENT WEEK PICKING BERRIES.

Mrs. Charles Wilcox, Mrs. R. A. Lowe, Mrs. R. E. Bruner, Mrs. Stickney, Misses Marie Wilcox, Emma Olson, Helen Bruner and Julia Bruner and Messrs Byer Olson and Reed Bruner returned the latter part of last week from Thomson, Minn., where they spent the week picking blueberries.

FOUGHT EACH OTHER AND THEN THE OFFICER.

August Manninen and John Koskos, both of New Duluth, were in a fighting mood last evening and after a fist-fight between themselves they drew knives on an officer, who attempted to arrest them.

In police court this morning, the judge decided that the fracas would cost them $10 apiece or 10 days in the county jail.

Patrolman L. A. Root, assisted by C. H. Pearson of the fire department, arrested the two men, who had caused a commotion by fighting on the street. The men were not captured until after they had been chased into the woods. Both men resisted arrest, but were finally handcuffed.

MAY OBSERVE THE THURSDAY CLOSING.

Will West Duluth grocery stores be closed on Thursday afternoons?

This question will be decided at a meeting of the West Duluth grocers this evening at Janelle & White's store on Central avenue.

The West Duluth grocers have not taken up the half holiday idea yet, but the proposition may receive the support of the suburbanites tonight.

WILL ATTEND MEETING OF LUTHERAN BOARD.

Rev. John A. Krantz, D. D., president of the Minnesota conference of Swedish Lutheran churches and pastor of Elim Swedish Lutheran church of West Duluth, left today for St. Paul, where he will attend a meeting of the mission board of the conference, which will be held there tomorrow. The principal matter to be brought before the board will be the selection of a solicitor to secure funds for the erection of a Lutheran seminary in Canada. The board will also decide where this seminary will be erected. Rev. Dr. Krantz is chairman of the board, which consists of eight members.

New Walks Damaged.

Several complaints have recently been made of damage which has been done to newly-laid cement walks in different parts of West Duluth. In some instances it is stated that the walks have been so badly mutilated that they have had to be relaid. This is said to have been done despite the fact that the newly-laid sections were fenced off from the other parts of the walk. The matter will be taken up with the police and it is probable that some arrests will be made if the offense is repeated.

Bartender Arrested.

Patrick F. Carpenter, aged 48, a bartender in the Little Diamond saloon on Central avenue between Bristol and Ramsey streets, was arrested last evening on a charge of violating the Sunday closing ordinance. In municipal court this morning, he pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned to Wednesday afternoon.

"At End of a Rope."

While making an automobile trip from West Duluth to Fond du Lac, Saturday afternoon, the machine of E. G. Wallender of West Duluth broke one mile east of New Duluth and had to be hauled into town. The accident occurred when an attempt was made to cross the ravine near where the old bridge burned down.

WOMAN IN BEATTIE CASE IS ARRESTED

Richmond, Va., July 24.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr. continued to exhibit an unruffled calmness today in his cell in Henrico county jail, where he is awaiting action by the grand jury Aug. 14 on the charge that he murdered his young wife. He still insists that it was not he, but an unknown highwayman, who with a shotgun killed Mrs. Beattie while they were automobiling last Tuesday night on the lonely Midlothian pike.

Benla Binford, the 17-year-old "woman in the case," who, according to the police, supplies a motive for the crime, is in another cell in Henrico prison, resigned to long incarceration, as no one has come forward to furnish the $1,000 bail demanded for her release and appearance as a witness when the case is called.

Paul Beattie, the cousin, refuses to talk of the case.

LILLIAN GRAHAM REPORTED MISSING

New York, July 24.—The police have sent out the customary "general alarm" for a missing person on a statement by Mrs. John Singleton that her sister, Lillian Graham, who is under indictment charged with shooting W. F. D. Stokes, has disappeared. Ethel Conrad, who also is charged with shooting Stokes when he appeared at their apartment to recover letters he had written Miss Graham, believes that Lillian had been kidnaped. Both girls are out on $10,000 bail pending trial set for next fall.

Miss Graham has not been heard from since she went out to buy some sugar last Saturday at midnight.

LABOR MEN LOSE AGAIN

Are Denied Bill of Particulars in Contempt Cases.

Washington, July 24.—Declaring that the attack made upon him before a congressional committee by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor left him no alternative but to proceed with the trial to the end, Justice Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court today reiterated his refusal to certify the contempt cases of the three labor leaders, Messrs. Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, to some other member of the court. Counsel for the defendants again noted an exception.

Statute of Limitations.

It became apparent today that the labor leaders would attempt to avail themselves of the statute of limitations. In arguing for a bill of particulars, Gompers' attorneys insisted that it was necessary that they should know whether the alleged offenses were committed within the last two years. He said his clients expected to take advantage of the statute of limitations, though he did not mean to suggest that they did not have a sound defense.

The labor leaders appeared in court again today, accompanied by their counsel, Judge Alton B. Parker of New York and Rolston, Siddon & Richardson of this city.

United States District Attorney Wilson, as an individual attorney, was added to the committee of lawyers conducting the prosecution.

Not in Official Capacity.

In a letter to the court, Mr. Wilson declined to take part in the prosecution in his official capacity, but added: "As an attorney and officer of this court I am in duty bound to observe the wishes of the court should your honor desire my personal assistance in the punishment of those said to be guilty of contempt of its legality and authority. Such service would not embarrass me nor interfere with the performance of my public duties."

Most of the morning session was taken up by arguments on the motion for a bill of particulars. Justice Wright finally overruled the motion, holding that the charges as framed by the prosecuting committee would sufficiently specify. Later this afternoon the court will hear motions to be allowed to plead not guilty, orally, as in ordinary criminal cases, without filing written answers. After that motion has been disposed of the case probably will go over until the reconvening of court next fall.

THE EVENING STORY

The Blue Brocade Dress

By Vincent Bale.

"If I go to the ball," sighed pretty Anita Judson, "I shall see Ralph, at all events."

"If I go to the ball," snapped Anita's aunt crossly, "Ralph's people will see you—and, incidentally, snub you. Also, you will want a new dress. Her old one, Ida, is too disgraceful."

"If you go to the ball," snapped Anita's Mrs. Judson's sweet voice, "She will look as charming as anyone, despite her old frock. And Ralph will be there, as she says, which will be compensation for both the dress and the snubs—if there are any. I hardly think Capt. Joyce will allow my daughter to be snubbed by his family, Alicia."

Alicia sniffed. She herself had three exceedingly plain and awkward daughters, and she resented her niece's youthful prettiness and grace as a distinct slight to herself on the part of providence. Certainly, Anita had no money, and the few dresses her mother's slender means allowed for were, in her aunt's opinion, "too impossible for words."

Yet Capt. Ralph Joyce had chosen to ignore the certainly more solid charms of the three Miss Broomes, and to fall deeply in love with their penniless cousin.

Anita Judson was the poorest, albeit the prettiest girl in the town, and Ralph, counted it happiness to be her adoring slave—which, considering Mrs. Broome had angled for him vainly during three successive seasons, was, to say the least of it, trying.

Thus she opposed Anita's natural desire to attend the ball strenuously. The function in question was the event of the season—a huge masquerade. Mrs. Judson's daughter, despite her old dresses, was of course bidden to attend, and the presence of Ralph Joyce naturally added to her eagerness to go. Certainly, Ralph's people were to be there, and Ralph's people had already signified their utter disapproval of his engagement. But if Ralph did not care, why should Anita? And Ralph had already made it clear that Anita stood for considerably more to him than the family opinion.

Mrs. Broome, of course, met such sentiments with a sniff. She rose to go with a disagreeable smile. "Let us hope history does not repeat itself, Ida," she remarked plously to Mrs. Judson, and Anita was surprised to see her mother's sweet face suddenly suffused with a burning blush, while her gentle eyes filled with rare tears at her sister's words. "You seem determined that it shall, I must say," continued her ladyship, as she kissed her niece coldly. "I don't know who will chaperone Anita, if she goes. I have my own daughters to look after."

She sailed from the room without waiting for a reply, and Anita slipped away after her, leaving her mother alone. When she returned, Mrs. Judson's agitation had passed. She sat quietly before the fire, her delicate features calm and thoughful.

"Of course, you will go to the ball," she said decisively, when the girl, who knew their exceedingly limited means, murmured her willingness to give up the idea. "I want you to go, Nita. I am just wondering what you can wear. You must have a new dress somehow."

They sat in the shabby little drawing room for a while in thoughtful silence. Unknowingly the thoughts of both wandered to the same object. Upstairs in the attic of the little house was an old oaken chest, and Anita, who had once stolen a peep inside, knew that it contained a treasure in the shape of a once worn ball dress, a beautiful shimmering brocade in a delicate shade of palest blue.

The girl thought of it longingly, but she forebore to mention it. She knew it held tender memories for her mother—had she not found her in tears beside the dusty old coffer?—and Anita would have died sooner than give the sweet old lady beside her the slightest twinge of pain.

Ida Judson was thinking of it, too, that dainty dress that she had put on with happy laughter and taken off with bitter tears. It happened long ago, nearly a score of years. But she dreaded yet the pangs that the sight of the dress would inevitably bring.

But Anita's happiness was more to her mother than her own pain. The child had so few pleasures. And, as she stood by the old chest a little later and drew forth the dainty brocade dress made in the quaint fashion of a past age, the tears fell fast on the gown that brought a rush of bittersweet memories almost overwhelming, no one saw. Her eyes were quite dry and strangely bright when she rejoined Anita in the drawing room. And the girl, exclaiming delightedly over the armfuls of beautiful shimmering stuff her mother carried, could not guess what the sight of it cost Ida.

They picked the voluminous skirt to pieces, and remade the dress, still keeping to the quaintly old-fashioned style, for Anita was to go as a court lady of times gone by, as her mother had at the great ball where she had worn the brocade twenty years ago. Dainty high heeled shoes of satin to match, a couple of fascinating black patches and a little black satin mask, completed the toilet, while Anita's own golden tresses, plentifully powdered and piled high in pompadour fashion, transformed her into the most adorable of court dames.

Her mother, looking at her as she school that evening, ready to depart, could almost have fancied that the years had rolled back, and that the radiant figure in the pale blue brocade and powdered hair, who curtsied laughingly before her, was the Ida Farnham who had dreamed rosy dreams of the future on just such another night a score of years ago.

One thing was wanting, and as the cab wheels sounded outside, Mrs. Judson put into her daughter's hand her last treasure, a dainty white fan, with across it a stain of red—"Ida"—written in glowing rubies.

"Use it carefully, Nita," she said hurriedly. It was given to me the night I wore this dress—by an old friend." She stopped, catching her breath suddenly, and a tear dropped on the pretty fan. Anita, forgetful of her finery, put her arms tenderly round her mother.

"Mother, dear mother, you are crying," she said in consternation. For mother to cry was terrible. Anita almost wept in unison. "It upsets you to see me dressed up in your pretty things—the things you used to wear. I won't go, dear. Let me stay at home with you."

"Nonsense," said her mother, recovering herself with an effort. "It's nothing, foolish child. Here is the cab. Put your cloak on quickly. You mustn't keep Mrs. Simons waiting. Have a good time, darling, and be sure not to mind if Ralph has to dance sometimes with his own people. Go on, go on, at once." She clapped her hands briskly as Anita hesitated, protesting, in the narrow hall. The mother laughed gaily at her reluctance to go. But the laugh died away as the door closed, and she was left alone. She stood on the hearthrug with a sigh.

She was thinking of that night when she had danced so gaily in the dress Anita wore tonight. He had been there, the handsome young soldier lover who had given her the fan she treasured yet. And his family had snubbed the girl who had no dower except her pretty face, just as Ralph Joyce's people held aloof from Anita. History was repeating itself as Alicia Broome had said. But Ida Farnham had resented the attitude of Norman Baggley's family, and resented still more the fact that Norman had given to those haughty aunts and cousins some of the time he might have spent with her on that memorable evening. She had revenged herself by flirting wildly with Allen, whom Norman hated.

The result had been a quarrel. Both had said regrettable things. And Norman had changed into an outward bound regiment before his temper had time to cool, and she had married Allen Judson, who had drunk himself into poverty and death within five years. She had been a widow nearly fifteen years, and she was still only 39, and a pretty woman yet. Her golden hair was as yet untouched, her delicate complexion as brilliant as Anita's. She might have married again—suitors had been plentiful enough in the days of her widowhood. But she had never cared for any of them. She preferred to cherish the memory of the happiness that had been hers till the night she had danced it away in Anita's blue brocade dress.

Meanwhile, Anita, in the gorgeous ball room, was enjoying herself immensely. Mrs. Broome, recognizing her from the wall bench where she sat with her three awkward daughters, was irritated afresh at the sight of the girl's glowing beauty. She was the very image of Ida, and Ida had always been the flower of the flock. Anita was quite a belle tonight, even in an assemblage that boasted more than one famous society beauty. She could have filled her dance program over and over again.

Mrs. Broome, watching her, had the curious feeling that had come to Ida Judson a few hours before. It seemed to her that time had rooled back twenty years; that the ball room was filled with the guests of a score of years ago, and that it was her sister Ida, not her niece, Anita, who was dancing with her adoring soldier lover, in the blue brocade gown.

"Do you mind sitting this out, darling?" whispered Ralph, as he rescued Anita from the clutches of a hunting squire who was endeavoring to convince her that the next waltz was certainly his. "Come into the conservatory, Nita. My uncle, the colonel, has just arrived, and I want you to know him. He's the dearest old boy in the world, and a jolly good pal to me. He's sure to love you, and he'll help to bring the mater around. How ripping you look tonight, darling, to be sure!"

The girl laughed and blushed. "Do you really think he'll like me?"

"He couldn't do otherwise," declared the young lover. "And you'll like him too. Sit here, darling." He led her to a seat in a veritable fairy bower of flowers. "He was talking to the duchess just now. I'll go and fetch him." He went, and the girl, leaning back in her cosy corner, smiled happily. What a dear boy Ralph was, and what a happy time she was having! She wondered what her mother was doing, and suddenly thought of her mother's fan. To her horror she found it was gone! She must have dropped it. Mother's fan, the prized possession of twenty years. She must find it. She sprang to her feet, and wandered along the sweet smelling alleys of flowers, seeking the lost treasure with anxious eyes.

A dance was in full swing now, and the conservatory was almost deserted. Yet the fan was not to be seen. Anita, really upset, raised her eyes from the ground, and paused to consider where the fan could possibly be. As she did so, she became aware of a man who stood a few paces ahead, his back turned toward her. His head was bent, apparently he was intent upon something he held in his hand. It occurred to Anita that he might have found the precious fan. At all events, there could be no harm in asking.

"Oh, please, have you found my fan? I have lost it," she said, and at the sound of her voice the stranger turned so sharply that Anita recoiled involuntarily. He was a fine figure of a man, handsome, soldierly, dressed in ordinary evening dress, with the merest pretence of a mask across the bridge of his handsome nose. His dark hair was touchd with gray, as was the moustache that shaded his mouth. In his coat gleamed the ribbon of an order. He looked at Anita in her blue brocade gown for a long, silent minute, and it seemed to her that his mouth quivered with the force of some emotion. His voice was very husky when at last he spoke, and it was full of a wondrous tenderness.

"My dear, my dear!" he said, and his voice vibrated with such reverent feeling that Anita could neither feel angry or afraid. "My Ida, you have come back to me, from out the past, after twenty years! We have wasted twenty years my dear one. But you are still the same; you must be, for you have kept my poor little fan, and the same dear blue dress. They are playing the same waltz, Ida, the last waltz we danced together. Shall we dance it again, after twenty bitter years?"

He waited for her to speak, and Anita saw that he held in his hand her mother's fan. She was silent a moment, hardly knowing what to say, how to frame the answer that was to break down this man's wonderful illusion. And gradually as she stood there she began to understand. Her mother had never spoken of the romance she cherished in her secret memory, but Anita had, nevertheless, gathered something of the sad little story, and she knew that the memory of it still shadowed her mother's life. This was the lover of her mother's youth, and he thought that Anita, masked in her mother's blue brocade, was the Ida Farnham he had loved and lost, so many years ago. His next words confirmed her theory.

"Oh, I know you married Judson, poor child," he said bitterly. "Mine was the fault—you were not to blame, Ida, you did not forget me—tell me, can you ever forgive?"

He came nearer, and took Anita's hand in his. She withdrew it gently, at the same time raising her mask. "I am not Ida," she said softly. "I am Anita. That is my mother's fan, and this is my mother's gown. She has treasured both for twenty years, and I know it hurt her to part with them. But she wanted me to come to the ball, and I had no dress—we are very poor. She is Ida—your Ida—Ida Judson." The man looked at her in bewildered silence.

"Not Ida!" he said brokenly. "I thought—Miss Judson, I loved your mother twenty years ago, and lost her through a misunderstanding. When I saw you—and this," he held out the fan—"I thought my Ida had come back to me. But it cannot be. Ida has forgotten me."

And Anita, not heeding the fact that the dance was at an end and that people were coming towards the conservatory, stepped forward and slipped her little hand in his. "She has not forgotten," she whispered tenderly, "and I think she loves you still."

Ten minutes later, Ralph, returning after a fruitless search throughout the house for his uncle, was astonished to find his Anita no longer alone, but seated in close and confidential conversation with an elderly gentleman of military appearance, for whose edification, no doubt, she had actually unmasked, though the hour had certainly not yet struck. Just for a moment the gallant captain longed for his rival's blood, the next brought recognition, and anger was forgotten in a hearty handshake.

"Why uncle, I've been looking for you everywhere!" he said in astonishment. "I wanted to introduce you to Anita, but you seem to have managed without me. Isn't she the dearest girl in the world?" he finished, in a burst of enthusiasm.

And the colonel's answer was wholly satisfactory, for it was only to himself he added, "except one."

There were two weddings shortly after the masquerade, both of them social events of considerable importance, Mrs. Judson's happiness helped to realize Anita's, for Col. Baggley was by way of being a power in the land, and Ralph's family, even while they deplored in secret the loss of the colonel as a bachelor uncle, could hardly object to Ralph's marrying the daughter of his uncle's bride. So both marriages were solemnized within a very short time of each other, and each caused a very great sensation indeed. Mrs. Judson again wore the brocade dress, but this time for her wedding.

OSBORN RAPS COREY.

Michigan Governor Criticizes Steel Man's Marital Acts.

Hancock, Mich., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Osborn in his address here at the home coming celebration Saturday afternoon scored the divorce evil and took occasion to criticise the marital acts of W. E. Corey, ex-president of the United States Steel corporation.

"Here in this state of Michigan more divorces and decrees of divorce are granted in a single year than in the whole Dominion of Canada in fifty years," declared the governor. "I have always believed and believe now that the law should see to it that 'what God has joined together let no man put asunder.'

"This example of easy divorce is being set unhappily by those in high stations. Not long ago, and no doubt most of you remember reading of it in the papers at the time, a high official in the steel trust, Mr. Corey—I mention his name because I despise such a man—put aside the wife of his youth—the wife who had helped him rise and helped him gather his great fortune—and took in her place a creature of the stage. I say the law should not permit such an outrage as this."

Cutting Wire Grass.

Middle River, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Waite Matting company of Oshkosh, Wis., who have a wire grass cutting outfit here, have commenced work on a large scale. There is abundant wire grass, most of the swamps here this year being from 80 to 90 per cent clear wire grass. The camp is a little village of buildings and tents, and over eighty horses and 100 men will be employed until Christmas.

Mandan Autoists' Close Call.

Mandan, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jumping out just before it struck a bridge, where it was thrown into a gulch fifteen feet deep, the gasoline tank exploding and the car being destroyed, Ralph Ross and Fritz Voss of this city experienced a decidedly narrow escape from death. They were coming down a heavy grade when a bolt droped from the steering gear, and Ross lost control of the car.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

Yesterday's drenching rain held off just long enough to make the carnival a complete success. The rainfall yesterday was very heavy and continuous, but toward evening the sky cleared. It was cool enough in Duluth last evening to satisfy the most ardent advocate of cool nights, and fair, cool weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today it was fair and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 4:33 and will set at 7:51, making fifteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A disturbance of marked intensity now central over Eastern Ontario caused light to heavy rains throughout the lake region, Canada, central valley and Northwestern states during the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours. Brisk and high southerly to westerly winds also resulted in the lake region Sunday and last night. Storm warnings have been displayed at Lake Superior ports since Sunday morning, but were changed to northwest warnings at 8:30 a. m. today. A strong high pressure area centered over Montana has caused much cooler weather over the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, the Northwest and the western lake region, but rising temperatures will follow over the Northwest during Tuesday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 24.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m.:

Upper Michigan—Showers followed by clearing Tuesday; Tuesday fair; continued cool.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight; cooler in central and east portions; Tuesday fair.

Iowa—Fair tonight, slightly cooler in north portion; Tuesday fair; slightly warmer in central and west portions.

Minnesota—Fair; continued cool tonight; Tuesday fair; slightly warmer in west and south portions.

North and South Dakota—Fair and continued cool tonight; Tuesday fair; rising temperature.

Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday with slowly rising temperature.

RAINFALL WIDESPREAD

Sunday's Downpour Drenched Many States Through the West.

Grain Crops and Gardens Benefited—Little Damage Done.

Duluth was visited Saturday night and Sunday by the heaviest rain of the year, and while considerable damage was done, the benefits resulting were great. The rain was not confined to the vicinity about Duluth, but according to the weather bureau covered the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Montana, Kansas and Western Canada.

Locally, the damage consisted in filling many basements with water, which ruined some merchandise, ripping up some of the new work being done on streets, tearing up a little old pavement and flooding many streets.

The rain put an end to many of the outings planned for the day. Picnics were postponed, while many who had planned outings were forced to stay at home. The Herald concert at Chester park was abandoned, excursions up the river were given up, and the big double-header baseball game between Duluth and Superior was put off.

But the benefits were not confined entirely to the crops. The gardens in and about Duluth were in need of rain, and the downpour drenched the ground thoroughly, seeming to give new life and vigor to the vegetation.

To the big fields throughout the states visited by the rain, the storm was most timely and so heavy that the crops are considered safe for the rest of the year, even if no more should come.

Whether the rain will benefit all the crops is a question, many claiming that it came too late for the wheat and oats, although in plenty of time for all the other crops.

The report from the weather bureau last evening showed that 2.65 inches of rain fell in Duluth in the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock.

company, 5.50; Glasgow Iron company, to the extent of sales and up to 40,000 tons, should they be able to accomplish them, prior to Dec. 31, 1911.

Debts of members of the association were required to be paid by check drawn to the order of T. Mellon & Sons, Pittsburg, to the credit of the association.

The agreement included exemption tonnage provisions, and at the end of each year the commissioner of the association balanced the pool between the members, but any member unable to produce his full allotment at the end of the year forfeited such unproduced tonnage, which was divided pro-rata among other members of the pool.

Report to Commissioner.

Another provision of the agreement required that "all plates shipped into the states bordering on the Pacific coast and to be actually used in the territory into which it is shipped, and also all plates actually exported for use outside the limits of the United States, be reported to a commissioner, together with bills of lading, or any other evidence of exportation, for actual use abroad, satisfactory to him (said evidence to be confidential and not to be circulated among members)." Such tonnage was to be deducted from the members' report and the agreed pool tax charged.

The agreement also bound the members to make sales between parties to the agreement at pool prices.

To insure rendering of statements and faithful adherence of each party to the terms of the agreement, a guarantee fund of $100,000 was provided by payment of $1,000 on each per cent of allotment.

Eugene C. Bonniwell of Wayne, Pa., a lawyer and Democratic candidate for congressman last autumn, told the committee he induced F. B. Kauffman of Coalesville, Pa., a publisher who printed a copy of the agreement for the Lukens Steel company in 1900, to procure a copy of it for the steel committee.

Objection By Lindabury.

Richard Lindabury, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, protested against the introduction of the copy of the Steel Plate association's agreement.

"This is not signed," said Mr. Lindabury. "There is no evidence that it was signed, and the date already given is a year in advance of the formation of the United States Steel corporation."

"This has an important bearing," declared Chairman Stanley, "because members of the pool were bound to remain members for two years, and further because I have been advised that practically the same memoranda was contained in the steel and wire agreement which resulted in recent indictments."

Denies the Agreement.

Republican members demanded to know if the chairman had attempted to get the original agreement. Counsel Lindabury said that the secretary of the United States Steel corporation was subpoenaed Saturday to produce the original copy of the agreement.

"We have not got such an agreement in any of our files, and cannot produce it and have nothing to do with it," said Mr. Lindabury. "We deny all knowledge of it, and feel that we ought not to be connected with it in this record, especially as this is an unauthentic copy and there is nothing to indicate its authenticity."

The copy of the agreement was placed in the record.

HINES SAYS TAFT OFFERED TO HELP TO ELECT LORIMER

mer seemed to be the only man upon whom the factions could unite. Mr. Hines continued:

"Mr. Boutell said that after he told the president of Lorimer's capabilities and of the ability of the factions to unite on him, he (the president) said that he was very anxious to have a senator elected from Illinois, and that Mr. Lorimer was very acceptable to him, and that he would do all he could to assist in electing him."

Found it in His Papers.

"When did you find this supposed letter?" asked Senator Kern of Indiana.

"I found it in going through my papers."

"Did you have it when you testified a few days ago?"

"Yes."

Mr. Hines explained that the sheet of paper had been enclosed to him in another letter from Mr. Boutell. The letter was brought from Chicago with a bundle of papers, Mr. Hines testified.

"Doesn't the letter with which this sheet was sent show the date?"

Separate From Letter.

"Well, as this sheet was regarding my personal affairs, it was separated from the letter in which it came."

"Why didn't Mr. Boutell write this on the rest of the letter?" asked Senator Jones.

"I don't just know."

"Wasn't there room?"

"I cannot say at this time."

"When was it written?"

"Some time after Mr. Lorimer's election. You will notice a water mark on this letter by which it might be traced."

Hines testified that Mr. Boutell's talk with the president was two or three weeks before Lorimer was elected.

On Way to White House.

"I know the day," declared Mr. Hines, "because I met him on the way to the White House. He said that he was going to the White House to tell the president that it looked as if Lorimer was the only man upon whom the factions could unite and to ask the president to help him."

"Was he going to tell that the Democrats would vote for Lorimer?" asked Senator Kern.

"I think not. We thought then that the Republican factions could unite on Lorimer."

Mr. Hines testified that at that time Mr. Boutell had given up hope of being elected himself.

Later Mr. Hines placed the date of the alleged talk between Boutell and the president as probably not more than ten days before Lorimer's election.

Mr. Hines, in his previous testimony, had said that Former Senator Aldrich told him the president was anxious to have Lorimer elected. Mr. Aldrich last week testified that he told Hines the president merely said Lorimer was "not objectionable" as a candidate.

awaiting a lull in the storm. His first words, however, were a signal for another cyclone, and for twenty minutes the premier stood, unable to speak a word.

Criers of "Hurrah for Redmond, the real leader!" suddenly broke out from the Conservative benches. "We will listen to Redmond," they added.

"The British aristocracy!" was the scornful reply of the radicals; "look at 'em!"

Sir Edward Henry Carson, Unionist for Dublin university, moved an adjournment. The speaker said that he would be delighted to entertain the motion, but the proceedings had not started.

Again and again Asquith tried to speak, but a whirlwind of cries drowned his voice.

"Write Another Letter!"

"Divide, divide;" "Let us know the terms of the bargain;" "Write another letter;" "Toe the line," were among the favorite shouts.

A strong appeal by the speaker finally caused a momentary cessation of the verbal tornado, and Asquith got out a couple of sentences, asserting that the principle of the parliamentary bill was affirmed as far back as 1907 and afterwards was confirmed at the general election.

Interruptions followed, the Unionists shouting: "Cannot we hear the dictator?"

Asquith went on:

"The house of commons carried a resolution in favor of the bill in 1910 by a large majority, and but for the death of King Edward—"

"Keep the king out of politics;" "Who killed him—you did!" from the opposition benches.

During the next lull the premier resumed:

"But for the death of the king and the temporary truce (cries of "A bright sort of truce!") it would have been passed at that session through all its stages. The constitutional conference proved that with the best will, a settlement by agreement was impossible. This bill was pleaded to the lords, it was laid aside in favor of an alternative scheme put forward by Lord Lansdowne on behalf of the responsible leaders of the opposition."

As the premier spoke, the uproar was continued and only snatches of what he said could be heard.

He referred to criticisms of the lords' amendments. Only slight verbal changes were required, and very few such changes, to alter the whole sense of the bill, to which, after due time and consideration, they were going to ask the house of commons to consent. He added:

"A situation has been created (cries of 'By Redmond!') from which there is only one constitutional escape. That is, unless the lords consent to restore all with, if you like, [illegible] amendments consistent with its principle and purpose, we shall be compelled to invoke the prerogative of the crown."

At this declaration the tumult was renewed in all its earlier strength.

ON THE IRON RANGES

WILL RUSH WORK ON NEW BUILDING

Superior Contractor Will Hustle Along New Eveleth School.

Eveleth, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board has awarded the contract for the general erection of the new ten room, two story brick Fayal grade school to John Donland of Superior, Wis., whose bid of $44,870 was the lowest submitted by the five firms bidding. The details will be closed today so that work can start at once on the erection of the new school which is to be completed by Feb. 1. Night and day crews will be employed, as pupils of the Fayal district will have to be accommodated in the high school building.

The Spencer Heating company of Minneapolis, which installed the present heating and ventilating system in the high school building, was granted the heating contract for the new school, though their bid of $6,985 was higher than the one submitted by the Northern Plumbing and Heating company of this city. The Minneapolis firm was awarded the work on the ground that the board believed the local firm unable to handle the work in time, being occupied with many other contracts in range towns.

The plumbing work was awarded to the Northern Plumbing and Heating company of this city, as Joseph Polak of Biwabik whose bid of $2,200 was the lowest submitted is busily occupied with contracts in other cities. The winning bid amounted to $3,367.

Buff brick for the new school was selected by the school board from the Hydraulic Press Brick company of Minneapolis, over the materials submitted by the Paine-Nixon firm of Duluth. Vaccum cleaning systems and other equipments for the building were also purchased Saturday evening.

STIPETICH CLAIMS HE WAS ELSEWHERE

Accused Eveleth Theater Proprietor Would Establish an Alibi.

Eveleth, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrest Saturday of well known local people on a charge of arson in connection with the Empress theater fire continues the reigning sensation. The accused will have a hearing in municipal court, Aug. 1. Max Stipetich, proprietor of the Bijou theater and for seventeen years a resident of Eveleth, contends that he was home the morning of the fire, and F. Pickering of this city and Guy Coffee of Ely, who were rooming in the Bijou block then, both state that they were notified of the fire by Max Rubens, another roomer, and that Mr. Stipetich was sleeping at the time. Marceo Disovitch, also arrested, was found sleeping by the roomers, according to their stories. Matijsech, who is a farmhand, is implicated but claims that he was staying at the John Tomasich farm in the St. Louis river district at the time of the fire. Stipetich is a large property owner here and has a family of eight, and was allowed to go on his own recognizance, together with the defendants, until Aug. 1 when their cases will be called.

Frank E. Carpenter of the burned Empress and Othello theaters is now spending the month at his former home at Hope, N. D., but is expected soon. His theater is being remodeled as is the Bijou and both playhouses will re-open next month.

POWDER PLANT TO START NEXT FALL

Officials of Company Pass Through Duluth to Inspect Range Concern.

George Patterson, general superintendent of the black powder department of the Du Pont De Nemours Powder company, and Arthur W. Copp, assistant chief engineer of Wilmington, Del., arrived in Duluth yesterday and were at the Spalding en route to Hibbing to inspect the new plant built by the company at Wilpin, seven miles distant. They proceeded to Hibbing today. They are in the West looking over the various plants of the powder concern, coming here from the Copper country and Ashland, where they inspected plants.

Start Wilpin Plant Oct. 1.

Mr. Copp said he expected the Hibbing or Wilpin plant will be in operation about Oct. 1, or shortly before freezing weather. He said the plant will have a capacity of about 1,500 kegs of black powder daily, and cost, as stated in Saturday's Herald, about $250,000. The powder men said that the blow-up in Southern Wisconsin several months ago, doing extensive damage, will not be rebuilt. The company has effected a settlement with all the people who sustained damages as a result of the explosion. The company always settles all legitimate claims and rarely has law suits growing out of explosions on its hands.

BOYLE GIVEN HIS FREEDOM

Hibbing, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—After hearing the case against George Boyle, arrested last week at the instance of Mrs. Hawking, a homesteader living near Sturgeon lake on the charge of attempted assault upon her 14-year-old daughter, Judge Brady, in view of the lack of evidence, dismissed the case, but warned Boyle to keep away from the Hawking home.

LUMBER ENOUGH FOR MANY YEARS

Virginia & Rainy Lake Company Has Supply Thirty Years Ahead.

Virginia, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The timber holdings of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company in this section and Canada are deemed sufficient to keep the big sawmill plant here, one of the largest in the world, going for thirty years, according to estimates made by officials. This is assured as the result of a recent visit made by Frank H. Gilmore, the superintendent of logging, to the company's timber holdings in Canada.

Several days were spent in looking over holdings which are estimated to contain several billion feet of standing timber. This timber will, it is expected, eventually be cut by these companies and shipped to its several mills in this state, a greater amount coming to Virginia to keep busy the sawmill plant.

Improvements are continually going on at the plant in the way of building additional tramways and tracks, and there are now about fifty-two miles of tracks in the company's yards.

WHITE SLAVERY GIVEN SCORING

Leader in Warfare Against Traffic Addresses Large Eveleth Audience.

Eveleth, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many attended the mass meeting yesterday afternoon at the M. E. church, which was addressed by Detective C. W. Arnold, who for the past fifteen years has been waging warfare against white slavery.

In his address on "Give the Girls a Chance," he eloquently described the temptations surrounding girls in the city and country, and warned parents to safeguard their own families by watching their movements and also informing them of the dangers that exist. He gave statistics dealing with his subject and of the work being done in other states where legislatures are passing stringent laws to safeguard the home and defeat white slavery.

Better Legislation Wanted.

The activities of the agents in the evil traffic were graphically described, and the address proved very interesting holding the attention of the large congregation throughout. He urged those present to petition the state legislature for better measures with which to deal with the traffic, and in closing dealt with the temptations surrounding the home.

At the St. John's Episcopal church yesterday morning, in his sermon on "No Church or More Church," Rev. A. E. Carswell emphasized the fact that more attention should be paid to religious matters, and that religions should be studied and church-going made a habit, instead of a hardship.

Interesting services were conducted at the M. E. church by Rev. B. D. Hanscom while at the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., was in charge.

SHOOTS HIS BROTHER

Little Ralph Ross Accidentally Discharges Rifle While Removing Cartridge.

George, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ross of 428 East Sixth street, was accidentally shot through the abdomen yesterday by his brother, Ralph, 15 years of age, at Brevatore, on the Great Northern road.

Accompanied by their mother and a woman friend, the boys had gone for a two weeks' vacation and took a 22-caliber rifle with them. They shot a few times and one of the cartridges stuck in the chamber. The older boy had the rifle and was trying to extricate the shell with a knife. He fired it with the knife while the younger brother was standing in front of the rifle.

The boy was brought to St. Mary's hospital last evening on the advice of a physician who was summoned from Cloquet. The bullet was not located last night, but an X-ray photograph was taken, which, it is expected, will disclose its whereabouts. Although in serious condition, there is every chance for his recovery.

The boys are nephews of John G. Ross, clerk of the local municipal court.

AGED PAIR DRINK ACID TOGETHER

Middletown, N. Y., July 24.—Edward D. Crans and wife, a middle-aged couple, were found dead in their home here Sunday afternoon. They had carried out a suicide pact by drinking carbolic acid, after making all arrangements for a funeral. Mrs. Crans was dressed in her bridal clothes, which she had saved for more than a score of years. Man and wife were locked in each other's embrace.

It is the coroner's opinion that the suicide was carried out at least five days ago. A letter was left complaining that poverty had driven them to self-destruction. Neighbors say they had no idea the couple was in needy circumstances, and it seemed that the couple's pride was too great for them to let their real condition be known.

Mrs. Crans was one time editor of the Middletown Daily Press.

Two letters were found, one of which, dated March 16, said:

"When our wills were drawn, some time ago, we expected to leave you a nice sum, but we have lived too long. Christian friends have been so scarce that everything is about gone. No work, after paying taxes for years. When we need money, our friends (as we thought) desert us.

"One dear friend, only one in this Christian city, has tried to help us. What are their lives? Very few are true. If I only dared tell what I know. My dear husband is all that I have left; and he, too, is tired of life. This is a clear case of suicide, for want of work to make a living, and should be made public."

The letter was signed "Jennie Crans."

The other letter directed that a simple prayer at the grave should suffice for funeral service.

DICK McLAGAN ON JOB.

Brainerd, Minn., July 24.—Dick McLagan, the veteran engineer, formerly of Brainerd and now residing in St. Paul, proved himself a hero near Little Falls. With his train, No. 11, of the Northern Pacific railway, rushing through the darkness he rounded the curve to cross the long bridge out of Little Falls for Brainerd, when his engine struck a horse weighing fully 1,500 pounds belonging to the lumber company. The animal's head and legs flew into the river. The rest of the carcass was rolled from end to end across the bridge. The front trucks of the engine left the track and bumped the ties. Quick as a flash McLagan threw the throttle wide open and with his trucks hitting the ties, the pilot shattered, one wheel of the baggage car off the track and his drive wheels still clinging to the rails, he ran over the long bridge saving train, passengers and crew from destruction.

"The House Where Your Credit Is Good"

DULUTHIANS ARE PLEASED

Duluth Grain Dealers Are Delighted at Passage of Reciprocity.

Means Increased Business for City—Will Not Injure Farmers.

Commission men, elevator men and millers of the Duluth Board of Trade, as well as business interests generally in Duluth, are well pleased with the passage of the reciprocity agreement by the United States senate. The bill has already passed the house and it will certainly be signed by the president Wednesday. The ratification of the agreement by the Canadian parliament, which now seems a certainty, is alone needed to complete the pact and put it into effect.

The opinion is generally expressed that the agreement means much to Duluth. Duluth's location as the outlet to the Northwestern wheat fields, both of the United States and Canada, is strategic, and with the Canadian agreement in effect, and the Canadian Northern line running directly from Western Canada to Duluth, much wheat that now goes to other ports will be diverted to Duluth for export trade. It means an increase in all lines of grain business here, besides additional railroad traffic, so that Duluth will benefit as much, if not more than any city as a result of the agreement.

Duluth's interest in the agreement has not been purely selfish, however. It is firmly believed by Duluth business men that the agreement is the best thing for the country that has been done during the present administration, or longer. It means the consumer will benefit to some extent and that the tariff wall has been penetrated at the point where penetration would do the most good.

It is conceded by Duluth grain dealers that Northwestern farmers may be affected to some little extent for the next year or two, but that ultimately they will also benefit greatly by the agreement. As a matter of fact, it is pointed out, the United States has raised little grain for export in the past few years. The markets of the world are open to Canadian as well as American wheat and the farmer must compete abroad, even if he is not required to do so at home. The agreement will so adjust matters, it is pointed out, that Minnesota farmers will stand in the same relation to Canadian farmers as they do now with North Dakota farmers, and in time they will suffer no more by that competition.

It is considered beyond question that the Canadian parliament will ratify the agreement. Duluth business men say that the calamity howlers will not be able to say, "I told you so," after the agreement is in effect for a comparatively short time.

Y. M. C. A. MAKES A GOOD RECORD

Local Association Compares Favorably With Larger City Institutions.

Statistical reports published in the year book by the International committee of the Y. M. C. A., shows that the work carried on by the local association compares very favorably with that of the large cities, and exceeds all but two of fourteen cities, the smaller of which has a greater population than the Zenith City.

Duluth, with a population of about 80,000 has 1,987 members, while St. Louis, with 700,000 people has only 2,243 Y. M. C. A. members. St. Paul is the other of the fourteen cities to exceed Duluth's membership, having 2,093 members out of its 235,000 population.

The following table shows the population of the cities compared with Duluth, with the association membership, the number of rooms in the dormitory and the number of members using the physical department privileges during the year:

FIVE FALL WITH AUTO; TWO MAY NOT SURVIVE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 24.—Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Milner of this city, the latter a daughter of Col. C. B. Wing, prominent paper manufacturer, were probably fatally injured at Cleves, Ohio, Sunday when their automobile went over a seventy-five foot embankment on the Graydon road. With Dr. and Mrs. Milner at the time were Mrs. C. B. Wing and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin, the latter a daughter of John Harlin, the theatrical magnate. The latter three were seriously, but not fatally injured.

The automobile turned over four times before it reached the bottom of the embankment, and it apears miraculous that all five of the party were not killed.

SHOOTS AT SUITOR: KILLS BEST FRIEND.

New York, July 24.—Mrs. Alemia Facella last night shot at an admirer, by whom she claims, she had been annoyed for several years. The bullet went wild and struck and killed Mrs. Rabino Vitulla, her best friend, who was about to intervene in the quarrel. Mrs. Facella was locked up, charged with homicide.

WILL CHECK OVER TREASURER'S BOOKS.

A. D. Fritz of St. Paul, public examiner, is in the city today.

Mr. Fritz will make an examination of the accounts of County Treasurer Holgate. He was here for the purpose of getting his assistants, Col. C. B. Johnson and J. C. Lederberg, started on the work.

It was Mr. Fritz's first visit to the city since the erection of the new court house building and a part of the morning was spent in looking it over.

It is expected that the examination of the county treasurer's books will require from three to four weeks.

HE MARKED HIS MONEY

Storekeeper Plays Detective and Arrests Customer for Larceny.

Park Point Man Claims Woman Extracted $5 From Till.

Following a series of losses from his cash register, Adam Molinet, proprietor of a confectionery store just the other side of the canal, set a trap which resulted in the arrest of Mary Harrison this morning on a charge of petty larceny. She is 34 years of age and gave her occupation as a housewife.

Molinet stated at headquarters this morning that he has been missing sums of money from his till for the last two weeks. After one or two shortages he said that he began to take the numbers of all the bills which went into the drawer so that he could identify them later if necessary. He also informed his wife of his plan.

This morning it is claimed that Mrs. Harrison came into the store while the proprietor was absent and made a purchase which compelled his wife to go to the back of the store. It is claimed that she kept watch and saw Mrs. Harrison extract a $5 bill from the till.

Hurrying out she called Policeman Walter Murray, who placed Mrs. Harrison under arrest on the larceny charge. At headquarters she was turned over to the matron, who, in searching her, found a $5 bill in her stocking, it is claimed.

When arraigned in police court this morning Mrs. Harrison denied her guilt. Her trial was set for Thursday morning and bail fixed at $50.

WEARIES OF WEDDED LIFE

Mrs. David Ogilvie Friendly With Husband, But Wants Separation.

On a simple charge of desertion, Mrs. Henrietta M. Ogilvie, 49, asks a divorce from her husband, David Ogilvie, 58 years old, after twenty-six years of married life.

The case is on trial today before Judge H. A. Dancer of the district court.

The case is unusual in that there are no charges similar to those on which a divorce case is usually brought out.

Mrs. Ogilvie admitted on the stand that her relations with Mr. Ogilvie were friendly, but that he was away a greater part of the time—had been for the last ten or twelve years—had contributed but little toward her support, and that she felt that she is entitled to a divorce.

Mr. Ogilvie is fighting the proceedings. He states that events have decreed that they should be separated a greater part of the time and that this has been no fault of his.

Albert R. Allen of Fairmont, Minn., appears for the defendant and Attorney Ross of this city appears for the plaintiff.

MARINE

SHIPMENTS HEAVY FROM SOO DOCKS.

The steamer H. W. Oliver left the Soo ore docks of Superior yesterday with a big cargo of ore from the Cuyuna range, for the lower lakes. During the last two or three days the shipments from this dock have been heavy, all of them coming from the new range. This range is expected to develop greatly during the next few months, and undoubtedly will contribute much to the fall shipments of ore.

MORE TRADE WITH CANADA AND EAST

Washington, July 24.—A review of the foreign trade of the United States during the last twelve months shows a steady increase in commerce with Canada and the Orient.

Exports from the United States to Canada jumped from $216,000,000 to $270,000,000 and imports from Canada increased from $95,000,000 to $101,000,000. Comparative increases in business with China and Japan are also evident.

This country's foreign commerce for the year showed a marked decrease in imports and an increase in exports. The balance of trade therefore was substantially in favor of the United States, and American bankers have enlarged gold balances to draw upon in the European money centers.

Great Britain is still America's best customer. Exports to the United Kingdom in the past year totaled $576,000,000.

BURGLARS TOOK A NAP

Home of Walter Thompson Ransacked From Cellar to Attic.

After ransacking the residence of Walter Thompson of 617 East Third street from attic to cellar, the thieves calmly lay down on a bed with their muddy boots on, and took a nap Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

The back door was found open yesterday by Mrs. Mary Walsh, police matron, who resides next door, when she went over to use the telephone. Suspecting that something was wrong, as the members of the family were at Pike lake, she entered and found the rooms in the wildest disorder. The chairs had been tumbled about, clothes were scattered over the floor, drawers had been pulled out and emptied of their contents and about everything that could be moved tossed out of place. She immediately notified police headquarters and detectives were detailed to investigate, but found no clew which would aid them to establish the identity of the sleepy burglars.

Whether the thieves slept long or not, could not be determined. The pillows and the spread showed where they had lain down for some little time, at least. At the foot were large muddy spots from their boots.

An examination today showed that they had taken an expensive set of furs and two dresses belonging to Mrs. Thompson. A peculiar feature is that they took the feminine apparel only, and leaving behind them the family silverware. No money or jewelry had been left in the house.

SAFEGUARD THE MINERS

Range Mine Superintendents Gather Here to Discuss Safety Devices.

Today in the executive offices of the Oliver Iron Mining company the general superintendents of all the mines of the various districts of Northern Minnesota together with the surface foremen, blastmen and some of the employes having charge of the various departments of the mines, are meeting with General Manager J. H. McLean and Vice President Pentecost Mitchell, in an effort to decide on safety devices for the various mines that will prove effective in preventing accidents.

The superintendents and the men working in the mines under their charge, reached Duluth at 10 o'clock this morning and began the meeting which is scheduled to last today and the greater part of tomorrow.

In detail the superintendents are taking up the work of placing all the mines of the Oliver company upon a basis of safety which will reduce the chance of any injury to the vast number of laborers employed in the mines, to a minimum.

While the mines of Northern Minnesota have been particularly free from disaster, considering the number of men employed, the accident on the range not so very long ago led the officials of the company to take steps to prevent, if safe guarding in every possible way could, any chance of some of the horrors that have occurred in the Pennsylvania districts. The meeting today is the result of this resolution, and during the presence here of the various Oliver officials, various plans and suggestions that have been prepared by the different superintendents, will be taken up and a general scheme worked out that will combine the very best ideas of the men and the officials of the company.

WILL LEAVE FOR WEST.

Joseph Ferrier Will Build Bridges for the Great Northern.

SAYS HE KILLED MAN.

Robert McMullen Tells Sandstone Officer He Is a Murderer.

Sandstone, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming that he killed a man named Household in Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 1, 1910, Robert McMullen, who has been working here as a plumber's helper, has surrendered himself to the town marshal, saying his conscience will not permit his being free longer. He is being held while the Nashville authorities are communicated with.

On the man's person after his arrest was found $60 in money, and his grips contained clothing of excellent material. He evidently had not been in need, and from his appearance and conversation has been well brought up.

The crime for which the man says the police of the East have been searching for him for nearly a year is the killing of a companion in the De Armand saloon, Patterson and Church streets, Nashville. McMullen says he was in the saloon until a late hour September 1, 1910, and was assaulted by Household. He alleges in his confession to the chief of police that he had to protect himself with his gun, and that the shot which he fired killed his assailant. He says he made his escape as best he could and came West to roam from one section to another as harvest hand, woodsman, waiter, man of all jobs and finally plumber's assistant. He has been working with a plumber on the new school building for two weeks.

THE RAILROADS, THE GOVERNOR AND THE PEOPLE.

That The Herald's campaign for an extra session of the legislature to readjust railroad taxation, backed by the free country press of the state, is pressing close to home, is evident from the manner in which those who fear the result of such a session are being spurred by their fears into making lame and halting defense of the governor for his failure, so far, to act in this emergency.

The Twin City newspapers are voicing this opposition, which is natural in view of the fact that any readjustment of railroad relations with the public is pretty sure to break down the infamous system of favoritism under which these cities are artificially stimulated at the expense of the rest of the state, of Duluth no less than of Albert Lea or Redwood.

Elsewhere this evening The Herald publishes in full an article from the political column of the Minneapolis Tribune in which The Herald's campaign for an extra session is discussed. We publish it because it is obviously inspired, and because it shows the utter lack of arguments against the readjustment of railroad taxation at an extra session to be held next winter. It is particularly interesting because the political column of the Tribune is recognized as the vehicle for the ideas of Ex-Senator Ed Smith, chairman of the Republican state central committee and Governor Eberhart's chief adviser.

This article makes three things very clear:

First, that there is a desire on the part of those behind Governor Eberhart to avert an extra session at any cost and by any means whatever.

Second, that the powers that be have conceived the idea that a pretty good way to kill the effect of The Herald's campaign would be to make out that it is a political scheme to "put the governor in a hole." As The Herald has pointed out, the situation presents a unique opportunity for Governor Eberhart to show if he has any real character and firmness and if he stands for the people, and the only possible way he can get "into a hole" is by failing to rise to the opportunity and to do his plain duty in this matter. And as to political considerations, this matter is too important to be hedged in or defeated by anything so petty. The Herald knows that the railroads are not paying as much taxes as they should, that they are paying 4 per cent on their gross earnings when other property pays 6, 10, 12 and 15 per cent, that the state tax commission has shown that if they were taxed as other property is taxed their taxes would amount to more than 6 per cent on their gross earnings, that the tax commission has recommended an increase, that the increase when made must first be ratified by the people, that if action is postponed until the regular session of 1913 the increase cannot be voted upon before 1914 and will not be effective until 1915, and that if it is submitted by the legislature next winter it can be voted upon at the election of 1912 and become effective two years earlier, thus saving the state $2,000,000 in revenue which will otherwise be lost.

Knowing these things, The Herald in the utmost good faith is urging the governor to call an extra session to be held next January, and from information in its possession it believes that the unfettered people of Minnesota are back of this demand.

The third thing this inspired presentation of the governor's case makes clear is that those who are opposing the extra session and trying to give reasons for their opposition are making very heavy going of it.

The Tribune article states that The Herald is sending circulars to members of the legislature asking their views on this subject, and this is true. It is not true that there is in this circular any suggestion of an "immediate" extra session, so the argument against that is wasted breath. The Herald has asked the members of the legislature to state their views, and answers have been received from the greater part of them. The result will be published as soon as replies are received from a few members who are now away from their home communities, and while it would be unfair to divulge at this time the nature of these replies, The Herald doesn't mind saying that the result will not be pleasing to those who are striving to avert the extra session, nor to those who express doubt of the will or ability of the legislature to cope with this matter.

The Tribune attempts to show that the Constitution stands in the way of the disposal of the question of railroad taxation at an extra session because it requires all proposed changes in railroad taxes to be submitted to the people. Bless the Tribune's innocent soul, that's the very meat of the whole question! It is because the Constitution requires the submission of the increase in railroad taxes to the people that it is folly to postpone action until the regular session of 1913. That would mean that the people could not vote on the matter until the election of 1914, when if the increase is submitted by the legislature at an extra session next winter it can be voted on by the people next year, and become effective in 1913, or two years earlier than it would if adopted by the legislature at the regular session.

The Tribune wastes much space discussing the inadvisability of submitting the increase at a special election. There has been no suggestion of a special election, and if the governor summons the legislature in extraordinary session next winter there will be no need of any because the matter can be voted on at the regular election next fall.

It is said that the consumers would pay the increased taxes. So they might ultimately, since the consumer ultimately pays all taxes except the tax on land; but that is no argument against taxing railroad property as much as other property. If it were a valid argument it would be as valid if used in behalf of exempting the railroads from taxation altogether, and if valid in behalf of railroads it would be valid in behalf of banks, groceries, meat markets, street railways and all other commercial, industrial and transportation enterprises, because each of them hands its taxes on to its patrons to be paid by them.

An attempt is made to show that the passage of a bill increasing the gross earnings tax would adversely affect the railroad rate cases pending in the supreme court. That is ridiculous. The right of the state to increase railroad taxes has been upheld by the courts. Even if there were any public interest or hope in these pending cases, and even if the question of railroad taxation had a bearing upon them, the cases will have been submitted to the supreme court, and very likely decided, before the legislature acts, and the court could not presume that the people will ratify the increase next fall.

The arguments against the extra session are very lame indeed; in fact there are no arguments against it except such as might appeal to railroad managers and the interests which fear that the legislature at a special session might accomplish something for the people.

THE SUCCESS OF THE CARNIVAL.

Duluth's first Midsummer Water Carnival was a complete success, if we do say it ourselves. And it wasn't a success because success "just grew," like Topsy; it was a success because it was well planned, because the plans were well carried out, and because a lot of energy, ingenuity and hard work went into it.

Therefore a lot of credit is due the Duluth Boat club, the Commercial club, the carnival committee and all who contributed ideas, money and work to the making of this success, and The Herald takes pleasure, for its part, in extending this credit where it belongs. It was a big thing to do, and it had to be done well. A failure would have been a setback for Duluth in more ways than one, for Duluth's name is becoming synonymous with success, and the city cannot afford, therefore, to have failures associated with its fame.

Few who were not associated with the work of building the carnival can realize the amount of invention and hard labor that were required to make it so great a success. It took a lot of both; and it is to be said for the citizenship of Duluth that plenty of both were available when they were called for.

Duluth is justified in feeling a bit cocky about the success of so pretentious an enterprise, and it should feel encouraged to repeat the experiment on a larger and grander scale next year.

A word, too, should be said for the deftness with which the weather man split a hard rain storm in two to allow the carnival plans to be carried out to the letter.

A BREACH IN THE WALL.

The passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill through the senate Saturday afternoon by a vote of 53 to 27 is one of the finest things that ever happened to this country.

It is a victory for the president, but above all it is a victory for the people.

It will work out large benefits to all the people of this country and to all the people of Canada. It is to be hoped that the Canadian parliament will lose less time than we have done in ratifying it, and there is little doubt that that will be the case.

A boon to the people and a promise of better things to come, it is a life-preserver to the president. Without it there might have been doubt even of his renomination. With it there is no doubt whatever of that, and more doubt than existed six months ago has been cast upon the result of next year's presidential election.

On the reciprocity raft the president has struggled out of a morass of doubt and suspicion and is getting toward firm footing on the high ground of public confidence. It has been a slow process, and painful, this thing of doing what the World's Work aptly calls "educating a president." In the beginning there was Cannon, there was Aldrich, there was Ballinger, there was the Old Guard in close ranks about the president preventing the light or sound of right from reaching him. There still is Wickersham, but the president has learned to think for himself and to stand firmly and fearlessly for his own beliefs. He isn't always right, but the impression is growing that he would like very much to be right, and that even if he is slow to learn, and was enormously handicapped when he became president by ignorance of the people's needs and aspirations, he is plodding to school every day and digging doggedly into his lessons.

Reciprocity is good in itself because it lowers the tariff wall between two sister countries that ought to be one country commercially, and because it may lead to the total leveling of that wall.

It is better, far better, because it makes the first real breach in the defenses of the tariff special privilege.

For a generation that wall has stood across the threshold of democracy, protecting Special Privilege from the assaults of justice and equality. An effective safeguard against foreign competition of any kind, it permitted its beneficiaries to combine behind it to throttle domestic competition.

And now a breach has been made in it, and a way opened up through which the victorious forces of justice may march to further victories.

A wall is no stronger than its weakest part, as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. The first essential to the taking of a rampart is to make a breach in it. That is the first thing to do, and the hardest.

That thing has been done by the ratification of the Canadian reciprocity treaty, and the accomplishment is of far greater value and importance than the profitable trade relations with Canada that will come of it, valuable and important though it be to secure these relations.

Congratulations to the president on his victory, and on the firmness and wise statesmanship that won it Congratulations to the Democrats in congress for their patriotism in supporting the president, and in voting for a measure conceived under the auspices of the other party, but from the success of which they will reap laurels as fresh and plenty as the president's. Without them it would have failed.

Congratulations, above all, to the plain people of America, who can see in this penetrating of the hitherto unyielding wall of the tariff special privilege an augury of further and greater victories to come.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ONE COURSE "HOG" AT REGATTA REPORTED.

To the Editor of The Herald: I wonder if the man who ran his motor boat close to the course of the races on the bay Saturday knew that he nearly swamped a boat. I wonder if he simply did the act before stopping to think, or I wonder if he knew and did it out of sheer deviltry. Any way you want to look at it, Mr. Editor, it was not quite the thing as in addition to retarding the progress of one of the boats in the race and endangering the lives of those in the boats, it gave those close to the scene a few minutes of breathless anxiety. I don't know who the man was, but the boat was a fast one and he had the throttle wide open. It seems to me the customs officer should have been on the job and "pinched" him for doing that which was evidently against the regulations. It may be that he sailed close but did not over step the regulations and that there was no charge on which to get him. It is my opinion that a man like that should have a guardian appointed to operate his boat if he really enjoys motor boating. —R. S. V.

Duluth, July 23.

WILSON'S VIEWS.

Puck: Certain newspapers see fit to criticize Woodrow Wilson because the views of the initiative and referendum which he now holds are not the views which he held for many years. They imply rather broadly, and with accompaniment of sneers, that a man who thus changes his opinions cannot be sincere, and they take pleasure in quoting from the writings of Dr. Wilson in the past passages quite the opposite in sentiment, from the convictions expressed in his recent speeches. To date, Dr. Wilson has borne up bravely against such damning charges. He has declined to go into exile. He continues to keep his head erect. Possibly he figures, the way a good many other folks do, that there are plenty of precedents which justify a public man in changing his mind if he wants to, and without first securing written permission from this or that newspaper. Gladstone started his public career as a Tory and ended it as a Liberal. Disraeli did the reverse; and there is no record that either of them felt obliged to make excuses. In this country, if we mistake not, the history of the freed slave is but the history of a change of mind. Northerners of the present day are wont to claim that "we did it; that the Northern sentiment was always anti-slavery; but they don't have to delve very deeply into United States annals to find out that in the years before the war there was just as much pro-slavery sentiment in the North as in the South. In the early days an abolitionist was just as impossible a creature, just as much of a crazy freak, crank, or radical, north of Mason and Dixie's line as south of it. We are not endeavoring to compare the initiative and referendum with the cause of human freedom, but suggest that if sneers and scoffs are not in good taste when applied to men who changed their views of the latter, neither are they in the best of good form when aimed at men who have altered their views of the former. There is a saying somewhere that a wise man changes his mind many times, but a fool never. It would be a sad day for many newspapers if the rule of consistency were imposed upon the journalistic profession. Woodrow Wilson needn't lose any sleep.

A Sane Christmas.

Indianapolis News: The country has passed through a safe and sane Fourth of July that was a great success. Though Christmas is some months off it truly is coming and with it a movement for a "sane Christmas." A sane Christmas means more than that a young man shall not go bankrupt buying his best girl a present, and it certainly does not aim to protect the small boy form the danger of "crackers" such as sometimes grow on Christmas trees, but more often on fashionable Christmas dinner tables; and it also means more than protection of houses against fire caused by Santa Clauses wearing inflamable whiskers and cotton snow. A sane Christmas has largely to do with the men, women and children who work in the stores and are called on to endure the terrible strain of long hours and nerve and body racking work, and too often without any extra pay. Christmas, to many who work, means anything but a season of joy and pleasure, for they are called to remain at their counters and desks until late into the night, breathing the pent-up air of stores filled with shoppers. A sane Christmas aims to reduce this extra work to the minimum, both by education of Christmas shoppers to buy early, and in the ordinary hours of business, and also by a conspiracy to force them to do this.

The "sane Christmas" idea should gain the support that the "sane Fourth" did. There are indications that it will, at least to the extent that the number of nights of keeping stores open will be reduced. Merchants all over the country have demonstrated by early closing movements in summer, and by Saturday half-holidays, that it is possible to crowd the business into shorter hours, at least in the summer time, and there is no reason why it should not be found practical in the holiday season. The campaign must be started well in advance, so that every man, woman and child may become interested in the humane side of the movement and plan to begin Christmas shopping early.

People may even be brought to realize that the old style Christmas is a severe strain on the shopper. There is the battle to get through the crowds and then the terrible drain on the pocketbook just at the eleventh hour. There can be no doubt that under the usual system many give up the task of buying presents, whereas if they were educated to purchase well in advance they would buy them, and spend more money. Christmas, indeed, has become a burden all around and it is time for reform.

Very Practical Arithmetic.

London Answers: Mental arithmetic on a melting day—and while the cool river gleamed tantalizingly from the school room window! No wonder that small minds grew confused under the strain, and small calculators calculated with even smaller success.

"Now boys," said the jovial dominie, who was himself aching for a swim, "here's your last problem today. See if any of you can get it right. Suppose I have a piece of beefsteak."

The boys supposed it obediently.

"And suppose I cut it into sixteen parts. What would you call those pieces?"

"Sixteenths!" piped a dozen voices.

"Right!" exclaimed the dominie. "And suppose each of these pieces were cut again into four pieces, what would they be?"

A dead, awful silence reigned, while the small brains worked desperately. Suddenly a hand was held up, and one of the lightning calculators cried:

"Hash!"

THE DEMAND FOR AN EXTRA SESSION.

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise (Rep.): The Duluth Herald is making a campaign for an increase in the gross earnings tax of the railroads. It holds that under the conditions which were existing previous to the Sanborn decision, the roads were not paying their share of the taxes of the state, according to all tax experts who have given the matter any study, and that now they are allowed to charge 3 cents per mile, the gross earnings rate ought to be increased to 5 cents and better were it made six.

The people as a whole do not want any justice done to the railroads. They do not believe the roads suffered in any particular under the 2-cent rate. In fact, according to the officials of many of the roads, they were doing better under the 2-cent rate, than was the case before it was enacted. They figured out that the average rate before the 2-cent rate went into effect was only a little over 2 cents. Of course with no passes granted now, the 3-cent fare will net them a better rate. But on account of the excursion rates given from time to time and the 1,000 and 2,000 mile books sold at 2 cents, it will not mean a straight 3-cent rate.

But what the people want is a straight rate for all. The Sunday excursion rates do not please the general public, while the reduction on the book rates is a rank discrimination in favor of the few. But as there is no immediate relief in this direction the roads ought to be made to pay their share of the public burdens at least. The sooner it is done the better. The campaign by The Herald in this respect is timely and the governor would be making a move in behalf of the common people if he would call the legislature in extra session for the purpose of passing a constitutional amendment to that end. The Herald figures out that while the extra session would be somewhat expensive, it would result in saving more than $2,000,000 to the people in taxes which would be collected before such an amendment would go into effect, if left and adopted at the next regular session.

We notice that the members of the state tax commission are in favor of the move and state that they find there is much sentiment throughout the state in favor of the extra session for that purpose.

If the roads are to have the excessive passenger rate, then let them pay their share of the taxes to the state. Will the governor take the step to see this is done?

Kansas City Star: The following has been going the rounds of the Kentucky press:

An Iowa editor who attended a party was smitten with the charms of a fair damsel who wore a rose on her forehead, and thus gushed about it:

About her nose
There is a rose;
Below the rose
There is a nose;
Rose, nose,
Nose, rose,
Sweet rose,
Dear nose.
Below her chin
There is a pin;
Above the pin
There is a chin;
Pin, chin,
Chin, pin,
Sweet pin.

Whereupon a rival editor thus apostrophized the Iowa chap:

There is a fool;
Below the fool
There is a stool;
Stool, fool,
Fool, stool,
Old stool,
Damphool.
Below his seat
There are two feet;
Above these feet

Big feet.

The Honest Farmer.

Argonaut: To avoid any possible misunderstanding concerning the geographical location of this incident it should be remarked that California orchardists use boxes for packing fruit. Two piles of apples lay upon the ground. One contained a large-sized and rosy selection; the fruit of the other was green and small. "Large on the top, sir, and small at the bottom?" inquired the new assistant to his master as he prepared to fill a barrel. "Certainly not!" replied the farmer virtuously. "Honesty is the best policy, my boy, and one I've always held to. Put the little apples at the top and the large ones at the bottom." The assistant complied. His master was evidently as green as his greenest fruit. "Is the barrel full, my lad?" asked the farmer. "Yes," answered the assistant. "Good!" said the farmer. "Now turn it upside down and label it!"

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

We'll All Be Watching.

Osakis Review: The Duluth Herald wants the governor to call the legislature in special session. What for? Does The Herald want the bunch to go back and get the capitol dome?

Appreciation.

Deer River News: More than the year's work of the state immigration board in effect had ought to be The Duluth Herald's several pages of write up and pictures of Itasca county. It told facts that will astonish the East and it ought to bring here all men who can get here.

Always Fair Here.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The state is making an effort to have the trial of Dr. Dumas held at Duluth. The genial and much advertised doctor is entitled to a fair trial, and that is what he will get at the Zenith City.

So Are We.

Argyle Banner: Just why the Twin City papers should ridicule Duluth almost continually is not clear. Duluth is a Minnesota product of which we are all mighty proud.

Good Advice For Anybody.

Sauk Center Herald: The governor of Minnesota asserts that he hasn't heard anything about the proposition to have a special session of the legislature to raise the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 to 6 per cent. The governor should subscribe for and read The Duluth Herald.

Too Bad! Too Bad!

Thief River Falls Times: Last week they said "It's cool at Duluth." This week "It's warmer at Duluth." But we can't all go to Duluth.

We Snock a Snicker.

Bemidji Pioneer: In the meantime Duluth lolls around in a hammock with a shawl over her shoulders and snocks a well earned snicker.

Correct.

Greenbush Tribune: The Duluth Herald contained an editorial last week to the effect that there was an understanding reached among the railroad managers that if an increase in the freight rates was permitted perhaps the passenger rates would be again reduced to 2 cents a mile. The Herald says that such a bargain is unthinkable and we agree with them. Some people travel little or not at all, but all people pay freight rates. If the grain rates were increased, the farmer would pay the difference. If merchandise rates were increased all consumers would pay the increase. It is not difficult to figure out who would be benefited by such an arrangement as the railroad managers suggest. People can travel or not as they choose, but they must buy food and clothing and in that way would pay their share in increased freight rates

Better Thus.

Princeton Union: Duluth is doing its best to enforce the pure food laws. Its latest move is to test the ice cream and the cones in which it is sold to determine whether they are as pure as required by the statute. The city health department is making the test—not the state inspectors. And it is better thus.

An Illuminating Bit.

Chicago Tribune: Bewildered persons will look with relief at one part of the testimony given Wednesday in Washington before the senate sub-committee. Christian Wiehe and Wirt Cook are agreed on one thing. Mr. Wiehe, at the request of Mr. Hines, did ask Mr. Cook and Mr. O'Brien to depart from Chicago as quickly as the next train would take them.

A grand jury was in session in Chicago and it had up matters relating to the election of Mr. Lorimer. At 11:30 at night Mr. Hines, getting Mr. Wiehe on the telephone after three hours' effort, asked him to find Cook and O'Brien and chase them out of town. Mr. Wiehe made the trip from his home to the Grand Pacific hotel in six minutes. He told them that Mr. Hines "desired them to keep out of the way until the matter that was then pending had blown over." What did Cook know that Hines did not want told to a grand jury? They were friendly then. Hines thought Cook would comply with a reasonable request.

It is a great mystery. Why should the excellent Hines and the worthy Wiehe, who knew nothing of the Lorimer election at all to their discredit or to Lorimer's discredit or to any one's discredit, who since have given their sworn testimony to that effect, why did they want Mr. Cook and Mr. O'Brien to go away that the grand jury might not get them?

A mystery it certainly is, but we have Mr. Wiehe's word for it that such was the case.

Wet and Wit.

London Answers: What a climate! The tourist groaned savagely as he hurried through mud and mire to the station. Rain, rain, rain—from morn till afternoon, and afternoon till night! There was no avoiding it.

At the station he had a hasty bite and then entered the train. It soon filled with wet-clothed individuals and soddened umbrellas. He couldn't even stretch.

But he managed to doze, and when he awoke the train was standing in a station. Eagerly he thurst his head out of the window.

"Is it still raining, porter?" he asked.

The official addressed put his hand out to catch the falling drops.

"No, it ain't sir," he answered, after he had examined his palm. "It's just raining water."

LIFE IN THE TOP STORY

Europe contains few more interesting relics than the great palace of the Alhambra at Granada, in Spain. Travelers have told us about the general plan of the historic old pile. In the lower part are the kitchens, servants' quarters and rooms devoted to menial uses. Above them are the living apartments, guest chambers and halls where formerly Moorish grandees gave audiences to envoys and friends. But far above all rises the great tower to which devout Moslems might ascend to look upward at the stars or to meditate on the greatness of God.

The glorious old palace is built, thus, in three stories. And it is much that way with a human life. Each one of us lives in a house three stories high. You can discern the kitchen and the drawing room and the watch tower in your own personality if you look for them.

Many of us spend a good deal of time in the lowest story. The kitchen is an important room and the question of what to eat and drink is an engrossing one. The proper care of the physical nature requires an immense amount of attention. You will find some people in the kitchen of life practically all the time.

The second story represents our intellectual nature. You get a broader view up there and the light is apt to be more abundant. Here we come for the culture of the mind. Many a man during the hard day's wrestle for bread and butter is looking forward to the hour when he may settle down with a book beside the evening lamp. The joys of thought and friendship are there on the second story. There is a great deal of pure joy to be found in the drawing room of life.

Highest of all is the third story—the realm of the spirit. The most beautiful prospect, the best air and the clearest light may be enjoyed here. The noise of the kitchen, the chatter of the drawing room cannot reach the watch tower where in the silence God speaks to us.

He is a wise man who is careful to have a well-ordered kitchen in his scheme of things; for the basis of life is physical. And if he is to be really alive he must frequently mount to the drawing room. He must feed his mind as well as his body. There ought to be for each of us some interest apart from the daily round to lend us vigor and tone. It were a pity to merit the epitaph of the poor fellow upon whose tombstone it is written, "Born a Man and Died a Grocer."

But he is wisest of all who finds his way frequently to the tower room of life. He will remain starved and stunted unless he pauses now and then to feed his spirit. It is good for us to look up at the stars, to reflect on the Power who placed them and us here. It is good for us to feel the breath from the hill upon our foreheads and realize our kinship with the Eternal. One comes down from the tower room humbled but wonderfully inspired for the work of life.

Once each week is none too often to mount to the stop story to get the view and to breathe the air. When someone asked Oliver Wendell Holmes why he was so regular at church he replied: "There is a little plant called reverence in a corner of my soul garden which I love to have watered about once a week." A great many people feel about it as the genial poet felt.

THE PARSON.

How Fair it Looks.

Life: Aldrich's big bank may receive deposits only from the United States and from national banks, but it many not pay interest on either class of deposits.

This looks, at first glance, almost too fair to be true. It looks as if the good Mr. Aldrich had make a mistake and was treating the government as well as he was treating the banks.

Perish the thought!

It must be remembered that the government will have no choice. It must deposit exclusively with the big bank while the national banks may deposit wherever they can make the most money.

Case Is Dismissed.
The case against Cosimo Priolello, alias Tom Priley, arrested on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, was dismissed in police court this morning on the motion of Assistant County Attorney W. E. Greene. It was claimed that he had purchased $77 worth of furniture from Jenny Bloom and had not paid for it. They settled their difficulties out of court.

Not a Transient.
Joseph Beresa, arrested in the West end on a charge of being a transient merchant in violation of the new statute requiring them to take out a license, was discharged in police court this morning. The state failed to prove that he was in reality a transient merchant and Beresa claimed that he does not come under that classification. The offense is a gross misdemeanor and the preliminary examination was started Friday morning and finished today.

Forfeits His Bail.
Charles Cornell, arrested on a charge of having stolen two pocket knives worth $1 from the Marshall-wells Hardware company, forfeited $50 bail when his name was called in police court this morning. The case was set over twice as most of the witnesses were employed on the water carnival decorations. The work would have been held up had it been necessary for them to appear in court.

Contract Awarded.
The contract for the grading and gravelling of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues, was awarded by the board of public works this morning to C. R. McLean. His bid was $6,590.60. It was at first awarded to H. R. Steele but was changed this morning after having been sent back from the council last week.

Promoter Arraigned.
William Steele was arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of having instigated a prize fight. He is said to have been the promoter of the bout which resulted in the arrest of Joe Wilson and John Jackson, both colored. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for tomorrow morning. Bail was fixed at $50.

"Joe" Paid Off.
Joe Capocosale was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of having defrauded an inn-keeper. He was followed to Duluth from Hibbing by his landlady, who claimed that he owed her $21. He was released upon settling with her as she did not want to prosecute. She brought her small son with her.

Will Replace Old Bridge.
The city engineer's office is getting out plans and specifications for the grading and filling over of the culvert which is being built over the Amity creek bridge near Howard's mill. The county is paying for the culvert and the city will stand the expense of the grading and filling. The culvert and fill are replacing an old bridge. The work is just at the edge of the city limits.

Gets Jail Sentence.
Genevieve Slayton, who furnished information to the police last week which resulted in the arrest of Claude Torrance on a charge of violating the state white slave statute, was sentenced in police court this morning to spend the next fifteen days in the county jail. When arraigned last week she pleaded guilty to residing in a house of ill fame, but sentence was deferred until this morning. Torrance was to have had his preliminary hearing today, but because of the press of other business, it was laid over until next Monday morning. The police state that the Slayton girl told them that she had given money to Torrance while she was in a resort in Duluth.

Bouquet for Police.
Chief of Police Troyer today received a letter from Mayor Cullum congratulating him on the excellent manner in which the crowds were handled during the carnival week. The mayor stated that much credit was due to the blue coated officers for the splendid order that was maintained throughout the three days of the carnival.

MINNESOTA YOUTH IS NEARLY KILLED BY BULL.

Barnesville, Minn., July 24.—Russell, the 16-year-old son of J. C. Barry, a farmer living west of here, had his arm fractured and suffered other injuries as a result of being gored by an angry bull early Sunday morning on his father's farm. Cries attracted the hired man to the scene, who beat off the bull with a neck-yoke and saved the lad's life. The bull had forced the lad into a mud hole and was making repeated charges when the hired man arrived.

$15 Suit Sale at The Big Duluth.

The $15 Choice Sale of Men's and Young Men's Fine Hand-tailored Suits began this morning at the Big Duluth.

In order to live up to their castiron rule of disposing of all goods during the season for which they were bought, to make room for the fall goods soon to arrive, the Big Duluth is willing at this season of the year to lose money. It's good business policy to do it, for it's worth a great deal to start each season with an entire new stock.

And you want to be on hand early, for when the Big Duluth gives you these $15 choice sales, it gives you the best clothing values of any store in the world.

JOBS OFFERED--- BUT FEW TAKEN

Idle Men in City Are Waiting to Go to Harvest Fields.

Although there are many jobs offered for railroad work and road building throughout the state, the idle men loafing about the streets of the city do not seem anxious to take them. They are awaiting the opportunity to go to the harvest fields and are ready to avail themselves of any means to get to the Dakotas.

The harvest is yet several weeks off, but the men seem to harbor the belief that they must get there early in order to land the jobs when they are offered. As a matter of fact, there is nothing to do in those states at this time, but the men do not seem to believe this, and are attempting every scheme to reach the harvest fields. They accept jobs on railroads in the western part of the state, and then leave before arriving at the destination.

SAYS INVESTIGATION HAS FIZZLED OUT.

The Lorimer investigation has practically fizzled out, according to S. J. Cusson, general manager of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, of Virginia, who was in the city yesterday on his way home from Washington, where he has been a witness in the case.

Mr. Cusson states that the investigating committee is disgusted with the way things have turned out, for they thought they had something to work on, but have found nothing new. He claims also that the stories of Messrs. Funk, Cook and Burgess have lost weight and that Hines is receiving more support than is generally believed.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "A Man and His Wife."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

ENGLISH WOMAN IS A BIG HIT

Miss Ida Barr Delights Audiences at Empress' Opening Performances.

Miss Ida Barr, a singing comedienne and a great favorite across the water, was the favorite with the three audiences which yesterday filled the Empress theater at each performance.

Miss Barr sang only two songs and at the end of her act, which is all too short, the audience applauded half way through the next act trying to get her to come back.

This is Miss Barr's first tour in America. She has been a large sized hit all over the Sullivan & Considine circuit. Yesterday's audiences were wildly enthusiastic over her work.

The bill at the Empress this week is far above the ordinary. It contains the best of the sort of entertainment which vaudeville audiences like. From start to finish it goes with a rush. There are no draggy parts. Every act is interesting.

Mrs. Jules Levy and family have a musical act which seemed to be greatly enjoyed. Both Mrs. Levy and her family are musicians of ability and they do not make the mistake of trying to make the audiences take and appreciate something they do not care for. They contributed an enjoyable part of the new bill.

Miller and Mack are two lads who dance and do that same stunt well. They are different from a great many dancers in that they dance to amuse audiences not to show how capable they are. They do a great many amusing stunts during their turn. Their object is to amuse, and the comedy they get out of their feet is surprising. They have also many new steps and they give a few minutes of difficult dancing that puts them in the front rank of the dancers who have been seen at the Empress.

Albert Weston and Nellie Lynch have a merry little act which is called 'The Fainting Girl." They make a good deal of fun and the act was made popular with yesterday's audiences. They are clever people and know how to entertain.

The "Seven Colonels" have an acrobatic turn. While this act is along ordinary lines, some of the stunts are new. The men are daring and some of the tricks are sensational.

The bill ends with moving pictures which are this week as entertaining as usual. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

"A Man and His Wife."

RAIN DAMAGES CLOTHING STOCKS.

The stocks of Kenny & Anker, clothing merchants at 409 West Superior street and of the Twin Ports Clothing company were badly damaged yesterday morning by rain water, which poured in through the roof. It is stated that the loss will be thousands of dollars to each stock.

The overflow was caused by the clogging of the drain which takes the water from the roof. It appears that the walls of the building are two or three feet higher than the roof. When the water got to a depth of something over a foot it began to pour over the skylights, which are used for lighting the offices on the second floor. They are elevated to about the same height.

The water running on to Superior street from the front door was first discovered by Sergeant Glilon of the police department. He sent in a call for assistance to the fire department and the salvage corps responded. As much of the stock as possible was protected and the source of the damage located. The flow soon stopped after the gravel clogging the drain had been scraped away.

Good-bye to The Sun.

A queer fact it is that the earth is getting heavier every year, and hence it is gaining in gravity so that we are being attracted stronger toward the sun. But here is a queer thing. At the same time, the contrifugal force hurling us away from the sun gets much greater so we are gradually leaving the sun behind us. Before you take the final farewell of the welcome orb, get acquainted with golden grain belt beers, absolutely the best that money and brains can brew. S.S.S. PERMANENTLY HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

No matter in what way an old sore or ulcer first commenced, whether from a wound, cut, or bruise, or from the ulceration of a wart, pimple or mole, or even if it came without apparent reason, the fact that it does not heal shows that bad blood is responsible for the place. While the circulation remains impure the nerves and tissues of the flesh around the place are constantly being fed with unhealthy matter and the fibres are thus prevented from knitting together and healing. Purify the blood and the place MUST heal, its cause having been removed. S. S. S. cures old sores and chronic ulcers because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It removes from the circulation every impurity, and so enriches the blood that it nourishes the tender, sensitive flesh, and causes a knitting together of all fibrous tissue and thus heals the place. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

STATE FAIR ALL READY

Annual North Dakota Show to Begin at Grand Forks on Tuesday.

First Day Will Be Grand Forks Day and Is Declared Holiday.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota fair will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow, the first day having been designated as Grand Forks' day. The city has declared a holiday in honor of that fact and everybody will be at the fair. The exhibition continues till Saturday night. The blowing of whistles throughout the fair grounds and both Grand Forks and East Grand Forks will mark the opening of the fair.

One of the best features of the week's exhibition will be the flights by two aviator, Phillip O. Parmelee of the Wright Bros. squad, and Thomas McGeey, the successful Grand Forks aviator, the latter of whom flew for the Minnesota Automobile club on its stop here Saturday, giving the tourists a decidedly good demonstration of his own aerial abilities. The McGeey-Kenworthy machine is already at the fair grounds, while the Wright biplane arrived today and is being set up this afternoon.

"We look to see the fair this year as one of the biggest that has ever been held in the northwest outside of Hamline," declared President Hunter. "And I am firm in my belief that we will excel anything that has ever been held in North Dakota."

Minnesota Stock Exhibit.

Minnesota stock growers are in a fair way to pull down some good money, judging from the number of entries that have been made from that state. One of the celebrated Minnesota herds that will be exhibited will be that of W. S. Hill of Alexandria, whose farm is famed for its Red Polled Angus. Two carloads of these cattle reached the fair grounds Saturday night and have already been placed. The White & Smith herd of registered shorthorns from St. Cloud, Minn., and the S. G. Eliason herd of the same cattle from Montevedio, Minn., will play an important part in that division, and men familiar with cattle of the northwest declare the Minnesotans are in a good way toward taking a big bunch of blue ribbons home with them.

Department Heads.

Department superintendents and the judges for the fair follow: Horse department, superintendent, John Dinwoodie, Bottineau, N. D.; judge, Dean C. P. Curtis, Iowa; cattle department, superintendent, John Donnelly, Grafton; judge, beef cattle, Dean Curtis, Ames; sheep and swine department, superintendent, John Coulter, Grand Forks; judge, Prof. W. B. Richards, North Dakota agricultural college; poultry department, superintendent, A. G. Lockman, Grand Forks; judge, H. H. Benjamin, Hutchinson, Minn.

The opening day race card contains the 3:00 minutes pace or trot with twelve entries, the 2:19 pace or trot with the same number of entries, and a six furlong dash.

DROWNED ON HIS WAY TO HOSPITAL

Northern Pacific Engineer in Delirium Leaves Train and Loses Life.

Mandan, N. D., July 24.—The body of J. H. Vallmer of Glendive, Mont., was discovered in the Heart river Saturday morning. He had been employed by the Northern Pacific at Glendive, Mont., where he was engineer on a steam shovel outfit.

He was enroute to the Northern Pacific hospital at Brainerd, Minn., being ill with typhoid fever. Apparently he had left the train at this point and wandered up the tracks. Whether he went in bathing or whether he was temporarily out of his head and tried to commit suicide will never be learned.

He was drowned in about sixteen inches of water.

FOR CATTLE RUSTLING.

Man and Wife Arrested for Taking Indian Stock.

Mandan, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Burdick and his wife are under arrest charged with cattle stealing. They were arrested by an Indian policeman, Pious Big Shield, and he charges that they were engaged in the act of driving the stock from the reservation. Burdick was placed in the county jail at Bismarck pending his hearing, which takes place Aug. 10, while Mrs. Burdick, for whom there is general sympathy, was released under a bond furnished by Major Hamilton and Stock Inspector Roberts of Fort Yates, and she will make her home temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

A second complaint against Burdick charges him with the theft of one head over a year ago.

Major Hamilton declares that there are several others under surveillance, and that further arrests in connection with cattle rustling may be made.

Dickinson, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Taylor will be tried in the district court and his alleged accomplice, C. S. Smith, will also be tried if he can be captured. The unlawful claiming of stock, taken up by Andrew Sorenson as stray stock, is the charge.

HOME SO DISTASTEFUL BOY COMMITS SUICIDE.

Rock Lake, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That home conditions were such that he did not care to longer live, is the theory given credence in the suicide of Robert Rutherford, Jr., aged only 16 years, who took his own life by shooting. The boy disappeared from his home recently, and though extensive search was made, it was without avail.

ASK CANADA TO SUSPEND DUTY ON AMERICAN COAL.

Winnipeg, Man., July 24.—The Dominion government has been asked by cities and boards of trades in Alberta to suspend duties for a period of six months on all coal entering Canada from the United States.

The Calgary board of trade adopted a resolution to that effect and the Calgary Herald published a letter from a Spokane coal dealer, saying that there were 200,000 tons available for export to relieve the shortage in Canada.

AUTO TOURISTS FEAR HOLDUPS

Taking No Chances on Highwaymen in Western North Dakota.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 24.—Reinforced by a Great Northern road detective in every contesting non-contesting and official car, the Minneapolis-Helena tourists left here at 7 o'clock this morning bound for the West. Thirty-six hours rest has refreshed them for the hard five-day grind ahead.

Every precaution is being taken by Special Agent Alray to ward off holdup men that infest the country between here and the Montana destination. His guards at night have been doubled, fearing impending trouble and he has arranged wires so that quick dispatches may be forwarded to the police in every city along the route for hundreds of miles in every direction.

About sixty suspects were "blackjacked" here Saturday night. On account of the fact that the passengers are carrying about $30,000 in cash, stringent measures were ordered by President Hill to protect them.

Devils Lake was virtually turned over to the tourists over Sunday. Maj. F. J. McClory and President W. H. Horton of the Commercial club, and Joe Kelly were among the principal entertainers.

One Automobilist Detained.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24.—R. F. Thompson of Chicago, on his way from that city to join Minneapolis-Helena automobile tourists, is held in central police station pending the outcome of injuries of Ralph Gurrea, run down here Sunday by Thompson in his automobile. Thompson, who is on an endurance run, left Chicago Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and arrived in Minneapolis at 2 o'clock yesterday. It is said that Guerrea's injuries are serious. Thompson was refused bail following his arrest.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—An investigation into a slashing affair here Saturday night is being made by the authorities today, with Frank Smith, a Finn, as the principal object of the investigation. GIVEN FIVE YEARS, THEN TURNED LOOSE.

Minot, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Sykes, though he entered a plea of guilty to first degree forgery, will not be compelled to serve his sentence of five years behind the bars, the sentence being commuted by Judge K. E. Leighton. Sykes is a Kenmare young man.

Walter Durkin of Des Lacs, charged with flax stealing, and whose arrest created a sensation, was found not guilty.

Joe Kaczor, tried at Stanley on a charge of stealing horses from the Fort Berthold reservation, was acquitted.

GRAND FORKS AND MINNESOTA CONNECTED.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — East Grand Forks and Grand Forks are now connected by a street railway system, a regular car schedule being established today. Only about a mile and a half of rail has been laid in East Grand Forks up to the present time, but further extension of the system is proposed within the immediate future.

One of the principal troubles that has been met with in the installation of an inter-city service has been the condition of the bridges, but this factor has been overcome in the making of extensive improvements to the structures.

Bismarck Church Robbed.

Bismarck, N. D., July 24. — The pro-cathedral of the Catholic church here was entered and robbed Saturday afternoon between noon and 3:30, the robbers entering the front door and robbing the poor box, the contents of which are unknown. Definite action in the matter of electing a dean cannot be taken until the full board of regents meets, probably in August.

Upper Peninsula Logging.

Seney, Mich., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — Notwithstanding the lumber market is called dull, logging operations in Upper Michigan this summer are fully as active as in a number of years past. In some districts there is an actual scarcity of labor. New logging camps are being steadily established as the fall season approaches and there is ample evidence that woods work throughout the timbered region this coming winter will be conducted on a vigorous scale.

Escanaba, Mich., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a cost of $25,000, the city of Escanaba is to have a municipal gas plant, a contract for the installation of the works at that figure having been awarded to a Fort Wayne, Ind., concern. The present plant is out of date and will be dismantled.

Moorhead—Charles Hagelin took the big snake which was found in the bunch of bananas at his place to Mr. Edwards, who has charge of the snakes at the Parker shows, and he pronounced the snake a black diamond rattler, whose sting would be deadly. The snake is a native of Central America and this particular snake must have been coiled in the bunch of bananas for over a month.

Little Falls—Miss Thelma Brown, who is a guest at the Mrs. E. C. Hamblet cottage at Ward Springs, states that her host last Thursday landed a muskalonge while trolling which measured four feet in length. The catch is the best made there this season.

Fergus Falls—Anson Marquard's general store at Elizabeth was entered by robbers last Thursday night. They carried off twenty pairs of shoes, a number of shirts, overalls, necktles, several jack knives and all the jewelry which the store contained. They also robbed the cash drawer, taking what cash it contained, which fortunately was not a large amount. Mr. Marquard estimated his loss at between $400 and $500. There is no clew to the burglars.

International Falls—Louis Kinshella and wife left Thursday evening for Port Angeles, Wash., accompanied by their son, John and his family. The latter will remain at Port Angeles with Mrs. John Kinshella's mother, Mrs. Kempton, while Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kinshella will go on to Southern Oregon to make their home with their son, T. H. Kinshella.

Gentilly—In the state contest for June, cheese made by Gabriel Bernau, the cheesemaker at the Gentilly factory, scored 94, the highest score, the second prize coming to Red Lake Falls, the cheese entered by C. O. Fournier scoring 93.4.

Red Lake Falls—Red Lake county is to have an exhibit at the Minnesota state fair. There is no doubt that Red Lake county farmers will harvest a bumper crop this year and it will be possible to do some excellent advertisnig for the county. Farmers are requested to save samples of grains, tame grasses and vegetables.

St. Cloud—The Northern Manufacturing company's pickling plant here was opened Friday. Manager Brouwer-Ancher made arrangements for the opening of the plant. A man is now ready to buy the cucumbers from the farmers as they are brought in. It is understood that fifty acres of pickles have been contracted for in this county as well as considerable acreage in Benton.

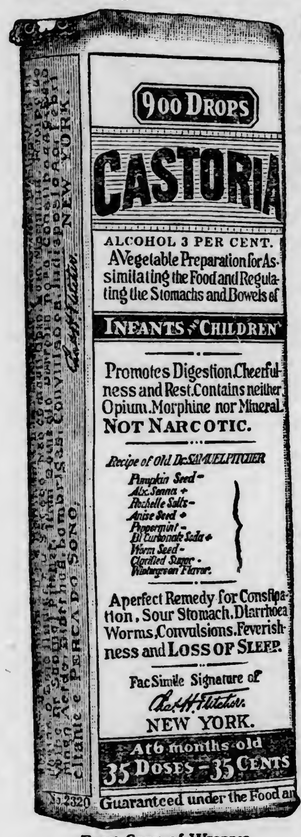

Stillwater—Mrs. Z. H. Foss, aged 79, died July 20 at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. John Brown, Jr., of Duluth of old age. She came to Stillwater from Bangor, Me., and lived most of her life in Stillwater, and is survived by four grandchildren, Mrs. John Brown, Jr., Everett L. Clymer, Maude L. Clymer and Edgar K. Clarke. The remains were brought to Stillwater Saturday morning and laid at rest beside her husband in Fairview cemetery.

Roseau—The pastors of the Red River district of the Swedish Lutheran church will conduct annual meetings in Roseau county this week. Aside from religious services, these meetings will be devoted to discussion of sacred topics and plans laid for furthering the cause of the church in this county. Most of the pastors in the district will be in attendance.

Governor Eberhart Finds Excuse for Not Calling Extra Session.

Again Uses Rate Case Decisions as Reason for Non-Action.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24.—The Minneapolis Tribune publishes the following in its political column:

"There will be no special session of the legislature to consider railroad legislation as a result of the decisions of the federal courts in the Minnesota rate cases, until the supreme court has passed on the matter. Following that decision, executive action will be guided by the findings. It is understood from the governor's close political advisers, that he is preparing to meet that situation when it comes, and 'meet it vigorously.' But a special session now is regarded as useless. The Constitution would prevent immediate action and the state will not be deflected from the course it assumed in the commencement of the prosecution of the rate cases until the final decision is rendered.

"Editor Weiss of the Duluth (Democratic) Herald is reported sending out circulars to members of the legislature, asking them relative to their attitude towards an immediate special session of the legislature in connection with the Otis and Sanborn decisions relative to the Minnesota railway rate case. Mr. Weiss has been writing editorials to the same effect, belaboring the governor to call an extra session, with the apparent object of raising the gross earnings taxes of the railroads from 4 to 5 per cent or possibly more. The apparent idea of the demand for an extra session on the part of Northern Minnesota Democrats is to retaliate against the railroads, to discipline them because they won their case in court in the first rounds, and to make political capital.

Frank Day's Influence Suspected.

"Editor Weiss voices or is supposed to voice the sentiment of the dominant faction in Democratic politics. With the return of Frank Day to the state it is reasonable to assume that the indefatigable chairman of the Democratic party who maintains his residence in two states without missing a stroke, is back of this new movement which is generally regarded as being designed for the purpose of putting the governor in a hole. It is a well recognized fact that the return of the 3-cent fare is not popular. It would not have been so bad if 3 cents had continued as the fare. But to enjoy the reduction and then go back is looked upon as bad form by every man who pays the tribute. In order to fairly show the position of the Duluth paper, we quote the following from The Herald:

The Democratic Position.

"'Governor Eberhart, according to a special from St. Paul to last night's Herald, says there will be no special session of the legislature to increase the railroad gross earnings tax.

"'Everybody I have talked with,' said the governor, 'tells me that it would be a waste of public funds.'

"'A special session might cost from $50,000 to $100,0000, depending on its length, and it wouldn't be long because the members would not be paid and they would make it as short as they could.

"'By special session two years might be gained in the application of the increased railroad tax, the gain amounting to nearly $2,000,000.

"'Is that the governor's idea of wasting public funds?

"'And with whom has he talked?

"'At that, the governor may be mistaken about there being no special session.

"'By the time the people of Minnesota have been compelled for a few months to pay 3 cents a mile for traveling, with the knowledge that in states on both sides the rate is only 2½ cents and that the railroads are getting off with a much smaller tax than the people are paying, the demand for a special session to readjust the railroad tax will become so irresistible that Governor Eberhart will be compelled to see the situation in a new light.'

Constitution Forbids Immediate Action.

"But the above merely indicates the different viewpoints from which one may look at a question. It is suggested that while a special session would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, it would save the state $2,000,000 in increased taxes. This would be important if true. But there is a provision in the constitution to the contrary. That provision provides that any law for the repeal or amendment of the gross earnings tax on railroads must be submitted to the people for ratification. This would mean a delay until the election time turned around if given a fair hearing for the people. It is well known that at special elections only a small fraction of the vote is polled, and the railroads, being the interested parties, would have much the best of it. This is not taking into consideration the cost of such a special election. In any case it would probably be left to the general election and should be.

The Constitutional Provision

"The section quoted from the Constitution of the state which seems to have been overlooked, is from Section 32A of Article 4, and is as follows:

"'Any law providing for the repeal or amendment of any law or laws heretofore or hereafter enacted, which provides that any railroad company, now existing in this state or operating its road therein, or which may be hereafter enacted, which provides that any railroad company, now existing in this state or operating its road therein, or which may be hereafter organized, shall in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon their real estate, rolling stock, and any other personal property, at and during the time and period therein specified, pay into the treasury of this state, a certain percentage therein mentioned of the gross earnings of such railroad companies, now existing or hereafter organized, shall, before the same shall take effect or be enforced, be submitted to a vote of the people of the state and be adopted and ratified by a majority of the electors voting at the election at which the same shall be submitted to them.'

State's Case Not Changed.

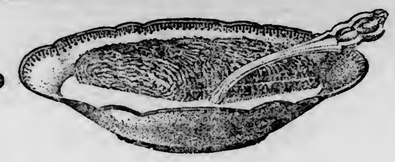

"This shows conclusively that a special session of the legislature could not take the action suggested forthwith, without first submitting the matter to a referendum vote. But there are other reasons why a special session would be useless at this time. One of the chief arguments used against the passage of the Cushman distance tariff bill was contained in an opinion from the attorney general to the effect that it would hurt the state's chances in winning its case then pending. That case is still pending. The railroads have won out in the first two rounds, first before the master in chancery and then before the federal judge. It has been appealed to the supreme court of the United States, where, it is expected, a decision will be handed down by October. The arguments that existed then exist today with even more potency, for there is less time elapsing.

Public Would Pay Tax.

"There are many things included in the rate case which a thorough finding by the supreme court will aid in clearing up. One of the important questions involved is the physical valuation of the railroads. The state has one set of values and the railroads another. The finding of the master in chancery sustained the railroads' contention of values and stated the roads were entitled to earn 7 per cent on that valuation. The matter of taxation was taken into consideration. If the taxation were increased, under the ruling of the master as it now stands, the roads would be legally justified in increasing their traffic charges to meet the increased taxation. In other words, the decision gives the roads authority to take out of the public any increased burden the state might put upon them in the way of increased taxation. In the present status of the case the man who buys a transportation ticket or who has freight to ship, would pay the tax.

The Governor's Position.

"The governor's position is that an extra session at this time would be useless and would handicap the state in the prosecution of its case. He recognizes that in its prosecution of the rate cases the state entered into a large program; it aligned itself on one side of a controversy in which the great carrying concerns of the state are aligned on the other. The rate problem is national in scope. Minnesota has entered a long race and is not to be deflected by an invitation to spurt around an unknown course. He does not believe that an extra session now is justified until the case has been finally decided by the highest court in the land. This does not mean that he would not call an extra session at that time if the exigencies of the case should demand it. He will meet the situation when it comes, but will not anticipate it with a half-baked program. It is not known to political observers of the executive just what position he would take if the case were decided one way or the other. The governor probably does not know himself for he is studying the question. But it is known that he is following the case slowly and it is equally certain that if the railroads win their case it will be "up to them" to justify themselves before the people of the state. The only conclusion of this article is that talk of an extra session now is based on a desire to make political capital and is not justified by the possibly harsh, but absolutely unyielding facts in the case, and in no way attempts to consider the merits of the controversy between the parties concerned."

TAFT THANKS DEMOCRATS

Says Reciprocity Would Have Been Impossible But for Them.

President Issues Statement on Passage of the Bill.

Beverly, Mass., July 24.—In the first statement he has made since the passage of the reciprocity bill by the senate, President Taft, at the summer White House, freely acknowledged that his long, hard campaign in behalf of that measure would have proved unavailing if the Democrats had not helped him. Without such aid, the president declared, reciprocity would have been "impossible."

"The Democrats did not 'play politics' in the colloquial sense in which those words are used," said the president, "but they followed the dictates of a higher policy."

For Secretary Knox and his assistants in the state department, who conducted the negotiations and framed the pact, the president said more than a word of praise. Those Republicans, he said, who fought for reciprocity "and some of whose votes were necessary to the passage of the bill, may properly enjoy mutual felicitations on a work well done."

Will Mark Epoch.

In his own judgment, the president declared, the agreement would mark an epoch in the relations between the United States and Canada and those who opposed the bill in congress would find their prophesies disproved and their fears allayed by its actual operation. Its passage by the Canadian parliament, the last step before it becomes a bond between the two countries, he hopes and believes will be forthcoming.

"The satisfaction that actual experience in its working will give," he said, "we confidently hope will secure its permanence. In a decade, its benefits will contribute much to a greater United States and a greater Canada."

"Very Much Pleased."

The statement reads as follows:

"That I am very much pleased with the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill through both houses of congress, goes without saying. I believe and hope it will be followed by a similar action by the dominion parliament. In my judgment, the going into effect of the agreement will marke a new epoch in the relations between the United States and Canada, and it will tend to a marked increase in the trade between the two countries, which will be in every way beneficial to both.

"I hope the credit that belongcs to Secretary Knox and his special assistants at the state department in the negotiating and framing of the pact, and their lucid explanaion and defense of its terms, will not be withheld.

Bill Was Non-Partisan.

"In a sense, the bill passed was a non-partisan measure, though Republicans who voted for it probably did so on one economic theory and the Democrats who voted for it on another. I should be wanting in straightforward speaking, however, if I did not freely acknowledge the credit that belongs to the Democratic majority in the house and the Democratic minority in the senate for their consistent support of the measure, in an earnest and sincere desire to secure its passage. Without this reciprocity would have been impossible.

"It would not have been difficult for them to fasten upon the bill amendments affecting the tariff generally in such a way as to embarrass the executive and to make it doubtful whether he could sign the bill, and yet to claim popular approval for their support of reciprocity in its defeat. In other words, the Democrats did not 'play politics' in the colloquial sense in which those words are used, but they followed the dictates of a higher policy.

Farmers Need Not Fear.

"We Republicans who have earnestly sought reciprocity, and some of whose votes were necessary to the passage of the bill, may properly enjoy mutual felicitations on a work well done. To those who opposed the bill on the ground that it will do harm to the farmers, I can only say that we who have supported the passage of the bill look forward to the test of the actual operation of the reciprocity treaty to disprove their prophesies, and allay their fears.

"The satisfaction, that actual experience in its workings will give, we confidently hope, will secure its permanence. In a decade its benefits will contribute much to a greater United States and a greater Canada."

REAL D. A. R. SUPPORTED BY HER 90-YEAR-OLD CHILD.

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—Mrs. Mary Trawick Proctor, aged 111 years, a real daughter of the American Revolution, has just been discovered in a humble one-room cabin in Barlow county, Ga.

Her sole companions are her daughter, Miss Mary Proctor, aged 90, and two great-great-grandchildren, descendants of another daughter.

Mrs. Proctor was born in Wake county, N. C., April 30, 1800. At the age of 19 she married Hiram Proctor, a veteran of the Revolutionary war and the War of 1812. She has lived under the administrations of twenty-five presidents, including John Adams and William H. Taft.

On a bedding of straw, constituting a mattress so thin that the rough plank slats could be seen, the daughter of the Revolution lies, her form emaciated, skin wrinkled and almost a skeleton.

Her aged daughter administers to the wants and necessities of the little household, and tills the soil in a small cotton and garden patch nearby. The meager profits derived from this labor she adds to the $12 a month pension Mrs. Proctor receives for the services her husband rendered in the War of 1812. A movement has been started in Atlanta to raise funds sufficient to provide for the two old women the rest of their lives.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, July 24.—Again there was considerable activity last week in the placing of contracts for fabricated structural steel to be used in buildings and bridges. The principal contracts included 2,800 tons for the First National bank building at Richmond, Va., and 5,000 tons for the Chicago Telephone building. Railroad bridge contracts were larger in number and in tonnage, calling for a little over 16,000 tons and building contracts for about 20,000 tons of steel shapes.

Domestic railroads still witheld contracts for equipment, car and locomotive orders being insignificant and rail contracts aggregating only about 25,000 tons. It is claimed, however, that the Chicago mills will roll 30,000 tons for Canadian lines and that several other export orders are under negotiation for South America, the West Indies and Canada.

There was more activity in steel making iron in the central west where the principal feature of interest was the ore and iron exchange deal made between he Republic Iron and Steel company and the Struthers Furnace company, by which the Republic company will get 60,000 tons of basic iron for shipment up to May, 1912. Other steel companies in Ohio and western Pennsylvania contracted for 20,000 tons of basic while 5,500 tons additional were closed in the eastern territory. Including foundry iron, total contracts placed in all distributing districts, aggregated about 150,000 tons.

MEETS GROWN-UP SON AT BROTHER'S FUNERAL.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—William Walker, aged 52, a well-to-do farmer of Mount Pleasant, Pa., near here, met his father, John A. Walker, aged 72, of La Porte, Ind., for the first time in his life, to his knowledge, at the bier of Clark Walker, brother of John A., yesterday.

Fifty-one years ago John A. Walker left Mount Pleasant, leaving behind his young wife and a 4-month-old son. He went to La Porte, Ind., and for more than a quarter of a century, it is said, was police marshal of that city. He remarried, as did his wife, who mourned him as dead.

Learning of the death of his brother, Walker arrived at Mount Pleasant yesterday from the West. He talked with his son for some time at the side of the casket before their identity was established. The father greeted the son warmly, told of his life in the West, but refused to say what had caused him to desert his family over a half century ago. The first Mrs. Walker still lives, but they did not meet. Her second husband is dead and she resides at Smithton, Pa.

Walker says he will return to Indiana.

SOX DROP A WEIRD GAME

Eau Claire Team Takes a Listless Contest From Duluth.

Johnson Is Hammered for Seven Runs in First Three Innings.

The Eau Claire club of the Minny league just naturally jumped on Duluth's team in the game played at Athletic park Saturday afternoon. The final score after nine innings of torture was 13 to 5.

It was the poorest game of the season. The Duluth players had about as much life as a cigar store Indian. They couldn't field and their speed on bases put one in mind of the time of horse cars.

The handful of fans present at the game admitted that it was rotten, made excuses as best they could and hoped for better things.

Pitcher Johnson was selected to do the honors, but after three innings and seven runs he felt the lines tighten and he was lifted. For this he must have been glad. Blancke was sent in for the Sox and in the six innings which followed the Schooners collected six runs.

What is the use of going into the details of the slaughter? Peruse this:

DULUTH TEAM WINS AND LOSES

The Twin Ports Clothing company team of Duluth defeated Barnum at Barnum Sunday in the first game by the score of 8 to 5, and lost the second by the score of 8 to 0. The rain was falling through the day up to 2:30 when it cleared and the first game was called at 3:30. Although the grounds were very wet and sloppy both teams put up a fast game. Lord was on the mound for Barnum and pitched a superior article of ball, but was touched up for several hits at various stages of the game, Sloan did the slab work in both games for the Duluth clothiers being the only Duluth pitcher on the field and pitched some great ball. The Twin Ports rallied in the first inning sending six men across the rubber. The scores:

He had everything from the drop to the spit-ball and speed to burn. He also pulled himself out of several hard holes which would have meant scores, had it not been for his good pitching. BIDS $22,500 FOR PITCHER

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24. — Barney Dreyfus, president of the Pittsburg club of the National league, late Saturday purchased Marty O'Toole, St. Paul's sensational pitcher for $22,500, the highest price ever paid for a ball player in the history of organized baseball. All of the bidders dropped out of the running early Saturday with the exception of Dreyfus and Mike Cantillion, who was acting for Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox.

Following O'Toole's sensational work against Milwaukee when he struck out seventeen men, equalling the Rube Waddell famous record, he on Friday defeated the heavy-hitting Minneapolis team, striking out ten of them. In the previous game with Toledo, he struck out eleven men and jumped in a short time into a national limelight.

Bresnahan of St. Louis started the bidding by offering about $15,000 for O'Toole and Kelly his catcher. Cleveland and Chicago were both attracted by the showing of the youngster and bidding started. The price lifted a thousand at a time until Saturday, when George F. Lennon of the St. Paul club named $25,000 as his price for O'Toole alone. This caused a dropping of all efforts to get the pitcher by very one, except Dreyfus and Cantillion, representing the Chicago White Sox.

Cantillion offered $20,000 as a final bid, the limit set by the Chicago magnate. After some haggling Dreyfus "split the difference" and proffered Lennon a check for $22,500.

After some parley this was accepted. O'Toole was summoned and announced himself as satisfied to go to Pittsburg, but declared he would like to have Kelly go with him.

Dreyfus is said to have offered $5,000 for Kelly, but Lennon is desirous of realizing at least $7,000 for him.

The contract calls for delivery at the end of the American association season.

Winnipeg Carried Off Honors With Duluth Crews Close Second.

Duluth Sends a Four and an Eight to National Regatta.

(BY BRUCE.)

Saturday's races of the Northwestern International Rowing association were far more satisfactory from the standpoint of the spectator than the events of the day previous. The races were all run off on the St. Louis bay course, were started on time, and furnished some very good sport for the spectators.

Surprises were the rule of the second day of the races. The big surprise of the afternoon was the defeat of the St. Paul senior eight by the Duluth juniors in the senior eight event, the last race of the afternoon.

Coming in the big and closing event of the 1911 regatta, the winning of second place, finishing close behind the crack Winnipeg crew, perhaps the fastest eight in America over the mile and a half course, the performance of the Duluth eight is one that merits applause.

Right from the start the dope was given somewhat of a shock. "Monty" Cochran, winner of the senior singles last season and also in 1908, was picked by many as the winner over T. M. Culver, the Winnipeg man.

But somehow the regatta was a Winnipeg one from the start to finish and it was awfully hard to keep the Canadians out of any of the events, although Duluth ran a close second, occassionally breaking in with a victory.

Culver and Cochran got off together, with Foley, the winner of the junior singles the da-- before in the rear. Cochran started with a high stroke and then got down to 28, which he held for the rest of the race. Culver also used a 28 stroke for most of the distance. The Canadian lead all of the way, increasing his lead all the way down. Foley was hopelessly left and simply rowed over the course for the sake of finishing.

The time of this event, the first on the program, was 10:09 4-5.

The Junior Fours.

Duluth made an exceptionally good showing in the junior four event. This fact was all the more surprising as little was expected from the four. The Duluth four, Tronson, Longton, Sole and Quimby, finished close behind the Winnipeg quartet, the race being rowed in the time of 8:44, which was excellent considering the weather conditions.

Winnipeg got off in the lead, followed by Fort William. Duluth was in third place and St Paul last. This order was held for a while, when Duluth pulled past Fort William and set after the Peggers. Duluth could not catch the boys from over the border, but chased them all the way, finishing about a length behind.

C. S. Belcher and A. B. Jackson of Winnipeg defeated McGuckin and Connolly of St. Paul in the junior double event. The St. Paul men were unable for some reason to keep on their course, and this fact worked against their chances. The race was rowed in 9:14 the Winnipeg men winning by about two lenghts.

Duluth won its second victory of the regatta in the lapstreak event, the race being for one mile. Thorburn, Paddock, Slack and Grant rowed a pretty race from the start and finished about four lengths in the lead.

Winnipeg was off in the lead as usual, followed by Fort William. Duluth and St. Paul got off on even terms. Rowing a long and easy stroke, Duluth steadily gained and before the half mile mark was reached were on better than even terms with Winnipeg. From there it proved a procession with the Duluth boys pulling away at every stroke.

The time of the race was 6:12 and the result went to show that Duluth has some first year men that the club may expect much of next season.

The Senior Eights.

The senior eight was the last event of the day, bringing the 1911 regatta to a highly successful close. The general favorite won, the surprise of the day coming in the defeat of St. Paul by the Duluth boys for second place.

It is almost unnecessary to say that Winnipeg was off in the lead. During every race of the two days, practically, the wearers of the white shirts were off in front at the crack of the starter's gun.

Close behind the Winnipeg men came Duluth. St. Paul was slow in getting away and seemed to be rowing off form. Winnipeg started with a 40 stroke, Duluth with slightly above a 36 and Minnesota with a 36.

The 36 stroke was held by the three crews practically the whole distance until a short ways before the finish line, when Minnesota ran the stroke up to 38.

The race was one of the prettiest of the two days. Rowing in almost faultless form, with that wonderful body swing and lift, and with machine-like precision, Winnipeg swung gracefully and apparently easily down in front, winning all the way from the crack of the starter's gun to the finish.

Valiantly the Duluth crew held its lead over St. Paul. But at the grand stand the Minnesota men made one of the greatest spurts of the regatta, bringing the crowd in the stands to its feet with the very gameness of its supreme effort.

At the south end of the stand there was a length between Duluth and the St. Paul men. Here Dawson called for the great effort. Nobly his men responded and from there to the finish line ate up Duluth's lead. Rapidly St. Paul cut down the lead and at the finish line there was a barely half a length between the two boats.

The time of the race was 8:01. This was much faster than the race of the day before, but the water conditions were much better, which may account for the improvement of time.

In the evening the oarsmen's banquet, at which the medals and trophies were presented, brought the regatta to a close. This was one of the most strenuous feasts that has been held at the Spalding for some time, and one that will be remembered for many months.

Ten Eyck Re-Engaged.

James E. Ten Eyck was engaged Saturday evening for next season. The officials of the club believe that the crews under his coaching have made a very good showing and are also of the opinion in that he should do even better in the coming season.

It was also decided, upon the urging of both the Winnipeg and St. Paul officials, to send two crews to the National, which will be held at Saratoga lake.

It was the intention of both Winnipeg and the Minnesota Boat club to enter crews. Several members of the Winnipeg crews have found that it will be impossible to go and the Minnesota men decided that they would remain away this season.

It was therefore earnestly urged that Duluth send crews down. The decision was made quickly and the preparations were hurried. The crews left last evening.

Thorburn will stroke the four, Longton, Tronson and Quimby making up the boat. In the eight Hare will be shifted from bow to the three seat and L'Estrange will row bow. Thorburn will go into seat No. 2. This combination should make the eight very fast and a great showing is expected at the National.

At the National the Duluth eight will row in the intermediate eight event and also in the intermediate four. In case of a victory they will enter the senior event. Some of the best crews of the country will be present, but the Duluth men expect to make a great record.

Following is the summary of the Saturday results:

Senior singles—A. T. Culver, Winnipeg, first; M. M. Cochran, St. Paul, second; E. T. Foley, St. Paul, third; time, 10:09.

Junior four—Winnipeg, C. S. Belcher, bow; W. Robinson, 2; H. A. Johnson, 3, and A. B. Jackson, stroke, first; Duluth, second; Fort William, third; and St. Paul, fourth; time, 8:44.

STARS PLAY FOR WESTERN TITLE

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—Marked by one of the largest and classiest fields in its history, the thirteenth annual amateur championship of the Western Golf association began here this morning on the links of the Detroit Golf club. Weather conditions are cloudy and cold.

Ninety-nine pairs, starting four minutes apart, are scheduled to complete the eighteen-hole course today in the medal play elimination round of the torunament, to determine the sixty-four golfers who will enter the qualifying round Tuesday. With the first pair starting at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and the final pair getting away, according to schedule, at 2:22 o'clock this afternoon, it will be late in the day before the elimination round is completed.

Mason Phelps, Chicago, the Western champion, is paired with W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburg; Albert Spreckel, Chicago, intercollegiate champion, with George M. Lyon of Toronto; Charles Evans, Jr., Chicago, former Western open champion, with W. J. Howland, Chicago, while Paul Hunter of Chicago, who in the Olympic cup competition Saturday finished the thirty-six holes in 147, low score of the day, will tee off with Henry Hepburn, of Louisville.

A large majority of the crack golfers are among the early starters today.

CITY OFFICIALS PLAN GAME WITH VIRGINIA.

The city officials are making preliminary arrangements for a ball game with the city officials of Virginia, in return for the contest which was played at the range city last summer. The Duluthians made the trip to Virginia in automobiles and in addition to being given a real contest on the diamond, they were royally entertained. At that time the Virginians stated that they would be glad to play a return game in this city. In fact, they said that they were anxious to do so, as they wanted an opportunity to even up for the lemon which was handed to them. It is probable that an invitation will be sent to the Virginia officials within a short time. Thus far this season the aldermen have not organized any ball team, but it is likely that no time will be lost in doing so and scheduling several games. In addition to the Virginia game they are also due to play one or two with Superior.

BIG SALE OF WATER-DAMAGED STOCK!

DURING the heavy rainfall early Sunday morning the drain pipes that carry the water off the roof of our store building became clogged with debris, causing the water to accumulate to such an extent on the roof that it finally forced itself through the sky lights and completely flooded our hat and shoe stock and part of our clothing, furnishing and boys' departments. While some of the goods in these departments were pretty well soaked and cartons and boxes completely ruined, a great many of them were only partially wet and are practically as good as ever. However, we can't put any of this merchandise back in stock, and in order to make room for fresh stock, we will, TOMORROW MORNING, put on sale and clean out every article damaged by water, regardless of cost.

IN OUR SUIT DEPT.

All $10.00 to $13.00 Suits soiled by the water will go on sale for	All $15.00 to $18.00 Suits soiled by the water will go on sale for	All $20.00 to $28.00 Suits soiled by the water will go on sale for	All $30.00 to $35.00 Suits soiled by the water will go on sale for

Our Boys' Dept. came in for its share of soaking and every garment in this department that has been the least bit damaged will be sold regardless of cost.

Our Furnishing Dept. was only slightly damaged, but all Wilson Bros.' Shirts and Hosiery that were touched up—will go in this sale with the other merchandise. Especially the $1.50 shirts, which we'll close out for 75c.

Our Hat Department was literally soaked—boxes ruined—a great many hats were only partially soiled.

Every one of these hats will go on sale for whatever they'll bring.

Our Shoe Department was pretty badly soaked and every pair of shoes will be closed out below cost.

Our Pant Dept. likewise suffered considerable damage and all soiled trousers will be sold regardless of former selling prices.

HEARING OF SUPERIOR RATE CASE IS BEGUN

Many Prominent Railroad Officials and Traffic Experts in Attendance.

The interstate commerce commission heard the first evidence in the complaints made by the Superior Commercial club on the alleged discrimination on the part of railroads against Superior in favor of the Twin Cities and Chicago, this morning. The hearing will continue all afternoon, and probably tomorrow.

Efforts were made by counsel for the different railroads to include in this hearing the cases brought by the Duluth grain men and the Milwaukee men, but the commissioners cancelled these hearings, which will be held later in the respective cities.

The claims made by Duluth and Milwaukee are in substance the same as those made by Superior, but it is contended that further evidence will be brought up. The principal difference, in the Superior hearing, is that the Superior men bring up charges of discrimination on the part of roads handling freight east of Superior in favor of Chicago.

E. E. Clark of Des Moines, Iowa, one of the commissioners, and Prof. H. B. Meyers of Superior, another commissioner, are taking the evidence for the commission. Among the railroads represented are the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago & Northwestern, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha.

The railroad men here are H. M. Pearce, freight manager for the Omaha; H. E. Pierpont, general freight traffic manager for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; H. H. Brown, general traffic agent for the Great Northern; J. M. Hannaford, second vice president of the Northern Pacific; H Kallman, assistant traffic agent of the New York Central lines; P. F. Eyman, assistant traffic agent of the Chicago & Northwestern; William Townsend, assistant traffic manager of the Minneapolis & St. Louis, and E. Forward of the Erie line.

Many Others Attend.

Many organizations are also represented at this hearing. F. E. Signer of Buffalo appears for the Lake lines; J. M. Anderson of Fargo for the North Dakota Society of Equity; W. P. Trickette, traffic manager of the Minneapolis traffic commission; Frank Montgomery of Chicago, traffic manager for the International Harvester company; Harry S. Noble, assistant manager of the Mutual Transit company of Buffalo; George P. Schroeder of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce; W. M. Hopkins, traffic manager of the Chicago board of trade; William Ellis, commercial counsel for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road; John I. Dille, attorney for the Minneapolis Traffic association; C. C. Might, attorney for the Northwestern road; Richard L. Kennedy, attorney for the Omaha road; J. A. Armstrong, attorney for the Great Northern; Francis W. Sullivan, Secretary Charles F. MacDonald representing the Duluth board of trade; and G. Roy Hall the traffic commission.

The North Dakota railroad commissioners, W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, chairman; W. H. Mann of New Salem, and O. F. N. Anderson of Starkweather, are also here. They will appear before the commission to show that the rates from the northern two-thirds of North Dakota are the same to the Head of the Lakes as to the Twin Cities, while the differential is in favor of the Twin Cities as regards rates from the southern one-third. They will appeal to the commission to have the same rate put into effect to the Head of the Lakes.

George B. Hudnall is the attorney representing the Superior Commercial club in the hearing.

At the opening of the morning session, a motion was introduced by attorneys for the railroads to have the complaints of Duluth, Superior and Milwaukee heard at the same session, on the grounds that the evidence was the same. However, as the Superior case is different in that it complains against the differential in favor of Chicago on east bound freight, and the fact that it would be difficult to get witnesses to Superior from both the Minnesota side and from Milwaukee, the commission overruled the motion.

Motion Is Denied.

The railroad attorneys complained that only one road had been made a party to the charges of the Superior Commercial club, and they contended that as it affected all the roads, that a postponement should be made in order to make amended complaints so as to give all the roads a chance to prepare for the defense. The commission, however, felt that as all the roads kept close watch on all railroad matters, they were in condition to carry on the defense.

E. A. Le Claire of Black River Falls, Wis., was the first witness. He is now a real estate man, but at one time was engaged in milling in Superior. He stated that in 1890, when he first became interested in milling in Superior, the rates on the shipment of grain from the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska were the same to the Head of the Lakes as they were to the Twin Cities, but that at the hearing held by the interstate commerce commission in 1893, at the instance of the Minneapolis grain men, the rates were changed.

He pointed out the fact that had the rates been the same the milling industry at the Head of the Lakes would have been equal to that of Minneapolis, but the result of the change in rates, the Head of the Lakes concerns were unable to get the grain from the southern part of Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska, South Dakota, and the southern part of North Dakota, at low enough rates to warrant a profit on its milling. Moreover, the rates east were also changed in favor of Chicago, which made it almost impossible to ship the flour east.

He told of the rise of the milling industry before the change of rates and also the decrease following the new rates, with the increase of production in this line at Minneapolis.

Little on Stand.

James A. Little, traffic expert for the Superior Commercial club, was on the stand most of the morning and was again placed on the stand during the afternoon session. Many exhibits were filed with the commission, showing that in practically every case the differential was in favor of Minneapolis or Chicago. Points in North Dakota, which were nearer the Head of the Lakes than to Minneapolis, had rates to the Flour City equal to that to Duluth or Superior, while the rates from towns only a trifle nearer the Twin Cities than to the Head of the Lakes were in favor of Minneapolis. The same held good on rates between points to Chicago and to Duluth.

Mr. Little also furnished figures showing the expenditures and profits of roads, according to the reports filed with the commission, which indicated that many roads are able to supply the Head of the Lakes with the same rates that the Twin Cities are enjoying, without any loss. A striking comparison was made in regard to the business that is being done by the Canadian Northern, whose haul is much greater than that of the Great Northern or other roads, but whose rates are less, and which is yet operated at a profit.

The hearing will bring forth many interesting features before it is over, according to men who are involved in the case. The Superior men claim they have a big volume of evidence to produce, and that the argument is in their favor. Many Duluth men were present this morning.

FISHERMAN FALLS DEAD

While pulling his boat from the beach into the bay early this morning, Matt Bergman, a fisherman, 60 years old, dropped dead, falling into the water a short distance from the shore.

Bergman was just starting on his daily fishing trip. He lived at the far end of Minnesota point, on what is known as "The Barrens," about a mile from the Superior side. He had been there for a number of years and made his living during the summer by fishing.

As far as can be learned, he had no relatives. Death is supposed to have been due to heart failure. The Superior police were notified of his death by other fishermen who found him lying beside the boat. They in turn notified the Duluth department, who informed the coroner. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan.

RAILROAD MEN GATHER

There are a number of railroad men at the Head of the Lakes today, the majority of them coming here because of the holding of the interstate commerce commission hearing on the other side of the bay.

E. E. Pierpont, freight traffic manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and William Ellis, attorney for the same road, were in the city early this morning, later leaving for Superior. Mr. Pierpont and Mr. Ellis came on business connected with the hearing.

H. M. Pierce, freight traffic manager of the Omaha, and R. J. Kennedy, attorney for the same road, are also at the Head of the Lakes, the two men going over to Superior to be present at the meeting.

J. M. Hannaford, first vice president of the Northern Pacific, and W. J. Power, formerly the freight representative of the Great Northern in this city, but at the present time the assistant general freight agent of the Great Northern, are here, coming up for the hearing.

S. F. Miller, freight traffic manager of the Northwestern's lines west of the Missouri river, is here today with his family, coming to Duluth in his private car and coming simply for recreation and not with any business that has to do with the interstate commerce commission hearing.

Mr. Miller is rather optimistic over business conditions and the general outlook for increased business in the West. While he stated that business might be better at the present time, he also said that business in general was on the mend, and that there was a rosy view throughout the West.

GOVERNOR HAS ROUGH VOYAGE

Marquette, Mich., July 24.—(Special to The Herald)—Loud in his praise of the steamship, and of the crew, Governor Osborn arrived here this morning from Hancock on board the United States steamer Yantic, the training ship of the Copper country naval reserves, after an excitingly stormy passage from Portage Lake. The vessel was buffeted about in one of the most violent gales experienced at this season in a number of years and in the darkness of the night it escaped being blown onto the rocky coast of Huron island only by a narrow margin.

It required twelve hours to make the voyage which ordinarily is covered in four or five. The gale arose unexpectedly. Big seas were washing over the breakwater as the Yantic arrived and the ship was tossing and heaving in strenuous fashion.

Seasickness Hits Sailors.

A number of the sailors were seasick. The boat will not attempt to leave port until tomorrow, at least.

Shade trees in town have been broken in two by the wind. The governor is in Marquette to attend a meeting of the board of control of the prison. The matter of taking over the box factory from the contractors and opening the shop on state account is one of the matters scheduled for consideration

IS DRAGGED BEHIND RUNAWAY HORSE.

Dragged for half a block behind a horse, which he was taking to the barn during the noon hour today, Adolph Nelson, aged 21, a teamster for a West end butcher, sustained a broken leg and other bruises and injuries about the body.

The young man is resting at St. Mary's hospital. He will probably be laid up for several weeks. He boarded at 1908 West First street and was employed at the meat market of A. Broman, 1932 West First street.

While attempting to get on the delivery horse in order to ride him to the barn the young man fell and became tangled in the harness.

REPORT WAS LAST STRAW

Wheat Held Firm in Face of Reciprocity and Heavy Rains.

But Big Increase In Visible Supply Was the Deciding Factor.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 24.—Wheat lost 1c in Duluth today and corresponding or heavier losses in other American markets. Flax also was weaker, dropping 5c.

In the face of the passage of the reciprocity agreement, heavy rains in the Northwest, increasing large stocks in Chicago and increases in the receipts in Duluth and Minneapolis, the market opened firm this morning and even had a higher tendency. It gave way, however, when the visible supply increase was reported at 5,122,000 bu. Just at this time, the market could not stand the unexpected increase, and it broke badly in the last few minutes of the session, closing weak.

The reciprocity agreement, which had a natural tendency to weaken the market, had been discounted and the passage of the pact by the senate had no effect on the market. Traders say that the rains in the Northwest yesterday came too late to do any good except to a few scattered peatches of late acreage. Black rust reports continue to come in with insistence and they demand notice. In addition to the damage being done by rust, it was reported today and scattered places in North Dakota had a light frost, although the fact did not show on the weather map. The foreign situation is also very strong.

The upward tendencies of the market were checked by the visible report. The heavy stocks in Chicago are an important factor in the market just now and they show no signs of diminishing. It is said that Chicago elevator capacity is completely taken up and that wheat is being held at other points for Chicago delivery.

There was nothing doing in July wheat on the Duluth board, and it closed 1c off at 99⅝c nominal. September wheat opened ⅛c off at 97½c, declined to 97c, advanced to 97¾c, fell off to 96⅝-¾ and closed at that figure as the asked price.

The linseed market suffered a 5c loss today also. There was little news to influence the market and selling pressure, which wasn't very heavy, was responsible for the decline. The market has been feverish and uncertain for some time and a very little pressure was sufficient to send the market down. The bears regard the linseed market, at least for July, as too high and their raid today was effective in bearing out their opinion.

Durum wheat was unchanged in Duluth today. Oats were ⅜c off at 42c and rye was unchanged. Rains in the corn country so improved prospects that corn was down 2⅜c at the close, being quoted locally at 62⅛c.

The cash market continues strong and sales in Duluth today were heavy. The cash market holds at 3c over September.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ¼d higher; corn ¼d to ½d higher. Berlin wheat closed ½c higher, Budapest wheat ¾c lower, Antwerp wheat 1¼c lower, Paris wheat unchanged to ¼c higher and flour 1¼c lower to ¾c higher.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The wheat market opened steady and unchanged. Following the opening there was some disposition to support with offers slightly smaller but again realizing in a small way carried a dull market ⅛d to ¼d lower on rumors that the outlook for the India monsoon is more favorable. A slight recovery again took place just before noon but the general demand was small. The market was narrow but nervous awaiting the effect of the reciprocity measure on values. At 1:30 p. m. prices were unchanged to ⅛d lower than Saturday.

"Corn was firm and ½d higher on the very light American offers, strength in spot and smaller world's shipments Following the opening the market was firm at the early advances.

"Our Russian agent cables the weather in the South is fine and harvesting is progressing favorably. In the Southwest thrushing is satisfactory, but from the Southeast there are still complaints of dryness and a short crop."

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Completely Cured Our Little Boy of Fits."

A family can suffer no greater affliction than to have a child subject to fits or epilepsy. Many a father or mother would give their all to restore such a child to health

"I am heartily glad to tell you of our little boy who was completely cured of fits. He commenced having them at 10 years of age and had them for four years. I tried three doctors and one specialist but all of them said he could not be cured, but Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills made a complete cure. He is now hale, hearty and gay. It has been three years since he had the last spell. I shall give Dr. Miles' medicines praise wherever I go. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit and anyone writing to me I will gladly answer if they enclose stamp for reply."

F. M. BOGUE, Windfall, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

is just what it is represented to be, a medicine compounded especially for nervous diseases, such as fits, spasms, St. Vitus' dance, convulsions and epilepsy. These diseases frequently lead to insanity or cause weak minds. Dr. Miles' Nervine has proven most effective in relieving these dreaded maladies.

Sold by all druggists. If the first bottle fails to benefit your money is returned.

THE HERALD IS DULUTH'S GREAT WANT AD MEDIUM

BLOOD TROUBLES
CONSTITUTIONAL INFECTION

Constitutional Blood Poison is the most insidious of all diseases. It begins in an insignificant manner, usually the appearance of a tiny sore being the only outward evidence of its presence. But down in the blood the treacherous infection is at work, and in a short time its chain of symptoms begin to crop out. The mouth and throat ulcerate, skin eruptions break out, sores and ulcers appear on the body, the glands in the groin swell, and sometimes the hair comes out. Mineral medicines cannot cure Constitutional Blood Poison; they only shut the disease up in the system to smoulder and await an opportunity of breaking out afresh. The only possible way to cure the disease is to REMOVE the germs from the blood. S. S. S. goes into the blood, and while removing the infection makes the blood pure, fresh and healthy. This SSS causes a general upbuilding of the entire system, and when S. S. S. has made a cure there is no return of the hideous symptoms. S. S. S. is made entirely of vegetable matter, containing not the least particle of mineral in any form. It is a perfectly safe medicine and a certain cure for blood poison. We have a Home treatment book which we will be glad to send free to all who write and request it, also any medical advice without charge.

HIRAM CARPENTER'S WONDERFUL CURE OF PSORIASIS

After 20 Years of Intense Suffering When All Thought He Had but Short Time to Live. Earnestly Prayed to Die. Condition Deplorable Beyond Description. Tries Cuticura. Eureka! Relief at Once. Stopped Terrible Burning Sensation from Word Go. In Six Weeks Skin Smooth as This Paper.

I have been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M.D.'s psoriasis, and others leprosy, commencing on my scalp; and in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skilful doctors, it slowly but surely extended until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there would be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. —— treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry and lifeless as old straw. O my God! how I did suffer.

My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Cuticura in the house. She wouldn't give up; said, "We will try Cuticura." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got Cuticura Resolvent, Ointment and Soap. I commenced by taking one tablespoonful of Cuticura Resolvent three times a day after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper.

HIRAM E. CARPENTER,
Henderson, N. Y.

"We hereby certify that we are acquainted with the aforesaid Hiram E. Carpenter, and know his condition to have been as stated. We believe his statement to be true in every particular." (Signed) L. B. Simmons & Son, Merchants; G. A. Thompson, Merchant; A. A. Davis; Millard E. Joiner, Merchant; John Carpenter; A. M. Leffingwell, Attorney and Counselor-at-law, all of Henderson, N. Y.

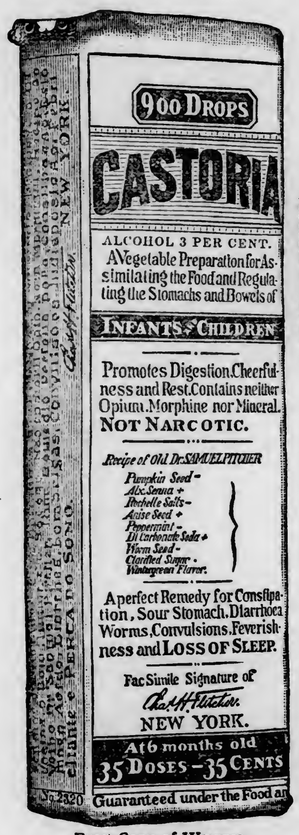

The above remarkable testimonial was written January 19, 1880, and is republished because of the permanency of the cure. Under date of April 22, 1910, Mr. Carpenter wrote from his present home, 610 Walnut St. So., Lansing, Mich.: "I have never suffered a return of the psoriasis and although many years have passed I have not forgotten the terrible suffering I endured before using the Cuticura Remedies."

A 32-page booklet describing humors and affections of the skin will be mailed free to those desiring further information by Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 131 Columbus Ave., Boston.

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

Years of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public: the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result: The practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

STEEL MAN ADMITS THE AGREEMENT

Huston Identifies Document Before House Investigating Committee.

Says Steel Plate Association Was Formed to End Competition.

Document Burned Because It Was Regarded as Illegal.

Washington, July 25.—Formation of the Steel Plate association of the United States in New York in the autumn of 1900 to overcome "destructive competition" was admitted today before the house Steel trust investigating committee by A. F. Huston, president of the Lukens Iron and Steel company, one of the organizers, who identified a copy of the agreement.

Mr. Huston said that in forming the association, Charles M. Schwab represented the Carnegie Steel company; Willis L. King the Jones & Laughlin company; Thomas J. Buffington the Illinois Steel company, and other concerns represented were the Lukens firm, the Crucible Steel Company of America, the Otis Steel company, Tidewater Steel company, Worth Brothers company, Central Iron & Steel company, American Steel & Wire company and the Glasgow Iron company.

Had Seen It Before.

Mr. Huston said that under the agreement his firm was to have 7.5 per cent of the total output.

"Where did you see this agreement before?" asked Representative Beall of Texas, displaying a copy now on the official record of the inquiry.

"When it came from the printer."

"Who sent it to the printer?"

"I did."

Mr. Huston said his company participated in the discussions leading up to the organization of the association. He said the purpose was to "try to avoid destructive competition."

Was "Life-Saving" Measure.

"Prior to that time," he explained, "we had had a period of destructive competition. I shall never forget that time—common labor was at 90 cents to $1 a day, the price of steel was down to a cent a pound and, in selling, the value of ore in the ground was not taken into consideration at all. The companies figured only on the cost of getting the ore out and manufacturing it. That measure was a life-saving measure."

Chairman Stanley produced a copy of the agreement yesterday, together with other confidential data, and the agreement was admitted in evidence against the protest of counsel for the corporations that it was unauthenticated. It

IRONWOOD MAN SLAYS INFANT

Kills Child With Razor, Also Attacks Wife, Injuring Her Seriously.

Ironwood, Mich., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Erick Kwrolahti, a Finn, murdered his infant daughter, 7 months old, with a razor this morning about 1 o'clock in the Norrie location. He also attempted to murder his wife. They quarreled over domestic affairs, and he was intoxicated. He was placed under arrest. His wife was cut badly, her condition being very serious.

CALL 400,000 "TO COLORS"

German Action Will Be Met By French in Same Way.

London Is Keeping a Close Watch in Moroccan Affair.

Paris, July 25.—Commenting on the Franco-German negotiations growing out of the Moroccan situation, the Echo de Paris today says that France will not allow herself to be intimidated by Germany.

Should the Paris report that Germany has called 400 000 reservists to the colors be confirmed, France is cerain to adopt a similar measure, the paper says.

London is Watching.

London, July 25.—The foreign office is being kept closely informed of the varying phases of the Franco-German "conversations" regarding Moroccan affairs. Sir Erward Grey, foreign secretary, was among today's callers at Buckingham palace, presumably to lay before the king the latest news of the foreign situation.

Sir Francis Bertie, British ambassador to France, attended a meeting at the foreign office this morning and conferred for some time with Secretary Grey, Premier Asquith and Minister Lloyd-George, whom the ambassador was able to put in full possession of his views.

REVOLUTION IS SPREADING

Haitien Rebels Gaining Ground —Fouchard Gets Supporters.

Scout Cruiser Chester Protecting the American Interests.

Port au Prince Haiti, July 25.—The revolution is spreading in the South, where heretofore it has made little progress. The town of Jeremie has risen in favor of Gen. Callisthene Fouchard, the Haitien minister to Germany. Fouchard was made chief executive of the army by President Simon in 1908, and a year later was appointed to the Berlin post. Early this year he left the German capital to visit Haiti, and at that time it was asserted that he aspired to the presidency.

The government has accepted delivery of the yacht American and it will be added to the navy.

NEW CHOLERA CASE FOUND?

Attendant in Bellevue Hospital Shows Signs of Disease.

New York, July 25.—Examination was made today of a culture to determine whether Edgar Herrmann, an orderly, who attended Manuel Bermudes, the cholera-stricken sailor, is suffering from Asiatic cholera. Symptoms of the disease manifested themselves yesterday and Herrmann was at once isolated in one of the outbuildings of Bellevue hospital. Miss Gross, the nurse, who attended Bermudes, has evidenced no symptoms of cholera.

Bermudes has a fair chance of recovery. He is at Swinburne island.

The steamship San Giorgio came in this morning from Naples without a single passenger on board. Her agents thought it inadvisable to bring passengers here because of the rigid enforcement of quarantine regulations.

NEW COTTON BILL FOR DEMOCRATS

Measure Proposes Average ad Valorem Duty of 27.06 Per Cent.

Washington, July 25.—The new cotton tariff revision bill submitted today to the caucus of house Democrats from the ways and means committee cuts the duties from an equivalent ad valorem rate of 48.12 per cent under the Payne-Aldrich act to an average ad valorem rate of 27.06 per cent. Under the Wilson bill of 1894, the last Democratic tariff, the average ad valorem rate was 43.76.

Under the proposed rate the committee estimates the imports of cotton goods for twelve months at $29,163,800 against $28,417,441 last year, and that the duties derived under the new act for a year would be $10,599,000 as against $13,673,801.

Democratic Leader Underwood explained the cotton bill to the Democratic caucus this afternoon.

"The schedules," he said, "are cut practically in half and we will push it through the house with little debate."

MOTT HAS BAD MEMORY

Sugar Trust Magnate Testifies Before House Committee.

Is Unable to Explain Price of Product Satisfactorily.

New York, July 25.—Henry C. Mott, purchasing agent for and director of the American Sugar Refining company, who was the first witness today before the special congressional committee investigating the so-called Sugar trust, declared that in making purchases of sugar the company never discriminated against any planters, never "punished" any Louisiana planters for selling sugar to the independent refiners and never arbitrarily fixed the purchasing price of sugar.

The committee expected to complete its investigation in this city in time to take a train this afternoon, which would permit the Democratic members to attend a caucus in Washington tonight.

Memory was Treacherous.

Mr. Mott, who was elected a director following the death of H. O. Havemeyer, said he did much of the correspondence for Mr. Havemeyer, but his memory was so treacherous that he could not recall any of the correspondence relative to the acquiring of the Independents.

Asked about the American's purchases of sugar in Louisiana, Mr. Mott said:

"We paid the New York price, less the freight rate to New York, which is about 15 cents a hundred pounds."

"Yet you used much of that Louisiana sugar in your New Orleans refinery and did not send it to New York?"

"Oh, we send a great deal to New York."

Mr. Mott said he would guarantee to purchase in Louisiana for any independent all the sugar they wanted if they paid the American's price of 1-32 more and had the cash.

Denied Discrimination.

Other witnesses had said the planters were afraid to sell to the independents because if they did they would be boycotted by the American,

SIX ARE LOST ON LAKE ERIE

Toledo Launch Party Has Not Returned From Trip.

Toledo, Ohio, July 25.—Embarking in a 16-foot naphtha launch Saturday afternoon for a trip of twenty-four hours to a small island in Lake Erie, six Toledoans have since been lost sight of and relatives fear the storms of Sunday and Monday have cost them their lives.

The occupants of the launch, the Hazel M., were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kennedy, their son, aged 7, and daughter Pearl, aged 20, and Mr. and Mrs. Mason. The boat was owned by Mr. Kennedy.

Their absence was reported to the police today.

DENOUNCED AS UNTRUE

Attorney General Says Delegate Wickersham's Statement Is False.

Name of John Rustgard, Formerly of Duluth, Brought in.

Washington, July 25.—The names of Senator Nelson of Minnesota and John Rustgard, formerly of Duluth, were brought into the discussion yesterday before the house committee on the judiciary, which held a hearing in the matter of charges brought against Attorney General Wickersham by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska.

Attorney General Wickersham denounced as an absolute falsehood the charges recently made before the committee by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska that the attorney general "purposely did shield and defend the Alaska syndicate criminals from crimes against the government in instances wherein I personally gave him the evidence which would justify him in finding indictments."

Scope of the Charges.

The instances mentioned by the delegate had to do with a contract for supplying coal to United States forts in Alaska and the alleged bribery of witnesses at the Hazey murder trial. Delegate Wickersham charged that in the coal contract case the attorney general disregarded the proof furnished to him and permitted the statute of limitations to run.

Yesterday the attorney general, reading from telegraphic and other correspondence of the department of justice,

WILL CAUCUS ON WOOL BILL

Democratic Senators Will Try to Harmonize Their Views.

Washington, July 25.—A caucus of Democratic senators has been called for tonight to consider the wool tariff revision bill, in the hope of harmonizing the differences on that legislation. Whether the Democrats shall assist in passing the La Follette bill is still the bone of contention.

SENATE WILL PASS HOUSE WOOL BILL

Washington, July 25.—As the result of a series of conferences held today, the prediction was freely made in the senate that the upper house of congress on Thursday would adopt the house wool bill. This will put the wool issue squarely up to President Taft. Democratic Leader Underwood today served notice that the house would not accept the La Follette bill.

HINES GIVEN LIE AGAIN

Boutell Cables Denial That He Wrote Note About Lorimer.

James A. Tawney's Name Is Mentioned in Keeley's Testimony.

New York, July 25.—Another denial has been made of a statement of Edward Hines testifying in the Lorimer investigation at Washington yesterday that a fragment of a letter which he produced was in the handwriting of H. S. Boutell, former member of congress and at present United States minister to Switzerland. It read as follows:

"I would like to have the senator (meaning Lorimer) know who was the only man in Washington who went to the president in his behalf and brought off the goods."

This statement was communicated by cable to Minister Boutell, and the following from him was received by the Associated Press this morning:

"Berne, Switzerland, July 25.

"I never heard President Taft speak of the situation but once, when he expressed no preference or objection to the numerous candidates mentioned, but hoped the Republican caucus would decide on a candidate and elect at once. This view was known to all, and I never wrote to anyone on the subject.

"H. S. BOUTELL."

Mentions Tawney's Name.

Washington, July 25.—James Keeley of the Chicago Tribune, today told the senate Lorimer committee that George O. Glavis' recent arrest on a charge of embezzlement was at his (Keeley's) request, after Glavis had been authorized to buy lobbyists' books, which Glavis claimed would show that lobbyists paid Lorimer 25 per cent of a fund of $2,000 in a fight made by the Fireproof Magazine of Chicago for the mail privilege.

Keeley said Glavis told him Former Representative Tawney of Minnesota, for many years chairman of the house appropriations committee, was "mixed up in the deal."

Keeley Under Examination.

Elbridge Hanecy, counsel for Senator Lorimer, had law books stacked high before him when he began the cross-examination of Mr. Keeley. The ownership of the Tribune was delved into for an hour. Mr. Keeley said Medill McCormick, editor of the Tribune, was on a vacation when the confession of State Representative Charles A. White was printed in April 30, 1910, and had

BOOM STARTED AMONG NEBRASKA DEMOCRATS

JUDSON HARMON,
Governor of Ohio and Candidate for Democratic Nomination for President in 1912.

START BOOM FOR HARMON

Ohioan's Supporters Open Headquarters at Fremont, Neb.

Ben Chamberlain Represents Him at Democratic State Meeting.

Fremont, Neb., July 25.—The mission of Ben Chamberlain, personal representative of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio to the Nebraska state Democratic convention, was the chief topic of discussion among the delegates this morning. Mr. Chamberlain, secretary to Senator Pomerene, arrived late last night, but his presence was known to few delegates until this morning.

Harmon headquarters were established early this morning, and the representative of the Ohio governor was soon an object of keen interest to supporters and opponents of Mr. Harmon for the convention's indorsement as a presidential candidate.

Letter to Dahlman.

Mr. Chamberlain came with a letter to Mayor James C. Dahlman, who has been a supporter of the executive for presidential candidate.

The convention was called to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The rival factions this morning were anything but united so far as concerns the platform to be adopted. The point at issue was the demand of William J. Bryan's friends for representation on the resolutions committee, and their desire that the platform contain commendation of the thrice Democratic presidential candidate. While every leader was talking harmony, it was apparent that the matter was in no wise settled. In fact, several men who have been most persistent in their declarations for peace, readily admitted that the prospect for it was farther away than ever.

Signs of Harmony.

There was an air of harmony when the delegates got into the hotel lobby, and every leader was an apostle of peace.

The Douglas county delegation, which is credited with pushing the Harmon boom, went into caucus at once upon arrival, but only routine business was transacted. It was stated that Governor Harmon's representative counseled peace and against any action which might lead to dissension within the party ranks in Nebraska.

As the day progressed it appeared probable that the convention would pass off without any disturbing questions being brought up, and that the gathering would confine its declarations to national and state issues over which there are no party differences.

Following the conference, participated in by Former Governor Shallenburger, Temporary Chairman M. F. Harrington and Charles W. Bryan, the statement was given out that "party principles and not leaders would receive the principal attention of the delegates."

MINERS KEPT UNDER GUARD

Strikers Gather But the Rioting Is Not Resumed.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25.—Although nearly 300 men gathered at the Mansfield mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Heidelberg today when the whistles blew for work, the large force of county detectives and police on guard discouraged a renewal of the rioting which marked yesterday afternoon and evening.

Adherents of the Feehan and Gibbons factions of the United Mine Workers of America were in the crowd and jostled each other as they approached the mine, but there was no open rupture.

None of the miners went to work, the followers of Francis Feehan declaring that those who favor Robert Gibbons for district president must obey the strike order over which there was trouble yesterday.

Anti-Prohibition Wins.

Dallas, Tex., July 25.—The anti-prohibition majority in the state-wide prohibition election held in Texas Saturday stands now at 6,104, a figure too large to be overcome by the unreported vote, according to figures compiled by the Dallas News. The total vote to date is: Against the amendment, 234,101; for the amendment, 227,997.

REPUBLICANS IN NEBRASKA LOCK HORNS

Taft and La Follette Factions Meet at State Convention.

Insurgents Admit Minority But Say They Will Fight.

Few Farmers Appear for the Meeting at Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., July 25.—The Taft and La Follette factions in the Nebraska Republican organization entered the state convention at noon today without having reached an agreement.

The Taft adherents, headed by the Omaha delegation, before the call to order, announced that they held absolute control of the situation. They made known their purpose to ask for a frank indorsement of the president.

"The insurgents have not more than 150 of the 855 votes in the convention," said one of the regular leaders.

Will Fight Anyway.

The insurgents admitted that they could not control the convention, but insisted that they would fight the adoption of any indorsement of President Taft.

"The introduction of a Taft resolution," said one of the insurgents, "would be followed immediately by the introduction of a La Follette resolution and then the fight will be on. If the regulars want peace they must refrain from indorsements of any character."

An hour before the convention was called to order, the attendance of delegates was comparatively small. The absence of farmers from the various conferences caused comment. Few, if any, of the farmer delegates are on hand for the convention.

WILSON'S REPORT AGAINST WILEY?

Secretary of Agriculture Takes It to the White House.

Washington, July 25.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson brought the papers in the case of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley to the White House today.

He refused to say what recommendations he had made to the president regarding the charges against the pure food expert, whose resignation from the service was recommended by the personnel board of the department and by Attorney General Wickersham.

Mr. Wilson reached the White House some time before the cabinet meeting and had an opportunity to discuss the Wiley case with the president before the session began. He said that he did not know whether his recommendation would be acceptable to the president or not. He declared, however, that there could be no clash between him and Mr. Taft, because if the recommendations made today were not agreeable to the president he could change them.

It was inferred from the tenor of Mr. Wilson's remark that the recommendations were not favorable to Dr. Wiley.

There is every reason to believe, however, that Dr. Wiley, at worst, will receive but a mild reprimand.

HEAR FAMOUS PHOTOGRAPHER

Members of Association at St. Paul Greet Herr Duhrkoop.

St. Paul, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having been officially welcomed to Minnesota by Governor Eberhart, the Photographers' Association of America assembled for business today in the St Paul armory. The first hour was taken up with the reading of communications and the appointment of committees. The final hour of the morning session was devoted to hearing a lecture on "Snapshots" by Rev. G. L. Morrill of Minneapolis.

The afternoon session was devoted to a school of photography conducted by Rudolph Duhrkoop and his daughter, Diez, of Berlin, Germany.

More than 800 guests attended the reception last night of the officers to the members of the association.

Photographers of note from all over the country were present and joined in exchanging reminiscences, dancing and the general good time. Herr Rudolf Duhrkoop and his daughter, leading photographers of Europe, were the center of interest and before the reception was over, almost every guest had met and chated with the great photographers.

KICKS AND SUGGESTIONS

Water Carnival Committee Will Consider Plans for Next Year.

Every Duluth Citizen Is Invited to Submit His Opinions.

Carnival kicks and carnival suggestions will all be considered at a meeting to be held Thursday noon at the Panton & White tea rooms.

The carnival committee will hold a final meeting at that time and wind up its business. The members have also issued a call for suggestions to make the carnival more entertaining next year. Anybody who has a criticism to make of the way the carnival was run this year, or a suggestion of how to improve it, is invited to submit it in writing or be present and do it personally. The suggestions may be sent to any member of the committee, or if they are sent to The Herald by Thursday morning, they will be placed in the hands of the committee in time for the meeting.

The object of the meeting is to make the carnival even more of a success next year than it was this season. The chief criticism heard this year was the failure to provide more entertainment while the crowd was waiting for the weather man to permit the races to be held Friday afternoon. There was no fault found with the quality of the entertainment in the evenings, and if the weather had not caused the delays in the afternoon the afternoon programs would doubtless have been just as satisfactory. This has been about the only unfavorable comment heard since the carnival, and the committee will doubtless have this to consider.

The program as a whole was even more appreciated by visitors to Duluth than by the residents of the city. To the latter, the Venetian fete, the most beautiful feature of the carnival, was an old story, perhaps, but the visitors were more than enthusiastic over it. The same holds true of some of the water sport, and the committee members had this in mind while planning the program.

"We, in Duluth, who see all kinds of water sports every year, do not appreciate what such a program means to a resident of some inland city," said a member of the committee this morning. "That is what we want to keep in mind. While we want to entertain Duluth people, the primary object, of course, is something to attract and entertain outside visitors and advertise Duluth, and I think the recent carnival did that and did it thoroughly."

MANY INJURED DURING RIOTS

Officers Are Shot or Stoned in Outbreak of Miners' Factions.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25.—In a riot yesterday between miners of the Mansfield mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Glendale, an isolated portion of Alleghany county, three constables, two county detectives and a score of miners were injured, a number fatally. Fourteen men and one woman have been arrested. All were held in $1,000 bail on a charge of rioting.

Three of the injured are suffering from bullet wounds. The others were either stabbed, stoned or beaten with clubs.

A factional dispute, an outgrowth of election trouble among the officers of District No. 3, United Mine Workers of America, has been in progress at Glendale for some time.

Early in the day three constables arrested a miner who had almost beaten another workman to death. The news of the arrest spread rapidly. When coming from Glendale through an isolated country to Heidelberg, the officers were attacked. The officers fired into the mob, but were soon stretched out unconscious from bullets or clubs.

During the fight two county detectives arrived. One of these, Detective McMillan, dropped with his face crushed by a huge stone, while Detective Inskipt sustained a fractured skull. The prisoner, a foreigner, was shot through the head by the man who tried to rescue him.

STEEL MAN ADMITS THE AGREEMENT

was admitted, however, that business operations of these companies continued under an understanding similar to the agreement.

Agreement Was Burned.

The original agreement provided for the formation of the Steel Plate Association of the United States and notwithstanding that the agreement was burned and only came to light because a Pennsylvania printer had saved a copy from the flames, the committee found corroborative evidence that the steel plate association did exist after the incineration of the tell-tale documents.

J. R. Van Ormer of the Lukens Iron & Steel company, one of the parties to the original pool, testified that all copies of the agreement had been burned because it was thought the provisions were illegal. The agreement, itself, he testified, never was signed by his company, and all sent to other companies were returned for destruction. He admitted, however, that operations of the business of his company proceeded along lines of an understanding similar to the provisions of the burned agreement. Business was apportioned on a percentage basis, he admitted, for several years, up to 1906. His firm, he said, contributed to a guaranty fund to insure carrying out terms of operations and reports of business were made to W. C. Temple, who acted as commissioner of the combination.

Had Bank Account.

W. S. Mitchell, cashier of the Mellon National bank of Pittsburg, formerly the T. S. Mellon & Sons bank, testified that the Steel Plate association had an account with his bank from Feb. 2, 1901 to Jan. 30, 1902.

The total credit account of the Plate association was about $250,000 and all the checks and vouchers were made out in the name of W. S. King, treasurer of the association. Mr. Van Ormer admitted that he had dealt with Mr. King during that term of years.

Solicitor General Lehman testified that the Steel Plate agreement resembled the agreement of the wire manufacturers upon which were based indictments recently returned in New York.

Admitted by Moreland.

Further admission of the existence from Nov. 2 1900, to November, 1905, of the Steel Plate association along lines similar to the admittedly illegal pool projected in an agreement, copies of which were burned in 1900, was fully made by W. C. Moreland of Pittsburg, secretary of the firm of Jones & Laughlin, Ltd. Mr. Moreland sumbitted an account of his company with the Steel Plate association and said his records contained actual figures of moneys paid to Willis L. King of Pitsburg, treasurer of the pool. The firm paid to the pool $34,536 in 1902 and $16,328 in 1905.

order here. The situation, however, remains tense.

Gen. Salnave, one of the chiefs supporting the rival revolutionary leader, Gen. Antenor Firmin, has a strong army and is well equipped with arms and ammunition. When, with his troops, he left here last night for Limbe, he explained that he withdrew in order to avoid a conflict. He is accompanied by Gen. Bienne Bastien.

Gen. Auguste, former minister of public works, has suddenly disappeared.

The German consulate is sheltering eighteen political refugees.

Gen. Chapuzette, a rebel chief, has been made commandant of this district and Gen. Pierre Louis has been placed at the head of the local garrison. Generals St. Juste and Nathurin are in town.

Germans Send Cruiser.

Berlin, July 25.—The German cruiser Bremen, which is at Montreal, was ordered today to proceed immediately for Port Au Prince, Haiti.

PASSENGER TRAIN ON NORTHERN PACIFIC STONED.

Bismarck, N. D., July 25.—One woman was injured and 200 passengers badly scared Sunday evening when Northern Pacific passenger train No. 5 passed throug Burleigh, a small station twelve miles east of here. Some person threw stones through the windows of every car on the train, and one woman, struck in the face by a rock and pieces of glass, was made unconscious. The cry of train robbers was immediately set up, and there was a small panic, which soon subsided when the train did not stop.

testified that the charge of Delegate Wickersham had no foundation of fact.

Evidence Not Sufficient to Convict.

The attorney general denied that the statute of limitations had run in the coal contract fraud, as alleged by the delegate and read from a report to show that no evidence could be obtained to substantiate the charge of bribery of witnesses in the Hazey murder trial by an agent of the Alaska syndicate.

At the conclusion of the attorney general's statement, Representative Martin W. Littleton of New York, a member of the committee, demanded that Delegate Wickersham either prove his charges against the attorney general or withdraw them. The delegate asked for a few days to prepare a statement, and the committee allowed him until next Monday.

"I can make good," he assured the committee.

"Then make good," cried the attorney general, heatedly.

Calls Statement a Falsehood.

"I say that Delegate Wickersham's statement is a falsehood. Let him attempt to prove it."

"I'll prove it," the delegate returned with equal emphasis.

The committee choked off further hostilities.

The attorney general, during his statement, severely critized Delegate Wickersham.

Delegate Attacked Nelson.

"That man," he cried, pointing to the delegate, "has always been against everybody who disagrees with him. He has attacked Senator Nelson of Minnesota, alleging that by methods of grand jury packing in the senate of the United States, Senator Nelson had himself appointed chairman of a sub-committee to consider the nomination of J. J. Rustgard to be district attorney in Alaska, and that the senator was a friend of Rustgard's and therefor prejudiced."

The attorney general then referred to the delegates charges that the department of justice had gone to Senator Nelson to get an indorsement of Rustgard.

Rustgard's Appointment.

"I sent for Senator Nelson," said the attorney general, "and asked him about Rustgard. The senator told me he had known him some years previously, when Rustgard was a citizen of Minnesota; that he had not seen him for some years, but that when he lived in Minnesota his reputation was good."

It was brought out that Mr. Rustgard, who for years lived in Duluth, was appointed on the recommendation of Governor Clark of Alaska. Mr. Nelson was merely asked to certify as to Mr. Rustgard's standing in Minnesota.

Delegate Wickersham, it is said, has an old grudge against Senator Nelson, who opposed Wickersham when the latter was nominated to a judgeship in Alaska some years ago.

nothing to do with the publication of that story.

Mr. Haney caused a stir by suddenly asking Mr. Keeley where he was last night.

The witness said he was in the Tribune bureau here, and that J. H. Marble, attorney for the committee, called.

"How did he happen to call?"

"I sent for him."

"Why?"

Refused to Tell Message.

"Because I had some information I desired to give him; a telegram I received."

"What was it?"

"I decline to give it."

The committee ruled that the activities of the committee's counsel could not be inquired into.

McCormick Against Lorimer.

Mr. Keeley testified that Medill McCormick believed Lorimer should be driven out of politics.

"And he worked consistently to do that?" asked Lorimer's counsel.

"Yes and no," replied Keeley.

Mr. Keeley admitted that the election of William J. Moxley to the house of representatives at Washington to succeed Lorimer was one of the things that made McCormick hostile to Lorimer.

"We were fighting Lorimerism and we tried to make a good job of it," remarked Mr. Keeley.

Mr. Haney twitted the witness about not succeeding in the Moxley fight.

"Not the first time, but we did the last," said Mr. Keeley.

"By electing a Democrat," added Mr. Haney.

"Yes, sir."

"Lorimerism" and Plunder.

"Mr. Kohlsaat has defined Lorimerism as a combination of Democrats and Republicans. Did you regard the defeat of Moxley by a combination of Democrats and Republicans as McCormickism?"

"No, sir. I think Mr. Kohlsaat was talking about a combination where the cohesive force was public plunder."

MOTT HAS BAD MEMORY

which is the largest purchaser.

Mr. Mott insisted that if there had been any discrimination against any of the Louisiana planters or boycotting of any of them it had been done by the American Sugar Refining company's local purchasing agent there, and not with the knowledge or consent of the company.

"So far as I know no instructions were ever given any of our refiners, with a total capacity of 40,000 bbl, to limit their production," he said. "Of course we give directions from time to time to reduce or increase their output, according to the stocks on hand, the demand and the consumption."

These instruction, the witness added, are given by the president.

"Why do you pay the Louisiana planters the New York price less the freight rate, when you refine most of that sugar in New Orleans?"

Have to Take Risks.

"We have to buy approximately 200,000 tons of the total crop of 300,000 tons within three months. Our refining capacity at New Orleans is only 75,000 tons for that time, and the result is that we have to store from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of raw sugar. We must take all the risks of fire, deterioration and the change in marketing price. We figure that the freight rate pays us for this trouble, risk and expense."

As the American purchases about 200,000 tons of Louisiana sugar cane, it pays the planters $600,000 less than the New York raw.

Couldn't Explain Price.

It had been testified that the price of raw sugar in this country always followed the world price, which is announced in Hamburg every day, but Mr. Mott could not explain why the New York price had been lower almost daily than the Hamburg rate since the present investigation was begun. He thought there might be an over-production in this country.

Feared Sherman Law.

New Platz, N. Y., July 25.—The one good reason why the warring sugar interests did not sign an agreement to end the conflict was fear of the Sherman anti-trust law. There were minor considerations, of course, but every time the matter was broached to John Arbuckle, when the fight was warmest, Mr. Arbuckle declined and told his opponents to remember the Sherman law.

Propped up by pillows in his bed, Mr. Arbuckle so testified before a subcommittee of the special congressional investigating committee. He was apparently unreserved in giving the history of his commercial battles.

Mr. Arbuckle said the fight started in 1898, after there had been a little friction between his coffee company and the American Refinery. The American company retaliated by going into the coffee business. Previous to that, however, in 1891, he said, Mr. Havemeyer had tried unsuccessfully to purchase 51 per cent of his uncompleted refinery.

Making More Sugar.

"Are you making as much sugar now as you did in days of the war?"

"Yes, much more."

"You made sugar at a loss during the fight?"

"Yes, off and on. And the war is not ended yet. We are ready to fight in a minute if there is reason. I always said that there should be no agreement to curtail or reduce production of sugar or control prices, and there never will be as long as I am in the sugar business."

DULUTH MINISTER HURT.

Rev. S. A. Blair, Attending Bemidji Meet, Breaks Rib.

Bemidji, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—With an attendance of about forty, the week day sessions of the annual Bemidji Bible conference opened in the Presbyterian church here yesterday morning.

One unfortunate accident has slightly marred the gathering. Rev. S. A. Blair of Duluth, Sunday school missionary, and the man who organized the Presbyterian Sunday school in this city, and who is a delegate to the present conference, fell while carrying an armful of wood into Rev. S. E. P. White's home, adjoining the church on Fifth street, and broke a rib.

This accident happened Sunday afternoon. Owing to his heavy load of wood, Rev. Mr. Blair was unable to see his way, and stepped into the cellarway, falling the entire length of the stairs.

Although suffering much pain, Rev. Blair did not miss any of the meetings and was on hand early this morning.

Mr. Schmidt is editor and publisher of the Journal and also publisher of the Illinois Volksblatt at Nashville. He succeeds J. E. McClure of Carlinville, who was appointed assistant game commissioner of Illinois.

SAYS BERRY PICKERS CAUSE MANY FIRES.

St. Paul, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to W. T. Cox, berry pickers have started many of the small fires which have been burning in Northern Minnesota. Indians, Austrians and Finlanders in the woods, he says, would have caused many serious conflagrations had it not been for the watchfulness of rangers and patrolmen.

Mr. Cox has prepared a series of warnings to the berry pickers, printed in English, Austrian and Finnish language, which will be posted throughout the woods.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. G, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

"IDEAL MUNICIPAL PLANTS"

The municipal electric plants in Holyoke, Mass., Jacksonville, Fla., and Jamestown, N. Y., have been cited, perhaps more often than any others, as shining examples of what municipal ownership does for American cities. These municipal plants are frequently held up as "ideal." Well, we have now reached those cities in our alphabetical list; so let us give you the TRUE FACTS about them.

First, as to city lighting: here are the official figures given out by the managers of those municipal plants:

City—	Population.	No. of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per year.
Holyoke, Mass	58,000	517	$60.00
Jacksonville, Fla	58,000	572	54.00	(4 amp. enclosed)
			60.00	(Magnetite lamps)
Jamestown, N. Y.	31,500	465	51.00

HOLYOKE: The manager of the municipal plant says that the cost this year will be reduced to $45, but does not explain how. According to the City Auditor's report, Holyoke last year lost $32,613 on its electric lighting department. The plant sells electricity at 6 cents per kwh. to a number of lighting customers which in comparison to population is infinitesimally small, and in order to benefit thus a few people all the taxpayers have to pay pro rata the interest on $928,300, bonds outstanding against the plant. (Talk about "robbing Peter to pay Paul!"). The plant pays no taxes, has no sinking fund, and relies on the generosity of the taxpayers for the greater part of its depreciation account. Taxes have gone higher and higher, and appropriations from the city treasury for payment of electric bonds are steadily increasing.

JACKSONVILLE: City lighting is on moonlight schedule; if the lights were burned every night in the year as in Duluth the cost to the city of the 4 ampere enclosed arcs would be $72 each, and of the magnetite lamps $80 each. For all lights used in the public buildings the city pays this plant at the rate of 7 cents per kilowatt-hour. Much has been made of the statement that this plant sells electricity to private consumers at 7 cents per kwh. That is its advertised rate, but it exacts a minimum charge of $2.00 a month for any service. If YOU lived in Jacksonville you could not get electricity for your home from this municipal plant for one cent less than $24.00 a year, no mater if you used only $5 or $6 worth of current. That charge makes the real rate to the average small consumer about 15 cents per kwh. (The Duluth-Edison Electric Company's receipts from all residence customers for electric light average only $12 a year; we serve 2,505 such customers whose six months' summer bills total only $3; we serve 2,215 customers whose bills for the whole year amount to $8 or less, and 4,285 customers whose year's bills are only $12 or less.)

JAMESTOWN: In the year ended Feb. 28, 1911, the city paid this plant for incandescent lighting in public buildings $2,310.27. (We offer to light Duluth's City Hall, Police Headquarters and Jail, and the improved parks also, FREE.) Jamestown's city tax appropriation for this lighting plant last year was $24,500. (The total amount paid by Duluth for all city lighting last year was $31,658.31. Compare he populations: Jamestown, 31,500; Duluth, 80,000). The Jamestown municipal plant serves 289 private consumers (that's all), who get their electricity so cheap that the taxpayers have to make it up to the plant.

WILL LEAVE FOR CANADA

Regina Is Successful Bidder for Services of Dr. Hart.

Duluth's Anti Tuberculosis Worker Gets New Position in Northwest.

Dr. William M. Hart, for the past year secretary of the St. Louis County Sanitarium commission, has resigned and will about the middle of August leave for Regina, Sask., where he will be in charge of the Saskatchewan anti-tuberculosis work.

At a meeting of the commission, held at the residence of George A. Gray last night, the commissioners accepted the resignation with regret, and at once appointed Dr. A. T. Laird of Saranac Lake and Albany, N. Y., who had been recommended to fill the position.

The resignation did not come as a surprise to the commissioners as it has been known for some time that Dr. Hart was considering the Canadian offer. He had told them that he was likely to accept, and because they did not care to be overrun with applications for the position, they did not allow the matter to become public until it had been decided upon.

Dr. Hart goes to a broader field than that offered in Duluth. The position is also said to be much better in a pecuniary way than the one here.

His successor, Dr. Laird, is said to be a man of large experience in both clinic and laboratory work. He has been engaged in the fight against tuberculosis and with his broad experience he should make a valuable man for the Duluth position, say those who recommended him. In fact, Dr. Hart, who knows of his work personally, states that the Duluth commission is to be congratulated on obtaining him.

Dr. Hart will leave about Aug. 10. Dr. Laird will be here about the first of the month and Dr. Hart will spend several days in going over the work here with him.

DR. WILLIAM M. HART.

Since coming to Duluth Dr. Hart has made many friends. An untiring worker in the fight against the great white plague, he has found more than enough to keep him busy in this city. The commission regretted that he was about to resign, believing that just at this time it was unfortunate that he felt that he must go. However, they realized that the new position offered a greater field and more possibilities than this one and they accepted the resignation with regret.

CHICAGO PEDDLERS ATTACK WAGONS

Riots Result From Protest Against Anti-Noise Ordinance.

Chicago, July 25.——The first scenes of violence in the demonstration of street peddlers against the anti-noise ordinance which prohibits them from calling their wares, occurred today when a crowd of thirty attacked three wagons loaded with fruit in Haymarket square. The vehicles were overturned, the contents strewn over the street, and the drivers assaulted.

Four thousand peddlers, who declare they have been deprived of a means of earning a living, are involved in the present demonstration.

Extra details of police have been assigned to the district where disturbances have occurred.

BRAINERD LATH MILL BURNS TO GROUND.

Brainerd, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Wood's lath mill in Northeast Brainerd, situated near the Minnesota & International railways tracks, burned to the ground entailing a loss of $15,000, with insurance of $8,500. Fifty carloads of lath piled on the bank were not destroyed. It was a wet, windy night when the fire started and the watchman does not know how it originated. It may have been caused by lightning. The mill, which had a capacity of 70,000 lath a day, will be rebuilt by Mr. Wood.

BRAINERD'S POSTAL BANK WILL BE OPENED AUG. 19.

Brainerd, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd has been designated a postal savings depository beginning Aug. 19. It is expected that the business of the postoffice will be settled and adjusted in the new quarters provided by the government at the new postoffice building before this date and the business of the postal savings bank will fit in nicely with the new arrangement of affairs. Ample room is provided for the new branch of the government business and complete protection is furnished in the way of burglar-proof vaults and safes.

CHILDREN'S ILLS IN SUMMER

The hardest period of a child's life is during the heated term. It is then that the little men and women become so subject to stomach and bowel troubles. With one it manifests itself in the form of obstinate constipation, with another the very reverse—diarrhea. One is as bad and as dangerous as the other. Constipation makes the child lose appetite and sleep, makes it languid and sickly-looking. Diarrhea weakens and it destroys appetite and energy. Piles, pimples, eruptions, itch, worms, etc., follow in the train until many a mother feels that her child is indeed very ill. But these are all troubles that can be easily cured. The child needs a few doses of a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the grand laxative and tonic. Parents can make no possible mistake by giving it Syrup Pepsin, as the chances are always in favor of the child needing a laxative. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and any druggist can supply you. It cannot be mentioned too strongly that parents should look closely after the welfare of the children during the hot months. MARINE NEWS

INCREASE IN ENROLLMENT

Thirteen More Vessels Hail From Port of Duluth Than Last Year.

Gross Tonnage Increase in Steel Steam Vessels Is Heavy.

Although the past year has not been a very active one in marine circles, the report just completed by Mrs. L. M. Petty, deputy collector of United States customs of the port of Duluth, shows that thirteen more vessels were enrolled in this port than the previous year with a gross tonnage increase of 54,654 and a net tonnage of 50,029.

The biggest increase in the enrollment during the year over 1910 is shown in the steel steam vessels, there being fourteen more enrolled up to July 1, 1911, than up to July 1, 1910, with a gross tonnage of 64,902 Under the classification of steam vessels, there are only two more boats enrolled this year, there being 286 steamers on the document as compared with 284 in 1910. There is however, a big increase in the gross tonnage of these vessels, amounting to 61,387 tons. During the year many of the steam vessels of smaller capacity were withdrawn from the Duluth port, while several of larger capacity were added, bringing the gross tonnage to this big increase.

There is no change made in the sailing vessels, of which there are thirty-eight enrolled, with a gross tonnage of 96,484. Nearly every one is an "old timer," and is here to stay.

The following tables are comparative figures of the vessels documented in the port of Duluth for the two years, up to July 1, under the different classifications, as reported to the department at Washington:

DELAYED BY BIG STORM

Passenger Steamer Tied Up Thirteen Hours in Harbor at Houghton.

The Octorara of the Anchor line was tied up in the Houghton harbor for thirteen hours on account of the big storm on the lakes, and will not arrive here until 8:30 o'clock this evening. She was scheduled to arrive at 7:30 this morning. She will leave on time tomorrow evening.

In spite of this big storm the Huronic of the Northern Navigation company and he Minnesota of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company arrived in Duluth this morning, the Minnesota only a few hours late. Both vessels had capacity loads. The Minnesota now has the big refrigerator in service, and brought up a big cargo of butter, eggs and other goods which are of a perishable nature, and which heretofore have not been sent on water to any great extent.

FIND IT HARD TO GET SAILORS

No arrongements have been made yet for quarters for the Lake Carriers' association, to replace the old ones in the building destroyed in the Fifth avenue west fire. For this reason it is difficult to reach sailors when needed on short notice to fit up a boat for departure.

To make the position more perplexing, according to Shipping Master John Currie, many of the idle sailors have left for the Dakotas, where they expect to work in the harvest fields. At this season of the year, he says, the sailors usually go west, but this year more have gone than ever before.

WORST BLOW OF SEASON ENDS

Heavy Storm on Lake Superior Is Subsiding—No Fatalities.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The worst blow of the season has practically subsided on Lake Superior. This morning the wind was blowing away at a rate of thirty miles an hour, but was diminishing. But few boats locked through last night, wise masters preferring to remain in secured spots both up and down the river. It was estimated that there was a fleet of eighteen steamers and barges lying behind Whitefish point this morning and a dozen others at anchor at the head of the canal. Crews of the straggling down-bound boats this morning reported unusually rough weather on Lake Superior last night and yesterday and this morning. Half a dozen launches with large parties aboard had narrow escapes in the river last night.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Lake Erie was in the grip of a gale last night and fear is felt for several vessels which have not been heard from.

In the Cleveland harbor and other harbors along the lake the water is lower than it has been for years. At Sandusky the passenger steamer A. Wharle Jr., is resting on the bottom because of low water. A large barge off Marblehead peninsula was unable to proceed against the wind and had to anchor to save itself from going ashore.

NAMES OF DOCKS IN HARBOR ARE CHANGED.

A change in the names of two docks in the Duluth-Superior narbor has just been announced. The old Reiss dock just above the Standard Oil company's dock will be known as the Reiss dock No. 3, while the Pittsburg dock No. 4 in the East End, Superior, is to be known as Reiss dock No. 4. This latter dock has not been used so far this season, until yesterday the steamer W. G. Pollock unloaded the first cargo of coal.

LAYING FOUNDATION FOR BIG BREAKWATER.

Material dredged from the local harbor for several years past, which has been dumped in the ling of the proposed breakwater at Twenty-first avenue east, has decreased the depth of the lake at that point from seventy feet to forty-five feet. Major Francis R. Shunk, in charge of the Duluth district of the United States army, corps of engineers, estimates that over 1,000,000 cubic yards have been deposited there.

The proposed breakwater has been recommended on several occasions to the Washington authorities, and it is believed that before long congress will appropriate money for the building of a breakwater, which will afford protection to the Duluth ship canal and a harbor of refuge to vessels in severe storms, enabling them to enter the port without danger of wreckage or loss of lives.

Leaves Shipyard.

The steamer Berwin left the Superior shipyards yesterday afternoon, where she has been for several weeks undergoing repairs, and sailed from the local harbor light for the lower lakes, where she will be loaded with coal for Duuth. When the iron ore business picks up again she will take ore down.

Inspect Freighters.

Local United States Vessel Inspectors Monaghan and Chalk returned this morning from Ashland, where they inspected the freighter Calumet yesterday.. Today they inspected the steamers Samuel Mather (big) and Crete, while tomorrow they will inspect the Wawatan. All the boats have been in operation this season.

THE EVENING STORY

"A Great Victory"

By Joseph R. Reham.

Mrs. Earnest Stepp bent her red, good-natured face over the gas stove, and thought. Her mouth was tight with resolution, and she shut the oven door on the baked potatoes with more than her usual determination.

The whole thing had begun with an elegant mahogany rocking chair, upholstered in red plush which stood in state in the window of Murphy's saloon. The admiring public was advised that it would be awarded to the most popular man in the district, and that votes were procurable (at 10 cents each) from the aforesaid Murphy. The matter was not without interest to Mrs. Stepp.

She was still deep in her plans when the door clicked, and her husband entered the little kitchen.

"D'ye mind the new sinsation in th' neighborhood?" asked Mrs. Stepp, as she put the dishes on the table.

"Being a woman, you must mean the chair," he answered, sitting down with a huge sigh of utter conteat. "Yes; the boys could talk of nothing else at the engine house this morning. I think the most popular man in the district will be Ben Harris."

"Ben Harris, nothing!" flashed his wife. "You'll get it yourself, Earnest. What sense have you, anyway? You being the lieutenant of the engine house, and having made more rescues than any man in the district, and specially commended by the chief, and all that! After twenty-six years of hard service! Ben Harris, indeed!"

The eventful night of the contest finally arrived. The shining palace of the enterprising Murphy was alive with the pride of the district. Murphy himself sat at a table before the bar, entering votes on a blackboard as supporters presented their opinions, backed by a dime apiece. Up to 9 o'clock the contest had been close between Ben Harris and Earnest Stepp.

Mrs. Stepp, in state in her parlor, received the returns by way of a small boy of the neighborhood, a devoted admirer of the lieutenant. He arrived, panting, shortly before 10, with the news that Harris was 207 votes ahead. The contest was to close at 10.

Without comment Mrs. Stepp got up, and going into her bedroom, returned with a roll of bills in her hands.

"Will you go back to Murphy's, Willie?" she said, determinedly. "Here's $50, and for the love of the holy saints, child, don't lose it. Don't tell a soul who gave you the money but keep my Earnest ahead of that Ben Harris."

His entrance into the contest produced a sensation. It was five minutes to 10, and Stepp had pushed to within 150 votes of his rival. Willie sauntered up to the blackboard with the supercilious mien of the small boy on state business, pulled out a yellow backed $20 from his pocket and threw it carelessly at Murphy, with a calm, "Two hundred votes for Mister Stepp, the best man in the world."

Promptly a sallow faced man, with a grin, threw $25 before Murphy, bringing Harris 200 votes ahead. Willie waited for the excitement to subside, and then, with elaborate carelessness, counted out $25 before the eyes of the astonished district.

It was 10 o'clock, and Murphy got up laboriously and rapped on his table for silence. Gintlemen," he began. "Are there any more votes to be presinted for the chair yonder?"

Harris' friend arose in the back of the smoke-filled room. There was a deep silence, and Willie eyed him anxiously. He had only $5 left, and if Harris won——

"One hundred for Mr. Harris," said the sallow faced one, and sat down.

"One hundred," said Mr. Murphy, obediently. "This brings Mr. Harris a bit over fifty ahead. He waited a moment, and then went on: "The contest, then——."

Here Willie's shrill voice interrupted him. "Where's de cash?" cried the boy, rising and looking back for his rival. "Come and cover up dat hundred with something!"

Harris' friend arose again and bowed politely to Murphy. "Mr. Murphy knows me," he said, smoothly. "I ain't got just the amount with me at present, but me word's good for it."

At this there was an instant howl of indignant protest from the crowd with cries of "Ernie wins!" "Close the deal!" and "chuck him out!"

Mr. Murphy knew his crowd. "The kid's right," he said loftily. "You has to cover your votes. If there is no more coming, I declare the contest closed." He added up the figures on the score board, and then, turning to the crowd, declared that "Mr. Ernie Stepp, lieutenant of Company 15, is the most popular gent in this district, and the winner of the magnificent mahogany chair yonder."

A roar of applause drowned his words. But Willie was off like a shot to carry the good news to Mrs. Stepp. The boy was leaving, a half hour or so later, when a committee of the neighbors arrived with the chair.

When they had settled themselves, one of their numbe, a member of Ernest's own fire company, arose as an embarrassed spokesman.

"Mr and Mrs. Stepp, and you Willie, and gents," he began. We're glad to bring the chair with us to show as how Mr. Lieutenant Stepp is the best man in the district. But we bring something else. When that son of a gun of Murphy was for letting Harris' friend vote without the cash, we gets on to him. Me and me friends here," with a wave to the committee, "we gets after that smooth guy on the street, and gets ready to knock his block off. Then he admits 'tis a put up job between him and Murphy. He was to back anyone who looked like a good second, so's to push up the contest and make Murphy get a hundred or so for the chair, so he backs Harris and Murphy gives him the money to do it with, knowing it comes right back to him!

"So then we go back to the saloon and fixes Murphy. So he coughs up all the cash he got, but what the chair cost him, and now we're looking for the chap that backed you, Willie, with the $45 you put in!"

The boy was taken entirely by surprise at the sudden turn in the conversation. "Why, it was the missus here!" he stammered.

There was a roar of laughter from the men as Mrs. Stepp arose in her wrath and made for Willie. But when she reached him, Willie was no longer there. Then the committee plumped the roll of bills into her lap, placed the wonderful chair beside her, and, after solemnly shaking hands with her and her husband—who sat like one stunned—filed heavily out of the flat.

After the door had closed upon them, Ernest stood before her. "You little divvle!" he said. He hadn't called her that since courtship days, long years before, and her heart swelled. "Ye little divvle, spending that lump to make your old man think he was the grandest thing in the world! What difference do you think it would make to me what the crows think, when I know my girl loves me?" Her heart swelled again, and her eyes filled.

"You're an old fool, Ernie, darling," she said, her voice trembling.

"Now, more," he went on. "Where'd you get the cash? I know it is your own, but for what was you saving it?"

She eyed him a moment, and then yielded, as she usually did. "For my clothes, Ernie; and by the saints I don't need none!"

"No," he retorted. "And Easter coming! Tomorrow you and me works out what it will cost to fit you up better than any lady in the district, and I puts a bit with the bit you have in your lap there. And Sunday we goes out for a good time like we used to have in the old days. And now, you scamp, sit in the rocker, and let your old man look at you!"

Reading Character

By ROBERT SNOWDEN.

A pointed chin is said to be a sign of craftiness, wisdom and discretion.

A soft, fat double chin shows sensuousness and an indolent temperament.

A flat chin shows a cold, hard nature.

A retreating chin is a sign of silliness, and if the brow is receding, of imbecility.

A broad chinned woman is faithful.

A square chin shows a determined will.

A rather long, but not flat, upper lip denotes eloquence.

A very long, flat upper lip, and a straight mouth is a sign of a low, vicious character.

When the space between the nose and the red part of lip is short and sharply cut, it indicates refinement, but not much power. Where this space is unusually short there is no force of intellect.

Beware of the person who carries his left foot in toward his right when walking. He is probably a kleptomaniac.

The man of short, nervous step is a business man of energy, and if this stride is only from the knees, he is cold and selfish.

A long stride indicates energy, but of an erratic kind. While a good fellow, the man with the long stride is generally unreliable.

Great statesmen and great philanthropists have a loose, shambling gait, which comes from thinking more about others than about themselves.

The sauntering man is not always a dreamer, but a man with a quick, active brain, who thinks much.

Flat-footed people are usually good natured. Flat-footed girls have a sympathetic, kindly nature, while the girl with the arched foot is apt to be selfish.

The vacillating person who changes his mind a dozen times a day sets an uneven pace. Sometimes he walks at a furious pace, which after time dwindles down to a saunter. This is the man without stamina, who works by fits and starts.

Cultivate Her Mother

By AMANDA MOORE.

Cultivate her mother—oh, yes, and her sister, too, if she has one! Relations are a potent factor for weal or for woe when a young man goes a wooing, therefore, if you want to be a welcome visitor at your sweetheart's house, be nice to her mother, and make the whole family genuinely like you; so that when you take your departure she will hear kind things about you and not disparaging remarks.

You may think this doesn't count, and that if a girl loves you it won't matter in the least what anyone says. But remember it isn't always love at first sight, and many a promising courtship has come to nothing through the attitude taken up by the family, especially at the beginning, when a girl herself has but a lukewram interest in you. It is then that an unfavorable verdict may cause her to look at you with more critical eyes and lessen your chances in that direction. Mothers have not the influence they used to have over their daughters, but most of them are still to be reckoned with.

If a mother favors a suitor she can do much more to help him and is often more judicious than a father, who frequently does more harm than good by overpraising the worthy man he would like to see his daughter married to, till she hates the very sound of his name.

A mother has much more tact. She can let fall the little word that stimulates a daughter's interest; she can give you opportunities of getting to know each other better, and timely advice how to win that daughter's heart often comes from her.

It will therefore be to your advantage to be pleasant to mamma. She will be gratified by little attentions, so bring her a few flowers from time to time, ask her advice, and jump at the chance of doing her commissions.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Fools the Calendar

Don't look older than you are. It is just as easy to look younger. While lack of hair or poor hair is not always an indication of age, it is frequently accepted as such.

A person well advanced in years possessing a good head of hair is always spoken of as "well preserved."

Everyone can retain beautiful luxuriant hair if they make the effort. In almost every instance poor hair or the loss of hair may be traced to the activity of the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide kills this germ and puts the scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. With the destruction of the dandruff germ the hair no longer drops out. The itching of the scalp stops almost at once.

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy for which there are many substitutes, preparations claimed to be "just as good." You don't have to accept a substitute. Insist upon having genuine Herpicide.

For sale by all druggists. Applications obtained at good barber shops. One dollar size bottles are always guaranteed. Send 10c in postage to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for sample and book.

TALKS ON HEALTH

By Duluth Progressive Doctors.

Indigestion and Stomach Troubles.

In this age of civilization we are no more children of nature. Housed up from the very date of our birth and carefully kept away from God's free air and nature, prepares the human body only too well for diseases. How much of the food-stuff we are consuming for the maintenance of our life is prepared artificially? The meat we eat often has been stored for months, yes years before we eat it. Sarcoplasm and albumen, the very stuff we need, is changed and instead of getting nourishment, we fill our stomach and that is all. The very bread we eat is robbed of constituents which are essential for health and digestion. The stomach has millions of minute glands which secrete pepsin and hydrochloric acid and by unnatural food and insufficient oxygen or air, imperfect digestion is the consequence and your food lies for hours in the stomach, causing unpleasant feelings, gas, loss of appetite and heartburn. You, however, pay no attention to that and the condition grows worse. Hydrochloric acid is not secreted any longer. This, however, is not only digestive, antiseptic in action, killing germs, any kind, typhoid, consumption, diarrhoea and others are having the finest field in you, and you are now a prospective victim of many diseases. The food as it lies in the stomach for many hours goes through undigested, it also lies in the small intestines, often for days, ferments in them, and instead of giving food to your body it forms poison by decomposition. Few people are killed in a week or more time, most live for years in a sickly condition and slowly but surely causing auto-intoxication or self-poisoning, having as its symptoms constipation, indigestion, piles, and as the liver is poisoned the bile will stay in your blood which shows as yellow eyes and skin; your stool is clay colored and often you will find pieces of the inner lining of your intestines. The pancreas is also suffering by this poisoning process and this is the cause of the much disgusted fears and horrible CANCER. If diseases don't finish your life in middle age, this slow-poisoning process will, and a sure sign is, you look older than you are, your face is full of pimples and wrinkles and your very looks to the trained eye betray your condition. Gradually your heart is suffering, the kidneys cannot perform their work and Bright's disease sets in, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, lumbago. These diseases and all chronic maladies afford long and special studies and if you are afflicted with these we don't know any more skilled and careful specialists than the experts of the Progressive Medical association. They extend their cordial invitation to every sick man to consult them. The specialists have been for over 20 years in Duluth at No. 1 West Superior street (upstairs), their office is open from 9 to 8 every day. Sundays and holidays only, from 10 to 1.

TWO FORMER POLITICAL ENEMIES UNITED BY WEDDING OF CHILDREN

FRANK A. DAY AND JAMES A. TAWNEY.

Cupid has healed a political breach of some years standing by the bringing together of the daughter and son of two men who fought valiantly for different political parties.

The marriage of Constance Day, daughter of Frank A. Day, and Everett Tawney, son of former Congressman James A. Tawney, has brought the fathers of the young people together as close friends, it is said.

For many years the fathers of the young people have fought politically against each other. Each has helped make Minnesota political history. At times they have clashed and the clashes may have in the past left scars of animosity.

But the past has been forgotten, and with the forgetting has vanished the resentment, if there was any. Frank A. Day and James A. Tawney are friends, as the picture will go far to show. It was taken at Fairmont, Minn., during the recent wedding celebration.

WILL BE ASKED TO TELL STORY TO GRAND JURY

Aldermen Say They Will Investigate Hugh Steele's "$1,000 Letter."

Contractor Says He Was Offered Bribe to Withhold Paving Bid.

The sensational letter sent to the city council last night by Contractor Hugh Steele, in which he states that had he accepted $1,000 not to bid on the Fourth street paving job he would be in good standing with the city today, will come in for a searching investigation.

Alderman Z. D. Scott, chairman of the council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, stated today that the matter will be thoroughly investigated and explainations demanded of the several declarations made by Mr. Steele. He said that he believed the grand jury the proper body to take up that section which speaks of the $1,000 which was offered to Steele not to bid on the job and his assertion that had he accepted the money he would be in good standing with the city today.

Alderman William Bernard, a member of the same committee, said this morning that although he does not think that the substance of the statements made by Mr. Steele are correct, the $1,000 part, with its reference to the city, should be turned over to the grand jury.

The $1,000 Offer.

The particular part in question reads as follows:

"Gentlemen, there is more back of this than to protect the interests of the taxpayers. When the Fourth street paving was let I was offered $1,000 not to bid on the work, which I refused. I saved the property owners $6,000. Had I accepted the $1,000 I would have been in good standing with the city today. This Fourth street contract also put A. G. Osman out of business. He was the lowest bidder, but was refused the contract."

The communication was the result of the action of the council last week in referring back to the board of public works a contract which had been awarded by that body to Mr. Steele for the grading and graveling of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues, with a combined cement curb and gutter. The ground said to have been taken by the council is that Mr. Steele had failed to "make good" on a previous contract.

This is said to be the West Superior street pavement in the West end. Mr. Steele wrote in defense of his work and stated that he had not defaulted, claiming that he had done even more than called for by the specifications.

Work Done Free.

City officials state that Mr. Steele is mistaken when he says that the paving on Twenty-third avenue east has been paid for twice. They assert that the work was paid for but once, and that the resurfacing and patching was done entirely at the expense of the contractor. They also state that the Fourth street work was re-advertised once, and that much lower bids were received than when first advertised. They say that the job was awarded to the lowest bidder. Speaking of the whole communication they say that all except that part relative to the $1,000 can be satisfactorily explained.

The Letter.

The communication is as follows:

"I see by the papers that the council accuses me of defaulting on the West Superior street paving contract and refuses to award me any more contracts. I suppose the idea is to either make me repair West Superior street at my own expense or to warn the public of this and other cities that I am a defaulter. This has been done several times and the contract was finally awarded to me, except in the instance when Paddy McDonnell wanted it. I have done about $1,000,000 worth of contract work for the United States government and the cities on Lake Superior and I defy any of you to show where I have defaulted in any particular.

"The work on West Superior street, according to your own engineers and inspectors, and also by tests made along the whole length of the street, shows that it was done a great deal better than the specifications required. If my guarantee only covers the workmanship and material as it reads, and as I am told that it does by one of the leading attorneys of the city, where is the default? If it covers the mistakes of the city officials why doesn't your attorney enforce the guarantee.

"Gentlemen, there is more back of this than to protect the interests of the taxpayer. When the Fourth street paving was let I was offered $1,000 not to bid on the work, which I refused. I saved the property owners $6,000. Had I accepted the $1,000 I would have been in good standing with the city today. This Fourth street contract also put A. G. Osman out of business. He was the lowest bidder but was refused the contract.

"The pavement on West Superior street was as good as any tar macadam pavement in the city, but it was laid on soft mud and quicksand. I protested against laying it on that kind of a foundation as well as the city engineer, but the property owners wanted the pavement laid on the mud and they got it. Twenty-third avenue east was paved about five years ago. Last summer the contractor did some patchwork on it. Several months after it was patched the city gave him a contract for repaving it and I understand paid him about $5,000 for doing a job that had already been done. Although that street has been paved twice and paid for twice there is not as much material as the original specification requires.

"I don't know what you are going to do about the West Fifth street contract but I do know that your action has caused me a grea deal of damage. I also know who furnishes the ammunition and if this is going to be continued indefinitely I don't want any more city contracts."

FIVE CLERKS ARRESTED

Drug Stores Are Probed By Inspector From State Board.

Claimed Drugs Were Sold By Assistants Without Proper Credentials.

Following an investigation by an inspector of the state pharmacy board, five clerks of local drug stores were arrested this morning on charges of having sold drugs in violation of the law.

It is claimed that they were not registered pharmacists or assistants and made the sales in the absence of a fully registered pharmacist. Enoch Sundholm and Archie N. McRae of Smith & Smith, Wemar Hellenius of the White Swan drug store and Clifford Stowell of S. J. Nygren's drug store at West Duluth, all entered pleas of not guilty.

The first three will have their hearings Thursday and the latter was set for Aug. 14. Iver Mickelson of Abbett's drug store at West Duluth pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $50, which is fixed by the law. Two other similar warrants have been issued and will be served as soon as possible.

DENIES THAT HE IS DEAD

Duluth Boy Says He Is "Victim" Referred to in Whittier Case.

Visits Local Probation Office and Offers to Give Testimony.

Charles Wright, 20 years old, who says he was the boy reported to have been whipped by Supt. Whittier of the state training school at Red Wing until he was badly injured and who, after two months at the hospital, died, showed up at the local probation office at the courthouse yesterday to deny that he was dead. He admitted that he was alive to such an extent that in one of the local wholesale houses he is holding down a good position.

According to a newspaper report from St. Paul Saturday, where the charges of Supt. Whittier are being thrashed out, a boy was whipped until he died two months later as the result. The testimony against Mr. Whittier was given by a St. Paul boy, Carl Carlson.

Charles Wright read the newspaper article and claiming that he was the boy referred to in the testimony, went at once to Col. Reesche of the local probation office. He explained that he was Charles Wright and that he thought he was alive and well and that the testimony against Mr. Whittier should not stand.

He stated that while at the institution he was whipped several times, but that each time he was whipped it was for some act he had commited which he knew to be wrong and against the rules of the institution.

The Duluth boy stood up for Mr. Whittier and warmly defended him.

In the testimony of the Carlson boy he stated that the victim was beaten unmercifully and that for two weeks he spat blood. It was stated that after two months at the hospital he died.

The local boy voiced his willingness to go at any time to St. Paul where the hearing is taking place, to deny that he is dead or that he was ever cruelly treated while at the Red Wing institution. He claims that Mr. Whittier was fair and impartial, although the boys were severely punished when they committed an act that was wrong.

Young Wright was discharged from the institution some time ago because of ill-health. He is at present working at a local wholesale house and is making good, according to those interested in him.

GOOD CROP WEATHER

Washington, July 25.—Good crop growing weather prevailed generally throughout the country during the past week, according to the National Weekly Bulletin of the weather bureau, issued today.

Moderate temperatures, with the occurrence of much needed rainfall in sections where severe drought had prevailed, were the important features of the weather in the week.

In the corn producing states, west of the Mississippi, beneficial rains in many cases sufficient for present needs, occurred in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arkansas and portions of Iowa and Missouri, although in the two last named states only partial relief was obtained, but the continuance of moderately cooler weather greatly lessened the effect of the lack of moisture.

In the large corn growing states east of the Mississippi the weather continued cool and moderate rains occurred in most districts, except in portions of the Lower Ohio valley where additional moisture is needed.

In the spring wheat belt, the weather was mostly favorable. Cool weather continued through the week, and moderate rains occurred in nearly all portions of the several states.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

One would not say that this weather is ideal. When one emerged from his residence this morning, one encountered a chill blast that lacked much of the stuff of which July weather is made. One has a wee idea that the weather man has mixed his potions and got a little November weather into the wrong mixture. The temperature was 50 deg. which isn't so cold when you come to consider the figures. But one doesn't consider figures when he is shivering in July. Fair and cool weather is promised for tonight, with higher temperatures tomorrow.

Fine vacation weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:39 and it will set at 7:50 this evening, giving fifteen hours and eleven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm now centered over the St. Lawrence valley has caused further rains over the Lake region, Upper Mississippi, Red river and Ohio valleys, Eastern Canada and North Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours, besides brisk to high westerly winds throughout the greater part of the Lake region. Light rains also fell over Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Southern Colorado and Nevada in connection with the low pressure overlying the extreme Southwest. The rains at Duluth since Saturday night have reduced the deficiency to about .50 inch since Jan. 1; in other words the total precipitation from Jan. 1 to date only lacks about ½ inch of being the normal amount. Generally fair weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 25.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Wednesday; slowly rising temperature.

Wisconsin—Fair, continued cool tonight; Wednesday fair, slightly warmer.

Minnesota and Iowa—Fair, continued cool tonight; Wednesday fair, warmer.

North and South Dakota—Fair, warmer tonight, Wednesday fair; warmer in east portion.

Montana—Fair tonight, warmer in east portion; Wednesday fair.

Upper Lakes—Brisk northwest winds, diminishing tonight; generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

WEST END

GOOD TEMPLARS GET "DRY BOAT"

Liquor Will Not Be Sold When They Hold Annual Excursion.

Duluth Good Templars, who have been fighting against the sale of intoxicants on excursion steamers which ply up and down the river, and "around the horn," consider that they have won the first round in the fight.

The Good Templars, at least, were able to secure a "dry boat" for their annual outing this year. Heretofore, the cold water advocates barred themselves from the boat, because the boat operators refused to make any concessions along that line.

The ban on the steamer would not be closed, regardless of whether the boat was chartered by the lodge of not, they were told last year and as a result, no excursion was held. This year the navigation company acceded to their request and when the steamer Columbia goes "around the horn" Aug. 3, it will be a dry boat and will carry Good Templar passengers.

The objection to the bar being open was made mainly because there were always other passengers on the boat, the Good Templars themselves being total abstainers.

Last year the refusal of the transportation companies to close the bar resulted in an investigation which was started by the Good Templars into the alleged illegal sale of liquor on boats within the one mile limit along the shores of Lake Superior. The proposition was brought up at the district convention, the Duluth delegates requesting the appointment of a committee to investigate.

The committee reported to Attorney General Simpson that they had evidence to show that no attention was being paid to the limits as provided by law in the boat saloons and that they were open for business at all times, even when the boat was in the harbor at the dock.

The investigation was never carried any further and the proposition died in the office of the attorney general. Whether renewed agitation will be begun this summer is not known.

The members of North Star lodge have chartered the steamer Columbia for the evening of Aug. 3. It will take on passengers at the Lake avenue dock, the Twenty-first avenue dock and Tower bay slip, Superior.

The annual picnic of North Star lodge will be held Sunday at Fairmont park. The supply wagon with refreshments, consisting of pop, other soft drinks and ice cream, will leave the West end at 6 o'clock and the members will gather there as early as they please. Dinner and supper will both be served at the park.

Will Be Completed Following Duluth and Milwaukee Cases.

Upon motion of George B. Hudnall, attorney for the Superior Commercial club, the hearing of the complaints made by the club regarding the alleged discrimination against Superior in favor of Minneapolis and Chicago in railroad freight rates, was continued by the interstate commerce commission until after the hearings of the complaints made by Duluth and Milwaukee grain men.

No date has been set for the Duluth hearing, but as the evidence which is to be produced before the commission is practically ready, it is expected that it can be held before long. The same is true regarding the Milwaukee hearing.

The hearing in Superior was begun at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and continued until late in the afternoon. During the entire session only three witnesses were produced. They were A. E. Le Claire, of Black River Falls, Wis.; James A. Little, rate expert of the Superior Commercial club and J. M. Anderson, president of the North Dakota Society of Equity.

The most important evidence was produced by Mr. Little, who, with Mr. Hudnall and Fred Van Buren, chairman of the traffic committee of the Superior Commercial club, had prepared many reports for this hearing.

Several copies of each report had been prepared and these were distributed to the representatives of the different companies, and were carefully explained by Mr. Little, who is considered an authority on the matter.

Probably the most striking report was that showing the rate from Minneapolis to New York on flour being 14 7-10 cents per 100 pounds, while the rate from Superior and Duluth to the same destination is 18 cents flat. Mr. Little stated that this was discrimination from the very fact of its unreasonableness.

He showed that the differential was in favor of Minneapolis from practically every point west and south of here, with the exception of a few points in the northern part of North Dakota, but that these points, while being nearer the Head of the Lakes, were given the same rate to Minneapolis as to Duluth and Superior.

It was further pointed out by Mr. Little that the rates between Chicago and Eastern points were far less than between Superior and the East giving the advantage to the Windy City.

The surprise of the hearing was the short examination made of Mr. Anderson, who came here in the interest of the North Dakota Society of Equity. He stated that his society was in touch with practically every farmer in North and South Dakota; that these farmers were compelled to sell their grain to Minneapolis and Chicago men because the rates were such that it was impossible for them to ship to Duluth or Superior at as big a profit as they could to the Minneapolis or Chicago men, but that they wanted to deal with men at the Head of the Lakes for it made a better competitive market for them.

The North Dakota railroad commissioners, W. H. Stutsman, chairman; W. H. Mann, and O. P. N. Anderson, who came to the hearing with the view of presenting a complaint on behalf of the farmers of the southern one-third for the same rate to the Head of the Lakes as they are now getting to Minneapolis, were not heard.

FORMER DETROIT GIRL SEPARATED FROM HUSBAND.

Paris, July 25.—The civil court here issued a decree of conditional separation to Mr. Riccardi and Madam Riccardi, the former princess de Chimay, who was Miss Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich. The decree provides that the parties shall live apart, but does not permit either to re-marry. The decree was granted on the request of the husband.

LLOYDS WILL REFUSE WAR RISKS AFTER AUG. 8.

London, July 25.—The Lloyds underwriters have given notice that they will not accept liability for war risks under marine insurance contracts after Aug. 8. The decision is believed to have been prompted partly by the Moroccan difficulty and partly by the government's approval of the Declaration of London.

MORE BODIES IN THE MAINE.

Piles of Fractured Bones Discovered in the Wreck.

Havana, July 24.—The remains of three of four more bodies—the precise number has not yet been determined—have been recovered from the wreck of the Maine. They consisted of bones, most of them fractured and piled in a heap. Some showed the action of fire. All were found near the place where other remains were recently discovered of members of the crew who are supposed to have been sleeping on the open deck on the night of the disaster.

Derricks and other timber superstructures are now being erected above the wreck for the purpose of removing the masses of metal as fast as they are dissected.

BUHL BURGLARY PRACTICAL JOKE

Theft of Cash Register and Contents Was Made in Fun.

Buhl, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent burglary here in the St. Louis saloon of Johnson Bros., when it was reported burglars got away with a cash register worth $250 and about $225 in cash is now said to have been a fake—the work of practical jokers, who had a little fun at the expense of the saloon men.

It is said that the cash register contents was lugged off by a couple of friends of the Johnson brothers, secreted a few days and then returned with its contents intact.

While the perpetrators of the joke enjoyed the discomfiture of the reported losers, the latter are not enjoying the joshing to which they have been subjected, but they naturally are pleased to have sustained no loss.

CANDIDATES ARE QUITE NUMEROUS

Appears No Dearth of Timber to Fill Various Eveleth Positions.

Eveleth, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Menghinni, a prominent Italian resident, has announced his candidacy for mayor.

Mayor J. A. Saari, who received the office a few months ago by appointment, succeeding ex-Mayor W. J. Smith, resigned, is expected to make the race for re-election. Aldermen Jesmore and Mulligan, who have held the position, are being urged by their friends to enter the race. Secretary J. F. Treddinick of the Commercial club also is looked upon as a probable candidate. Judge Neil McInnis and Ephraim Johnson are also mentioned as possible candidates.

J. Rometello, an Italian resident of the Fifth ward, is a candidate for the aldermanship. In the First ward, Alderman Joseph Wilson, president of the city council, is expected to be easily re-elected, as is Alderman David A. Springer of the Sixth ward, successor to ex-Alderman Hatch, resigned.

The race in the Second ward will be an open one, as Alderman Sutherland will undoubtedly enter the fight for the judgeship. In the Third ward, J. Stein, a merchant, is being urged to make the race. Many are expected to enter the fight for the two aldermen-at-large positions, now filled by Aldermen Doyle and Jesmore, who are considered as candidates for higher honores. Alderman Dr. E. K. Medlar of the recently annexed Third ward, appointed by the council, who has made a good record, is looked upon as a candidate for re-election.

For the municipal judgeship, S. E. Helps and Edward Moylan are after the honor with Frank Mattson, John Aho, Attorney J. W. Peterson and Aldermen Sutherland and Doyle as possible candidates.

A local Swedish orchestra furnished the music.

COLLECTS DEBT WITH SHOTGUN

Debtor Fires Upon Creditor and Perhaps Mortally Wounds Him.

Biwabik, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Collecting a debt of $5 with a shotgun may be all right in theory but it proved disastrous with Joseph Barament, who was fired upon and seriously wounded by William Damaino from whom he sought to force the money. The latter is in jail and his victim is reported mortally wounded at the hospital.

Damiano after running about town following the shooting gave himself up and he told the police he fired upon Barment when the latter appeared at tht door of his cabin armed with a shotgun and demanded the return of $5 owed him.

Fearing that his life was in danger, he says he grabbed a revolver and fired. Barament fell groaning to the floor and Damiano fled, running about two miles from the village. Later he returned and gave himself up.

The surgeons at the hospital to which Barament was taken say that the bullet from Damiano's revolver is embedded in the injured man's groin and that it is only a question of hours as to how long he can survive.

Damiano will be arraigned Thursday.

TRAVELING MAN HELD.

Port Arthurite Alleged to Have Had Designs on Girl.

Virginia, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with trying to entice Clara Curry, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curry, away from her home here to Minneapolis, Bertram Chandler of Port Arthur, Ont., who has been selling goods on the range, was arraigned before Judge Carey in municipal court and held to the grand jury in $500 bonds. He is being detained until he procures bail.

It is claimed Chandler told the girl he would find her a home in Minneapolis with his half-sister and eventually marry. This is claimed to have been a blind to get the girl from home. The girl had gone to the Missabe depot to take the train to Duluth when her mother overtook her and made her return home.

Miss Curry left a note for Chandler to meet her in Duluth, but the latter stated he had no intention of going there at that time. Chandler's letters to Miss Curry were of a nature that would lead one to believe that he intended to and wanted to marry her, but as he stated on the stand, that he had only met her twice, the promises made did not look plausible to the judge.

Eveleth, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Swedish-Finnish Benevolent Aid associations of Virginia, Hibbing, Biwabik and Eveleth will hold their first annual gathering Sunday at St. Mary's lake under the uspices of North Star lodge No. 7 of this city.

An oration will be delivered by State Senator Boyle, while Gust Isaacson, of Gilbert will give a short talk in Swedish. Recitations will be given by many members of the local lodge. A quartet consisting of Alex Frad, John Helstrom, Justus Nylund and Fred Ericeson, will render many vocal numbers under the direction of Conductor Ferdinand Klang. The program of sports consisting of many athletic contests, will be featured by a tug of war between the Eveleth and Hibbing orders.

The association will soon choose the place for the second gathering of the lodges next year. The local lodge has a membership of over 120, while the association numbers about 500 members, and is one of the strongest fraternal organizations on the range.

TWO HARBORS HAS RECALL ELECTION

Question of Retiring Two Socialist Aldermen Being Voted on.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election to select successors to Alderman-at-Large H. J. Irwin and Alderman Charles Esse, both Socialisas, to recall them according to the Socialist method, and substitute Alfred Johnson and Harry Bansund, is being held today. The looked-for injunction to prevent the election did not materialize. Both Irwin and Esse, who decline to be recalled, and their opponents have lots of friends and have circulated a raft of literature in their behalf. It is expected the vote will be large.

EVELETH IS PLEASED

Over Prospect of Getting New Militia Armory.

Eveleth, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much gratification is expressed here over the news from St. Paul that the $10,000 appropriation from the state militia board for a new armory here, which was requested by the city council following the Commercial club's work, would be forthcoming this fall.

The selection of a site for the new armory will be taken up at once, as it is desired to have work start on the building as soon as possible.

SECTION 30 PROPERTY TO SHIP NEXT YEAR.

Ely, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Section 30 Development company expects to be shipping ore next year. It has installed new machinery in the mine and has one of the best equipped plants on the ranges. There is a 40-light generator to furnish light in the mine, in addition to other machinery. The work in the shaft is progressing as rapidly as men and modern machinery can sink a shaft. The shaft has already reached a depth of 120 feet, and when it will be about 200 feet deep, they will reach the stage where they will run drifts in various directions, where the large ore bodies lie. Some good ore is already being taken from the shaft, and there is no doubt but there will be soon installed machinery necessary to successful mining. Mr. Wallace and Capt. Bale of the active force on the mining company were in the city here last week after a few days' stay at the exploration, and they say that it is a certainty that their property will be in the shipping list next year.

Two Eveleth Infants Die.

Eveleth, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 2-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Darwin and the 4-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Maki, died here after short illnesses with summer complaints.

New Eveleth Postal Regulation.

Eveleth, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster Edward H. Hatch announces that free mail delivery on Sundays will be discontinued, and the carrier window closed. No work will be done on Sunday by the carriers, but those having mail distributed in the postoffice boxes will be supplied with their Sunday mail by the regular staff of postal clerks here. The general delivery patrons will also be given mail but the postoffice doors will not be opened until the mail is fully distributed by the clerks.

ORE SHIPPING IS IRREGULAR

Large Amount Sent From Ely, Then Output Lessened.

Ely, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore shipment the last two weeks was the heaviest of any other two weeks this year about 200 cars being daily shipped to Two Harbors, from where they are loaded in the boats. Most of this ore was shipped from the Pioneer and the Zenith mines, these being the only mines to work the shovels on their stock piles.

In former year the Pioneer mine has for outshipped any of the other Ely mines by a large margin, but this year the Zenith mine is a close second, shipping almost as many cars as the Pioneer. The stock piles on the Pioneer A shaft, the Sibley, Savoy, Section 30, and the Chandler mines being so far this year untouched, a fact which the people of this city look upon with anything but favor, for with the already large stock piles covering most of the available ground for that purpose, it may be possible that the mines might discontinue working in the winter time. Just as the shipping has started at a good galt, it has stopped all of a sudden on account of the hard time in getting boats for the ore, the shipping has to be stopped and sent only accordingly to suit the convenience of the boats.

ELY IS HOPING TO GET HATCHERY

Expected to Result From Visit of State Fish and Game Commission.

Ely, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the state game and fish commission are expected to make a trip here about Aug. 1 to look over the fishing grounds in the various lakes around here. In the party will be H. A. Ridert the executive agent of the commission. Mr. Bradley, Supt. Wires of the fish hatchery department and several others. While here, the gentlemen will be the guests of Warden James.

An effort will be made to locate a fish hatchery near Ely, as located right in the heart of the best fishing grounds of the state, there is no reason why there should not be one. There is no doubt, but after the visitors have looked over the lakes around this section of the country, that they will be in favor of locating here. There were in the neighborhood of 100 cans of young fish planted here this spring, by Warden James in the various lakes. This will help bring another throng of fishermen from various parts of the state, swelling the already large number that come for a good fishing trip here annually. Besides the natural advantages around here for fishing, the Ely Lakes Outing club, is doing its share in accommodating the visitors by their new hotel and outing outfits which they are at present erecting on Burntside lake.

Speakers from the Twin Cities, Duluth and range towns are expected to address the convention.

Representatives of the local Sunday schools will meet this week to arrange for the entertainment of the visiting delegates.

CLOQUET SCHOOL REPORT.

Summary for Past Year Shows a Healthy Growth of Schools.

Cloquet, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city school report for the past year, submutted by L. F. Leach, school clerk, shows that, including all instructors, forty-four teachers were employed. This number will be increased the coming year. A domestic science department, started at the beginning of school, has proven a splendid success, and this, with the manual training department, ten-acre school farm which was recently donated to the district by the Cloquet Lumber company, and which is under cultivation by students of the schools, and the greenhouse, plans for which are under way, will complete the requirements of the state by which the school will receive $2,500 per year for its maintenance. The New Garfield school building, opened last fall, was furnished at an expense of $5,523, a domestic science room was furnished at a cost of $760.84, and cement walks were put in at an expense of $505.85. The five school buildings of the city are now in excellent repair, and 1,515 pupils received instruction therein at a cost per pupil of $37.50, including all school expense. The number of pupils will increase materially with the opening of school the coming term.

Renewing Complexions By Absorption

If your complexion is marred with blotches, moth patches, pimples or freckles, it's useless to putter with powders and paints, lotions, creams and things, in an effort to get rid of the trouble. Unless you have some ability as an artist you'll mar your appearance still more.

The new and rational way is to take off the complexion itself, with all its offensive marks. Just get an ounce of pure mercolized wax at the druggist's and use at night same as cold cream. Remove next morning with water and soap, following with dash of cold water. The mercolized wax absorbs the half-dead scarf skin in flaky particles, so gradually no one guesses you're treating your face—unless it be by the result, which is truly wonderful. There's nothing like it for restoring a natural, healthy and beautiful complexion.—Aunt Sally.

CARRIERS ARE NOT SUPREME

Commerce Commission Holds Conditions Must Control Rates.

Important Decision Made in the Spokane-Reno Cases.

Washington, July 25.—In what are known as the Spokane Reno-Pacific Coast cases, the interstate commerce commission has ordered material reduction in freight rates from the East to points between Denver and the Western terminals of the great transcontinental railroads.

For many years the railroads have exacted from shippers to intermediate points, such as Spokane and Reno, higher rates on Eastern freights than were charged for the much longer hauls to Seattle, San Francisco and other Pacific coast points. The theory has been that the railroads must meet water competition to the Pacific coast. The higher rates to intermediate points, arbitrarily fixed, have been defended by a comparison with the coast rates, plus a theoretical back haul from the coast to the inland stations along the line.

Wipes Out Back-Haul Rates.

The commission recognizes the right of a railroad to meet water competition to Pacific coast points, but practically wipes out the back-haul rates to inter-Rocky Mountain territory. It lays down what it considers would be fair and just rates to various freight zones in the West, and gives the railroads until Oct. 15 to adjust their tariffs accordingly.

The commission also lays down the important principle that hereafter railroads will not be permitted to fix arbitrary market limits, and that hereafter commercial conditions rather than the will of railway traffic managers shall control rates on transcontinental transportation.

Long and Short Haul Clause.

The decisions, announced late yesterday are of far-reaching importance. They affect all all freight rates between the Atlantic ocean and the Pacific coast. Particularly they affect the rates in the territory lying between Denver and Pacific coast points. Hereafter the rates paid by shippers will be governed by a strict interpretation of the long and short haul clause.

The commission holds in the so-called Reno case that traffic originating at Chicago and in Chicago territory moving under commodity rates, may have a rate 7 per cent higher to intermediate points than that imposed on freight originating in Chicago and Chicago territory destined to the Pacific coast terminals. From Buffalo-Pittsburg territory the rates may rise above those demanded from the same points to Pacific coast terminals to the extent of 15 per cent; while from New York and Trunk Line territory the rates charged shall not exceed 10 per cent over Pacific coast terminal rates.

First Such Decision.

These are the first decisions announced by the commission in which a definite principle in respect of the long and short haul provision is laid down. While the opinions fully recognize the influence of water competition, to a marked extent they draw a line upon indiscriminate "market" competition.

The cases involved are those of the city of Spokane against the Northern Pacific Railway company, known popularly as the "Spokane Rate Case," the Commercial club of Salt Lake City against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company and others; the railroad commission of Nevada against the Southern Pacific company and others; and the Maricopa County Commercial club against the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix Railway company and other carriers.

Inasmuch as the cases generally dove-tail into one another, the commission announces its decisions in two opinions. In brief, the commission takes the view which it took in its opinions of the same cases announced a year ago last June. At that time the commission said it would make no order respecting the rates, which it suggested might be put into effect until it had had opportunity to determine from reports made to it by the carriers of the probable effect of the suggested rates.

Based on Carriers' Reports.

Meantime, the carriers have submitted to the commission their earnings under the old rates and what would have been their earnings under the rates proposed by the commission. These tabulated statements have convinced the commission that the rates determined upon by the commission in its decisions of June 7, 1910, are generally fair and reasonable. The commission says that there is no reason why those rates should not now be established.

The opinions in the Spokane rate case and in the Salt Lake case were prepared by Commissioner Prouty. They affect all applications by the carriers for relief under the long and short haul provision. For the sake of convenience the country between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans is divided into five freight zones. These zones are defined with reasonable definiteness by the decisions.

Rates by Zones.

From Zone No. 1, which includes approximately all territory west of a mid-continental north-and-south line, it is prescribed that rates must not be higher on west-bound traffic to any intermediate point than to a more distant point. Moving eastward, from Zone No. 2, the rates to intermediate points may exceed those to more distant points by not over 7 per cent; from Zone No. 3 by not over 15 per cent; and from Zone No. 4 by not over 2 per cent.

No opinion is expressed as to the rates from Zone No. 5, which is farthest east, because the rates from that territory are not particularly involved in these decisions, inasmuch as they generally are controlled by ocean transportation to the Pacific coast.

In an elaborate discussion of the long and short haul provision in the so-called Reno case and the Phoenix-Arizona case, Commissioner Lane, who prepared the opinions in these cases for the commission, asserts that "it must be affirmatively shown by the carriers seeking exceptions to the long and short haul provision that an injustice will not be done to intermediate points by allowing lower rates to the more distant points.

Intent of the Law.

"The intent of the amended law," says Commissioner Lane, "is to make its prohibition of the higher rate for the shorter haul a rule of wellnigh universal application, from which this commission may deviate only in special cases, and then to meet transportation circumstances which are beyond the carriers' control."

It is held that "in the light of history it is not to be gainsaid that the transcontinental lines must give consideration to sea competition."

NORTH DAKOTA'S FAIR IS OPENED

First Day of Exhibition of State's Resources Draws Large Crowds.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under conditions extremely favorable the annual North Dakota state fair was opened to the public this morning. This is Grand Forks day, and in honor of that fact, throngs are flocking to the grounds where the first-day's program, one of the biggest of the week, is being carried out.

The association has found itself almost completely swamped with exhibits. In the great cattle barns the conditions are the worst, the exhibits being so numerous that the barns have been overcrowded, and many of the cattle have been placed in the open amphitheater. Almost equally serious conditions exist in the horse department.

Big Vegetable Exhibit.

Conclusive proof of the state's ability to raise vegetables, more particularly the Red River valley, is found in the agricultural department. Crowded out of the Liberal Arts building, where space had been assigned to it, the exhibit is now housed in an immense tent. The exhibitors come from all parts of the Red River valley, in greater numbers than ever before.

"That the North Dakota state fair is a constantly growing institution, and that its future is assured is amply demonstrated by our fair this year, said President A. J. Hunter."

In the women's department, the work of judging was commenced today, and will be continued each forenoon until completed. Several other minor departments also commenced the task of judging today.

Feature events of the afternoon will be double aviation flights by Phillip Parmalee and Thomas McGoey.

Fine Educational Exhibits.

Numerous exhibits at the fair this year are of particular interest. Educational institutions that are showing particularly heavy exhibits are the state university, the Ellendale normal-industrial, the Grand Forks manual training school. The state exhibit of products, in charge of Assistant Commissioner Laist, is here, while Mrs. Budlong has a state library reference commission display. The educational department is far greater than ever before.

The state game and fish commission brought its exhibit last evening, coming with an especially big array of fish and game. The "made in Grand Forks" exhibit is another of special interest.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

PROHIBITION LAW VIOLATORS PUNISHED.

Stanley, N. D., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enforcement of the prohibition law was given special attention at the term of the district court in this city. John Ritetrrath of Manitou pleaded guilty; Alfred Olson of Ross was found guilty; Charles E. Brown of Stanley was found guilty; Edward Crower of Ross was given a jail sentence for refusing to assist an officer in arresting a blind-pigger; P. O. Milton of Stanley admitted operating a gambling hall, while Joe Scrivner was another brought into court for alleged violation of the prohibition statutes.

LIGHTNING KILLS SIX NORTH DAKOTA HORSES.

Carrington, N. D., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six horses owned by Mrs. L. W. Maulsby of this place were killed by lightning when a bolt struck down in her pasture, coming from a rainless sky.

Heavy wind resulted in the destruction of the John Labor cattle barn on his farm two miles from the city.

THE EASIEST WAY TO SHAMPOO THE HEAD

Mrs Mae Martyn, writing in the Boston Examiner, on "Care of the Hair in Summertime," says: "Hot weather months, with their dust-laden atmosphere compel one to indulge frequently in shampoos in order to keep the hair clean, fluffy and lustrous.

"A delightfully cooling and soothing shampoo can be had with canthrox, which is very beneficial to both hair and scalp, and so easy to use that visiting a shampoo parlor is unnecessary. Get a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in hot water. Rubbing a little at a time on the head creates a rich, cleansing lather that removes every particle of dust, dandruff and excess oil. After rinsing the hair will dry quickly and become soft, fluffy and very brilliant."

BLOOD WAS IN POOR CONDITION

That Is the Story of All Sufferers from Nervous Troubles.

The Cure of This Woman Shows Why a Tonic for the Blood Is the Best Medicine for the Nerves.

Mrs. J. D. Smith, whose address is P. O. Box 122, Albany, Mo., was restored to health by the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"A few years ago I was suffering from a general breakdown in health owing to an attack of the grip and a nervous shock. For nearly three months I was confined to my bed. I was subject to fainting spells when it seemed that my heart failed me. I was also troubled with numbness, principally on my left side. I could not step on my left foot for a long time and had to be pushed around in a chair. My tongue would get thick and I could pinch myself without feeling pain. My blood was in a very poor condition, I had no color and became thin and weak. I had no desire to eat anything and my people thought I would never get well. I was kept alive on stimulants.

"The doctors did not seem to know what my trouble was. None of them helped me in the least. After we had spent a great deal of money and had tried everything that seemed to offer a cure, a friend advised us to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My husband bought some for me and I received strength from them from the start. My improvement was rapid and I was finally able to get around. I took the pills until cured and have been doing all of my housework since. I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and would not be without them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anæmia, rheumatism, sciatica, nervousness, after-effects of the grip and fevers, and neuralgia, owing to their blood-building property. These pills were originally a prescription used in the doctor's private practice and their benefit to mankind has been increased many thousand-fold by their being placed on general sale with the doctor's own directions for use.

Dr. Williams' Piuk Pills are sold only in packages, never by the dozen or hundred. The genuine are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. IN KENTUCKY.

The campaign is on in Kentucky, and the campaigning is good. Listen to the proof. We quote from the Louisville Courier-Journal, in the broad columns of which Marse Henry Watterson, armed cap-a-pie, couches his lance and from the quarter deck of his trusty steed shouts with glad fervor "Have at them!":

"The aggregation of potwallopers which assembled in a beer garden to denounce beer—which met over a brewery to proclaim virtue while making a liaison between the night-rider and the bigot—and then proceeded to nominate for chief magistrate of Kentucky in the name of liberty and law a man who has already disgraced the highest judicial office in the state by dragging it through the mire of self-seeking partyism as a personal asset and who retains it in spite of the commands of decency and honor to rid it of odious contamination—can never seduce from the loyal devotion to the standards of true manhood and upright citizenship Kentuckians enough to seat the foul combine at Frankfort, if the Democratic party is true to itself and its leaders possess the courage of their convictions.

"The premise in which the O'Rear Guard of Midnight Marauders, calling itself the Republican party, sets its hope is that the people of Kentucky are an ignorant and irrational people; that they are an intolerant, fanatical people; and that, under a few glittering and specious generalties about Progress, they may be induced to abandon the certain and fixed principles of enlightened, free and just government for the exploded gospels of Puritanism and Patternalism, which, driven out of New England and discredited in the states south of us, would make a last stand here, having set out in quest of political adventure and corrupt advantage, with everything to gain and nothing, not even character, to lose."

Yes, the campaign is on in Kentucky, and Marse Henry is in his element and at his best. This vigorous onslaught is made with all the virile vim and vitriol and vinegar that characterized him in his prime, and it is proof enough, if proof were needed, that "age cannot wither him, nor custom stale his infinite variety."

ENDING A RAILROAD DICTATORSHIP.

The decision of the interstate commerce commission that the railroads shall no longer arbitrarily dictate the course that commerce and growth shall take is of first importance.

For years the railroads have been charging higher rates for transcontinental traffic consigned to Spokane and other interior points in the West than they did for traffic consigned to the coast, though the lower freight rates paid for a much longer haul than did the higher rates. The excuse was that the railroads must meet water competition at the coast.

The commission holds that while the railroads may go to reasonable lengths to meet water competition, they "cannot fix arbitrary market limits" and that "hereafter commercial conditions rather than the will of railway traffic managers shall control rates on transcontinental transportation."

Such a decision as this has long been needed. It may be that a closer study of the full decision will develop the interesting fact that there is an analogy between railroad practices as to transcontinental rates, and the railroad practices that for years have given Duluth the worst of it on rates on the pretext of meeting water competition on the Great Lakes.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Representative Robert C. Dunn in his Princeton Union, speaking of the demand for an extra session of the legislature to adjust railroad taxation, says: "In any event, if it is advisable to have an extra session, there is plenty of time nine months or a year hence for the legislature to act and submit the proposition to the voters at the biennial election in November, 1912."

Mr. Dunn, like his good friend Mr. Pease of the Anoka Union, appears to have made terms of peace with Governor Eberhart, and to be willing to rally to his defense.

However, it is not so important just when the extra session is held as it is that it be held in time to submit the proposed increase in railroad taxes to the people at the general election to be held in 1912. It is true, as Mr. Dunn says, that the session could be held in April or July of next year and the increase submitted in time for the 1912 election.

Yet a session held next January would be better in many ways. It would be easier then for the members of the legislature to get together, as many of them are farmers who are busy in spring and summer. Besides, by this time next year the state campaign will be in full swing, and it would be much harder for the legislature to get down to business with a campaign on than it would be before the campaign begins.

There is no need of waiting for the supreme court's decision in the rates cases. No matter what the rates are, the railroads are undertaxed and they should be taxed as much as other property. Yet if the people should not care to increase the tax in case the state wins in the supreme court, they can vote down the measure providing for the increase. The decision will be forthcoming long before the election of November, 1912, if not before the proposed January special session.

THE BETTER CHOICE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I hope you won't mind my calling attention to the fact that I read a poem on your editorial page the other day which to my certain recollection I have seen there before twice within a few years. I speak of it thinking you may not have noticed the repetition. The poem is called "The House by the Side of the Road."

A FRIEND.

We are greatly obliged to our friend, but the repetition of this poem was not an oversight, but an intent. It is one of the good old poems that we like to run on this page every little while, because they express things that are fundamentally right and that we like to believe The Herald stands for. As soon as we can do it without risk of too frequent repetition spoiling its freshness, we expect to run that poem again; and to show why we like it, and why we like to believe that The Herald stands for what the poem teaches, we run a few stanzas of it here:

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad, as good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles or their tears—
Both parts of our infinite plan;
Let me live in the house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Maybe foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in the house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

WILEY AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

Some folks who are not contented to let the newspapers do all the criticising are fond of charging that newspapers let their advertisers dictate their policies, and that they allow the desire for advertising patronage to color their opinions.

We hope everybody who feels that way about it has followed carefully the case of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the chief of the bureau of chemistry whom crooked food manufacturers are trying to get discharged on a technicality.

Food manufacturers are advertisers—big ones. Dr. Wiley isn't, nor are the people in whose interests he is working for honest food products.

Yet when the attack opened on Dr. Wiley the newspapers of the country sprang with practical unanimity, and a good deal more vim than was comfortable to Wiley's enemies, to his rescue. They have not minced words in condemning the stealthy attack upon him.

You see the newspapers had had notice of what was coming.

Not long ago every newspaper in the country, so far as we know, received a circular from the "Advertisers' Protective association" asking it to join in the fight to get Wiley out of office. It was stated that the association was made up of concerns that have $400,000,000 invested in the manufacture of food and drugs, and that spend $100,000,000 a year in advertising.

Here was a covert promise and a half-concealed threat. Fight Wiley, and you get our advertising. Refuse, and you don't. The Advertisers' Protective association didn't say that, but it might as well. It certainly implied it.

Yet no newspaper joined in the fight against Wiley, and no newspaper of consequence has failed to join in the fight against his enemies.

Here is a part of what the circular said: "When Taft succeeded Roosevelt it was hoped that Dr. Wiley's misguided efforts would be restricted, but it appears that the doctor is so entrenched in his position that only a change of administration can effect his removal. If President Taft will not remove Professor Wiley it looks as though it was up to the business interests of the country to bring proper pressure to bear for his removal.

"The purpose of this organization is to inaugurate a movement for Dr. Wiley's removal, and to obtain the enforcement of the food and drugs act along reasonable and just lines. If Dr. Wiley is not removed before Jan. 1, 1912, it will be the endeavor of this organization to obtain a pledge from the next Republican nominee, as well as the Democratic nominee, for the removal of Dr. Wiley before said nominee can obtain the support of this organization."

Following closely on the heels of this overture to the newspapers came the attempt to hound Dr. Wiley out of office on the flimsiest kind of a technicality.

And the attempt was backed up by the president's attorney general.

Evidently the Advertisers' Protective association had the same opinion of the newspapers that those have who claim their influence can be bought with advertising.

Probably it knows better, now.

A JOKE FOR COUNTRY EDITORS.

The following humorous anecdote is going the rounds of the press:

Seth Woodbury was a tight-fisted, hard-hearted old farmer. His brother William dying, the neighbors said from lack of proper treatment, Seth hitched up and drove into town to have a notice about his death inserted in the weekly newspaper.

"There ain't no charges, be there?" he asked anxiously.

"Oh, yes, indeed," answered the editor. "Our price is $2 an inch."

"Cracky! muttered the old man; "an' Bill 6 foot 2!"

It's a very good story, too. The humor of it will be best appreciated by country editors who get $2 an inch for their advertising, and least by those have to content themselves with 15 cents.

The creature of a Republican president and of the Democratic members of both houses of congress, the reciprocity treaty is unique as the first fruit of the new disdain for strictly partisan considerations.

Laurier has borrowed Taft's whip and seems to be using it to good advantage over the recalcitrant Conservatives who, oddly enough, are taking the attitude adopted in this country by so-called "progressives."

The carnival being over, plans for next year's carnival are in order.

RECIPROCITY AND THE INSURGENTS

By SAVOYARD.

Two men going in opposite directions on the street came in collision and one, a cross-eyed fellow, roared in great wrath. "Why don't you look where you are going?" To which the other with equal indignation, retorted, "why don't you go where you are looking?" That reminds me of the Republican Insurgents in the United States senate. They are all tariff reformers if we judge by the way they are looking, but their opposition to Canadian reciprocity shows that they have not yet quite learned to go where they look.

It was a sore loss, the death of Dolliver, as great, perhaps, as the defeat of Carmack for re-election. When he died, Dolliver was the first orator and the first debater of the senate and the leader of a new force in that body which promised great things. He and his squad were the only real adversaries Aldrich had to contend against in the extra session of 1909. The Democrats made little or no protest. The Insurgents did all the fighting and got the few concessions that were granted. The Democrats were agreed with Ben Tillman that as the stealing was going on they were entitled to their share. Many of them were only intent on securing protection for certain special interests in their states, notably lumber, and they cared not a rap what happened so it did not happen to them. It was simply nauseating to hear Democrats denounce the tariff as the mother of trusts and the butt-cut of oppression, and then hold out their hats to Aldrich for a little dab here and a little dab there of protection. What a pity it was that Carmack was not there, what a pity that John Sharp Williams had not yet come!

If there had been a real Democratic opposition to the robber tariff in the senate in 1909 it would have joined forces with Dolliver and the Insurgent Republicans, and the Payne-Aldrich tariff would have been made the most moderate and least objectionable measure of that nature the Republican party even enacted; but instead of going with Dolliver the Democrats inclined to Aldrich, and we got the worst tariff the Republican party or any other party ever gave us. Daily when Aldrich set the signal of distress, the life boat was launched, and Bailey, Simmons, Martin, and others were to the rescue. That is history known of all men.

And what a lion was Dolliver in the debate of the Payne-Aldrich monstrosity! Aldrich and every other standpatter was afraid of him, and so was Bailey, and all the other "near" protectionists on the Democratic side. An orator, a debater, a wit, a master of ridicule, with a fine imagination and a fluency of speech by no other senator approached, Dolliver towered above all the others, no one of whom dared to challenge him though he defied them one and all. And the only way Aldrich could beat him was to bribe Democratic senators by means of the special favors for their pet industries. Had Carmack been there he would not have allowed it and that scorpion tongue of his would have prevented it.

Mr. Taft, to my notion the best Republican president we ever had, knew nothing about the tariff, and he doesn't know much about it now; but he is learning. The reciprocity convention with Canada is a long step in the direction of lower and honester taxation. If Dolliver were alive I believe he would support it, and Cummins' opposition to it is half-hearted. When it is enacted it will be demonstrated to the farmer that the tariff is not for his benefit, but an oppression he has borne for half a century. As for Southern opposition to it, scratch a bit and you will dig up the lumber trust.

Canadian reciprocity is a Democratic invention, and a child of the administration of Franklin Pierce, which was as completely dominated by Jefferson Davis as Hayes was by John Sherman, or McKinley by Mark Hanna. And these hundreds of great men have appeared here from the North and Northwest and assverated that if reciprocity goes through Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, both Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, and other Republican states will turn Democrat. Men testified that they began voting the Republican ticket when Abraham Lincoln was a candidate and had kept it up ever since, but that if a Republican senate voted for reciprocity they would never support the G. O. P. again, and yet there are "Democratic" senators from the South who oppose reciprocity! Bah!

O, it is too thin. Everybody knows the nigger in the wood pile. It is sham. It is humbug. It is hyprocrisy. It is contemptible. And what is better than all, it won't pay.

There is a controversy in Georgia between Senators Smith and Terrell over the latter's resignation, which Smith as governor declined to accept. It was decided in the Goladay case that the governor is bound to accept a resignation and he who resigns cannot recall his act. The moment the governor is notified that a public functionary in the civil service has resigned, the office is vacant. It is not necessary to mention the act to the vice president in the case of a senator, or to warn the speaker in the case of a representative.

Mr. Carlisle, a greater lawyer than either house of the present congress contains, held that it was not necessary to read a resignation from the clerk's desk; that the moment the governor was notified the office was vacant. Therefore, a communication like that Senator Bailey sent Vice President Sherman was pure supererogation, and no more in order than a paper from any other private citizen bearing tidings to the senate that there was a blizzard in Montana or a sirocco in Texas.

A resignation is a resignation, though senatorial courtesy may make black white.

General Woodford, the famous orator of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is visiting Duluth, is a sort of half Minnesotan. Way back before the flood when Ramsey was running for governor of Minnesota, Gen. Woodford came out to stump the state in his behalf. As a partial return for this, in 1880, when Minnesota's votes in the national convention were steadily cast for Windom for president, the phalanx was as sturdy for Woodruff for vice president, and it marched into the hall bearing a banner inscribed "Windom and Woodford."

TWO SIDES TO BRIDGE CRITICISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

This criticism of the aerial bridge at this time has two sides. One is criticism of the bridge itself; the other is criticism of the bridge as a means of transportation across the canal for all purposes.

Personally, I think the bridge itself is all right. It was built to handle the ordinary resident crowd of Park Point and the ordinary boat club crowds. It has served that purpose well and has given good service, considering the intricacies of its machinery. It has broken down very infrequently and has been a wonderful improvement on the old ferry service.

The carnival proved that the bridge is inadequate for the handling of great crowds in this day of hurry in everything. If a carnival crowd were a weekly occurrence and people had frequently to wait for three or four trips of the bridge before they could be taken across, I would say tear the bridge down immediately and make some more adequate provision. But the crowd last week was the first the bridge was unable to handle in one or, at most, two trips.

Extraordinary tests are likely to be put on any transportation medium. The street railway is sometimes called upon to handle crowds that are too large for its facilities. People riding on railroad trains and ocean steamers have been called upon to suffer inconveniences in loss of time and inadequacy of accommodations. The aerial bridge does not stand alone in that respect.

The question is whether the bridge is to be condemned because people suffered a comparatively slight inconvenience once since the bridge has been in operation. I think not.

I will say, however, that the time is not far distant when the bridge will be inadequate. Park Point will not always be a residence and summer resort district. Its bay frontage is valuable for dock purposes and it will be used for that purpose. I believe that the city should look forward to building a tunnel under the canal and should begin to make provision now. It will be an expensive undertaking and would not be advisable while the bridge can take care of the travel, but the time is coming when the bridge will prove inadequate and the tunnel will have to be built, regardless of expense.

For the present, let us not abuse the bridge too much. I confess that I feel a few qualms every time I cross, but I shake off my fears and trust to the ability of the engineers and builders and the strength of the steel. We ought to be satisfied that the bridge continued in operation last week. A break just when the test was on would have been cause for condemnation.

Duluth, July 24.

Who Has the Hottest Job.

New Haven Register: Who has the hottest job in town these blazing days? There are a lot of likely candidates. Here are some of them:

The fireman in a brewery.
The furnace tender in a block.
The baker.
The cook.
The coalman.
The iceman.
The section hand on a railroad.
The tinner.
The laundry worker.
The molder.
The waiter in a quick-lunch restaurant.
The traffic-squad officer.
The newspaper stereotyper.
The person who does nothing.

Boy Knew the Answer.

Washington Post: Dr. Eugene Fuller, president of the American Urological association, said at a dinner in New York, apropos of Independence day:

"We all must try to be as truthful as George Washington was. I am afraid we have not, of late years, upheld the reputation for truthfulness that George Washington gave us. I am afraid that we have published to the world, through our yellow press and by other means, a good many tall stories.

"Thus an English teacher once said to a pupil:

"'What is a miracle?'

"'Please, sir,' the little pupil answered 'it's something that happens in America.'"

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Oh, But It Would!

Littlefork Times: The Wisconsin legislature has been called back to again thrash over reapportionment. It would not be surprising if this proved catching in this state.

Not That Kind.

Bemidji Pioneer: Baudette wants a pickle factory. What's the license?

Senator Boyle.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Senator James P. Boyle jumped into politics about a year ago and was elected to the senate without any trouble. He went into that body as a recruit, but notwithstanding the awful pressure brought to bear upon him, he was true to his ideas, and they were high. He, though a youth and a first-termer, became one of the senate leaders and before the session was over with Jimmie Boyle was one of the men that had to be reckoned with, and he came out of the ordeal clean and unscathed. Mr. Boyle is only 31 years of age, but his friends do not hesitate to say that he is old enough to make the best congressman the Eighth district ever had and, though he don't show any outward hankering for the job, it is within the range of probability that he will not run and hide if the proposition is put up to him.

How?

Walker Pilot: We understand that Governor Eberhart is endeavoring to make light of the remarks that he is not heavy enough for the job.

The Fight Is On.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: It is said that the old Minnesota legislative combine—corporation interests that worked out the adage "in union there is strength"—is becoming weaker with every session of the legislature. It doesn't show, much, upon the outside as yet, but maybe it is true. Such doings as have disgraced the state many years cannot go on forever. The combine is stiff-necked, however, and it will not give up without the biggest kind of a fight.

Come to Minnesota.

Menahga Journal: The average acre of land, properly tilled, in Northern Minnesota, which land may be bought at prices ranging from $10 to $30 per acre, is returning the owner just as many dollars as is the land in the older settled sections where the price ranges from $50 to $150 per acre. Mr. Homeseeker, it's your move.

The Taming of Pease.

G. S. Pease in Anoka Union: There was a time when I didn't have much time for Governor Eberhart. I was not at all prepossed in his favor. I looked upon him as a creature of uncommon good luck. But watching his moves, his efforts towards upbuilding the state, his good nature, his endeavors to improve conditions, and I'm ready to confess a change of mind. Another factor which has produced the change is to hear a lot of two by four politicians running the man down whenever they can buttonhole a voter to listen to their defamation. To my mind, Governor Eberhart has done good, and I question very much if any but him will be the governor elected a year from next November. The people of this state are pretty wise and they know which side to spread their bread with butter.

Does This Explain the Above?

R. C. Dunn in Princeton Union: Not a single anti-Eberhart growl has been chronicled in the Anoka Union since his excellency and Old Pease rode together in an automobile at Park Rapids a few weeks ago. It has been rumored that, in the near future, the governor's staff will have an additional colonel.

Steel and the Smith Report.

A. W. Ferrin in Moody's Magazine: The steel corporation cannot claim an immaculate conception. It was formed for the purpose of making money quickly, and it is continued for pecuniary, not eleemosynary, purposes; but as the corporation has grown in years and stature it has grown in wisdom, and the administration which expects to catch it violating the Sherman act will have to get up long before the early bird. There is more danger to steel securities in tariff revision than in the Sherman act, but the adverse influence of a reduction of duties on steel products is by way of being forestalled by the international gentlemen's agreement now being negotiated by Judge Gary. The net result of the bureau of corporation's six-year investigation, though it scandalizes the forzetful by brings back to mind the sensational incidents surrounding the corporation's birth, seems to be to prove that the United States Steel corporation is safe against the assaults of political enemies and is strongly intrenched against economic foes.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Toledo Blade: "I think it is disgraceful to be enormously rich."

"Oh, so do I. I was brought up to think that way. But say—"

"Well?"

"Don't you wish once in a while that you weren't so blamed respectable?"

Baltimore American: "Did he write his essay with acumen?"

"No, sir; with a typewriter."

Houston Post: "That humorist did not act at all funny when he cut himself."

"No, perhaps he severed the jocular vein."

Sketch: She—I consider, John, that sheep are the stupidest creatures living.

He (absend-mindedly)—Yes, my lamb!

Puck: Willie—Did the doctor make you take nasty medicine when you were sick?

Freddie—No; it was father who made me take it.

Toledo Blade: "A fool and his money are soon parted."

"Yes, but you never call him a fool till the money is gone."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I always pity a fat man on a hot day."

"I don't, for I never saw a fat man who felt the least sympathy for me when the weather was cold."

Toledo Blade: "This is a peculiar world," sighed Harry the Hobo. "I've always noticed that the poorer cook a woman is the more likelier she is to have some cold vittles left for me when I ask her for them!"

Chicago Tribune: "Mamma, is that lady the snake charmer? Why, she's as homely as a mud fence!"

"Yes, dear, but snakes are not like men. It takes something more than mere personal beauty to charm a snake."

Puck: "I had a talk with Best-Seller, and he told me all about the authors who had helped him."

"I'll bet he didn't say a word about the authors from whom he had helped himself."

Chicago Post: "I hardly know how to class this tablet," says the Egyptologist, studying the object. "As nearly as I can decipher the inscription it is a set of instructions as to what to do the next morning after a royal banquet in order to restore the physical system to the normal."

"That's a headache tablet," decides the assistant.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Tough luck Jimpson had."

"What happened?"

"In order to keep his cook, he told her she might have the use of his touring car two afternoons a week."

"Well?"

"Yesterday afternoon she eloped with his chauffeur."

Government By Commission in New Jersey.

New York World: Jersey City follows Bayonne, Hoboken and New Brunswick in rejecting the commission form of municipal government. But the boast of machine politicians responsible for the adverse vote that they have "given Governor Wilson another black eye" appears premature.

The plan was adopted by Trenton by a majority of 1,902 in a vote of 11,652. Its rejection by Bayonne by the narrow margin of five votes in a total of 4,453 cast and by Jersey City by a vote of 11,585 to 13,068 gives no ground for discouragement in view of the unusual efforts of partisan opposition to compass the defeat of the measure at an election held when many voters in favor of it were certain to be out of town. A few more such "defeats" and the public sentiment in New Jersey cities subject to machine misgovernment will be found ripe for the adoption of the plan.

To this end its practical trial in Trenton, where primaries for the selection of candidates for city commissioners were held on Tuesday, should directly conduce.

A Proper Question.

LARGE CAR NOT NEEDED

Aldermen Think City Engineer Does Not Need $1,880 Automobile.

Machine Purchased in Spite of Opposition—Car Line Extension.

Declaring that it was extravagance which should not be tolerated, Aldermen Scott and Wharton of the First ward last night opposed authorizing the city engineer to purchase an automobile costing $1,880.

They took the position that a smaller car, costing less, would fill the requirements of the department equally as well as the bigger machine. Alderman Scott stated that fully as much ground could be covered with it, and that the cost of maintenance and repairs would be less. Alderman Wharton declared that the department would ask for all that it could get, and that it is time "to put on the brake."

The other members of the council, however, did not agree with their views. Several of them stated that it would be economy to buy the bigger car, as it would be a time-saver, enabling two crews to be taken out at once. They also thought that the bigger horse power would be necessary to climb the Duluth hills. When it came to a vote, fourteen favored the purchase of the big machine and Aldermen Scott and Wharton voted in the negative.

Building Inspector S. M. Kielley sent the aldermen an interesting account of his recent trip to the building association convention at Cleveland and his visit to several of the other larger Eastern cities. He stated that he gained many valuable pointers. He found that concrete is not as generally used in the places he visited as in this city, in proportion to the amount of construction work. He learned that other cities do not allow as much freedom in the matter of overhead signs as Duluth, and that the same is true of obstructions to the sidewalks. He believed that the fire escape provisions of the building ordinance were more severe here than elsewhere, but commented upon the fact that some changes will be made in a new ordinance. The new ordinance making changes in fire escape provisions was submitted last night for its first reading.

Mayor Cullum sent in a communication to the effect that the railroads do not seem to show any disposition to give reasonable rates to New Duluth. In view of this fact he stated that it would seem more necessary that the New Duluth street car extension be made. He advised the aldermen to ascertain just what condition the proposed route is in. To this end the city engineer was directed to supplement a report sent in last fall relative to this same matter, giving what repairs, if any, are necessary to enable the laying of a street car line to New Duluth.

The council accepted two invitations to attend conventions in Superior. One is the annual gathering of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association, July 25, 26 and 27, and the other is that of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities, which meets July 26, 27 and 28. The meetings will be in adjoining halls.

• • •

A petition with about thirty-five signers was received for the extension of the street car line down Sixty-third avenue west from Raleigh street to the bay.

M. Douglas informed the council that overhead wires on Fifth avenue west between Fifth and Sixth streets must be elevated unless the shade trees are to be totally destroyed. He said several have already been badly damaged.

The Duluth Telephone company was granted permission to lay a conduit in Grand avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west, and will put their wires underground in that location.

• • •

The engineer was directed to prepare plans and specifications for three small storm sewers in different parts of the city.

The city attorney was directed to consult with the petitioners who asked for a vacation of part of the Pond du Lac road and to secure a fulfillment of their part o the agreement, which was to build a substitute road.

The board of park commissioners was empowered to beautify Regent street between Forty-seventh avenue east and London road and treat it as a parkway.

The board of public works was authorized to advertise for bids to repair the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west, which was recently burned, the cost not to exceed $600.

• • •

The Canadian Northern was directed, in building the Oneota street bridge over Forty-ninth avenue west, to leave an unobstructed passageway of forty-four feet as well as sidewalk space.

• • •

Alderman Bergstrom, who has been absent several meetings because of ill health, was at his desk again last evening.

SHOULD CITY OWN ITS PLANT?

Question of Municipal Lighting Will Be Discussed at Open Meeting.

The Central Hillside Improvement club will take up the agitation for public ownership of an electrical plant at its next meeting to be held on the evening of the first Wednesday in August at the Franklin school, Fifth avenue east and Seventh street.

C. E. Van Bergen, general manager of the Duluth Edison Electric company, and City Attorney Bert Fesler have been asked to attend to give their views on the matter. The meeting will be a public one, and everybody interested is invited to be present.

The club members will take an active part in the discussion which will follow the general talks of the evening, and any one wishing to participate in the debate is welcome to express his ideas.

The club members, in taking up the question of municipal ownership of an electrical plant, believe that the many improvement clubs and commercial organizations of the city will become interested in the matter and place the subject upon their schedules for consideration.

The municipal ownership of the electrical plant has been a question before the people for many years, but the Central Hillside club is trying to put new life into the subject. Mr. Van Bergen will be expected to defend the present system, and it is probable he will give some very interesting, as well as important, facts relative to the lighting of streets and cost of maintaining a plant. Bert Fesler, the city attorney, has devoted many years of study to the question of public ownership of plants and will be in position to give a forcible argument for municipal ownership.

Alaskan Probe Halts.

The general investigation of Alaskan affairs including the Controller bay land transactions, which involved the story of an alleged attempted monopoly of the outlet for Alaska coal fields, is virtually off for some months, so far as the house committee on interior department expenditures which started the inquiry, is concerned. The committee will do nothing more in the matter before congress adjourns except to get into the record all documentary evidence.

"House Wool Bill or None."

Pass the house wool tariff revision bill or enact no wool legislation at all, was the slogan of a strenuous fight made by house leaders among their party associates in the senate, and the net result after a series of conferences was a growth of sentiment among Democratic senators in favor of this policy, which may mean no wool legislation at this session. The fight is directed against the adoption of the La Follette substitute wool bill or any other Republican measure put forth to supplant the proposed legislation framed by Chairman Underwood and his colleagues of the house ways and means committee.

Some of the Democratic senators contend that their party will be in a better strategical position if consideration of the tariff question is left until next year; others say that they do not want to aid the presidential aspirations of Senator La Follette by adopting his bill.

Missionaries to the Senate.

Members of the house ways and means committee were busy most of yesterday doing missionary work in the senate. As a result the more zealous tariff reformers among the Democrats in the senate voiced displeasure over the prospect. These were inclined to contend strenuously for action, even if it meant the acceptance of the La Follette bill, on the theory that any reduction from the rates of the Payne-Aldrich law would be in the line of Democratic contention.

Ballinger Man Resigns.

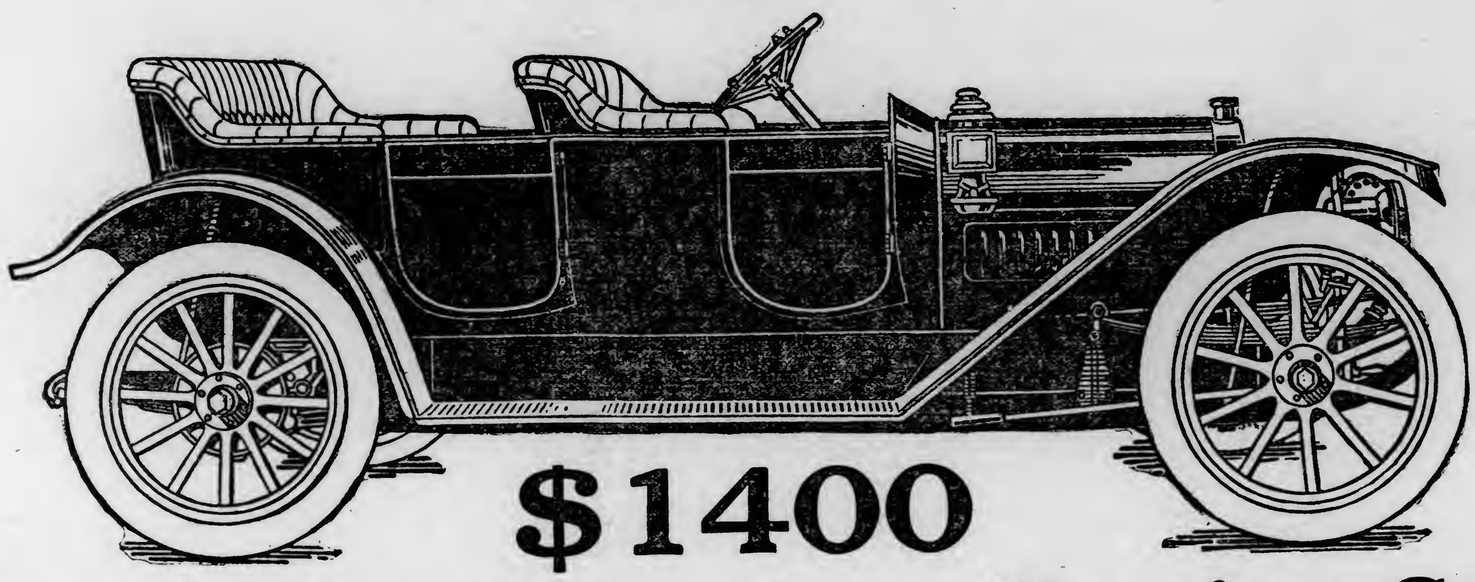

The resignation of M. Don Carr as assistant to the secretary of the interior, was accepted by Secretary Fisher, and Irving S. Rittenhouse, a chief of division in the general land office, was assigned to fill the position temporarily. Mr. Carr, who was private secretary to Secretary Ballinger and who was appointed to the position of assistant by that official, will reside in San Francisco.

The First and Only "Underslung" Touring Car at a Popular Price

Regal "35" Underslung Touring Car

REVOLUTIONARY! STARTLING! Such words as these will fly to the lips of every person interested in Automobiles who reads the caption of this advertisement, for it means another chapter has been added to the history of motor car perfecting—the presentment to a vast army of prospective automobile purchasers of a new standard of value embodying such exceptional advantages of purchase that all existing comparisons sink into insignificance.

IN A FEW DAYS the Regal "35" Underslung Touring Car will be the most talked about car in the country, because, all over this broad land, the great daily newspapers and other publications will have told the public that at last there is, indeed, one tangible and epoch-making advance, not only in engineering construction, but in dollar for dollar value that will immediately revolutionize opinions and ideas as to what constitutes an ideal motor car.

UNDERSLUNG CONSTRUCTION has been used for years. It's new only as applied to automobiles. Famous designers and engineers, all the authorities of note are a unit of agreement that underslung construction is the perfect, hence the only type of construction, especially where speed and absolute safety are required. Hence, it is invariably used on railway trucks, interurban cars, etc. But—hitherto the only objection to it in the Automobile World was its addition of price. It cost so very much more to build an underslung automobile. Despite its excelling advantages, motor car manufacturers considered this extra cost. It meant either a prohibitive priced car, or, too great a reduction of profit.

LET US GO BACK three or four years—The Regal Motor Car Company were the first to design, manufacture and sell a Standard "30" five-passenger Touring Car at a price which gave every man of moderate income an opportunity to own not only a "good" automobile, but a car that could stand side by side with other cars then selling at double and treble the price and hold its own, no matter what part of the car was compared or by whom—This was the car that tumbled prices by creating a greater demand for what was then considered a luxury.

THE RECORDS OF THE PAST are eclipsed today; the Regal habit of looking ahead is at the very apex of justification. The Regal "35" Underslung Touring Car at $1400 is a challenge in values.

It's a prophecy come true. An ideal built around a permanent principle. A supremacy that brooks no argument. Never has a car been offered for approval with so much confidence. Never a car created and built embodying so many proven advantages. It's a dominating car—a twentieth century masterpiece.

OVERWHELMING ADVANTAGES. So many, so exclusive, so emphatically superior are the advantages offered in the Regal "35" Underslung Touring Car that their emphasis will convince every prospective purchaser of his present good fortune that he is about to buy an automobile—a statement that is easily proven.

IT'S THE "SAFE" CAR. It recognizes the demands of gravitation. It's as different from the up-in-the-air type of motor car as the "safety" bicycle is from the high-wheeled relic of the past. The weight is "slung" below the axles instead of suspended above them. The center of gravity is so low that it hugs the road. "Turning Turtle," the cause of 75% of all automobile accidents, is almost reduced to an impossibility. Another point—suppose you hit, when upon your travels, a water hole that's deeper than you think and your car is driven down to the ground. In the Underslung Type the frame will strike instead of the fly wheel—saving the crankshaft from serious injury. Or, again, if a spring should break, the "Underslung Frame" cannot fall to the ground. These accidents do happen. The Underslung always turns corners on four wheels, not on two, and at almost any speed—and the tendency to skid is reduced to a minimum. A man has less to think about and more time to enjoy his ride if he sits at the steering wheel of a Regal "Underslung"—He's driving a safe car—an insurance against accident.

IT'S THE "COMFORTABLE CAR. The words "Underslung" and "Comfort" are twins. It's the one car that harmonizes with any kind of a road—It has the faculty of ironing out the wrinkles of that "bad stretch" the motorist invariably meets because it embodies another element of construction that is unique—the springs are shock-absorbing. The side-swaying motion is also left out of this design, and you will miss the sensation of parting company with the car when you come to the "sharp turn." The line of travel is always forward, it's a "velvety" motion, "skimming," not "riding" in a Regal "Underslung." Being a roomy car, the "boxed in" feeling, so noticeable in other cars, is forgotten.

IT'S THE "ECONOMICAL" CAR. Thousands of men can afford to buy a car, but they can't afford to keep one. Here is their opportunity. The frame of a Regal "Underslung" is below the axles, every ounce of weight being well within the wheels banishes vibration and eliminates the destructive "side-lash" on springs and tires. The saving on tires is enormous, but is even more on the "life" of the car. The finest steels, the most highly tempered bearings, must eventually give way before ceaseless hammering, wrenching and the thousand and one strains the chassis of a motor car endures, but the weight of a Regal Underslung is not continuously straining and fighting with the frame to lower itself---it is in the mathematically perfect, normal position. The Regal Underslung construction eliminates the diseases that shorten the life of the average car. It's mechanically sound, healthy and long lived. One other economy feature---the power plant being placed very low, the maximum horsepower, by a straight line drive, is delivered from motor to rear axles ---a big saving in gasoline.

IT'S THE "BEAUTIFUL" CAR. It's the kind of beauty that goes deeper than paint ---it's built right into the car. The curves and lines of the Regal Underslung are masterful in elegance---they delight the eye. You must see this car side by side with other cars to appreciate its good looks. You will notice the "sweep," the "rakish trim," the long, low body that suggests power and speed, the broad "wing" fenders, the general appeal to the most refined sense of proportion. There is a "Unity" of excellence in its every appointment that interprets every ideal a purchaser can possibly have about a car, while to own a Regal Underslung stamps a man as a connoisseur of what motor car beauty of design really means.

ROAD CLEARANCE. The superior constructional advantages of the Underslung lend itself to this problem. Under a Regal "35"Underslung Touring Car are ten inches of uniform road clearance, which makes it possible to use a perfectly flat dust pan; consequently, whatever the speed, there are no miniature swirls of dusty tornadoes kicked up under your car---the dust is left in the road where it belongs. As 80% of all other types of automobiles have a maximum clearance of but 10 inches the superiority of the Underslung in this important particular is apparent. Besides, the height of the motor and transmission mean an ease of accessibility that is exceptional, and the level motor suspension ensures a perfect lubrication.

THE PRICE IS A SENSATION. This car at $1400, presents a unique standard of value. It is the first Underslung Touring Car ever offered to the public at less than $4,000, consequently there are no existing comparisons. It must be seen, examined, tested to substantiate its reputation. But one thing is certain---it will be the car you will buy. It stands at the pinnacle of motor car perfecting. It offers more in actual essentials than has hitherto been thought possible at any figure below the thousands. Its great assets of safety, beauty, comfort and economy are excelling. It is built by men who have faith in their product, faith in the great buying public, and who value above all things their reputation. If you are a close observer of the Automobile Industry after you have seen and "demonstrated" the Regal "35" Underslung five-passenger Touring Car you will say it is

WORMAN IN NEAT FORM

Defeats Superior in Fast Game By Score of 2 to 1.

Lizette's Long Homer Only Hit Made Off Red Bob's Curves.

Duluth came back into the long lope stride yesterday and defeated the nifty Taylorites handily and with artistic dispatch, the score being 2 to 1.

Old Robert the Red Worman was on the mound and during the long course of the afternoon but one hit was gathered off his delivery Aunt Liz Lizette swatted the pill over the old familiar left field fence in the fifth, thus spoiling at one fell blow what would have been a no-hit record and also a shutout.

Large Dunbar was also pitching a great game. But four hits were tagged from his offering, Miller getting two, and Leber and Menefee one each.

In the second round Miller opened with a single. Altermott was hit by a pitched ball. Hardigrove struck out and Walliser drew a base. Worman flew to left and here Leber singled sweetly over second, sending home Miller and Altermott. Walliser was caught off third.

Lizette was the first man up in the fifth and hit the ball far over the left field fence. The next three went out in order.

Outside of the innings in which the scoring was done, neither side seriously threatened.

It was announced last evening that Walliser, De Haven and Johnson, three real ball players, have been let out. The fact that the management is compelled to cut down is the reason for the letting out of the three shorties. The release cannot be taken as a reflection upon the ability of the three players.

It is here humbly suggested that if the league is desirous of saving money that it let out some of the umpires who are at the present time drawing money under false pretenses.

This afternoon the Sox and Superior will meet over on the other side of the bay. There is a tournament on in Superior, which is the reason for the transfer of the game.

BALTIMORE WILL STAY IN EASTERN LEAGUE.

Baltimore, Ohio, July 25.—President Johnson of the American league and five owners of major league clubs have expressed their opposition to any change at this time in Baltimore's baseball status, and this city will remain in the Eastern league for at least another year regardless of the outcome of Edward Hanlon's negotiations for the purchase of the Boston National League club. This was made known last night when Mayor Preston announced that he had received six unfavorable replies to his letter asking for a conference of National and American club owners with a citizens' committee to consider the question of a big league team for this city.

COMMENT AND OPINION ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Fanning Bee Among Old Time Oarsmen of Northwestern Clubs — Some Famous Crews of Former Days — "The Pie Eating Four."

(BY BRUCE.)

REALLY it is between races, down on the float, or in the morning before the real contests of the day are called, while the fellows in their bright club colors are going out and coming in on the morning workout, that the old boys sit back and talk about the times of days past, or discuss the development of the association.

It was "Jim" Denegre of the Minnesota Boat club, and "Tan" Langford, of the Mississippi river organization and Murray Peyton of the Duluth club, who were talking Saturday morning before the final day's racing.

In business circles of St. Paul Mr. Denegre is called Mr. and is a very sober and serious as well as a dignified man. Once every year he remembers that he was an oarsman, and remembers also that it is not the fashion to get old in these days of rush and bustle and ever youth.

It was a sight that did the hearts of the old timers good to behold Langford and Denegre out in a double. The best part of it was that they did not tip over. Here are two old oarsmen who have not forgotten to take their exercise, along with the passing of the years, and perhaps this is one of the reasons why they keep their interest in the affairs of the association up to the bubbling point.

It was suggested that on one of the mornings that the two Peyton boys, "Ham" and "Mur," get out and race "Tan" and "Jim." The race did not come off, for some reason or other, but if it had some pretty good oarsmanship would have been shown.

"It is pretty hard to say whether the boys of today are faster than us old fellows," said "Jim" Denegre. "You see they have faster boats these days. In the old days the four-oared race was the big race and not so much attention was paid to the eights; now the order has been quite reversed, and we are paying very much more attention to the development of the eights in most cases than we do to the development of the fours.

"Now the four is generally taken from the eight, and is not given as much consideration as the larger boat. That is one of the reasons why it may be that in the past we had some very fast fours; some that might have beaten some of the fours that have rowed in the new association.

Two Fast Crews.

"There is probably no faster four in America than Riley, Henderson, Aldous and Carruthers. There is perhaps, also, no faster eight in America than the Winnipeg senior eight. It is one of the greatest eights ever gotten together in this country, and is a credit to this association.

"Hackett was perhaps the greatest sculler the old association ever developed and would stand above any single man that the present association has ever turned out. He was a wonderful oarsman. He was one of those long, lanky fellows, with muscles like iron and the endurance of a horse. He used to make the other scullers look foolish.

"Hackett and De Brassey were by far the fastest doubles ever turned out in this part of the country. It is very doubtful if they had their equal in the United State during their prime.

"Houghton and Mabon of the St. Paul club were a remarkable double. They had beaten everything they had been up against, and Hackett and De Brassey made them look foolish. I would liked to have seen a race between Hackett and De Brassey and Riley and Aldous."

"That was some four of ours," cut in Langford, "that was made up of Percy Houghton, George Langford, Bend and myself. At that time we would not have been a bit afraid of going up against any four in America. I think that was one of the greatest fours ever turned out in the old association."

"There was a four from Duluth that could go some," put in Murray Peyton," and that four generally gave a very good account of itself."

Both of the Minnesota men agreed in this. The four referred to was the famous "pie-eating four," made up of Capt. Dan Mahoney, King, Thompson and Gibson.

"We rowed against that four one time when the waves were running awfully high and it was all we could do to keep from being swamped. This Duluth four didn't think anything of plowing through that kind of spring. The Duluth boys made some of the rest of us look like we were anchored that day."

Jimmy Otis, the popular commodore and coach of the Minnesota Boat club, is of the opinion that the eight this season are faster than any of the eights turned out by the association for years.

In discussing the matter James came through with the statement, that the St. Paul juniors this season could have won first place last season at Kenora. In other words he stated that the junior eight of the Minnesota Boat club the present season was faster than last season's junior eight, and be it known that the St. Paul boys won last year.

According to this view of the situation, Duluth's eight was just as fast as some of the members of the club had been led to believe, and would probably have won hands down in many of the past regattas. This season the Duluth and St. Paul boys in the Winnipeg junior and senior eights faced two of the greatest eights that have ever been developed in the association, old or new.

In many cases these men are of the opinion that the rowing is perhaps more highly developed, and that in the future the development will keep on, until perhaps some day the crews of the association will average on the whole, as two eights and a four do this season, with any of the crews of any of the rowing associations of the country.

YACHTS HAVE STORMY TRIP

Chicago to Mackinac Race Marred By Accidents to Contestants.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 25.—Of the eleven yachts that left Chicago Saturday in the Chicago-Mackinac race, five are anchored in the harbor here, three have put in for shelter at different ports along Lake Michigan, one is wrecked on Beaver island, one lies on Mission point and another has not been heard from since Sunday morning. This is the result of a storm which reached its height between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning after blowing a gale all day Saturday.

The winner of the race, the sloop Mavourneen, shortly after capturing the Mackinac cup, dragged her anchor and now lies pounding to pieces on the beach. She was released once by the Valmore, but went ashore again and although lines were got to her three times, they have broken. A tug has been summoned from Cheboygan and until it arrives, the Mauvourneen is helpless.

Grave fears are felt for the safety of the Illinois, as nothing has been heard from her since Sunday morning, when the Mauvourneen passed her. The Valmore arrived at 5:04:58 yesterday morning and was followed at 6:50 o'clock by James O. Heyworth's Polaris.

Both were unable to pick up the Skilagis light and spent the night in shelter.

The Juanita is at Charlevoix, where she put in for the night. The sloop Vencedor is aground on Fisherman's island in the Beavers. The Capsicum is reported at Frankfort. The Prairie arrive at 10:12 o'clock yesterday forenoon and the Iroquois is in shelter at South Manitou. The Amorita and the Shark were the first to arrive Sunday night. All of the boats arriving here showed evidence of a terrific battle with the storm.

TOUCHARD AND LITTLE WINNERS

Will Represent East in National Challenge Tennis Matches at Chicago.

Boston, Mass., July 25.—The East will be represented at Chicago next month in the four-cornered struggle for the right to challenge for the national lawn tennis championship on the doubles, by Raymond D. Little and Gustave F. Touchard of New York, who yesterday won the finals in the double event at Longwood against B. C. Wright and N. W. Niles of Boston by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Little and Touchard started strong and carried off several games before Wright and Niles found their pace. The first set was 5 to 4 when the New Yorkers ran it out. The pace was hotter in the second set, yet the score stood the same as in the first set. In the third, and what proved to be the deciding set, Wright and Niles made a desperate effort to win the deciding game after deuce had been called, but without avail.

Three pairs have now been selected for the Chicago preliminaries, McLoughlin and Bundy, from the Pacific coast; Doyle brothers, from the South, and Little and Touchard, from the East. The Western Doubles are being played this week in Chicago. The winners in the four-cornered tournament next month will play R. H. Hackett and F. D. Alexander, the national title holders, at Newport on Aug. 21.

MINNEAPOLIS MAN LOSES IN SENSATIONAL MATCH.

Lake Forest, Ill., July 25.—Harry Martin of New York defeated Ward C. Burton of Minneapolis in one of the best matches of the second day's play in the Western lawn tennis tournament here yesterday after a hard contest, winning in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5. Martin's great work in playing the lines, was responsible for his victory and he repeatedly crossed the Northwestern man with his drive. The match was replete with sensational volleying and the playing of both men brought repeated applause from the large gallery that watched the match.

Another interesting match was between C. M. Hull, Jr., of New York and Blair Larned of Onwentsia. Hull won by his ability to hold the net position. The score was 6-2, 6-4.

Hugh Whitehead of Norfolk, Va., had little trouble winning from Frederick Copeland of Glencoe, Ill., 6-0, 6-1.

James B. Winston of Norfolk added another match to the victories of the Virginia contestants when he defeated de John London of the United States navy, 6-2, 6-2.

UMPIRE OWEN'S LEG BROKEN BY FOUL TIP.

Kansas City, Mo., July 25. — Umpire Clarence Owen of the American association was hit by a foul tip from the bat of Congalton of the Columbus team, here yesterday afternoon, had a bone fractured in his right leg and will be unable to officiate for several weeks. Owen was carried from the field and Pitcher Maddox of Kansas City finished the game for him.

COMISKEY WOULD HAVE BID $30,000 FOR O'TOOLE

Chicago, July 25.—C. A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago Americans, yesterday related a bit of his experience in bidding for the St. Paul star pitcher, Marty O'Toole, who was sold to the Pittsburg club Saturday for the record price of $22,500.

"I don't think I ever had a chance to get O'Toole," said Comny. "I think it was fixed Friday for him to go to Pittsburg. I doubted from the first that I would ever get him, but if I had been up in St. Paul yesterday I would have made Barney Dreyfuss pay still more money for the man.

"I appointed Mike Cantillon of the Minneapolis club to act for me, and he first told me they had been offered $12,000 for O'Toole and refused it. I told him we would go higher than that and I wrote a letter to Owner Lennon asking that I be given a chance to bid him in. I was informed I would have last crack at him.

"They wouldn't name a price, saying they wanted to wait for Dreyfuss to get there on Friday. Well, on Saturday morning I talked to Cantillon over the long distance and was told Dreyfuss had offered $16,000 and a player. If he couldn't deliver the player he would give $2,000 more, making an $18,000 offer. I told Mike to go ahead and offer them that much in cash.

"Mike went over to Lennon's office Saturday morning and found Dreyfuss there talking to him. Mike at once told Lennon he would give $18,000 for the man and Barney promptly raised the bid. Then Mike raised it to $20,000 and Dreyfus bounced out of his chair and said: 'I'll give $22,500 and if I have to I'll go as high as $30,000.'

"That finished the business for Mike and he came out and called me up and advised me to drop out. Well, I dropped out, but I guess it's a good thing I wasn't in that office at the same time with Dreyfuss, or I don't know where I would have stopped."

SOCCER TEAMS COMING OVER HERE THIS FALL

New York, July 25.—Designed to aid in increasing the growing popularity of the English association football game, two English and an Australian soccer team will play a series of games in the United States and Canada this fall. The famous Corinthians from London will be the first to arrive, early in August.

The Corinthians are England's finest amateur players, composed largely of college and international footballers. Arriving on Aug. 3 they will play in Toronto on Aug. 5, and after a tour extending to many of the big cities of Canada, including Winnipeg and Vancouver, they will appear at Chicago on Sept. 9, at St. Louis on Sept. 12, Philadelphia on the 16th, Pawtucket on the 18th, and end the trip against the pick of the New York State Amateur league on Sept. 19.

A few weeks later the London Casuals are to arrive, and may play in many of the towns in which the Corinthians appeared. They are to open in Toronto on Sept. 23.

Another visiting team will represent the Young Australian League of Boys, and will leave Freemantle for America on Aug. 5, reaching Sydney on Aug. 23 and arriving at San Francisco on Sept. 23. The party is made up of forty boys from 16 to 19 years old, who are not alone expert at the soccer game, but can also acquit themselves well in boxing, swimming, wrestling, running, etc. Soccer games have been arranged through the West and in New York, Philadelphia, Fall River and Newark. The Pennsylvania league has scheduled a game for this city. The Corinthian schedule of games is as follows:

WOLGAST READY FOR McFARLAND

Champion Waves Aside Objections to Match With Chicago Man.

Chicago, Ill., July 25.—Everything is "looking up," in the parlance of the promoters behind the coming battle between Packy McFarland and Ad Wolgast. Emil Thiry came in last night long enough to vouch for this assertion. The manipulator of McFarland's affairs can see nothing but success as the outcome of the Milwaukee tiff booked for Sept. 18, and to that end will make a flying trip to Milwaukee this morning armed with $1,000 as forfeit coin.

Any little hitch that might have threatened, owing to the intervention of Tom Jones, goes to the discard. Wolgast yesterday wired Thiry, instructing the latter to pay no attention to Jones' attitude, inasmuch as the latter does not dictate all the policies of the lightweight king.

In this contest Packey hopes to demonstrate his ability to scale at low weight and to outbox the Cadillac bone crusher. If successful the stock yards pet will prepare for the longer route in a coast bout. Wolgast is banking on a stiff game at the ten-round distance, at which Packey ranks monarch of them all, but a different story will be told, according to Ad, when he corners his opponent in a twenty-round encounter.

CAROLINE WINS RACE TO HALIFAX

Powerboat Buffeted By Wind and Waves, But Makes Good Time.

Halifax, N. S., July 25.—Badly buffeted by a severe storm that broke off Nova Scotia coast last night, the powerboat Caroline; owned by M. F. Dennis, and the favorite in the reciprocity motorboat race from New York to Halifax, crossed the finish line off the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht pier at 1:30 a. m today, apparently the winner of the contest.

The Caroline covered the 553 miles between Gravesend Bay and Halifax in exactly fifty-seven hours. Several hours after the Caroline's arrival nothing had been seen of either of her rivals, the Snapshot III and the Eronel. There was only a few minutes difference in the time allowances of these three boats. The Tramp, the scratch boat of the four, that started from Gravesend Bay withdrew from the race somewhere in the vicinity of Block Island.

The last part of the Caroline's trip was made under most favorable conditions. Yesterday afternoon the wind blew in from the southeast, increasing in intensity as the night came on and kicking up a tremendous sea all along the Nova Scotia coast. Part of the time a thick haze hung over the sea, making observation difficult, but the downpour of rain which came later cleared away the haze.

As the Caroline rounded Cape Sambro she broke her wheel ropes and carried away some canvas.

Chief Officer Cane of the steamer Florizel, who navigated the Caroline into port, reported all hands well and enthusiastic over their apparent victory.

FIFTH DAY'S RUN.

Twin City-Helena Automobilists Leave Berthold, N. D.

Berthold, N. D., July 25.—The fourth day's run of the Twin City-Helena automobile tour ended here last night and this morning the machines got away towards the west for the fifth day's run. Rough roads and high schedule time played havoc with several cars yesterday. One car sank in a bad stretch of road near Denbigh, N. D., and broke a rear axle.

It required a team of horses to pull the car out. The traveling garage came into use and only a short time was lost, but the car suffered a heavy penalty.

Early in the morning another car broke a gas pipe and clogged her carburetor. It was penalized for repairs. The pilot car surprised everybody by holding to a twenty-eight-mile an hour schedule for the whole day.

Immediately after the arrival of the cars in Berthold, the inhabitants busied themselves with entertainment for the tourists. A ball game was started at 7:30 o'clock p. m. and finished while the sun was still shining.

Kendig Is Victor.

Kendeg defeated David in their pool match last evening by the score of 125 to David's 86. The northwestern champion put up one of the strongest games that was ever witnessed in this city. More than 200 people watched the game. The play will continue tonight and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

ASK FOR RECEIVER.

Creditors of Platt Iron Works Seek to Secure Claims.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 25.—On the application of creditors and with the oonsent of Joseph B. Reichmann, president of the concern, receivers were appointed by Judge Hollister in the United States district court for the Platt Iron Works company of Dayton, Ohio. The purpose of the action, it is said, was to stem the tide of creditors until the vast sum due the company on open accounts can be collected.

President Reichmann filed an affidavit admitting the inability of the company to pay its debts. The papers include a statement showing an insecured indebtedness outstanding of $1,293,000 and secured indebtedness of about $350,000. It was stated that the company has $850,000 of incompleted or unfilled orders on hand and that the employes number close to 1,000.

DEAL TO BUY VOTES FOR HOPKINS AIRED BY KEELEY

Chicago Man Springs New Sensation in Lorimer Hearing.

Shurtleff and Roger Sullivan Credited With Halting Proceedings.

Washington, July 25.—A detailed account of a reputed attempt to buy enough Democratic votes in the Illinois legislature to re-elect Albert J. Hopkins to the senate, was told on the witness stand before the senate Lorimer committee by James Keeley, general manager of the Chicago Tribune. It was the sensation of a day of sensations in the hearing.

It followed Mr. Keeley's testimony as to how he happened to buy the confession of Charles A. White, the legislator whose story about graft at Springfield resulted in the Lorimer investigation. It was subsequent to the testimony by Edward Hines that Henry S. Boutell, now American minister to Switzerland, told him President Taft would assist in the election of Lorimer to the senate. Mr. Hines had been placed on the stand to tell about visits he paid last winter to E. H. Gary, R. S. Lovett, successor to E. H. Harriman, J. S. Banchee and others in New York. None of these visits, the witness claimed, had anything to do with the Lorimer case.

Basis of Hopkins Story.

Mr. Keeley said what he knew about the Hopkins story was obtained from Clifford Raymond, then representing the Tribune at Springfield, and from Ira C. Copley, representative in congress from Aurora, Ill. He testified that Charles Wheeler, another Chicago newspaper man at Springfield, came to Raymond during the legislative session in 1909 and told him a story which Speaker Shurtleff had personally requested be not printed. What Raymond had told Mr. Keeley, the witness testified, Raymond said had been told him by Wheeler. Mr. Keeley said:

"Raymond told me that the story was that on a certain night Speaker Shurtleff, Dan Shanahan and some others whose names I do not recall, met in a certain room in the St. Nicholas hotel in Springfield, and that that meeting was caused by a report being received that a certain man had come to Springfield to buy certain Democratic votes on a certain day for Hopkins.

Warned By Shurtleff.

"That Representative John C. Werdell and Anton Cermak were called in, and that Speaker Shurtleff told them he knew what they were doing; that an attempt was being made to buy Democratic votes, and he read them a list of fifteen or twenty men who were to be bought and the prices to be paid. The list was headed by 'Manny' Abrahams, the 'bellwether,' I have been told. Shurtleff said: 'Now, we know what is going on and you can't put it through. If "Manny" Abrahams votes for Hopkins tomorrow I will suspend the roll call and will announce your names and will read the list of men to be bought. If you try that, that is what I will do.'

"That day Roger Sullivan had been telephoned to go to Springfield. His train was due to arrive from Chicago about midnight. He rounded up his followers and told them he would blow them out of the political waters if they attempted such a thing."

Told Before Election.

Mr. Keeley said Raymond told him this story prior to the Lorimer election, and that $28,000 or $30,000 was reputed to have been taken to Springfield.

He then read from a memorandum that on Sept. 21, 1910, Representative Copley and John M. Glenn came to his office; that Copley and Perkins came from the same town, and they "hate each other healthily and viciously."

The witness produced a memorandum of what Copley had said. It was to the effect that "Daniel Eyrnes, formerly of the Chicago & Northwestern, was the man who tried to put through the deal," and that the money had been taken to Springfield by a resident of Wheaton, Ill.

Mr. Keeley testified that he had been informed that the Wheaton man was Fred M. Blount.

According to the memorandum, Copley said he had called upon Governor Deneen, and Deneen had agreed to call in twenty of his Republican allies, and if the Democrats voted for Hopkins, to have those twenty switch from Hopkins.

"Anything unusual take place in Springfield the next day?" asked Attorney Marble.

"For the first time, the roll of the house was called before that of the senate."

Questions for Hines.

Mr. Keeley sent a list of questions, on May 9, 1910, to Hines and E. S. Conway, asking about the Lorimer contributions. Mr. Conway said he knew nothing about them.

"Mr. Hines," the witness said, "declined to answer. He came to my office that night with Mr. Wiehe, asked if this list of questions was a joke, said he had a reputation in Chicago, and that these questions were insulting. He told me he would sue me for libel if I printed anything that reflected on him. I replied I would print the truth and that the Tribune building was worth $1,500,000; if he sued, he might be able to use it (the building) in his lumber business."

Mr. Keeley said he sent the same questions to Roger Sullivan, explaining "that I had been his friend, but if he was in this matter, 'God help him,' for I was going to treat him just as I did the rest, and I thought the roof was about to cave in."

On Advice of Counsel.

Mr. Keeley insisted that it was upon advice of counsel that he had not told the previous Lorimer committee about his knowledge of the story that Hines asked Funk to send a Lorimer contribution to Edward Tilden. Senator Kenyon suggested that a partner of Mr. Austrian, Mr. Keeley's counsel, was counsel for Tilden and for the whisky interests, which were reputed to have contributed to a "jackpot." Mr. Keeley said he did not doubt Mr. Austrian's integrity. Mr. Keeley said the existence of a corruption "jackpot" was common gossip.

LOW WATER IN LOGGING STREAMS.

Low water in the streams is responsible for the fact that many logging companies will be forced to wait until next year to get their logs down to the larger lakes and rivers.

This is not only true on north shore streams, but all over the state. While there has been a great deal of rain the ground absorbs the water as fast as it comes down. This is due, it is thought, to the dry condition of 1910.

Samuel Simpson of Minneapolis, who has logged for several years near Bena, Minn., states that while he has succeeded in getting 15,000,000 feet into the Mississippi he will have to hold over 9,000,000 feet more at Round Lake on account of low water.

He says that the water in the lakes and streams near Bena is lower than ever before and that in all parts of the logging districts the same trouble is being experienced.

SKY PILOT WILL TELL HIS STORY

Matt Daily May Attend W. C. T. U. Convention as Delegate.

Matt Dailey, the reformed lumberjack, who for the past three years has been devoting his time to religious work among the men of the lumbering camps of northern Minnesota, will probably go to the annual state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union, which will be held at Faribault, Aug. 22 to 25.

Rev. Dailey is one of the interesting characters of this part of the state, in that he has become a skypilot who is accomplishing remarkable success, after having lived a life far from an exemplary one.

He tells an interesting story about his career and of his wickedness before he was converted at the old Bethel on Lake avenue three years ago. Since then he has been an evangelist, devoting all his time to the men with whom he worked before his conversion.

If he goes to the convention of the W. C. T. U., he will tell of his former life, of his conversion and the wokr he is now carrying on. He will give a full description of the conditions as they now exist in the camps, and emphasize the necessity of cooperation on the part of religious workers in this field.

The West Duluth W. C. T. U. will send three members as delegates to the convention. There are Mrs. J. T. Culbertson, Mrs. L. H. Merritt and Mrs. I. P. Swangle.

THREE COUNTIES BIG TAXPAYERS

St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey Pay Nearly Half of State Taxes.

St. Paul, Minn., July 25.—Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis counties during the fiscal year which ends July 31, paid nearly one-half of all the taxes paid into the state treasury according to figures compiled by State Treasurer Walter J. Smith for his annual report.

The total amount received from the counties in taxes during the fiscal year was $3,955,562.13. From this there must be deducted $550,112.25, which the counties collected for the state, leaving a net amount of $3,405,449.88.

St. Louis Leads All Others.

Of that amount St. Louis county paid $883,429.58, exclusive of all royalties on iron ore leases. St. Louis pays more taxes than any other county in the state. Hennepin comes next with $546,140.04 and Ramsey is third with $326,093.75. The total from the three counties is $1,755,663.37.

Interesting in this connection is the fact that although the counties paid this amount they received back from the state in aid to schools $2,767,998.80 or about two-thirds of what they paid.

In aid to all schools, the state paid $1,943,403.80; aid to high schools, $360,859; aid to grade schools, $119,800; aid to semi-graded schools, $102,942, and to rural schools $240,994.

It is expected that money paid into the state treasury this year will be greater by more than $2,000,000 than the fiscal year of 1911.

ADMIRAL SCHROEDER INSPECTS HARBOR.

Admiral Seaton Schroeder of the United States navy, who is visiting in Duluth, was taken on a trip around the harbor on the government steamer Vidette yesterday. The party was in charge of John H. Darling, first assistant engineer. Admiral Schroeder was also a guest at a luncheon given yesterday at the Kitchi Gammi club by G. A. Tomlinson. Among the Duluth people who accompanied the party on the harbor trip were Lieutenant Commander N. F. Hugo, Lieut. R. T. Hugo and Lieutenant Commander S. S. Williamson of the Minnesota Naval militia, Maj. H. V. Eva of the Minnesota National Guard, T. W. Hugo, Capt. A. Swenson, the Duluth hydrographer; H. W. Richardson, weather observer; W. E. Richardson and George W. Buck.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

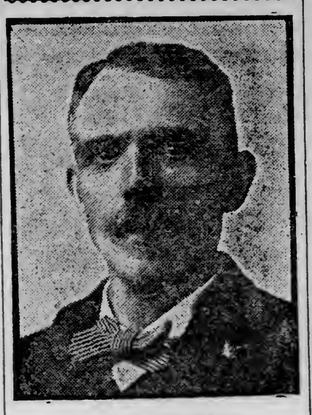

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

COPPER LAND SUIT BROUGHT

Government Is Party to Action Begun By Smelting Company.

Seattle, Wash., July 25.— Suit has been filed in the United States district court by counsel for the Bunker Hill Smelting company against the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway company for possession of land in Snohomish county, alleged by the plaintiffs to contain eighteen copper claims, smelting plant and other property valued at more than $6,000,000.

There is dispute over the value of the land for mineral purposes, but there is no conflict as to the enormous value of the waterpower which may be developed thereon. The land is at Reiter, on the Skykomish river. The government is co-operating with the smelting company in the present suit.

Claimed by Power Company.

The land is now claimed by the Cascade Power company, which is a branch of the so-called "water power trust." The land was deeded to the power company by the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railway, to which it was patented by the United States. The complaint in the suit charges:

That Thomas A. Benton, agent of the railway company, some years ago secured a land grant from the government covering land in the Dakotas and other states; that subsequently a lien land bill was passed by congress under which the defendants, in 1905, abandoned the Dakota land and took up land in the state of Washington; that in 1907 this land, through fraud practiced on the part of the defendants, was clear-listed and patented to the defendant company; that fraud was contained in sworn affidavits made by the defendant company's agent that the land was non-mineral and was not claimed by any other parties.

The complaint alleges that prior to 1905, the Bunker Hill company had acquired eighteen mineral claims in Snohomish county and had done $15,000 worth of development work thereupon.

DEFENSE BEGINS CASE.

Detectives' Attorney Denies They Wrote Black Hand Letters.

Erie, Pa., July 25.—The government concluded and the defense opened its case yesterday in the trial of Gilbert B. Perkins of Pittsburg and Charles Franklin of Philadelphia, detectives charged with sending Black Hand letters to the family of Charles Strong, multimillionaire, in connection with the desecration of the Scott mausoleum. The day marked the beginning of the second week of the trial.

Franklin, who is manager for Perkins at Philadelphia, and who, the government alleges, is the author of the Black Hand letters, was the principal witness. He made a general denial of the government's allegations.

The sensation of the day came when Attorney W. H. S. Thompson, for the defense, in his opening address, said he proposed to show that the defendants were in no way connected with the crime charged, and that they would show to the satisfaction of the court and jury who wrote the letters to Mr. Strong. He stated further that the author of the letter was in the court room, and in this connection, mentioned Thomas J. Dempsey, manager of a detective agency of this city, and Franklin, Pa., who is under charges of having sent a Black Hand letter to General Charles Miller, millionaire oil man of Franklin, demanding $25,000.

Stopping Light Stops Decay

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives protection against light. Schlitz is bottled in a brown bottle to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

In the Schlitz Brewery, some say, protection against impurity is carried to an absurd extreme. We don't think so.

We have adopted every idea, every invention to attain and preserve purity.

We scald every tub, keg and barrel—every pipe and pump—every time we use it. We wash every bottle four times by machinery. Even the air in which the beer is cooled is filtered.

It is aged for months in glass enameled tanks. It cannot cause biliousness. It will not ferment in your stomach.

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz—Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

The thinking man or woman naturally asks: "How can an appetite for liquor that took so long to acquire be cured in so short a time?"

The Neal way does it by removing the cause of this craving or so-called appetite. This appetite or craving for liquor is caused by the stored-up alcoholic poison in the cells of the body. Neutralize and eliminate from the system this stored-up alcoholic poison and you have removed the appetite. This alcoholic poison will not be eliminated without first being neutralized, and this is why the excessive drinker cannot stop drinking without medical help. No matter how long he goes without drinking, he still has in his body this stored-up alcoholic poison, which sooner or later will cause the craving for alcohol to overcome his will power and start him on another spree.

Remove the cause and you remove the condition. It is the principle that makes it possible to cure the liquor habit in just three short days, and make the man master of his own brain and actions. The Neal Treatment releases him from an appetite that has made his every action subservient to its influence, an appetite stronger than his will power, stronger than the tearful wife's pleadings, even stronger than prayer.

BEMIDJI'S NEW DEPOT.

Union Structure Now Being Used By the Railroads.

Bemidji, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly 200 persons crowded the platform to greet the first train into Bemidji's new union depot at 9:15 Monday morning. It was the Minnesota & International out of International Falls and south bound for Brainerd in charge of Conductor McDonald.

The first ticket sold at the new station by Agent R. E. Fisher was to Postmaster Anton Erickson, who purchased transportation for his wife and daughter to Minneapolis.

Despite the threatening weather there has been a continuous string of persons today to inspect the structure, a substantial brick building, erected and used jointly by the Minnesota & International and the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie.

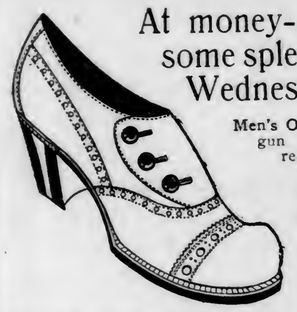

The first Soo Line train was the Duluth passenger from Thief River Falls, which pulled in at 9:54.

SOUTH DAKOTAN IS BLOWN TO HIS DEATH.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 25.—Alfred Anderson, aged 38, a bachelor homesteader living twenty-five miles south of McIntosh, was blown from the roof of a sod house by a high wind and killed. Anderson, with his brother, Otto, and a neighbor, Fred Dude, were repairing the roof when they saw a storm coming. Otto Anderson and Dude ran for shelter, but Alfred Anderson remained at work.

When the storm had passed the two men returned and found Anderson lying on the ground about ninety feet from the house dead.

CONSIDERING GOOD ROADS

Duluth Represented at Conference Being Held at Bemidji.

Four Main Trunk Highways for the State Are Planned.

The members of the good roads committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association, chairmen of the county boards and county attorneys of many counties in the association, the state forester, the state highway engineer and representatives of Commercial and automobile clubs are meeting at Bemidji today to consider the establishment of a system of highways in Northern Minnesota.

St. Louis county is represented at the meeting by John Stone Pardee, assistant secretary of the Commercial club of Duluth. Mr. Pardee is also secretary of the good roads committee.

At a meeting of the committee at Bemidji some time ago, a tentative plan for a system of highways was made, with four trunk lines running from East Grand Forks to Duluth; from Moorhead to Duluth; from Duluth to the Twin Cities, and from International Falls to the Twin Cities. The meeting today was then called to discuss plans for putting the system of highways into effect.

State Senator Ellwell of Minneapolis, author of a law providing for state aid for road building, is expected to attend today's meeting and outline the manner in which the counties may obtain the aid provided by his bill. The county attorneys will confer on the legal phases of the work and the county chairmen will give statistics on the ability of the different counties to finance their parts of the work.

The state highway commission and the state highway engineer are expected to work with the counties in the building of the roads. The good roads committee of the development association was appointed at the Duluth meeting to bring together the different interests which should have a part in the road construction, and today's meeting is the first step in that direction.

It is expected that with the four trunk lines laid out, the other counties would be quick to build branch lines to the trunk roads and that within a comparatively few years Northern Minnesota would be covered by a network of roads that would open much new territory to settlers and better enable those who have now settled on the land to reach their markets.

WORK HAS COMMENCED ON INTERSTATE BRIDGE.

Hudson, Wis., July 25.—Construction work on the new interstate bridge between Wisconsin and Minnesota over the St. Croix river here started yesterday when a steam dredge began throwing up a dike which will be three-quarters of a mile long and wide enough for two teams or automobiles to pass in safety. The dyke will be completed this fall and work will start immediately on the high steel structure which will span the channel. Including the dyke, the bridge will be a mile long.

The bridge will be constructed at the expense of the city of Hudson, which bonded itself for $20,000 for the purpose, and a stock company composed of Hudson business men. The total cost of the bridge is estimated at $50,000.

"A MAN AND HIS WIFE"

New Play Is Presented at Lyceum By Forbes Company.

"A Man and His Wife" which is the offering of the Forbes stock company for this week is true to all modern standards of successful dramas. There is a hero and a heroine, a villain and a funny man and to prove that this combination makes a successful play, the audience last evening applauded in a most hearty and spontaneous fashion and the play was received with greater enthusiasm than any yet offered by this popular stock organization.

"A Man and His Wife" is from the pens of Samuel Shipman and Thomas E. Shea. The latter is a Shakespearean actor who presents the plays of the greatest dramatist at popular prices and has been a great success for many years. That his association with the classics has not blunted his sense of popular appeal is evidenced in the success of his very latest play, "A Man and His Wife." The play tells the story of a self-made American, Benjamin Clarke, who has established a night and day bank in New York's East side. At the time the play opens he has been married a year to a woman who chose him because of his great wealth. She is still woed, however, by Clarke's business enemy, George Reed, and she listens to him because she thinks her husband devotes his best thought and interest to his business. Reed starts rumors that induce a run on Clarke's bank and ruin stares him in the face. Clarke however buys stock and in the mysterious way of Wall street and then holds it at a figure much in advance and Reed is ruined. In the last act everything is nicely adjusted. Emily finds that she loves her husband and he always has loved her and as some one has to go out into the cold and blustery night they decide to let George do it, and he does.

"A Man and His Wife" is simple and direct in its appeal. The psychology is unclouded by the introspective distresses that mar many modern pieces. Things move along directly and inevitably and the play meets with much popular success.

Mr. Forbes appeared as the powerful and simple Benjamin Clarke who protects his wife even from herself and achieves what he starts after. Mr. Forbes played the part with the self control and strength characteristic of him and although the authors have made Mr. Clarke the paragon of all the virtues Mr. Forbes yet made him human and understandable and the sympathy of the audience was with him every moment. As Emily, his wife, Miss Jane Stuart had the most important role of her Duluth engagement and she played well. The scene of the play is laid in New York and Miss Stuart had the opportunity of wearing some very stunning frocks.

Edwin Brandt appears as the villain this week and he makes a wicked and very real one. Every one gave a gasp of relief when he was taken struggling from the house by two officers. Perry Golden has a dialect role as a young Russian Jew and he furnished the comedy of the piece in a capable manner. Miss Nestade Becker and Roy Phillips make two delightful young lovers. Frederick Van Renselear as Seth Clarke, father of Benjamin, was especially good and the small role of Jim Mendell was well played by Westropp Saunders. The other members of the company appeared in the supporting roles in a most capable manner.

The climax of the play, the run on the bank was an exciting and realistic scene that called forth several curtain calls from last evening's audience. The first night audience was a large one and judging from the approval shown last evening this week's bill will be a popular one.

"A Man and His Wife" will be played every evening this week except Thursday and there will be Wednesday Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Mr. Forbes has chosen "The Dictator, Willie Collier's great farce success for next week.

At the Empress.

Although some very strong bills have been presented at the Empress this season, it is difficult to see where any of them have had a shade on the bill which will be presented this week. The feature act, the Seven Colonials, is one of the greatest acrobatic acts in existence. The curtain rises disclosing the parlor of a Colonial home with the acrobats amusing themselves, playing various instruments. This picture is a beautiful one and gains them a round of applause at the very start. Suddenly the whole troupe is seen in rapid action and for ten minutes the audience is treated to one of the most sensational acrobatic turns ever seen. The men throw single and double somersaults and other turns with marvelous rapidity. The act is gorgeously costumed and has discovered the secret of success in acrobatic acts by presenting their various tricks with a rapidity that is bewildering.

May Robson.

"Miss Robson after a most distinguished success in the states, opened the London theatrical season at Terry's theater last evening in a comedy called 'The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary,' says the London Post in reviewing the play which will be seen at the Lyceum Thursday.

"It is in three acts; the second—which is the important one—and is quite long, shows the rejuvenation and the incidents are amusing. Miss May Robson, on whose shoulders all the burden of the evening's entertainment falls, carries it lightly and gracefully, yet furnishing the interest and the laughter by being grave and gay by turns, and yet free from the noisy violence which the character might suggest, and her most effective work is when she is in repose and serious. At these moments her acting was dignified and convincing, forcing the suggestion that Miss Robson is worthy of a greater play—a greater character. This impression was in the minds of her audience, since they called her before the curtain several times and we assume that Miss Robson recognized the tribute from her modest speech of thanks, more deeply felt than expressed, yet those who listened to her simple words—they were not built up for the expected occasion—but came direct from the heart of a women who was grateful, whose ambition had been realized, and who wanted to do greater things, and she will do greater work, as time and the play offers opportunity, as 'Aunt Mary' might say frequently, but sometimes occasionally."

For Roller Skaters.

At the big and brilliantly lighted Auditorium roller skating rink this evening the popular grand march will be the feature of the program. Tuesday evening is always one of the popular nights of the Auditorium program, and the grand march is also one of the most pleasing numbers that is put on. The big rink is one of the most popular amusement places in the city. A perfect floor, good music, the attention of attendants, and perfect ventilation have made roller skating in Duluth a popular pastime.

How to Banish Wrinkles Quickly

(From Guide to Beauty.)

If the average woman only knew it, it is not so difficult to preserve the youthful contour and velvety smoothness of complexion. Every woman hates to see her face wrinkled or baggy, and practically every one has experimented with some sort of patent remedy in the effort either to remove such condition or ward it off.

As a matter of fact, the most effective remedy in the world is one that any woman can easily make up herself at home, in a moment's time. Let her take one ounce of pure powdered saxolite, which she can purchase at any drug store, and dissolve it in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The results are surprising and instantaneous. Even after the very first application a marked improvement is apparent. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a comfortable, smug feeling of firmness that is most delightful.

BULLET HOLE IN HEAD.

Deer River, Minn., July 25.—G. L. Rapier, a homesteader near Big Fork, forty miles north of here, was found dead in the woods near that place yesterday. NORTH DAKOTA CONVICT FAILS TO GET AWAY.

Bismarck, N. D., July 25.—George Adams, a negro serving a term in the state pen for grand larceny made a desperate attempt to escape from the guards. A party of prisoners was working in the field and had stopped for dinner and during the short rest Adams crept behind Guard J. E. Jones and struck him over the head with a piece of iron and then make an attack with a fork. The guard grappled with Adams, who broke away and ran across the field, but was captured by two farmers after he had gone about one mile.

UNIVERSITY FUNDS SHORT.

Report Has It There Is Discrepency of $12,616.91.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—A final report on all university funds was rendered yesterday by an accountant retained by County Attorney Robertson to make a thorough examination of the accounts of Cashier J. D. Bren.

The report is said to corroborate the previous report of a shortage of $12,616.91 for which Bren was indicted.

It is said the report may involve another person in alleged irregularities at the state university.

The investigation covered the $13,000, of which Mr. Bren claims to have been robbed; the $4,990 which was uncovered a few days later in his office, and the $716 and $360 which he returned to the university to cover any possible shortages.

Seek Waterville Child.

Waterville, Minn., July 25.—Searching parties are scouring the country seeking the 2-year-old child of F. Mariska, a farmer, who lives five miles from here. The baby toddled away from home Sunday morning and disappeared. When it failed to return, an alarm was given, and neighbors turned out in searching parties.

Eau Claire Doctor Hurt.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 25.—Dr. J. V. B. Lyman of this city, one of the leading physicians of the Northwest, had two ribs broken and was otherwise injured when his auto struck a street car late Sunday night. The accident occurred in front of the doctor's residence as he was about to respond to a night call. The auto was wrecked.

HEARD IN HOTEL LOBBIES

Gossip Picked Up Among Tourists and Globe Trotters Who Stop Off at Duluth.

W. O. WISSER, a newspaper man of Sioux City, Iowa, who is a guest of the Spalding, says the municipal reform has struck the Iowa town, just the same as it has seized upon the moral conscience of other American cities.

While stating that in every sense of the word Sioux City is a live and up-to-date city, Mr. Wisser says the open gambling has been cut out, that the saloons are compelled to close at 10 o'clock each night and in addition are also obliged to close on every legal holiday of the season.

In addition to these reforms the social evil has been forced from the city, and in general the moral health of Sioux City has been improved.

Mr. Wisser attributes this improvement to the awakened conscience of the citizens.

CAPT. Cushman A. Rice, who was a guest of the Spalding until yesterday, has lived in Cuba for the past few years, and while naturally believing that his native land is the greatest country in the world says that in some ways the Cuban people are one of the most remarkable peoples on the globe.

"The Cubans are quick to learn," said the captain, "and they have a passion to excel. The greatest chess masters in the world played in Cuba and were beaten by a boy of 19 years. He is today perhaps the greatest chess player in the world, and he is a native born Cuban.

"De Oro is the greatest pool player and some of the greatest linguists in the world are to be found in the island. While baseball may not be a test of the greatness of a race, let me say that some of the greatest baseball teams in the world are found in the little island, and that some of the managers in the major league are just beginning to find this out.

"The Cuban of pure breeding is just as human as you or I. They are not colored, though there are a surprisingly large number of people right here in America who are of that opinion. There are blue-eyed Cubans with red hair and freckled faces. They come from pure Spanish stock and the better class of Cubans are cultivated and brainy and are at the present time making a name for the Cuban people.

"In Havana you will find grace and culture. Throughout the island you will also find further evidences of it. There is a decidedly mistaken opinion regarding the Cuban people, and this misunderstanding will probably continue to last until the people of this country have a more general knowledge of the country that was taken under our protection."

WALLACE McMILLAN and wife from the great wheat farming country in the region of Alberta, are guests of the Spalding today, coming in from Chicago, on the Minnesota.

"We people out in the wheat country have taken to traveling," Mr. McMillan informed Manager Edwin H. Lee, as he registered.

"I am not a man who had money and went to farming as a fad. I needed money and I didn't like the idea of working for other people. I investigated conditions in Western Canada and decided that I would go to farming. I borrowed money on interest and bought a good many acres of land. I have paid that money back and this year my wife and myself are enjoying a trip that we think we have both earned.

"The farmers of that part of our country are taking many trips out in the world. There are several big farmers out there who can write their checks for large amounts. A few years ago they came to the Canadian Northwest with nothing but a bank account of hard practical sense and a large store of industry.

"They have made good, and most of them are broad and liberal enough to want to get out and see things and to meet people. The big farmers of Kansas and Nebraska have been guests in the past of luxurious hotels, and I think in the future you are going to find some guests from among the prosperous class of farmers of the Canadian Northwest."

POSTMASTER AT ITASCA RESIGNS—OTHER CHANGES.

John Haney, who has been postmaster at Itasca since the office was opened at that place, has resigned and Charles Brown of 1723 Hammond avenue, formerly a fireman at the Sixth street fire hall, has been appointed to succeed him. Mr. Haney will engage in business in the West End. Harry Bahle, clerk at the main office for several years, has also resigned and Arthur J. Nelson has been appointed. A number of the letter carriers have received a raise in salary from $1,100 to $1,200.

A TACTFUL NIECE.

Los Angeles Times: Miss Violet Oakley tells of a lady friend in Philadelphia who was exceptionally tactful always, and particularly so when she had visiting her an uncle whose table manners were very bad. She caused his knife to be soaped, and when he tried to eat with it, he exclaimed:

"Mary, this knife tastes soapy."

"That's too bad," was the reply; "try this one."

"Soapy, too, Mary, just like the other one was."

"I'm very sorry, Uncle, but the city servants are very careless. Try eating with your fork. Maybe that is clean."

FAINT PRAISE.

Los Angeles Times: Allan A. Ryan, the well-known expert on flying, condemned, in a recent interview in New York, the new type of monoplane—the dangerously frail monoplane to which is harnessed a Gnome motor of enormous power.

"These machines," said Mr. Ryan, "are killing off so many young men that, really, if you wanted to praise them, you'd have to balance your words as cautiously as the man with the 2-cent cigar.

"'This cigar,' the man said, regarding it closely, 'has one very good point and one very bad one. The good point is that it contains no cabbage. The bad one is that it contains no tobacco.'"

THE LORD'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

Los Angeles Times: Willie had been to see his old nurse, and she had shown him her treasures, including very strikingly colored scripture texts which graced her walls.

A few days afterward his aunt gave him a dime to spend at a bazar. Seeing that he seemed unable to find what he wanted, she asked him what he was looking for.

"I am looking for one of the Lord's advertisements, like Mary has in her room," said Willie.

KNOWLEDGE DISPELS IT.

Los Angeles Times: Dr. Charles F. Aked of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, in a reecnt address deplored bigotry. He concluded his condemnation with an epigram at once brilliant and true.

"Bigotry," he said, "is like the pupil of the eye. The more light you throw on it, the smaller it grows."

LOTS LIKE HER.

Los Angeles Times: Fire Chief Croker of New York was talking about the need for laws whereby the fire department could compel property owners to protect their property against the perils of fire.

"As things stand today," he said, "we can't force these men to do our bidding. We can only request them to. They then promise they will obey us, but in the issue they are like old Mrs. Hopkinson.

"To Mrs. Hopkinson, a very quarrelsome old lady, her pastor said:

"'You must never cherish an enmity, madam, against your neighbor. If your neighbor injures you, forget it.'

"'So I do forget it, doctor,' said Mrs. Hopkinson piously, 'but the trouble is, I've got a powerful bad memory, and I keep forgetting I've forgotten.'"

ADMITTED.

Los Angeles Times: "Women already do a lot of governing," said Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the brilliant suffrage leader, in an interview in New York. "Men, if they are observant and frank, admit that.

"An editor about to marry was asked by a friend:

"'What prompted you, old man, to propose to Miss Dash?'

"The editor, who was, like all editors, extremely observant and extremely frank, answered:

"'Well to tell you the truth, I think Miss Dash prompted me more than anybody else.'"

NOT NEEDED.

Los Angeles Times: An extremely timid widow living alone in the suburbs of a city was afraid that agents and tramps would discover she had no protector, so wasted no words upon them. Answering a ring at the front door, the man standing before her asked:

"Is the gentlemen of the house at home?"

"No, he is not," said the widow shortly.

"Do you think he would be interested in a chemical fire extinguisher warranted to put out the fiercest fire, if taken in the beginning?"

"No," replied the widow, deeply shocked; "I'm sure he wouldn't be, for he's in no need of one."

She slammed the door shut.

CARUSO ON HEAVEN.

Los Angeles Times: Signor Caruso, discussing in Chicago the rumors of his betrothal, said:

"The people who are circulating this false gossip are not in George Washington's class. I fear they will not help to make liars go to heaven?' a little boy once asked.

"'No, my son; I am afraid not,' the father answered.

"'Did you ever tell a lie, papa?'

"'Yes, yes.'

"'Did mamma?'

"'Yes, I am sorry to say.'

"'And Uncle Tom?'

"'Dear me, yes.'

"'And Grandma Smith?'

"'Yes, yes.'

"The little boy sighed.

"'What are you sighing about?' asked his father.

"'It must be awful lonely in heaven, papa, with nobody there but God and George Washington.'"

ENTERPRISING GERMAN ADVERTISER.

London Globe: A remarkable picture is one of the souvenirs of the jubilee celebration of Berlin university which recently took place. It was made in the aula of the university when the German emperor was delivering his address and shows the speaker on the dais facing the standing audience of dignitaries, whose backs only are visible. Possibly due to a freak on the part of the camera, the standing men seem all to be bald headed, and an enterprising manufacturer of hair tonic has reproduced the picture on an advertising circular in which he says: "How different these great men would appear had they used my hair invigorator and my remedy against baldness."

A LITTLE FLATTERER.

Los Angeles Times: Mme. Melba, in an interview in New York, replied to a reporter's compliments:

"I am afraid you are a natural flatterer—like the children, you know.

"A Sunday school superintendent was once telling me about the beautiful, almost involuntary flattery of little children. He said he asked a class of little girls:

"'Whom ought we to love best?'

"'A little girl answered softly:

"'Our superintendent, sir.'"

EGGSACTING.

Los Angeles Times: Dr. J. S. Slack, the English food expert, said in a recent lecture in Duluth:

"The secret of health is two meals a day with an occasional fast. But people won't avail themselves of this superb secret. It is too unpleasant—like the fresh egg.

"A gentleman, after cutting the top off a soft boiled egg, summoned the waiter and said.

"'Waiter, take this egg back to the kitchen, wring its neck, and grill it for me.'"

BANQUET AT NEW DULUTH

Members of the Commercial Club Hold Informal Social Gathering.

Club Is Showing Renewed Activity With Growth of Suburb.

Laying aside their business cares to enjoy an evening of genuine sociability and to mingle with each other with the view of promoting a "good fellowship" spirit, members of the New Duluth Commercial club last evening held the first of a series of social affairs, the occasion taking on the form of a banquet.

Covers were laid for eighty, the New Duluth business men bringing their wives, daughters and friends, as the case might be. The dinner was tastily served by the Lady Maccabees and the affair was held in the Maccabee hall on Commonwealth avenue. Following the banquet a program of speeches and music was given, after which dancing was in order.

Dr. C. J. Wallace was toastmaster and among the speakers on the after-dinner program were: Rev. Peter Knudsen, president of the club, F. W. Hicks, M. A. Becklinger, Frank Brand, Mrs. P. Knudsen and Mrs. C. Becklinger and W. A. Dash. All of the speakers predicted a brilliant future for the western suburb and several good talks were given.

The musical program was contributed by the New Duluth Commercial club orchestra, which played during the dinner and for the dance. Mrs. C. W. Peters of New Duluth sang and Mrs. M. C. Armstrong of Denver, Colo., also rendered a vocal solo. Both were well received and obliged to respond to several encores.

Other social affairs will be held under the direction of the club in the near future, as the members think that good times should be provided. The regular business meetings of the club will be held as usual. The organization was formed this spring and the annual banquet of the club was held only a few months ago.

CARD SHARPERS MAKE BLUNDER

Pick Deputy Sheriff Morey of St. Louis County for Victim.

Fargo, N. D., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bunco men and card workers who have been operating on the Northern Pacific into Fargo for some time came to grief yesterday afternoon on the local train to Staples when they sized up J. R. Morey, deputy sheriff of St. Louis county, Minn., and a representative of a detective agency as an easy mark.

They invited him into a game of cards, which was switched from whist to poker, Morey permitting the trio all the leeway they wished. After he let them take $40 he caused their arrest, getting one at Detroit, another at Perham and a third at Staples. The men were well dressed and gave the names of James W. Anderson, Harry W. Roberts and C. W. Bell. The trio had about $375 and Bell had a lady's watch with the initials, "H. E. S." partially erased.

On this last hunt Mr. Ordish has lassoed one of the animals that had been treed, but it chewed the lariat in two and had to be shot.

NO COMPLIMENT PLEASE.

Los Angeles Times: Claude Graham-White, the English aviator, at the New York Horse show, was praising American hotels.

"They are stupendous," he said. "There's nothing like them abroad. And as a rule their service is as incomparable as their size and their magnificance.

"Sometimes, though—not often, but sometimes—the American hotel guest is treated more like a boy in a boarding school than a paying visitor in a hotel. Thus a friend of mine went to the desk in his hotel the other day to lodge a complaint.

"'A complaint, eh?' said the clerk. Well, I guess you'll have to see the boss about that. That's him there.'

"My friend turned to the boss who stood at his elbow, smoking a cigar.

"'Are you the proprietor of this hotel?' he began.

"The proprietor took his cigar from his mouth, looked my friend up and down, and drawled:

"'Well, I thought I was till you came.'"

SLOW ON THE UPTAKE.

Los Angeles Times: Mr. Roosevelt, talking to a correspondent in Knoxville, said of a defeated politician:

"He was a hard man to down. He was, perhaps, a little dense. Like the tenderfoot, you know, at the Texas ball.

"A tenderfoot, after a few whiskies, visited a ball to which he had not been invited. Of course, the master of ceremonies thrust him quickly out.

"But the tenderfoot went back, whereupon the floor managers kicked him downstairs.

"Again the tenderfoot returned, and now the entertainment committee, rising as one man, threw him from the second-story window.

"The tenderfoot, after coming to, rose and limped slowly to his room at the hotel.

"'I know what it means,' he muttered to himself. 'Those people don't want me at that ball.'"

MOTOR VAPOR KILLS THE BUGS.

London Daily Mirror: The air of the London streets is purer at the moment than ever it has been before, and for this we have to partly thank the unsightly and noisy motor omnibus.

Flies, insects and germs, it appears, are killed in their billions by the petrol fumes of the ever-increasing motor traffic of London.

At a meeting of the Salmon and Trout association, Lord Desborough said it had been stated that insect life in the Parliament square had been put an end to altogether by the motor traffic.

This statement was fully borne out by a well known London chemist seen by The Daily Mirror.

"The fumes from motor omnibuses and other petroleum driven vehicles," he said, "are undoubtedly a powerful insecticide.

"The cresote vapor exuded from the exhaust pipes is not only a fly killer, but, as carbonized matter, it clears the air from germs and other impurities.

"The large number of petrol-driven vehicles in London at the present time, each exuding antiseptic vapor, is largely responsible for a big decrease in insect life.

"Londoners are constantly denouncing this vapor as a nuisance. Really, however, it is beneficial to their health."

A Strand fruiterer said that this year there had been a remarkable absence of flies in London.

IN A VILLAGE POSTOFFICE.

Brooklyn Eagle: The woman who had charge of a certain village postoffice was strongly suspected of tampering with parcels entrusted to her care.

One day a rosy-cheeked youngster, dressed in his best clothes, entered the postoffice and carefully laid a huge slice of iced cake on the counter.

"With my sister the bride's compliments, and will you please eat as much as you can," he said.

The postmistress smiled delightedly.

"How very kind of the bride to remember me!" she cried. "Did she know of my weakness for wedding cake?"

"She did," answered the youngster, coldly, "and she thought she'd send you a bit of it this afternoon, just to take the edge off your appetite before she posted any boxes off to her friends!"

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.

Baltimore American: The majority of Porto Ricans have instilled in them from earliest infancy a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said James A. Purman, an expert builder of sugar mills who has just returned from that country.

"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads at night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at midnight, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsound, that is to say lunatics, and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness.

"To sleep where the moon could shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."

THE WICKED MAJORITY.

Los Angeles Times: Miss Lillian Tod, the first woman to invent an aeroplane, was asked in an interview in New York to what she attributed her success.

"Successs in areonautics, as in most things," said Miss Tod, "is achieved by patience and faith in one's self Now, had I been a pessimist—" Miss Tod Smiled. "Pessimists like my friend's new gardener on Long Island," she continued, "would not accomplish much in work like mine. This man was raking leaves off the lawn one fall day, when a neighbor, passing by, inquired of him:

"'Where's the gardener who used to work here?'

"'Dead, sir' was the reply.

"'Dead' said the astonished neighbor. Then musing, he added: 'Joined the great majority, eh?'

"'Oh, sir, the gardener interrupted in a shocked voice. 'I wouldn't like to say that. He was a good enough man as far as I know.'"

WHAT THEY GO BY.

Los Angeles Times: G. G. Netter, the secretary of the International Pure Food Association of the White Cross, was discussing in New York a campaign he has recently commenced against the French menu.

"Where is the Parisian, let alone the American," Mr. Netter exclaimed, "who would know the meaning of 'dindonneau a la Wall Street,' or 'Pommes Taft,' or 'Poulet a la Sugar trust?'

"These menus puzzle everybody. That is frankly and universally admitted. I said the other day to a waiter:

"'Waiter, these dishes are all in French.'

"'Yes, sir,' he answered; 'but the prices are in English. Most people go by them.'"

GET FEVER TO GO WEST

Exodus to Harvest Fields Begins Before Men Are Needed.

Better Wages Are Offered in Duluth With No Men Available.

Duluth labor employment offices are sending a few men to the hay fields of North Dakota, more because the fever is upon the laboring men than because of the real need of men at this time.

According to the statement of one of the employment agents, wages for common labor have reached $2 a day in the city, with but very few men in sight. Most of the men applying for positions would rather go to North Dakota and work at haying for less wages than are paid here, apparently.

The men who are being shipped to North Dakota at the present time, are obliged to pay their own fare and no rate reductions are being given.

According to the statements that have come into the various employment agencies of Duluth, it will be two weeks at the least before the real rush to the harvest fields will start.

Men are not needed in the two Dakotas at the present time. There is need of men in Duluth and the employment agents can't get the men. Orders for men for work in Duluth and outside the city have been coming in regularly of late, and the men can't be secured.

There are very few men in the city at the present time, and the most of these are planning to move west.

WANT ANOTHER TEST OF CREAM

Murray Brothers Ask Health Department to Investigate Further.

Murray Bros. of West Duluth state that the sample of ice cream which was tested by the health department did not give them a fair show. They claim that they use only the best of cream, and that the can from which the cream was taken was an exception, and perhaps had been allowed to stand in a store.

To substantiate their statement they have asked the health department officials to take additional samples for testing purposes, and are confident that they will show up with the best. It was stated at the health department today that more samples will be taken of Murray Bros.' ice cream, as well as that of other manufacturers in the city. The late test of Murray Bros.' cream showed the presence of many more bacteria than allowed by the pure food laws.

PRIZE FIGHTERS FORFEIT BAIL

City Profits $200 From Interruption of Little Bout.

When the cases of Cleve Hawkins, Charles Robinson, Joe Wilson and John Jackson, all colored, were called in police court this morning they were not present, and their bail, $50 each, was declared forfeited.

The first two were arrested last week while engaging in a prize fight under the auspices of the Duluth Athletic club, and the latter two were acting as their seconds. The principals had gone seven rounds when they were stopped by the police.

RECIPROCITY OR AN ELECTION

Premier Laurier Presents Ultimatum to Canadian Conservatives.

Ottawa, Ont., July 25.—"Permit a vote to be taken in parliament on reciprocity or we will take a vote of the Canadian people on it without delay," is the ultimatum Prime Minister Sir Wilfred Laurier has addressed to the Conservative opposition in parliament.

The chief obstacle to holding the general election at this time is that, under the census which is just being taken, Western Canada will be entitled to twenty or more additional members. The census will not be completed until October, and a law giving the West its increased representation cannot be passed for some weeks after that. If an election is held before the law is enacted, the West will be under-represented in parliament for at least four years, and the political leaders believe will show its resentment to the party which it holds responsible for this.

THE WISE BISHOP.

Los Angeles Times: To the brilliant Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, Dr. Thomas F. Gailor, a Memphis man of rather narrow views complained about charity balls.

"I doubt if it be quite reverent, bishop," the man said, "to give a ball for the purposes of charity."

But Bishop Gailor, with a saving burst of common sense, laughed and replied:

"Why, my dear fellow, I'm sure, if it would do anybody any good, I'd dance the full length of Memphis in full canonicals."

TO KEEP HER FIGURE.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. Chapman Catt, the Suffragist leader, had her attention called, at a dinner at the Colony club in New York, to a stout young woman who was very tightly laced.

"'Look at her,' said Mrs. Chapman Catt's neighbor, 'she's passing every dish. She is actually laced too tight to eat.'

"'Yes,' said the other. 'It's a case of grace before meat, isn't it?'"

A salesman can talk to but one person at a time; an advertisement "talks" to thousands at one time.

YOUNG BUT AMBITIOUS

14-Year Old Orphan Doesn't Want Anything But a Job.

Grew Weary Washing Dishes in a Hotel for $1 a Week.

William Allen, 14 years old, an orphan, without money of friends, arrived in the city this morning over the Soo line from Mason, Wis., and at once visited Mrs. Forgy at the probation office at the court house and told her to get him a job.

He told Mrs. Forgy that his parents died some time ago and that for a long time he has been working in a hotel at Mason. There he washed dishes, scrubbed floors and received as pay the sum of $1 a week.

Every penny of the $1 a week was saved until he had more than enough to come to Duluth. Here he wants only a chance to work. Mrs. Forgy sent him to the Y. M. C. A., where it is expected he will be cared for until he can get a job.

He says that he does not want any help only in finding a job. The young man is rather under sized and does not look particularly strong but he stated that he felt competent to make his way in the city if given a chance.

FORGOTTEN LAW FOUND

All Lying-in Hospitals Must Have Permit From the Health Officer.

Effort to Enforce New Law Brings Old One to Light.

A law enacted by the state legislature in 1905 relative to the issuance of permits to persons conducting lying-in hospitals has been overlooked by the local health department and investigation brings forth the fact that the department has made no arrangements to have permits published or have proprietors of these hospitals get them.

The law has been brought to light through the more recent one which requires all these hospitals to make a report to the judge of probate of every birth within three days and also another one within thirty-three days, stating where the child is and giving its condition.

Some of the proprietors of maternity homes have at various times asked the health department if permits were necessary, and it is understood that they were told that no such permits were needed. However, the local department is now having permits issued, and they will be ready for the proprietors upon the return of Dr. J. J. Murphy, who has been out of the city for several days.

The law states that "no person shall receive into her premises more than one woman in six months to be cared for during child-birth, for pay, without first obtaining a permit so to do from the local health officer."

AMERICAN FLYER DROPS FROM RACE

English Contest Lies Chiefly Between Two Frenchmen.

Bristol, Eng., July 25. — The flying race around Great Britain for a prize of $50,000, offered by the London Daily Mail, developed today into a neck-and-neck contest between Vedrines and Beaumont, with only G. Hamel and Valentine keeping anywhere near the leaders. Today's schedule called for a flight from Edinburgh to this city by way of Stirling Glasgow and Manchester, a total distance of 383 miles.

C. T. Weymann, the only American competitor, who has had hard luck from the start, had further trouble with his engine today and abondoned the contest.

STEALS PLUMES FROM MILLINER

Thief Boldly Takes $800 Worth During Lunch Hour.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A burglar today stole $800 worth of new plumes from the millinery store of Miss C. A. Olson. The thief took only new plumes recently received for the fall trade, rejecting the old and less desirable ones. The feathers were packed in a box 3 by 2½ by 2½ feet and it is believed were taken away in an automobile or wagon. Suspicion attaches to a young man who called at the store a few days ago and asked to be shown plumes. The raid was made in the half hour between 12:15 and 12:45, while the patrolman on the beat was at lunch.

KEPT UMBRELLA THIRTY YEARS.

Chicago Tribune: A faithful old umbrella which has shielded the family of Dr. James A. Mullican of Greenwood avenue from the storms of thirty years, was stolen on Sunday. During the rain on that day the physician lent the umbrella to E. A. Seck, and while the latter was in a store some one stole it.

"The umbrella belonged to my father and has been in the family for more than thirty years," said Dr. Mullican last night. "It has been covered several times.

"To persons who are unable to keep the same umbrella for more than thirty days this may seem incredible, but it is true," concluded Dr. Mullican with a smile.

HOW JOHN BULL DODGES THE EXPRESS COMPANY EXTORTIONS

PARCELS DIVISION, GENERAL POSTOFFICE, LONDON.

CAGES FOR REGISTERED PARCELS, GENERAL POSTOFFICE, LONDON.

SORTING PARCELS FOR FOREIGN MAIL, GENERAL POSTOFFICE, LONDON.

Strong efforts are being made to have congress pass a parcels post law and it is generally believed that they will be successful. Acting on this belief, Postmaster General Hitchcock has had the pay of rural free delivery carriers made $1,000 a year, in the belief that they are to have their labors very much increased by the transportation of packages, as well as letters. In European countries the parcels post has been in active operation for a great many years and it is possible, there, to send almost anything through the postoffice. One may mail an automobile tire in Germany as one would mail a circular letter in this country. Naturally the parcels post is being fought by the express companies, whose business it would practically annul. Recently the express companies have reduced their rates and the interstate commerce commission is now investigating them with a view to determining whether the rates now in force are just.

WIRE TRUST MEN CHANGE PLEAS

Substitute "Nolle Contendere" for Those of "Not Guilty."

New York, July 25.—Forty defendants recently indicted in the government prosecution of the alleged wire trust withdrew their pleas of not guilty today and entered pleas of "nolle contendere." United States District Attorney Wise opposed the acceptance of any such plea, but Judge Archbald, who was presiding in the United States circuit court, accepted it.

TO GET OFF.

Los Angeles Times: George C. Boldt, the well known hotel man of New York, praised, the other day, truffled turkey.

"Turkey is our national dish for Christmas and New Year's day," he said, "and truffled turkey is the world's national dish. It is incomparable."

Mr. Boldt smiled.

"Rossini," he said, "was once promised by a friend a dinner of turkey and truffles. The friend, however, showed a disposition to postpone the feast and to make excuses. But Rossini, buttonholing him one day, said:

"'Look here, how about that truffled turkey dinner?'

"'Truffles are no good this season,' said his friend.

"'Bah! Don't you believe it,' said Rossini. 'That report was started by the turkeys.'"

A CHANGE.

Los Angeles Times: Apropos of the new hotel in New York where women, as in all the fashionable hotels abroad, may smoke, Frederick Townsend Martin said at a recent luncheon:

"The cigarette-smoking woman has doubtless come to stay. Times have indeed changed since the nineteenth century, or Victorian age.

"At a soiree during the Victorian age in Washington square, when a young lady rose to play on the violin an old gentleman named Von Twiller axclaimed in a shocked voice:

"'Good gracious a woman playing the fiddle.'

"Some time afterward a young man sat down at the piano, whereupon old Von Twiller sneared:

"'I wonder if the dear creature can sew.'"

A TEACHER OF BEGGARS.

London Globe: The police authorities at Homel have arrested a notorious character named David Kotchmel, known throughout Russia as the king of beggars. oKtchmel had founded in the principal provincial towns schools of mendicity, where he had organized a veritable course of instruction for his pupils in the art of wheedling money from the charitable, and which in turn he made his pupils hand over to him.

It is not this, however, which has brought him under the law. He seems to have been a bigamist, or rather polygamist, for he was possessed of twenty wives, each living in a different town. In addition to his mendicity and polygamy, his mendacity included the production of forged papers of identity as the preliminary to his many marriages.

THE REASON.

Los Angeles Times: "When Lincoln was on circuit in his lawyering days," said a Chicago veteran, "he used to put up at some pretty bad taverns—taverns where, big as he was, by Crinus, he and the judges and the lawyers would have to sleep two and three in a bed.

"And what beds they were! Once, after a wretched night, Lincoln got up and walked in his long night shirt to a notice on the wall that said: 'No smoking in the bedrooms.'

"He chuckled grimly. Then he took a pencil from his night shirt pocket and scribbled beneath the notice:

"'The fleas don't like it.'"

OUR DOCTORS.

Los Angeles Times: "The late Count Tolstoi loathed physicians," said at a dinner in Washington, a Russian diplomat.

"You remember how Tolstoi ridiculed physicians in 'war and peace?' Well, I heard him ridicule three of them to their faces over a vegetarian dinner at Yasnaya Polyana.

"'Physicans,' he said bitterly, looking up from a plate of lentils, 'may be divided into two classes—the radicals, who kill you, and the conservatives, who let you die.'"

SLOWER THAN THE DEAD.

Los Angeles Times: "Frank Work," said a New York broker, "dearly loved a fast trotter. By the same token he hated to drive at a slow pace.

"A friend took him out one day behind a pair of bays. Either the bays were slow or the driver believed in sparing his horse flesh; at any rate, Mr. Work returned home in a rather glum humor.

"'Did you have a nice drive, father?' one of his daughters asked.

"'Nice!' snorted Mr. Work. 'Why, the very hearses passed us, cheering as they went.'"

'GREEK TO ME,' SAYS TAWNEY

Minnesotan Declares That He Knows Neither Keeley Nor Glavis.

Says He Fought Against Senator Lorimer on Oleo Law.

Winona, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—When shown the dispatch from Washington regarding Mr. Keeley's testimony before the Lorimer committee, this afternoon at his office, Mr. Tawney said:

"The matter is all Greek to me. I do not know Mr. Keeley of the Chicago Tribune, nor George O. Glavis or any other Glavis. I never before heard of the Fire Proof Magazine, and know nothing whatever of any mail privileges which it ever sought or obtained.

"Connecting my name with this matter was purely gratuitous on the part of Mr. Keeley or Mr. Glavis or both, and without any facts whatever to justify it; nor was I ever connected in any way with any legislative or other proposition in which Mr. Lorimer was interested, except in the oleomargerine fight, when he was opposing the enactment of the anti-oleomargerine law which I was advocating and the passage of which I finally secured.

"If the Fire Proof Magazine of Chicago sought any mail privileges through the influence of any committee or any member of any committee of the house of representatives, it would have been through the committee on postoffices and post roads or its members, and not through the committee on appropriations or any of its members, because it is the committee on postoffices and post roads that handles the appropriations for the postal service and not the committee on appropriations."

POKER GAME ON POINT OF ROCKS

The police raided a quiet little game of "draw" on the top of the point of rocks this afternoon. Six young men had a cloth spread out on the top of the cliff, and were engaged in a game of poker when the police came. They gave their names as Henry Pearson, Peter Dahl, Joe Hanson, Gust Englund, John King and Peter Johnson.

SAYS FLY DESTROYER MADE HIS HORSE BALD.

St. Paul, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burdette Thayer of Spring Valley, former state senator, has submitted a sample of some fly destroyer he purchased from a Minneapolis firm to the state pure food department.

Ex-Senator Thayer says that he sprayed his registered trotter with the stuff, and that the horse is now as bald as a newborn mouse. Every bit of the hair has come off. The animal has to be protected from flies by a man who is employed for that special purpose.

After the pure food department decides what the "fly dope" contains, Mr. Thayer proposes to bring action against the company making it.

SEVEN DAIRYMEN FINED.

Minneapolis Court Finds They Sold Cream Below Grade.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seven retail dairymen were fined in municipal court today for violating the ordinance requiring cream to show 20 per cent of butter fat. Six pleaded guilty. S. Ereden of Golden Valley had been up on a like offense prior to today and to him was administered the heaviest fine—$20. Fines of $10 each were assessed against M. Madsen, P. E. Bofferding, Max Christenson, A. Schnabel and I. M. Anderson. Al Peterson pleaded not guilty and will stand trial.

A FORTUNATE ERROR.

Los Angeles Times: August Belmont, at a dinner in New York, laughed at the tales of a huge bribery fund to defeat the race track bill.

"There is about as much truth in all these tales," he said, "as there is in the virtues of the average hair grower—and you know what they amount to."

Mr. Belmont smiled.

"A bald-headed man astonished his friends by appearing one day with a fine, thick crop of hair.

"'It's all an accident, too' he explained. 'Last night I took up the wrong bottle in the dark, and instead of rubbing Scalpene-Dandruffia on my head, I applied my wife's depilatory.'"

A FRENCH PARADOX.

Los Angeles Times: Senator Depew, at the Lotus club's recent dinner in New York in honor of the French ambassador, M. Jusserand, said with a smile:

"M. Jusserand writes English better than an Englishman, he speaks it better than an American, and he uses it better than an Irishman.

"I violate, I believe, no confidence when I relate one of M. Jusserand's mots. M. Jusserand, at a dinner, sat next to a matron in the prime of life. This matron, putting her hand to her soft and pretty hair, said with a laugh none too gay.

"'I found four gray hairs in my head this morning.'

"'Madam,' said M. Jusserand, 'as long as gray hairs can be counted, they don't count.'"

A SYMPATHETIC BURGLAR.

London Daily Mail: A thoughtful burglar who broke into the house of Joseph Brown, Streatham Highroad, last week has earned the gratitude of Mr. and Mrs. Brown by returning the post two highly prized miniatures, whose intrinsic value to the thief was inconsiderable.

The thief took £12 or £14 worth of portable valuables, including a gold miniature locket containing the portraits of Mr. Brown's two little boys. The parents were particularly sorry to lose the locket because the elder of the boys died only a short time ago and the miniature could not be replaced.

ART IN THE NUDE.

Los Angeles Times: The photographer's lady was very preoccupied showing some samples of work to prospective sitters, when a tall and rawboned individual, apparently from "the land," stalked solemnly into the studio, and intimated that he would like to know what the "picters" were worth.

"Like that, $3 a dozen," said the photographer's lady, handing him one.

The farmer gazed long and earnestly at the photograph of a very small baby sitting in a wash basin.

"And what would it cost with my clothes on?" he finally asked.

RUST BULLS' ONLY HOPE

Reports of Crop Damage Alone Hold the Market Up.

Wheat Declines Fractionally in Duluth After a Strong Opening.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 25.—The decline of yesterday was continued in the wheat market today and wheat lost about ½c in all American markets. The decline in Duluth was ⅝-¾c, in Minneapolis, ¼-⅜c and in Chicago ½c on the September option.

The visible increase, which was a factor yesterday; the report on Chicago stocks, with abnormally heavy receipts in Duluth and Chicago, gave the bears leverage for a raid on the market, but other influence lent support and the loss was not as heavy as might have been expected under the circumstances.

The black rust situation continues to be the dominant factor to the bulls' favor in the market. Reports from North Dakota continue to come in, indicating damage by black rust all through the state. Some sections which looked for big crops will count themselves lucky to get their seed back, according to the stories sent out. There is some skepticism still being shown and it is argued that the rain of Sunday had a beneficial effect and that, coupled with the cool weather, will aid late crops so as to off-set greatly the black rust damage, as far as the general situation is concerned.

There are 186 cars on track in Duluth today which is greater than for some time past. Cash wheat was only 1c over September today and the demand is good. Cash sales yesterday and today were heavy here and at Minneapolis, where the bidding for wheat was strong today. Chicago reports sales of wheat for export in greater quantities and that also had an effect on today's market.

There was nothing doing in July wheat on the Duluth board today and it closed 3c over September at 99c bid. September wheat opened ¼-⅜c up at 97c bid, advanced to 97¼c bid, fell off to 95⅞c, advanced to 96c and closed with that figure as the bid price. Durum wheat was unchanged.

The linseed market was erratic today and after fitful trading, with the market readily susceptible to the influence of offers, the September option alone showed a loss for the day. July linseed opened 1c up at $2.11 asked, declined to $2.05, advanced again to $2.10 and closed at that figure. September linseed opened 1c up at $2.05 asked and dropped to $2.02 at the close. October linseed opened 1c off, at $1.94 bid, advanced to $1.95 on trading and closed at $1.95 bid.

Rye was unchanged and oats were ⅝c off.

Wheat closed ⅛d to ⅜d higher in Liverpool, unchanged in Paris, unchanged in Antwerp and 2½c off in Budapest.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market opened quiet and ¼d lower, being influenced by the weaker American cables yesterday. Later there was an undertone of firmness and with lighter offers values advanced ¼d to ⅜d with the principal support in October. Buying was encouraged by less favorable European crop outlook, decreasing local stocks, decrease in the visible here and continued good inquiry for both Australian and Manitoba parcels which caused support by prominent interests here. At 1:30 p. m. the market was steady and unchanged to ¼d higher than yesterday.

"After opening ¼d lower, corn remained dull at the decline. The pressure was the result of the lower American cables and a quiet spot demand.

"The visible supply of Europe this week amounts to 71,770,000 bu vs. 72,736,000 bu last week.

"Our Argentine agent cables that there have been general rains throughout the country except in Northern Santa Fe, which has been beneficial for the growing wheat crop."

MARKET GOSSIP

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—Cold weather and general rains throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas have bolstered optimism among the farmers and business men of the Northwest, according to Minneapolis financiers and crop experts.

Reports have been received from country banks, that the rain and low temperatures have been general as far as Montana to the west, bringing grain to a healthy maturity. This is especially true of the corn crop, according to the financiers. Reports received here say that corn, wheat, flax, oats and potatoes are greatly benefited by prevailing weather conditions.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Foreign Crop and Stock Conditions Turn Wheat Prices Up.

Chicago, July 22.—With a less favorable crop outlook in Europe and with stocks there decreasing, wheat prices today took an upward turn. Both France and England reported yields much less than had been hoped for. The causes for the deficiency were extreme heat and drouth, which continued also to affect large areas in Russia. Besides anxiety was expressed regarding the prospects throughout India. Opening figures here were the same as last night to ½c up. September started at 88½c to 88⅝c, a gain of ⅜@½c, reacting later to 88⅜@88½c.

A material decline ensued, as not enough buying developed to sustain the market. The close was steady at 87⅝c for September, a net loss of ⅝c.

Corn advanced on account of sellers being scarce. On the bull side, assertions were common that there was still a shortage of moisture which would be felt before the end of the season. September opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 63⅜@63⅝c, and rose to 63¾@63⅞c.

After touching 64c for September the market fell, purchasers being too few to carry the advance along. The close, however, was firm, though ⅝c net lower for September at 62⅜c.

Hedging sales prevented oats from participating in the firmness of other grains. September started ⅛c lower to ¼c advance at 40½c to 40⅝c, and kept steady at 40⅝c.

The provision market became stronger with hogs. First sales were 2½c to 5c up, September deliveries going at $16.50 for pork, $8.35 for lard and $8.57½ for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Close Heavy With the General List Below Monday's Figures.

Coal Shares Dominate Market in Last Hour, Making Gains.

New York, July 25.—The reduction of freight rates ordered by the interstate commerce commission caused a sharp depression in stocks at the opening of the market today. Railroad issues were sold heavily and lost from 1 to 2 points in the first few minutes. Union Pacific declined 1⅞ and Northern Pacific 1⅝, Reading and Atchison 1½, and Southern Pacific, Great Northern preferred 1½. Some of the industrials weakened at the same time. General Electric declined 1¼ and International Harvester 1.

Opening losses were extended in some cases during the early trading, but the market soon grew stronger. Reading, Union Pacific and Atchison recovered a point and at the end of the first hour losses were reduced to small amounts. On the early downward movement American Smelting, New York Central and Sloss-Sheffield Steel lost a point, Consolidated Gas 1⅜ and Western Maryland 2.

Temporary unsettlement of the stock market today was caused by the order of the interstate commerce commission for a readjustment of trans-continental freight rates. The weakness was most pronounced among western railroad stocks, although the abrupt decline in these issues affected the general list. Reports of tension abroad on account of the Moroccan situation and some selling for London accounts added to the heaviness of the opening. The market displayed unusual resiliency, however, and by noon the list had completely recovered, with the exception of the Hill stocks. Reading and Lehigh Valley led the upward movement, rising a point above yesterday's close. Bonds were steady.

Stocks hld steady at around the best prices of the day during the afternoon. American Beet Sugar and St. Louis & San Francisco preferred gained a point.

The market closed heavy. The coal shares dominated the market in the last hour, Pittsburg Coal preferred gaining 2 points and Lehigh Valley and Reading retaining much of their early advantage while Norfolk & Western sold up a point. The rest of the list, except for a few specialties, was generally below yesterday's final quotations. St. Louis & Southwestern preferred declined 1½ and Western Union 1.

FEW HOTEL MEN GO TO MEETING IN ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, Minn., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Few hotel men came to St. Paul today to attend the annual meeting of the State Hotel Men's association, scheduled to be held at the Ryan hotel. J. T. Michaud, proprietor of the St. Louis hotel at Duluth, president of the organization, arrived this morning, accompanied by Henry Ribenack, proprietor of the Lenox, and E. H. Lee, proprietor of the Spalding. Two other hotel men from the southern part of the state came.

"We expected to take up a discussion of the new hotel inspection law," said Walter A. Pocock, manager of the Ryan, "but I presume there will be little done."

The hour of the meeting was changed from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

The visitors will be guests of the Ryan at dinner this evening.

BURKE AND GRAHAM IN ALASKAN TILT.

Washington, July 25.—Sharp controversy over the delay in the house investigating committee's inquiry into the Controller Bay affair, including the alleged "Dick-to-Dick" letter, occurred in the committee room today between Chairman Graham, Democrat, and Representative Burke of South Dakota, Republican. Mr. Burke said he wanted "the searchlight turned on now." Mr. Graham said it was better to proceed in October.

KILLED IN ISLE ROYALE.

Houghton, Mich., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Haimen, aged 62, married employed on the surface of the Isle Royale mine, while carrying powder from the car to No. 4 shaft yesterday fell from the surface to the first level and was instantly killed.

BATTERED SCHOONER ARRIVES IN PORT.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—With her rails wrecked and stern stove in, the schooner Hattie Wells, bound for Marinette, Wis., with cedar poles, was towed into port this afternoon by the tug Martin. The tug and consort were badly beaten about in the high seas this morning off Salt Point, part of the schooner's deck load being washed overboard.

TOO SOPHISTICATED.

Los Angeles Times: "Will Darnborough," said a Bloomington man, "is the sensation of the Riviera. He has been winning at Monte Carlo at the rate of thirty or forty thousand a day.

"Will told me last month, at the Cercle de la Mediterranee in Nice, that he attributed his good fortune to the fact that he could always tell his lucky days.

"He said with a laugh that the first turn of the wheel told him everything. In its startling revelations the wheel, he said, suggested the young earl who fell in love with the pretty Monte Carlo chambermaid.

"The young earl found a Monte Carlo chambermaid so irresistible that he proposed to her and was, of course, accepted. So one night he took her motoring, and in the course of the ride he produced a bottle of champagne.

"'I'll open it,' said the pretty chambermaid. 'Oh, let me open it.'

"And while the car sped along the Corniche in the moonlight, she unfastened the foil and wire and twisted out the huge cork so deftly that not a drop of the champagne escaped.

"But the young earl pushed rudely from him the pretty, smiling chambermaid.

"'You have deceived me,' he muttered hoarsely. 'I am not your first love.'"

THE WEDDING CAKE PAGODA.

Wide World: At Mingun, on the right bank of the Irrawaddy river, about five miles from Mandalay, in Burma, there stands a peculiar pagoda known as the Wedding Cake Pagoda. It was built in the early part of the nineteenth century, and is in thoroughly good preservation, only a few of the images inside having been broken. The extreme height to the top of the minaret is eighty feet, and the circumference about 600 feet. The pagoda stands back from the river some 300 feet, and is hidden from it by a grove of teak trees. Close to it is the famous Mingun bell.

A FLYER'S JOKE.

Los Angeles Times: Hubert Latham, the Antoinette flyer, was talking at a tea in Los Angeles to a pretty California girl.

"Mr. Latham," said the girl, as she took her nineteenth walnut and lettuce sandwich, "tell me, does flying require any particular application?"

"Well, no, none in particular," Mr. Latham answered. "Arnica or horse liniment—one's as good as another."

DOT AND TROUSSEAU.

London Globe: Dealing with the weakness of actors, some noted for meanness, a Paris contemporary relates a good story of Frederick Lemaitre, the celebrated actor, who was somewhat parsimonious. When his daughter was about to marry, Lemaitre agreed to provide the "dot" and the trousseau. "Dot," it may be observed, is the French equivalent for the English "dower" or Scottish "tocher."

When the notary came to complete the contract and was reading the terms Lemaitre said: "The daughter of Frederick Lemaitre has not need of a dot. Monsieur Le Notaire, strike out the dot."

The prospective son-in-law was present and he had the courage to reply: "The daughter of Frederick Lemaitre can easily clothe herself with the fame of her father. Monsieur Le Notaire, pray strike out the trousseau."

MOST VORACIOUS CANNIBALS

Wide World Magazine: The most terrible species of cannibals living are the cruel, bloodthirsty Manyeuma of Tanganyika. Living to the west of Tanganyika these cannibals, clothed in primitive fashion with a piece of bark cloth rudely hammered out from a neighboring tree, having an appetite for human flesh which is well nigh insatiable. They exercise the most fiendish cunning in tracking down their quarry, choosing fat, well covered people in preference to those who are lean and bony. Their favorite practice is to waylay their victims at eventide, so that they may have before them a long night in which to effectually dispose of their prey by cutting it up into strips and drying it over a low fire in the woods. These dried strips of human flesh are carefully preserved for future use, and on two occasions these grewsome forest food depots were discovered and their owners killed by the Wafipa people, who inhabit East Tanganyika. Most of these cannibals file their teeth to a point, so as to enable them more easily to tear the flesh from the bone when they have to eat their abnominable meal in a hurry.

WHY PREACHER KISSES BRIDE.

Tit Bits: The nuptial kiss, with a meaning akin to that of the kiss of peace, had its origin in a most serious and practical church ceremony known as the Espousals. Among mediaeval people, as among some classes of Jews today, it was customary for the bridegroom and the bride to meet before witnesses in the church some days or even weeks before the marriage and there make a pledge of future union, and at such times a ring was usually presented by the prospective husband. Sometimes, however, the man was too poor to buy the ornament, and instead, presented a kiss, which was doubtless more pleasant and was considered a binding pledge before man and God.

The custom of allowing the preacher to take a kiss along with his fee had a very different beginning, in early Catholic days, after the wedding refreshments had been served, the priest always came forward and gave the husband—think of it—the kiss of peace, and that gentleman passed it on to his wife, while, at the same time, the priest's assistant kissed the best man, who passed it on to the other guests. No wonder the clergyman had an assistant! As time passed the preacher doubtless came to the conclusion that the peace kiss should be placed nearer the source of disturbance, and thus the wife came to receive the gift direct.

JUST SUSPICION.

Catholic Standrad and Times: "Come, Willie, said his mother, "don't be so selfish. Let your little brother play with your marbles a while."

"But," protested Willie, "he means to keep them always."

"Oh, I guess not."

"I guess yes! 'Cause he's swallered two o' them already."

COPPER STOCK BROKERS

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT COPPER CO.
ATTENTION STOCKHOLDERS!

The vein on the Little Annie has widened and carries 282 ounces silver and $12 in gold to the ton. A big car of this high grade ore will soon go to Pittsmont smelter.

The news from the Scott properties reads like a fairy tale but when it is the truth what are we going to do about it. All we can do is to inform those interested.

The mines are now both regular mints and the ore lately opened in the Annie will run about $8,000 to the car. All that is necessary is $9,000 earnings from each mine a month to pay 75 cents per quarter in dividends.

Four cars a month from the Annie claim is about all that is necessary, but they expect to ship three cars every day.

The possibilities of the new mine are so great that we do not dare put in print what we really believe will be done in the way of earnings, even one car per day makes us hesitate, but Mr. Hugo says he believes when mine is opened up enough he can ship from three to four cars per day.

Tuolumne has 800,000 shares issued, which is over eleven times as many shares as Scott and they would have to earn eleven times as much money to pay same dividend. We own two rich mines while they own one. Figure it out. Is Scott not worth $80 a share?

State Having Great Difficulty in Locating Its Missing Witnesses.

Case Will Be Tried at the September Term or Dismissed.

The state is experiencing a good deal of trouble in locating the witnesses in the case of the state against Jackson McPherson, the man who was convicted of the murder of Otto Frey, but who was given a new trial by the state supreme court.

The case was tried more than a year ago. McPherson was denied a new trial by the local court and after beginning his sentence of life imprisonment at Stillwater, the supreme court came to his rescue and ordered a new trial. He was ordered back to the St. Louis county jail, where he now awaits his second trial.

The shooting occurred on board one of the Mutual Transit company's boats in September, two years ago. The trial followed some time later and after it the witnesses, nearly all of whom are sailors, disappeared. Some of them went back to salt water sailing and some of them are on lake boats. It is a very hard matter to locate a sailor who is constantly changing from one boat to another and drifting to all the different parts of the country, and the probability is that the second trial may not take place. In this case, McPherson will, in the natural course of events, be discharged.

From the county attorney's office letters have been written to sailors' unions and marine employment companies as well as many vessel companies. Clews have been received by which some of the men have nearly been located. In almost every case they change jobs just often enough so that it is impossible to reach them through the mails. A sailor rarely leaves any information behind as to where he is going.

The county attorney is beginning to despair of ever getting them together. In case it is possible wholly or in part to get together the men, the action will be tried, it is though, at the September term of court.

McPherson will be tried on the same indictment on which he was tried the first time.

At the county jail McPherson is wishing that something would happen. He does not care much what. He is sure that on the second trial he will be acquitted. On the other hand he hopes that he will be allowed to go as soon as possible. "Two years is a long time to spend in jail for simply defending yourself," he says.

STANLEY HOPES FOR POWERS LAKE LINE

North Dakota Town Sanguine of Getting Extension of Great Northern.

Stanley, N. D., July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stanley still hopes to secure the Stanley-to-Powers Lake branch of the Great Northern. The arrival this week of the engineer in charge, C. H. Hickman, has revived the local hope. It is declared that the contract for the work is held by A. Guthrie & Co. of St. Paul, and that a crew of 150 men will be shipped here this week to commence operations. Some material has also been unloaded here, including ties and rail, and there is every indication that the line will be completed early.

Mr. Hickman has opened an office here, and T. J. Harrington, material clerk; Arthur Sullivan, H. N. Peterson and Alex Elston, members of the chief surveying crew, are also here.

It is not definitely known yet just how far the line will be built this year, but it is not expected that it will be constructed any further than Powers Lake, although there are plans under way which will extend the line into Montana later.

ROUNDHOUSE AT VIRGINIA

Canadian Northern Will Let Contract for Buildings on Range.

Bids will be opened by officials of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad tomorrow for the construction of a 10-stall roundhouse, a machine shop and storehouse at Virginia, of the same size as those to be built in West Duluth. The contract will be awarded on Saturday by H. T. Hazen, chief engineer, who will return on that day from his visit to New Brunswick.

Work was started yesterday on the roundhouse, machine shop and storehouse at West Duluth by the contractors, Bailey & March of Minneapolis, who were the successful bidders.

TUMBLES INTO PIT.

Big South Shore Engine Takes Header at Marquette Turntable.

Marquette, Mich., July 25.—Engine No. 503, one of the finest passenger train locomotives on the South Shore road, was run on to the turntable at the roundhouse Sunday before the track had lined up, the result being that the engine plunged into the turntable pit, which is about ten feet deep. George Palmear, who was in the cab at the time, jumped when he saw what was about to happen, and fortunately escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

It is thought that the damage to the locomotive is not extensive, the only visible repairs necessary being a new pilot, new pony trucks and a new cab.

THE TWO DRAMATISTS.

Los Angeles Times: Thompson Buchanan, the brilliant young dramatist, was praising the dramatic critics of New York.

"If these men err," said Mr. Buchanan, "it is on the side of generosity and forbearance. Set dramatists to criticising one another, and there would be a different tale to tell.

"For dramatists are cruel critics. Two dramatists once sat opposite each other at a Christmas dinner. A waiter, in filling a glass with champagne, joggled against the older man's ear. He growled:

"'Be careful there, waiter. Remember, please, I've got a head on my shoulders.'

"But the younger dramatist said, with a nasty laugh, across the table:

"'A head? Rubbish! You've only got a pimple on your shoulders that will never come to a head.'"

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

Los Angeles Times: The late Green McCurtain, chief of the Choctaws, has a very high opinion of the business astuteness of white men.

"No Indian can get the better of a paleface," Chief McCurtain said to a Guthrie reporter during the recent Oklahoma investigation. "And when two palefaces get bargaining together, then it is like cutting diamonds with diamonds.

"Two Oklahoma palefaces once hunted in my camp. They spent the evening with me, and, over the fire and the fire water, they began to barter and traffic, and to make deals and dickers.

"Finally Bill said:

"'Sam, let's trade hosses—my bay for your roan.'

"'It's a go,' Sam agreed. 'The trade's a go. Shake hands on it, partner.'

"They shook hands. Then Bill said with a loud laugh:

"'Sam, I've bested ye this time. My hoss is dead. Died yesterday.'

"'So's mine dead,' said Sam. 'Died this mornin'. And, what's more, I've took his shoes off.'"

INSCRUTABLE EVE.

Los Angeles Times: Daniel Frohman's humor was the life of recent Professional Women's Bazaar at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Mr. Frohman, in an address on "Woman," said:

"Women have been blamed for every financial disaster that has happened since the days of Adam and Eve. That is not right. Woman's need is man's opportunity. The truth about Eve is that the garden of Eden bored her. She wanted to get and see the fashions and have an automobile; so she arranged a plan that made Adam a self-respecting, hard working citizen of the world. She did for Adam what many a woman has done for her husband since."

Mr. Frohman smiled.

"And that is some of the truth about woman," he concluded. "It isn't all the truth. Dear me, no! A man is known by the company he keeps, but a woman is never fully known by anybody."

HIGH IDEALS.

Los Angeles Times: Paul Morton, in a paper on "The World's Business" that he read before the Quill club in New York, said: "I consider the Standard Oil company, the United States Steel Corporation, and the American Tobacco company to be battleships in the nation's war for world commercial supremacy."

Mr. Morton, discussing the assertion afterward, said with a smile:

"The concerns I mentioned have an ideal of business efficiency such as the world has never seen before. Theirs, indeed, is so high an ideal that it reminds me of a famous New York theatrical manager.

"This manager is noted for the exquisite beauty of his stage settings. The other day, rehearsing a moonlight scene, he found fault with the moon. First the moon was too bright, then it was too dull. Now its beams were too yellow, and now they were too pale. Finally, after holding up the rehearsal for twenty minutes, the manager tore out in a great rage to arrange the moon himself.

"On the stage a pause ensued. During the pause the leading lady said wearily to the villain:

"'Oh, dear, what are we waiting for now?'

"'Nothing much,' the villain answered. 'The boss wants a real moon, and he's gone to fetch it, that's all.'"

INDIGNANT MISSOURI WEDDING REPORTER.

Excelsior Springs Journal: We have often insisted that you write a short account of the weddings that you have. The reporter can't be everywhere at once. We missed the wedding of a prominent couple not long ago by the preacher sticking the wedding fee in his pocket and hiking for home and not even calling up the office and telling us. Any of the papers in the city would be glad to publish wedding news. You believe in progress of your town. Then help your town papers to get the news. You live off the public and so do the papers. Come on with those wedding notices!

THE WISER WAY.

Los Angeles Times: The Rev. Aaron E. Ballard, president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, was congratulated on his 90th birthday on his splendid health.

"I impute my longevity," said Dr. Ballard, "to the fact that I have always treated health as Lincoln's millionaire treated fortune.

"Discussing this millionaire, a New Yorker said to Lincoln:

"'Well, he wasn't in when Fortune knocked at his door.'

"'Ah, my friend,' Fortune didn't have to knock in his case,' said Lincoln. 'He was holding the door open waiting for her.'"

NOT DISINTERESTED.

Los Angeles Times: Andrew Carnegie, at a dinner in New York, said of the war scare that started up coincidentally with his $10,000,000 peace fund gift:

"It wasn't perhaps, a coincidence, that war scare. Let us remember what large interests are involved in the maintenance of armies and armaments and navies.

"These war scares that, arising so opportunely, shut off so many peace movements, make me think of Smith.

"As Smith frowned over a long dressmaker's bill at breakfast, Mrs. Smith murmured:

"'Who was it said that a woman's best friend was her dressmaker?'

"'Probably the dressmaker,' Smith growled."

A TAINTED DEAL.

Los Angeles Times: "Senator Elkins made his fifty-three millions honestly," said a Washington correspondent. "Hence he had a good deal of contempt for tainted money.

"Senator Elkins was talking to me one day in the capitol when a millionaire passed who always admits frankly that his millions marry a taint. The senator sniffing scornfully, said the man reminded him a Bige Brown.

"'Bige, he explained, lived in Elkins. Meeting him one day in the main street, the senator said:

"'Bige, do you know of anybody that's got a horse for sale?'

"'Well, senator,' he said, 'I guess Bill Hurst has. I sold him one yesterday.'"

SHARK GOT PART OF DIPLOMAT'S FISH.

Mexican Herald: That Thomas B. Hohler, the British charge d'affaires, made a great fishing record during two days and a half recently spent at Tampico has just been discovered by his friends.

During the time the diplomat succeeded in bringing to land seven large tarpon, the shortest of which measured four feet and six inches, while the longest would doubtless have broken the record had not an officious shark bitten off his tail just as he was being landed. This fish measured six feet and one inch without his caudal appendage, which deprived Mr. Hohler of the right doubtless to hold the record for tarpon hauls. The longest caught up to this time measured seven feet and four or five inches.

Mr. Hohler is having two of the fish he caught mounted and will give his friends an opportunity later to see for themselves that this is not just a fish story.

AN AUTHOR'S HANDWRITING.

London Chronicle: The handwriting of literary men is supposed to have improved during recent years, but there are still a few with a fondness for hieroglyphics. At a meeting of the Methodist conference in Melbourne the other day the Rev. Dr. Fitchett, author of "Deeds That Won the Empire," and other popular works, handed up a resolution.

The president looked at is, turned it upside down and roundabout, and at length gave it up in despair. The clerk was equally unable to decipher it. "I must ask Brother Fitchett," said the president, "to be good enough to rewrite his resolution and try to make it readable. At present it resembles a doctor's prescription."

MEASURING DISTANCE.

London Chronicle: If you have ever traveled in Holland you may have noticed that some of the older canal boatmen still measure the distances they travel by the number of pipes they have smoked by the way, just as the hillmen of Assam are accustomed to calculate the ground they have covered along an unfamiliar road by the number of quids of tobacco they have got through.

The Burmese equivalent for our "mile" is a word that means "to sit" and is used to indicate the distance a man can ordinarily go without sitting down to rest.

YOUNG PLAYWRIGHT'S REPLY.

Los Angeles Times: A pretty story of Miss Ellen Terry and a gallant young playwright has gone the rounds of the Players' club.

Miss Terry attended in New York the first night of this playwright's latest work, and at the end of the third act he was presented to her.

She congratulated him warmly.

"It is very good," she said. "Your play is very good indeed, and I shall send all my American friends to see it."

"In that case," said the playwright, with a very low and courtly bow, "my little piece will sell 90,000,000 tickets."

WHEN THE KING MOTORS.

Tit-Bits: It may not be generally known that the drivers of the motor cars of the king, the prince of Wales and the duke of Connaught are all policemen. The late king's instructions were: "Run no risks, but lose no time."

The latter clause used to be obeyed so implicitly that Lord Denby once when returning from Newmarket a "horse's length" behind the king, on whom he was in attendance, was stopped in his motor by the police at Barnet—a happy illustration of the principle that the king can do no wrong. The royal drivers do not rely on a motor horn alone. Alongside them on the box there sits a footman, who plays a key bugle to announce the approach of the car.

A BIT OF BYPLAY.

Detroit News Tribune: Even war, with all its grim horror, has now and then a bit of fun, and enemies, pitted against each other in deadly struggle, can relax into friendly controversy. Gen. Sir Daniel Lyons relates a curious incident of the Crimean war. While the English army lay before Sebastapol much speculation went on in regard to the relative merits of certain Russian and certain English guns.

One day, during an armistice, a Russian officer of artillery came to the British lines and asked to see the commander of the English artillery.

"Your sixty-eight-pounder that your people call 'Jenny' is a beautiful gun," said the Russian, "but we have one as good in the embrasure, and we should like a fair duel with her."

Arrangements were made that at 12 the next day all the other firing should cease, and that the two guns should be put to the test.

At the appointed time a large number of officers were assembled to view the contest. The British sailors of the gun detachment took off their caps and saluted the Russians, who returned the compliment. The English gun, as the senior, was allowed to fire first. It struck the side of the Russian embrasure. Then the Russians returned a good shot.

The third shot from Jenny went clear through the enemy's embrasure. The bluejackets, thinking the victory was theirs, jumped upon the parapets and cheered. But they were mistaken. In a minute out came the Russian gun again, and delivered several accurate shots. Jenny got a bad thump on her side, but it did no material harm.

At the seventh shot from the British side the Russian gun was knocked clean over. The British fellows cheered vociferousy, and the Russians mounted the parapet and took off their hats in acknowledgment of defeat. This ended the great gun duel, and more serious hostilities were resumed.

THE LONDONER'S DUPLEX NATURE

From "Sketches of Travel," by N. P. Willis: There is a "town" manner and a "city" manner, practiced with great nicety by all who frequent extremities of London. Nothing could be in more violent contrast, for example, than the manner of your banker when you dine with him at his country house, and the same person when you meet him on the narrow sidewalk in Throgmorton street. If you had seen him first in his suburban retreat you would wonder how the deuce such a cordial, joyous, spare-nothing sort of good fellow could ever reduce himself to the cautious proportions of Change alley. If you met him first in Change alley, on the contrary, you would wonder, with quite as much embarrassment, how such a cold, two-fingered, pucker browned slave of mammon could ever, by any license of interpretation, be called a gentleman. And when you have seen him in both places, and know him well, if he is a favorable specimen of his class, you will be astonished still more to see how completely he will sustain both characters—giving you the cold shoulder in a way that half insults you at 12 in the morning, and putting his home, horses, cellar and servants completely at your disposal at 4 in the afternoon.

HOLIDAYS INSURED NOW.

Lonon Daily Mail: It is now possible, for first time, to obtain compensation at Lloyd's for having one's holidays spoiled by rain—a new departure induce by the persistently wet weather which has so far marked the greater portion of the present holiday season.

Underwriters are prepared to insure proposers against one-tenth of an inch of rain falling on more than two days a week during their holidays at any towns on the south and east coasts between Bournemouth and Scarborough where the daily rainfall is officially published or satisfactory records can be obtained.

For a premium of 7s 6d, covering seven days, compensation would be paid at the rate of 10s per day on excess of two wet days, while a premium of 10s insures against an excess of four wet days in a fortnight. But of the one-tenth of an inch of rain—the quantity which constitutes a "wet" day of twenty-four hours—the greater portion must fall during the daytime.

HE REACHED A CONCLUSION.

Los Angeles Times: Tom was the youngest of a large family and had to endure any amount of teasing. Every little while some one would say; "Tom, the bad man will get you!" At first it frightened him, but later he said: Tom, what makes you so bad?" "I'm goin' to keep on bein' badder and badder, till the old man comes. I want to see what he looks like!" was Tom's reply.

SENATORS TELL TAFT NO WOOL BILL WILL PASS THIS SESSION

Smoot and Crane Make Prediction on Call at White House.

Insurgent Republicans May Tack One Onto Free List Bill.

La Follette and Democrats Cannot Reach Agreement on Terms.

Washington, July 26.—Information came to President Taft today from Republican senate leaders leaders that he need have no anxiety over the possibility of action at this session of congress on a bill revising the wool schedule of the present tariff.

Senators Smoot of Utah and Crane of Massachusetts, two of the leaders who talked with the president today, predicted the adjournment of congress Aug. 10 with all bills proposing to revise the wool schedule defeated.

On the heels of these predictions, however, came rumors from the capitol that an attempt would be made by insurgent senators to tack an amendment revising the wool schedule on the farmers' free list bill.

Vote Soon Due.

Wool is to be voted upon in the senate tomorrow; the farmers' free list comes up Aug. 1.

According to the regular senate leaders, the La Follette wool bill will not be supported by the Democrats and the Democratic house wool bill cannot be accepted by the Insurgents. The insurgents plan, it is said today, to get the farmers' free list bill, with the

WOMAN MIXED UP IN MURDER CASE

New Angle Given Jewelry Store Affair in New York.

New York, July 26.—Two men arrested last night in connection with the murder of Adolph Stern, a jewelry clerk who was shot down Saturday night by robbers in a store at Thirteenth street and Sixth avenue, were released today when John M. Flaherty, an eye witness, failed to identify them.

Flaherty added an important sidelight on the mystery today when he said he believed a woman was involved. He was looking in the jewelry store window when the glass was smashed by one of the robbers. He said that immediately afterward a woman ran out of the store, and that it was when Stern came to the door, apparently following her, that he was shot down by one of the thieves. This was the first the police had heard of this woman, and an effort was begun to find her.

CHOLERA TEST GIVEN TO NINE

More Suspects Are Examined at Quarantine and Bellevue.

New York, July 26.—Officials at Quarantine station were actively engaged this morning in making bacteriological tests of cultures taken in the cases of nine passengers of the steamship Oceania, who were taken ill during the voyage from Italy. Three of the nine patients are suspected of cholera.

A member of the crew of the San Giorgio, which came in yesterday, has developed an illness resembling the cholera.

The local health department has now two cholera suspects at Bellevue hospital. Edgar Herrmann, the orderly who attended Manuel Bermudes, the Spanish sailor now suffering from cholera at Swinburne island, is somewhat better.

The second suspect at Bellevue is Louis Mach, a laborer, who was brought to the hospital late last night as a case of gastro-enteritis.

Think It Is Not Cholera.

While the bacteriological examinations have not been concluded, Bellevue hospital physicians believed this morning that neither Louis Mach nor Herrmann is suffering from Asiatic cholera.

The steamers detained at quarantine are the Principe Di Piemonte, San Giorgio, Citta Di Messina and Oceania. The passengers of the Principe Di Piemonte probably will be released this afternoon, while the remaining steerage passengers of the steamer Moltke, who have been detained at Hoffman island, were prepared to land at Ellis island today.

SAYS BEING GOOD IS LONESOME BUSINESS

BISHOP QUAYLE
Of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Chicago, July 26.—Bishop Quayle is calling on the people of America to follow him for a final battle to get the better of evil in the great cities. He says that to be good in a big city is to be lonesome. He accounts the temptations of the city as a disease, and he proposes a hospital to treat them. He thinks not alone the Methodist church, to which he belongs, but all denominations will be interested in this proposed spiritual hospital. His proposition is that the hospital be established in or near Chicago.

PERUVIANS RESENT OUTBREAKS IN CHILE.

Lima, Peru, July 26.—There is general and deep-seated indignation over the recent attacks upon Peruvians at Tacna and Arica, Chile, which grew out of popular ill-feeling resulting from the boundary dispute. The papers publish the Chilean consul's explanation of the incidents and the Peruvian authorities have taken active measures to prevent retaliation here.

POPE HAS RESTLESS NIGHT; IS BETTER.

RECIPROCITY BILL SIGNED

President Attaches Signature to Canadian Trade Measure.

Canadian Premier Decides to Put Issue Before People at Election.

Washington, July 26.—President Taft this afternoon signed the bill ratifying the reciprocity agreement Canada. All that the measure now requires is action by the Canadians, which, under present plans, is to be sought at a general election.

Speaker Clark and Vice President Sherman today signed the bill and it was at once forwarded to the president. The bill reached the White House shortly after 1 p. m., but Mr. Taft did not sign it until 3:10 p. m. Secretary of State Knox and other officials were present.

Put It Up to People.

Ottawa, Ont., July 26.—Premier Laurier and the Liberal government of Canada have decided to place their political future in the hands of the electorate of the Dominion, to be decided almost entirely upon the reciprocity issue.

A general election will be called within two months, and upon its result, which will be governed largely by the attitude of the people for or against reciprocity, will depend the

The ceremonies were extremely elaborate.

COTTON BILL IN THE HOUSE

Members Meet to Receive Proposal to Revise Tariff.

Terms Reduce Present Duties Nearly 50 Per Cent.

Washington, July 26.—The house, after a three days' recess, reconvened today to receive the new Democratic cotton tariff bill, which reduces by practically one-half the duties provided for in the Payne-Aldrich tarif.

Democrats of the house, after a prolonged caucus, ratified the bill by more than a two-thirds majority. The bill was not ratified without protest, and a vigorous effort was made by many Democrats to upset the party legislative program and to prevent adjournment of the special congress by bluzing a way for tariff revision all the way down the line if such action would throw the session into the late fall.

Opposition by Webb.

Representative Webb of North Carolina offered a resolution urging postponement of action on the cotton measure until the ways and means committee should first report bills reducing the tariff on iron and steel articles, sugar, meats and flour, brick and dyes and dye stuffs. After his resolution was voted down, other members pleaded for extension of the tariff program, urging especially revision of the iron and steel, rubber and sugar schedules.

Though all resolutions were defeated, no decisive action on the time of ad-

POMERENE AFTER TRUST MAGNATES

Says People Cannot Understand Failure to Prosecute.

Washington, July 26.—Senator Pomerene of Ohio called up before the senate today his resolution instructing the attorney general to prosecute criminally the officers of the Standard Oil and American tobacco companies for alleged persistent violation of the anti-trust laws.

"The American people," said he, "cannot understand why there should be no criminal prosecutions against these defendants, when the government is so vigorous in its prosecution of minor offenders."

Altgeld's Pardon of Cashier Hillyer Submitted as Evidence.

Witness Declares His Words Are Twisted By the Attorney.

Washington, July 26.—How Governor Altgeld pardoned Former Cashier Louis A. Hillyer of the Chicago Tribune, convicted of embezzlement, and the claim that knowledge of undervaluation of the Tribune's property for assessment purposes might have been a factor in the young man's fall, figured at the outset of the hearing before the senate Lorimer committee today.

Attorney Hanecy, for Lorimer, continued the cross-examination of James Keeley, general manager of the Tribune. He submitted in evidence the Hillyer pardon, in which the governor said the cashier's moral courage might have been weakened by seeing that the Tribune failed to pay, by about $25,000 a year, enough rent for school lands it occupied, and also that it undervalued its property so that it paid $32,000 a year too little in taxes.

Irritated the Witness.

Smiling one minute and irritated the next, Mr. Keeley countered on many of the pointed questions fired at him. The Tribune's printing of an item about the opening of "Lorimer's bank" at the end of the White confession story was taken up.

Mr. Hanecy purported to repeat what Mr. Keeley had testified to as to the way the Lorimer bank item happened to fit in the vacant newspaper space

BONAPARTE ACCUSED OF STIFLING ACTION AGAINST BIG TRUST

ACCUSED OF LETTING TRUST GO UNSCATHED

CHARLES BONAPARTE,
Former Attorney General of the United States.

Report Made to Him Is Given to Steel Trust Committee.

Shows Refunds Given to Harvester Combine By Steel Makers.

Stanley Says Those Two Organizations Are Practically One.

Washington, July 26.—That charges were made to Former Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte during his term of office, that the United States Steel corporation gave refunds of $3 a ton to the Harvester combine was revealed today to the house Steel trust investigating committee.

Representative Stanley, chairman of the committee, introduced into the proceedings a voluminous report on the Harvester trust made to Mr. Bonaparte in 1908 by Burdette E. Townsend, a special investigator of the department, now assistant district attorney of Oregon.

Attorney General Wickersham was subpoenaed to appear before the committee late today to identify the Townsend report and to testify concerning the International Harvester company.

Mr. Stanley announced that a subpoena had been issued for Mr. Bonaparte, who is now in Canada, and that an effort would be made to ascertain from him and from other government officials why there was never any prosecution of the International Harvester company upon Townsend's charges.

Seek to Show Connection.

Mr. Stanley also announted his intention of endeavoring to show a closo connection between the United States Steel corporation and the International Harvester company, and as a basis for future inquiry he had read into the record the names of the directors of

H. H. DUNN FOR EXTRA SESSION

Speaker of House Favors Immediate Action on Railroad Tax Law.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the belief of H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea, speaker of the house at the last session of the legislature, a special session should be called to pass a reapportionment bill, a 5 per cent gross earnings tax bill, a state-wide primary law, the Spooner waterways bill, the recall, including judges, and local option for cities of the fourth class.

"A sharp, quick session is needed," he said. "Progressive Republican measures should be enacted."

Mr. Dunn has been in the Twin Cities looking after some legal matters.

AMERICANS MAN HAITIEN GUNBOAT

President Simon Says the Revolution Is Nothing Serious.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 26.—The Haitien gunboat 17 Decembre left here today for Aux Cayes, a town on the South coast, carrying government troops under command of Antoine Simon, son of the president. The vessel is manned by an American crew. The troops will march on Jeremie, where the revolutionists are in control. The gunboat Vertieres also sailed today, but her destination was kept secret.

President Simon witnessed the departure of the vessels, and later, addressing the members of the diplomatic corps, said that the situation was not grave. He had decided to resist the movement against him, which he considered as brigandage and without importance.

The foreign diplomats have decided to await further developments before taking action.

REPEATED RIOTS STARTED BY PEDDLERS IN CHICAGO

Policeman Is Slashed With Banana Knife While Interfering.

One Man May Die as Result of Blow From Hatchet.

Chicago, July 26.—Violence was renewed today in the peddlers' strike. Wagons were overturned and vegetables destroyed in various parts of the city, the persons suffering being chiefly hucksters who had declined to quit attempting to make sales while the strike was going on.

The peddlers are seeking to compel the repeal of an ordinance that prohibits yelling and other excessive noise in the street.

The extra details of police guarding the West side fruit and vegetable markets were kept busy throughout the day quelling riots and dispursing gatherings of striking peddlers. The police responded to seven riot calls before noon.

Patrolman James Hayes was severely slashed with a banana knife when he went to the rescue of a peddler who was being beaten by a mob.

Boston, Mass., July 26.—As the result of an investigation of the United Shoe Machine company by Special Assistant Attorney General Gregg for the department of justice, Attorney General Wickersham today directed United States District Attorney Asa P. French and Mr. Gregg to present the evidence obtained to the federal grand jury at a special session called for Aug. 1.

Investigation of the company has been going on for four or five months, and it is alleged that the company is a monopoly under the anti-trust law and that it has infringed upon the patent laws of the United States.

FRANCE AND GERMANY ARE DEADLOCKED OVER MOROCCO

England Firm Against German Base on African Coast.

Will Send Fleet to Gibraltar Instead of to Norway.

Paris, July 26.—The foreign office, adhering to its pact with the German foreign office, refrains from all communications to the press regarding the Franco-German negotiations, but it is understood here that the situation is very unsatisfactory. The status of the negotiations might almost be described as a deadlock.

England Is Firm.

London, July 26.—That Germany will get compensation in South Africa as a result of her descent upon Agadir, and in return for the freer hand which France is seeking in Morocco, is conceded here, but it also clear that Great Britain is not going to permit the establishment of a German naval base on the west coast of Africa if she can prevent it.

Brooklands, Eng., July 26.—A. Beaumont (Lieut. de Conneau) won the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail for the circuit of Great Britain aviation race of 1,010 miles. The Frenchman reached the finish here at 2:07 o'clock this afternoon, making a splendid "volplane" from a height of 1,000 feet.

Beaumont and Vedrine left Bristol at 5 o'clock this morning on the final stage. Beaumont maintained the lead, his aggregate time now being 24 hours, 7 minutes and 27 seconds.

ONE KILLED IN ODD AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Light From One Car Blinds Driver of Second, Who Runs Into Third.

New York, July 26.—Charles Hirsh, a manufacturer of Brooklyn, was instantly killed and John Wotka, a chauffeur, was fatally injured in an unusual automobile accident early today on Pelham Parkway. Hirsh had crawled beneath his car to make repairs when a second automobile crashed into it, wrecking both machines and crushing Hirsh so badly that he died a few minutes later.

The chauffeur of the second automobile was blinded by the glare of a third automobile, and in swerving out struck the Hirsh machine.

The physicians say that Wotka is not expected to live. Three other occupants of Wotka's car were slightly hurt, including John Giles of South Norwalk, Conn., owner of the car. They were returning to Norwalk.

The cars were completely wrecked.

SAYS "PADDY" WAS MAN WHO OFFERED HIM $1,000

Hugh Steele Claims McDonnell Wanted Him to Pull Out.

"Paddy" Denies That He Constitutes a Duluth Paving Trust.

"'Paddy' McDonnell was the contractor who offered me $1,000 not to bid on the Fourth street paving job," said Hugh Steele at his office in the Manhattan building this morning.

Mr. Steele was asked the identity of the man who had offered him the money referred to in the sensational letter which he sent to the council Monday night in which he stated that had he accepted the $1,000 he would be in good standing with the city today.

"Have you any witnesses who can substantiate your statement to that effect?" he was next asked.

"There are never any witnesses to those transactions," he answered. "We were in the city hall and talking alone. No one else was within hearing of Mr. McDonnell and myself."

"Do you know of any other paving jobs which have been secured in this manner in this city by Mr. McDonnell or any other contractor?" was another question.

"I cannot say anything about that at this time," said Mr. Steele. "If the matter comes before the grand jury, as it has been stated it will, I will probably have an interesting story to relate at that time."

Did Not Default.

Mr. Steele declared that he has been greatly injured in the past by the claims which have been put forth that he has defaulted on the West Superior contract. He claimed that it has been advertised that he cannot get any contracts in this city and that the matter has come up on the outside, others taking the position that if he cannot get work in his home town, why should contracts in other places be awarded to him. He reiterated that the contract more than filled the specifications, and said that he would like to see some of the other paving jobs in the city investigated.

When "Paddy" McDonnell, the contractor named by Mr. Steele, was seen this morning, he did not take the matter seriously. He declared that he does not want to get into any controversy of the present nature, as there is nothing to it. "I am not a paving trust," he said. "I have been getting some of the larger contracts, but strictly upon merit. I have been the lowest bidder, and am in a position to do the work cheaper than many of the others. I've got the equipment and the outfit and can do the paving for less money."

Further than that Mr. McDonnell would not discuss the matter. He said that he was too busy to spend any length of time on it. He said: "I am leaving for Grand Forks this evening, where I have a big contract on. The state fair is on, and there will be a party of engineers from several Northwest towns to look at the work. The pavement is running right up to the fair grounds, and is within two blocks of there now. Among the engineers who will be there are the city engineers of Superior, Crookston and Fargo."

Mr. McDonnell didn't refrain from mentioning that "Donnellite" is being laid at Grand Forks. He says that it is a new combination, asphalt being used instead of tar, which gives it a handsome white finish.

Mayor Cullum stated this morning that he expects the council will make a thorough investigation of the charges made by Mr. Steele. He said that he wanted the entire matter completely aired in order that the slightest doubt might be removed from the minds of the public. It is probable that at the next meeting of the council a special committee will be appointed to take the matter in charge and make a full report on its findings to the council. If this does not cover the ground, other steps will be taken.

ROAD WORK MAPPED OUT

First Project Is Highway From Duluth to the Border.

Three Other Trunk Roads Planned at the Bemidji Conference.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

St. Vincent and Duluth road—Five or six gaps of three to six miles each to be built and whole road to be improved.

International Falls and Twin Cities road—One gap between Blackduck and Northome and gap of two miles between Bemidji and Itasca state park to be built.

Moorhead and Duluth road—Road practically built, but must be improved. Air line route would necessitate building through swamp land in Aitkin county.

Twin Cities and Duluth road—Already built and needs improvement.

The completion of a road between St. Vincent, in Kittson county on the international border, and Duluth, was the first work assumed by the good roads committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and the counties interested at a conference held at Bemidji last evening. The completion of the road is not such a task as would appear, for the counties will be called upon to build only a few gaps of a few miles each, and then to improve the road to such an extent as each county may wish, all to be received from the state under the Elwell bill.

The three other roads tentatively laid out by the committee at its first meeting will be taken up for consideration later. A meeting will be held at Hinckley to confer on the improvement of the road between the Twin Cities and Duluth, and another meeting will be held at Brainerd to confer on the Moorhead to Duluth road. The road from International Falls to Bemidji can be made complete by Koochiching and Beltrami counties. Once the road from International Falls to the Itasca state park is completed, the remainder of the way is clear.

About twenty counties were represented at last evening's conference and the representatives of each promised action at the suggestion of the road committee. The members of the state highway commission were unable to be present, but it is understood that they are favorable to the action being taken by the development association. C. M. King, the chairman of the good roads committee, will go to St. Paul this week to confer with the members of the commission on the action that will be necessary to carry out the work on the St. Vincent and Duluth road, laid out at last evening's meeting.

Elwell Present.

Senator James T. Elwell of Minneapol's, author of the good roads act which became a law at the last session of the legislature, attended the meeting and explained his act. He pointed out that under the present constitutional limit of taxation for a road fund, the counties of the state may spend $6,000,000 immediately for good roads, taking advantage of the provision of the law which allows them to anticipate the state aid for ten years. He was told of the work being done in Winona, where the first advantage was taken of the new bill.

Mr. Elwell urged immediate action in the building of roads. He said he was glad to see the counties of Northern Minnesota uniting in road building and urged that the co-operation should be extended. He urged co-operation in the letting of contracts, so that contracts would be let for big improvements so that better work might be secured at lower prices. He said the day of the five mile road contracts scattered over 250 and 300 miles of road is gone and that road building must be done on a bigger scale to be effective.

The present condition of the St. Vincent to Duluth road was outlined and it was found that there was no conflict as to the route. A good road has already been built between St. Vincent and Crookston. Another road exists from East Grand Forks to Red Lake Falls. From Red Lake Falls to Erskine there is a road which requires the building of a gap of five or six miles for completion.

The road through Polk and Clearwater counties is now built and in fair condition, following the line of the Great Northern railroad. Through Bemidji and down to the reservation, the road needs only improvement. For twenty-four miles through the reservation, a road has been slashed and the railroad is required to maintain it as a fire line. Between the government and the railroad, it is expected that the road will be completed, improved and maintained.

A bridge is needed across Pike Bay at Cass Lake and over the Mississippi river at Ball Club, but both points are on the reservation and the aid of the government in building the bridges will be requested. Itasca county has a road from the reservation through Grand Rapids to Waweena. From Waweena to Island there is a gap, which would have to be built. There is a road from Island to Floodwood. From Floodwood to Duluth by present roads is about seventy-five miles. A direct route could be obtained by the building of a road over a gap of about six miles to connect with the Miller trunk road. The Miller trunk road leads directly into Duluth.

Highway to Winnipeg.

The proposed road, completed and improved, would provide an automobile highway from Duluth to Winnipeg, for co-operation could be obtained whereby the Canadian government would take care of the road from St. Vincent to the Manitoba metropolis.

The road from International Falls to Bemidji is complete except for a gap between Blackduck and Northome. Between Bemidji and the Itasca state park, about two miles of road would have to be built, and about two miles more improved. Once in the Itasca state park, the traveler would have a clear route to the Twin Cities.

From Moorhead to Duluth, a route could be laid out following the Northern Pacific road through Wadena and Brainerd, that now has few gaps. The road runs forty miles south of the air line, however, and is objectionable on account of length. Another road, branching off of the first at Detroit, runs to Backus and then to Pine Knoll in Aitkin county. A gap exists from that point to another connection and Aitkin people say that the land is of such a character that a good road could not be built. The same is true of the building of a road on an air line across Aitkin county. There is so much swamp land, Aitkin people say, that the road could not be built. Future investigation will determine that point.

Many of the roads already built are in such condition that great improvement would be required before they would be in condition for extensive travel. Under the Elwell act, the state highway commission has the power to specify minimum specifications before state aid may be obtained. That would prevent the building of poor roads. Also under the Elwell act, the state ditch law provisions hold, and counties having great areas of state lands are relieved of a burden that heretofore existed in that they may assess state lands for road improvements.

Under the Elwell act, $6,000,000 may be spent by the counties of the state immediately. About $300,000 is raised by the state for a road fund yearly and that sum may be anticipated for ten years by the counties, if they match the amount obtained from the state, one-half of the equivalent amount to be paid by the county and one-half by assessment on lands or by subscription.

The law provides that no county may obtain more than 3 per cent of the amount available for state aid. Each county must have put aside for it, one-half of 1 per cent. It is figured that the first time twenty-four counties apply for the limit allowed them by the law will exhaust the fund, and it was urged at the meeting last evening, that those twenty-four counties should be in Northern Minnesota, where the greatest need for roads exist.

MARINE

NEW TUG FOR LOCAL PORT

"Patrol," Government Boat, Will Cost in the Neighborhood of $10,000.

New Steamer Will Be Fast Enough to Catch Law-Breakers.

Approval of the plans and specifications for a new patrol tug for the Duluth-Superior harbor was received this morning by the United States corps of engineers from the department at Washington, and advertisements for bids to be received on Aug. 28, will be published within a few days.

The new tug is to be known as the Patrol, and will be a one-screw gasoline wooden boat, 60 feet, 9 inches in length, with a waterline length of 55 feet, 10 inches, the extreme beam to be 12 feet, and a draft of 4 feet. The best quality of material will be used, the principal wood being white oak, yellow pine and quartered oak. The estimated cost will be $10,000, which sum has been set aside for this work.

The need of such a tug has been long felt, and records of former reports by the officers in charge of the local engineering corps, shows that a recommendation was made by Maj. Lansing H. Beach, and Capt. Charles L. Potter, in 1904.

At present the engineers have the tug Tangent, which has been in active service since she was rebuilt in 1895. She was first secured for this port in the early 80's. Now the Tangent, which is 42 feet long, is in a very dilapitated condition, entirely unfit for service, with no accommodations for the crew, and no sleeping quarters. She offers no facilities whatsoever, not even sufficient to warm up a lunch, to say nothing of doing any cooking.

Being an old boat she is very slow and cannot get up enough speed to catch offenders. Often boats go on a "joy-ride" in the local harbor, endangering other crafts and it is the duty of the officer in charge, Harbor Master H. C. Bellinger to stop them, and report the matter to John H. Darling, principal engineer to Maj. Francis R. Shunk.

After considering the matter, the local officers brought it to the attention of the Washington authorities last fall, and it was deemed best to secure a new boat, as the old one would have to be rebuilt throughout, and the cost would be almost as high and the service obtained would not be as good.

Last winter Mr. Bellinger went East to look at some of the boats offered, which covered the descriptions of the kind wanted, but they were not satisfactory, and so when he returned, plans were made for the "Patrol." These were made by J. Murray Waitts, a naval architect of Philadelphia, under the directions of Maj. Shunk, Mr. Darling and Mr. Bellinger.

It will be one of the finest tugs on the lakes, when finished, having a large main saloon, finished in quartered oak, an officer's cabin, and rooms for the crew, a dark room for photographic work, and a complete electric light outfit, including storage battery, switchboard, rheostat, searchlight with a 50 c. p. Tungsten lamp, running lights and incandescent lamps.

The tug is to be finished and ready for testing on May 1, 1912, when she will be put into service here if found satisfactory according to specifications and plans.

HAD ROUGH VOYAGE UP

Minnesota Passed Through the Fierce Gale of Monday Night.

When the Minnesota of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company arrived in the local port yesterday from Chicago, she landed 300 passengers who had experienced practically all the seafaring they cared for, for a while at least. This vessel was unfortunate enough to be caught in the big storm that swept the lakes Monday night and Tuesday morning, the severity of which was sufficient to take the big boat considerably out of her course.

The high winds and the big waves tossed the boat, and the crew had difficulty in keeping her to the regular course. The passengers were given a rolling such as they had never before experienced, and nearly everybody aboard suffered a severe attack of seasickness. Many donned life-preservers and began to pray, although the boat was never in real danger, and rode out the gale in a manner that delighted the officers.

Last evening on schedule time, 8:30, the Minnesota left for Chicago, carrying a full load of passengers. In the freight line she was unusually well filled up. Her big refrigerator, which was put into service on the trip coming up, was pretty well filled, carrying forty tons of butter from a local firm. Of this, one carload will go to New York, while the remainder, which will amount to about two carloads, will be sent to a Chicago firm.

Among the passengers was Mrs. B. M. Goldberg of this city.

The Lakeland of the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company arrived in the harbor this morning, twenty-four hours late. Her delay was caused by the big storm on the lakes, and she was tied up through it all at the Soo. She carried 175 passengers.

BARGE TOSSED BY THE STORM

Aurora Breaks Tow Link and Narrowly Misses Being Wrecked.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—With her rudder gone and her crew completely fagged out, the barge Aurora of Detroit, Captain Pelting, was towed to the government pier early this morning for repairs.

The barge was loaded with coal for Duluth and received a terrible beating forty miles off Whitefish point near where the Montezuma broke away from the Pappalannock Monday. The Aurora was being towed by the Steamer C. L. Hutchinson, herself heavily laden. Near Whitefish point the Aurora broke her rudder chain. With loss of control the Hutchinson's tow line parted with a snap leaving the Aurora helpless.

The barge was drifting in shore and her anchors were cast while the Hutchinson lay to. Captain Palmier declared that the parting of the line occurred about 2 o'clock and the Aurora crew took their beating for twenty-four hours before the Hutchinson was again able to take the barge in tow. The Aurora with all her beating remaining perfectly seaworthy and the repairs she needs can be made here.

APOSTOLIC BENEDICTION TO AMERICAN CATHOLICS.

Baltimore, Md., July 26. — Cardinal Gibbons has made public a letter he received from Pope Pius relative to the celebrations of his two-fold jubilees, the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood and the twenty-fifth of his elevation to the cardinalate.

The pope congratulates the Baltimore prelate heartily, and extends to him, to the members of the Catholic church in this country, and to all who took part in the jubilee celebrations, the apostolic benediction. He recites that the cardinal is held in as high esteem in the Vatican as in his own country, and adds that "no one has greater reason than the Catholic religion to deeply rejoice at these festivities."

ALBENBERG'S

GIRL HAD COURAGE TO FACE TRYING SITUATION

Chief Troyer today paid a high compliment to Miss Isabelle McLean, the daughter of Hector McLean of 530 Twelfth avenue east, who yesterday afternoon not only recovered $3 which she had lost, but caused the arrest and conviction of the man who would have stolen it.

The chief stated that she is entitled to a great deal of credit for the courage which she displayed in dealing with a hard situation.

While walking along the street yesterday afternoon she dropped $3 in bills, a $2 and a $1 bill, which were rolled into a small wad. Returning to look for the money when she missed it, she saw a man stoop and pick it up. Walking up to him, she demanded the money.

"I haven't got your money," said the man, who was rough in appearance and conversation. "You can search me if you don't want to believe me."

Taking him at his word the young lady went through some of his pockets, but couldn't find the money, which was later explained by the fact that he had it hidden in his coat sleeve. When he started to walk away she took hold of his coat and repeated her demand for her money, declaring that she knew he had it.

Noticing the disturbance, Col. Resche, ex-captain of the police department and at present probation officer, went over to the couple. He heard the young lady's statement and walked the man to the police station, where he gave his name as John Stonberg. On the way he dropped the bills to the sidewalk from his sleeve. Neither the girl or Col. Resche noticed it, as they made no sound. But John Mangin saw him drop them and followed to the police station, where he turned over the $3.

When taken into police court Stonberg pleaded guilty and got $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. He went over the hill. The police say Stonberg is an habitue of the Bowery, making a rather precarious living washing windows and doing other odd jobs.

MOTOR BOAT POUNDING TO BITS ON THE COAST.

Halifax, July 26—The motor boat Romalix, which started from Bridgeport, Conn., Saturday to cross the ocean to Queenstown, is ashore at Chebogue Point, eight miles from Yarmouth. She struck shortly before midnight Monday and is lying in an exposed position with every prospect of becoming a total loss. The crew got off and saved some of their effects.

Capt. N. H. Small, the navigator, says the stranding of the craft was due to strong southerly winds and to the heavy fog, which made it impossible to take an observation for thirty-six hours before the accident.

BOSTON EDITOR HURT BY FALL INTO RAVINE.

Chapinville, Conn., July 26.—W. H. Whitman, editor of the Boston American, lies in a critical condition here at the summer home of John Shepard, Jr. of Providence, as the result of a fall down a steep ravine Sunday. Mr. Whitman was leaning over to gather moss when he fell to the bottom of the ravine. Yesterday he became very ill and it is feared that he has suffered internal injuries

NEW HAUNTS FOR HUNTERS

Canadian Northern Line Will Pass Through Great District for Sportsmen.

Country Has Never Been Accessible Previous to Building of Road.

With the completion of the new line of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad from Virginia to West Duluth within the next few months, there will be opened to Duluth sportsmen, an almost new field for hunting and fishing.

Local followers of Isaac Walton have watched with interest the selection of the right-of-way and say that the new railroad will run through a country which abounds in small lakes and streams, which have been fished but little heretofore on account of the difficulty in reaching them.

Among the best fishing streams on the line, north, out of West Duluth, are Sargent's creek, at Milepost 9; Midway river, at Milepost 13; Hay creek at Milepost 15; Pine creek, between Mileposts 23 and 24; the Cloquet river, at Milepost 30; the White Face river, between Mileposts 46 and 47; the north branch of the Pale Face river, between Mileposts 52 and 53; and the St. Louis river at Milepost 63.

Between Virginia and West Duluth, there are more than thirty small lakes and most of them are within sight of the right-of-way. The others are easily accessible as accommodations will be provided so that trains will stop to let off or take on passengers every few miles.

In the hunting season, it is expected that many Duluth sportsmen will take advantage of the accommodations which will be provided. The new line will be completed some time this fall.

MEET AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Brothers Hold Reunion in Duluth After a Long Separation.

After a lapse of thirty years, John and Joel Brunquist, brothers, met yesterday for the first time since they were children and lived in the old country.

John is a laborer and lives at 1713 North Sixty-third avenue west, West Duluth. Joel resides in New York city. Joel is spending a few days visiting his brother.

The meeting was a surprise for John, and when his brother introduced himself yesterday at the Brunquist home, he had some little difficulty in making John believe that he was really his brother.

DESERTED BABY CARRIAGE IS FOUND BY POLICEMAN.

Who lost a baby-carriage? This is what the police are wondering today.

Last night, Officer Cranston found an infant vehicle on his beat on Raleigh street but was unsuccessful in locating its owner. The carriage was found in front of Al Westerland's confectionery store at Sixty-second avenue west and Raleigh street, near the end of the car line.

WEST DULUTH MAN IS ILL AT INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

L. Beemer of 424 North Fifty-fourth avenue west is seriously ill at the Northwestern hospital at International Falls, Minn., according to word which has been received in West Duluth. His wife, Mrs. Beemer, and daughter, Mrs. C. A. Bronson are with him.

The affair will be held at Fairmount park. The women of the church will take their dinners with them and will spend the day in the park.

BIG CROWD ON HERALD TRIP

Excursions to Two Harbors Proving Popular With Duluthians.

One of the largest excursion crowds of the present season went down the lake this afternoon to Two Harbors on the steamer Easton of the Booth line. The excursion was the regular weekly trip down the lake given under the auspices of The Herald. The Herald excursion each week is the only week day trip down the lake.

Because the price is moderate and the trip delightful, many Duluthians are entertaining their out of town visitors in this way. The trips provide a fine outing for the entire family and the cost is entirely within everybody's reach.

Monday a boat load of people went to Fond du Lac on the steamer Columbia. This excursion was also under the auspices of The Herald. It has been found that many times when the weather is bad in the city, the sun is shining and picnic weather is enjoyed at Fond du Lac. The crowd Monday found the day delightful. The passengers on these trips have access to Chamber's grove. It is one of the most popular picnic grounds in or around the city. Besides all strangers are anxious to see the old trading post which was in existence before the city was here.

Another excursion will be given to Fond du Lac Monday of next week, and Thursday the excursion down the lake will be repeated.

Classy Polo Coats.

Fall styles now on sale at Friedman's Cloak and Suit House, 7 West Superior street.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

DULUTH CREWS AT SARATOGA

Local Oarsmen Were First to Reach Scene of National Regatta.

Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth stalwarts, the first of the crews entered for the National regatta to arrive, have reached their quarters here and have been the subject of interested inspection by the rowing enthusiasts.

Husky and looking in the best possible condition, the Duluth men under the charge of Coach James E. Ten Eyck look hard as nails and in the best possible shape to make a very strong bid for the intermediate eight event, in which the strong crews of the different rowing associations of the East will have crews entered.

Ten Eyck had his men out for a row this morning, and close followers picked the Duluth men as a crew that will bear watching in the eight race.

It is doubtful at the present time as to whether Duluth will enter a four. The four has been out, and according to the coach, it will depend how the men go in the boat as to whether they will be entered in the intermediate four event.

From the present prospects, the regatta promises to be one of the best ever enjoyed by the clubs entered under the head of the National Rowing association.

PROVISIONS OF NEW BOXING BILL.

The commission is to report annually to the legislature.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Preparations for Jappyland, the beautiful opera will be over this evening with full dress rehearsal, which is to be held at the Orpheum theater commencing at 7:30 o'clock. Wonderful numbers have been gotten ready by soloists and choruses and the effect of the entire play tomorrow evening when Jappyland will be presented for the first time at the Orpheum theater will be a big surprise to everyone who goes, for a more finished or professional troupe could hardly be found than this company of Duluth young people who will sing and dance for the benefit of the little tots at the Children's home.

The home has always been one of Duluth's pet institutions and the most generous response has always been met with in everything done for it.

The advance sale for the two performances of this play is extraordinarily heavy, nearly every thing in the house being gone for the first night and a great part for the second performance. The boxes for the first night have all been taken and a large number of parties have been planned. The young people who are in the play and the members of the board of directors have been most generous too with their time, giving up many personal pleasures that the affair might be a success.

Not for many years has so tuneful and exquisite an opera been played in Duluth and the brilliant color effects, the romantic atmosphere of the Orient, the gorgeous costuming of Japan and China and the elaborate up-to-date gowns of the American girls, embellished with multi-colored lights, electrical fountains and other brilliant scenic investiture will combine to produce one of the most gorgeous spectacles ever presented on a local stage.

Society is all agog over the affair and tomorrow night is eagerly anticipated.

Reception Given in Honor of Pastor.

The Trinity Norwegian congregation met at the church last evening to welcome their new minister, Rev. O. J. Flagstad, who was recently installed as pastor of that church. Mr. John Hall, in behalf of the congregation, presented Rev. Flagstad with a substantial purse. A musical and literary program was rendered after which refreshments were served. Rev. Flagstad spoke at length of the relations of pastor and congregation and the importance and place of the congregation, both in the individual and public life.

THE EVENING STORY

A Forgotten Spoon

By Grace MacGowan Cooke.

I think I must have been dozing. Anyhow, I was utterly bewildered when I heard the baby ushering Karl into the room beyond.

He had spent the morning out at Running Brook farm. When he came past to bid me good by, and rushed on down to the depot to catch a train to the the West, I saw from his face that he had once more failed with Florence. I didn't ask him; I couldn't bear to hear the dismal story all over again. Florence had refused him twice, but Karl was perennial.

I'm fond of Karl, he's a nice boy. But when he came tearing through the library and back into the room where I lay, demanding that I should rise immediately and fly with him to Running Brook farm, I was just a trifle indignant.

"Why, you were out there this morning," I remonstrated.

"I know it," he returned, as he dragged at everything on the hat rack, seeking suitable headgear for me, "but my train is three hours late, and I've got something I must say to Dorothy. Oh, do come on, just as you are! You look charming, I assure you. I've got a buggy right here at the side door, and a good horse. Please come!" And he presented me with a bright red Tam O'Shanter.

I laughed a little hysterically as I pulled down my crumpled dressing sack and smoothed my tousled hair.

It was a hot August afternoon, and I'd been simply floundering about on the couch for an hour. My costume looked it. I rejected the flaming Tam with dignity, and selected a huge garden hat as offering some concealment to my discrepancies.

I pulled back when I saw that wretched buggy. It had no top, and was so lacking in space as to come under the flippant description of a "hug me tight." Karl had selected it strictly for speed.

"I can't go in that thing, Karl," I wailed. "I shall be disgraced I'm a sight, I—" Karl was bundling me in.

"You see," he explained, as he started at a breakneck speed down the street, "it's those infernal girls." Karl was driving sketchily. I think I may say it was purely impressionistic. "girls?" I asked meekly. Sometimes all four wheels were in the air, and sometimes only two.

"Are you taking me to see the girls?" I asked meekly.

"Why, yes, in a sort of way," he returned. "You know how they act. I couldn't get a minute alone with Florence. If I asked her to walk to the brook, they all went, and if I wanted to go back and sit on the porch—why, they all got tired and wanted to go and sit down, too. I want you to head them off, and give me just five minutes with Florence. I've got something to say to her now that I think will make a difference."

It was a fine afternoon in spite of the heat, and all the really nice people, the people who have a way of saying horrid little stinging things about their dearest friends, were out driving on the road to the farm. We had been meeting some of them and passing others for quite a while. I am sure I did not need the scarlet Tam. My own countenance supplied deficiencies of that sort.

Arrived at the farm, I engaged those four unsuspecting girls—and even they patronized me because of my perfunctory costume—in fierce and unremitting conversation, while Karl fairly galloped off with Florence. He ought to have been succeeding, for I had to send Mary to call them four times.

If I had hoped to go home in any more seemly fashion than I traveled out to the farm, I should have been disappointed, for I was near not getting there at all. Karl's face was set and gray, poor boy, as he strode past me "hug me tight," entirely oblivious of me until reminded by my rather infantile supplication that he would "take me, please."

He had done it again. The something special he had rushed out there to say was of no avail; but he had that train to take, and we drove back in gloomy silence, and at that same furious pace.

As we raced into town, Karl drew out his watch. "I'm awfully sorry, Mrs. Driver," he said, "but I haven't an instant of time to take you home. If you'll go on now to the station with me, why, I can send you back from there, you know."

I scarcely felt delighted, but I nodded acquiescently. When we got to the station, we drove in below, where all the trains come, and Karl sprang out, flung the lines to me, and crying, "Leave the horse at Winthrop's, Mrs. Driver," prepared to depart.

I clutched his coat sleeve frantically. "Karl," I remonstrated, "I can't drive up the street in an open buggy dressed as I am, and leave this horse at a livery stable."

"I'm dreadfully sorry," he answered. "Couldn't you telephone, and they'll send a man down for you?"

Some nice people whom I'd always suspected of not liking me very well came down the steps about this time. I observed that they exchanged glances as they saw me clutching Karl's sleeve, and begging him not to leave me.

"I haven't a cent to pay for phoning," I called wildly as he pulled away without another word. The group was augmented by three more people, for whose opinion I really cared.

Karl, halting, dived into his pocket and handed me a dime. I was conscious, as I slunk up the stairs, that they thought he had bought me off and bought me cheap. When I took down the receiver I found there was someone already on the line. It was Florence's voice that I heard calling excitedly: "Central, oh, central, give me the depot, I don't know the number!"

"What do you want, Florence?" I asked irritably.

"Oh, is that you, May?" she panted. "Is Karl there? Tell him to come to the 'phone, please."

"Yes—no—I don't know," I answered, incoherently. "His train's just pulling out, I think. This is the depot."

"Oh, Cousin May," begged Florence, "do run quick, fly, catch him, tell him I'm sorry, tell him I say yes!"

I dropped the receiver, turned, and fled down the stairway. Karl's train was beginning to move. He stood dejectedly on the rear platform, his valise beside him. "Wait!" I cried. "Stop him, hold on!"

If the report did not get abroad that I had been unable to part from the partner of my shameless careerings and had recalled him at the last moment—if it did not—I say, I don't know why it didn't; for I was quite close to the platform, and able to speak lower, when I panted: "Florence's sorry, and she says yes!"

Karl flung off his valise and launched himself after it. He paid very little heed as to whether either missle floored me. "Where is she?" he asked, his eager eyes searching everywhere for Florence.

"Oh, she isn't here." I replied. "She telephoned."

"Then we'll just get right into the buggy and drive out there again," he announced joyously. Suddenly his disapproving eye fell upon my garden hat. Karl is a fastidious fellow in the matter of clothes. He took in at some length my crumpled dressing sack, my mussed and shabby linen skirt, and my house slippers.

"Well," he concluded warily, "perhaps you'd better go up on the car;" and he doled me out another dime. I said that I would. I was too bruised in spirit and soiled in body to turn upon him. I was a veritable worm, and I crawled weakly up the steps. I observed sullenly, as he waved me goodbye, that he kept a wary outlook for respectable spectators of his beaming farewells to my unrespectable self.

Meeting more and nicer people, I climbed into the waiting car and set my grimed and desolate face towards home and a justly indignant husband.

From Campbell's luscious fare."

DOUBLE DECKER MAY BE BUILT

This Would Solve Problem of Bridge Over Miller's Creek.

For the purpose of getting a clear idea of the need of a double-deck bridge at Fourteenth street and Piedmont avenue over Miller's creek, County Commissioner Joseph W. Cummings, Aldermen Charles Hoar and William Bernard of the Seventh ward and members of the board of public works and the park board this afternoon made a trip of inspection to the proposed site of the new structure.

If the present plans are adopted, a double-deck structure will be put up. The lower deck will connect the street with the country road, while the upper one will connect with the boulevard drive. The cost will be about $22,000. The board of public works has already advertised for bids for the building of a culvert at this point. The bridge will be constructed over the culvert.

The old bridge is in a dilapidated condition, having been built about twenty-four years ago. The boulevard drive is above the street elevation and it will either have to be graded down to the level of the street or a bridge will have to span the ravine. It is believed that the park board will contribute something towards building the bridge, as it will be a part of the boulevard system.

The party which inspected the bridge also made a trip over the new Hutchinson road, which was built under the supervision of Commissioner Cummings last year. The road is a cut-off of the Hermantown highway and also connects with other trunk roads, giving the farmers an easy grade into the city.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The weather man has come out of his grouch and is smiling on Duluth. Duluth smiles back and readily forgives the manipulator of the levers for his slips of the past few days. This is real July weather, bright, cool and wholly delightful. Fair and warmer weather is on the cards for tonight and tomorrow.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:40 and it will set at 7:49 this evening, giving fifteen hours and nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Western Canada disturbance has increased somewhat in intensity during the last twenty-four hours, the principal result being warmer weather over the whole Northwest. High temperatures occurred Tuesday in Montana, Eastern Washington, Idaho, Southern Alberta, Nevada and Arizona. Light rains fell over British Columbia, Northern Alberta, Southern Colorado, Eastern Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Eastern South Carolina and Florida during either Wednesday or last night. Cooler weather attends the high pressure conditions central off the North Pacific coast. The easterly movement of the Alberta low barometric condition will cause warm weather throughout the Northwest today and tonight and the weather at the Head of the Lakes may become rather unsettled during Thursday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 26.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Iowa and Wisconsin—Fair, warmer tonight and Thursday.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight, warmer in extreme east portion; Thursday increasing cloudiness.

Minnesota—Fair, warmer tonight; Thursday fair.

North Dakota—Showers late tonight or on Thursday; warmer tonight in east portion; cooler Thursday in west portion.

South Dakota—Fair, warmer tonight; Thursday showers.

Montana—Showers tonight or Thursday; somewhat cooler Thursday in east portion.

Upper Lakes—Moderate southwest and south winds; fair tonight and Thursday except unsettled Thursday on Superior.

WIRE TRUST MEN FINED

Accept Sentences Without Trial---Must Pay $1,000 to $1,700.

Prosecutor's Vigorous Protest Is Overruled By the Court.

New York, July 26.—The federal government scored heavily yesterday in its effort to break up the alleged "wire trust" when thirty-seven of the eighty-three men indicted on June 29 withdrew their pleas of not guilty and accepted sentence, without trial on plea of nolle contendere. Judge Archdean, in the United States district court, imposed fines of from $1,000 to $1,700 and costs in each case.

The action came in the face of vigorous arguments by United States District Attorney Wise against the acceptance of the plea. Suit pleas had never been accepted in this court, he declared, and he protested against a precedent.

"The best authorities" he said, "characterize it as a plot indicating a compromise between the defendants and prosecuting attorneys" and he denied that any such compromise existed.

Facts Are Flagrant.

"The facts in the case are flagrant," he continued. "This set of men, representing practically an entire industry, in open and perfectly clear violation of a United States statute, combined to restrain and control trade. The case against them is so clear and open that the most eminent counsel in this country has advised them it would be fruitless to attempt to enter a defense."

"A Trade Offense."

The court, however, accepted the pleas and remarked: "This is what you might call a trade offense. It is an offense which by the act of congress is against the interest of the business world. It seems to me I am not going out of the way when I say that just what was meant by this law has remained in considerable uncertainty up to this time. We now know exactly what it means, and from this time on there will be no excuse, but I feel justified in looking on what has occurred in the past in this light, and therefore I certainly regard this as calling for nothing except a proper vindication of the law by a fine."

Assessed Fine and Costs.

Sentence to pay the costs and a fine of $1,000 in each case was then pronounced, with the provision that where a defendant had been fined in one case, the fine should be $100 for each additional case.

It is alleged that the eighty-three indicted members of these associations entered into an unlawful combination and conspiracy to restrain trade, and that continuously from June 1, 1908, to some later date, they "were knowingly and wilfully engaged in this combination, the purpose of which was to fix arbitrarily a non-competitive price both for the production and sale of manufactured goods."

HARMONY RULES IN DEMOCRATIC CAMP.

Fremont, Neb., July 26.—The Nebraska Democratic convention, which had been expected to place Nebraska Democrats on record so far as concerned their preference for a presidential candidate a year hence, failed to express itself on candidates or offer commendations for its own leaders.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "A Man and His Wife."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

One of the most thrilling moments of the summer season of stock playing at the Lyceum theater is furnished this week in the third act of "A Man and His Wife" when at the close of the bank panic scene the stock ticker announces that sugar holds firm at forty and then jumps to forty-three. The villain is on hand ready to gloat over his triumph which he is sure will come as he strikes at two-six. The hero is equally sure he will be saved and when his secretary reads from the ticker that sugar is holding firm and with the first announcement of a rise every audience this week has most spontaneously and heartily expressed its approval.

"A Man and His Wife" is a story of New York society and financial life and is a thrilling play which has proved most popular with the Forbes company patrons. The first matinee of the week was given this afternoon before a large audience, and the advance sale for all of the concluding performances has been large.

"A Man and His Wife" will be repeated this evening at the Lyceum and will be seen in Superior tomorrow night. The play will return to Duluth for the remainder of the week with the usual Saturday and Sunday matinees.

The "Dictator" Willie Collier's great success will be presented next week.

One of the funniest of all comedies, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which comes to the Lyceum theater on Thursday, July 27 for the night only has been successfully presented by May Robson in every large city in the United States, and duplicating the success at Terry's theater, London, England, where Miss Robson extended the time of her engagement from three weeks to nearly three months. Her immediate recognition by a proverbly critical audience of London, was one of the best compliments of her talents and capability as an actress. The press was unanimous in praise of "Aunt Mary," the unsophisticated spinster, and her blending of the humorous and pathetic without nparent effort, was commented upon in flattering terms. The shrill untrained voice and awkard gesture of the provincial, becomes softened and musical when she speaks of her tenderness for her nephew, Jack. The very naturalness of her acting, carries conviction that Miss Robson is an exceptionally clever woman and the only one on the stage today presenting the somewhat difficult role of an eccentric old maid.

Few people who behold the marvelous work of the Seven Colonials at the Empress this week realize that they are witnessing a performance by one of the best known troupes of acrobats in the world. The Seven Colonials are really the famous Seven Montrose troupe whose name is known all over the world. Edmund Montrose, the owner and founder of the act, has been in the show business for forty-one years and during his career has made three complete trips around the globe. Mr. Montrose has two sons in the act, one who is twenty-three years of age, and the other twenty-one. These boys have been in the show business since childhood. The other members of the troupe have been with Mr. Montrose all the way from six up to twenty-one years, which accounts for the almost absolute certainty with which these men perform their feats. The home of the Seven Colonials was originally in Vienna, Austria, and when they started their first tour of the world, they traveled by boat to Sydney, Australia, being on the water for seven weeks. They arrived in Sydney on Friday and opened the following Monday, working for six consecutive months without losing a performance. After their engagement in Australia, they left by steamer for San Francisco, arriving there after a three weeks' voyage and starting to work the day after their arrival. They then toured the entire continent, closing their tour with a twelve weeks' engagement at the New York Hippodrome. The Seven Colonials have also played with the Ringling show for two seasons and immediately after the close of their engagement with Sullivan & Considine, they will return to New York for another twelve weeks' engagement at the Hippodrome. Although originally natives of Austria, all the members of this troupe have become naturalized and are now full-fledged citizens of the United States.

CROPS ARE BETTER IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Thomas Cooper, a professor in the state university and who is in charge of the state demonstration farms, has just completed an inspection of the demonstration farms at the poor farm and Meadowlands. From his observations, he states that the crops this year are better in Northern Minnesota than they are in the southern part. He has become enthusiastic over this section of the state and believes that before long this part will be the equal of the southern section in agriculture. He claims that some of the best oats ever raised in Minnesota are to be seen at the poor farm and at Meadowlands, while all the other crops are in excellent condition. The potato crops of the northern part are fine and will command big prices, he states.

In regard to the state demonstration farm proposed near Duluth, he says a decision will probably be made by the board of regents at their meeting in August.

SAYS IOWAN WAS OFFERED $5,000 BRIBE.

Chicago, July 26.—"I have personal knowledge of a congressman from Iowa who refused to accept a $5,000 bribe," said Dr. Amos W. Patten of Northwestern university in addressing the Methodist-Episcopal camp meeting at Des Plaines, Ill., yesterday. "The money was placed before him in a bundle with a promise of more if he would vote for a certain bill. He refused to accept it and ordered the bribe-giver to leave his office. I will not divulge the name of the congressman."

DULUTH HOTELS IN GOOD CONDITION

State Hotel Inspector Crozier Finds Them Complying With the Laws.

About thirty of Duluth's hotels were inspected yesterday for the second time by State Hotel Inspector Alex W. Crozier of St. Paul, and according to his statement he found everything in excellent condition.

Of the hotels visted by Mr. Crozier, only two or three were of the first class, and they were declared to be fulfilling the requirements of the law to the letter. In many respects the city ordinance covering hotels is far better than that of the state, and it is largely to the rigid enforcement of the ordinance by the city officials that Mr. Crozier found nothing to complain of during this inspection.

BIG PARTY WILL GO TO CAMP

Y. M. C. A. Outing at Deerwood Will Begin on July 31.

On July 31 about sixty boys of the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., will leave for Seprent lake, Deerwood, Minn., where they will go into camp until Aug. 14.

The party will be in charge of Norman D. McLeod and J. R. Batchelor. The boys are looking forward with enthusiasm to the date of going into camp.

Last year there were about fifty boys in the party and this year it is expected that the number will be greater. Camp Miller is very popular with Duluth boys. Those who have not camped at Serpent lake are anxious to have the trip and those who have camped with Y. M. C. A. parties are keen to go again.

The spot is said to be ideal as a camping ground. Under the watchful eyes of the instructors, the boys indulge in water sports. Canoeing and swimming are always popular. There is a baseball ground and many exciting games are pulled off each year.

Among the boys of Duluth, Camp Miller is the one best bet when it comes to summer fun. This year the camp will be larger than ever, and July 31 can come none too soon to please those who have been looking forward to the trip.

CASE IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The case brought against E. L. Raab by James W. Osborne, the executor in the estate of Mrs. Manette Raab, for the recovery of certain property owned by Mrs. Raab has been dropped. The action was being tried in district court before Judge H. A. Dancer. It was settled out of court. Mr. Raab is allowed to keep the property which he held, providing he does not lay claim to any other part of the estate. This he agreed to.

Claiming that Mr. Raab at the time of his wife's death took possession of a certificate of deposit for $1,066.50, two diamond rings and $25 in cash, Mr. Osborne brought suit for them. He claimed the right to their possession as he was executor in the estate.

In all, the property held by Mr. Raab was valued at $3,000. The defendant claimed that prior to the death of his wife, she gave him the money and rings.

MINOT NORMAL SITE IS BEING CONSIDERED.

Minot, N. D., July 26.—Governor John Burke of North Dakota and President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern railroad, are taking a hand in the contest over the selection of the site for the new Minot normal school.

Governor Burke made a personal protest at the meeting of the state board at the site selected on the south hill. He says that after inspecting the site he is strongly of the belief that a valley site should be chosen.

President Louis W. Hill telegraphed the Minot city commissioners that he is opposed to the hill site and that he would rather have the school located on the Soo road in the valley than on the hill.

Gossip Picked Up Among Tourists and Globe Trotters Who Stop Off at Duluth.

JUDGE R. H. DAY of Massilon, Ohio, is a guest of the Spalding today, coming up on the Octorara. He is up merely on a pleasure trip, and outside of the heavy wind that struck the boat in the vicinity of Marquette, the trip to Duluth was an ideal one.

"Down in Ohio the Democrats are grooming Harmon pretty strong for the Democratic presidential nomination," said the judge. "I am a Republican and naturally am a Taft man, but I can say that Harmon has made a good governor, and also as a member of the bar I can say that he is a very strong attorney.

"I believe the Democrats of Ohio will make a very strong effort to have Harmon nominated, and also the nomination of the Ohio governor would please a large number of the people down there, irrespective of party affiliations. Harmon is a man close to the people."

Judge Day will return by the way of the lakes, his present trip being only a short one.

FRANK JEKKE, a lumber manufacturer of Detroit, Mich., is a guest of the Spalding. Today he stated that Detroit was employing over 100,000 people in the automobile business. He also stated that there were garages in every part of the city, and that today Detroit stands as the greatest automobile city in the country.

"There was somewhat of a slump in the automobile business last season," said Mr. Jekke. "This season the business is as good as ever. They are making thousands of machines in Detroit and the population of the city has been very largely increased through the automobile manufacturing industry.

"Practically every grade of car is having a good year in Detroit the present season. There is a boom on in the automobile business and this has reflected increased properity in Detroit."

EDWIN H. LEE, manager of the Spalding hotel has returned from the meeting of the state hotel men held at St. Paul, at which Duluth was successful in landing the next annual convention of the state bonifaces.

During the meeting Mr. Lee got up and made a speech in which he told the hotel men some things about Duluth that opened their eyes. The speech of the local hotel man was so good that it secured the next convention for the Zenith City.

Minneapolis was after the next meeting with all the enthusiasm that Minneapolis is capable of exerting in going after a public meeting. However, Messrs. Lee, Ribenack and Michaud were on the job and did some effective lobbying. Then the eloquent speech of Mr. Lee did the work.

"This is the first of a series of conventions that the hotel men are going after," said Mr. Lee. "I told the hotel men of the state that Duluth could offer more to summer visitors than any other city in the state, and that the hotels of Duluth were amply able to accommodate any crowd of visitors.

"Many people do not know what we have to offer them up here in this part of the country. By getting the hotel men's convention Duluth is going to get a lot of advertisement, for there are no more enthusiastic boosters and advertisers than the hotel men.

"Once we show them what we have and treat them as Duluth is in the habit of treating all convention crowds, they will go away from here saying Duluth is the best and most hospitable city in the state and the best place to go to have a good time.

"In conjunction with the Commercial club the hotel men of Duluth are going after other conventions. We have been successful in landing the first one we went after, and this has encouraged us to go after others."

Messrs. Michaud and Ribenack state that Mr. Lee developed unexpected eloquence and that his boosting of Duluth made the big hit of the meeting. He was called upon to make two other talks during the convention.

LEWIS SPRINGS SERIOUS CHARGE

Says Brother of Federal Lawyer Is Grafting Through Postoffice.

Washington, July 26.—The sensational charge was made before the house committee investigating the postoffice department today that Leonard Goodwin, a Chicago lawyer and brother of Russell P. Goodwin, assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, was exploiting mail order houses throughout the country, selling them he could arrange any trouble they might have through a denial of mail privileges, etc.

The charge was made by E. G. Lewis, president of a publishing company in St. Louis, recently denied the second-class mail privileges. Lewis also declared that postoffice inspectors at St. Louis were told to use whatever methods they pleased "to put Lewis out of business" and "to shut Lewis up before the next campaign."

This was the campaign of 1908.

BESSEMER GETS NOTED BIRDMAN

James J. Ward Expected to Fly at Firemen's Tournament.

Ironwood, Mich., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the features of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's tournament that begins at Bessemer tomorrow will be the aeroplane flights of James J. Ward, one of the crack airmen of the Curtiss squad.

This results from the urgent request of the executive committee that this world-famous birdman be selected to conduct the flights at Bessemer on Thursday and Friday.

Thursday is to be Ironwood day at the tournament, an invitation being sent to the people of Ironwood by Mayor Pinkerton of Bessemer.

Not once this year has Mr. Ward allowed wind or unfavorable weather to interfere with his making a successful flight, and it seems a certainty that the first aeroplane flight in this vicinity, on Ironwood day at Bessemer, will be successful.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Metta Babcock Sibley, wife of Former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, died at her home at Franklin, Pa., July 26, after an illness of a year. Mrs. Sibley was 58 years old and was married in 1871. Her husband and two daughters survive her.

Walter V. Fifield, a widely well known attorney and business man, is dead at his home, 5019 Lake Harriet boulevard, Minneapolis, after a prolonged illness which prevented him from active participation in the work of the concerns with which he was connected.

Mr. Fifield was born in Dubuque, Iowa, Feb. 25, 1856. He attended Grinnell college, and later was admitted to the bar. His first practice was in Geneva, Neb., where he continued until 1890, when he went to Minneapolis, helped form the firm of Fifield, Fletcher and Fifield and with James C. Fifield and Henry J. Fletcher was manager of the Attorneys' National Clearing House company. He was also a member of the board of directors of the Tobasco Plantation company.

Mr. Fifield was associated with many charitable organizations and a subscriber to many charitable funds. His widow, two sons, Albert and Walter Fifield of Minneapolis, and a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Fulmer of Sioux Falls, S. D., survive him.

Mrs. Sue Landon Vaughn, credited with having first expressed the idea of a general Memorial day, is dead at the Washington home of the Eastern star, a Masonic order on which she was dependent. She was a decendant of John Adams, the second president of the United States. On April 26, 1865, she led some Southern women in strewing with flowers the Confederate graves in Vicksburg, and the date and custom were perpetuated in the South. Three years later, May 30, was adopted throughout the North as Memorial day.

Mrs. Vaughn was of distinguished ancestry and was the wife of Judge J. H. Vaughn of San Francisco. The earthquake there destroyed the family property, and his subsequent death left Mrs. Vaughn without resources. Her body was cared for in Washington by the Masonic order.

A. M. Rice, aged, 97, the only survivor of the Seminole war, is dead at Flint Springs, Tenn., of old age and general debility.

RAILROAD NEWS

SHIP COAL TO CANADA

Duluth Will Supply Canadian Northwest If Duty Is Removed.

Strike in Fernie Mining District Causes Coal Shortage There.

A report from Ottawa, Ont., to the effect that the duty on coal may be taken off, as a result of a petition made by Alberta men who went there to review the situation in the Fernie mining district, with members of the Dominion parliament, is attracting considerable attention in Duluth, as the shipments of coal which will be made to Western Canada, will have to be made from Duluth.

The duty on coal now is 53 cents per ton. Many companies which have coal docks at Port Arthur and Fort William have already filled these docks to their capacity and have paid the duty on it. The claim is now made that if the duty on coal is removed, the Canadian government will have to rebate the duty to the companies, or if this is not done, other companies can sell coal in Canada at 53 cents per ton cheaper.

It is stated that the operators and miners of the Crow's Nest mines, who went on strike some time ago, have not been successful in reaching an agreement after a thirty-six-hour conference, and that the mines will be closed for an indefinite period. With these mines closed the coal situation in Western Canada looks serious, and people of that territory are anxious to have the fuel shipped to them. This caused their petition to parliament for the removal of the duty.

The trouble has resulted in a demand for coal of which there is now a shortage. Local men, some of whose companies have docks or agencies at the Canadian Head of the Lakes, claim that the shipments cannot be made from Port Arthur or Fort William, and that the will necessarily have to be made from Duluth. The haul from this city to Winnipeg and to the western part of Canada is about the same as it is from Port Arthur, but there is a differential of 50 cents in favor of the Canadian city.

The coal situation is still tied up somewhat here. Practically no orders are coming in from the West, although the dealers say there has been a little improvement in the last ten days. The docks are not yet filled, although they will not hold very much more.

The reasons assigned for the small shipments westward of coal is that the dealers in the West are short of money, and they will not be in position to stock up until after the harvest begins. The first consignments of grain from the harvest fields are expected in this city about Aug. 20. With the beginning of the shipment of grain, the cars, which are now being rounded up in the harvest fields, will be sent back loaded with coal.

Railroad men state that there will be no shortage of cars this year if the weather conditions are good, and if the men in the West do not start ordering coal for immediate delivery when the cars are being gathered in the West.

HOTEL THE FIRST STEP

General Passenger Agent Outlines Campaign for Summer Tourist Trade.

Big Crops in West—Twin City Line Ready This Fall.

"If a 1,000-room hotel at Mackinac Island can pay a dividend in the six weeks or so that it is open, why can't Duluth support a summer hotel?" asks W. R. Callaway, general passenger agent of the Soo line, who is in Duluth today.

"We stand ready to co-operate with the city in every way, in advertising this place as a summer resort," said Mr. Callaway. "We will get out a special pamphlet on Duluth, and circulate it together with a supplementary pamphlet prepared by the Commercial club, if that organization cares to enter into such an agreement. There are 286 summer resorts on the line of the Soo road, and Duluth is lost among all of them in the general pamphlets, but we will devote a special pamphlet to the good points of Duluth as a summer resort.

"We must get prompt action in it, for we begin circulating this literature in January and February, and it must be ready by then. There are 60,000 tourists who come up here every year on the boats, and most of them go back on the same boat. In our work we figure that every tourist spends $10 for the first twenty-four hours he stays in a city. There is some business worth going after.

Women Decide.

"The women are the ones who decide where summer trips will be taken to. Tell the women about Duluth. There is a great field in the South for summer tourist traffic. When those people come up here, they spend from thirty to sixty days in your country, and Duluth should go after the summer tourists from south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"It is a fact that Duluth was better known as a summer resort in 1875 than it is at the present time, comparatively speaking at least. Tourists are going by you farther north into Muskoka and other districts that are harder to reach, and less attractive than this country could be made. It is time Duluth got after them, and a summer hotel is the first step.

"We are going to have big crops this year. North Dakota will raise from 70,000,000 to 72,000,000 bushels of wheat, and Canada will raise at least 200,000,000 bushels, with 200,000,000 bushels of small grains."

Mr. Callaway was asked regarding the new short line between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes, which is being made possible by the building of a cutoff from Luck. He stated that the last information he had from the construction department was to the effect that the line would be ready this fall, but he had not received word of the definite date of the opening.

TUNNEL NEARS COMPLETION

Canadian Northern "Tube" Will Be Cut Through Saturday.

Work on the tunnel of the Canadian Northern subsidiary road, the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, at Shortline Park, is rapidly progressing, and the contractor reports that the heading, or the opening at the top of the tunnel, will be made on Saturday. The bench, or the base of the tunnel, will be opened within three weeks, when everything will be in readiness for the laying of rails.

All along the line the work is being carried on speedily and the grading is being rushed. Many miles of rails have already been laid, and this will be completed before Nov. 1, when the first train will be run over the road.

Work has been started on the construction of the Oneota bridge, which will be raised seven and one-half feet, in order to allow sufficient height for the passage of trains under it, on the surface line which will extend from the main line on Forty-fifth avenue west to the merchandise and coal docks to be erected at Forty-ninth avenue west.

AFTER "BLIND-PIGGERS."

Possession of Government License Prima Facie Evidence of Guilt.

Working under a new law, which makes the possession of a government license prima facie evidence of the charge of selling liquor, Chief of Police McKinnon is about to inaugurate a crusade against the restauant and hotelkeepers of the city, who are alleged to be engaged in the illegal sale of liquor.

It is said that warrants will be issued within the next few days. The police have a full list of the dealers, who have government licenses and an attempt will be made to stop the "blind pigging" business.

CEREMONIES ATTEND THE START ON ELKS' NEW HOME.

Short services were held in connection with the breaking of ground yesterday on the site of the new Elks' home, which will be erected by the Superior Elks at Eleventh street and Ogden avenue by Contractor William Hill for $35,000. Past Exalted Ruler John Clark held the plow, while H. E. Hopkins drove the horses. A number of prominent Superior Elks were in attendance. The building will have a 50-foot frontage on Ogden avenue and will run back to the alley for a distance of 140 feet.

Three Licenses Refused.

The council last evening refused to grant three liquor licenses, for which applications had been made. The applications of the People's Brewing company of Duluth, Joe Backstrom and Tom Keating were refused reconsideration and thrown out. Four other applications were laid on the table for reconsideration.

Rebuilding Store.

Schmidt Bros., local contractors, were yesterday awarded the contract for the erection of an additional story on Roth Bros.' store. The entire interior of the store, which was damaged, a few weeks ago by fire, will be remodeled. The entrances will be changed and a sprinkling system installed. The work will cost about $60,000.

"The House Where Your Credit Is Good"

GROSS FRAUD ON INDIANS

Lands of the White Earth Chippewas Secured By Grafters.

Children Induced to Sign Away Valuable Rights for Pittance.

Washington, July 26.—Frauds practiced upon many of the Chippewa Indians of the White Earth reservation in Minnesota by whites who have secured their lands, were detailed before the house committee on interior department expenditures yesterday by Judge W. C. Burch of the department of justice in answer to charges of misuse of money in connection with government investigation of those matters. Numerous suits growing out of these frauds are pending in the federal courts in Minnesota.

Judge Burch declared that the most valuable pine land on the reservation had been allotted to the mixed bloods, who are legally competent to dispose of it. He said that "speculators and grafters" rushed in and took land conveyances indiscriminately from children and others legally incompetent.

"We have the stubs of the records here in Washington to show that the descriptions were changed from the poorest land to land containing valuable stands of timber," Judge Burch told the committee. "We brought them to Washington to show them to the committee."

Judge Burch told the committee that probably 100 more suits would be entered for the recovery of lands. He also declared that, notwithstanding the action of the department of justice in bringing civil and criminal suits, attempts have been made within the last year to obtain lands from the Indians in violation of law, and that he hoped to reach these people in due course.

Indian Girl as Exhibits.

With three minor Indian girls whose land on the White Earth reservation has been transferred to whites, as exhibits, testimony was heard by the committee. The girls were Kahdeen, aged 16, Bebeshank, aged 16, and Isabel Warren, aged 15. The Warren girl has been declared legally dead. Her estate has been administered by the probate court and her land transferred to white men. Others present at the hearing were Judge M. C. Burch, special attorney for the department of justice; J. H. Hinton, who prepared the so-called Hinton roll; John R. Howard, agent at White Earth; Commissioner R. M. Valentine of the Indian bureau; Mrs. Helen Price Gray, who appeared as a friend of the Indians; Rev. J. B. Gilfillan of Minnesota, and Miss Maggie Warren, interpreter.

Mixed Bloods Got Best Land.

Judge Burch opened the hearing by a recital of the history of the legislation for the disposal of the Chippewa lands in Minnesota, and the allotments of the White Earth reservation. "The first allotments were of eighty acres to each Indian," said Judge Burch. "In making the allotments the Indians were formed into two lines—one of mixed bloods, and the other of full-bloods. It is a singular fact that the mixed bloods got the lands on which the most valuable timber stood."

"Why were the mixed bloods given the most valuable timber lands?" asked Representative Hensley, of Missouri.

"There you raise the same question as in my mind," answered Mr. Burch. "I do not know. I would like to find out. If this hearing is continued long enough we hope to show by the stub books of the agency that allotments were switched. Indians were alloted poor land which they transferred in disgust and which, when the transfer deeds were completed, contained descriptions of valuable pine lands."

No Oath Administered.

Coming to the time of the passage of the Clapp act of 1906, Judge Burch declared that the speculators and grafters ran upon the reservations with conveyance papers, which the Indians were induced to sign. "Many of our suits are based on the fact that not an oath was administered in executing these papers," declared Judge Burch. "That and other things cast a cloud upon the titles and annuled the transfers."

"The United States owned all this land prior to the passage of the Clapp act, and it still owns the land alloted to the mixed blood minors and to the full bloods. The transfer of these lands cast a cloud on the title of the United States, and I was sent to make the investigations I have been making. Then a movement was started in Washington to appoint a commission to prepare a roll of the White Earth Indians. We know the purpose of that movement. It was to put a stop to our work. The movement failed, however, and under the authority of the interior department we began and completed the roll.

Purpose of Indian Roll.

"What's the purpose of having a commission to make a roll?" was asked Judge Burch.

"Merely to determine the right to alienate the land. That's what we are asking the courts to do in our suits. There's no reason on earth for the passage of the commission. The decision of the court will be the accomplishment of all the work a commission can do."

At this point Representative Burke questioned Judge Burch as to the purpose of his appearance before the committee.

"I am informed that charges have been made that the force under me has been expending public funds improperly," declared Judge Burch. "It is my way to meet a situation face to face, and that is the reason I am here."

The committee adjourned until Thursday.

"My people," said Miss Maggie Warren, "have been defrauded by white men who professed to be their friends. I have come to this city with others of my race to save the White Earth Indians from extinction, which must inevitably follow the tactics now pursued by land agents in this country." She claims that her sister and her two companions when mere children signed away valuable rights for a mere pittance.

the Far East all pass within striking distance of Agadir, Morocco, and generations of British statesmen have maintained that to allow a possibly hostile power to establish itself on the flank of these lines of communication would be a vital menace to this country.

Can Rectify Boundary.

There will be, however, no objection here to France giving compensation in the shape of a rectification of the Kamerun (German) and French Congo boundary, provided it does not include a change of ownership of the coast line, detrimental to this country.

The activity of the foreign office today was again marked, the indications pointing to the near approach of a stage where the crisis either will become acutely virulent or begin to dissolve. The composition of the group of ministers actively handling the situation shows that the British government is solid, while the fact that Sir Francis Bertie, the British ambassador to France, and Paul Cambon, the French ambassador to London, have been called into the conferences proves the continued solidarity of the Anglo-French entente.

King Alfonso in London.

King Alfonso, too, appeared on the scene today, having arrived at Portsmouth on the Spanish royal yacht Giralda, and immediately came into London, where he conferred with Sir Edward Grey.

King George is remaining in town, and messengers pass frequently between Buckingham palace and the foreign office.

Unless an arrangement is reported in the meantime, the Atlantic fleet, the projected visit of which to Norway was cancelled yesterday, will be sent back, probably to its base at Gibraltar, at the end of the week. The battleship squadron, under Rear Admiral Sir John R. Jellico, should have left Cromarty last night for Norwegian waters. Instead, it has been ordered to remain there until Friday and then proceed to Portsmouth.

It is also reported that the crews of several ships of the home fleet have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for emergency service.

Speech Caused Trouble.

Premier Asquith has promised a statement in parliament Thursday on the situation. According to advices from Berlin, negotiations between France and Germany were proceeding smoothly until Chancellor Lloyd-George's speech on July 21, which was interpreted as a warning to Germany in the present Moroccan controversy.

The German newspapers now declare that it is impossible for Germany to modify her demands in the face of the threat implied in that speech, because German public opinion would never tolerate concessions which had the appearance of being extorted under pressure. Much significance is attached to an article published by the Kolnische Zeitung declaring that it is not longer a colonial, but a European question.

Kaiser to Return Friday.

Berlin, July 26—Emperor William will return from his cruise in northern waters next Friday, and some light may then be thrown upon the mystery concerning Germany's future line of action in the Moroccan affair.

SENATORS TELL TAFT NO WOOL BILL WILL PASS THIS SESSION

amendment for wool revision, into conference with the aid of the Democrats, and out of the conference they hope to get a compromise measure.

"Both the La Follette bill and the House bill will be defeated in the senate," declared Senator Smoot as he left the White House. "The Insurgents in the senate cannot accept the house bill and the Democrats cannot accept La Follette's. We will adjourn Aug. 10 without touching the wool schedule."

Oratory Fountain Dry.

Although the house wool tariff revision bill has been before the senate as unfinished business and subject to debate since the reciprocity bill passed last Saturday, no senator had made a speech either in favor or against the measure up to the hour of meeting today. Senator Myers of Montana promised to speak on the bill today. Other senators during the day may attack or defend the measure, but tomorrow, by agreement made when the legislative program was adopted some weeks ago, the measure will be voted upon without further debate.

BONAPARTE ACCUSED OF STIFLING ACTION AGAINST BIG TRUST

both corporations, the same being identical in many instances.

Mr. Townsend's report was exhaustive, going into the entire history of the Harvester companies involved and the organization of the International in 1902, the transaction being directed and guided by J. Pierpont Morgan & Co.

The steel committee will call attention to the forming of the Steel trust the year before. A feature of the Townsend report which the steel inquirers lay stress upon is the following:

"The International Harvester company sells to the foreign trade cheaper than to the domestic trade. It sells machines of all kinds for export, delivered in New York, at the same price for which they are sold for domestic purposes f. o. b. Chicago. This makes a difference of from $6 to $10 per machine.

Refund By Steel Trust.

"I was surprised to learn, while investigating this subject, that the Steel trust refunds to harvester companies $3 per ton for all steel used in the manufacture of machinery exported, thus giving the same result as if the steel had been imported, the import duty paid, and afterward refunded under the drawback law, indicating that steel can be profitably produced in this country and sold at the foreign price. It justifies a small difference between the foreign and domestic prices, but it would amount to only a few cents for each machine, and in a way explains the difference indicated above."

Many Other Charges.

"I have learned," he said, "of many alleged dishonest acts of the International Harvester company, such as legislature bribing, etc., some based on apparently authentic information, some on rumor."

These matters he submitted to enable the attorney general to determine whether there had been violation of the anti-trust law.

"In my judgment," the report concluded, "the facts concerning the organization of the International Harvester company constitute a violation of the anti-trust law."

Mr. Townsend in his report particularly referred to the price paid to J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., in the harvester deal, declaring that "$5,000,000 is a very high price for the simple service of suggesting to people how they can agree in a legitimate transaction. It is not unusual," he said, "in illegal transactions, such as creating a trust which can evade the laws. Doubtless, if proceedings were instituted against the International Harvester company, the manner of its defense will demonstrate that the fee was earned."

Explains Some Purchases.

In explaining the purchase by the International of D. M. Osborne & Co. in 1903 for $4,000,000, Aultman-Miller & Co. for $700,000, in the same year; the Minnesota Harvester company for $700,000, and the Keystone company for $460,000, Investigator Townsend reported:

"The manner of these purchases, and the use made of the property, show the purpose of the International Harvester company. Each of the purchases was made secretly, in the name of some of its directors or stockholders, who held the stock in trust for it. The Osborne and Keystone companies were both operated for some time, ostensibly as independent and competing plants; the International Harvester company concealed its ownership. Why? Was it not because they were conscious that its disclosure would give added testimony of their trust character and trust methods?

Two Plants Dismantled.

"Again, Aultman-Miller & Co. and the Minneapolis company were both abandoned immediately after the purchase, and the plants dismantled. The purchase of these plants could have been for no other purpose than to destroy competition. One million four hundred thousand dollars was expended to acquire plants which it did not intend to use, but simply to destroy.

"Bear in mind that in all of these instances, all patent rights were acquired and are still retained by the International Harvester company."

Identified by Kenyon.

United States Senator Kenyon of Iowa, former assistant attorney-general, and Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, testified before the house "steel trust" investigating committee today. Mr. Kenyon identified the report by Burdette Townsend to the department of justice on Mr. Townsend's investigation of the International Harvester company.

Mr. Kenyon said he recalled that investigation, "but what is troubling me," he added, "is that I am not now connected with the department of justice, and whatever I may say might embarrass the government in what may be now going on."

Chairman Stanley said he had evidence tending to show "that the Harvester company and Steel corporation are practically one."

"This report," he added, "charges that the Steel corporation gave the harvester companies rebates of $3 a ton."

Always Favored Prosecutions.

Senator Kenyon, amid objections by Republican members of the committee, spoke up, saying:

"I wish to say that I always favored prosecutions in trust cases where evidence was conclusive. Where evidence was not conclusive, I favored further investigation."

Asked if he believed the Townsend report conclusive, Mr. Kenyon said he felt there should be some further investigation made.

Commissioner of Corporations Smith testified that he did not recall any instructions from the president to investigate the International Harvester company.

"The department of commerce and labor proceeded in response to a senate resolution by Senator Hanbrough or Senator Kittredge," he said.

Declines to Talk.

Chicago, July 26.—At the general offices of the International Harvester company in Chicago, it was said that Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the corporation, is in Europe. Harold F. McCormick, vice president of the company, declined to discuss the charges at this time.

Agreements in Force.

Washington, July 26.—That through oral agreements steel manufacturers now keep up prices and avoid "destructive competition" just as effectively as they did under the iron-clad contract of the American Steel Plate association in operation from 1900 to 1904, practically was admitted by A. F. Houston, president of the Lukens Iron & Steel company, before the committee.

The witness said that now, from time to time, one manufacturer will say to another, "My price will be so and so until further notice," but that there is no general agreement.

"There is a feeling among the companies, however," he said, "that nothing should be done to injure a fellow without giving him notice."

The Gary Dinners.

Mr. Houston insisted at first that prices were not discussed at the Gary dinners, but upon having parts of a record of speeches delivered at one of the dinners read to him, qualified the statement by saying that prices were discussed only in a general sort of way.

KEELEY'S PAPER IS ASSAILED BY HANECY IN LORIMER HEARING under the White confession about the election bribery.

"When you quote me, please read from the record," Mr. Keeley sharply returned. "You put words in my mouth that I did not say."

Mr. Hanecy said he was not pretending to quote the witness' words, but was calling attention to the incident.

Mr. Keeley insisted that the juxtaposition of the Lorimer bank item and the White story was accidental; that the former was picked from other newspaper "copy" in the "make up" room in order to "fit the hole in the page," and not because of the subject matter.

Activities of Reporters.

Mr. Hanecy asked about the sending out of detectives and reporters "to strengthen" the White story.

"We didn't send them out to strengthen the story, and I have not said so. It was to investigate it."

"Well," you put it any way that you want, 'strengthen,' 'corroborate' an' 'investigate' are synonymous in this case. Analyze, parse and diagram them, if you want to," said Mr. Hanecy.

Many Sharp Passages.

The session yesterday was replete with sharp passages between attorneys and the witness.

At adjournment Mr. Hanecy was directing Mr. Keeley's attention to the vouchers submitted to show how the Tribune had spent $20,000 investigating the White confession. The attorney called attention to the bills of F. O. Philipps and G. O. O'Dell, reporters on the Tribune, who spent several hundred dollars in visiting members of the legislature.

"Did you know that Mike Link had been in an insane asylum before he was elected to the legislature?" asked Mr. Hanecy when Mr. Lnik's name came up in this connection.

"I never heard it until you uttered it just now."

"Here are the bills of John Callahan O'Laughlin," began Mr. Hanecy next. "He is former assistant secretary of state, and I suppose a high-priced man, isn't he?"

"He is our representative in Washington, and for his high-priced work he gets a high price."

Throughout the day Mr. Hanecy had invariably repeated the "former assistant secretary of state" whenever he mentioned Mr. O'Laughlin's name. The first time Mr. Hanecy was saying "former assistant secretary of state of the late"—when Mr. Keeley helped him out by adding "lamented," while Mr. Hanecy finished his sentence with the word "administration."

On another occasion the witness forestalled the attorney repeating the title by adding after Mr. O'Laughlin's name "et cetera and et cetera."

Mr. Keeley gave the White confession as his authority for an editorial about "bribery in the legislature."

"And what has been discredited in every court in which White has appeared?" suggested Mr. Hanecy.

"There have been acquittals or nolle prossing of cases."

"The slate has been cleaned up except in the offices of the Chicago Tribune?"

"Probably."

"Is that the only unclean thing up there?"

"Well, I don't know. You have been up there."

REPEATED RIOTS STARTED BY PEDDLERS IN CHICAGO

He was compelled to fire a dozen shots in the air to intimidate the mob before he could reach the side of the man attacked. Later two of the striking peddlers were arrested.

Mobbed by Men and Women.

Adam Goldberg, a peddler, was perhaps fatally injured when he was attacked by a mob of 100 men and women and was struck with a hatchet on the head. Four policemen were slightly injured in quelling the disturbance. Twenty striking peddlers were arrested as a result of this outbreak.

At noon Chief of Police McSweeney held a conference with the police inspectors at which the strike situation was discussed. It was decided to send reinforcements to several West side police stations.

MUST CLEAN DITCHES

Before State Will Pay for Koochiching County Work.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26. — At a meeting of the state drainage board Elsey & Son, St. Paul contractors, were instructed to clean out again the state ditches they have completed in Koochiching county. The firm was represented by an attorney and it was stated that the muskeg conditions there make it almost impossible to clean the ditch out and keep it clean. Mr. Elsey says he has lost more than $17,000 on the job. When the ditch is cleaned out the drainage board will make an inspection trip and if everything is in order, approve the contract.

The state drainage board is contemplating a trip through the state inspecting the ditch work now under consideration.

FARMER KILLS SELF.

Pipestone, Minn., July 26.—Because he was to serve a sentence of ninety days in the county jail for drunkenness and assault, Willis Zuhrenhuse, 62 years old, a well known farmer residing a few miles from Pipestone, committed suicide. He was arrested several weeks ago and his sentence suspended to allow him to do his farm work. He went to the barn and set it afire. Zuhrenhuse's charred remains were found there. He leaves a widow and six children.

PROBE IT TO THE BOTTOM.

Of course there is but one thing to do about the paving matters regarding which sensational charges were made by a local contractor at Monday night's council meeting, and that is to go resolutely to the bottom of them, without regard to who may be hurt by an investigation.

Whether the investigation is conducted by the mayor, by the city council, by the grand jury or by all of them, in justice to everybody concerned, but above all to the good name of the city, it should be thorough, fearless and relentless.

The expressed intent of the mayor, Alderman Scott and others to sift this matter to the bottom will prove gratifying to the public. A prompt and vigorous carrying out of this intent will be more gratifying still.

A CANADIAN REFERENDUM.

They order legislative matters a little differently in Canada.

The "progressives" who wished to obstruct reciprocity matters in the American congress were allowed to do so until they were tired out or ashamed or afraid or something, and then a vote was taken.

In Canada, where the opponents of reciprocity are better named as "Conservatives," it turned out differently. When the Conservatives jockeyed to prevent a vote Premier Laurier notified them that unless they permitted a vote an appeal would be taken to the country. When the Conservatives persisted in their obstructive tactics, the premier said, in effect: "Very well, then, we'll see what the people of Canada think of your conduct." So he appealed to the country and an election will be held soon with reciprocity as practically the sole issue.

This is, essentially, a referendum, and it is patterned after the British practice. It cuts the Gordian knot of obstructive opposition, and it determines quickly and effectively the state of public sentiment.

If the Liberals, who favor reciprocity, are returned, the Canadian parliament will promptly ratify the reciprocity pact, and that'll be the end of it. That is the probable outcome.

On the other hand if the Conservatives should be put in control of parliament, Laurier would give up his place as prime minister to Borden, Conservative leader, and reciprocity would go by the board.

But people, nowadays, don't seem to be putting conservatives, under any party name, in command of the political situation.

A LITTLE UNFAIR.

At the recent dinner given the members of the St. Louis county delegation to the legislature, Representative Chester A. Congdon gave it as his opinion as a lawyer that unless action toward reapportionment is taken by the present legislature there can be no reapportionment until after the next state census; which means that there can be none until the legislative session of 1917 except by the present legislature at an extra session.

Slightly distorted, this is the way the Brainerd Dispatch put it: "Representative Congdon of Duluth, the champion of reapportionment in the last session, is of the opinion that there is no prospect for the passage of a reapportionment bill until 1917. That is a long time for the people of Northern Minnesota to wait for their rights."

Basing its comments on the Brainerd newspaper's interpretation of Mr. Congdon's statement, the Aitkin Republican says:

"Representative Congdon was chairman of the reapportionment committee, and this newspaper would not willingly detract from the credit due him in getting up a bill that would be fair to all sections of the state. But after making an unsuccessful attempt to pass the bill Mr. Congdon appears to have given over all thought of reapportionment. * * * The inference is that the St. Louis county delegation got all it wanted in the way of legislation and prevented the passage of what it considered vicious legislation and it was willing then to defer to the wishes of the well known interests opposed to reapportionment, and let that question take care of itself in the future.

"The Duluth Herald has been insistent in its campaign for an extra session of the legislature, but who would ever expect the governor to call the legislature together when such influential and prominent men as Mr. Congdon do not want it? The Herald should investigate the sincerity of purpose of the St. Louis county delegation in wishing reapportionment and other legislation affecting the people of Northern Minnesota outside of Duluth before asking the country to indorse its request of the governor for an extra session."

The inference drawn by the Aitkin Republican is not only unfair, but absolutely untrue, doubtless because it was based on an inaccurate rendering of what Mr. Congdon said about reapportionment.

Mr. Congdon stated emphatically that in his opinion unless the present legislature acts—at an extra session—the Constitution forbids any action on reapportionment until the session of 1917, which is six years away. During that time the present wretched injustice of legislative representation will be made more infamous still by the growth of Northern Minnesota.

Duluth and St. Louis county have been and are in absolute good faith in the matter of reapportionment, and this is the first time, to our knowledge, that that good faith has been questioned.

For the information of the Aitkin Republican The Herald will say—in strict confidence because it prefers not to give out the results of its canvass of the members of the legislature as to an extra session until it is quite completed—that every member of the St. Louis county delegation, including Mr. Congdon, has over his own signature approved the idea of holding an extra session of the legislature.

And when a lawyer as able as Mr. Congdon gives his opinion that unless action is taken on reapportionment by the present legislature there can be no reapportionment for six years, where is Governor Eberhart left with his promise of December, 1910, that unless the legislature at its regular session passed a reapportionment bill he would call it in extraordinary session?

A WORKINGMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

Discussing the failure of the legislature at its recent session to enact an employers' liability or workingmen's compensation act, the Hibbing Mesaba Ore figures it out that in all probability the reason for the failure is the large number of lawyers in the legislature, coupled with the fact that a large proportion of the earnings of the legal profession arise from personal injury cases.

There may be something to the theory, though we fancy not quite so much as many might suppose. At least a part of the lawyers in the legislature appeared to be wholeheartedly in favor of proper legislation along this line, and none was so brazen as to deny the need of it.

Says the Mesaba Ore: "The great bulk of the work of the courts of this county is made up of personal injury cases, at the cost of thousands of dollars annually to the taxpayers—the cost of the courts and the cost to the defending person or company all comes out of the taxpayer, and the lawyer reaps the harvest.

"With a just compensation law, the courts would be relieved of this class of business, the lawyers would not have the half or two-thirds cut-in, and the injured person would be treated justly and he would receive the full amount of the damages awarded."

True enough; yet we are not yet ready to accept, as the sole reason for the legislature's failure to act, the personal interest of lawyer-legislators in the perpetuation of the existing conditions, shameful and iniquitous as they are.

The legislature may perhaps be forgiven for failing to pass a workingmen's compensation act, because the subject is new and no satisfactory plan was before it. The report of the commission appointed two years before included a proposed law, but it was so unsatisfactory both to labor and capital that it did not receive serious consideration. Several other measures were proposed, but they were either so obviously one-sided that they could not be considered, or so hastily prepared that they were thought unsafe to enact as hastily.

If the legislature had given the subject the attention it deserved, doubtless it could have worked out a reasonable and practicable workingmen's compensation act; but the confusion of other issues was so great and the plans of those urging this class of legislation were so conflicting, that we are not disposed to be harsh with the legislature for its failure in this respect.

However, there can be no excuse whatever for the failure of the legislature to adopt humane and modern employers' liability legislation, especially as such legislation is in a large measure preliminary to and preparatory for a just workingmen's compensation act. The legislature did nothing along the line of abolishing the infamous doctrines, incrusted with injustice and hoary with age, that the employe assumes the risk of his occupation and that the employer can escape by throwing the blame for an injury upon the fellow servant of the victim, and of modifying the enormously abused rule of contributory negligence; and its failure in these respects should be condemned without mercy. Nothing but negligence, at the best, and corrupt interference by interested employers at the worst, can account for this omission.

The one bright spot was the adoption of the Lundeen law increasing the limit of damages for death by wrongful act from $5,000 to $7,500; though the legislature would have done better had it removed the limit altogether, as many states have done.

There is nothing more fundamentally important pending in this state than the twin problems of employers' liability and workingmen's compensation; and every possible effort should be made to see that the next legislature takes up these appeals for justice and rights a monstrous wrong by enacting proper legislation along both lines.

THE BIG TAXPAYING COUNTIES.

The Twin Cities are inclined to be jubilant and boastful over the fact that the counties containing the three large cities of the state paid more than half the state's collections of taxes during the current fiscal year, just ending.

This is one case where the Twins are glad to get in under the shelter of St. Louis county's wings.

For while it is true, as the Twin City newspapers state after a glance at the figures prepared in the office of State Treasurer Walter J. Smith, that the three large counties paid more than half the state taxes collected this year, it is also true—though they haven't mentioned it yet—that St. Louis county paid more than both Ramsey and Hennepin counties put together.

The total collections this year were $3,405,449.80, and of this amount St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey counties contributed $1,755,663.37, or more than half.

But of the state taxes paid by the three counties St. Louis county paid $883,429.58, Hennepin county $546,-140.04, and Ramsey county $326,093.75.

St. Louis county, therefore, paid more than Hennepin and Ramsey counties put together; which means that it paid $32,117.13 more than a quarter of the whole.

Nor is this all. Counting revenues from state lands, revenues from state iron mines, and the enormous gross earnings taxes paid by the railroads of St. Louis county, this county's contributions to the running expenses of the state reach a sum that casts all other counties into the shade.

And we are not kicking about it, either, or boasting unduly.

It is now in order for some wag to ask Lorimer how he likes the Keeley treatment.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ENTIRE SYSTEM SHOULD BE PROBED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The letter of Contractor Hugh Steele to the city council has opened a possible field of inquiry which should not be overlooked. Personally, while I do not believe that any material irregularities can be found in the contracting which has been done in this city, I cannot see where any harm can come from a thorough investigation. This should not be confined to the limits fixed by the letter of Mr. Steele. It should run back some years and be thoroughly checked up. No harm can possibly come from such an examination. The biggest and most reliable banks in the world are thoroughly checked up at regular intervals, and only good results. The same would be true of an examination of city contracts, involving in the aggregate, hundreds of thousands of dollars. If there is anything wrong the public should know it in order that a remedy may be applied. If nothing is wrong, the public should be informed, that credit may be given to those to whom it is due. The statements of Mr. Steele are not reassuring as to the conduct of at least part of our public business. It is high time that something be done when one contractor states that had he accepted $1,000 from another contractor not to bid on a job, he would be in good standing with the city today. Who is the contractor who is such a tremendous power that it is necessary to "stand in" with him in order to be in good standing with the city? We'd like to know. —TAXPAYER.

"Remember the Maine."

Emporia Gazette: When the nations are bound together by an ironclad agreement to submit all their differences to a court of arbitration, the greatest modern step in the progress of civilization will have been made. The president has been working patiently, intelligently, indefatigably, and no man ever was engaged in a better or nobler crusade. It is gratifying to realize that the developments at Havana will give additional force to all the arguments he uses; for those developments show how easily war may spring from a mistake, or from the passions of an over-excited people.

In the future the people will remember the Maine as having been the excuse for one of the most idiotic wars ever staged on the surface of the globe.

It will be the greatest day in the history of the world when all the warships are sent to the junk heap and all the armies are disbanded. The maintenance of armies and navies has long been the curse of Europe, and it will become the curse of this country in time, unless arbitration becomes effective. The United States is so rich that it can afford some extravagance, but every dollar spent for an army or navy calls for several more, and every man who enlists in either branch ceases to be a producer and becomes a parasite. That's the way the burden grows, until the producers of a country have to sweat blood and tears to support the crushing incubus. If you are in the habit of praying, it might be well to offer up an occasional petition that this country may be spared the curse that has made the poor man of Europe a brother to the ox.

The Traveling Man's Tale.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I had a strange experience with an intoxicated man in a telegraph office down state the other day," says a traveling man. "Was 'n a hurry to send a message myself, but this fellow was leaning against the receiver's window as if he was camped there for the night. He mustered a lot of fool stuff to the man behind the screen, but I couldn't hear what it was. Finally I got impatient and shoved the message over his shoulder. At the same time I saw the scrawl this souse was endeavoring to get on the wire. It was addressed to somebody in New Orleans.

"He fumbled in his pocket, produced 62 cents in small change and started away. 'Hold on,' the clerk said, 'this isn't enough. It will cost you $1.40 to send this to New Orleans.'

"'A right, ol' man,' waved the inebriate angrily, 'that's all I got with me right now. Just send it as far as you can f'r th' money!'"

Hohenlinden.

On Linden when the sun was low,
All bloodless lay the untrodden snow,
And cark as winter was the flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

But Linden saw another sight
When the drum beat, at dead of night,
Commanding fires of death to light
The darkness of her scenery.

By torch and trumpet fast arrayed
Each horseman drew his battle blade,
And furious every charger neighed,
To join the dreadful revelry.

Then shook the hills with tunder riven,
Then rushed the steed to battle driven,
And louder than the bolts of heaven
Far flashed the red artillery.

But redder yet that light shall glow
On Linden's hill of stained snow,
And bloodier yet the torrent flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

'Tis morn, but scarce yon level sun
Can pierce the war clouds, rolling dun,
Where furious Frank and fiery Hun
Shout in their sulphurous canopy.

The combat deepens. On, ye brave
Who rush to glory, or the grave!
Wave, Munich! all thy banners wave,
And charge with all thy chivalry!

Few, few shall part where many meet!
The snow shall be their winding sheet,
And every turf beneath their feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulcher.

Minnesota at Gettysburg.

A. W. Macy in Pittsburg Dispatch: At a critical juncture during the battle of Gettsburg, when the Confederates were pressing hard at a certain point, General Hancock rode up to a body of soldiers and inquired, "What regiment is this?" "The First Minnesota," was the response. "Charge that line," commanded Hancock. Not all the regiment was there, only eight companies, 262 men; while the foe against whom they were to hurl themselves were many times that number. But it was theirs not to make reply or reason why, and not for one moment did they think Hancock had blundered. Into that gate of death they plunged, while artillery and musketry raked them with shot and shell. Straight to the mark they went, and they accomplished what they were sent to do; they checked the enemy's advance and held the ground till reinforcements came up. But at the end of that awful fifteen minutes 50 of the 262 lay dead, 175 were wounded, and 37 held the line of battle."

Harold Knows the Signs.

Lippincott's: Five-year-old Harold's older sister was in the habit of making a good many demands on him. Generally her requests for favors, usually the running of errands around the house, were prefaced by what she considered subtle flattery.

"Now, Harold," she began one day, "you're a dear sweet little boy, and you know I love you——" but Harold cut her short.

"Well, Ethel," he said earnestly, "if it's upstairs, I won't go."

Oh, Well! That's a Mere Trifle.

Kansas City Journal: Dr. Wiley doubtless has his reasons for believing that the practice of smoking will be obsolete in fifteen years, but the fact that it is steadily increasing every year can't be one of them.

THE GOVERNOR'S FLIMSY REPLY.

Albert Lea Tribune (Rep.): The Twin City papers do not like the talk around the state about an extra session to increase the gross earnings tax on the railroads and have had little to say about it. However, the political writer on the Minneapolis Tribune took the matter up to the extent of a column or so the other day, and pronounces it impracticable, says it probably had its origin with Frank Day of Minnesota and Montana, and is designed to put Governor Eberhart in a hole.

Likewise the said political writer airily dismisses the reason for the extra session, the saving of a couple of millions in taxes to the state, by saying that this would be important if it were true, but he points out that there is a provision in the state constitution to the effect that any change in the gross earnings tax must be submitted to a vote of the people, so that this would mean a delay until the next election.

True enough, but even this would mean a saving of two years time in getting the amendment, which the writer well knew, so that this reference was simply for the purpose of throwing dust in the eyes of the people.

Then the writer brings up the old gag about the railroad rate cases being in the supreme court and nothing should be done to imperil the standing of that case in court. He then dismisses the matter as being of little consequence, referring to the fact that the court declared in the recent decision that the roads were entitled to earn 7 per cent upon their valuation, and that any increased tax would simply be paid by the people in increased rates placed by the roads.

However, the members of the state tax commission are in favor of increasing the gross earnings tax and do not seem to fear that its imposition upon the roads would result in an increased burden upon the people. Its members, who have been out through the state, report that there is much sentiment everywhere in favor of a special session of the legislature for the purpose of increasing the tax, and it is not probable the people care much whether the suggested tax for that increase was first made by a Republican or a Democrat.

The Knocker.

The other day a chap came in and sought my sympathy to win
By telling me how much he was abused on this old earth;
"There's Jones," said he, "who doesn't know enough to shovel
sand or snow,
And yet 10,000 bucks a year is what his job is worth.
And look at Green! He can't draw less than 7,000 seeds, I guess,
A common dub is all he is—he used to be a clerk;
Both drawing down the fancy pay while $20 comes my way
In Saturday installments, and I'm doing all the work!"

"I'm up against it right," said he, "they seem to have it in for me,
Brown got another raise last week;
he's drawing 50 now;
The boss has pushed him right along,
and when he does a thing that's wrong
Nobody says a word to him or ever makes a row.
It doesn't pay to work today, success
is not attained that way,
Men don't get paid for what they know or even what they do;
They merely toady to the boss, and smile on him when he is cross
And let him wipe his feet on them.
I'm telling what is true."

"If I were you," said I, "I'd quit, I'd never publicly admit
That I was taking money from a man I hated so;
If 20 bucks I got a week I'd never criticize or speak
Belittling words of other men who're
stacking up the dough.
If you have come expecting me to fill
you full of sympathy
You'll have to change your tune a bit and change it right away,
I have discovered year by year, the loudest knockers we have here
Are men who think they know it all yet draw the smallest pay."

On Bacon and Roast Pig.

Henry Van Dyke: "Days Off." What could have been better than our supper, cooked in the open air and eaten by firelight! True, we had no plates—they had been forgotten—but we never mourned for them. We made a shift to get along with the tops of some emptied tin cans and the cover of a kettle; and from these rude platters (quite as serviceable as the porcelain of Limoges or Sevres) we consumed our toast, and our boiled potatoes with butter, and our trout prudently brought from Horseshoe Lake, and, best of all, our bacon.

Do you remember what Charles Lamb says about roast pig? How he falls into an ecstacy of laudation, spelling the very name with small capitals, as if the lower case were two mean for such a delicacy, and breaking away from the cheap encomiums of the vulgar tongue to hail it in sonorous Latin as princeps obsoniorum! There is some truth in his compliments, no doubt; but they are wasteful, excessive, imprudent. For if all this praise is to be lavished on plain, fresh, immature roast pig, what adjectives shall we find to do justice to that riper, richer, more subtle and sustaining viand, broiled bacon?

On roast pig a man cannot work, often he cannot sleep if he has partaken of it immoderately. But bacon "brings to its sweetness no satiety." It strengthens the arm while it satisfies the palate. Crisp, juicy, savory; delicately salt as the breeze that blows from the sea; faintly pungent as the blue smoke of incense wafted from a clean woodfire; aromatic, appetizing, nourishing, a stimulant to the hunger which it appeases, 'tis the matured bloom and consummation of the mild little pig, spared by foresight for nobler fate than juvenile roasting, and brought by art and man's device to a perfection surpassing nature. All the problems of woodland cookery are best saved by the baconian method. And when we say of one escaping great disaster that he has "saved his bacon," we say that the physical basis and the quintessential comfort of his life are still untouched and secure.

The millionaires we don't defer to are the ones we never heard about.

Bucolic Bliss.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Munsey's Magazine: I have always felt profoundly skeptical, too, about the truth of the story that Sir Isaac Newton thought out the whole theory of gravitation under an apple tree, after an apple had fallen on his head. If he had sat still for any length of time under an apple tree, a thought-dome as large as his must have collected at least four caterpillars, three spiders, a beetle, and a couple of dozen flies, any one of which would have thrown the most powerful train of thought off its track.

Indeed, a cynic has declared that one reason why people are crowding into the city is that it is the only place where one can live the outdoor life with any comfort—in the roof gardens, on the pavements, and on the bleachers. Certain it is that nine times out of ten, when dwellers in the country want to enjoy themselves, they go indoors. In most parts of the United States, during the season in which the weather permits one to set out of doors with any comfort, life is rendered a burden by flies, gnats, and mosquitoes, unless behind the protection of screens. For both town and city dwellers, these winged pests are the most serious obstacle to living the outdoor life, and particularly to sleeping in the open air, or with windows wide open.

THE DEMAND FOR AN EXTRA SESSION.

Extra Session the Only Way.

Roseau Region: The people are long-suffering and move slowly. If it were not so, a tremendous storm of protest would already have been raised against the railroads of this state for their enormous and indefensible increase in freight rates and passenger fare. But the storm will break upon the railroad companies, for the people of Minnesota will not submit to highway robbery quiescently and the immense sums of money that will flow into the treasuries of these greedy companies as a result of their rapacity these months when they are free to extort an enormous tribute under the doubtful ruling of a friendly court, will be a poor recompense for the measure of justified wrath they persist in awakening. This state has dealt fairly with the railroads, our legislatures have been lenient with them and they have no reason for striking the people a stinging blow squarely in the face. They have chosen to adopt a pilfering policy and they are now in cold blood exacting the last penny within their power. They have invited conflict and, if we mistake not, the people are ready to go to battle with them and no matter how bitter the contest will be, the railroads will ultimately have to yield to the just demands of the people. To increase fares and rates 33 1-3 per cent in one stroke is unwarranted and a short-sighted exercise of temporary power. But shouting alone will not cause these corporations to let go their strangle hold on the people. Here, as elsewhere, action counts for more than talk, and the only way in which the railroads can be reached and dealt with squarely, is through an extra session of the legislature.

Why He Doesn't Hear.

Nashwauk Herald: Governor Eberhart has not heard the demand of the people through the state for an extra session because he is in the company of the moneyed magnates when he is at home catering to their wants, and the balance of his time is spent in other states.

No Answer Yet.

Wabasha Herald: What argument can be advanced, Mr. Governor, why an extra session of the legislature should not be called for the purpose of raising the gross earnings tax on railroads?

Why should the railroads be permitted to get their pound of flesh from the people in this state on the strength of Judge Sanborn's decision and before the rate case has been finally disposed of? If there is no present remedy for this arrogance, why should the railroads not be made to pay increased taxes during the time of their increased earnings?

Wouldn't it be well for the state to invest $100,000 in an extra session in order to get about $2,000,000, which, under the circumstances, should accrue to the state above what is now received in gross earnings tax from the railroads? Show your initiative and backbone, Mr. Governor.

He Can't See It.

Brainerd Dispatch: There is a sentiment throughout the state that an extra session of the legislature should be called to boost the gross earnings tax of the railroads from 4 to 6 per cent, and Governor Eberhart may be petitioned to that effect.

Decidedly Worth It.

Red Wing Free Press: The strongest argument advanced against a special session of the legislature is that the present membership is not of the kind to be entrusted with so important a proposition as the raising of the railroad gross earnings tax. There may be something in this. But it must be remembered that for every year that is allowed to pass without the gross earnings tax being increased the state loses about $1,000,000 legitimately due it. This is a matter worth taking some chances for.

Do It Now.

Park Rapids Enterprise: The right to raise the rate of taxation against the railroads by increasing the gross earnings tax was established after years of contest and litigation. But the right is established, and the legislature would do well to exercise its right on this proposition. The railroads of Minnesota have invited this course and the people of the state may well begin to get busy with the senators and members of the legislature on this issue.

Extra Session Demanded.

Milaca Times: The state tax commission finds that sentiment over the state is in favor of calling an extra session of the state legislature to raise the gross earnings tax of the railroads to 6 per cent. This view is also held by the commission and there is a possibility that the governor may be petitioned to call an extra session.

Niagara Falls.

The mad ecstatic down rush of the falls
Their pristine smell and everlasting noise,
Awake in me strange pre-historic joys,
And glad old memory that the soul enthralls,
I hear the voice of primitive heart-calls
For love that animates and rules and buoys,
Renewing strength and elemental poise,
That beats down barriers like cardboard walls.
I came to quaff oblivion—but instead
Their utter beauty conquered me. I grew
Gay, in that glory of prismatic hue,
I sang, forgetting that your love was dead—
Before their miracle I bowed my head,
And old despairs gave place to prospects new.

Washington Star: "I suppose you are going to make some addresses this summer."

"Yes," replied the statesman. "I'm going to tell my constituents exactly what they need."

"And what do they need?"

"Me."

Mr. Doty—I guess that explains why he's always late getting home to dinner.

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Youngwedd (boastingly)—I may not be much of a cook, but my husband has never yet twitted me about the better cake and pies his mother used to make.

Mrs. Keene—No, dear; his father used to run a bakery.

Washington Star: "What does your father do when you ask him questions?" asked one small boy.

"He generally says: 'I'm busy now; don't bother me,'" replied the other. "Then when I get out of the room he looks in the encyclopedia."

Judge: Wife—Dearie, I started today to economize on our household expenses.

Hubby—Good! How did you do it?

Wife—I went to all the bakeries for blocks around and then I bought a dozen doughnuts at the bakery that puts the smallest holes in them.

Red Hen: Johnny—Papa, would you be glad if I saved a dollar for you?

Papa—Certainly, my son.

Johnny—Well, I saved it for you, all right. You said if I brought a first-class report from my teacher this week you would give me a dollar, and I didn't bring it.

Chicago Tribune: Finally the story that Bacon murdered Sakespeare got around to George M. Cohan.

"'Tis false!" he shrieked. "I killed him myself!"

And perhaps he did—but the motion picture shows and high-class vaudeville helped.

WILL MEET FOUR DAYS

National Food and Dairy Executives Here August 21 to 24.

Many Interesting Articles to Be Read and Discussed.

Duluth will be host next month at one of the most important conventions of the year when the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments will hold its fifteenth annual convention here on Aug. 21 to 24.

The official program for this convention has just been completed and some of the best known men in this line of work will speak. From reports received by local men interested in the convention, it is expected that several hundred men from the different states of the Union will be present.

In the last issue of the American Food Journal, published in Chicago, a full page is devoted to the convention and the city of Duluth. In glowing terms Duluth is described, the situation of the city given prominent mention, with its high bluffs, and the picturesque boulevard winding about them, and the many opportunities for delightful times.

While the headquarters of the convention will be at the St. Louis hotel, arrangements having been made by the Minnesota state food commissioner, the Commercial club will entertain the many visitors, taking them on a drive about the boulevard, and on a trip up the river on the Uniteds States steamship Gopher, and out on the lake. Automobile drives about the city and vicinity will also be made.

Everything will be done to make this one of the best and most entertaining as well as the most beneficial convention ever held by this organization. The Commercial club, which is endeavoring to land every big convention it can possibly attract for this city, will do its utmost to care well for the men who will be here at this meeting, for with them well pleased it will mean a good boost for the Zenith City.

ONE OF THE THREE TWINS IS DROWNED.

Fort Madison, Iowa, July 26.—J. W. Connolly, aged 37, a well-known vaudeville artist playing at a local theater, was drowned in the Mississippi river here late yesterday in the presence of a number of his friends.

Mr. Connolly, who formerly was one of the "Three Twins" in the company of that name, was a member of a party of young folks who were picnicking on the banks of the river. While in swimming he was seized with cramps and drowned before his companions could reach his side. His body has been recovered.

MEANS AN UPHEAVAL

Decision in Spokane Rate Cases Has Far Reaching Effect.

Traffic Experts Awaiting Full Text of Decision With Interest.

Although they will not be able to tell just where Duluth stands until the full text of the commission's decision is received, Duluth jobbers, manufacturers and other business men interested in traffic matters are of the opinion that the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the Spokane and inter-mountain cases will require a readjustment of the entire rate structure west of the Mississippi river.

Duluth people interested will rather anxiously await the text of the commission's decision, as there is no doubt, judging from the newspaper reports of the decision, that Duluth shipping interests will be materially affected by the decision. Just what the effect will be cannot be determined until the decision is received and comparisons made between present rates and the rates which the decision makes effective.

The tentative decision of the commission was handed down June 7, 1910, but was not made effective at that time in order that the commission might make comparisons between the earnings of the railroads under the existing rates and the computed earnings on the basis of the rates put forward by the commission. The decision handed down Monday is to the effect that those rates are just and reasonable and must be made effective by new tariffs to be prepared and published by Oct. 15.

Under the long and short haul provision, which the commission announces will be rigidly applied, it is expected that some rates to points between Duluth and Spokane will be reduced. Of course other points will also share in the reductions, for rates from Duluth to some points east of Spokane, and also from some other points, are now higher than the new rates to Spokane will be. Just how far reaching those reductions will be and what the effect will be on Duluth remains to be seen and no traffic man will give an opinion until he has seen the decision of the commission and determined whether there are any modifications of or exceptions to the main determination of the commission.

It is certain that there will be a big upheaval in rates. The decision is one of the most important made in years and will have a direct effect on almost every community in the West. Other complaints along lines similar to those of Spokane and Reno are expected to come out as a result of the decision and there will be some interesting developments in the next few months.

TAFT INDORSED BY NEBRASKAN G. O. P.

La Follette Men Are Outgeneraled and Make No Fight.

Lincoln, Neb., July 26.—Nebraska Republicans in convention here gave President Taft and his administration a strong indorsement and effectively blocked all efforts of a small band of insurgents to arouse sentiment for Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin as a presidential candidate.

The insurgents lacked a leader and were outgenerated by Victor Rosewater and his delegation from Omaha. Before the insurgents could get a chance to introduce resolutions from the floor, the regulars had rushed through a motion providing that all resolutions should be referred to a committee which was given power to draw up a final report.

Chairman A. W. Jefferis of Omaha then named a committee of seven members, of which five were strong friends of Mr. Taft and of which Mr. Rosewater was made chairman. From this point the possibilities of the fight on the floor over the indorsement of Mr. Taft went glimmering.

No Show of Fight.

Despite their early announcement that they would not assent to a Taft indorsement under any circumstances, the insurgents failed to make even a show of fight or objection when the platform resolution was finally presented. The resolution went through with a whoop by a rising vote during which several of the insurgents were discovered on their feet.

An attempt to have the convention instruct the resolutions committee from indorsing any individual candidate met with summary treatment.

Automobilists Sore Throat.

Scientific physicians assert that automobilists sore throat is a new thing, caused by the dust along the roads. It is often mistaken for a cold, but is simply irritation, caused by the germs in the dust. Therefore, in riding, never fail to take along something to wash the dust from the throat, so it cannot irritate. There is nothing so valuable for this purpose as golden grain belt beers, germless, pure, healthful and tonic in their effect. Try a few bottles the next trip. They make friends everywhere. INCREASE IN STEEL EARNINGS

Corporation Issues Quarterly Statement and Declares Dividends.

New York, July 26.—The quarterly statement of the United States Steel corporation for the three months ending June 30 last, gives earnings for that period of $28,108,520 and net earnings of $21,839,840. These figures compare with $23,519,203, and $20,001,817 net for the previous quarter and $40,170,960 and $33,880,755 net for the corresponding quarter of 1910.

The statement as a whole is quite up to expectations and is favorably regarded by those who have followed the course of the industry during the current year.

The regular quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent on the preferred shares and 1¼ per cent on the common were declared.

OVER NIAGARA IN STEEL BARREL

Ontario Man Makes Perilous Trip Over Falls and Survives.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 26.—Bobby Leach, 49 years old, of Niagara Falls, Ont., went over the Horseshoe falls in a barrel yesterday afternoon and still lives. Though he was severely battered and bruised in the drop of 158 feet over the brink of the cataract, he sustained only superficial injuries, and last night was able to be about his house. This is the second time that the cataract has ever been successfully navigated. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor of this city made the trip in a barrel on Oct. 24, 1901, and came out alive.

Harrassed by the police on both shores of the river, Leach was forced to make his start from La Salle, two miles and a half above the cataract on the United States side. Two riversmen took him in a launch to Navy island, where everything was made shipshape and Leach was placed in the barrel, a steel affair eleven feet long, with ends of wood. Leach was hung in a canvas hammock.

The barrel with its passenger was cast adrift just off the mouth of Chippewa creek, hardly a mile above the brink of the Horseshoe, at 2:52 o'clock, and was quickly caught by the rush of the upper rapids. When 500 yards from the brink the barrel was caught in the tremendous current and raced to the chasm.

Broke One End.

Within 200 yards of the brink it struck hard against a rock and a large section of the wooden end was broken off. As the barrel reached the crest at 3:13 o'clock it swung straight and went plunging down the drop on its axis.

Hardly thirty seconds elapsed before it was seen, a red speck careening in the spume below the cataract. With the terrific outrush of the Horseshoe, caused by high water, the barrel went floating down, tossing and tumbling in its passage toward the upper steel arch bridge. Frank Bender of Chippewa swam out to it with a rope and caught the barrel by one of its handles. From that point the barrel was towed ashore.

Revived With Oxygen.

Leach was bleeding and appeared in a bad way, but once out of the barrel, he raised himself and waved to the crowds that lined the bank. He was badly exhausted and it was necessary to apply oxygen to revive him. He thought that his leg was broken, but examination showed that it was merely sprained.

"I minded the tumbling about the falls more than the big drop," said Leach. "Like to killed me the way I was tossed about before I hit the brink."

Carnation Milk

(EVAPORATED—STERILIZED)

Tastes Better

Perhaps you have tried some brand of evaporated milk and did not like the taste.

There is as much difference between the taste of different brands of evaporated milk as there is between different brands of candy.

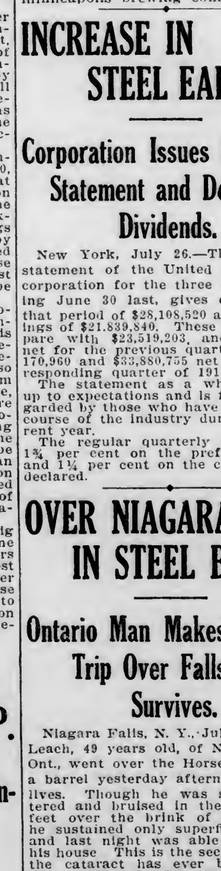

It all depends on the quality of the original ingredients.

The food a cow eats, the water a cow drinks and the comfort, convenience and healthfulness of the environment in which a cow lives—all decide the quality of that cow's milk.

Carnation Milk cows enjoy the best pasturage the land affords.

They drink pure sparkling waters—the kind that is sold by the bottle in large cities.

They live happy, contented lives, in the purest atmosphere, surrounded by comfort and cleanliness, by day and by night.

These conditions produce pure milk—Carnation. We take most of the water from it by evaporation. There's nothing in it but purity—no foreign taste, or odor or sediment. Don't lose all the convenience and comfort which attend the use of evaporated milk just because you have tried one brand and found it unsatisfactory.

FARMING TO BE BOOSTED

Eveleth Commercial Club Will Advertise Farming in That Section.

Committee Is Named to Select Site for New Militia Armory.

Eveleth, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farming possibilities of this section are to be properly advertised as a result of action taken last night by the Commercial club.

Various methods of advertising Eveleth and placing the agricultural possibilities of this section before the public were thoroughly discussed, and the new secretary, A Ffremmer was requested to furnish specimens of envelopes with cuts showing farms and produce of this vicinity. A method of reaching the farmers was discussed and the plan most favored was that of organizing an auto party of twenty-five business men to spend two or three days in the agricultural regions, getting acquainted with the farmers and settlers and setting forth the advantages of trading here. A market place was also considered and many favored the park plot on Monroe street and Douglas avenue, which is to be improved by the mining companies. The land is one block from Grant avenue, the main thoroughfare and at the regular Commercial club meeting, Aug. 3, final details for the market place will be completed. Prizes for the best produce brought to town and exhibited in the most attractive manner will be given.

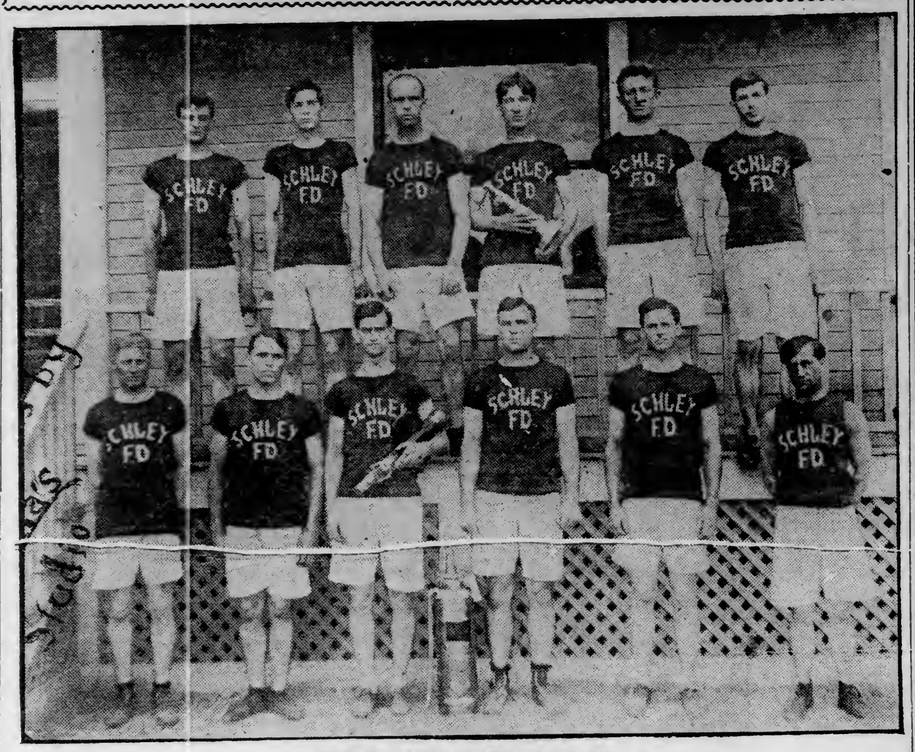

Considering Armory Site.

The good news from St. Paul of a $10,000 appropriation for the new armory was hailed with joy. Chairman John J. Gleason, President James C. Poole and Secretary John P. Treddinick was appointed to meet with the council next Tuesday to urge immediate action in the matter as it is desired to have the building erected this fall. George A. Whitman, James C. Poole and Solomon Sax were appointed to confer with owners of property near the corner of Adams avenue and Pierce street, so that a settlement can be reached for the purchase of the land at a reasonable figure, as it is desired to have the armory and proposed public library erected on the land in question.

Good roads in and about the city were thoroughly considered and those present unanimously in favor of increasing next year's tax levy so that needed improvements on the highways in this vicinity could be made. The matter of requesting the tax levy board to increase next year's levy to cover all the needed improvements was referred to the tax committee consisting of George A. Whitman, Dudley W. Freeman and James A. Robb and at the next Commercial club meeting a tax levy in detail will be formulated and presented to the tax levy board which consists of Mayor Jacob A. Saari, Alderman Joseph S. Wilson and City Clerk D. P. McIntyre.

President James C. Poole and Secretary J. P. Treddinnick reported that the club's funds are being increased and that many new members will be added. A booster meeting of the club will be held Aug. 3, with good roads as one of the leading subjects to be considered.

Gilbert, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local fire department will be well represented at the Mesaba Range Volunteer Firemens' tournament at Proctoor tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. The Gilbert team and the Schley mine team, the last named being the team that made a record at the last tournament, have been selected to represent the local department.

FIRST AID CLASS WILL DEMONSTRATE

Bangor Mine Employes to Give Novel Picnic Next Sunday.

Aurora, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The class in first aid to the injured at the Bangor mine is arranging a grand barbecue and picnic for next Sunday, at which a practical demonstration of the work it is engaged in will be given.

The men will go through the operations of caring for a wounded man, or rendering first aid, showing the methods used under different conditions. They will show the work of carrying out a man suffocated from gas and producing artifical respiration; putting splints on broken leg, using lagging and straw found in the mine to make the splints from and making a stretcher from mine drills and jackets; dressing a scalp wound, making a skull cap from bandages and making a compress. Other events, to be selected on the grounds, will be demonstrated.

Some Athletic Events.

There will also be a number of interesting athletic events, including boat races, swimming races, foot races, and a ball game between two picked teams.

The first aid work will be particularly interesting, as it will show the care that is given the men injured in the mines, pending the arrival of a physician. The men making the demonstration have been under the efficient tutelage of Capt. Joseph T. Vickers and Dr. C. W. Braw for the past year and are very proficient in the work.

PEOPLE FAVORING MORE EXPLORATION

Mass Meeting at Grand Rapids Wants Well Drilling Continued.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people want a further exploration of the well-drilling operations carried on by the village light and water commission where iron ore was struck while drilling for a village well. This was shown at an enthusiastic mass meeting held last night when it was decided the commission should investigate the ore body which it is believed has been encountered, and thus prevent the enforced abandonment of the well, tank and equipment in the future through the sinking of a mine. They will proceed at their discretion and sink the drill still lower to ascertain if possible the thickness of the ore encountered and its quality.

Better for Mine Than Well.

The commission Monday night notified the village council that property on which the well is being sunk is more valuable for ore than for a well, and this brought about the mass meeting of last night. The drill at present is in forty feet of ore. Owners of adjacent property are being offered fabulous prices for their holdings.

James D. Doran and C. H. Dickinson, members of the school board, asked the council that a cement sidewalk be built around the Central school building. The estimated cost is $1,000.

The council was petitioned by the property owners along Kindred avenue asking that that thoroughfare be graveled from Third street to Ice lake. Street Commissioner P. C. Walters was ordered to survey the avenue and establish a grade.

Through this complaint Mr. Preus discovered that Lauscher did not have a state license to sell insurance.

Place Powder Under Her Bedroom; Exploded Without Doing Injury.

Eveleth, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss P. Roderich a popular member of the Austrian colony, is thanking her lucky stars today that she is alive. She came near being the victim of an attempt upon her life early yesterday

She is engaged to be married and it is believed that rejected suitors in a spirit of revenge sought to kill her by setting off powder under her bedroom in her home on Douglas avenue while she was asleep. Fortunately the fuses failed to all set off their explosives.

Only One Fuse Caught.

But one fuse went off, cracking windows and causing a loud explosion. The floor of her room was badly damaged, and she was thrown out of bed by the shock. The authorities are of the opinion that one or more of her five unsuccessful suitors set the fuses and a thorough investigation is being made.

Three of the long fuses which by failing to go off, saved the girl's life and that of a father and mother and three children who were sleeping in two adjoining rooms were found by the police and taken to the jail. A search for more clews is being made. The five suitors implicated in the case are believed to board at the same place, and a close search is being made for the culprits.

ONE RECALLED; OTHER UPHELD

Socialists Win Victory in First Two Harbors Recall Election.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in the history of the present city charter the recall was invoked yesterday when a special election was held to elect an alderman at large and an alderman from the Fourth ward.

The Socialists won by an overwhelming majority. H. J. Irwin, alderman at large, was recalled by a vote of 419 to 285, while Alfred Johnson was elected to his position. In the Fourth ward, Charles Esse was re-elected and thereby indorsed by a vote of 134 to 70, running against Harry Bangsund, the nominee of the citizens' ticket.

While the election was quiet, keen interest prevailed. The total vote cast was not as large as at a regular election.

Why Irwin Was Recalled.

The ground for Irwin's recall as given by the Socialists was that he had broken his party pledges in that he had refused to vote for their candidate for chief engineer of the water and light plant and that he had done this for a trifling advantage to himself or to his relatives. When the recall petition against Irwin was started, a counter petition was drawn up against Esse. Esse, however, was sustained by his ward.

The Socialists now have full sway in the management of city affairs. It is rumored that both E. P. Christensen and Tubman will resign, thus leaving practically no opposition, since in case the resignations take place, the vacancies are to be filled by appointment and not by election. The policies of the Socialist party can be fulfilled, since the people have seen fit to indorse them a second time.

The ladies were accompanied by a number of invited guests, including the pastor, Rev. A. H. Mutchler, and some children. The day was bright and the air delightful, but the lake was a little rough, though not enough for the discomfort of anyone.

Premier Laurier and his supporters are confident that they have correctly gauged sentiment, and that the majority of the people believe that reciprocity with the United States should be enacted.

Effective Before Christmas.

If the Liberals are returned to power, the Fielding-Knox agreement will be passed and put in effect before Christmas. If the Conservatives win, Mr. Borden, present leader of the opposition, will become prime minister, and the reciprocity measure will be dead.

Parliament probably will be dissolved in two weeks and an election date will be fixed as soon as voters' lists can be prepared. The last week of September or the first week of October, from present indications, will be selected.

HIS LIVE STOCK LOST WEIGHT

And Harry Widdes Wants $270 Damages From the Railroad.

For a delay of thirty-six hours on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad, which he claims depreciated the value of live stock he was shipping, Harry Widdes asks $270 from the company in a complaint filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

The plaintiff in the action claims that he shipped from Haugen, Wis., during the month of September of last year 31 cows, 12 calves and 2 hogs.

He states that there was a delay in transit and that when the stock was received in Duluth the shipment weighed 5,700 pounds less than when the shipment was made.

As the stock was sold to a packing concern and was paid for by the pound, he claims his loss amounted to $270.

Physician to Girls' School.

CRAZY HINDU SHOOTS FIVE

First Writes Letter to Taft Asking Permission to Go on Rampage.

Chicago, July 26.—Five persons were injured when an insane Hindu, standing at Clark and Washington streets, the heart of Chicago's downtown district, fired the contents of a repeating rifle into the crowded streets yesterday. The injured:

Archie Hunt, 30 years old, shot in right leg.

E. W. Darling, 35 years old, shot through right hand.

W. M. Craft, 15 years old, shot in left leg.

Frank Balz, 40 years old, shot in left elbow.

Florence Hunt, 20 years old, shot in left hip.

Before the police overpowered the crazy man he had fired five shots from the doorway of a saloon. When taken to the police station he said his name was M. Husain, and in his pockets were found two letters, one addressed to President Taft and the other to the local British consul. In his letters Husain asked permission to carry out his shooting rampage.

POLICE STOP RUSH AT DES MOINES OPEN MARKET.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 26.—So great was the success of the municipality of Des Moines as the patron of hucksters and produce venders, when it opened a full-fledged market place on the city hall lawn yesterday morning, that Mayor James R. Hanna has started negotiations for an additional lot near the city's property.

The opening of the market place was the culmination of a long campaign against the so-called grocery store combine. Several thousand citizens availed themselves of the opportunity of obtaining vegetables and farm produce without paying the customary tribute to the middleman, and so great was the rush at one time that it was necessary to call out a squad of police to maintain order.

Mayor Hanna said he was elated with the success of the scheme for providing produce to citizens at lower prices than have prevailed in several years.

STUNG MANY IN DEERWOOD

Mysterious Mr. Blake Posing as Mining Man Left Unpaid Accounts.

Besides Running Bills Is Said to Have Given Worthless Checks.

Deerwood, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. W. Blake or W. H. Blake was the name he gave. Mr. Blake played a star engagement here and decamped, leaving several creditors to mourn his coming. He posed as a mining capitalist who was about to take options on a lot of property.

He rolled up a board bill of $21 at a summer hotel, $65 in automobile rides over the Cuyuna iron range, livery bills, borrowed money where possible, cashed several checks of no value at a local bank.

Monday a Deerwood delegation of three citizens went to Brainerd as mad as Hoyt's Texas steer as an investigation committee looking for Blake who had unceremoniously left Deerwood.

Had Left Brainerd.

He had registered at a Brainerd hotel and then left Monday at midnight for Staples and Fargo. While at Brainerd he tried to finance a Cuyuna electric railway and incidentally cash some drafts and checks which Brainerd bankers would not take. The Bankers' Protective association has taken up the matter and Blake, who has been walking with crutches and canes will have to abandon them to keep ahead in the race.

CASS COUNTY TO HAVE GREAT FAIR

It Will Be Held at Pine River in September With Many Attractions.

Pine River, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sixth annual fair of the Cass County Agricultural society will be held here this year on Sept. 13, 14, 15. Those in charge are working to make it surpass all previous years. The premium list has been enlarged and the amount of premiums paid will greatly exceed that of former years. A balloon ascension, comedy acrobats and other daily free attractions have been engaged and the races this year will include a greater number of speed events than formerly. A number of outside judges for the various departments have already been secured, among them being A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast experimental farm at Grand Rapids, and E. C. Brown of Elk River. Workmen will commence next week to put the buildings and race track in the best of shape. The Cass county exhibit which will be seen at the state fair this year will be returned intact and shown in a separate building. With the excellent conditions of the crops in this section the outlook for an agricultural display is the best that it has been in several years.

SCHOOL TEACHER FINED.

Pays $100 and Costs for Breaking Open Locked School.

Warren, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having been brought up in court three times, John Mundhinke, a school teacher, was found guilty in Justice Braggans court of malicious destruction of property and fined together with costs, $100. Mundhinke was hired to teach in District No. 85, Rollis township, but before the term was over the board discharged him. He declined to quit, however, and they locked up the schoolhouse and forbade him to enter. He removed the lock and took possession again to continue his teaching duties. A warrant was sworn out and Justice Lloyd found him guilty and fined him $10 for breaking into the schoolhouse. He appealed to the district court and the judgment was reversed. The board then brought the above mentioned suit against him.

Warren, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald)—John Desmond of Big Woods has been adjudged insane and sent to Fergus Falls. He imagines there is something the matter with his nose and wants it chopped off. FORTY ACRE FARM WILL BE DONATED

As Attraction to Upper Peninsula Exhibit at Chicago Land Show.

Menominee, Mich., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in history, the Upper Peninsula will be represented with an exhibit at the Chicago Land Show this fall. Theodore E. Quinby, who has just returned from a trip to the Lake Superior region, is giving a great portion of his time to the preparation of this exhibit, which will be representative of all parts of the district.

A desirable space with forty-one feet frontage has been allotted to the Upper Peninsula by the land show management. In order to make the place more attractive Mr. Quinby has arranged to draw up an artistic plan for the exhibit.

One of the features of the exhibit will be the giving away of a fort-acre Upper Peninsula farm. It is not known here where the farm will be located but one of the best above the straits will be selected.

Mr. Quinby states that the interest and enthusiasm for the development movement is rapidly increasing in all parts of the peninsula and that its plans and ambitions are on everyone's tongue.

SIMPSON IS TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY

Slayer of Theodore Nelson in Polk County Gets Seven Years.

Crookston, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sivert Simpson was sentenced by Judge William Watts in the district court yesterday afternoon to seven years at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

The convicted man, found guilty of taking the life of his friend, Theodore Nelson, some months ago, was brought into the court room about 3 o'clock and, after answering the customary questions and having no reason to give why sentence should not be imposed, the court promptly imposed the above sentence.

Took His Medicine.

Simpson heard the sentence without a tremor and had evidently steeled himself for the ordeal. He was taken at once from the court room to the county jail, where he was held, until accompanied by Sheriff Daniels, he started for the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

RIBENACK IS PRESIDENT.

Duluth Also Gets Next Meeting of State Hotel Men.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluth will entertain the next annual convention of the Minnesota Hotel Men's association. This was decided at a poorly attended meeting of the hotel men of the state held at the Ryan hotel here yesterday.

Some harsh things were said about the absent members. It numbers about fifty, of whom only eighteen responded. The act of the recent legislature providing for placing the state hotel inspector on a salary basis instead of the fee system, was approved.

Edward R. Ribenack of the Lenox, Duluth, was elected president to succeed Thomas I. Michaud of Duluth. J. Kahler of Rochester was elected vice president to succeed Walter A. Perek of St. Paul and F. E. Zonne of Minneapolis, was re-elected secretary.

Duluth was awarded the convention for next year, which will be in June.

ROBBING SOO LINE.

Gang of Employes Said to Be Stealing Freight.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 26.—The police and detectives for the Soo declare that a crime ring has been uncovered involving the theft of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise from freight cars by Soo employes. The police and railroad men say that evidence furnished by A. H. Denson, in jail charged with burglary, has aided them in the discovery of one cache, where between $2,000 and $3,000 worth of goods were found.

For months, railroad detectives assert, somewhere along the lines entering Minneapolis, freight cars have been opened and goods taken.

Denson, it is said, admitted he received some of the loot. The goods, the detectives say, were always of such kind that they could be easily carried away and, the sleuths say, the thefts invariably showed previous knowledge of shipments and their nature. Arrests are promised.

The chief says the alleged confessions were alike in almost every detail. He stated, however, that the woman in the document signed by her accuses Morazovic of planning the crime; Morazovic, on his part, accusses Mrs. Novokovic.

The body of Novokovic, horribly slashed and stabbed, was found here Sunday, near a Washington park car line.

STEVENS TALKS ABOUT RECIPROCITY EFFECTS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to Congressman F. C. Stevens, the greatest effect of the passage of the Canadian reciprocity treaty will be to change the trend of trade from east and west to north and south. The change will cause the central part of the continent to grow.

"The treaty will act as the opening wedge in breaking down the high protection wall about this country," Mr. Stevens said. "The prices of the necessities of life will be placed within the reach of the common people."

Mr. Stevens will leave for Washington next Thursday and be there in time to take part in the debate on the cotton schedule. He will make the Eastern trip by way of Duluth and the Great Lakes.

WINONA COUNTY GETS FIRST ROAD MONEY.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winona county is the first in the state to benefit from the promotion of rural highways as proposed in the Elwell bill, passed at the last session of the legislature. For construction of a road from Winona south to La Molle, a distance of seven miles, the estimated cost of which is $41,000, the state will pay one-half. The state highway commission has authorized the payment. More than $10,000 of the money necessary to build the road was paid by land owners along the way.

George W. Cooley, secretary of the state highway commission, has called a meeting of his assistant engineers for Aug. 15. About forty are expected to join in this conference on the general question of road building.

PLAN FIRE BREAK IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The American Red Cross society has authorized the Minnesota branch of the society to expend $3,000 from the funds collected for the relief of fire sufferers in Northern Minnesota, in building a fire break at Baudette and Spooner.

At a recent meeting of the society State Forester Cox made application for use of the money in this way, and the headquarters of the organization in Washington, was asked for the authority. It is planned to build a fire break reaching seventy-five miles along the Rainy river for the protection of persons living in the region burned over by forest fires. The $3,000 will build about twenty miles, and it is planned to raise the balance.

The company owns 20,000 acres of timber land in Northern Michigan. The mill will replace that destroyed by fire twelve years ago. Its operation will mean an industrial revival for L'Anse, which has been deserted by hundreds since the big fire.

ON REDUCED TIME AT NORTHERN PACIFIC SHOPS.

Brainerd, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Working hours at the Northern Pacific railway shops here have been curtailed in all departments except the boilermakers which remain at nine hours, six days a week. All other departments on the machine side are eight hours.

The car side went from ten hours to nine hours, six days per week. No explanation is made of the cut, although it is believed a contemplated crop shortage may have something to do with it. It cannot be blamed on a 2-cent passenger rate which is now 3 cents. Shop men and their families hope to see the longer hours resumed as a cut in the hours at present means quite a reduction in wages.

Crookston—Ike Simmons has returned from a week and a half spent on his large farm near Watertown, S. D., and states that while the crops in a portion of South Dakota are practically ruined, the corn crop is good, and there is a large acreage of it near Watertown, where the farmers will also harvest a part of a crop of small grains, which will not make conditions in that vicinity so bad.

International Falls—At a recent special meeting of the council, called for the purpose of considering the matter of installing cement sidewalks in the business district, a petition of property owners on Third street was presented protesting against the putting in of sidewalks at this time, on account of the lack of a grade. In consequence, no action was taken in the matter.

Rochester—An especially attractive program has been arranged for the nineteenth annual meeting of the Southern Minnesota Medical association, which will meet in Rochester on Wednesday, Aug. 3, and at which meets in conjunction the Minnesota Valley Medical society.

The deceased was in perfect health until five days ago, when he was suddenly taken ill with a severe attack of appendicitis and death resulted.

Little Falls—The local postoffice became one of the banking institutions of the city on July 22, when the office was made a postal savings depository. The establishment of the postal savings system at the local office was under the direction of Postoffice Inspector W. J. Munro, who spent Friday and Saturday in the city.

Moorhead—Sixty-eight men in this city, including practically every bartender in the city, were defrauded out of $5 each by a man named Lewis, who was here presumably to organize a lodge of Owls, understood to be an insurance order. Lewis met with good success, being apparently properly accredited to his company, and collected the $5 fee in advance.

St. Cloud—T. H. Simpson, deputy state fire marshal, who while in the city condemned six buildings, was in the city Saturday for the purpose of investigating the fire which about three-quarters destroyed the Columbian book store stock a week ago. The fact that two fires occurred in the building within a couple of months led to the investigation.

Stillwater—William Nehring, a Wisconsin farmer, living about seven miles from Stillwater, while leading a couple of horses, was thrown down by one of the animals running into him and trampled upon, seriously cutting his face and in fact his whole body Saturday evening.

Stillwater—Judge Stolberg in the district court signed an order vacating part of the plat of St. Mary's and North St. Mary's on the St. Croix, in the town of Afton as petitioned by Marian S. Rosing. The sale of a number of lots in the village of Oak Park upon a mortgage foreclosure in the suit of Chris Somers against Dorathea Somers was ordered.

Calumet—The trainmen of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and Mineral Range railroads are busy making the necessary arrangements for an outing on Sunday, Aug. 20, which probably will be held at L'Anse.

Houghton—President F. W. McNair of the Michigan College of Mines, who has just returned from Washington, where he interviewed President Taft, addressed the members of the executive committee in charge of the plans for the celebration at their meeting Monday. Mr. McNair reported that Secretary Nagel will visit Houghton, representing the president. It was decided there would be no curtailment of the celebration proper because of the inability of President Taft to come.

Hancock—Peter Sterhia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sterhia of Dollar Bay, died Sunday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital of lockjaw, resulting from stepping upon a rusty nail a short time ago. The boy was 14 years of age, and is the third child which Mr. Sterhia has lost by death in about a year, a 4-month-old daughter dying last June and in November an 11-year-old girl was taken away.

Calumet—Margaret McGlue, the little child of Mr. and Mrs. William McGlue of Ontonagon, fell from the second story window of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson and suffered severe injuries. The accident happened on the first anniversary of the child's birth. It fell upon a pile of rocks, but fortunately no bones were broken, and it is believed the little one will recover.

The deceased and his partner, an Italian countryman, were working in a stope leading up to the fourth level. Massa was unable to escape, with the result that two hundred tons of ore covered his body.

Ishpeming — The rain storm and high winds of the past few days damaged many shade trees in Ishpeming and many trees in the groves surrounding the city were also either broken or thrown over. A big shade tree in front of the cottage occupied by Rev. W. J. Meade and his family, at Deer Lake, went over Monday morning. The roots extended underneath the porch and the latter was completely demolished. The tree was planted over twenty years ago.

Munising — The lawn social given by the Young Ladies' sodality of the Catholic church at the garage grounds Saturday evening was generously patronized, notwithstanding that the temperature was a trifle cool. The decorations were unique and pretty.

Marquette — Engine No. 503, which was run into the turntable pit at the South Shore roundhouse Sunday noon, was raised and run into the roundhouse about 6 o'clock Monday morning, less damaged than would naturally be expected. Until the engine was gotten out and the turntable repaired, no locomotives could be run in or out of the roundhouse.

How to Cure Corns

Home Treatment for Foot Troubles Brings Instant Relief.

The continued irritating effects of sore feet sometimes involves the whole nervous system, developing nervous disorders. A trouble of this kind should never be neglected. One of the most effective treatments known to science is the following:

"Dissolve two tablespoonsfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give the desired results.) Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent. "The effect will be a revelation. The pain goes instantly and the feet feel so good you could sing with joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions are reduced to normal and inflammation drawn out. Sweaty and smelly feet, swollen and tender feet need but a few treatments. Calocide was formerly confined to professional use but can now be bought by the general public. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet.

RED SOX WIN EASY GAME

Duluth Defeated By 9 to 4 Score on Other Side of Bay.

Blancke and Kramer Prove Easy for the Trans-Bay Hitters.

At Superior yesterday the locals were defeated by the Red Sox by the score of 9 to 4. Kramer and Blancke were used to decorate the hill during the afternoon, and neither was effective. Rhodes twirled for the transbays and had little difficulty in holding the Sox in check.

In the first inning the Red Legs scored through Bancroft's single and steal. He went to third on Bennett's out and scored when Landry hit to little Leber and Hargrove dropped the throw to the plate.

In the third Superior shunted five runs over the plate. Rhodes doubled to left. Bancroft scored him with a double to the same location. Bennett sacrificed and Landry's single sent Bancroft across. Dolan singled and Hoffman scored Landry and Dolan with a double. Lizette singled and on slow handling of the ball Hoffman came across.

One more run came in the fifth. With two down Dolan singled and stole. Hoffman was hit by a fast shoot and Lizette's single sent Dolan across.

In the seventh the last two runs of the Red Legs were driven across the plate. Ford singled and was scored on Dolan's two base clout. Hoffman sacrificed and Dolan scored on Lizette's out at first.

In the seventh Altermott doubled, and after Hargrove and Blancke had been disposed of, scored on Kramer's single.

In the eighth the Sox scored three. Olson was safe when Grogan let his offering get away. O'Brien singled to left and Olson advanced to third. Altermott doubled, scoring both runners. Hargrove singled, scoring Altermott for the last run of the game.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Fight Fans Wondering If Dissipation Has Not Already Put an End to Johnson's Career as Great Fighter.

(BY BRUCE.)

HOW is the dope, sometimes our friend and then again as fickle as a dame home from boarding school, going to act in the next fight that Lil' Artha Johnson takes part in?

Some chaps who drift around a bit and keep in touch with many things that are not printed in newspapers, and some of them couldn't get in at that, have come to this column with the information of the sultry doings of the big black.

Peter Jackson was but a shell of his former greatness when he engaged in that fight with Jim Jeffries. The giant African had tasted all those joys of dear old Lunnon town. He had gone several kinds of a pace, and found in the training room that vitality is something that you must be kind to, speaking to gently every morning.

John Artha, according to some of the reports, has been grabbing handfuls of the dust of dissipation and scattering it to the high winds, kicking up all kinds of violent clouds of foaming fun.

Some say that Sam Langford would drive the strength out of the big buffalo, were the pair of aces to hook horns at the present time.

Notice some of the lines Hugh McIntosh has picked for Artha. One of the specialties of Hugh is shaking the lemon tree and holding the pugilistic basket for results, mostly for little Hugh.

There isn't a fighter in the whole crowd of prospective opponents that have been mentioned for the champion. We wouldn't stand for any of this kind of stuff on this side of the raging main; but if the English boys, slow to see a joke, fall for it, you can't really blame the the dinge for reaping iron boys while the reaping is good.

No man can go the pace without hearing a growl from old protesting nature. Corbett, Jeffries, McGovern, McCoy, Lavingne and the rest have all found that nature outraged will retaliate with gleaming fangs. Perhaps in his next fight Johnson will show a woeful falling off in the form he showed in that burlesque fight with a fighter who was once great.

That is what the followers of fighters are speculating upon at the present time. Not so long ago a man who had seen Johnson gave to the writer his opinion upon this very subject.

This man stated that the big black was fat and looked clear out of condition. He also stated that it was pretty generally known that he was hitting down the dissipation pike at a rate that was leaving the rest of the crowd behind.

Johnson is no spring chicken. He is around the 36-year mark. He has been knocking around the country, nibbling here and there at forbidden fruit, leading a kind of nomad existence that is neither good for sleep or morals.

He is a physical wonder, as most world's champion prize fighters are. But strong as any man is, wonderful as his nerves are, good as the circulation that distributes the rich blood to feed and nourish a splendid body may be, some time nature will take toll and there will be a reckoning day.

If half the evil reports of the course Johnson is taking are true, he is due for the scrap heap where sorrowfully repose the shadows of former greatness. All this takes your speculation gently by the hand and leads it firmly up to the question as to what the champion will do when he faces his next opponent, providing that opponent is a fighter worthy of the name.

Colored fighters have gone the route of dissipation, as a rule, and have failed to stand it as well as their white fighting brothers.

George Dixon was a pathetic case of a great fighter dying a wreck. Joe Gans, lasting longer than many of the small men, undoubtedly suffered toward the end from the dissipations he had gone through. Peter Jackson, rated by many followers of pugilism as the greatest heavyweight of all time, white or black, died a wreck in far-off Australia.

Johnson is crazy over publicity. He is said to have become one of the best little wine buyers along the Strand of London. He is associating with earls and lords, if we may believe some of the reports that come over in ships and by the way of the cable, and there are some rosy wine buyers in that bunch.

All things considered, there may be a mighty reversal of form the next time the big black moose enters the ring against a tough opponent, and many followers of the game are of the opinion that he wants none of the hardy game that stubby "Tham" Langford apparently stands ready to offer the champion.

Gill singled with one out and Ferris was hit. Owen's single scored Gill with the tying run and Clymer's hit, after Peters' foul brought in Ferris with the winning run. Peters also pitched good ball. Both Ferris and Clymer made sensational plays. Score: R. H. E.

Motor Boat Missing.

Halifax, N. S., July 26.—Up to an early hour today nothing has been seen of the motor boat Snapshot III, one of the contestants in the Reciprocity race of 553 miles from New York to this harbor, and some fear is expressed for the safety of her crew. Two of the other boats finished early yesterday and word was received that a fourth had dropped out of the contest near Block island. The Caroline, winner of the race, and the Eronel, which finished second, encountered a heavy storm.

McINTOSH FORMS FIGHTERS' TRUST

Combine Is Organized Around Johnson and Other Pugilists.

London, July 26.—Hugh McIntosh, Australian fight promoter, has formed what is probably the greatest pugilistic trust the world has ever known. The entire organization revolves about the person of Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, who is under contract to fight some of the most conspicuous of big sluggers. Beside Johnson, the newest fighting trust includes Bill Lange, Sam McVey, Sam Langford, Al Kaufmann and Porky Flynn.

Just as a starter, Johnson has signed a contract with McIntosh for a fight with Lange on Dec. 26. This will be followed on Easter Monday of next year by a battle between Johnson and Sam McVey. Both contests will involve the heavyweight championship of the world. It is agreed on the part of Johnson that if he beats both Lange and McVey he will accompany McIntosh to Paris, where Johnson will give battle to Sam Langford for a purse and the title. This latter battle is scheduled for the summer of 1912.

Johnson's contract with McIntosh begins on Oct. 31, when the colored fighter sails for Australia by way of Calcutta and other Oriental points. He will give boxing exhibitions on the way. This contract entails the canceling by Johnson of $19,000 worth of theatrical engagements here and elsewhere. McIntosh now has contracts that give him a monopoly of the big fellows in the ring.

RAIN HALTS TENNIS PLAY

Few Surprises in Western Championship Events on Lake Forest Courts.

Maurice McLaughlin Wins From Norfolk Man in Feature Match.

Lake Forest, Ill., July 26. — Rain which started shortly after 5 o'clock called a halt to play in the Western tennis championship tournament yesterday afternoon after most of the matches in the second round of the men's singles and in the first round of the men's doubles had been completed.

Out-of-town players fared well in yesterday's contests, nearly all of those who met Chicagoans coming out victorious. The feature match of the day was that between Maurice McLaughlin of San Francisco and James H. Winston of Norfolk, the Californian winning after a hard struggle, 8-6, 6-3. H. H. Whitman of Chicago surprised the critics by easily defeating Drummond Jones of St. Louis in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1.

Good progress also was made in the women's events, all matches in the preliminary round and most of those in the first round being completed.

In the women's singles, there were no upsets in expectations, the women who were conceded the better players having little trouble in defeating their opponents. Miss Hazel Hotchkiss of San Francisco, holder of the women's national championship, easily defeated Miss Olive Farwell of Onwentsia club, 6-0, 6-2.

GEISTMAN AGAIN HEADS THE ADAMS

Popular Manager Will Manage Football Team Coming Season.

John Geistman, for the past few years the manager of the Adams Athletic club football teams, was last evening re-elected manager and will continue to run the financial and business affairs of the popular association's team during the coming football season.

A hustler and a capable business man, Geistman has placed city football on a firm footing in this city, and has done more than anyone else to make it permanent and a financial success.

Through the efforts of Mr. Geistman the Athletic park has been secured for the Adams games this fall, and with a strong team in the field, and the increased interest that was shown in the city league games last season, there is every promise that the coming season will be by far the most successful ever held in the city.

The work on the Adams schedule will start soon, and Mr. Geistman announces that he will have some very attractive games to offer to the large following of the city league teams.

GOTCH A SWIMMER.

Big Wrestler Adopts This Exercise as Part of Training.

Chicago, July 26.—Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world, has adopted swimming as a part of his daily training work at "Riverside," his camp near Humboldt, Iowa. The titleholder says that his aquatic exercise is doing more than anything else toward putting him in condition for the bout with Hackenschmidt to be staged here on Labor day.

Gotch is an expert swimmer and spends an hour every day in the water. In addition to his swimming, Gotch works with a couple of big grapplers for two hours a day. The training bouts are attracting much attention and crowds of spectators visit the gymnasium to see him in action. Gotch declares himself to be in great shape for the big match and while realizing fully that he is up against a tough proposition, he thinks he will pin the "Russian Lion's shoulders to the mat.

Wrecked Yachts Released.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 26.—The yacht Illinois, which took part in the Chicago - Mackinac race and which went ashore Monday, arrived in Mackinac late last night. After being released Monday the boat was towed to St. James for temporary repairs. F. M. Mills' sloop Mavourneen, winner of the race, was released yesterday and only sustained slight damage. The Mavourneen also went aground in the storm which swept Lake Michigan; so did the Vincedor. The latter is reported a wreck.

SECKEL IS FAVORITE

Intercollegiate Champion Is Picked to Finish in Western Golf Play.

"Chick" Evans Loses to Mason Phelps in Preliminary Round.

Detroit, Mich., July 26.—The sixteen golfers surviving yesterday's first round of match play compete today in the second match round play, thirty-six holes, for the Western amateur golf championship on the Detroit golf club's links.

The weather thus far has been bad and the course is still slow and soggy with the pits extremely dangerous. Golfers look for better conditions today. The elimination yesterday of "Chick" Evans has apparently boosted the stock of Alfred Seckel, the intercollegiate champion, whose play has been strong and consistent all week. Seckel's opponent today is W. I. Howland, Jr., of Chicago, who made the course in 72 yesterday, the lowest score recorded in the tournament. This match is regarded as one of the best on today's card.

There seems to be a general feeling among the prominent experts that if Seckel survives today's round his chances of reaching the finals are bright.

The first match play rounds of a number of consolation events start today.

An intensely interesting struggle between Mason Phelps, Western champion, and "Chick" Evans, ex-Western open champion, which Phelps won by halving the last fourteen holes, one contest decided on the twenty-first and another on the nineteenth hole, and a match play card of 72—one stroke slower than the course record—turned in by W. I. Howland of Chicago, proved the striking features of the second day's play.

The Phelps-Evans play attracted a large gallery. After it was decided, R. G. Harrison of Des Moines and M. D. Ritchie of Pittsburg fought nip and tuck until the latter won the nineteenth hole in 4-5. Later still James D. Standish, Jr., cheered the Detroit contingent when with a ten-foot putt he claimed the twenty-first hole and match from Ralph Rider of Des Moines with 4 to the Iowan's 5.

Phelps was the favorite in his match with Evans and he outplayed the latter much of the way. Evans was decidedly off on his putting and only spectacular approach work, coupled with favorable breaks of luck seemed to save him from greater defeat. Several times he drove into the rough while Phelps, save on one or two occasions, when he missed short putts, played smooth, consistent golf.

Most of the matches were one-sided. The favorites won easily.

Following is the card of the Phelps-Evans matches and the results of some of the other leading players:

Phelps, out 535, 444, 443—36.
In 553, 454, 445—39; total, 75.
Evans, out 455, 544, 443—38.
In 553, 454, 445—39. Total, 77.

Paul Hunter, Chicago, defeated A. L. Diddel, Indianapolis, 2 and 1.

H. Wilson, Cincinnati, defeated H. B. Lowe, Detroit, 4 up and 3.

W. C. Fownes, Pittsburg, defeated C. R. Denning, Detroit, 3 up and 2.

Harold Weber, Toledo, defeated Fraser Hale, Chicago, 7 up and 5.

Robert A. Gardner, Chicago, defeated P. Bush, Columbus, 6 up and 5.

Henry Heyburn, Louisville, defeated G. A. Miller, Detroit, 5 up and 4.

Albert Seckel, Chicago, defeated Al. M. Sheehan, Des Moines, 7 up and 5.

W. I. Howland, Jr., Chicago, defeated Ed P. Allis, Milwaukee, 7 up and 6.

J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, defeated Ralph Rider, Des Moines, 1 up in 21 holes.

M. D. Ritchie, Pittsburg, defeated R. G. Harrison, Des Moines, 1 up in 19 holes.

W. Garhart, Detroit, defeated J. T. Wylie, Saginaw, 3 up and 1.

F. M. Byers, Pittsburg, defeated T. S. Handley, Grand Rapids, 6 up and 5.

JAPS AND CHINESE AT WAR OVER BASEBALL.

Honolulu, July 26.—Rioting by players and their adherents has resulted in the police department stopping the series of ball games scheduled to be played here by Keio university of Japan and a local team composed of Chinese.

Sheriff William P. Jarrett said last night that bloodshed would be sure to follow another game and yesterday the mounted police had their hands full.

The Keio's won the first game played and then quit because of a decision of the umpire, the score standing 5 to 2 in favor of the Chinese. The Keios played two other local teams Saturday.

MAGIE CASE MAY GO INTO COURT

Philadelphia Club Intimates It Will Fight Player's Suspension.

Philadelphia, July 26.—Court proceedings seeking to enjoin President Lynch from enforcing his suspension of Sherwood Magee are likely in case the league's board of directors upholds the stand of its president Manager Dooin of the Phillies let this fact be known on Sunday, although President Fogel was more vague in his threats of what would happen if the sentence "went."

Fogel so far has confined himself to invective against Lynch in the announcement that he will appeal to the directors for an immediate meeting, hinting at dire things to follow if the directors go back on him and refuse to modify the decree.

The situation is not as serious as it might be if President Fogel were in position to act on his own initiative in the matter. If anything drastic happens like court action aimed at "the foundations of organized baseball," it is believed the backers who own the local club will have something to say that may put the brakes on Mr. Fogel's impetuosity.

ENTERED IN $10,000 RACE

Lewis Forest, Owned By Capt. Sullivan, Will Run at Grand Rapids.

First Day's Racing Results in Defeat of Several Favorites.

Lewis Forest, Capt., James Sullivan's fast trotter, is entered in the 2:12 trot for the Furniture Manufacturers' purse of $10,000, which will be run at Grand Rapids today. Lewis Forest will be in the field with the greatest trotters on the circuit, including R. T. C., the ex-delivery horse which won the $10,000 purse at Kalamazoo. Capt. Sullivan is in Grand Rapids to see his horse run.

Grand Rapids, Mich, July 26.—Though the chill in the air made yesterday far from ideal for harness racing, Grand Rapids' first Grand Circuit race meet opened yesterday afternoon with good attendance and a fast track.

Fierce drives and close finishes featured the opening card, with the downfall of two favorites—Anvil in the feature event, the 2:20 trot for the Grand Rapids railway stake, and Adele Ross in the 2:14 pace.

The 2:20 trot was productive of the four fastest heats ever trotted on the Comstock track. The first heat was a pretty race, with Argot Hal, Anvil and Aero, under the wine in a blanket finish, the field trailing. In the next heat, Aero broke at the jump, never caught the field, and was distanced. In the third Argot Hal went off his feet in front of the stand at the finish necessitating an extra heat.

In the first heat of the 2:07 pace, C. The Limit, a highly fancied favorite, finished fourth, Lady Isle winning by a nose from Sarah Ann Patch. The Colorado horse came into his own in the two following heats and Lady Isle got second money.

The 2:07 trot was simply exercise for Dudie Archdale, who finished eased up in both heats.

The 2:14 pace, with eight starters, was an eight-horse race for three heats and a guessing match throughout, requiring five heats and holding the spectators until dusk. Adele Ross, favorite, failed to get better than second in any heat. Game Maid took the first, Hal Akin the second and third and Game Maid the fourth.

In this heat, Hal Akin, going lame, barely escaped the distance flag.

POWER BOATS MAKE FAST TIME AT PEORIA.

Peoria, Ill., July 26.—All world's records for twenty-foot boats and all Western river records for thirty-two-foot boats, were reduced at the first day's racing of the Western Power Boat association in this city today. San Burr II, owned by A. K. and C. D. White of Atlantic City, N. J., won the twenty-foot class against six contenders, covering the ten miles in 19:59 4-5 minutes, or just a fraction over thirty miles an hour. Her fastest lap was made at the rate of 31.3 miles an hour, while the previous world's record for this class was held by Comet, of Bellevue, Iowa, with 28.47 miles per hour.

BIG DEMAND FROM EUROPE

Foreign Situation Shows Great Strength, Sending American Markets Up.

Black Rust Reports Offset Improvements Due to Rains.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 26.—The foreign situation ruled the American markets today and heavy export business, which relieved the pressure of increasing stocks and the heavier movement from the country, sent wheat up from ¾c to 1¼c in American markets. The advance in Duluth amounted to 1⅛-¼c.

The French-German situation in Morocco and increasing anxiety over future supplies and crops in foreign fields caused European markets to open firm and advance freely today. Offers of American wheat were taken and the American markets, threatened by mild congestion due to an increasing movement from the country, responded to the relief offered. It was estimated that 150 loads were sold to Europe by America today.

In the pressure of European business the local situation had little effect. Yesterday, when the market went down, the improvement of crops due to rain in the Northwest and the increasing receipts, together with the great increase in the visible supply on Monday's report, had their effect. The foreign situation ruled today.

Black rust reports continue to come in to offset the reports of improvement due to rains. Many North Dakota communities report only a half crop, while in others it is said that the farmers will consider themselves fortunate to recover their seed.

July wheat has dropped into complete inactivity with the approach of the end of the month. July closed 1⅛c up in Duluth at $1.00⅛. September wheat opened ¼c up at 96¼c, advanced to 97⅜c, dropped back to 97⅛c and closed at 97⅛-¼c.

The linseed market was neglected today and closed unchanged, July at $2.10 nominal, September at $2.02 bid and October at $1.95 bid.

Durum wheat was ½c up today at 89½c for the September option. Oats were ⅜c up at 41¾c, corn ⅛c up at 62⅛c and rye was unchanged. The stronger demand today sent cash wheat up again and from 1c over September yesterday, it advanced to 3c over September today. In Minneapolis, cash wheat is 1c to 3c over September, the demand from millers being for hard Dakota wheat in preference to the soft Minnesota grades.

Wheat closed ⅛d higher in Liverpool, 1¼c higher in Budapest, unchanged in Antwerp, ½c higher in Berlin and ½-⅝c off in Buenos Ayres.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The weaker American cables were offset here by the unfavorable political situation and at the opening the market was firm and unchanged to ¼d higher. Following the opening there was heavy buying on the further decline in consols and prices showed an additional advance of ½d to ⅞d from the opening, with the principal support in December. There was an improved demand for parcels and cargoes with spot in active demand and ½d higher. There is a growing anxiety felt regarding future supplies now that there has been a general tightening up of foreign offers induced largely by the reduction in Russian prospects and apprehension regarding India, and shorts are easily frightened. The Morocco situation is not viewed more seriously among conservative sources.

At 1:30 p. m. the market was very strong and ¾d to 1d higher than yesterday.

"Corn opened unchanged and continued so with the market neglected.

"Our agent at Rostoff, Russia, cables that the weather is cool and showery, with heavy rains in the interior which is stopping the movement and interfering with harvesting."

CHICAGO MARKET.

European War Talk Starts Lively Flurry in Wheat Pit.

Chicago, July 26.—European war talk caused a lively flurry today in the wheat pit here. There was in consequence a rapid upward jump in prices. Besides the unfavorable political conditions abroad and the resulting drop in British consols, the trade had also in view a disquieting prospect as to the future of the Russian crop. Furthermore, India sent word that there was yet no rain. For a while buying was on a big scale, the shorts especially being eager bidders. The market, however, ran into many resting orders to sell at an advance, and there was of necessity a reaction. Opening figures were ¾c to 1⅝c up. September started at 88⅝c to 88⅞c, a rise of ¾c to 1¼c, touched 89c, and then fell off to 88⅝c.

When shorts had been fully supplied, the market eased off to a material extent. Reports that the blue stem wheat had been hit by rust brought about a rally. The close was firm at 88⅝c for September, a net gain of ¾c.

The fact that offerings were small permitted corn to ascend with wheat. On the bulge, though, considerable unloading took place. September opened ¼c to ⅜c higher at 63c to 63⅛c, rose to 63½c and then sagged to 62⅝c.

Selling out on the part of early buyers led to a decline. The close, though, was steady with September at 62⅞c, a net gain of ⅛c.

Pressure from hedgers restrained bullish sentiment in the oats crowd. September started ⅛c to ¼c dearer at 40c to 40⅛c, and dropped to 39¾c.

Provisions took the upgrade influenced by hogs and grain. First sales were 2½c to 20c higher, with January delivery $15.85 for pork, $8.45 for lard and $8.22½ for ribs.

New York Grain.

New York, July 26.—Close: Wheat—July, 92c; September, 93⅜@93½c. Corn—Nominal.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 26.—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 27 points on August and from 6 points lower to 9 points higher on other months, with sensational weak cables offset by extremely active covering and heavy buying by trade interests. The market was very excited and business was even more active and general than previously, since the break started, but orders were better divided, and early fluctuations were violently irregular. All positions except July made new low records on or immediately following the call with August breaking to 12.20 and active new crop deliveries selling between 11.30@11.36, or about ten points net lower, but rallies occurred from this level, and the market during the middle of the morning was very nervous and unsettled. The break in Liverpool was attributed to increased uneasiness over the Moroccan situation and heavy continental selling.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 13.60; middling gulf, 13.85. Sales, 151 bales.

Futures closed barely steady; bids: July, 13.20; August, 12.37; September, 11.72; October, 11.52; November, 11.48; December, 11.53; January, 11.49; March, 11.56; May, 11.66.

London Stocks.

London, July 26.—The Moroccan dispute and the political situation at home depressed the stock market again today. During the forenoon consols declined ⅜ to 77 13-16, a new low record, and all British and foreign securities were heavy in sympathy.

American securities opened around parity, but later eased off on realizing. At noon the American section was weak with prices ranging from unchanged to ¾ lower than yesterday's New York closing.

The London stock exchange and Liverpool cotton market will be closed Saturday, Aug 5, and the following Monday, the latter being a bank holiday.

New York Money.

New York, July 26.—Money on call steady, 2¼@2½; ruling rate, 2⅜; closing bid 2; offered 2¼. Time loans, dull and steady; 60 days, 2½@3; 90 days, 2¾@3; six months 3⅝@3¾.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent; sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.25 for sixty days and at $4.86.15 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83.75. Bar silver, 52⅛c. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds steady, railroad bonds steady.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade is without special feature, and few heavy sales were booked. Receipts which have been heavy for several days have decreased, only forty-three head being received.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Distinct Improvement Shown By Stocks in the Last Hour.

Many Issues Score Advances Over Tuesday and Close Is Strong.

New York, July 26.—Variations from yesterday's closing prices were small in the opening trade today. Atlantic Coast Line, the only stock which moved more than a small fraction, lost a point. Among the market leaders Reading and United States Steel improved fractionally, while Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Atchison, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific were slightly lower.

The upward movement of yesterday in coal stocks was continued today. Pittsburg Coal advanced a point, the preferred 2, Reading 1⅛ and Lehigh Valley 1½. The general list improved after the opening, but before the end of the first hour grew easier. Central Railroad of New Jersey lost 5 points, and American Steel Foundries 1.

After a brief showing of strength, the stock market sold off this morning to a point well below yesterday's final range. The losses were most severe among stocks which were expected to receive particular benefit from Canadian reciprocity on account of postponement of ratification by Canada which the general election in the dominion will necessitate. Canadian Pacific lost 2⅛ and its subsidiary, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie, 1¼. Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Union Pacific receded 1¼ and International Harvester 2¼. Losses elsewhere were less severe. Reading lost its gain and Erie first preferred, Rock Island and Southern railway preferred declined a point. The selling was ascribed to a bear raid rather than to liquidation, traders on the short side taking advantage of the Canadian situation and uneasiness in regard to the Moroccan tangle.

Bonds were steady.

The market closed strong. Distinct improvement was shown by the entire list in the last hour, when practically all early losses were recovered and some material gains were registered. Reading and Lehigh Valley moved up to the high levels of the day, but Pittsburg Coal preferred lost some of its gain. In the more active group, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, United States Steel and St. Paul were above the previous day's closing prices.

APPEALS TO TAFT.

Victor Berger Would Let Mail Carriers Discard Coats.

Washington, July 26.—Victor Berger, the Socialist congressman from Wisconsin, paid his first visit to the White House today. He asked President Taft to pardon a Texas youth, Dewey Carter of Beaumont.

Carter, who was named for the hero of Manila bay, is serving a five-year sentence for stealing $5 while employed by the postoffice department. Mr. Berger declared that children should not be employed by the government. President Taft will consider Carter's case.

Incidentally Mr. Berger asked the president to take some action toward allowing letter carriers in various cities to perform their duties during the hot summer days in their shirt sleeves instead of having to wear heavy coats. The president, Mr. Berger said, promised to act.

COMPROMISE WOOL BILL PASSES SENATE BY VOTE OF 48 TO 32

PROPOSED BY LA FOLLETTE

His Original Bill and Underwood's Measure Are Voted Down.

Washington, July 27.—A compromise wool bill offered by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin a modification of both his own and the house bill, was passed by the senate, 48 to 32, through the union of Democrats and Republican insurgents. Upon this middle ground the Democrats, having secured a record vote on the original Underwood bill, joined with the Republican insurgent forces.

The measure adopted reduces the raw wool duty to 35 per cent ad valorem and correspondingly reduces the duties on woolen articles.

Vote on Compromise Bill.

The vote on the final passage of the compromise bill follows:

For the bill: Republicans—Bourne, Orego.; Bristow, Kansas; Brown, Nebraska; Clapp and Nelson, Minnesota; Crawford, South Dakota; La Follette, Wisconsin; Poindexter, Washington; Works, California; Cummins and Kenyon, Iowa; Gronna and McCumber, North Dakota.

For the bill: Democrats—Bacon, Georgia; Bailey, Texas; Bankhead and Johnstone, Alabama; Bryan and Fletcher, Florida; Chamberlain, Oregon; Chilton and Watson, West Virginia; Clark and Davis, Arkansas; Foster and Thornton, Louisiana; Gore and Owen, Oklahoma; Hitchcock, Nebraska; Johnson, Maine; Kern and Shively, Indiana; Martin and Swanson, Virginia; Martine, New Jersey; Myers, Montana; Newlands, Nevada; O'Gorman, New York; Overman and Simmons, North Carolina; Paynter, Kentucky; Pomerene, Ohio; Reed and Stone, Missouri; Smith, Maryland; Smith, South Carolina; Taylor, Tennessee; Williams, Mississippi.

Against the bill: Republicans—Borah and Heyburn, Idaho; Bradley, Kentucky; Brandegee and McLean, Connecticut; Briggs, New Jersey; Burnham, New Hampshire; Burton, Ohio; Clark and Warren, Wyoming; Crane and Lodge, Massachusetts; Cullom and Lorimer, Illinois; Curtis, Kansas; Dixon, Montana; Gamble, South Dakota; Guggenheim, Colorado; Jones, Washington; Lippitt and Wetmore, Rhode Island; Nixon, Nevada; Oliver and Penrose, Pennsylvania; Page, Vermont; Perkins, California; Richardson, Delaware; Root, New York; Smith and Townsend, Michigan; Smoot, Utah; Stephenson, Wisconsin.

Absent—Dupont, Delaware; Frye, Maine; Gallinger, New Hampshire; Lea, Tennessee; Percy, Mississippi; Sutherland, Utah; Tillman, South Carolina.

Present and not voting (because paired with absentees)—Culberson, Texas; Dillingham, Vermont; Raynor, Maryland.

There is some doubt as to what course the house Democrats will pursue with regard to the compromise bill. House Leader Underwood several days ago served notice that the house would not accept the original La Follette bill.

The "regular" Republican members of the senate finance committee announced that, because of the carrying out of the Democratic-Republican insurgent wool program, they would refuse to serve on the conference committee between the two houses.

Taft May Veto It.

Although President Taft has made no definite utterance to that effect, it has been strongly intimated at the White House from time to time that he might feel called upon to veto a wool tariff bill as passed in advance

BOY BANDIT WHO DIED IN PRISON

CHARLES MELODROWSKI.

NEW PEERS NOT NEEDED

Veto Bill Probably Will Be Passed Without Such Action.

Balfour Proves His Keenness and Disrupts the Mutiny.

London, July 27.—It is becoming increasingly evident that the "die hards" will not be able to "deliver the goods," or in other words, to poll their peers to anything like the extent claimed, and that the government will not be forced to create a large number of peers, if any, in order to carry the veto bill.

The effect of last night's rally at the dinner given in honor of the earl of Halsbury, leader of the insurgent lords, has been to send the whole colony of moderates scurrying into the ranks of Lord Lansdowne's adherents who this afternoon totaled in the neighborhood of 300.

Give Unionists Time.

The government is going to give the Unionists plenty of time in which to compose their differences. Premier Asquith, anxious to avoid swamping the upper house with new barons, will not force a crisis so long as matters are tending in his direction. There are even rumors of an early adjournment of parliament before final action on the veto bill and a session in the autumn, by which time it is thought

TO PROTECT THE INDIANS

Issuing of Patents to White Earth Lands Is Suspended.

Duluth Men After the Lands Said to Contain Iron Ore.

Washington, July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States government has directed that no more patents in fee be issued for lands on the White Earth reservation until it shall have been determined whether the lands for which such patents have been applied for are mineral in character. It having been reported to Washington that many tracts of the reservation contain valuable iron ore.

This explains the presence at Mahnomen of a large party of experts of the government geological survey with several expert mineralologists, who have been examining many tracts of lands on the reservation.

The mineral character of the lands of the reservation will be passed on by the experts. With this investigation, another scandal is hinted at, involving a number of men who have discovered the iron lands and have been quietly buying up the various tracts. This fact shows that the government officials intend to protect the Indians, and bring order out of chaos and give everybody a square deal.

It is reported that a Duluth syndicate representing large capital is desirous of securing all vacant lands on the Chippewa reservation wherever

CANADIAN PACIFIC STEAMER ASHORE

Empress of China Goes on Rock—Passengers Are Saved.

Tokio, July 27.—The steamer Empress of China, of the Canadian Pacific railway line, stranded on a submerged rock off Nojima Saki light while attempting to round the southern point of Awa peninsula, in-bound to Yokohama, today. The passengers were rescued.

The accident occurred near the scene of the wreck of the Great Northern steamship Dakota in the spring of 1907. Submerged rocks extend about a mile from the coast, which is swept by dangerous currents.

The Empress of China sailed from Vancouver, B. C., on July 12 and was making for Tokio Bay, en route to Yokohama, forty miles to the west and north. As soon as word of the accident was received here, Vice-Admiral Saito, the minister of marine, despatched the cruisers Aso and Soya of the Japense training squadron to the assistance of the distressed steamer. The cruisers took off the mail and baggage of the Empress and aided in removing the 185 passengers to the mainland. The passengers were temporarily housed in temples and a school building and later proceeded by train to this city.

The steamer's bottom was badly damaged, and if the craft is saved it will take three months to repair her. The sea near her was rough last night.

Calls Opening of Controller Bay Land Serious Mistake.

Former Chief Forester Criticizes Action of President.

Washington, July 27.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester and now president of the National Conservation association, today issued a statement declaring that President Taft, "leaves the root of the matter wholly untouched" in his message to the senate denying that there could be any monopolization of the water front of Controller Bay, Alaska. Mr. Pinchot opens his statement with this charge:

"The president's defense of his course in the Controller Bay affair shows how hard it is to make a good excuse for a bad mistake."

Have to Fight Protectors.

Concluding, Mr. Pinchot says:

"It is unfortunate that the friends of conservation, in their efforts to bring about the development of Alaska for the benefit of the people, are continually obliged to expend their strength against the men who ought to be the protectors of the people's property. It looks to me like unnecessary duplication of work—when we must first fight the policemen before we can get a chance to stop the looting."

Mr. Pinchot's Statement.

Mr Pinchot's statement follows:

PORTUGAL SHOWS NEW CHURCH LAW

Representatives of the Powers Want Further Amendments.

Lisbon, July 27.—The government has delivered to the representatives of the powers copies of the promised amendments to the law of separation, exempting the foreign churches from the payment of one-third of their revenues for charities and removing them from the dominion of the fiscal authorities of the Portuguese churches. The diplomatic corps is insisting that the government also amend that article of the law which makes obligatory the furnishing to the government of information relative to the officiating clergyman.

White Plague Cuts Boy's Life Sentence to a Half Year.

Charles Melodrowski, the "boy bandit," who shot and killed Policeman Harry A. Chesmore Jan. 6 of this year in a Superior street car, died last night at the Minnesota state penitentiary at Stillwater. Tuberculosis cut to less than six months the life sentence imposed by Judge Cant after the boy had been convicted of murder in the second degree.

NEW AMERICAN FLYING RECORD

Chicago Man Stays in Air More Than Four Hours.

Mineola, N. Y., July 27.—St. Croix Johnstone, the Chicago aviator, broke the American endurance records for monoplanes and biplanes today when he remained in the air for 4 hours 1 min, 53⅘ sec., circling the aviation course of about five miles thirty-nine times. He was compelled to alight before his fifty gallons of gasoline were consumed, because of engine trouble in his "All-American Moisant monoplane."

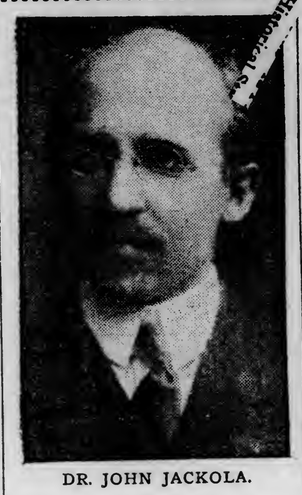

The previous American record, made at San Francisco on Jan. 20 last, was made by Parmelee, his record being 3 hours 39 min. 49⅘ sec.

Counting gasoline, oil and accessories, with his own weight, Johnstone carried about 500 pounds of weight in his flight, which was made at a rate close to sixty miles an hour and about 300 feet above the ground, in a gentle breeze.

The world endurance record belongs to M. Loriden, who remained aloft 11 hours and 45 min. and covered a distance of 469 miles.

MUCH OF STATEMENT OF STEELE IS UNTRUE, SAYS MAYOR CULLUM

MISSING DOCTOR MAY BE ROAMING IN THE WOODS

DR. JOHN JACKOLA.

Chief Executive Brands Many of Contractor's Claims as False.

Says All of Them Will Be Given Full Investigation.

No Crooks in City Hall—Cost of Improvements Low.

MAYOR'S COMMENTS ON THE STEELE CASE.

"It has been my proud boast that there are no crooks about the city hall.

"If there are, the public wants to know it.

"The members of the board of public works are honest men.

"I doubt if a fairer system of awarding contracts could be conceived to protect the public and the property owners than that followed in Duluth.

"The cost of improvements in Duluth is as reasonable as in any city in the United States.

"Mr. Steele may have a grievance on the West Superior street contract, and he has had several years in which to air it. The questions involved are legal questions.

"Much of Mr. Steele's statement is untrue to my knowledge."

Declaring that much of Contractor Hugh Steele's statement is untrue to his own knowledge, Mayor Marcus B. Cullum today came forward with a strong defense of the city officials and the city's method of awarding contracts.

He declared that he does not believe that there are any crooks in the city hall; that the board of public works may make blunders, but that the members are honest men; that the board which practiced irregularities would be suspended in twenty-four hours; that the awarding of contracts is open and above board, and that Mr. Steele should not have made the statements contained in his sensational letter to the city council Monday night unless he is prepared to back them up.

Warming up on the subject the mayor stated that he would like to have Mr. Steele produce any evidence in his possession warranting his assertion that any man could put him in good standing with the city for a money consideration. And he said that he would also like to know to whom he referred when he said that he

HOLSTLAW'S SON CALLED

Lorimer Committee Takes Up New Line of Investigation.

Asks About Finances of Man Who Confessed to Bribe.

Washington, July 27.—A new line of investigation was begun today before the senate Lorimer committee, when Herschell D. Holstlaw, son of State Senator D. W. Holstlaw of the Illinois legislature that elected Senator Lorimer, took the witness stand.

It was Senator Holstlaw who confessed to receiving $2,500 and $700 from Senator Broderick after the Lorimer election—for what purpose he was not sure, he testified at the first Lorimer hearing.

The son was assistant cashier in the Holstlaw bank at Iuka, Ill., in 1909. He explained today that the bank was owned by his father. He identified a deposit slip which he said was in his father's handwriting, showing a deposit of $2,500 in the Holstlaw bank on June 18, 1909, to the credit of D. W. Holstlaw.

Ask About Confession.

In today's hearing the task of finding out if money was "raised" to elect Lorimer was supplanted by the task of ascertaining if money was "expended" for that purpose. Senator Holstlaw's son was examined because the father was too ill to appear. An effort was made through the son to substantiate the truth of his father's confession. Counsel for Lorimer had not completed the cross-examination when the committee took an unusually long recess, until 3 p. m., in order to be present when the senate voted on the wool schedule.

Attorney Haney, representing Lorimer, insisted that Holstlaw tell if any other charges had been brought against

BAILEY RESIGNS COMMITTEE JOB

Says He Doesn't Like Senate's Way of Investigating Things.

BRITONS OFFER $500,000 TO OPPOSE RECIPROCITY

Canadian Makes Announcement on Return From England.

Parliament Is Expected to Be Dissolved Next Week.

Ottawa, Ont., July 27.—It is stated on the best of authority that parliament will be dissolved next week, probably on Thursday or Friday, and that a general election will take place some time between Sept. 20 and 25. Reciprocity will be practically the sole issue.

The government is relying for success at the polls upon the popularity of reciprocity in the rural constituencies. They concede that the cities are less promising.

It is stated that the opposition is depending largely upon an unusually big campaign fund to which Canadian manufacturers, British Imperialists and American opponents of reciprocity are expected to contribute.

Offer $500,000 Fund.

The Ottawa Free Press (Liberal) announces that a Canadian member of parliament who has just returned from England, has brought from a group of tariff reformers an invitation to the Canadian opponents of reciprocity to draw upon them for $500,000 for the campaign. It is understood that the war chest of the government is likely to be well lined.

Members on both sides of the house are closing up their affairs at Ottawa, preparatory to leaving any day for their ridings to begin platform campaigns.

RESERVE FLEETS ON BOTH COASTS

Navy Department Takes First Steps Toward New Policy.

Washington, July 27.—The navy department has taken the first step toward the formation of reserve fleets on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, by ordering the famous battleship Oregon and the cruiser St. Louis to be placed in commission and kept in reserve at the Bremerton naval station on Puget Sound. There soon will be added to this nucleus the cruisers Pennsylvania, Charleston, Milwaukee and Galveston.

On the Atlantic side no less than ten warships will be commissioned in the reserve fleet. Probably these vessels will be assembled at the Philadelphia navy yard.

The purpose of creating these reserves is to decrease the number of sailors to man the idle battleships and the large number of torpedo boat destroyers and submarines soon to come from the builders' hands. In the case of the Oregon, which in full commission and active service would require a crew numbering about 700, from 180 to 200 men will suffice to keep her in the reserve fleet, ready for action in case of emergency the moment the necessary number of sailors could be found to fill out her skeleton crew.

Undertake No Cruise.

The reserve vessels will not undertake any cruises, but will lie at their docks or swing from their moorings, the monotony of ship life for the crews being varied only by the work of turning over the engines at short intervals and manipulating the guns

Seats of the Mighty—You that frown
On evil-doers, far or near—
That from your lofty place look down
On all the wrongs that may appear—
Speak—and we'll hold the message dear
As words that prophets spoke of old—
Where are the probes of yester-year
That started out so strong and bold?

Prices have soared and prospects drear
Confront consumers, great and small;
We've reached a point at which we fear
We can't afford to live at all.
So to your feet we humbly crawl
(Softly among new probes we steer),
And wonder, as Time's sand grains fall,
Where are the probes of yester-year?

"WILD MAN" SEEN NAKED ON SHORE MAY BE DR. JACKOLA

RAID HOUSE OF BLACKMAILERS

Chicago Police Seize Letters and Weapons of Alleged Black Hand.

Chicago, July 27.—Police today raided a house believed to be the headquarters of an alleged band of "Black Hand" letter writing blackmailers and arrested four men. One man escaped by jumping out of a window. A small trunkful of letters written in Italian was unearthed and will be translated by the police. In one room several revolvers and a stiletto were found.

The police assert that the house raided is the home of Joseph Vitetta, who was captured Tuesday night by Mrs. Frances Hottesanto as he was attempting to extort money from her husband, following the sending of "Black Hand" letters.

Boys Report Seeing Strange Figure Delivering Oration to the Waves.

He Flees Into Woods When Chased—Searching Party Organized.

Dr. John Jackola, who has been missing since the latter part of June, may be roaming half naked in the woods near Lakeside and living the life of a "wild man."

The description given by those who have seen the strange man lead his friends to believe that the missing doctor, having become mentally unbalanced, is living like an animal on the shores of the lake. Finnish papers have also been found where the man made his bed in the woods.

The story of the so-called "wild man" was brought to the city by boys who are camping about a mile east of Lester Park and on the lake shore. The description of the man is so nearly like that of Dr. Jackola, and indications seem to be so strong that the stranger is Dr. Jackola, that John Saari and Gust Lahti, two friends of the doctor, left the city this morning

GROCERS AT PICNIC

Weather Man Breaks Precedent and Sends Them Fair Day.

Annual Gathering Attracts Large Crowd to Lester Park.

Hundreds of grocers and clerks with their wives and families are gathered at Lester Park today for the annual picnic, preparations for which have been under way for several weeks. It is by far the biggest event of its kind ever held by the grocers.

No better day could have been selected for this picnic, and those who enjoy such outings are making the best of it. All the cars running to Lakeside were filled to their capacity all day, and nearly every party that went there had a big lunch basket loaded with good things to eat.

The committees which had charge of the picnic have left nothing undone to make this outing a merry one, and the program of sports includes not only real athletic contests but events for amusement of a comedy order. A band will furnish music for the occasion and dancing will be held in the big pavilion in the afternoon and evening.

The sporting events will begin with a baseball game between the grocers and the commission men. This will be followed by races of all kinds for men, women, boys and girls. Among the mirth producers are the laughing contest by the city salesmen; the pie eating contest by boys under 14 years; the 50-yard dash by girls under 18 in hobble skirts; the ladies' whistling contest, and th. ladies' nail driving contest.

Prizes will also be given for the best bread made on the grounds; the oldest married couple on the grounds; the winners of the married ladies' backward race and for the tug-o'-war between the grocers, commission men and wholesalers. In the waltzing contest $10 will be given as the first prize and $5 as the second.

All the grocery stores of the city are closed today so that the grocers and their help can go to the picnic, and those Duluthians who did not provide for their household necessities yesterday are today finding themselves a little short on some things.

PINCHOT SAYS TAFT MISSES MAIN POINT IN ALASKA MESSAGE

course in the Controller Bay affair shows how hard it is to make a good excuse for a bad mistake.

"It leaves the root of the matter wholly untouched. In spite of all explanations the fact remains that Mr. Taft in opening the lands around Controller Bay without notice to the public, has given the interests behind Ryan an opportunity to acquire the key to the channel of Controller Bay before the public knew what was going on.

The map, which is a part of the president's message, supported as it is by the testimony of Mr. Graves of the coast and geodetic survey, before the congressional committee now investigating this question, appears to show that the mile and a half of harbor front taken up by Ryan, together with the tracts which the government retains and on which it prohibits private entry, does effectually control the valuable portion of the channel.

Should Have Kept Lands.

"But whether the president is right or whether the map is right, and whoever Ryan and his associates will be shown to represent, it is true, and will remain true, that the lands about Controller Bay should never have been let go. The public will agree with Col. Roosevelt that these terminal lands ought to have been kept in the public hands.

"The so-called Ballinger-Pinchot investigation opened the eyes of the public to the extensive and successful efforts which are being made to monopolize the resources of Alaska. The facts developed by this investigation constituted a solemn warning and a call upon the executive for special watchfulness in protecting public property in Alaska.

"In view of the need for a firm and careful policy thus emphasized, it was the president's duty to hold the terminal lands around Controller bay in government ownership. As with the coal lands, the title to the harbor lands, which are the key to the coal lands, should have been held, in any event until congress could act.

In National Forest.

"In the meantime, contrary to the general impression, the very fact that these lands were in a national forest made them fully and promptly available under lease for every proper use, yet held them subject to governmental supervision and control.

"The president is right when he says that what Alaska needs is development, but no legitimate development of the harbor front on Controller bay has been and can be proposed that could not proceed as well and as rapidly under suitable lease on government land as on private land.

"So long as these terminal lands remained in government ownership no one could monopolize the harbors. The moment any of them passed into private hands the danger of monopoly began.

"The fact remains, and the public will not forget, that before the executive order of Oct. 28, Controller bay was both available for development and safe against monopoly. Now it is no longer safe. This is abundantly proved, not only by the general history of commercial consolidation, but in particular by what the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate has already done in destroying or absorbing possible competitors.

As to Publication.

"The president denies that in granting Ryan's request for the opening of Controller Bay by the executive order of Oct. 28, there was any element of secrecy, and quotes a press dispatch of the same date announcing his action. But Mr. Taft does not mention that on the day he signed the order and notified the press in Washington, Ryan's surveying party was ready in Alaska, and that on Nov. 1, or four days after the order was made, and before the government officials in Alaska had been notified of the order, they had begun a survey of the Ryan claims on Controller Bay.

"The omission of the customary thirty days notice to the public that the land would be open to entry, gave Ryan what he wanted. It cut off all chance for any competitor to locate on the terminal lands until Ryan had made his selection.

Same as Total Secrecy.

"No amount of newspaper notice to the country after the executive order was signed could in any respect interfere with the pre-arranged work of Ryan's agents, or enable any rival to enter a foot of land on Controller Bay except what was not wanted by the people whom Ryan represented. It was like locking the stable after the horse was gone. If the order had been wholly secret, the effect could not have been different.

"It is possible that the protests already made may yet save the situation. But in any case it is unfortunate that the friends of conservation, in their efforts to bring about the development of Alaska for the benefit of the people, are continually obliged to expend their strength against the men who ought to be the protectors of the people's property. It looks to me like unnecessary duplication of work when me must first fight the policemen before we can get a chance to stop the looting."

there are indications of ore. It is stated here that when a well known Duluth capitalist was at the recent White Earth celebration he made application for descriptions by legal subdivision of section, township and range of lands declared to be of deceased Indians, with a view of purchasing them from the heirs, especially lands which contained any indications of iron ore. For a long time, it is reported, a Duluth syndicate has been reaching out for valuable White Earth lands, and some men in Duluth are said to already own in part or wholly lands on the reservation, and are also interested in other business enterprises at White Earth.

Was Back of Clapp Bill.

It is commonly reported that certain persons in Duluth and others interested in the White Earth lands and in lumber companies were largely instrumental in promoting the passage of the so-called Clapp act of June 21, 1906, from which the bulk of the confusion about titles and the scandals of securing lands from Indians, who had no legal right to sell, has arisen, the plan of procedure having been formulated some time previous to the final passage of the Clapp bill.

If the congressional committee goes to the reservation this fall to continue the investigation, all these facts will without doubt be brought out and given publicity. Then the men higher up will be reached, who have been the real source of all the troubles in the purchasing of the White Earth lands from Indians.

From what occurred immediately following the passage of the Clapp act, the wholesale purchase of pine and valuable lands of the Chippewas, and the questionable manner of the purchase, it is surmised that the Clapp act was passed in the selfish interests of those parties financially interested.

"WILD MAN" SEEN NAKED ON SHORE MAY BE DR. JACKOLA.

to search the woods for him.

Several attempts have been made by the boys to capture him. He has been seen many times of late. He will allow no one to approach him. When seen by others he runs swiftly into the woods like a frightened deer.

He appears on the lake shore at times with no clothes on his body and always with a book in his hand. When seen from a row boat yesterday he was standing on a stump apparently orating to the lake. When the boat containing the boys headed for shore he watched them for a time and then ran into the woods.

The boys who have been trying to capture him are Carl Gruesen, a son of Jacob Gruesen, the jeweler; Gilbert Magie, a son of Deputy Sheriff Frank Magie; Robert and Lawrence Chrudinski and William Denham.

The boys have been camping the greater part of the summer beyond Lester park. They first saw the man whom they think is Dr. Jackola several days ago. They had no idea then that it was Dr. Jackola as they saw him from quite a distance. He had no clothes on and had just come out of the woods. He stood for some time on the edge of the slashing. As soon as the boys started toward him he disappeared.

Seen Again.

Monday night as Carl Gruesen was going to the camp after dark, he was frightened by a man who jumped up from nearly under his feet and started for the woods.

Another time when the boys were out on the lake in a row boat he appeared on a large rock, with a book in his hand. With the free hand he made gestures and the boys could hear his voice as he alternately read from the book and orated upon it. He faced the lake and seemed to be trying to impress it with what he was saying.

Several attempts have been made to capture him. The boys have waited for him at times but when they were lying in wait he has never been seen.

Soon after seeing him for the first time, the boys began a systematic search of the woods. They found where a bed had been made in the long grass. It was just such a bed as a deer would make. Near the bed they found some Finnish papers and a labor paper printed in the English language. The labor paper was dated July 4.

Breaks Up Picnic.

It is stated that the boys in camp on the shore are not the only ones who have seen him. A group of people who were holding a picnic on the shore yesterday are said to have scattered in all directions when he appeared.

Dr. Jackola was one of the leading physicians in the city. He had made several trips abroad and had studied with several foreign physicians of international reputation.

Some time ago he was arrested in New York city on complaint of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who claimed that he was annoying her with his attentions. He was brought into court but was released on his promise to discontinue his attentions.

It is stated that this must have unbalanced him mentally for after returning to Duluth and his rooms at the Kitchi Gamme club he soon disappeared. No trace of him has been found until the story of the wild man was brought to the city by the boys.

Some of his friends have predicted that he would be found either dead or roaming the woods near Lester park.

COMPROMISE WOOL BILL PASSES SENATE BY VOTE OF 48 TO 32

of a report on that schedule by the tariff board

The Underwood house wool tariff bill was taken up first and defeated, 44 to 36. Except for Senator Brown of Nebraska, who voted for the bill, the vote was along strict party lines.

Senator La Follette, by 49 to 31, secured reconsideration of the vote on the house bill, the Democrats and insurgents joining in support of his motion. Senator La Follette then offered a modified substitute of his amendment as a compromise between the house bill and the original La Follette bill, as the Democrats and insurgents had agreed should be done. This action was taken after Senator La Follette's amendment to the Underwood bill was defeated, 14 to 66. Fourteen Republican insurgents voted for it.

On the final vote the senate passed the La Follette compromise bill, 48 to 32.

Senator La Follette startled the senate today when he declared he had heard that there was to be "a little performance today to defeat all real tariff legislation;" that a number of high protection Republicans had agreed to vote for the Democratic house wool bill, sure that its excessively low duties would justify a veto by the president.

Arraigned Tariff Board.

Senator La Follette also took occasion to arraign the present operation of the tariff board, charging that influences had been at work in the board to suppress certain facts in regard to the manufacture of print paper in this country. He said he believed there were men on the tariff board who were "working for the high purpose of serving the public," but that the report on the paper-making industry showed that somewhere there had been influences exerted to "leave the report in confusion so that the print paper manufacturers could go on getting excessive benefits, assessing the buyers of print paper for their own shortcomings."

He said the tables prepared by the tariff board did not show the true relation between the paper manufacturers and the timber holding companies.

Got Facts By Accident.

"The paper business thought it had its business so hedged that the tariff board could not find out the facts, and it threw its doors wide open to the investigators. According to the books, the paper makers were losing money. By accident the investigators got the full information regarding the paper making industry," he said.

Senator La Follette did not attempt to place the blame for the confusion in the commission's report, but said he was "investigating the matter."

He opposed holding back the wool tariff revision until the tariff board reported on the industry, saying that it "behooves congress not to expect too much from the tariff board," though the work is done conscientiously. He said the committee has not power enough to compel American manufacturers to disclose all the facts regarding their cost of production.

Smoot Defends Schedule.

Accompanied by a running fire of sharp debate on the wool tariff and its effect on clothing prices and the woolen industry, the various amendments to the Underwood wool tariff bill were presented in the senate at the opening of the early session today.

Senator Smoot denounced the various attacks upon the wool tariff as unjustified by facts. He said "that schedule K had been made the scapegoat" of the tariff agitation. Senator Martine of New Jersey produced a circular showing that the Provo woolen mills, of which Senator Smoot is an officer, had not been in operation for several years.

"If the Payne-Aldrich woolen tariff won't keep your mills running, in heaven's name what do you want?" asked Senator Martine.

Why Mills Are Closed.

"The mills have been closed because there is a Democratic house," retorted Senator Smoot, "and the woolen industry is demoralized by the threat of free trade."

The Underwood bill upon which the senate had agreed to vote today, provided a general reduction of 50 per cent in the tariff on raw wool and woolens. Senator La Follette's amendments imposed a much higher duty on raw wool, but reduced the duties on woolens about 33 per cent and corrected alleged inequalities. The Smoot amendments proposed a reduction of about 2 cents a pound on raw wool and some reduction on manufactured products of wool.

NEW PEERS NOT NEEDED

that the tension may be entirely abated.

Balfour Shows Ability.

Mr. Balfour, at one of the most serious crises of his career, has again proven himself to be an astute leader. No sooner was his letter affirming his intention to stand or fall by Lord Lansdowne published, than the incipient mutiny collapsed.

Organizers of the Halsbury banquet tumbled over each other to repudiate any disloyalty to Mr. Balfour. A list of more than 250 peers is published, who by letter declare themselves to be supporters of Lord Lansdowne's policy and ready to allow the parliament bill to pass under protest.

HOLSTLAW'S SON CALLED

his father. Holstlaw indignantly appealed to the committee against the course of examination, but the committee ruled he should answer.

Dug Up Family Skeletons.

The attorney then asked about charges of stringing a boy up by the thumbs to make him confess to stealing money, about matters connected with the purchase of a tombstone for the witness' grandfather and other things.

The son denied that his father had anything to do with some of the transactions, and in regard to others he defended his father's actions as entirely proper.

May Call Beef Men.

It is probable that heads of big stock yards companies at Chicago will be called as witnesses to explain the use of "lard" (money) in the Lorimer election. Witness Keeley said representatives of the Armour, Swift, Morris and other concerns might enlighten the committee.

The cross-examination of James Keeley, general manager of the Chicago Tribune, was completed yesterday. Not since the beginning of the investigation has a witness been put through the gruelling examination that Mr. Keeley experienced at the hands of Elbridge Hanecy, counsel for Senator Lorimer. Repeatedly the editor let the caustic remarks of the attorney pass with nothing more than a shrug of the shoulders, but at others he countered and retaliated. Throughout the day the object of the attorney appeared to be to establish an ancient grudge of the Tribune against Lorimer.

Believes White's Story.

The committee, after the cross-examination, asked the witness just two questions. One was whether the editor believed the story of State Representative Charles A. White, whose alleged confession of graft in the Illinois legislature was first printed by the Tribune.

"I did and do," was the answer.

The other question was directed at what Mr. Keeley had in mind when he said he had about changed his conclusion about having been swindled when he paid George Davis $600 for books that Glavis claimed that Lorimer, when in the house, received money from the lobbyists in Washington. He had no opportunity to explain on cross-examination.

"When I came to Washington a few days ago," Mr. Keeley replied, "Mr. Green, attorney for Glavis, came to me and said that if I would ask the district attorney to be easy on Glavis, he would tell me where the books were. The trunkful of books had dwindled to a memorandum book.

Knew He Had Book.

"Mr. Green said the book was in existence and he knew who had it. I told him I could not be a party to such an arrangement, and that the proper person for him to see was the district attorney. He said that he would see his client and call on me again, but he h asnot done so. He added that a search warrant would be necessary to get the book."

One of the points dwelt on by Attorney Hanecy in his cross-examination was the reputed criticism in Tribune editorials of senators who voted for Lorimer in the recent fight over his seat in the senate. Mr. Keeley said he had no recollection of such editorials.

Mr. Hanecy thereupon read several editorials. The first was entitled "Don't Crowd Mr. Burrows" and described the chairman of the first Lorimer committee as "picking nosegays."

"What four did you have in mind?"

"No four. The vote was 46 to 40. Four from 46 leaves 42, and four added to 40 makes 44."

Arithmetic Figure of Speech.

"Did you have any knowledge of any senator casting a dishonest or corrupt vote on the Lorimer case?" asked senator Jones.

"Of course not. The editorial was a mere arithmetical figure of speech."

Mr. Hanecy had incorporated in the record a portion of the Lorimer expense account of the Tribune's Washington correspondent, John Callan O'Laughlin. It showed $280 had been paid for reportorial assistance on the Lorimer case and $320 for the transcription of stenographic reports of Lorimer speeches.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 42 DULUTH, JULY 27, 1911

A Few More Municipal Plants

Any real criterion of the cost of city lighting by city-owned electric plants cannot be arrived at by citing here and there an isolated example—chosen by the municipal ownership advocates because it apparently shows a very low figure. Scientists all tell us that one of the greatest dangers in the track of every search after truth, no matter what the line of inquiry or investigation, is the danger of generalizing from insufficient data.

In order to provide a real criterion of what municipal electric plants actually accomplish, we have gathered statistics from a majority of all the American cities which today have such plants, and from many smaller towns also. We tried to include every city of 10,000 or more which has a municipal plant, but a few have ignored repeated requests for this information and a few others have answered that they have no report on operation and do not know what their lights cost.

However, we have received reports from about ninety per cent of the municipal plants in incorporated cities, and we shall show you the figures, withholding none. Here is a further installment, following the list alphabetically, showing the number of arc lamps in use for city lighting and the yearly cost of each to the city:

City—	Population.	No. of Arc Lamps.	Cost per Lamp per year.
Kalamazoo, Mich	40,000	400	$43.00	Moonlight
Lincoln, Neb	41,000	333	53.11
Marietta, Ohio	13,000	218	*38.00	Moonlight
Marquette, Mich	11,500	135	60.00
Mattoon, Ill	11,500	192	56.46
Miami, Oklahoma	4,500	9	100.00
Millvale, Pa	8,000	63	75.00
Mount Pleasant, Iowa	3,600	75	50.00
Nashville, Tenn	110,500	1319	49.00
Norristown, Pa	28,000	227	†38.55

*This figure for Marietta is the "net cost of operation," and does not include interest on bonds, depreciation, taxes, insurance, etc., and even this is on moonlight schedule; if the lamps burned every night as in Duluth this cost of operation alone would be $50.67.

†This figure for Norristown does not include any charge for depreciation, or taxes, insurance, etc. This plant is insufficient to supply all the light the city needs, so it pays a private company $59 each for 43 additional arc lights.

If the lamps in Kalamazoo burned every night in the year the cost would be $57.34.

You can make your own comparisons by remembering that the Duluth-Edison Electric Company offers to light Duluth for only $45 a year for each arc lamp—and give this City FREE electric light for city buildings, improved parks and an electric sign on the Aerial Bridge, worth $1,500 a year.

The alphabetical list is nowhere near ended yet. It will be continued in the next Lighting Talk, in next Saturday's Herald.

DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC CO.

MEET BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

House Investigators of Steel Trust Go to New York.

Postpone Calling Witnesses as to Tennessee Deal.

New York, July 27.—The house special committee of inquiry into the United States Steel corporation arrived in New York today to delve into the business affairs of the giant corporation at its own hearthstone.

Scores of witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify here, and today Richard Trimble, secretary of the Steel corporation, was called to divulge much information which the committee had been promised from time to time during its protracted investigation at Washington. This includes official and statistical documents bearing on prices, and minutes of the Steel corporation board meetings.

Representative Stanley of Kentucky, chairman of the committee, and his colleagues reached New York from Washington early in the day. The sitting was held in the council chamber of the city hall.

Study Tennessee Deal.

The inquiry here is to be directed almost immediately into the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the United States Steel corporation. John W. Gates told the first story of the transaction. Judge Elbert H. Gary, executive head of the Steel corporation, related his version of the deal and corroborative testimony of one or the other of these eminent Steel men is desired by the committee.

L. C. Hanna of Cleveland and Grant B. Schley of New York, who were members of the Tennessee Coal & Iron syndicate before the absorption, will be among the witnesses.

In Executive Session.

When the committee convened on motion of Representative Littleton it was determined to go into executive session. Plans for the hearings here had not been completed and papers and documents necessary for the examination of witnesses had not arrived from Washington.

Chairman Stanley announced after this plan had been agreed to unanimously that no witnesses would be examined today the hearings to begin tomorrow morning.

Richard Lindabury, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, who has followed the inquiry from the beginning, was immediately notified of the postponement. Mr. Trimble, secretary of the corporation, who had been subpoenaed for today, probably will be the first witness tomorrow.

Townsend Refuses Comment.

Seattle, Wash., July 27.—Burdette Townsend, whose report on the International Harvester company was made public yesterday, expressed surprise when told that the report had come to light. He said it had been pigeonholed so long that he had supposed it would never be published.

Mr Townsend declined to discuss the failure of the attorney general's office to take action on the report.

For some years Mr. Townsend has been employed on the public land matters entirely, and he is now of counsel for the government in the Alaskan coal land cases docketed in the United States supreme court.

Statement By Funk.

Chicago, July 27.—An official statement for the International Harvester company was given out by Clarence S Funk, general manager. It reads as follows:

The Associated Press dispatch is too general in its terms to admit of a specific reply, but we are willing to believe that the alleged report of 1908 to the department of justice contained charges which the most superficial investigation would have shown to be unfounded.

"It is hard to believe that any responsible person could make the charge, for instance, that the Harvester company was selling its export machines at less prices than are charged in this country, when the contrary has been shown to be true, not once, but many times."

In reply to the charge that the International Harvester company was receiving rebates from the United States Steel corporation on material purchased, officials of the company said that little steel was bought from the "Steel trust," the company getting most of its material from its own mill, the Wisconsin Steel company, and a large part of the remainder needed from the Jones & Laughlin company. It was said that practically nothing but sheet steel was purchased from the United States Steel corporation.

PHOTOGRAPHERS TALK ABOUT DIVISION PLAN.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An amendment to the constitution of the Photographers' Association of America, proposing to divide the country into an eastern and western division for the purpose of alternating the annual conventions, was the principal subject of discussion at the morning business session. This was left over from yesterday's business on account of the opposition which developed to the plan.

After the business meeting Mrs. Nina Spaulding Stevens of the Toledo, Ohio, art institute, delivered a lecture on "The Relation of Photography to Painting."

This afternoon the final session of the school of photography was held. A talk to the state treasurers' association by Treasurer A. L. Dozer was a feature of the afternoon session.

FRANCE EXPECTS NO GERMAN WAR

Is Prepared to Go the Limits of Conciliation in Moroccan Affair.

Paris, July 27.—The deadlock between France and Germany continues, but France expects that a way will be found for a peaceful solution. To this end she is prepared to go to the limits of conciliation, but cannot agree either to evacuate Morocco or hand over huge blocks of African territory merely in return for Germany's reiterated assurance that France will not be bothered in the future in Morocco.

The international peace advocates point out that the real danger of the situation rests in the nation's offending Germany's pride by driving her into a corner from which she might strike in anger.

Calls Kaiser Hypocrite.

The Matin today devotes an article to what it styles the "German bluff," claiming that no one in Germany would think of daring the risk of a struggle against the triple entente. The paper adds:

"The Agadir incident demonstrates that Emperor William's efforts to obtain better relations with Great Britain were pure hypocrisy. The real aim was to seperate England and France."

Grave, Says Asquith.

London, July 27.—Premier Asquith made a statement in the house of commons today on the subject of Morocco, which fully bore out the description of the situation as one of real anxiety. The position, the premier said, had reached a point at which it was bound to become difficult and harrassing unless a solution was found.

Favors Conference.

Brussels, July 27.—La Chronicque says that it bears that Emperor Willam favors another international conference to settle the Moroccan embroglio.

REASSESSMENT EXPECTED.

State Tax Commission Not Satisfied With Personal Assessment.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—That the state tax commission probably will order reassessments of the personal taxes in many counties in the state, is stated by a member of the commission.

At present the returns received by the commission are so incomplete as to render any investigation impossible but as soon as the final statements are made, the commission will investigate the reports and order reassessments in the cities in which it thinks the laws have been laxly inforced by the assessors, and consequently flagrantly violated.

Present indications are that more reassessments will have to be made of the personal property this summer than in any recent year. The entire difficulty has arisen over the new money and credits law passed by the last legislature, which greatly reduced the tax on this kind of personal property.

"It gives the people a chance to be honest, if they want to," the commissioner said, "but from many towns in the state, not a cent has been returned by the assessor under this head. From such as have assessed money and credits, approximately full returns have been made."

SCHMAHL'S ULTIMATUM.

Throws Down Gauntlet to Attorney General Simpson.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—Secretary of State Schmahl has issued an ultimatum declaring he will not let the Northwest Electric company of Minneapolis file amended articles of incorporation without the payment of a $20 fee, despite Attorney General Simpson's refusal to carry the matter to the supreme court for him. He also denies he ever entered into any agreement looking toward the settlement of the difficulty without a lawsuit, and refuses to abide by the decision of Judge Brill in district court that the original payment of $50 for filing the original articles of incorporation is sufficient.

Julius A. Schmahl's ultimatum is two-fold—it is a direct defiance of the attorney general and a declaration of war on the subject of the controversy.

When you deposit your money in the bank there is just enough trouble about getting it out again to give you an opportunity to think twice—and thinking twice avoids many foolish expenditures that are afterward regretted. In many foolish expenditures the bank your money is much farther out of temptation's way than in your pocket, and there is no danger of it being lost or stolen.

You can open a Savings Account at this bank with as little as a dollar, and you needn't be ashamed to "start small" because that is the way that most wealthy people started. It is starting that is so important. Don't wait for a "convenient" time—start at once with what you have.

WEST END

WILL NOT BUILD DOUBLE DECKER

Fill and Culvert Favored for Miller's Creek Crossing.

The double-deck bridge, proposed for the connection of Piedmont avenue and the Hutchinson road and the joining of the boulevard at Miller's creek, will probably not be built. This was the opinion arrived at following the conference of County Commissioner J. W. Cummings, Aldermen Bernard and Hoar; O. G. Olson, George G. Bloedel and A. J. Meldahl of the board of public works; L. Mendenhall, F. A. Patrick, John Jenswold, Jr., and L. C. Merritt of the park board; City Engineer McGilvray and Ole P. Kinn of the Hillside Improvement club.

Instead of the double-deck bridge, a fill may be made. The roads and the boulevard would have to be cut down three or four feet on each side of the creek. A concrete culvert will be built, and it is proposed to build a 30-foot roadway over it.

County Commissioner Cummings thinks that the fill would cost more than the bridge. In advocating a bridge, he specifies that it be of reinforced concrete. It would cost about $22,000. The city engineer will prepare an estimate of the cost of a fill.

The party also made a trip of inspection over the new Hutchinson road.

POKER PARTY GIVEN AIRING

Duluth Man Lost $500 "High Spading" After "Sociable Game."

Refuses to Pay Check Given to Cover Gambling Losses.

An East end poker party and its aftermath are being aired today in municipal court.

The suit of J. G. Carter against Charles W. Fitzgerald to recover $400 on a check was started yesterday afternoon before Judge Cutting, and is being continued today.

Carter claims that the check was given in exchange for currency, and Fitzgerald seeks to avoid judgment on the grounds that the check was given to liquidate a gambling loss.

It appeared from the testimony yesterday afternoon that Carter, Fitzgerald, D. G. Cutler, Jr., and Lee W. Farmer indulged in a game of poker one evening in July a year ago. Carter said that he lost heavily and settled in cash. He explained that he always carries about $1,000 in currency with him to use in his business as an adjuster. He denies that the check was given him by Fitzgerald to settle losses at cards.

Two checks are involved in the transaction. The first called for $500, it seems, and Carter said that he could not cash it. Later he said that Fitzgerald gave him $100 in cash and another check for $400, which Carter said was not good, as Fitzgerald did not have sufficient funds in the bank to meet it. It is upon the latter check that the suit was brought. Carter stated that the transaction took place in his room at the Commercial club.

After the poker game had adjourned it seems that Carter and Fitzgerald started to "high spade." It is said that they began at $1 and soon went to $5. When they quit it is claimed that Fitzgerald was a heavy loser, and that it was to "square up" that he gave Carter the first check. Farmer and Cutler did not take part in the "high spading" and attempted to stop such high play, it was shown, as the poker party started as merely a "sociable game."

The testimony this morning covered about the same ground as yesterday, little of material interest being introduced. It was stated that the second check, tendered after the payment of the $100 cash, was dated Jan. 2, or six months later. It was claimed that this was done at the request of Fitzgerald and with Carter's consent, in order that Fitzgerald might be better able to meet it. Carter said that at the time the second check was tendered, Fitzgerald stated that 'it would probably be taken up before the date named, and that Carter would never have to tender it.

Fitzgerald occupied the stand the greater part of the morning, and told in detail his version of the "party" at which he claims to have lost the $500 for which he gave Carter the first check. At the conclusion of his testimony Carter went on the stand again for rebuttal. He was being questioned when court was adjourned at noon until 2 o'clock.

RAILROADS

SELECTS NEW TERMINALS.

Michigan Central Railroad Moves Shops From Michigan City to Niles.

South Bend, Ind., July 27.—Niles, Mich., has been selected as a division terminal on the Michigan Central railroad for both passenger and freight traffic. The shops located at Michigan City, Ind., will be moved there. Three years ago the company bought land for freight yards, so now it will only have to erect shops. It is said that 500 men will be transferred from Michigan City by the change.

First word of the removal of the division offices and shops came from Detroit, where the railroad directors have been in session several days. It was announced the change will be started within thirty days.

The change will equalize the length of divisions between Detroit and Chicago. Formerly the division from Jackson to Michigan City was 153 miles long and that from Michigan City to Chicago only 56 miles. In the future the Jackson division will be 117 miles in length and the Niles division 93 miles.

MUST PAY FOR ERROR.

Northwestern Road Compelled to Sell Cheap Tickets for Thirty Days.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—Through an error in figuring, the Northwestern railway by a tariff effective Aug. 20, will be compelled to sell second-class tickets between the Twin Cities and Duluth for $2.55 for thirty days to parties of ten or more persons. Under the new tariff, the rate should be $3, but the federal law refuses to recognize such mistakes and the road will not be able to take the tariff out in less than thirty days.

Travel on the rate between St. Paul and Duluth is not heavy.

"See America First."

In its campaign to "See America First," the Great Northern railroad is having various portraits and relief maps of the country of the West prepared and distributed at its principal offices. This morning the local office received two paintings, one a picture of the Mount Jackson Glacier, in the Yellowstone National park, and the other of the lower two Medicine lake glaciers at the same park. The pictures were hung up in a conspicuous place. Recently a relief map was received, and it is to be seen in the company's window.

Complying With Law.

In compliance with the new Illinois law, which requires the use of individual drinking cups on all railroads, and at public places in that state, the B. & O. S. W. and C., H. & D. have purchased thousands of the paper cups which are distributed to passengers after the glasses or tin cups have been taken up at the state line. It is understood that the Big Four will use these sanitary cups, not only in Illinois, but over the entire system. Kansas was the first state to pass the individual drinking cup law, and it has been followed by Nebraska, Illinois and other Western states. For several years paper cups have been in use on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western road.

AMONG RAILROAD MEN

F. G. Gujer, traveling freight agent for the Rock Island, is in the city from St. Paul.

F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range; H. Johnson, auditor, and Thomas Owens of Two Harbors, superintendent, of the same road, returned this morning in the president's private car from Tower, where they have been inspecting the summer cottages at Lake Vermilion.

L. H. Peters, freight agent for the Boston & Albany railroad, of Boston, was among the visitors in Duluth yesterday. He reports that the shipments of grain from the Central states has been fairly heavy this summer, and expects a much bigger one from the Western states. The spring and early summer business this year was far below the average, he states, but at this time the business is picking up, and with the big increase expected, he believes the volume of business for the year will compare well with that of last season, and may even exceed it.

J. I. Thomas, general agent of the Northern Pacific, has recovered from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Lindbergh Gets Favorable Action By House Rules Committee.

Washington, July 27.—The next big investigation to be undertaken by the house of representatives will be to determine whether there is a great banking combination with power to control credit, exchanges and deposits and cause business depression and panics.

After hearing Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota today, the house rules committee decided to report favorably a resolution at its next meeting.

WAS CHASED INTO LAKE

Ludvig Levisto Tried to Drown Imaginary Snake in Icy Water.

Another Reptile Chases Half Clad Man Along Superior Street.

Ludvig Levisto and Albert Lund had exciting experiences with "snakes," the former yesterday afternoon and the latter early this morning.

Claiming that he saw a huge, bright-colored reptile chasing him, yesterday afternoon, Levisto plunged into the lake. Screaming at the top of his voice for help, he tried unsuccessfully to lead the creature beyond its depth to drown it in the icy waters of the lake. Not succeeding, he would have held it under the surface until he had suffocated the last spark of life from its body, had he not been taken in hand by the police. The policemen on the beat were attracted to the scene of the commotion, and wading out into the lake, they dragged Levisto to the shore, whence they dispatched him to police headquarters in the Black Maria.

About 4 o'clock this morning Lund dashed from his room over a Bowery saloon, clad only in his trousers and a coat. Dashing along the brick pavement with his bare feet, and exercising his vocal organs to the limit of their capacity, he called for a policeman. He claimed that his roommate was having the "snakes," and that he couldn't do anything to help him. He claimed that he could see them crawling all over him, and that work as he would, he couldn't chase them out of the room. He also was sent to the station in the hurry-up wagon.

This morning both pleaded guilty to having been drunk. Each got ten days straight in the county jail.

SIGN BOARDS ON CROSS ROADS

Work Is Being Done Under Auspices of Duluth Automobile Club.

The work of posting sign boards on all the cross roads near Duluth has begun.

The work is being done under the auspices of the Duluth Automobile club. On each cross road boards are being placed and also the point to where the road leads, and the number of miles to it. The names of the road is also given with other data in regard to the points on the different roads crossing.

These signs will prove very convenient to those who wish to drive in the country, but who know very little about the roads. With the signs in all parts of the country it will be hard to get lost.

Up to this time the roads about Duluth have been a great puzzle to those who are not used to them. Many have become confused and have traveled miles on the wrong road. This will now be eliminated under the sign board system.

BOYS LOCKED IN BOXCAR

Had Planned to Beat Their Way From St. Paul to Winona.

Are Sent to Duluth Instead and Arrested on Arrival.

Intending to beat their way from St. Paul to Winona, Ovie Lillstein and Arthur Horwitz, 18 and 20 years old, respectively, were locked in a box car and came to Duluth instead.

They were found in the car this morning by Patrolman Andree, who sent them to headquarters on charges of trespass. The boys evidently picked out the wrong train. But it was probably fortunate for them that it did not go any further than Duluth, as otherwise they may have been subjected to terrible hardships. They might have been locked in the car for days without food or water, and were some one not attracted by their cries they might have been found dead when the car was opened. After hearing their stories they were released by the police on their promise to return to their homes at St. Paul. They said that they had had sufficient experience with the hobo's favorite mode of transportation.

ARE FORCED TO GIVE MATINEE

The seat sale for Jappyland, the musical home talent show which is to be given at the Orpheum theater tonight and tomorrow night, has been so large that it has been decided to hold a matinee Saturday afternoon.

Many tickets were sold which were to be exchanged for seats later at the theater. There was no way of keeping check on the number sold and the number exceeded the number of tickets for the two nights. For those who did not get their tickets exchanged the matinee was arranged.

IS BOOSTER FOR ALASKA

New York Man, Returning From Skagway, Enthusiastic Over North.

Says That Country Will Surprise World With Agricultural Products.

W. H. Williams, a resident of New York who has just made a trip to Skagway, on the coast of Alaska, and who is stopping at the Spalding today, brings back to the states a very high impression of the future of the northern possessions of the United States.

"People down here have gained the idea that Alaska is, next to the Arctic regions the coldest place in the world," said Mr. Williams at the Spalding today. "At Skagway and along the coast and from there for many miles into the interior of the country the winters are not as cold as they are right here in Minnesota.

"Europe has been the destination of Americans when they went traveling for a vacation. I have made two trips to Europe and I did not see half as many interesting things as I observed upon my trip to Alaska. We have a wonderful country up there and few of us realize just how wonderful it is.

"For innumerable years in the generations to come, Alaska will be able to supply the coal to the United States. That vast mineral resources of the country are passing into the hands of a small circle of capitalists, is to be regretted. They are slowly opening the interior of the country. At Skagway they informed me that a railroad leading from Skagway into the interior and touching some of the richest mineral belts of the country lying back from the coast, was a probability of the next two years.

"They are raising wheat in Alaska that is of high quality. There are a few pioneers of the country who will tell you that in the future Alaska will surprise those who have only a vague idea of the country by the immensity of its agricultural resources and the quality of agricultural products it will produce.

"Through this trip to Alaska I have learned that the people up there are not of a roaming class, as many of us have in ignorance pictured the greater part of the population of the country, but settlers who intend making their homes there. They believe in the future of Alaska and want a more stable government than they have at the present time. They believe Alaska is not even yet in the infant stage of its development, and that the future will show it to be perhaps the richest country in the world."

CUNNING RUSE.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Give me your answer," he pleaded.

"Why are you in such a hurry all of a sudden?" she asked. "It has taken you a year and a half to make up your mind to propose to me."

"Well, if you must know, I'll tell you. There's another girl I'm going to ask, if you decide not to have me. You see I felt that, after keeping you waiting so long, I really ought to give you a first chance."

Then she, of course, answered yes without further consideration.

HARDSHIPS.

Chicago News: "I wouldn't mind being arrested," said the intellectual hobo, "if the police would do the job in a refined and gentlemanly way, but they have no true courtesy in their make-up. I think that every cop should be supplied with a manual of etiquette, with instructions to read it whenever he is not asleep. A policeman isn't happy unless he is using his club.

"The other day I went up to a peeler who was standing on the corner and asked him what time it was. He gave me a clip on the head and said: 'It just struck 1.' When I climbed to my feet again I said: 'I'm glad I didn't ask you at 12 o'clock.'"

"I heard Jack Haverly tell that story forty years ago," said the sympathetic citizen, "but it seems to improve with age."

"No story is good until it is properly mellowed," replied the intellectual hobo. "But that yarn illustrates the attitude of the ordinary policeman toward the hobo, whose only crime is that he looks upon work as a waste of energy. Last night, exhausted by a long journey, I was sinking to sleep in a boxcar down in the freight yards, and was dreaming of my lamented godfather, when a policeman seized me by the feet and dragged me out and smote me in many places with his club. Then he loaded me into a wagon and I was taken to the station and locked up for the night.

"I didn't know until this morning why I had been deprived of the priceless boon of liberty. Then I learned that a clerk in one of the banks had packed his grip with a quantity of cash and jumped the town. The police had failed in their efforts to capture him, and were being roasted by the public prints, and in their desperation they arrested all the hobos they could find.

"That's the police plan the world over, and the hobo is always the fall guy. He has no one to love him, none to caress, and it's always safe to use his head for a chopping block and lock him up and feed him prunes and slit on him. I was turned loose by the magistrate when he heard my story, and the policeman who ran me in was reprimanded, and now I am getting out of town with what speed I may. That policeman naturally has a bitter grudge against me."

"Your feeling against the police is based upon imagination," observed the citizen.

"I wish it was," replied the hobo wearily. "It's the fault of human nature that the policeman is always filled with a frantic yearning to deface somebody's head. If you place a weapon in a man's hands he naturally wants to use it. Somebody gave David a sling and he went out after giants and got Goliath's goat. George Washington got hold of a hatchet and he simply had to chop something with it, and so the old man was shy a good, serviceable cherry tree. William Tell had a bow and arrow, and nothing would do but he must shoot an apple off his son's head. Thus history proves that if you put a weapon into a man's hand he is going to use it.

"The law puts a club in a policeman's hand and gives him a lot of foolish advice concerning the way he should use it. You might as well give a child a razor and tell him not to cut anything with it. The policeman has his club and he is just aching to hit something with it.

"He can't use his club on the merchant prince or the prominent citizen, no matter how much such people violate the law. He has to choose his victim carefully. He must select a man who has no influence, no bank account, no friends. The hobo measures up to all requirements, and so the copper operates on his head at every opportunity.

"I have read in the newspapers that women want to be policemen, and at first the idea looked good to me. But I believe now that they'd be as bad as men in a year. They'd all carry rolling pins and they'd soon be looking around for suitable heads to use them on."

THE BALD TURKEY.

Red Man: The Indians of our country have many legends connected with certain peculiar habits or customs prevalent among them. If one should chance to visit the home of an old Indian he would perhaps notice a turkey wing hanging near the fire.

This the Indian uses to fan his fire into a flame and make it burn brightly, or perhaps in the sultry days of summer to fan himself. If asked why he uses the turkey wing intead of the wing of any other bird he would no doubt relate the following story:

Many years ago the fire of the world was nearly extinguished; this happened just at the beginning of the winter season. The birds of the air were filled with anxiety, for their intuition told them they would need heat to keep them warm through the winter.

A bird council was held and it was decided that birds which could fly the highest should soar into the air and see if they could find a spark of fire anywhere. The efforts of the eagle, lark and raven were in vain. The honor was left to the little brown sparrow, who spied a spark of fire in the hollow of an old stump in the heart of a deep forest.

The birds flocked around the stump and tried to decide who should pick the spark out. But all their efforts were in vain; to their dismay they saw the spark growing smaller and fainter. The turkey then volunteered to try to keep the tiny coal alive by fanning it with his wings. Day after day the turkey kept fanning; the heat became greater each day until the feathers were singed off the turkey's head. If one notices carefully he will see lumps on the head of a turkey that appear as blisters.

It is believed that the turkey was so badly burned that all turkeys since have had bald heads and wear the blisters as a memento of the bravery of the turkey. The faithful turkey lost his beautiful feathers, but he gave back the fire to the world; so in his honor and as a memorial of his faithfulness the Indian uses the turkey wing to make his fire burn.

A SELFISH VIEWPOINT.

Los Angeles Times: Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, was discussing, at a Washington banquet, a measure of which he disapproved.

"This measure," he said, "is a sign of narrowness and selfishness. It reminds me of the scholar to whom his teacher said on the 1st of February:

"'Why was George Washington a great man?'

"'Because,' said the scholar promptly, 'we don't have no school on his birthday.'"

ON THE IRON RANGES

ONE SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

Joseph Rebrovich Arrested in Eveleth on Charge of Dynamiting.

Police Think He Was Ringleader in Plot to Kill Miss Roderich.

Eveleth, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Rebrovich, employed on the Missabe road section gang, yesterday afternoon was arrested at his boarding house on Cleveland avenue by Sergeant Peter Nordi, on a charge of attempting to kill Miss Roderich by dynamiting her home. He offered but little resistance, and was lodged in the city jail. He will be given a hearing soon in municipal court.

The police are confident they have landed the guilty party, as Rebrovich is known to have visited the Roderich home recently and examined the room in which Miss Roderich slept. Last Sunday he visited her home in company with two friends, and after a quarrel is alleged to have threatened to kill her. The couple have been acquainted for over a year, meeting at N. Luppovich's boarding house, where the Roderich girl was employed. Last week it is claimed, Rebrovich waylaid George Krobich, a brewery wagon driver, who will marry Miss Roderich, next week, and attempted to assault him with large stones. The incident occurred at about midnight at a lonely spot and only by taking to his heels did Krobich save himself from bodily injury. When seen by the police Tuesday evening to swear out a complaint against Rebrovich, the girl was too frightened to speak and her bridegroom-to-be, George Krobich, filled out the complaint, taking

Two Miners Watched.

Two miners, who formerly worked with the accused man at the Spruce mine before he commenced railroading and who are still mining here are being closely watched and may be held as witnesses, as it is believed they furnished Rebrovich with dynamite secured from local mines. Rebrovich who is a section hand, did not work the past week and it is believed he laid off in order to secure time with which to prepare plans for dynamiting the Roderich home.

The Roderich home is being guarded by the police and neighbors. The bedroom used by Miss Roderich was fearfully damaged. There is a large hole showing where the dynamite exploded in the flooring. A large trunk and chair which prevented the charge from having too much force, have been removed from the bedroom to other quarters. The dynamite which was placed on soft ground, exploded within a foot from the girl's bed, and but for the softness of the earth on which it was placed would easily have caused the death of the girl.

Miss Roderich shortly after the accident planned to leave town with her lover, George Krobich, because of the shock from the incident, but her friends persuaded her to remain here and she will appear as the state's star witness against Rebrovich, who is about 35 years of age. Miss Roderich is much younger, good looking, and popular amongst her neighbors on Douglas avenue.

STATE MINES PAY LARGE ROYALTIES

Report of State Treasurer Smith for Past Fiscal Year.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—While the amount of business for the current calendar year done in the mines on state lands in Northern Minnesota is considerably below that of last year, the receipts from royalties and leases at the state treasurer's office for the fiscal year ending next Monday will exceed those for the fiscal year of 1910 by $47,424.78, according to a statement issued by State Treasurer Smith yesterday.

The difference is due to the fact that beginning Aug. 1, 1910, several large quarterly payments of royalties were made by the companies and were credited to the account of the present fiscal year. However, the ore upon which they were paid was mined during the fall and consequently credited to the calendar year 1910.

Stagnant business conditions in the iron and steel world are given by J. F. Funk, clerk of mineral lands in the state auditor's office as the chief reason for the falling off in this year's production in iron ore in Northern Minnesota, with a consequent reduction in the revenues to the state.

Hibbing to Play Virginia.

Hibbing, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing baseball team will go to Virginia Saturday, playing there against Cohen's team that afternoon and also Sunday.

Invitations have been received for the wedding of Richard Eddy of this city to Miss Bertha Ridge of Duluth, which will occur Aug. 7 at the Northwestern Deaconess' home, Duluth. Rev. Dr. Cooper of Duluth will officiate at the wedding. The couple will be at home here on Jackson street Sept. 1.

DR. VINCENT TO VISIT HIBBING

Head of University and Some of Faculty to Look Over Mines.

Hibbing, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Vincent of the state university, accompanied by members of the faculty, will visit Hibbing next month, probably on the 11th and 12th.

Dr. Vincent has never seen the Minnesota iron mines and it is his desire to get into close touch with all parts of the state and to know thoroughly all the conditions which will affect his work at the university, hence his two-day visit here.

A committee of members of the university alumni in Hibbing and Chisholm is preparing for the entertainment of Dr. Vincent. The Oliver club has been placed at the disposal of the committee and a reception will probably be tendered the distinguished visitors at the club.

Accompanying President Vincent will be the deans of the schools of mines and agriculture and some of the members of the faculty of these two schools.

RAPIER'S SLAYER REMAINS MYSTERY

Jury Unable to Determine Who Killed Homesteader Near Bigfork.

Bigfork, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Who fired the fatal shot that killed George Rapier, a homesteader living near here, may never be known. The coroner's jury that looked into the case was unable to ascertain who fired the fatal shot. The impression prevails that he was fired upon while picking blueberries by some rash hunter who mistook him for a deer.

The bullet entered his head and ranged down, coming out under his arm. Rapier went to locate a blueberry patch, intending later to bring out his family. His lunch was found by the roadside, but the body lay behind a windfall some distance from the road, where it had evidently been dragged. This was shown by the man's hair and the fact that his sox were pulled over his shoes. It is thought whoever shot him attempted to conceal the body.

The remains were in a terrible condition, partly eaten by some animal. Rapier leaves a wife and four children. He disappeared Friday last and the entire neighborhood had been searching for him until his discovery early in the week.

DAMIANO IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Biwabik Man Must Answer to Grand Jury for Killing Joe Barament.

Biwabik, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a preliminary hearing, conducted by Judge H. H. Salmon, William Damiano, who shot and killed Joe Barament here early in the week, was held to the next St. Louis county grand jury on the charge of murder in the second degree. He was taken to Duluth to the county jail today, while the funeral of his victim was held here.

The evidence at the hearing disclosed that Baramon owed Damian $5 and the latter went to Baramont's boarding house to collect it, a fight resulting after an exchange of words. Damiano is said to have dared his debtor to come out and fight and the latter accepted, taking a shot gun. This he discharged at Damiano, but missed him entirely with the charge, and Damiano then drew his revolver and, knowing that Barament was helpless, and had no other weapon, fired at him three times.

Barament was struck by the first bullet and fell to the ground, after which Damiano stood over him and fired twice again.

NEXT YEAR AT BIWABIK

H. G. Gilderman of Proctor, New President of Mesaba Range Firemen.

Large Attendance at Annual Meeting That Is Being Held in Proctor.

Proctor, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Proctor is host today to the annual meeting of the Mesaba Range Volunteer Firemen's Tournament association, which is being attended liberally by firemen from the different towns having volunteer departments and their friends. The village is well decorated and the citizens generally are aiding in the entertainment of the guests of the village. The annual parade was held today and there will also be various races a ball game and a dance.

Biwabik Wins Easily.

A business meeting was held last night in Odd Fellows' hall, President S. Kellar presiding. Seven departments were represented with three delegates each. Biwabik was given the next tournament without opposition. H. G. Gilderman chief of the local department, was elected president; H. D. Jones, chief of the Biwabik department, vice president; John C. Anderson of Biwabik secretary; Fred Myers of Biwabik, treasurer.

More firemen arrived this morning and joined in the parade which was held before noon. The parade was a very creditable affair and was witnessed by a large number of people. Prizes will be given for the department having the most men in line, the best appearing rig, etc. The prize winners will be announced later in the day. Following the parade the firemen gathered in the Odd Fellows' hall and listened to an address of welcome by Rev. C. J. Ramshaw, pastor of the M. E. church.

This afternoon about 2 o'clock the association race will be pulled off. Later in the day there will be a ball game between the Grand Rapids Juniors and the Proctor Juniors nine. Last year Proctor Juniors won three successive games from their rivals. This year Grand Rapids has won two games from Proctor, with the third game postponed on account of rain. There will be a game at 4 p. m., each day of the tournament.

Tonight there will be a dance in Odd Fellows' hall. There will be more races tomorrow. A number of Duluth people witnessed the parade today and will watch the races. Today the Catholic ladies are serving meals in the old church. Tomorrow the M. E. church ladies serve in the new I. O. O. F. hall.

Bonfires Bother Firemen.

Some maliciously inclined people last night in a spirit, presumably of fun, but much to the annoyance of the local department, started two or three bonfires about town while the firemen were meeting. These called the boys to duty and as soon as the fires were discovered and extinguished it was evident the practical joker was busy. It is expected before the meeting is over the usual stunt of turning in false alarms will be practiced much to the annoyance of the hosts of the association and their guests.

Aurorites Have Special Car.

Aurora, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Aurora volunteer fire department left for the Range Volunteer Firemen's association tournament at Proctor yesterday at 2:30 over the Iron Range. They have a special car which was taken to Proctor over the D. M. & N., from Duluth, reaching Proctor at 7:30 in the evening.

The Aurora department was accompanied by the high school band of thirty pieces. The band accompanied the firemen to Gilbert last year and has since been made a regular feature with the Aurora boys. The band has new suits and will make an excellent appearance. Practically every member of the Aurora department went and they expect to make as a big a showing at Proctor as they did at Gilbert, where they won more prizes than all the other teams combined.

The car bearing the Aurora boys was decorated with banners and when they left here everyone was in the best of spirits.

ROAD IS AGAIN MOVING TRACKS

Missabe Must Again Change Tracks to Get Out of Way of Buffalo Pit.

Hibbing, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the third time within the last two months the Missabe railroad has been compelled to change its tracks into Hibbing. The changes have been necessary because of the Buffalo strippings. About four weeks ago it was necessary to tear up the tracks very hurriedly and place them about ten feet west; another change of the same character is now necessary in order to prevent the tracks from falling into Buffalo pit, and the tracks are being moved very close to the Episcopal church by a big gang of men. This last change forces the road to change its tracks running into the depot also and the new track winds about like a letter S within the space of a very few hundred feet.

The cement depot which the Missabe is putting up south of town will probably not be ready for use until some time after Sept. 1.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC TO BE DISCUSSED

At Mass Meeting of Eveleth Protestant Churches Next Sunday.

Eveleth, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mass meeting of members of the local Protestant churches will be held at the church Sunday evening to discuss the liquor traffic with Rev. C. W. Stark, superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, as pricipal speaker. A special musical program will be given by the choir of the Methodist Episcopal church, under the direction of Choirmaster Raymond M. Dungan.

To Entertain County Meet.

Sunday afternoon members of the Sunday schools of this city will meet at the Methodist Episcopal church to organize a committee which will have charge of the arrangements for the two-day convention of the St. Louis County Sunday School association, which will be held here the middle of next month. Among those who are being considered as speakers for the gathering are: Rev. Yost of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. Dr. Rice of the First Methodist church, both of Duluth; Rev. Dr. Dick, Rev. W. E. Riley, Rev. Mr. Gillis, and Rev. Shutter of Minneapolis.

OLIVER CLUB ROOMS ARE BEING IMPROVED.

Hibbing, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of completely redecorating the interior of the Oliver club and painting the exterior is under way. The interior is being refinished throughout, most of the rooms being treated much as before though some changes have been made. New curtains and new hangings are also being installed. The exterior of the building, together with the fences and the huge wire tennis screens are also being painted. The Oliver club grounds are now in fine condition and the lawns are the finest in town.

KINSELLA PROBE IS BEING MADE

Lake County Ex-Official Alleged to Have Been Easy With Blind-Pigs.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evidence tending to show that exCounty Attorney John Kinsella failed to prosecute blindpig keepers along the line of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railroad, is being offered at the hearing conducted here by Marion Dougless of Duluth, special commissioner, appointed by the governor to hear the charges against the suspended public official. Sheriff Emil Nelson told of Kinsella dropping cases against blindpiggers after the evidence had been secured, citing specific cases in Beaver Bay and Silver Lake townships. Other county officials are being heard to corroborate the sheriff. Justice of the Peace Woodward told of Kinsella's methods in court, claiming the latter, who is not a lawyer, even quarrelled with his own witnesses. The hearing may be concluded this week.

Attorney John B. Richards of Duluth represents Kinsella and B. F. Fowler and John Dwan of Two Harbors appear for the county commissioners of Lake county.

MOUNTAIN IRON MAN IS KILLED

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services were held at Virginia yesterday afternoon for Peter Karnish who was killed at the Brunt mine here Tuesday when he was run down by a Lima engine. Karnish was a cripple, having a wooden leg in place of a limb lost in a former injury, and was assigned to light work in the mine office. Just why he was on the track is not known as his duties did not call him there. He was about 32 and leaves a family in Austria.

ENGINEER'S BODY IS TAKEN TO GLIDDEN, WIS.

Hibbing, Minn., July 27.—The body of Max Greenfield, who died of injuries received at the Dale Uno mine a couple of days ago, was shipped to his former days at Glidden, Wis., yesterday. The dead man leaves a widow and two children who live in Brooklyn. He was 34 years old.

"BOY BANDIT" DIES AFTER SIX MONTHS IN PRISON

ski was apparently a well boy. After he was placed in prison, the confinement told on him and tuberculosis developed. He was 16 years old last March. His parents are believed to be in Chicago, but they could not be located at the time of the trial.

The crime for which Melodrowski was sentenced has a prominent place in the records of crime in Duluth, for Policeman Chesmore was the first Duluth officer to be killed in performance of his duty. After Melodrowski and Alget Johnson, his 15-year-old companion, had held up the night clerk in the McKay hotel and taken $65 from the cash register, Chesmore caught them on Garfield avenue early in the morning, Jan. 6. While he was taking the boys to the police station in a street car and when the car was at Sixth avenue west on Superior street, Melodrowski fired several shots, three taking effect on the policeman. Chesmore died thirty minutes later.

The two boys escaped from the car and were captured the same night at an abandoned logging camp back on the hill. They were indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree and were tried separately at the January term of court. Melodrowski was convicted of murder in the second degree and was given a life sentence, the only sentence possible under the conviction. Johnson was convicted of murder in the third degree and sentenced to thirty years in the state penitentiary, that being the limit under the law.

The two boys were sentenced Jan. 28 and were taken to Stillwater a few days later, about a month after the crime was committed.

MUCH OF STATEMENT OF STEELE IS UNTRUE, SAYS MAYOR CULLUM

"knows who furnishes the ammunition."

Public Safeguarded.

Mayor Cullum stated that the public will stand for a mistake or a blunder, but will not stand for anything that looks like favoritism or crookedness. He said that the members of the board of public works are there to prevent chicancery or dummy bids, and that he doesn't see how the public can be safeguarded any better than under the present system. He said that the public wants to know if there is any foundation in fact for the statements of Mr. Steele, and extended a sweeping invitation to any contractor, citizen or individual to bring him any information whatsoever which will throw light on the matters involved. He said that this is a good time to make a thorough investigation of the board of public works or any other department whose methods might be questioned.

System Followed.

To make clear the system which is followed in Duluth in awarding contracts the mayor said in explanation, when first asked for an interview:

"All petitions for paving are presented to the common council by the property owners. They are then referred to the board of public works, which refers the petition to the engineer for estimates and specifications. The board then makes an assessment of 80 per cent of the estimated cost; the board then advertises for bids; board holds meetings Fridays and Mondays. All bids for public work are sealed bids, which are opened in public at such meetings. All contractors and property owners are present, pencil in hand to jot down the various figures and features of the bids. Property owners, in the case of paving, are allowed to say which bid shall be accepted.

"I doubt if a fairer way could be conceived to protect the public and the property owners.

"The charter does not require that the board should give the property owners a voice in the awarding of bids, but this is done voluntarily as a fair policy.

"The West Superior street paving was awarded in this way over the protest of every city official. The failure of this paving was largely because there was not a proper foundation, and it surprised nobody that knew anything of street work."

Speaking more particularly of the Steele case the mayor said that if Mr. Steele was offered $1,000 by someone else other than those connected with the city departments he should have said so in his first communication. "If he has knowledge of discrimination in any respect he should have been equally as plain in his statement," he continued. "Much of his statement is untrue to my knowledge, but he should be given every oppertunity to make good. If there are whispered conferences or collusion amongest the contractors previous to making bids, the board cannot be held responsible for things they know nothing of.

"The board of public works may make mistakes or an occasional blunder, but they are honest men. If there had been any discrimination practiced by the board under this method of awarding contracts the dozens of other contractors, and the property owners who have been present and carefully watched the proceedings, would have known this long ago. Generally the room of the board is full when any such paving contracts are awarded, and I have never yet heard a single complaint from any direction that the award was not made fairly and honestly, and to the lowest bidder for the particular kind of work desired by those paying for it.

Go to Lowest Bidder.

"If one man gets more contracts than another it is because he is the lowest bidder. The charter requires this and the board of public works which ignored this policy would be suspended from office in twenty-four hours. Dummy bids and chicanery of irresponsible contractors must be watched by the board. That is one thing they are there for. To take it all in all I don't see how the public can be safeguarded more effectually than they are, and the public ought to be familiar with this by this time. This policy has resulted in procuring improvements in the city of Duluth at as reasonable rates as any city in the United States. This also the public should appreciate.

"Mr. Steele may have a grievance in connection with his contract on West Superior street, and he has had several years' time in which to air such grievance. The questions connected with this matter are legal questions. These can best be explained by his or our attorney. As I have said, the public will stand for a mistake or a blunder but will not stand for anything that looks like favoritism or crookedness; and what I particularly want Mr. Steele to explain is that part of his letter that states: 'There is more back of this than to protect the interests of the taxpayer;' and wha evidence he has 'that any man could put him in good standing with the city for a money consideration.' Also, to whom he refers when he says 'he knows who furnishes the ammunition.' Such statements are open to all sorts of construction, and they should not have been made unless he is prepared to back them up.

"It has been my proud boast that there are no crooks about the city hall. The public wants to know whether this statement is correct or not; and I would be glad to have Mr. Steele or any other contractor, tax payer or individual put forward any evidence to the contrary. Perhaps it is just as well at this time to make a thorough investigation of this or any other department, whose methods might be questioned."

Mayor Cullum yesterday afternoon received an answer from Contractor Hugh Steele to the letter sent by him to the latter with the request that he fully explain the statements in his communication to the council Monday night.

Mr. Steele's explanation does not explain to the satisfaction of the mayor, and he has stated that he will ask again for additional light on the matter. The mayor states that he will not be satisfied until the whole matter has been sifted to the bottom and the declarations of Mr. Steele proven or disproven.

In his council letter Mr. Steele stated that if he had accepted $1,000 from another contractor not to bid on the Fourth street paving job he would be in good standing with the city today. Yesterday he said that the contractor referred to was P. McDonnell, but he did not so state in his letter to the mayor or refer to that part of the letter. He spoke of the Twenty-third avenue east paving and of the West Superior street work.

The Second Letter.

The letter sent to the mayor is as follows:

"Dear Sir: I was not in the office yesterday and did not get your letter until this morning. I have said nothing to the council but what I believe to be absolutely correct regarding the Twenty-third avenue east paving. I see my statement was contradicted by some official. All I know about it is this:

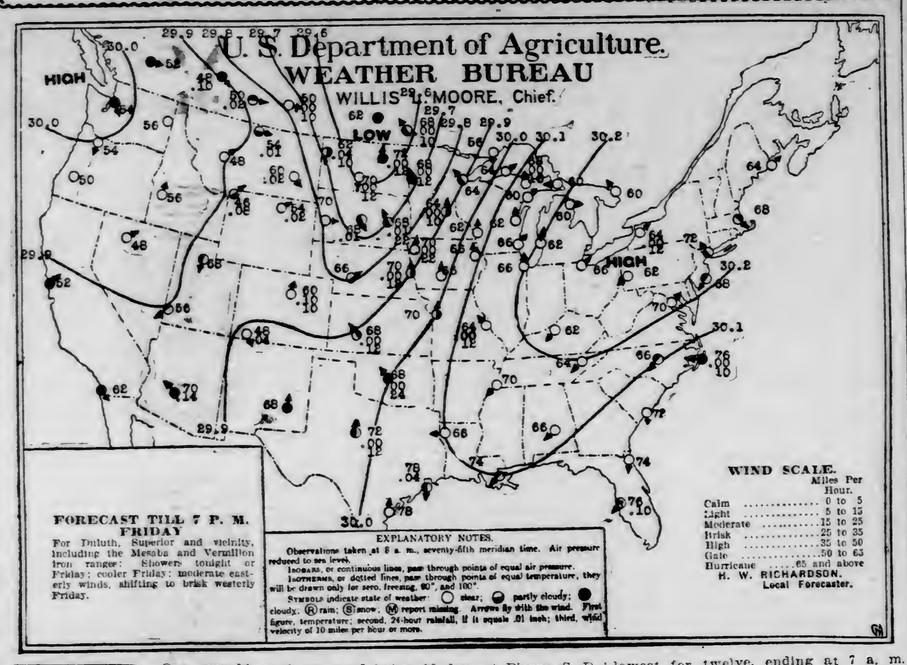

"Last summer the contractor repaired the paving. Several weeks afterwards bids were advertised for this work. I asked for the specifications and was told that the work was already done, but I bid on it at 75 cents per yard. Paddy's was $1.10. Bob Patterson told me afterwards that the work was let to McDonnell for less than my bid. Whether it was ever paid for I do not know. In regard to the guarantees on the street it is an easy matter to test the thickness of the material.

"Mr. Cullum, I think the city of Duluth has treated me shamefully for the last three years and I have reached the point where I am through until some change is made. I have wanted an investigation from the start as to whether I have done my work according to contract or not. I have asked the former city attorney to bring suit against me to clear matters up. I would like to see an investigation to place the blame where it properly belongs.

"I have been advertised as a defaulter by both the board of public works and the city council, so that I not only cannot get contracts from the city of Duluth, but am barred from neighboring cities when Duluth contractors are bidding on the work, as the argument is used against me that I cannot get contracts in my home town.

"I don't believe there is an official connected with the city that believes I am responsible for the condition of West Superior street. I consider that the city owes me at least $3,000 for work that I did under an agreement with William Morgan, acting for the city, to pay me for repairing the pavement providing the city could not show that I was responsible for it."

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

One would not want to plagiarize with the late chief executive of the nation as a victim, but the word which that national figure worked overtime is the only one that will express the general opinion of this weather. Last night was cool and beautiful; today is fair and cool. Opinions of Duluth weather cannot be expressed without the use of the word "cool." Showers and cooler weather are predicted for tonight and Friday.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:41 and it will set at 7:47 this evening, giving fifteen hours and six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much warmer weather prevails over Manitoba, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin in connection with the low pressure condition now centered north of the Dakotas. This disturbance also caused light showers over Alberta and the Rocky mountain region during the last twenty-four hours. High temperatures occurred Wednesday in Eastern Montana, the Dakotas and Nebraska, the highest reported being 98 deg. at Pierre, S. D. The easterly movement of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan depression will be attended by showers throughout the Northwest grain region today or tonight, while at the Head of the Lakes the showery condition may continue into Friday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 27.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Fair weather, probably followed by increasing cloudiness and local showers early Friday morning or on Friday.

Wisconsin—Showers tonight or Friday; cooler Friday in west portion.

Iowa—Showers tonight or Friday; cooler tonight in extreme west portions; cooler Friday.

Minnesota—Showers tonight or Friday; cooler tonight in west portion; cooler Friday in east portion.

North and South Dakota—Fair in west; showers in east portion this afternoon or tonight; cooler; Friday fair.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight in southeast portion.

WHAT SOCIETY WOMEN USE FOR SHAMPOOING

"Many society women," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the Philadelphia News, "prefer doing their own shampooing rather than go to the hairdresser's. The reason is obvious. Women whose social duties occupy most of their time do not feel like setting aside several hours for a trip to and from the shampoo parlor, hence the growing popularity of the home-shampoo. The use of canthrox is gaining favor because it requires little work and after a canthrox shampoo has been enjoyed the scalp is spotlessly clean and the hair takes on a delightful lustre and fluffiness. Canthrox shampoos are excellent for allaying itching and correcting all scalp and hair troubles. To prepare, dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water and your shampoo is ready."

Finding Excuses For Not Working

"In nearly every case," says a prominent physician, "when a man or woman loses the will to work it is because the power to work is gone. This nervous condition may be due to stomach trouble, overwork or impure blood, but whatever the cause there are certain medicines which are known to restore nervous energy and the clearness of the blood stream in a remarkable way. These when combined, as in Make-Man Tablets, have produced amazing transformations in a short time in run-down men and women.

If you feel weak and lazy, nervous and irritable, can't sleep, have touches of Rheumatism, Kidney or Liver Trouble, Make-Man Tablets are what you need. A free trial sent on request by Make-Man Tablet Co., Dept. 11, Chicago. Sold at 50c and recommended by A. E. Swedberg, White Swan Drug Co., 3 East Superior street, also 2015 West Superior street.

Be sure to ask Boyce Drug Store for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

BODY IS NOT IDENTIFIED

Man Killed At Carlton May Have Been Max Smith.

Only Paper Found Contained Address of West Duluth Contractor.

Mystery shrouds the identity of the supposed West Duluth man, who was cut to pieces by a train at Carlton Tuesday.

The body will proobably be brought to West Duluth for identification. The Carlton authorities have been unable to learn who he was and there were no papers in his clothing, except a note book in which was written: E. J. Zauft, 5613 Grand avenue, West Duluth."

Mr. Zauft who is a local contractor, when asked today if he knew anybody who would answer to the description of the man who had been killed by the train, said he did not. He advised the Carlton authorities to have the body sent to West Duluth.

The dead man was about 25 years old, weighed about 155 pounds, was about 5 feet, 4 inches tall. He had a smooth face and was dressed like a woodsman, except that he wore Oxfords and black stockings. He also had on a black shirt and wore a belt.

At Carlton, it is said that on Monday evening, the man stayed all night with a man named Bloom. Bloom said that the dead man's name was Max Smith. Smith, according to Bloom has a mother living at Willow River, Minn., and at one time, his father was an employment agent in Duluth.

Mr. Zauft today said that while Bloom's story might be right, he had no knowledge of anyone by the name of Max Smith and knew of no reason why his (Zauft's) name should be found in the dead man's notebook. Mr. Zauft said that he remembered having a man work for him last summer who answered somewhat to the description of the dead man, but said that he was not known by the name of Smith.

Interest was added to the case today, when Mrs. Louis Burgen, living at Sixty-first avenue west and Green street, told the police that she believed that it was her husband, who had been killed by the train at Carlton. Burgen is known to the West Duluth police, however, and he is an older man. He has been missing for several weeks from his home.

GYPSIES ORDERED TO "MOVE ON."

"Keep on the move!"

This is the order which the police have issued to the gypsies, which have camped out near the end of the Grand avenue car line.

Yesterday, a policeman was sent to the gypsy camp and ordered the tribe to get out of the city limits. They promised to break camp today and are said to be heading for Virginia.

There are between twenty-five and thirty in the gypsy camp which is visiting West Duluth at the present time. They are camping on the hillside at Seventy-second avenue west.

People who live in that vicinity have complained in former years of having the gypsy camp near their premises and have blamed wanderers for much petty thievery which has taken place.

DINNER FOR FOUBISTER

West Duluth Woodmen "Get Even" With Former Alderman.

Show Appreciation of His Entertainment at Thorald, Ontario.

When ex-Alderman J. E. Foubister accompanied the degree team of Old Hickory camp, No. 1555 of the M. W. A. to the national encampment at Buffalo, N. Y., a few weeks ago, he took the boys of the team to Thorald, Ont., his home town in Canada, where they were royally received.

In token of their appreciation, the uniform rank men arranged a spread in honor of "Jimmy" last evening at Great Eastern hall. The affair was held with little regard to formality and on the program which followed it was the sense of the banqueters that all present were brothers and no one would take offense at the jokes that were exchanged.

Mayor Cullum and several of the city officials were present to do honor to "Jimmy," who during the latter part of the evening was presented with a handsome gold band ring. On it was engraved the emblem of the Modern Woodmen order. The presentation speech was made by John Connelly and Mr. Foubister accepted it with much grace.

C. C. Salter, superintendent of the

J. E. FOUBISTER.

West Duluth postal station and captain of the degree team of Old Hickory camp, was toastmaster. Mayor Cullum was the first speaker. He said that it was getting to be a habit of his to come to West Duluth and threw several bouquets to the suburbanites, when he spoke of West Duluth as the industrial center of a Greater Duluth.

Other speakers during the evening were: J. E. Foubister, guest of honor; Alderman Charles Hoar, William Tuskey of Old Hickory camp; Charles Palmer, deputy city clerk; Capt. J .C. Quade of Duluth camp, No. 2341; Alderman William Bernard, Alderman L. A. Barnes, ex-Alderman W. B. Getchell, ex-Alderman M. J. Filiatrault, James Walsh, John Cashin, A. R. Armstrong and J. C. McDougall.

The musical program was one of the features of the occasion. Henry Fedi in his song or monologue on "All Alone," followed by "Down In the City of Booze," made one of the hits of the evening. Bert Collins also starred with his recitations. Others who gave vocal solos were Charles Zell, Carl Pearson and John Connelly. The Adams and the Svea Glee clubs and the members of the degree teams also sang. Matt Angles was accompanist.

The affair had a double significance. It was also to be known as the first annual banquet of the degree team, which was organized in 1900 and which has attended every national encampment which has been held since that time, going to the world's fair at St. Louis; Peoria, Ill.; Indianapolis, and Buffalo.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion and the meal was an excellent one and splendidly served.

CHICAGO POLICE ORDERED TO SHOOT

Mayor Says Rioting in Peddlers' Strike Must Stop.

Chicago, July 27.—"Rioting in the peddlers' strike must stop if the police have to fill the stations three deep with prisoners," said Mayor Harrison today. "While I am sorry for the peddlers who are forbidden by the new ordinance from shouting their wares on the streets, Chicago is a big town, and a majority of the citizens are opposed to the noise. This was shown at the public hearing before the council committee prior to the passage of the anti-noise ordinance."

Chief of Police McSweeney early in the day increased the reserve force at every West side station and declared he was determined to quell disorders.

Ordered to Use Revolvers.

Following the injury of four policemen in previous battles with the peddlers, the police were ordered to use their revolvers whenever they deemed it necessary to preserve the peace.

A special detail of police was sent to the Maxwell street station to guard municipal Judge Sabath's courtroom, where fifty of the striking peddlers arrested for rioting, were called for hearing. A crowd of 500 men and women gathered outside the station and jeered at the police while the cases were being heard.

THE DESIRED EFFECT.

Los Angeles Times: The jupe-culotte, or harem skirt, was being discussed at a luncheon at Sherry's in New York. Miss Lillian Russell, taking a spoonful of foaming vanilla soufle that a waiter served hurriedly, said:

"Well, the jupe-culotte will at least show that we women are bipeds—and that is more than the hobble skirt did.

"I know a pretty girl who bought from Paul Poiret's a very hobble-y hobble skirt when they were all the rage. The first time I saw her in this skirt I complimented her warmly. She blushed and looked pleased.

"'Yes, it is nice, isn't it?' she said. 'It really makes me look as if I had only one leg.'"

BERNSTEIN FIGHTS AGAIN.

French Playwright Has Duel With Substitute Antagonist.

Paris, July 27.—Henry Bernstein, the playwright, fought another duel yesterday as the outcome of riots instituted by the members of the Royalists' organization known as the Camelots du Roi, at the Comedie di Francais, which eventually forced Bernstein's play, "Apres Moi," off the stage. He was to have met the Royalist, La Cour, who is now serving a term of imprisonment for assaulting Former Premier Briand, but the government refused to grant permission to La Cour to leave the jail, even temporarily, to carry out this engagement. Maurice Pujo, another Royalist and member of the Camelots du Roi, of which organization La Cour is vice president, took the latter's place. The duel, which was with swords, was rapid and exciting. Bernstein scratched the forearm of his adversary twice, and was himself slightly wounded in the arm by Pujo. The seconds stopped the duel at the seventh bout.

M. Bernstein's other encounters were with Leon Daudet and M. Tery, only a few days ago.

ASHLAND SHERIFF REFUSES OFFER FOR BLOODHOUNDS.

Ashland, Wis., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Undersheriff Kleinstieber received a telegram yesterday from a place within thirty miles of Milwaukee asking him to bring his two blood hounds Sherlock and Watson on the next train, to search for a man who had been lost for three days. Coupled with the telegram, was an offer of $300, if the hounds found the missing man. Mr. Kleinstieber declined the offer, not only on account of the length of time since the disappearance, but also on account of the rain that has recently fallen.

CONSIDER RULES FOR OPERATION OF TRAINS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—Engineers M. H. Hovey of the Wisconsin railroad commission, also representing the Indiana commission, and F. G. Ewald of the Illinois commission met with D. F. Jurgenson of the Minnesota commission at the capitol yesterday to discuss a uniform set of rules to govern the safe operation of railway trains.

COULD NOT SLEEP WITH ITCHING RASH

All Over Baby's Body, Head and Face. Scratching Made Sores. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Have Had No Further Trouble.

"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who said it was chicken pox, and gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face.

"When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who said his condition was due to change of food and climate, and gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and it used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. He was completely covered with it at different times. It was at this time that my mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, or other kind of disfigurement, and baby is completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We have had no further trouble with baby's skin. Nothing stopped the itching, and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrell St., Roxbury, Boston, Mass., March 12, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 14A, Boston, for free sample of each with 32-p. book on the skin.

HAY CROP IS VERY SHORT

Northern Minnesota One of Few Favored Spots in Country.

Prices Are Higher Than They Have Been for Years Past.

Although Northern Minnesota is harvesting a good crop of hay this year, the government reports show that the hay crop of the United States will not run over 60 per cent and the owners of hay consumers are worrying over feed bills.

In Duluth hay is higher now than it has been for years at this season. No. 1 timothy is selling at $19 and No. 1 upland at $15 to the jobbers, so that by the time the consumer—or the owner of the consumer—gets it into his barn, the price is a cause for worry.

In Chicago hay is bringing $22 on the market, while Milwaukee reported $26 for No. 1 timothy Saturday.

The Northern Minnesota crop was matured earlier this year than for some years and the timothy has been practically all harvested now. Prairie hay will be cut as late as September. In Wisconsin and some of the other hay centers of the Middle West, the crop is backward, which accounts for the higher prices prevailing in markets supplied by those fields.

The Milwaukee Sentinel grew facetious to a marked degree last Sunday in discussing the hay crop and the market. It said:

"No longer will the auto tourist incite the envy of the pedestrian. To show real class you must go back to old 'dobbin.' And not everybody can afford to own a 'dobbin.' To be the proud possessor of a string of ponies will be the height of affluence.

"That horses are to succeed the ill-smelling auto as the plaything of the rich is a simple deduction. Horses eat hay. Hay prices are now the highest in ten years years and indications are that before the winter is over all previous records will be broken.

"Choice timothy hay sold for $26 a ton in Milwaukee on Saturday and the advance is scarcely under way. All sorts of fancy prices are predicted by hay dealers and farmers. One Wisconsin farmer is out with the statement that hay will go to $50 a ton. He is probably basing his estimate on the shortage in his own immediate vicinity. However, $40 hay is freely predicted. There seems little doubt that at least $30 a ton will be the prevailing price.

"A continued shortage in the crop is responsible for the record price in the hay market. Last year's crop was short and this year the prospects are even worse. Little new hay is being received in Milwaukee from out in the state, but practically all the hay raised is used in the locality where it is grown."

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drugs law in its relation to prepared medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to conteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by all druggists.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—May Robson, in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
AUDITORIUM—Roller Skating.

Amusement Notes.

L. S. Sire will again present May Robson in Anne Warner's delightful comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," at the Lyceum theater tonight only. For the past two seasons Miss Robson has appeared in this merry comedy in every large city from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and has met with instant success. The critics have indorse it one of the cleverest and best comedies seen on the stage in years.

The first act opens at Aunt Mary's home, where the different characters present themselves. The nephew has been suspended from college, and hurries home to tell his aunt. There he meets a girl, the sister of his chum, whose automobile has broken down in the rain. After the departure of the party, Aunt Mary advises Jack she will forgive him anything except the wronging of a woman, and tells her own romance. Their lawyer arrives with the news of a breach of promise suit brought by a Kalamazoo girl. A chance to explain is denied and Jack leaves for his chum's home in New York.

The second act opens in the chum's house, several weeks later. Not hearing from the aunt, a letter has been written informing her that Jack is ill. She arrives at the house, and is received by the girl masquerading as a servant, who makes herself indispensable during the visit. The boys take Aunt Mary around the city, show her the sights, take her automobiling. The Kalamazoo girl visits the house, and has an interview with the girl, who says she will have nothing more to do with Jack.

The third act is again at Aunt Mary's house. In the interval the girl from Kalamazoo has had a change of heart through the kindness of the aunt, and arrives at the home just after the girl who has been sent for by Aunt Mary. They meet, and the trouble is cleared up, and Jack comes back and there is a reconciliation. Miss Robson is supported by a clever company of players.

The feature attraction at the Empress this week is the elaborate act presented by the Seven Colonials. The men are attired in costumes of the early colonial days, and these give a picturesque setting to the act. A butler comes in with a tray, stumbles, and then the tumbling begins. From that time on the action is fast and furious.

FAKE HIGHWAYMEN CAUSE AMUSEMENT

Various Stunts Are Pulled Off in Montana for Eastern Automobilists.

Malta, Mont., July 27.—After having been held up by road agents and dispossessed of their valuables, only to have them returned later by the "fake" highwaymen, the tourists in the Twin City-to-Helena endurance contest reached the night control here in safety early last evening.

The pretended robbery is said to have been quite a success. The tourists have heard a good deal about holdups along the route, and so when the heavily armed cowboys suddenly confronted them, many, it is said, deserted their seats and slid into the better protected places in the bottom of the cars.

Women Line Up at Bar.

Another touch of Montana life was given the tourists in the Lone Star saloon near Glasgow. After the women in the party had been lined up at the bar and served with soft drinks, the tourists were taken to the rear of the building and shown the hanging figure of a horse thief. Some of the automobilists started to exemplify this method of justice upon J. E. Dougherty, driver of the Krit car, but a "real" cowboy came along and cut the rope with a bullet.

The motoring trip over the Indian reservation took the tourists past the Indian village, where they saw the dances Tuesday night. The redskins, brilliant in war paint and feathers, and made good-humored by tourist gold, came out to wave them a farewell.

HOLLAND AND BELGIUM PLANNING ALLIANCE?

Brussels, July 27.—The opinion in authoritative circles is that the visit of Queen Wilhelmina to King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, which began yesterday, will prove more than a simple act of courtesy. Belgium and Holland feel that the time has come for them to reach an agreement to act jointly in the event that international difficulties threaten the invasion of the two countries. The possibility of a European conflict is openly discussed. A great crowd cheered the queen as, with her escort, Prince Henry, she was driven to the palace.

DENTISTS CONDEMN POWDERS FOR TEETH.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 27.—Plain water and a good brush are all that is necessary for the proper care of the teeth, according to Dr. C. N. Johnson of Chicago, who addressed the meeting of the National Dental association, in convention here.

Dr. Johnson condemned tooth powders, tooth pastes and mouth washes, asserting that they did little to benefit the teeth and only left a pleasant odor in the mouth. His views were indorsed by other speakers.

A committee appointed to investigate a project to establish a fund for indigent dentists reported in favor of it.

MOTOR FIRE APPARATUS LIKED IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—The horseless fire-fighting department has received an unqualified indorsement by the fire department committee of Minneapolis. A recommendation will be made to the city council at its next meet that in future it buy automobile vehicles only.

Experience proves, according to the committee, that power motors are superior to horsepower. According to authoritative report the recommendation will be approved.

The parade formed at the high school grounds and went through the principal streets of the city, then back to the high school grounds where speeches were delivered. Representative John Holland acted as chairman and introduced Mayor Pinkerton, who presented the keys of the clyt to the president of the association, T. J. Maney.

accepted the keys in behalf of the association. Attorney Baird gave a short address. Then Mr. Bayliss presented Miss Girocco, queen of the tournament, with a beautiful diamond ring, and Miss John Johnson with a gold watch and Miss Hauto with a diamond ring.

The Norrie band gave a concert in the evening outside the courthouse, before the convention which was held in the courthouse.

The Barkoot carnival tents, numbering twenty-four are placed in the streets throughout the city. The whole city is decorated suitable for the occasion, and everything is being done to make this event memorable and enjoyable. The Curtiss aeroplane arrived in the evening and will make three ascensions today.

A special train is expected today from Ashland, Wis., with 1,000 people, who are coming to see James J. Ward make his flights with the Curtiss aeroplane. Cash prizes are to be given this time in place of trophies as they have been given heretofore, $1,000 being set aside for the prizes.

People Flock to Bessemer.

Excursion trains are being run from all points in Upper Peninsula and special trains from Ironwood to accommodate all who wish to attend. Today is "Ironwood Day" and a large crowd of Ironwood people will attend. All the stores in Ironwood closed this afternoon. It is expected that several thousand visitors will be in Bessemer today. The program for this afternoon calls for a regulation hook and ladder race and a coupler's race. Tomorrow morning there will be a flag race and rovelly hook and ladder race. Tomorrow afternoon the firemen's foot race will be held, also a ladder climbers' contest and a hub and hub race.

SOUTH DAKOTA TAX COLLECTIONS HIT

State Enjoined From Collecting Taxes From Big Express Companies.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—Judge Charles A. Willard of the United States district court has enjoined the treasurer of the state of South Dakota from collecting taxes for the year 1909 from the Wells-Fargo and American Express companies. The express companies filed separate actions, but the decision of Judge Willard covers both of them.

The state will appeal the case, according to L. T. Boucher, assistant attorney general of South Dakota. C. O. Bailey of Sioux Falls appeared for the express companies.

The express companies refused to pay the taxes assessed against them by the state of South Dakota on the ground that they were illegally assessed. They claimed that the method of taxation was virtually that of a tax on incomes, which was contrary to the state Constitution. They applied for a restraining order, which was granted yesterday after a hearing lasting two days.

The decision of Judge Willard, if upheld by the higher court, will necessitate a change in the methods of taxation in South Dakota. Thousands of dollars will be involved and an amendment to the state Constitution will be necessary.

BRAKEMAN BALKS HOLDUPS.

Northern Pacific Employe Believed to Have Frustrated Plans.

Glendive, Mont., July 27.—The hero among Northern Pacific employes in this section is W. C. Howard of Mandan, N. D. brakeman on No. 5, a west bound passenger train who at Glen Ulin, N. D., late Tuesday night is believed to have successfully frustrated another train holdup.

When the train reached Glen Ullin shortly before midnight, Brakeman Howard went out to do his usual work of inspection of the train. He was seized by two men. He gave battle valiantly and the fierceness of the struggle is indicated by the fact that Howard's shirt was almost torn to shreds.

Howard was choked and beaten into insensibility, his watch was torn from the chain, and $25 in currency was taken from his clothing. He was left unconscious beside the track, and his train went on without him.

Regaining consciousness a half hour later, the brakeman boarded train No. 1, the west-bound North Coast Limited, and came on to Glendive, reporting the facts to officials here.

Glendive police were notified and two suspects were taken into custody. While one of them seemed to be familiar with the circumstances of the holdup, it is hardly believed that either had any actual connection with the affair.

Woman Murderess Released From Jail Returns There Again.

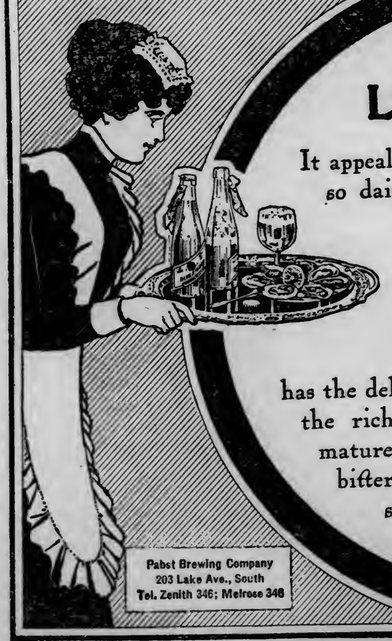

Ashland, Wis., July 27.—Paroled after serving twelve years for murdering her husband, Mrs. Martin Thrush, it is said, has voluntarily returned to state prison, preferring life there to liberty. She was released this spring and went to Chicago, but found the world so changed, so many friends dead, that she went back to Waupun and begged to be readmitted. She was allowed, it is reported, to resume her former place as cook. Mrs. Thrush was convicted of killing her husband by crushing his head as he sat in an arm chair.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WOULD HELP FAIR SCHEME

Crookston Commercial Club Urges City to Purchase Fair Grounds.

Park Committee of the City Council Will Investigate Plan Forthwith.

Crookston, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club which has been agitating the purchase by the city of the old fair grounds in order to insure a permanent fair here, has put the matter up to the city council and the city council thinks so favorably of the proposition that at its last meeting after President Wheeler of the Commercial club had presented the matter, it was referred to the park board and city attorney with instructions to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Committee Favors It.

The committee is composed of Aldermen Christianson, Harris and Sargent and it is understood that the sentiment of the committee is greatly in favor of the proposition, and believe that the great preponderance of sentiment is in favor of the project. After the council adjourned many of the members expressed themselves freely and it would appear that no objection will be raised, and at the next meeting of the council steps will be taken towards securing the property.

In addition to having fair grounds, which will be of great benefit by the purchase of the property, the city will acquire park property which will be found of inestimable value in the future. The site is admirably located for park purposes and there is no reason why it will not round out a park system which will make Crookston a city beautiful.

Benefits That Would Accrue.

President Wheeler in the course of his statement made to the council pointing out the benefits that would accrue to the Northwestern Agricultural association from the city owning the fair grounds said:

"At a meeting of the business men of the city, as represented by the Commercial club, together with members of your park committee, and members of the park board, it was unanimously agreed that a request would be presented to your honorable body that you purchase the property known as the old fair grounds on the northeastern limits of the city.

"It is the unanimous opinion of the business interest of this city that an annual agricultural fair is a necessary agent in the development and progress of the community, and no other institution will bring more direct or positive results. The only way by which the fair can be made permanent is by securing grounds. The business men should not be called upon to stand this expense entirely, but as the benefits are for all, the expense should be borne by all. You have a fund created by the recent sale of bonds sufficient to purchase this property and I, (and I believe I voice practically the unanimous sentiment of the community), believe you could not expend a portion of this fund to better advantage. The business men have already contributed towards a fund which at present aggregates $3,000, which will be used for financing the coming fair this fall. They have thus shown their interest in the proposition.

"You can readily see a concrete example of what an annual fair means to a municipality by taking a trip this week to Grand Forks. Crookston can in a few years, with the proper encouragement, enjoy the same great and positive benefits. Purchase these grounds, and I can say with the utmost confidence that within a few years your investment will have at least doubled in value, and possibly tripled in real worth. At our meeting Tuesday night we could find no objection to the proposition, and as far as we were aware no legal obstacles to hinder you in rendering this great service to the development and progress of the city."

GIVES RULES FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Superintendent Schulz Has Many Complaints of Health Conditions.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A list of requirements for consolidated school districts is being prepared by C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of public instruction, which are intended to bring the sanitary regulations of the schools and the standards of teaching within control of the department. In the small rural districts the boards practically are beyond control of the state department and numerous complaints have been made from time to time of unsanitary conditions.

Consolidation in Minnesota under the Holmberg act is going on with rapid strides. Numerous inquiries are received as to regulations under which state aid may be secured.

Rules For Dstricts.

Districts planning consolidation must submit plans to the state department of the proposed schoolhouse. Each building must be equipped with a sanitary drinking fountain on each floor, a central heating plant and fan ventilation. One room must be set apart for a library and at least $25 spent for books.

The building must be centrally located and division of territory must be such that the children will be compelled to ride no more than six miles to and from school each day.

County boards are being warned not to employ teachers who do not meet the requirements established by the state department. The district must employ a teacher who has taken a course in agriculture and can show one year's teaching experience in that subject. One teacher must be qualified to teach sewing and cooking.

Copies of these rules provided by the state superintendent have been submitted to Governor Eberhart for approval.

STATE IS SUEING BROOKS-SCANLON

Case Being Heard Before Judge McClenahan Involves $25,000.

Brainerd, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClenahan, sitting in chambers, is hearing the case of the state against the Brooks-Scanlan Lumber company, involving a balance claimed on timber sold the company from state land in section 16-53-12, St. Louis county. When purchased the lumber company claimed the timber amounted to 5,200,000 feet. The state claimed there was more and a rescale, it is alleged, showed 7,900,000 feet. The state seeks to recover $25,000, the difference in the money received and the sum claimed. Alexander James, assistant attorney general, is conducting the state's case.

Auditor Iverson Testifies.

State Auditor Iverson testifying for the state, told of issuing the logging permit to the lumber company. Later he had a conversation with William E. Stack, now located in Spokane, who said there was more timber on the tract than computed by the surveyor general. Mr. Iverson so reported to the state timber board at a special meeting. Three cruisers were sent over the section to see if Stack's story was correct. Those land examiners were O. S. Keay of Park Rapids, Lafayette Shaw of White Bear, and Andrew Myles of Duluth. After this preliminary examination an official examination was made by Oliver S. Keay on behalf of the land department in company with J. P. Murphy, deputy surveyor general of Duluth. There is also in attendance at the trial S. E. Atkins, chief land clerk of St. Paul.

Many Lawyers and Attorneys.

Representing the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company is Attorney J. N. Searles of Stillwater, and Attorney B. J. Powell of Minneapolis. S. D. Brook; of Minneapolis and Vancouver, son of one of the firm members, is in attendance, as well as half a dozen or more witnesses for the defense, including Sam Blakeley, Tony App, Peter Twohy and Frank Toomey of Duluth; Leonard Jones of Knife River, and Peter Rosseau of Cloquet. It is said that Mr. Scanlon of the firm may also attend the trial, which is expected to last a day and a half.

FIVE BOYS HAVE VERY CLOSE CALL

Drop Lighted Match Into Tank Containing Some Gasoline Causing Explosion.

Roseau, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.) — Five boys living near Stafford had a close call from being killed when they dropped a lighted match into a partly filled gasoline tank on the P. Nelson farm, and an explosion resulted and why they were not all killed is a miracle.

The boys were Martin and Eddie Skoog, Oscar and Albert Nelson and Sam Myrman. The tank was torn to pieces and distributed about the surrounding country, but the boys escaped serious injury with the exception of Oscar Nelson, who had dropped the match and who was badly burned. All were thrown to the ground, one boy had the collar of his coat torn loose, one his neck tie torn off, another a collar button bent and the ring in his watch pulled out.

REQUISITION PAPERS FOR ALBERT LEA FUGITIVE.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Requisition papers have been issued by Governor Eberhart on the governor of New Hampshire for the return of William H. Packson, formerly driver for the Wells-Fargo Express company at Albert Lea. Jackson is charged with stealing $1,000 of the company's money. He has been located in the navy, on board a ship which is expected soon to touch a New Hampshire port. When it does, officers will be there waiting.

PRISON BOARD TO FIX PUNISHMENT

New Rule Respecting Flogging Convicts at Marquette Prison.

Marquette, Mich., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Marquette prison board of control has adopted a resolution requiring that all corporal punishments administered at the prison must have the authorization of the board of control before they are inflicted. The action was taken on the initiative of Governor Osborn, who is ex-officio a member of the board.

The action assumes importance in view of the recent agitation against such punishments, and allegations that they have been unduly severe. It has been known that Governor Osborn has been opposed to flogging for failure to perform tasks on prison contracts, and this action of the board is in line with his view, that while it would be unwise to prohibit corporal punishment entirely, it should be administered only as a last resort and after all other corrective measures have failed. Under the new order prisoners guilty of gross infractions of rules must be kept in confinement until the board meets, when their cases will be considered. It is believed the time intervening between the commission of the extreme punishment will afford opportunity for deliberation and make flogging unnecessary in most cases.

The governor is also digging into questions in connection with the prison contracts.

TAXICAB COMPANY BROKE.

Twin City Concern Claims Patrons Do Not Pay Bills.

Minneapolis, July 27.—Alleging among other things that well-known business men of the city would not pay their taxi bills ad that one man even refuses to pay for the taxi which took him to church to be married, McAllister & Newgard, the first taxicab company to invade the Twin City has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in Mineapolis.

The assets of the compay are listed at $14,000 and the liabilities at $75,000. The concern stopped business Monday night, owing twenty employes two months' wages. All the cars are idle in the company's garage, 522 Tenth street south.

JAWBONE IS BROKEN.

Pine County Sawmill Employe Sustains Injury.

Hinckley, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.) — Frank House, single, while working in the Ben Irons saw mill in the eastern part of Pine county, was struck by a flying piece of edging, which struck the large saw and was hurled with great force backward, striking him in the face. The jaw bone was broken and pushed inwards, knocking the teeth out and injuring the tongue. The injured man was brought to Hinckley, where he is being treated.

NORMAN COUNTY FARMER CUT BY SICKLE BAR.

Ada, Minn., July 27.—Gust Johnson, a farmer residing three miles north of here, was probably fatally injured late Wednesday afternoon while at work in the harvest field. Johnson was rushed to a Crookston hospital. It will be necessary to amputate one of his legs and it is feared that the injuries will prove fatal.

(From Eastern Styles)

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from her nearest druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The result is charming—marvelous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

TAFT SAYS HE IS ALONE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CONTROLLER BAY DEAL

Brands "Dick to Dick" Letter as a "Wicked Fabrication."

Asserts Brother Has No Interest in Alaska and Never Had.

Condemns Venom and Bitterness of Those Back of the Charges.

Washington, July 27.—President Taft sent a special message to the senate late yesterday shouldering full responsibility for opening for settlement and development 12,800 acres of the Chugach national forest reserve in Alaska—an incident which has become to be known as the "Controller bay affair." In concluding, he brands the now famous "Dick to Dick" postscript as a "wicked fabrication," and says that Charles P. Taft, whose name appeared in the alleged postscript, "has no interest in Alaska, never had, and knows nothing of the circumstances connected with this transaction." Moreover, the president adds, his brother does not even remember that he ever met Richard S. Ryan, representing the Controller Railway & Navigation company.

As for eliminating the land in question from the reserve, the president says that there is no danger of the Controller Railway & Navigation company or any other interests monopolizing the field, and nothing to show that this company is in any way connected with the Morgan-Guggenheim interests. Hence, he believes that in eliminating the land he has acted for the best interests of the nation.

"I wish to be as specific as possible upon this point," says the president in his message, "and to say that I alone am responsible for the enlargement of the proposed elimination from 320 acres to 12,800 acres, and that I proposed the change and stated my reasons therefor. The thing which the territory of Alaska needs is development, and where rights and franchises can be properly granted to encourage investment and construct a railroad without conferring exclusive privileges, I believe it to be in accordance with good policy to grant them."

Accompanying the president's message are documents, reports and maps bearing on the case, as requested from him by a senate resolution of June 27 last. "I deem it wise," says the message, "to accompany the submission of these documents with a statement in narrative form of the action of the administration with the reasons therefor." Here follows a description of Controller bay and environs and a map showing the effect of withdrawing the much-mooted 12,800 acres from the reserve. The president then takes up the thread of his narrative as concerns the events that precipitated the controversy.

Referred to Departments.

He relates how Ryan, representing the Controller Railway & Navigation company, applied in 1909 for the elimination of a tract to enable this company to secure railroad terminals, etc. The application was referred to the forestry bureau and then to the navy department with a view that perhaps the navy desired to use Controller bay as a reservation. The forestry interests found no objection to the elimination of the tract indicated, "or indeed," as the president writes, "to the elimination of 18,000 acres in the northwest shore of Controller bay."

The navy department's answer was "negative," says the president, and after the matter had been considered by the secretary of agriculture, by the secretary of the interior and the general land office, a recommendation was made to him that 320 acres with a frontage of 160 rods on the northwest shore of Controller bay be thrown open. A formal order to this effect was finally submitted to him in October, 1910, but when the matter came before the cabinet late in that month he found objection to it. His reasons for taking this stand he explains in his message in part as follows:

"I expressed satisfaction with the order because it purported on its face to make the elimination for the benefit of a railroad company of a tract of land which the company could not by lawful entry secure, for it was a tract 320 acres in one body, when only 160 acres could thus be acquired. In the second place, I preferred to make a much larger elimination of a tract facing the entire channel, and with sufficient room for a terminal railway town. I was willing to do this because I found the restrictions in the law sufficient to prevent the possibility of any monopoly of either the upland or the harbor or channel by the Controller Railway & Navigation company or any other persons or company. Because of a lack of time sufficient to draft a memorandum myself, I requested the secretary of the interior, who, with the secretary of agriculture, after full discussion, had agreed in my conclusion, to prepare a letter setting forth the reasons for making the larger elimination, so that it might become a part of the record.

"I wish to be as specific as possible upon this point, and to say that I alone am responsible for the enlargement of the proposed elimination from 320 acres to 12,800 acres, and that I proposed the change and stated my reasons therefor, and while both secretaries cordially concurred in it the suggestion was mine."

The president says he had every assurance at the time that the Controller Railway & Navigation company was an independent enterprise working in all good faith, and that no evidence to the contrary has since been brought to his attention. "Of course, it was possible," he continues, "that the owners of the Copper River Railway company" (Messrs. Morgan and Guggenheim) "might attempt to buy this railroad when and if it were built. It was possible that Mr. Ryan was acting for the interests of the Copper River railroad, although I did not believe it; but whether this was true or not, it was clear that the order of elimination by reason of the restrictions of the act of congress would not permit the owners of either railroad to shut out any other capitalists." Moreover, he states, the rates to be charged would be always subject to congressional control, and if government ownership seemed the wise policy under the peculiar circumstances, condemnation of ample land for right-of-way, harbor frontage and terminals must always remain available under the law for government use, or if it is preferred to take over to the government a railway built by private enterprise, condemnation is easy.

"I am as strongly convinced as any one of the necessity for the conservation of our national resources," says the president, "and as much opposed as any one to their monopolization by large corporations, but my convictions on this point did not deter me from taking the step which I hoped might lead to encouraging the construction of a railway from Controller bay to the Bering coal fields. I thought the paring down of the amount of public land to be acquired for terminals by the railway company proposing to build the railroad was a poor policy and one not calculated to secure investment or speedy construction."

Iron-Bound Limitations.

The president goes on to explain that there are iron-bound limitations covering the method for securing title for government lands, and for this reason he feels no fear of any interest obtaining a monopoly. Briefly, the restrictions are:

First, not more than 160 acres can be entered in a single body by scrip.

Second, no location of scrip along any navigable river or other waters can be made within eighty rods of any lands already located along such waters. No entry can be allowed extending more than 160 rods along the shore of any navigable water; and along such shore a space of at least eighty rods must be reserved from entry between all such claims. Moreover, the statute expressly provides that a roadway sixty feet in width, parallel to the shore line as near as may be practicable, shall be reserved for the use of the public as a highway.

Third: Nothing in the act contained is to be contrued to authorize entries to be made or title to be acquired to the shore of any navigable waters within the district.

"The whole contention that the executive order and the opening to settlement of the shore of Controller Bay grants a monopoly to the railway company," he resumes, "rests on a claim that it has given an opportunity to persons using scrip to appropriate the control of the only available and practicable parts of the channel by the location of the scrip opposite to those parts. If now the location of the scrip opposite to the harbor gives no right to reach the harbor except as congress may expressly give it, clearly the Controller Railway & Navigation company has not the slightest opportunity for exclusive appropriation of the harbor facilities unless congress shall by future act deliberately and voluntarily confer it."

Answers Criticisms.

Having explained in detail his reasons for opening up the land in question, the president takes occasion to answer several incidental criticisms. "The order has been criticised because it was not in the form of a proclamation, instead of an order," he writes. This was determined by Mr. Graves, the forester, he explains, and he quotes a letter of Mr. Graves to the effect that when a comparatively small area is eliminated from a national forest the executive order is very commonly used instead of a proclamation.

As to the charge made on the floor of the senate that the order was secret, the president says, "This was utterly unfounded." In support of this he says that te.. days before the order was made the details of Ryan's application and the probability of its being granted were given wide publicity. He cites in this respect that the Associated Press carried an account of the matter Oct. 28, 1910, as taken from a ypewritten statement issued by the interior department.

The order has also been critized, he says, on the ground that it did not contain provision delaying its taking effect thirty days after its publication, as orders restoring land to settlement by homesteaders frequently do. In this respect the president says: "An examination of the record furnishes an explanation of this feature of the order as made. When in October the two departments had agreed with my acquiescence that the order should be an elimination of only 320 acres. * * * it was deemed wise to spread on the face of the order a specific declaration that it was made to afford terminals for the Controller Bay & Navigation company, and as no one else was expected to intervene and take up any part of the eliminated tract, the restoration was made immediate. The form thus amended was submitted to the secretary of agriculture, who expressed his preference for the immediate restoration order. When I directed the striking out of the reference to the railway company and the enlargement of the area from 320 acres to 12,800 acres, the form of the order in its provision for immediate restoration was not changed. I have no doubt that this was the reason why the order issued took the form it did. Had the postponement clause been suggested, I would, doubtless, have directed it to be embodied in the order. But the event has proven that it was really not important in this case, for in now nearly nine months only the Controller Railway & Navigation company has made any scrip entries on the eliminated tract."

"Dick to Dick" Episode.

Taking up the "Dick to Dick" episode the president says in conclusion:

"Before closing, I desire to allude to a circumstance which the terms of this resolution make apt and relevant. It is a statement by one Miss M. F. Abbott that in an examination of the files of the interior department a few weeks ago, she found a postscript attached to a letter of July 13, 1910, addressed by Mr. Richard S. Ryan to Secretary Ballinger—and in the present record—urging the elimination of land enough for terminals for the Controller Railway & Navigation company. The postscript was said to read as follows:

"Dear D——

"I went to see the president the other day. He asked who it was I represented. I told him according to our agreement, that I represented myself. But this didn't seem to satisfy him. So I sent for Charlie Taft and asked him to tell his brother, the president, who it was I really represented. The president made no further objection to my claim. Yours, Dick."

"The postscript is not now on the files of the department. If it were it would be my duty to transmit it under this resolution. I do not transmit it, not only for the reason that it is not now on the files of the department, but for the reason that it never was on the files of the department, at least as an authentic document. Who is really responsible for its wicked fabrication if it ever existed, or for the viciously false statement made as to its authenticity, is immaterial for the purpose of this communication. The purport of the postscript is, and the intention of the fabricator was, to make Mr. Richard S. Ryan testify through its words that although I was at first opposed in the public interest to granting the elimination which he requested, nevertheless through the undue influence of my brother, Mr. Charles P. Taft, and the disclosure of the real persons in interest, I was induced improperly and for the promotion of their private gain, to make the order.

"The statement, in so far as my brother is concerned—and that is the chief feature of the postscript—is utterly unfounded. He never wrote to me or spoke to me in reference to Richard S. Ryan or on the subject of Controller Bay or the granting of any privileges or the making of any orders in respect to Alaska. He has no interest in Alaska, never had, and knows nothing of the circumstances connected with this transaction. He does not remember that he ever met Richard S. Ryan. He never heard of the Controller Bay railroad until my cablegram of inquiry reached him, which, with his answer, is in the record.

"Mr. Ballinger says in a telegram in answer to my inquiry, both of which are in the record, that he never received such a postscript and that he was in Seattle on the date of July 13, when it was said to have been written.

"Mr. Richard S. Ryan, in a letter which he has sent me without solicitation, and which is in the record, says that he never met my brother, Charles P. Taft, and that so far as he knows, Charles P. Taft never had the slightest interest in Controller Bay, in the Controller Railway & Navigation Company, or in any Alaskan company, and he utterly denies writing or signing the alleged postscript. The utter improbability of his writing such a postscript to Mr. Ballinger at Washington, when the latter was away for his vacation for two months, must impress everyone.

"The fact is that Mr. Ballinger never saw the letter of July 13, 1910, to which this postscript is said to have been attached. It was sent to me by Mr. Carr, Secretary Ballinger's private secretary, at Beverly, on July 14—the next day. I read the letter at Beverly in August with other papers and sent them to the White House. It was placed upon the White House files and remained there until April 22, 1911, when it was, by request of Secretary Fisher, returned to the interior department, and it was after this that Miss Abbott says she saw the letter with the postscript attached. Mr. Carr saw no such postscript when he sent the letter to me. I did not see it when I read it. No one saw it in the executive office, but it remained to appear as a postscript when Miss Abbott saw the letter in April or May on the files of the interior department. All others were denied the sight.

No One Else Saw It.

"The person upon whose statement the existence of what has been properly characterized as an amazing postscript is based, is a writer for the newspapers and magazines. She was given permission by Secretary Fisher, after consultation with me, to examine all the files in respect to the Controller Bay matter—and this under the supervision of Mr. Brown, then private secretary to the secretary of the interior. After the examination, at which she alleges she received this postscript from the hand of Mr. Brown, she prepared an elaborate article on the subject of this order and Controller Bay, which she submitted to Mr. Fisher, and which she discussed with Mr. Fisher at length, but never in the conversation did she mention the existence of the postscript. Mr. Brown, who was with her at the time and showed her the files, testifies that there was no such postscript in the papers, and that he never handed her and she never saw such a postscript there. Similar evidence is given by Mr. Carr and other custodians of the records in the interior department.

"Stronger evidence of the falsity and maliciously slanderous character of the alleged postscript could not be had. Its only significance is the light it throws on the bitterness and venom of some of those who take active part in every discussion of Alaskan issues. The intensity of their desire to besmirch all who have in that district, and all who are officially connected with its administration, operates upon the minds of the weak or depraved human instruments and prompts the fabrication of such false testimony as this postscript."

"I dislike to dwell upon this feature of the case, but it is so full of a lesson that ought to be taken to the heart of every patriotic citizen that I cannot pass it over in silence.

Expected an Attack.

"When I made this order I was aware that the condition of public opinion in reference to investments in Alaska, fanned by charges of fraud—some well founded and others of a hysterical and unjust or false character—would lead to an attack upon it and to the questioning of my motives in signing it. I remarked this when I made the order, and I was not mistaken. But a public officer, when he conceives it his duty to take affirmative action in the public interest, has no more right to allow fear of unjust criticism and attack to hinder him from taking that action than he would to allow personal and dishonest motives to take the course which timidity prompts, and to do nothing, but such a course does not inure to the public weal.

"I am in full sympathy with the concern of reasonable and patriotic men that the valuable resources of Alaska should not be turned over to be exploited for the profit of greedy, absorbing, monopolistic corporations or syndicates. Whatever the attempts which have been made, no one, as a matter of fact, has secured in Alaska any undue privilege or franchise not completely under the control of congress, and in all the scandal with which the public has been regaled very few specific instances of corrupt or improper attempts to acquire vested interests in Alaska have been shown by evidence that would stand the test of judicial examination. Notwithstanding this, however, I am in full agreement with the view that every care, both in administration and in legislation, must be observed to prevent the corrupt or unfair acquisition of undue privilege, franchise, or right from the government in that district. But every one must know that the resources of Alaska can never become available either to the people of Alaska or to the public of the United States unless reasonable opportunity is granted to those who would invest their money to secure a return proportionate to the risk run in the investment and reasonable under all the circumstances.

Calls for Condemnation.

"On the other hand, the acrimony of spirit and the intense malice that have been engendered in respect of the administration of the government in Alaska, and in the consideration of measures proposed for her relief and the wanton recklessness and eagerness with which attempts have been made to besmirch the characters of high officials having to do with the Alaskan government, and even of persons not in public life, present a condition that calls for condemnation and requires that the public be warned of the demoralization that has been produced by the hysterical suspicions of good people and the unscrupulous and corrupt misrepresentations of the wicked. The helpless state to which the credulity of some and the malevolent scandal-mongering of others have brought the people of Alaska in their struggle for its development, ought to give the public pause, for until a juster and fairer view be taken investment in Alaska, which is necessary to its development, will be impossible, and honest administrators and legislators will be deterred from the advocacy and putting into operation of those policies in regard to the territory which are necessary to its progress and prosperity."

Owes Health and Happiness

to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

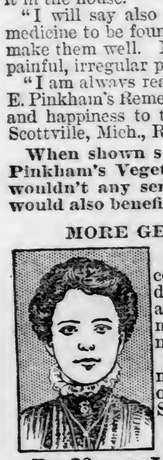

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and dragging pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up, regulate, and make them well. My eldest daughter has taken the Compound for painful, irregular periods, and it has always helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."—Mrs. J. G. Johnson, Scottville, Mich., R. F. D. 3.

When shown such positive and reliable proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound really does cure such cases wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering the same?

MORE GENUINE AND CONVINCING PROOF:

Elwood, Ind.—"I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. I tried doctors, and they said I could not get well without an operation. I could hardly stand the pain, but my right side was the worse. I couldn't sleep at night, and I was troubled with a weakness.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle, but I kept on until I was cured."—Mrs. Sadie Mullen, 2728 N. B. Street, Elwood, Ind.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

The Twin City fight against the proposed extra session of the legislature to take up railroad taxation seems now to have taken the form of an attack upon the legislature itself. The Pioneer Press of St. Paul and the Tribune of Minneapolis make Speaker Dunn's declaration for an extra session the text for outbursts of horror at the bare idea of getting "that bunch" together again, and the Tribune ingenuously adds: "Nobody with anything to lose in the political game wants the last legislature put on show again."

So far as that is concerned, the people of Minnesota manifestly have little to lose politically at the present stage of public affairs in this state, so they may be forgiven, perhaps, for wanting the legislature convened that it may do what it can to redeem the state from the ignominy of high railroad rates coupled with low railroad taxes. As the matter stands, with the Sanborn decision still binding, the state appears to have no control over the rates, but it has control over taxation, and if there ever was reason for letting the railroads off with low taxes, there is no such reason now.

So far as the legislature is concerned, it is the best legislature we have got, and it is all we have to work with.

And it is time, apparently, that somebody said a word for the legislature. The Twin Cities, which succeeded in defeating railroad legislation that might have shorn them of their special privilege of discriminatory rates, have far less reason to be disgusted with the legislature than Northern Minnesota, which was denied the simple justice of equal representation; yet it is from the Twin Cities that the attack upon the legislature comes, and Northern Minnesota is holding its temper very well, considering the circumstances.

Though the legislature made mistakes, plenty of them, and was guilty of sins both of omission and commission, —though mostly they were sins of omission,—The Herald is quite certain that it does not deserve all the abuse that is being heaped upon it. There have been lots worse legislatures in Minnesota than the present one, and plenty of worse ones in other states this year.

The Minnesota legislature isn't one to tempt to much giving of bouquets, but neither is it one to warrant an undue amount of heaving of brickbats.

The attacks now being made on the legislature are so manifestly born of an ardent fear that it really will accomplish something if it is brought together that they will fail of their purpose.

Though this newspaper has criticized the legislature freely, it feels confident that if it is called together it will enact one or two needed measures with judgment and dispatch and then adjourn.

RELIEF FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

How would the average housewife who does her own work, part of the time if not all of it, like to throw the utensils in which she cooks the family's food into the fire and burn them up after preparing each meal, instead of washing and scouring and wiping and drying and hanging them up on their nails in the tin closet?

How would she like it if she could do this without feeling that she has wasted anything, and if she knew that she was actually doing an economical act and at the same time had greatly improved her cooking and greatly reduced the amount of drudgery connected with it?

She would like it, of course, though equally of course she would think the inquiries a little bit mad.

Yet it may be that they are not so mad after all, and that in paper-bag cooking, as invented by Nicholas Soyer, late chef of Brooks's club in London, a scheme has been devised that will revolutionize methods in the kitchen.

Soyer wasn't looking at the economic or labor-saving side when he took up paper-bag cooking. He was looking for an envelope that would retain the juice and savor of the food. His failures were many. Sometimes the bag burst, with direful consequences. When he succeeded in preventing that, the food tasted of paper. Then he sought for a kind of paper bag that wouldn't break and that wouldn't communicate an alien taste to the food, and he found it. It is simply a matter of making a paper bag that is of pure materials, aseptic and grease-proof. Any manufacturer can make them if there is a demand. The London Chronicle, after investigating Soyer's experiments, ordered a quantity of the right kind of bags and offered free samples to its readers. The offer brought 20,000 answers in two days, showing that housewives are looking for the relief and improvement this plan promises.

Soyer made a test in a London newspaper office that indicates clearly what can be done with his plan. In the confusion of a newspaper office at midnight, he cooked in forty-five minutes a kidney stew, salmon, turbot, bacon and eggs, sausages, chops and peas—ten dishes in all—which by the old method would have required fifteen saucepans and a frying pan and two hours of hard work. When these dishes, every one containing all its juices and savors, were delivered, the bags were burned up. There were no pots and pans to scour. Good judges agreed that the food was better cooked than by ordinary methods, too.

Says the Springfield Republican: "But aside from the saving in kitchen utensils and the care of them, M. Soyer promises an equal saving in the time and ease with which cooking can be done. Here are some carefully prepared schedules: Seven pounds of fish, 50 minutes; three pounds of fish, 30 minutes; one pound of fish, 18 minutes; 18 pounds of beef, 2¼ hours; nine pounds of beef, 1¼ hours; three pounds of beef, 45 minutes; eight pounds of leg of mutton, 1½ hours; sausage, 8 minutes; large chickens, 40 minutes; spring chicken, 25 minutes; old chicken, one hour; stew for six persons, 40 minutes; potatoes, 30 minutes; peas, 25 minutes. Milk puddings have to be put in a dish within the bag, but ten minutes are saved in their cooking time. Yet it is not the actual saving in the time of cooking that matters so much as the promised saving in work, attention and worry. One simply heats the oven to exactly 170 degrees Fahrenheit, and sets the food in its bag on the grid. Then, if it is a gas stove, the flame is turned down and the oven does the rest. Precisely at the appointed time the bag is opened and the food disclosed cooked, so all agree who have tasted the product, to perfection."

Everything except cooking methods has been improved, and why not they? Soyer may turn out to be as great a benefactor of the race as any inventor who has saved labor in pursuits followed by men.

PROTECT THE INDIANS.

A Washington dispatch to The Herald of last evening, detailing some of the government's claims as to fraudulent disposal of Indian lands in the White Earth reservation, shows that there is at least enough substance to the charges to warrant a prompt shutting down on further alienation of Indian lands for the present, and a thorough investigation of the whole affair from top to bottom and inside and out.

The Indians are still the wards of the government, and if they are unequipped with the business instincts needed to protect themselves against the wiles of white sharpers, that is probably due in part at least to the condition of dependence in which the government has kept them. At any rate, it is the duty of the government to see that they are not defrauded, and that no white schemers get valuable timber and mineral lands away from them for a small fraction of their actual worth.

It would be a wise idea for the house of representatives to send the proper committee out to Minnesota after the adjournment of congress to investigate the matter thoroughly and to get the evidence of witnesses right on the ground. Everything may be all right on the White Earth reservation, but in spite of the heat and indignation of those who protest against delay in the process of separating the Indian from his land, and in part because of that heat and indignation, there is a widespread suspicion that things are far from right.

At any rate, it can do no harm to sift the matter to the bottom, and it is most distinctly the duty of the government to do this before any more titles to Indian lands said to contain rich mineral deposits are perfected in the white capitalists who are reaching out for them.

USING THE LAKES FOR PLEASURE.

Never before in their history have so many people traveled the Great Lakes in pursuit of rest, pleasure, diversion and coolness as during the present season.

And never before in its history have so many people in search of sport, rest, recreation and relief from hot weather come to Duluth, the best place in the country, on the Great Lakes or elsewhere, for these purposes.

Says the Cleveland Leader: "One of the most striking features of the summer has been the extraordinary demand for access to the lakes for recreation, pleasure and relief from the heat. Lake excursion steamers never before did so much business. Lake pleasure craft, down to row boats, have been used more than ever. The shores of the lakes never had so many bathers and campers. There never were so many summer residents of lake towns, and lake farms never had so many boarders and guests.

"The extraordinary weather has been the direct and most potent cause of this record-breaking use of Lake Erie and the other lakes of the great chain of fresh water seas which are a vital factor in the welfare of many millions of people and in the development of a large and populous group of states. An exceptionally cool, wet season would bring a marked reaction from the conditions caused by the torrid weather of June and July.

"But underlying these temporary and uncertain weather conditions is the steadily increasing need of the lakes for rest, change, recreation and comfort. The lake cities are growing so vast that their inhabitants have more reason, every year, to turn to the open waters close by for relief from the dust and smoke and heat of the environment in which they spend their working hours. The growth noted everywhere this summer in the use of lake opportunities for rest and pleasure is only the logic of events. And the gains will go far beyond the conditions now existing."

True enough. In the Great Lakes, and especially in Lake Superior, the nation has the greatest playground in all the world, not excelled anywhere for beauty, interest, variety and delight. And Duluth is beyond comparison the sightliest and most comfortable place for summer outings on the Lakes or elsewhere.

Here are tours that for scenic splendor are unsurpassed. The north shore of Lake Superior possesses a grander and wilder beauty than almost any other place in the world except possibly the fjords of Norway. Isle Royale is a dream of beauty, unspoiled by civilization. And anywhere along that shore or on Isle Royale, from Duluth to Port Arthur, there is complete freedom from the dust of the cities and the heat of the lower lakes, and there is an infinite variety of attractions for those seeking sport and recreation.

In time to come Duluth, as the capital of this region of unrivaled splendors, will harbor every year a large part of the pleasure-seekers of the country. From Duluth can be reached the scenic wonders of Lake Superior, and the restful enjoyment of ten thousand lakes of Northern Minnesota, scattered from Lake Vermilion north to the Canadian boundary and west to the Red River valley.

And the way to teach the pleasure-seekers of the country that here is the place to come is to advertise the attractions which, once known, will advertise themselves.

President Taft is more gallant than his predecessor. He has started a Sapphira club.

It's rather a pity the administration has to be on the defensive so much, but with the unsupported word of one woman pitted against that of the president, the public will withhold judgment until the case against the president is made much stronger than it is now.

THE SOUTH AND RAW MATERIALS

By SAVOYARD.

In every Southern business powwow the song goes that the South is to engage to an enormous extent in the manufacturing line, ultimately surpassing the North in this behalf and scampering for the goal—World's workshop. The soil, the climate, the diversity of products of farm, garden, orchard, forest and dairy; the limitless waterpower easy to harness; the boundless supplies of raw material, the unrivaled facilities for the production of provisions as well as breadstuffs—all these will some day make of our South the most opulent and the most populous part of the terrestrial globe. The road to that goal is free trade, as nearly as possible, in competitive articles, and tariff for revenue only in non-competitive commodities, that are finished product ready for the ultimate consumer.

Now I maintain, and defy all the world in the quarrel, that a tariff levied on raw materials works multitudinous evils, chiefest of which is the postponement of the time when the South shall surpass the North in the manufacturing line. If the dogma of protection is to be adhered to, which is this, only this, that we shall manufacture for 90,000,000 Americans and leave the markets of the other 1,500,000,000 human beings of our planet to England, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and other enlightened nations, we already have manufactories sufficient for the purpose and to construct duplicates at the South would be like sending two men to plow one furrow or two boys to plant one grain.

Let me tell you a true story and altogether apt for my purposes herein Many years ago there lived in old Kentucky David L. Graves, native and to the manner born. He was almost an exaggerated Peveril of the Peak, fiery, impetuous, honest, obstinate, dogmatic and some other things. He leased the Mammoth Cave property and in those days his tavern was famous for its table, and tourists of every tongue and people flocked there from all quarters of the globe.

The railway station was five miles to the east and the stage line was owned by Andy McCoy, a Highland Scotchman about as volcanic and vehement a man as Graves himself. The stage line brought travelers to the cave, and they were the guests of Graves' tavern. Sometimes they numbered as many as 100 a day, all of whom paid toll to Graves for a trip through the cave, and all of whom slept under his roof, sat at his table, and drank at his bar.

As was inevitable, Graves and McCoy fell out, and it was a bitter feud, resulting in the stage coachman's planting a pistol ball in the cave manager's leg. Before that encounter, however, Graves, to plague McCoy, constructed an impassable fence a quarter of a mile from the tavern, and his purpose was to prevent the stage coach full of guests for his own hotel from driving up to his door. The result was the turists were necessitated to walk a quarter of a mile before they could register as guests. Graves thought he was punishing McCoy, when he was only injuring himself.

And that is the way with those chaps down South who clamor for duties on raw materials. They pretend to punish the manufacturers; but they only make it the more difficult to establish manufactories at the South. Bailey, Simmons, Martin, Brantley and Underwood are all of the same lump of clay that produced old Dave Graves, and Champ Clark has joined them and is cheek by jowl with them.

They are getting ready to kick protection out of the North, and when protection dies in the last ditch, as all error must, that ditch will be found in the Virginias, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and Louisiana. Within ten years Massachusetts will be as much of a free trade state as Kentucky or Mississippi, and by that time North Carolina and Georgia will be battle ground for free trader and protectionist, though both are cotton states, and it is to the direct and positive advantage of the cotton planter to have absolute free trade with all the world.

Is it thinkable that the cotton South is going to repeat the error of 1896, when they joined in the 16-to-1 frenzy? Then the price of the South's great staple was fixed in the gold market of Liverpool, and the South insisted on buying at prices fixed on a sliver market. For folly it surpassed even my old friend, Dave Graves. And here is the South clamoring for manufactories, and yet Southern statesmen, by tariff duties on raw materials, would repulse those enterprises and confine manufacturing to the North. If congress would put on the free list all materials that enter into the construction of plants, all machinery, and all raw materials, such as wool, dye stuffs, coal and whatnot, capital would rush to the South by the billion to engage in manufacturing because of the immense natural advantages of that section. You can winter a family at Huntsville, Ala., or Spartanburg, S. C., for 60 per cent of the cost of food, clothing and shelter in Manchester, N. H., or Bangor, Me. And thus skilled white labor will flock to the South as soon as congress takes the shackles off trade and emancipates the young giant, our great republic.

Has the cotton planter calmly reflected that the tariff is not for him and cannot be made for him? Has the cotton planter reflected that as to raw materials, Bailey and Aldrich, Simmons and Penrose, Martin and Lorimer, Brantley and Cannon are in exact accord, but assign different reasons? Our Southern protectionists put it on the Ben Tillman ground that the South is entitled to her share of the stealing, a horrible idea, that, if universally practiced, would not leave one honest man and one chaste woman above ground. Your Northern protectionist puts it on the ground of the Golden Rule—that protection is a good thing and all should share it.

But he is fooling you, for he knows that the moment raw materials are free he must surrender all the protection that shields him from competition with the foreign manufacturer. Unshackle the young giant.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read your editorial "The Better Choice," in last evening's paper.

I am glad to note that you are partial to the poem by Sam Walter Foss; "The House By the Side of the Road." I regret that you did not have a correct copy of it. I am sending herewith a copy taken from his collection called Dreams in Homespun, copyrighted in 1897. You will find it on pages 11 and 12, and it is introduced by the following lines from Homer: "He was a friend to man and lived in a house by the side of the road."

If you have had an opportunity to examine Foss' collections, "Back Country Poems," 1892; "Signs of War and Peace," 1895; "Whiffs From Wild Meadows," 1905; "Songs of the Average Man," 1907, and if you have read "Hullo," "The Men Who Miss the Train," "The Volunteer Organist," "The Calf-Patch," "Two Prayers," "Sence Mary Jined the Club," then you have had much pleasure.

If you have not, there is a rare treat in store for you.

And, by the way, did you know that this man who wrote so many, many beautiful things died on Feb. 26, 1911, at the age of 53, just in the prime of life?

He was born in New Hampshire, June 19, 1858, graduated from Brown in 1882. At the time of his death was librarian at Somerville, Mass.

I hope to see in the pages of your paper other poems from the hand of this man who wrote so well. Yours truly,
THOMAS B. MILLS.

ONE KICK FOR THE CARNIVAL COMMITTEE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having noticed your invitation in The Herald for suggestions and kicks coming on how the water carnival was handled, I wish to make the following statement on how it appeared to me and several of my friends.

Friday afternoon being the second day of the carnival, I decided to take myself and family over and see what was going on. I supposed, of course, that with $8 or $10 in my pocket I would have no trouble to get a chance to see what there was for one afternoon.

We landed at the boat club house about 1:30 p. m. I thought, of course, all I had to do was to plank up the price of admission and go right in, but lo and behold, we were met at the gate by an inspector and two policemen and asked if we were members of the boat club, which, of course, I am not and right here I wish to state, there are just as good people that don't belong to the boat club as those that do. There were no tickets for sale. I called up Mr. Ames, but the only satisfaction I got from him was for me to take my family over on the Osborn dock. Now, that was a fine place to be, especially with my wife and children. If any of you think it is a nice place to view a water carnival from, I wish you would go and have a look at it.

I was not the only one that was told to go over there. I saw at least 500 people in the same fix as myself and a good many of them were visitors from outside points. We were all thoroughly disgusted. There we were pawing around in the sand trying to see something, looking like a lot of young boys around a baseball diamond, trying to see the game without paying the price of admission.

In the evening, knowing that we were barred from seeing anything from the land way, we decided to take to the water; consequently, about 1,200 of us got on the steamship Columbia, (50 cents a head). That boat took us out in the middle of the bay and kept going around and around, until it was time to come back to the dock. If you can show me one person that was on that boat that evening that saw anything or was anywhere near satisfied, I'll be willing to make a good donation for the next carnival. Every person on the boat was disgusted. The same was true on the Plowboy. I know several that were on that boat that evening. They never left the dock to go over to the carnival grounds until nearly 9 p. m. and I understand they wouldn't have gone then if some of the passengers hadn't gone and made a demonstration to the captain.

In conclusion I wish to say: What more natural is it when you go to see anything that is going on for the public, than that you should go to where that entertainment is going on and pay your price of admission and go in, and not have to hunt around town for some 2 by 4 affair, like I understand now, we were supposed to do in this case? Do you suppose visitors who came to the city for this carnival knew where the committee had its office? Wasn't it natural for them to go over to the boat club house, which was so magnificently lighted up? I saw one person, a postmaster from a town in the southern part of this state, that was disgusted with the way you took care of visitors.

Why couldn't the boat club have had a couple of those idle freighters fixed up with seats anchored at the west side of the race course, charged people for each admission and had a good boat there to ferry them across? It seems to me that would have been very easy to arrange.

If this carnival was gotten up for the entertainment of members of the boat club and their friends, it was a hugh success, but if it was for the general public and Northern Minnesota, it was a decided failure.

As it is, I think Duluth made as many enemies as it did friends by this attempt, but I trust we will make out better next time.

Thanking you for your invitation to make a kick, I am, yours truly,
A DISGUSTED SPECTATOR.

P. S.—Since writing the above I have been informed that the carnival was only gotten up for the boat club and their friends, but if those are the facts why were donations asked from the business people of Duluth?
Duluth, July 26.

These Are Broader Days.

New York Evening Post: The reciprocity victory in the senate has not only long been fully assured, but the vote for and against was known beforehand with such accuracy that its announcement was hardly more than a formality. What is of vastly greater interest, therefore, in connection with the event, is the statement in which the president expresses his sentiments on the subject. In this statement the extraordinary frankness which has so often before been exhibited by Mr. Taft is displayed in the fullest measure; and indeed at one point it goes beyond mere candor and assumes a character of chivalrous generosity. We cannot recall another instance of a man in his position making the kind of acknowledgment of the merits of the party opposed to his own which President Taft says he feels called upon to make because otherwise he would be "wanting in straightforward speaking." It is not merely that he acknowledges the obvious fact that without the steadfast co-operation of the Democrats the achievement of reciprocity would have been impossible; he sets it down in plain black and white that they resisted all temptations to "play politics"—to get credit for a pre-reciprocity record while creating a situation which would have resulted in a failure of reciprocity, with the burden of that failure on the president's shoulders. "They followed," says the president, "the dictates of a higher policy." All praise to the Democratic leaders who have earned this encomium for their party; and all praise to President Taft for his ungrudging and unqualified bestowal of it.

Flagging the Waiter.

Chicago Evening Post: The Lottie cafe in Rockford, Ill., prints this footnote on its bill of fare:

"P. S.—Guests please leave napkins in glass until order is taken."

The purpose of this order is to utilize the napkin as a signal to the waiter that you have not yet been served. Thus the waiter knows when to run on a limited schedule and when to make local stops.

What this country needs is a cafe code. The Lottie cafe has made a brave start. Now let us have a universal system whereby we can signal to the waiter to bring more butter or to bring a knife for the pie. A neat code could be worked out, using the hat as the signal block.

"OUR NEXT GOVERNOR."

Papers for Sam Y.

Mora Times: The majority of the countryy press seem to be for Sam Y. Gordon for governor.

What Is Needed.

Cass Lake Times: The governor's party is at present a bundle of tagends of political discards, torn and frayed so badly as to be unrecognizable, and the conditions growing worse instead of better all the time, and even some of those who supported him in the last campaign are now complaining bitterly of his lethargic disposition when the needs of the people demand action. It does not look as if the old tag-ends of the G. O. P. could be patched up to constitute a party again. He who may expect the support of the state for our next governor must be a man of ability and courage; party will no longer do it, and the sooner the governor gets the idea through his mind the sooner he will be able to see the situation as it is.

No Bundle Carrying.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: They do say Sam. Y. Gordon would like to be governor of Minnesota. The state surely needs a governor, and Mr. Gordon, as lieutenant governor, has shown stuff that looks mighty good. Anyway, Sam. Y. would positively decline to merely officiate as bundle-carrier for the interests.

No Objection.

Biwabik Times: The Gordon and Eberhart people find it difficult to enthuse their partisans during the heated season. It would seem to be a good opportunity for the people to take a little hand in the contest and choose a man they want. And it would be a pretty good thing to have the next governor from northern Minnesota.

Not Famous Mystery.

Walker Pilot: They say that a man's past history is pretty well raked over when he once gets into politics, yet Sam Y. Gordon managed to get away with the lieutenant gorernorship without anyone finding out what the capital "Y" stood for. We doubt, however, if Sam can get into the governor's chair without disgorging.

It Does.

Mankato Free Press: The Lake City Republican sees opposition to Governor Eberhart growing in certain quarters of the state. It now looks as if the present executive would be given a race for the nomination at the next state convention.

Some Votes.

Sauk Center Herald: There are any number of people who like Minnesota's "100-in deportment-Governor" a lot personally, who think he can never be re-elected. And there are others who hold different ideas about his alleged agreeable personality, who agree with the conclusion of the first named contingent. Take them all together they're a goodly bunch and cast a lot of votes.

Trouble Brewing.

Lake City Graphic Sentinel: Opposition to Governor Eberhart appears to be growing in certain quarters of the state, according to the press comments from those sections. It now looks as if the present executive would be given a race for the nomination at the next state convention. Sam Gordon is constantly growing in public favor and is likely to burst forth as a full-fledged gubernatorial aspirant some of these days. If he does, there will be a warm time in the ranks of the Grand Old Party when another election rolls by.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Scribner's: He—Don't you think she has rather a good complexion?

She—It strikes me as being just a trifle to impressionistic.

Pittsburg Post: "I say, cawn't you make clothes English style?"

"Sure thing. Jim, cut this gentleman's suit two sizes too large all around."

Judge: "Well, the hobble skirt has died a natural death."

"Yes; but some of those who wore them didn't."

Housekeeper: "Say, Frost, lend me your razor, will you?"

"Gladly."

"Oh, if it's as dull as that, I don't want it."

Puck: "What's the hardest thing you encounter in flying?" queried she.

"At the present stage of the game," returned the aviator, tenderly rubbing a bump, "the hardest thing we encounter is the earth."

Exchange: He—So your graduation essay is to be on the absurdity of our common superstitions. Have you started it yet?

She—No; I meant to today, and then I suddenly remembered that it was Friday.

Kansas City Times: "The Malays have a queer marriage custom," remarked the traveler. "The groom holds his nose against a small cylindrical object. I couldn't quite make out what it was—"

"A grindstone, probably," interposed Mr. Grouch.

Detroit Free Press: "I'll bet they're bride and groom."

"Why?"

"I overheard him ask her if she'd mind if he smoked a cigar."

Detroit Free Press: "Do you believe all his fish stories?"

"Of course I do. I'm the fellow he gives the fish to when he catches any."

What Causes Surprise.

Chicago Record-Herald: It is reported that Senator Bailey is losing his following. The surprising thing in this connection is that Bailey ever had a following.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It's just plain stealing, unless it's millions.

One reason you don't like relatives is it's your plain duty to.

The queer thing about a baby is what a heavenly nature it can have if it never does anything but yell.

It's no more of a mania with a girl to want to get engaged than with a man to want to lose his money in speculation.

What makes a man ashamed of himself is the way his wife isn't to give so much trouble in a shop and then not buy anything.

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

under more favorable auspices than ever, begins its eighth year on Tuesday, September 5. The home of the school, the management, the aims, and substantially the teaching force, remain unchanged.
ALBERT HEPPERT, Principal.

WOMAN'S REALM.

That "Jappyland," the pretty comic opera to be presented tonight and tomorrow evening at the Orpheum theater by local people for the benefit of the Children's home will be a success, is not doubted for a moment by those who witnessed the final rehearsal at the theater, last evening. Every number was fitted into its place and all numbers, both big and small, give promise of making a distinct hit, for their training has been thorough, and the young people have worked hard to gain the professional finish which will mark the entire opera as distinctive in amateur affairs.

The opera itself, with its simple little plot, its tuneful songs, dainty dance numbers, gorgeous costuming and brilliant scenic effects, will be a delight to all who attend, and as the soloists are among the best in the city, augmented with a few professionals, the production will beyond doubt prove the operatic sensation of the season.

Miss Jean Wanless, who will sing one of the solo parts, has a fine, powerful voice and she carries her role with a distinctly professional air which is pleasing. She will sing the role of "Japonica, watching over the Happy Jappy Maids."

Ralph Errolle of New York is another of the principals who deserves notice. He sings the part of Carl Neville and will interpolate the famous "La Donna E. Mobile" in Italian costume.

Mr. Errole is a Chicago boy, born, raised and educated, and the son of Charles Head Smith, a board of trade man of that city. After spending seven years in preparation and on the verge of entering West Point, his voice was discovered and he began to study for grand opera. Believing himself entitled to a free scholarship, he refused to pay for lessons and by his own practice obtained the leading tenor role in a small opera company at the age of 18 years. The season following he was featured by the National Opera company as the youngest operatic tenor. He was later discovered by Dr. Florenze Ziegfeld and given a three years' scholarship in all departments of the Chicago Musical college. It was there that he studied under the famous French master, Herman De Vries. It was also there that he met and became engaged to Miss Marie Clark of Duluth, who is now his wife.

Last season when Mr. Dippel was organizing his Chicago Opera company, Mr. Errolle signed a four years' contract with Mr. Dippel to sing in grand opera. Later he was loaned by Mr. Dippel to create the leading tenor role in the "Spring Maid," which played in New York last season, and this season will create the feature part in a new light opera under the management of Henry W. Savage.

Mr. Errolle has a repertoire of twenty-seven operas in French and Italian, including "La Boheme," "La Tosca," "Mme. Butterfly," "Rigoletteo," "Alda," "Pagliacci," "Faust," "Carmen" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," which he will sing the season following under the Metropolitan Syndicate.

REMOVING HER SKIN

(From the Feminine World.)

The quickest and surest way to make a good complexion out of a bad one is to actually remove the thin veil of faded or discolored outer skin from the face. This can be done easily, safely and privately by any woman. The process is one of gentle absorption.

Get an ounce of pure mercolized wax from your druggist and apply it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. In a few days the mercolide in the wax will have absorbed the disfiguring cuticle, revealing the fresh young skin underneath; you will have a beautiful, clear, natural complexion. The process is pleasant and harmless, making the face look brilliantly attractive and youthful. It also effectually removes such blemishes as freckles, tan, moth patches, liver spots, pimples, etc. Every woman should keep a little mercolized wax on hand, as this simple, old-fashioned remedy is the best complexion beautifier and preserver known.

THE EVENING STORY

"A Bitter Bit"

By Ada Roscoe.

Arriving home, after spending an evening with a married friend, Jack Merriman felt the loneliness of bachelorhood for the first time.

Jack had reached 50, and only now had the desire for companionship come upon him in one fell swoop. His friend's wife was fluffy haired, tinkled the piano agreeably, lisped plaintive songs in a minor key, and set him thinking of the romantic side of life.

A prosperous draper was Jack Merriman, employing some 200 assistants of both sexes, but, for all his wealth, it had never occurred to him that a wife would be a pleasant acquisition till now.

"I'll advertise," said he, being strictly a business man. "Must be musical," he wrote, "of cheerful disposition. Means not necessary, but desirable." Then he signed himself "Lonely," directed it to a matrimonial paper, and posted it with his own hands.

There were many aspirants—and some painfully eager—but it was the one signed "Blushing" that impressed him most. It ran: "Dear Sir, If your intentions are serious, I honestly think I could fill the requirements stated. I am a clerk and cashier in a large drapery establishment, and have not any private means. I am thoroughly musical, playing both piano and violin, besides having a good contralto voice. My age is 25. I am tall, fair, considered even tempered, and would like very much to be happily married."

Jack liked the tone. It sounded fresh and girlish, with a dash of straightforwardness that others lacked. He arranged an interview, still using his nom de plume, "Lonely."

The big waiting room on the Parmington station was eminently suited for a meeting place, and it found him, one July evening, awaiting the advent of his divinity, clutching between his moist fingers a small bunch of Parma violets as agreed upon.

Shortly after eight a lady answering to the description given peered in at the open door, but, seeing Jack, fled hastily, yet not before he had caught sight of her tell-tale violets. He pursued and caught up to her just as she was making a rapid exit into Raleigh avenue.

"I beg your pardon," he said, touching her on the shoulder, "but are you 'Blushing?'"

"Yes," she answered, timidly; and indeed she was, for her dimpled cheeks betrayed it.

"I'm Lonely," he explained, "or, rather, I was until you came." Then they both laughed and felt more at ease. That evening was a revelation to Jack. Before the night was over she had confided to him her history.

It was not a long story—just the death of a dearly loved parent and another woman in her place, a jealous stepmother, combined with a weak, foolish father, causing wholesale misery, then flight to earn her own bread; and that was all.

A pretty little wedding at a church in Parmington consummated their happiness, but before the ceremony took place Ettie made a request. "I want to hold my position a few weeks longer. May I?" she pleaded.

"Seems rather absurd," he grumbled, "the wife of a rich man toiling in a dingy office for a paltry salary."

"Oh, please say yes. It will be so delightful to know that, though I am working, it doesn't really matter."

And Jack, partly understanding, kissed the pleading mouth, and consented. So each morning early, Ettie Merriman left her beautiful home, returning in the evening before dinner to gladden her husband's heart, and make him bless the day he married her.

Open in all her dealings, on one point she had remained obdurate—that was withholding the name and address of her employer. "You will know one day," she constantly assured Jack, and one day, sure enough, he did.

In her little square cage of an office, perched on a high stool, sat Ettie one hot afternoon. From the position she occupied, center and extreme back of the premises, she faced the people shopping at the counters running right and left. There was a temporary lull, and the tired, white faced assistants were listlessly moving to and fro, re-arranging their departments, whilst the suave shop walker strutted like an irate turkey cock.

"Now, Miss Morse, hurry up and put that dress material away. You seem to be half asleep." He turned to another. "Why did you let that lady go without a purchase?"

"We had nothing in stock to match her ribbon, sir," answered the girl penitently.

"Bosh!" he cried rudely, then stopped to whisper something to a lady more favored, who was lolling on the counter. It was an unwholesome scene and one that Ettie had witnessed from her point of vantage many times.

Cranford, the shop walker, was one of that low type that uses his authority for a base end, so girls came and went in quick succession, and it was an open secret why so many proved unsatisfactory.

Ettie had turned in loathing from the man's advances, so he had bided his time for revenge. Now it had come, and seizing this slack moment, he marched up to her desk with a triumphant leer.

"You know the rules, and you've been late two mornings this week. Instantly dismissed by rights, but I'll give you until saturday to clear out." Ettie slid on to the floor from her perch, and opening the office door turned to face him.

"You will give me till Saturday. Then let me tell you, coward, bully, and libertine that you are, it is you who will go, not I, but instead of waiting till Saturday you go now!"

Rage held him speechless for a moment, then he advanced threateningly towards her just as a newcomer arrived on the scene.

Ettie gave a start of glad surprise, and went to meet—her husband. He started back in bewilderment, then a light broke in—he understood.

"I have had to discharge that man for his insolence, Jack," she said, pointing at the crestfallen shop walker. "My husband or I will pay the salary due to you as soon as your luggage is packed and you are ready to go," she concluded, walking past him to her office with the air of a queen. The man slunk away as Jack clinched her peremptory order with a decisive nod.

That same evening, as Ettie sat at her piano playing a soothing melody, and Jack was desecrating the atmosphere with a fat cigar, she stopped to say, "Do you remember how I ran away from you at the station?"

"Perfectly well. I imagine you recognized me."

"Yes, dear." A slight pause. "But you don't know how glad I am you ran after me."

"So am I, darling."

"I suppose you think it was silly of me to go on working in your shop, hiding my identity, and all that sort of thing?"

"Rather!"

"But it wasn't." She rose and sat down on the rug by his knee. "It was just lovely to go each day, knowing it was my darling old hubby's shop, and that no earthly power could sack me—to see that silly beast of a shop walker watching his opportunity to discharge me, and know all the time I could afford to laugh at him. I felt so safe, so deliciously safe."

He threw away his cigar, and stroked her sunny hair.

"I wish every woman who has to earn her living might feel like that Jack," she went on musingly. "It would save such a lot of misery." A hot tear splashed on his hand.

"Ettie, you're crying." He drew her face towards him and looked anxiously into her glistening eyes.

"Yes, dear, but not for myself—only for those I have left behind."

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

House Honors Dead Member.

Washington, July 27.—The house adjourned a few minutes after meeting yesterday on account of the death of Representative George W. Kipp of Pennsylvania. Resolutions of sympathy were adopted.

Pen Given to Penrose.

The gold pen used by the president in the signing of the reciprocity bill was sent to Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee, who led the fight for the bill in the senate.

Senators Talk Wool.

The Underwood wool tariff bill had its first serious consideration in the senate yesterday with a vote upon it in prospect for the opening of today's session. The honors of the afternoon were divided between the two senators from Montana. Senator Myers the new Democratic member, declared he would vote for the passage of the bill as it came from the house. Senator Dixon, Republican, speaking from behind a desk piled high with samples of wool and woolen cloths, expressed the belief that no wool legislation should be passed at this session of congress, and that the revision, when taken up, should be based on the forthcoming report of the tariff board.

Senator Dixon said there is a real "joker" in the wool tariff known as the "skirting clause." By permitting importers to discard all the rough parts of the fleece, he said, it reduces sheep raisers from eleven to five cents.

Senator Myers said he was ready to accept the Underwood bill as a fair adjustment of the wool tariff, and favored congress remaining here to vote "on all remedial legislation needed by the people." He said, "the interests and trusts want congress to adjourn." He asserted the senate had accomplished less in the last four months than "a good board of county commissioners could accomplish in a week."

Senator Townsend of Michigan urged that no wool legislation be passed until the tariff board makes its report on the wool industry. Senator Heyburn of Idaho spoke on the wool tariff.

At the suggestion of Senator Penrose, the senate took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning, thereby continuing the legislative day of Wednesday. This will give Senator La Follette of Wisconsin an opportunity to speak on his substitute wool bill before the vote is taken.

Senate Democrats Agree.

Solid support for the house wool tariff revision bill was pledged in caucus last night by the Democrats of the senate. A resolution setting forth their attitude, offered by Senator Culberson of Texas, was adopted without a dissenting voice, although the caucus lasted through the greater part of two evenings and was signalized by protracted debate.

The discussion was devoted, largely, it is understood, to the discovery of some parlimentary method of resuscitating the La Follette wool bill if the house measure is voted down. It was proposed that the La Follette bill be offered as a substitute for the house measure when a vote on the latter is demanded, and it was conceded it would be killed. Then if the house bill met a similar fate, an effort would be made to reconsider the vote on the house bill, which, if successful, will be followed promptly by reoffering the La Follette measure as a substitute, and by coalition of the insurgent Republicans and Democrats, passing it.

GERMANY EXPELS FRENCH AGITATOR.

Berlin, July 27.—M. NEW YORK BROKER FOUND MURDERED

Body of W. H. Jackson Discovered in Room in Hotel.

New York, July 27.—Murdered apparently by burglars, William Henry Jackson, a well-known Wall street broker, 70 years of age, was found dead on the floor of his bedroom today at the Hotel Iroquois. The body was covered with bruises. There was a deep wound over the right eye and finger marks on the throat and arms. A wash cloth was stuffed in the mouth as a gag.

GAVE WORTHLESS CHECK

Is Charge Against Thompson, Alias Comparet, Held at Fargo.

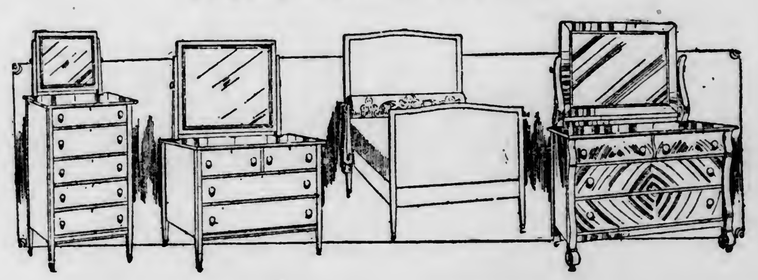

Fargo, N. D., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hunt Comparet is one of the aliases of J. M. Thompson, a check artist in jail here. At first Thompson claimed his home was in Chicago and later admitted it was Fort Wayne, Ind. Further investigation shows his name is probably Comparet. He is also wanted at Wadena, Minn., on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. He has given worthless checks ranging from $80 to 1,000. His mental condition is under suspicion.

WOULD ABOLISH THE TENEMENT SYSTEM.

Chicago, July 27.—"Abolish the tenement house and put the working man and his family in cottages surrounded by trees and flowers, with a place for the children to romp, and you will increase his efficiency 100 per cent."

This is the view expressed by Dr. Charles Pranard, deputy chief of the French government's bureau of assurance and social providence, who is in Chicago making a comparative study of housing conditions.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 30.

II Chron. xxxiv, 14-33; Finding of the Book of the Law.

THE CONNECTION.

It was while the good king, Josiah, was reforming the nation, by rooting out idolatry and restoring the worship of God, that they found this long lost copy of the law of Moses. In repairing God's house and getting ready for His worship, according to His instructions, they found His clearly expressed will.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Startling Discovery. 14-18.

"And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of Jehovah, Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of Jehovah given by Moses. And Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of Jehovah. And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan. And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and moreover brought back word to the king, saying, All that was committed to thy servants, they are doing. And they have emptied out the money that was found in the house of Jehovah, and have delivered it into the hands of the overseers, and into the hand of the workmen. And Shaphan the scribe told the king saying, Hilkiah the priest hath delivered me a book. And Shaphan read therein before the king."

1. FIDELITY.—Fidelity characterized the work of all who were engaged in repairing the temple, which had not been repaired since it was restored by Joash more than two centuries before, now shut up and in sad disrepair for seventy-five years. From the three commissioners whose names are given to the people who gave the money and the Levite doorkeepers who disbursed it to the good workmen, all were faithful. They had caught the spirit of their noble king.

2. REWARD.—They sought the one reward of pleasing their God, and as He usually does, their God gave them an unexpected recompense. It was found in the Most Holy place, in a rubbish heap or beside the Ark, or in one of the rooms on the outside of the temple. It might have been the old temple copy, carelessly thrown aside. Instead of being burnt, when Manassah brought in idolatry, or the copy that went with the ark and had fallen under the heaps of silver or old papapers. Whether it was the five books of Moses or only Deuteronomy, we don't know, but Josiah continued his reforms in the lines of its teachings.

3. IGNORANCE.—Probably the good priest, Hilkiah, didn't know its meaning, at first, they had been so long without the Word. In Syria and Europe, the New Testament was very little known, five centuries after Christ. Josiah and the prophets were godly men and were in daily communion with God, walking in the light they had and wishing for more light. They knew much, in that way and by tradition. It was rather dramatic, the way the priest told the statesman, Shaphan, and the statesman told the king, each allowing the other to learn its contents by reading it or hearing it read; Shaphan merely telling the king it was "a book," waiting till it would show itself to be the very book needed and desired. It was the greatest discovery of the age.

II.

The Widespread Agitation. 19-21.

"And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes. And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Abdon the son of Micah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying, Go ye, inquire of Jehovah for me, and for them that are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found; for great is the wrath of Jehovah that is poured out upon us, because our fathers have not kept the word of Jehovah, to do according unto all that is written in this book."

1. FEAR.—This was the fifth epoch in the king's life—accession to the throne at 8; conversion at 16; reforms at 20; repairing the temple at 26; finding the book. He knew it was God's word, just as our sense of right knows the Bible is God's word. His fear arose when he saw God's ideal for the people and His promises and threats. He felt that His wrath might fall on him and the guilty nation, any minute. His great fear expressed itself in the usual dramatic form of rending his clothes. His sensitive conscience applied the law to himself. Such fear is wholesome, for it is apt to lead to effort to quit sin and do God's will.

2. INQUIRY.—He knew where to send—to the prophet—a woman in this case—who had the ear of God, with the hope of learning his own duty and of getting a message that would bring the people to repentance.

The spectacle of the five most prominent men making their way from the king's palace to the humble home of the man who kept the priests' robes in order to consult a woman as to God's will is striking. Huldah was one of only several prophetesses in the Old Testament times. Evidently she was known as a mouthpiece for God. Why did they go to her in preference to Jeremiah, Zephaniah, or Nahum? Because her reputation would give more weight to her word? Or because the other men were quite young and were not well known yet? No one can tell.

III.

Radical Results. 29-33.

"Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. And the king went up to the house of Jehovah, and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests, and the Levites, and all the people, both great and small; and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of Jehovah. And the king stood in his place, and made a covenant before Jehovah, to walk after Jehovah, and to keep His commandments, and His testimonies, and His statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. And he caused all that were found in Jerusalem and Benjamin to stand to it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. And Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and made all that were found in Israel to serve, even to serve Jehovah their God. All his days they departed not from following Jehovah, the God of their fathers."

We omit the verses giving Huldah's reply to the king's messenger, in which she unflinchingly told him of the doom impending over the nation for their disobedience to God, though she exonerated him and promised that he would not live to see the doom executed.

1. CONFESSION.—Every step the king took was wise—first to get all the nation's leaders together to hear the Book of God. Representatives of all classes, high and low, assembled and the word was all the more searching, because it was read in the temple area and by the king himself. He confessed their sins and they joined in the confession. It was a solemn, a tragical time.

2. COVENANT.—It was not difficult to lead the people into a new covenant with God, and although they didn't feel it, as did the king, they aided him in sweeping away idolatry and holding a joyous passover. Their doom was deferred awhile.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The effect on the king was like that produced on Luther by his finding an old Latin Bible in the library of the Augustine convent at Erfurt. The reformer had never seen the Scriptures, though he was not only a Christian, but a monk. There had been religion enough of a kind, round him all his life, religion professing to be based on the written word; but the difference between the conventional and the true flashed on his soul with lightning brightness when the sacred Book itself was consulted.—Gelke.

No greater moral change ever passed over a nation than passed over England during the years which parted the middle of the reign of Elizabeth from the meeting of the long parliament. England became the people of a book, and that book was the Bible.—G. R. Green.

All the wonders of Greek civilization heaped together are less wonderful than is the simple Book of Psalms—the history of the human soul in relation to its Maker.—Gladstone.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Is it always true that we get more light when we walk in the light we already have?

2.—Why is the word of God required in the worship of God?

3.—Why is the Bible always its own vindication?

4.—Why is the purpose of God's law to show us our sins?

5.—What would be the exact condition of your community if there had never been a Bible in it? If all the Bibles should now be removed and kept from it?

TAWNEY WANTS TO TESTIFY, TOO

Sends Senator Telegram Denying Testimony of Keeley.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27. — Former Congressman J. A. Tawney was in St. Paul yesterday, and after reading the testimony of James Keeley of Chicago, given yesterday before the Lorimer investigating committee at Washington, sent a telegram to Senator Dillingham asking to be summoned before the committee. The telegram follows:

"Senator Dillingham, chairman, Lorimer investigating committee, Washington, D. C.—Have just read testimony of Mr. Keeley of Chicago Tribune. I want to have entered of record with your committee my most solemn and emphatic denial of ever having any connection either direct or indirect with the 'Fire Proof Magazine' of Chicago or any other publication seeking mail or any other privilege either from the postoffice department or from congress; that I have ever been connected either directly or indirectly with any firm of lobbyists or other representatives of said magazine or other publication or of any other interest seeking such mail or any other privilege from the government, and that I have never been requested by the 'Fire Proof Magazine' or by any one claiming to represent it to do anything either in congress or in the department in its behalf. Or that I have ever been offered or received anything from said 'Fire Proof Magazine,' or other publication either directly or indirectly. That until I read Mr. Keeley's testimony I did not know that there was in existence a publication named 'The Fire Proof Magazine of Chicago.'

"The records of the third assistant postmaster general, which are at your command, will corroborate this statement. I would like to be summoned before your committee to make this denial under oath and to submit myself to any examination the committee may want to make. Answer Winona, Minn. J. A. TAWNEY."

MOST OF CANADIAN TOWN IS DESTROYED.

Grand Forks, B. C., July 27.—Fire of unknown origin swept through the business district and spread to the residence section here. The loss is estimate at $250,000. The flames were so fierce that the small fire department could make little headway against their onslaught. Little of the town remains.

ATTACKS THE SHERMAN ACT

Senator Borah Says It Is Failure or Officials Were Lax.

Claims It Furnishes Ample Means to Curb Monopolies.

Washington, July 27.—Following an attack by Senator Borah of Idaho upon the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law in the twenty years that it has been in existence, the senate yesterday adopted a resolution, offered by Senator Clapp of Minnesota, calling for an investigation into the operation of the law to determine what changes or amendments are necessary to make it an adequate protection against unlawful monopolies and trusts.

Mr. Borah's arraignment of the statute was inspired by Senator Pomerene, who called up his resolution demanding criminal prosecution of the officers of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies under the recent decision of the supreme court.

The resolution of Senator Clapp gives authority to the senate interstate commerce committee, of which he is chairman, to conduct a searching inquiry into the operation of the law, and to make recommendations to the senate of any change it may think necessary "relating to the creation and control of corporations engaged in interstate commerce."

"Failure" or "Trifling."

"Either the Sherman law is a failure" Senator Borah said, "wrong in contemplation of law and in expedient as an economic proposition, or else there has been the most remarkable trifling with the execution of the law that has ever been noted since law was first placed upon the statute books to be regarded and obeyed by man."

Mr. Borah said the Sherman law had been in effect for twenty years, with four apparently "simple, efficient and drastic remedies" against illegal combinations or trusts.

"Yet every one knows that the last twenty years have been years in which the most remarkable progress has been made by these combinations," he added, "and not an embarrassment has been placed upon them, so far as their ultimate success was concerned, although this simple, efficient and drastic law has been upon the statute books all that time.

Cites One Example.

Without specifically mentioning the United States Steel corporation Senator Borah said:

"Everyone will remember when one of the greatest combinations that we know to exist, before it was formed, advertised in the newspapers for weeks and months ahead that it was going to be formed. The details to a remarkable degree were given. It was known before the corporation charter was filed and the combines made that this powerful combination of watered stock, supported by the most marvelous banking combine in the world, was going into existence while this law existed prohibiting it, and giving the goverment the power to restrain its formation.

"Notwithstanding that this information was at hand and the remedy known and provided for; notwithstanding that the details and the facts to a remarkable extent were laid before the people, the means was provided for enjoining its formation and the law was not invoked, and the statute was permitted to remain a dead letter during the time of the formation of this corporation, which has now apparently passed beyond the control of the government of the United States.

"In Defiance of Law."

"A corporation or those promoting it notifies the people, in defiance of the law, that it would be formed, and as to how it would be formed, the extent of its power, and then proceeds, in the face of the statute, and today exercises a most marvelous power in the financial world, in the political world, and in the industrial world, and if I mistake not, places the stamp of approval or disapproval upon many an act of legislation in the congress of the United States."

CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

Macalester College Has Raised the Fund It Was Seeking.

The trustees of Macalester college, St. Paul, Minn., in April, 1908, accepted a proposition from the general education board whereby this board pledged $75,000 provided the college raised $375,000 additional on or before July 1, 1911. Of this $450,000, $300,000 was to be for endowment and $150,000 for a women's dormitory and a science hall.

On July 1, 1911, the trustees certified that $90,000 had been paid in and expended on Wallace hall dormitory, $69,000 on Carnegie Science hall; and that $308,000 had been paid in and invested in incme producing endowment.

The total resources of Macalester college are now $670,000. Of the $467,000 given the past three years, $320,000 has been given by the Minnesota Presbyterian constituency, and of this St. Paul and Minneapolis friends have given about $290,000.

The trustees, in a letter to The Herald, express their heartfelt appreciation of the generosity and promptness of the friends who have made possible this result. It its trustees, its supporting clientage, it location, and its resources Macalester college now ranks high among the strong, solid, coeducational colleges of the West.

SWINDLERS WORK BIG STEEL FIRMS

Have Cleaned Up Half Million on Fraudulent Orders.

New York, July 27.—An offer of $5,000 reward was sent broadcast over the country today by the Swedish Iron & Steel company of New York and New Orleans, for evidence that will convict two or more alleged swindlers of a fraud by which, it is charged, $500,000 has already been cleaned up and which is still flourishing.

For seven years the swindlers—known to the trade as the "two French swindlers"—have been preying upon steel importers, a body of men who annually bring into the country goods valued at $25,000,000, to such an extent that salesmen handling imported steels now report that they have difficulty in persuading customers that they are honest men representing reputable firms.

Picked Big Men.

The victims chosen have always been of first financial rating. They include business concerns of all kinds in New England, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, Brooklyn, New York, Buffalo, Lansing, Detroit and Grand Rapids.

The "two Frenchmen," representing themselves as Count So-and-So and his secretary, would visit a factory office, pick their way through the shops, compliment the superintendent on his progressiveness, and then solicit sample orders for high-class tool steel made abroad by the count's father.

Got Perfunctory Signature.

While the count engaged the superintendent, his secretary would dictate, on the firm's stationery, an order for a much larger amount, and walk out with a perfunctory signature. The order would be turned over to supposedly innocent jobbers, who would deliver an inferior quality of steel, worth perhaps 3 cents a pound, and collect from 39 to 90 cents a pound. Usually the manufacturer would pay rather than fight in court a transaction that appeared bona fide.

Originally the swindlers represented themselves as agents of an unknown foreign company. Now, however, they have brought into the game an American company, which is determined to protect itself.

BUSINESS IS WOUND UP

Final Meeting of the Water Carnival Committee Is Held.

Many Suggestions and Criticisms Received—Cost Under Estimate.

At a session of the executive committee of the Duluth Mid-summer Water Carnival, held at noon today, all the business was closed up, and many suggestions and criticisms received.

The financial report shows that ample funds were contributed to carry out the carnival, and that the actual expenses were less than the original estimate. Detailed statements of receipts and expenditurs will be send to each subscriber to the carnival fund, according to a promise made when the fund was being raised.

The publicity committee reported that it had carried out its duty and the results showed for themselves. The committee stated that about $2,000 had been spent by the Duluth Commercial club to give publicity to the carnival in connection with the work that the club is doing in its campaign of advertising Duluth as a summer resort.

The large number of communications received by the committee commending the work it had done, was very gratifying, for they had devoted much time and energy in making this the biggest and best affair of its kind ever attempted in the Northwest. These commendations and praises for the success, will stimulate the members to work harder for other carnivals, and they are assurances that the carnivals of the future will be even more successful.

The many suggestions and criticisms received were given due attention, and they have been tabulated and filed so that they will be of service to committees of the future which will have charge of the mid-summer carnivals.

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT IS THE FEATURE

Stock Bid Up to $8 on Duluth Exchange—Boston Market Is Quiet.

Butte-Alex Scott furnished the only fireworks in the copper market today. After a modest opening at $6.87½ bid and $7.25 asked, strength developed late in the session on the Duluth stock exchange. With the first sale at $7.25, the stock was bid up to $8, with 505 shares traded in. The stock closed strong and in demand, with very little in sight.

The copper market as a whole dragged through a rather quiet day, with prices sagging. Weakness toward noon was pronounced, but there was a recovery at the close.

Amalgamated opened at $68, advanced to $68.25, declined to $67.25 and closed at $67.62½. North Butte opened at $32.50, fell off to $32 and advanced again to $32.25. Butte Coalition opened at $18, advanced to $18.12½ and closed at $18 bid and $18.50 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $57.50 and closed at $57 bid and $57.50 asked. Giroux opened at $6.12½ and closed at $6.06¼ bid and $6.12½ asked. Greene Cananea held at $6.87½.

Except for the activity in Butte-Alex Scott, the local copper market was quiet. Denn-Arizona sold at $5.25 and $5.30¼, Calumet & Montana at 43c and Calumet & Sonora at $6.87½. We overcome it. Symptoms disappear in 1 to 3 weeks.

ONE SECTION IS NOW EFFECTIVE

Customs Officer Gets Instructions From Washington on Reciprocity Bill.

With the signing of the reciprocity bill yesterday at 3:10 by President Taft, the second section of the bill went into effect. It relates to the removal of duty on all wood pulp, paper and paper board, and is the only clause which goes into effect at once.

Last evening L. M. Willcuts, collector of the local customs office, received a telegram from Assistant Secretary Curtis notifying him of the fact. The other custom collectors of the United States were in receipt of similar messages.

The following is the telegram received by Mr. Willcuts:

"Section 2, Canadian reciprocity law, effective at 3:10 today. Wood pulp, paper and paper board under bond at that time for which no permit of delivery has been issued or previously imported but not entered, are entitled to benefits thereof. Suspend liquidation of entry pending publication of instructions.

CURTIS,
"Assistant Secretary."

MISS ROBSON TO HAVE NEW PLAY

Will Have Character Role of Different Kind Next Season.

Miss May Robson, who opens here this evening, will have a new play in October. The play is from the pen of the author of "Old Kentucky," and in it Miss Robson will play a character part very much different from the one she has been portraying for the past five years.

Today Miss Robson stated that she welcomed the production of the new play, as she wanted to get away from the line of work she had been in for the past five years.

EBERHART IS AFTER DATA

Wants Reports Showing What State Departments Are Doing.

Governor Introduces New Method of Watching Affairs.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart believes his responsibility for state departments subject to his appointment rested with him immediately after his inauguration, and he is going to see that each department shows results for the fiscal portion of this year which includes the period from Jan. 1 to July 31. A number of the departments are drawing up reports showing just what has been accomplished during that period.

This is an innovation in the conduct of state business, and state officials who do not come under the appointive power are watching to see how the experiment will work. No official notice has been sent out to the various departments, but there is a general understanding that results of some kind must be shown.

In the past there has been no accounting except biennially. At that time voluminous reports have been delivered to the governor to enable him to write his message to the legislature. Advance sheets of these reports, it is said, were often prepared more to guide the governor in the matter of recommendations than to assist him in knowing whether his appointees have been making good.

The fire marshal's office probably will prepare a brief report on its crusade against firebugs. A report is also being prepared by the labor bureau.

MAY REFINANCE WINONA COMPANY

Stipulation Agreed to in the Bondholder's Suit at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first hearing in the case of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston against the Winona Railway & Light Company of Winona, Minn., on the foreclosure of the property of the latter company for failure to pay interest on a $495,000 bond issue held by the Boston company, was called in the federal court at Minneapolis this morning before Judge Willard.

Frank B. Kellogg of Davis, Kellogg & Severance appeared for the plaintiff and Miller, Mackay & Fairchild for the La Crosse Water Power company, owner of all the common stock of the Winona firm.

All parties agreed to a stipulation presented by Mr. Kellogg providing that if new arrangements for re-financing the properties are not completed by Aug. 15, the Winona company and its owners, the La Crosse Water Power company, will agree to the appointment of a receiver. Judge Willard entertained the stipulation and the case was continued to Aug 15.

DIET HINTS.

Chicago News: "I've had the awfulest time for two days and two nights," said Mrs. Cumback, sinking wearily into a chair. "My husband has been as sick a man could be. You might have heard him screaming in the night."

"I did hear a horrible groaning several times, but I thought it was at Johnson's," replied Mrs. Wagstaff. "Something ought to be done to that man Johnson. He always maintains a nuisance of one sort or another. He used to keep a crazy dog that howled all night, so people couldn't sleep, and when the dog was poisoned he invested in other beasts that make noises. What ailed your husband?"

"He had the cramps. I wish he would quit reading the health hints in the newspapers. He's naturally a strong, rugged man, and it used to be a pleasure to cook for him. He never bothered me about the bill of fare. He ate whatever was on the table and enjoyed it and never a stick ailed him. Then our favorite newspaper began printing a lot of stories about germs, and Mr. Cumback got scared.

"He wouldn't even drink water unless it was boiled and the milk had to be sterilized and the coffee strained through cheesecloth. He would sit up at the table and talk about germs and the danger of eating things that were not properly cooked, until I lost all patience. After a while he concluded that a cereal diet was the only proper thing, and so we lived on corn and oats for several months."

"I can sympathize with you," remarked Mrs. Wagstaff. "A man is never willing to suffer alone. If a man feels that he ought to eat baled hay and nothing else he isn't satisfied to board at a livery stable, but he must carry his hay home and make his wife and children eat it. If a woman takes up some fad, she doesn't demand that her relatives join her."

"You speak nothing but the truth," declared Mrs. Cumback. "After we had lived on grain for a while my husband read an article saying that if man would live on oat cakes and milk he might live a hundred years and would be immune from all diseases. So we switched off to milk and oat cakes. Did you ever eat oak cakes? They are baked till they are as hard as bricks, and you need steel teeth to chew them. When we were all eating oat cakes together it sounded as though somebody was shooting off firecrackers.

"After a couple of weeks of that diet Mr. Cumback concluded that he didn't want to live a hundred years, and for a little while we had a civilized table once more. We had meat and eggs and pies and the things that civilized people like. I hoped that our troubles were over, but about two weeks ago Mr. Cumback read in the paper that a man who ate anything but fruit was taking his life in his hands. Fruit, the paper said, was the natural food of man, especially in the hot weather, and I'm sure it was hot enough then to suit anybody.

"Well, Mr. Cumback vetoed our bill of fare, and we all ate fruit until our teeth were on edge. We had fruit raw and boiled and stewed, and every way you ever heard of, and I felt sure we'd all be down sick, but Mr. Cumback said that the fruit diet had given him a new lease of life, and he went to his work every morning a giant refreshed. Then one night he ate a lot of pears before retiring. The pears weren't quite ripe, and I told him they would make him sick, but he said no man was ever made sick by eating fresh, wholesome fruit.

"After he had been in bed about an hour he began to groan like a saw running through a knot, and he kicked the footboard out of the bed and picked up a chair and bit pieces out of the rungs, and from that hour until 8 o'clock this morning I've been making ginger tea for him. For a couple of weeks now we'll have a little rest, I expect, and then we'll all swing over to a macadam diet. I just dropped in to see if you have a bottle of colic remedy that I may use in case he begins screaming again."

HIRED GIRLS.

Chicago News: "At last," exclaimed Mrs. Wagstaff, with considerable enthusiasm, "I believe I have a really satisfactory maid. She has been working here for three days, and so far her conduct has been above reproach. She missed being beautiful by at least a hundred miles, and so far there hasn't been a single young man at the back door, except the grocer's delivery man."

"I'm sure I hope you won't be disappointed," said Mrs. Cumback, gloomily, "but I haven't much confidence in any girl. In the end she biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder, as Shakespeare or somebody says. You simply can't tell anything about a girl in three days. Girls are always on their good behavior at first, until they begin to be useful, and then they think you can't keep house without them, and they go around with their noses in the air, as though they belonged to the royal family, and they begin insisting on higher wages and shorter hours, and the use of the parlor to entertain their friends, and seven afternoons of every week, and electric fans in their bedrooms, and I don't know what else. Oh, you can't tell me anything about girls.

"People often wonder why I do my own housework, as it's generally known that Mr. Cumback is prosperous and a liberal provider. In fact, he's always urging me to hire a competent girl, but there are no competent girls. They all died in the year of the big wind. I don't call a girl competent unless she's reasonable.

"Now, there was Beryl, a girl we had about two years ago. She came with the best recommendations you ever saw, and at first I was just as enthusiastic as you are over your new girl. At the end of three weeks I was driven nearly crazy, and I never was so happy over anything as I was when she went out of the house. She was a splendid worker, and she was good-natured, and had nearly all the good qualities you can imagine, and yet she nearly ruined my nerves."

"What in the world was the trouble?"

"She was always singing 'Only a Pansy Blossom.' Oh, of course you laugh, Mrs. Wagstaff. Everybody laughs when I mention it. But I tell you if I had an enemy I couldn't wish that enemy to have any worse luck than to live day after day in the same house with a girl who sings 'Only a Pansy Blossom' in a voice four octaves higher than a screech owl's.

"She sung it all the time. After a few days I called her into my sewing room and had a heart-to-heart talk with her, and begged her to try 'I Love You as the Roses Love the Dew,' or 'Annie Rooney,' or 'After the Ball,' or any other song in the world. She was just as sweet and pleasant as she could be and promised to do her best. No girl ever had a better disposition than Beryl.

"It was the saddest thing I ever heard of when she started in to sing 'Annie Rooney' while she was washing the dishes or sweeping the floor, and her voice trailed off into 'Only a pansy blossom, only a withered flower.' Yes, you can just keep on laughing and I won't care, but it was intolerable just the same. Since that time if I happen to see a pansy blossom or hear pansies mentioned I feel as though I ought to pull somebody's hair.

"Now, if Beryl had been reasonable she'd have got rid of that pansy blossom habit in one way or another.

"Then there was Dorothy. She was a splendid girl, but when she had been with us two weeks I had to let her go. She had false teeth, and when you were talking to her she had a habit of pulling down her upper teeth and letting them fly back with a click. That habit got on my nerves so that I simply couldn't stand it. But really, Mrs. Wagstaff, if you don't quit laughing I'll think you're making fun of me!"

THE TRADE DOLLAR.

Kansas City Star: A trade dollar is slightly larger than a standard dollar, but it is not current coin and its metal value is only about 40 cents, though coin collectors will pay 80 cents for it.

So many of these mongrel dollars were in circulation twenty years and more ago that most persons were watchful to avoid getting one, but in recent years they have been so rare that many people never have seen one.

Trade dollars were authorized by congress in 1873 for the purpose of stimulating commerce with the Orient. For many years the Mexican silver dollar had been a higly valued coin in nearly all far Eastern countries. Hundreds of millions of them were shipped to China, Japan, the Philippines and other countries in that part of the world to pay for the products exported from them to Europe and the United States.

American lawmakers thought that a coin of practically the same weight and size as the Mexican dollar bearing the imprint of the United States could be used advantageously as a substitute for the Mexican dollar.

In the five years beginning with 1873 the United States mint produced nearly 36,000,000 of these dollars. Most of them were exported, but enough of them remained in this country to be embarrassing because of their similarity to the standard silver dollar, and in 1887 congress provided that for six months thereafter all trade dollars presented to the treasury should be exchanged for standard silver dollars, and after that time the trade dollars were left to shift for themselves, being worth only their metal value, plus whatever premium coin collectors might be willing to pay for them. Nearly 8,000,000 of them were redeemed, and when the period for redemption ended only 284,587 of them remained in this country, less than 1 per cent of the number that had been coined.

The trade dollars have on one side a sitting figure of the goddess of liberty and on the other an eagle of a different design from that on the standard dollar. The inscription is "United States of America, Trade Dollar, 420 grains, 900 fine."

The standard silver dollar weighs 412½ grains. The weight of the Mexican dollar is 417.79 grains, but 97.27 per cent of it is pure silver, so that though it weighs less its metal value is about 7 per cent more than that of the old trade dollar. Probably this is the reason the trade dollar made a hit with the people of the Far East. There is ground for suspicion that the originators of the trade dollar thought the Orientals might be duped into taking it in preference to the Mexican dollar because of its slightly greater weight notwithstanding the fact that its silver value was about 7 per cent less. But the Oriental money changers quickly learned this difference in value and the deception wouldn't work.

The trade dollar was authorized by the coinage act of thirty-eight years ago, which became famous under the designation of "the crime of '73" in the free silver agitation which began a few years later and continued with more or less virulence for more than twenty years.

NO MEANS UNDAINED.

Los Angeles Times: The late Senator Elkins, condemning a rebate-giving railroad, once said at a dinner in Washington:

"In their desire for freight patronage these rebating concerns remind me of an Elkins girl.

"A young man was praising up this girl to his sister.

"She was asking me,' he mentioned, 'what color of hair I preferred.'

"'But the sister, with a malicious smile, remarked:

"'How like her that is! Always so anxious to please!'"

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

COBB HAS STARTED A NEW SCHOOL OF BASE RUNNING

From the account of the recent New York-Detroit game:

"Chase scored from second on an infield out and Wolter did likewise on an infield hit."

It appears that the dashing example of one Tyrus Raymond Cobb is not being wasted on the desert air.

Time was when an infield hit advanced a runner one base and he was thankful to get it. Time was when an infield out scored a runner from third, if he dug diligently. And he was thankful for that, too.

Then came Cobb and upset things.

Cobb Ignored Conventions.

The first time the speedy Georgian scored from first on a single the critics said: "He's crazy on the bases; he'll soon stop that or it'll be the bushes for his." It was against the ideas of conventional baseball.

But Cobb declined to play conventional baseball. He continued to run wild on the bases. More, he got away with it. Sometimes, of course, he was caught. Oftener his daring startled the opposition into quaint pegs and he kept right on running. The critics backed up. It came to be a saying, "The only safe way to stop Cobb when he starts from first is to peg home and start the ball around backward to meet him; he'll beat the throws if the ball is going the same way he is."

But the experts had an alibi. "Cobb is a phenomenon," they agreed. And they intimated or asserted, outright that Cobb had an exclusive right to base running miracles.

But what about Chase? Or Wolter?

A New Idea.

And now the experts are confronted with a new idea. May not Cobb, by his originality and daring, have created a new school of base running, in which may study any ball player gifted with speed and nerve? The convention that an infield hit, or even an infield out, might not carry a player home from second—taking the usual chances of a close play—was the idea of a slower thinking, if not a slower running, era in baseball. In a few seasons one may expect to see the very feats, now regarded as exclusively Cobb's own, attempted by every really fast and daring player when the situation warrants desperate chances.

It begins to look as if Cobb has done a far bigger thing than boost the standing of the Tigers and make for himself a reputation that will endure as long as baseball history.

It begins to look as if Cobb has evolved a theory of base running that will make over that feature into the most brilliant and spectacular of the great game.

Rochester Team Defeated By Darby's Crew; Score 5 to 2.

Johnson Pitches Good Game and Corbett Is Found Very Tame.

Duluth yesterday won the first of a four-game series with the Rochester Medics, Darby's crew copping by the score of 5 to 2, mainly through the fact that young Johnson was tight in all except one inning and Corbett was hit when hits were extremely timely.

Duluth's first run came in the third inning. Kramer opened with a single and was sacrificed along to second by Rube Hardgrove. Johnson hit one so hard that it could not be handled by Brown at second and Kramer moved on to third. Leber flew to center field and on the throw in Kramer would have been an easy out, had not the backstop fallen and let the ball get away from him.

In the next inning two more came across the plate. Meneice opened with a double and advanced to third on O'Brien's infield out. Miller doubled, scoring Samuel. Altermott struck out, but Kramer got his second hit of the afternoon and Doc Miller was across. Kramer was thrown out trying to steal.

In the seventh the Sox gathered their last two runs of the game. With two down Johnson caught one on the end of his bat and the ball sailed gaily over the left field fence. Leber doubled and scored when Olson hit a hard liner to Corbett, which was so hard that it got away, rolling slowly to Dunn at first, but not in time to beat Olson to the bag, or in time to be relayed home ahead of Leber.

In the sixth the enemy did all of their damage. Three hits were bunched off Kid Johnson in this round, resulting in two runs.

After Kernan was down Nye singled to short center field. Jude, the little Indian, who was a former American association and National league star, was hit, both runners moving up on Brown's out from Leber to Meneice. Lang singled to right and Nye was over. Connolly singled to left and Jude came over. McAleese popped to Leber and the trouble was over.

Rochester did not even threaten after the sixth, Johnson settling down and pitching a nice game.

The Medics will be our guests again this afternoon.

"RED" DOOIN BREAKS LEG

Phillies' Manager May Not Be Able to Play Again This Year.

Sliding Runner Collides With Catcher in Game at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—Charles Dooin, catcher and manager of the Philadelphia National league baseball team, is in a hospital here with a broken right leg, as the result of a collision at the home plate in yesterday's game with St. Louis, and physicians last night announced that he hardly will be able to play again this season.

Dooin must remain in the hospital until Saturday night, at least, when he hopes to be taken to Philadelphia.

In the presence of the manager's downcast team-mates, last night an X-ray photograph of the fracture, which is of the right fibula and about four inches above the ankle, was taken The bone is broken in two.

The accident occurred in the fourth inning of yesterday's game, while St. Louis was at bat. Third Baseman Smith just had been thrown out at the plate on an infield hit and Center Fielder Oakes was on third base and Pitcher Geyer on first. They tried a double steal, and as Shortstop Doolan of Philadelphia returned the ball to Dooin, Oakes slid into the plate, feet first, striking Dooin with great force While Umpire O'Day was waving the runner out. Dooin dropped on his face. Players of both teams carried the manager to a taxicab which took him to the hospital.

Though the physicians at the hospital announced that Dooin would be out of the game at least two months, the manager told his team mates that he believed he could be able to play again in six weeks.

Shortstop Michael Doolan will act as manager of the team while Dooin is absent and Moran and Madden will be the catchers. This is the third star the Philadelphia team has lost this season in games with St. Louis and the players last night say Dooin's injury more than anything else, perhaps, would spoil their chances for the pennant.

Outfielder John Titus is just rounding into shape after having been out of the game since breaking his leg early in the season in a collision with Manager Bresnahan of St. Louis and Outfielder Sherwood Magee has been suspended for the remainder of the season for attacking Umpire Finneran on St. Louis's last visit to Philadelphia.

MIKE KELLEY AND FORCE ARE COMING

League President and St. Paul Manager Are Expected Here.

Michael J. Kelley, manager of the St. Paul baseball team, and Frank E. Force, president of the Minny league, are due at the Head of the Lakes today or tomorrow, according to the report that has reached here from the Twin Cities.

The genal Michael J. Kelley is coming up to look over some of the players in the four teams that are playing at the Head of the Lakes at the present time, and Force is probably coming up to see how things are running.

It is to be hoped that his eyes will fall on the stately form of Umpire Claude Elliott, the one good umpire in all the league who has worked here the present season. Elliott is an umpire who has the respect of the players, and for that reason keeps the game free from wrangling and other objectionable features.

The work of Elliott is deserving of a boost, and some league that is looking for an umpire who knows right where he is at all the time, would not make any mistake in signing him.

As for Lyman, Griffith and Kelly, they won't do, and perhaps the attention of Mr. Force will be called to their mistakes during the present season, though poor old Griffith is with us no longer.

JOHN RADCLIFFE PASSES AWAY

Famous Old Ball Player Dies Suddenly at Ocean City, N. J.

Ocean City, N. J., July 27.—John Y. Radcliffe, famous as a baseball player in the 60's and early 70's, died suddenly at the Ocean City Yacht club here yesterday. He was 63 years old.

Radcliffe was a member of the celebrated Athletics of Philadelphia, playing as catcher and short stop. He was regarded as one of the great bare hand catchers of his time. Radcliffe lived in Camden, N. J., and after retiring from baseball became a prosperous poultry man.

CHAMPION IN GREAT TEST

Mason Phelps Meets Robert A. Gardner in Detroit Tourney.

Two Thirty-Seven Hole Matches in Second Round of Play.

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Mason Phelps of Chicago, Western amateur champion, must today defeat Robert A. Gardner, also of Chicago, in the third round of match play to be eligible for the semi-finals for the Western golf championship tomorrow. Paul Hunter of Chicago, and W. C. Fownes of Pittsburg, national amateur champion, also clash and these matches are looked upon with nearly equal favor, for the contestants have all been regarded as having good chances to win the highest honor.

Albert Seckel of Chicago, Princeton's intercollegiate champion, meets James D. Standish, Detroit's only survivor, while two Pittsburgers—M. D. Ritchie and E. M. Byers come together.

All of today's championship matches are thirty-six holes.

Two 37-hole matches, one in which Mason Phelps, the Western champion, defeated Henry Heyburn of Louisville, and the other which gave Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, the Yale athlete, a victory over J. B. Schlotman of Detroit, made the second round of match play yesterday one of brilliant competition.

Favored by luck which enabled him to halve the 36th in five, Phelps, holing a beautiful 25-foot putt, claimed the extra hole, ¾ and put the Kentuckian out of further competition.

In the Gardner-Schlotman match, the latter evened matters up when he won the 36th hole, 4-5, but he fell down on the extra one, taking three puts for a five, while Gardner holed in four.

The results of the other matches yesterday follow:

Paul Hunter, Chicago, defeated H. Wilson, Cincinnati, 7 up and 5.

W. C. Fownes, Pittsburg, defeated Harold Weber, Toledo, 2 up and 1.

Albert Seckel, Chicago, who holds the intercollegiate championship, defeated W. I. Howland, Chicago, 4 up and 3.

J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, defeated J. K. Bole, Cleveland, 1 up in 36 holes.

M. D. Ritchie, Pittsburg, defeated G. W. Bunn, Jr., Springfield, Ill., 3 up and 2.

F. M. Byers, Pittsburg, defeated Wylie Carhart, Jr., Detroit, 10 up and 8.

The Phelps-Heyburn afternoon round drew a gallery of several hundred people who took advantage of the first sunny day of the tournament. The champion was 3 down from the morning, but spectacular iron shots helped him even up matters at the 23d hole. Heyburn's putting was much better than Phelps' except on two occasions, and one of those decided the match. On the 36th, with Heyburn's ball about four feet from the cup, Phelps missed a 6-foot putt for a four by an inch, but stymied Heyburn and he was halved.

OARSMEN GATHER AT SARATOGA

Crews Arrive for National Regatta Which Will Open Friday.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 27.—Oarsmen representing clubs from practically every rowing center in the East and Middle West and several from Canada have arrived to compete in the thirty-ninth annual rowing of the championships of the National association of Amateur Oarsmen, which will begin Friday. Sixty-one entries have been received for the various events, which are open to all amateur clubs in the world. Each of the twelve races will be over one mile and a quarter straight-away.

Yesterday's arrivals included clubs from New York, Detroit, Springfield, Mass., and Boston. The Duluth crews arrived Tuesday.

BROWN FIGHTS DRAW.

Ashland, Wis., July 27.—Pal Brown of Hibbing and Kid Taylor, an unknown fighter of Chicago, fought a ten-round draw here last night. During the first five rounds of the contest Brown had the better of it, but in the remaining five rounds the Chicago boy held his own. The battle was held at the Ashland opera house.

BUSY DAY IN TENNIS PLAY

Tournament at Onwentsia Club Is Again Up to Schedule.

Harry Wardner, Chicago, Wins From Veteran, Hugh G. Whitehead.

Lake Forest, Ill., July 27.—Third round matches in the singles and second round matches in the doubles were completed as the result of a busy day in the Western tennis tournament yesterday at Onwentsia club. Through the efforts of the officers of the tourney and the assistance of the players, nearly a round and a half of matches were played, practically every contestant playing two or more matches. C. M. Bull, Jr., of New York was the hardest worked man in the tourney, playing two singles and one double match.

As the result of matches yesterday, the play is up to schedule, despite the inclement weather which marked the first two days. So far there have been no surprises in any of the events, and the field which has qualified for the fourth round is the best which ever has competed in an event at this club.

Several excellent matches were played yesterday, among the foremost being the meeting of Hugh G. Whitehead, Norfolk, Va., and Harry Waidner, Chicago, the latter winning 6-3; 6-4. Whitehead put up a brilliant match and forced the veteran "southpaw" to his limit. Waidner's drives down the line seemed his strongest point, while Whitehead excelled in playing from the center of the court.

Joe Armstrong of St. Paul, Western intercollegiate champion, added another scalp to his belt when he defeated A. C. Potter of Omaha, 6-3; 7-5.

Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, put Harry Martin, New York, out of the running by defeating him 6-4; 6-2.

Men's doubles: Second round—Ludks and Morley, Chicago, defeated Johnston and McCormick, Chicago, 7-5; 8-6; 13-11.

Women's doubles: First round—Miss Florence Sutton and Mrs. Black defaulted to Mrs. E. I. Cudahy and Miss H. Steele.

Mrs. Hayden Smith and partner defaulted to Miss Edith Hoyt and Miss Marie Wimer.

Miss Mable Hotchkiss and Miss C. B. Neely defeated Miss Katherine Waldo and Mrs. W. B. Brown, 6-2; 6-1.

Women's singles: Second round—Miss Carrie B. Neeley, Chicago, defeated Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, Chicago, 6-4; 6-2.

In an effort to complete the third round of the men's singles and bring the matches up to schedule, two matches were started late in the day. G. M. Church of Princeton, N. J., after a great struggle, defeated Albrecht Ludke of Chicago, the Astee champion, 3-6; 6-1; 11-9.

Dusk found C. M. Bull of New York and Heathby Ford of Chicago tied, each having won a set. Bull took the first, 9-7, while Ford annexed the second, 8-6 The tie will be played off today.

RAIN WILL NOT STOP BIG MATCH

Chicago, July 27.—Rain will not prevent decision in the Gotch-Hackenschmidt championship wrestling match at White Sox park on Labor day, according to Jack Curley, manager for Hack. A trump card against an unkindly weather man will be the erection of a wooden covering which will extend out over the padded ring. This will be attached to the roof of the grand stand at a sufficient height not to interfere with the view of any of the occupants of the grand stand or pavilion seats.

According to Curley, it will cost $40,000 to open the gates and the promoters wish to minimize their chances of not adding materially to their bank rolls by public interest in what in advance, at least, is generally conceded to be the greatest combat in wrestling history.

The scale of prices has been determined and the promoters will begin the sale of seats next Monday, a month before the date set for the event. The prices will range from $1 to $10. The majority of the seats will be sold at $2, $3 and $5, which will include places in grand stand and pavilion, with $10 the figure for a number of the best box seats. The $1 charge will be for general admission in the far bleachers.

Joe Rodgers passed through the city yesterday to join the Gotch camp at Humboldt, Iowa.

Hack will reach the city about Aug. 20. Dr. Roller will act as his principal wrestling partner, with Tom Jenkins and Adolph Ernst, and one other to be chosen. Gotch is not expected in Chicago until about a week before the match.

MOTOR BOATS SET SPEED RECORDS

Peoria, Ill., July 27.—All American records for any class of motor boats in competition were broken here yesterday when Red Top III, owned by W. F. Hughey of Bellevue, Iowa, won the twenty-five mile free-for-all in 42:11 minutes, or at a rate of 35.56 miles per hour, Dixie III's time in defending the America's trophy in the international races last fall being 34.05 miles per hour.

World's records for twenty-footers set up yesterday by Sand Burr II, owned by White brothers of Atlantic City, also went by the board when that boat won the twenty-six foot class event, traveling fifteen miles in 26:57 1-5, or at the rate of 33.39 miles per hour. The fastest lap of this race was done at a speed of 33.83 miles per hour, which time has never even been approached in recognized events in the world for twenty-foot boats.

LARNED FAMILY WINS MORE TENNIS HONORS.

Boston, Mass., July 27.—E. P. Larned of Summit, N. J., defeated G. F. Touchard of New York in the final round of the lawn tennis singles tournament for the Liverpool cup on the courts of the Longwood Cricket club yesterday, the scores being 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

W. A. Larned, the holder of the Longwood title will not defend the title this year, not caring to play his brother, for purely sentimental reasons.

R. T. C. WINS BIG EVENT

Graduated Plow Horse First for $10,000 Stake at Grand Rapids.

Capt. James Sullivan's Lewis Forrest Wins Third Money.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 27. — The greatest crowd assembled at a race meeting in this city since the famous Allerton-Nelson match in 1891, yesterday saw Tommy Murphy's graduated plow hose, R. T. C., repeat his triumphs at Indianapolis and Kalamazoo and capture his third great stake in as many weeks, when from a high class field, he won three of the four heats necessary to determine the winner in the 2:12 trot for the Furniture Manufacturers' $10,000 stakes.

R. T. C. was easily the best of the field and won the first two heats as he willed, making his drive from the turn into the stretch in each instance. In the third heat, the gelding broke badly while passing the quarter and Murphy rated him along in last place, aiming only to beat the distance flag. Belvasiel, Lewis Forrest and Al Stanley made a great finish of this heat, noses apart. In the final heat, R. T. C., got all the worst of the start, but came around in characteristic fashion on the far turn and under the whip beat out Belvasiel by a neck in a spectacular fashion.

Aero Leyburn led nearly the entire route in the first heat, but the best the Geers horse could do was to finish third and thereafter was always well back. To achieve his victory R. T. C. had to step a full second and a half faster thaa his best time in the $10,000 Paper Mills stakes at Kalamazoo last week.

This was distinctly "Murphy" day, his Twinkling Dan also taking first money in the 2:09 pace, though not in straight heats. In the first two efforts, a blanket could have covered the field at the finish. After a bad break at the three-quarter pole, Twinkling Dan found his feet in time to be beaten out in the second heat by Don by the closest of margins. He came back in the third, winning by two good lengths.

The only disappointing feature of the day was in the 2:11 pace when the great Zombrewer, after showing up the field and having things all his own way in the first heat, went lame in the second and was drawn in the third, the race finally going to Annie Laurie after two overtime heats.

Gold Dollar was as good as her name sounds in the 2:09 trot, which she took by safe margins in straight heats.

NELSON ACCEPTS OFFER.

Will Fight Brown or Attell Before New York Club.

New York, July 27.—Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, has accepted the offer of a local club for a match here in September with either Knockout Brown or Abe Attell as his opponent. Brown is willing to meet him at 135 pounds and Attell will accept a bout at 133 even though he would have to concede ten pounds to his opponent.

Meanwhile Jimmy Britt, Nelson's old rival, who has not taken part in a bout for more than two years, is desirous of scheduling another set-to and has written that he will be ready to box Nelson in about eight weeks.

FIGHT TWENTY ROUNDS ON RIVER STEAMER.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—Leo Kelly of this city and Everett Gray of Connellsville, N. Y., lightweights, fought twenty rounds last night on the Mississippi river steamer, Keystone State, the local fighter being awarded the decision.

The contest was a give and take affair and neither man showed more than mediocre ability.

The Edwardsville, Ill., Athletic club, under the auspices of which the fight was staged, started the river bouts some time ago with six-round contests, then increased them to ten-rounds and last night the twenty-round goal was attained.

PILAKOFF, GIANT FINNISH WRESTLER, MAY RESIDE HERE

(BY BRUCE.)

Wonderful in the gigantic strength of his huge muscles, picturesque in his appearance and suggestive of those giants of the historical past, possessed of a record of achievement in his battles with the greatest wrestlers of the old and new worlds, Frederick Pilakoff, the Finnish Lion, a giant of 226 pounds of bone and sinew, is in Duluth.

Fearing no man in the world and anxious to meet any of the wrestlers before the public, the gigantic Finn, who has made a remarkable record both in Europe and the United States, may make Duluth his home in the future.

Snould Pilakoff decide to come here and make this city his home, Duluth at last will have a wrestler whom the lovers of wrestling may be well proud of. Duluth will at last have a mat representative who can meet any man in the world and not ask for any kind of a handicap.

Pilakoff is the same man who in the New York casino, before a mob of 4,000 howling wrestling enthusiasts, won a handicap match from Zbysko, the handicap in this case being that the huge man from Poland could not throw the huge Finn in ninety minutes.

Not only is Pilakoff a wrestler who made a remarkable reputation in the East last winter, but he is also one of the strongest weight lifters in the world. The giant breaks iron bars, bends horse shoes and lifts enormous weights, and according to some of the clippings he carries with him, does all these stunts with remarkable ease.

In coming to the Northwest the big Finnish wrestler is after the scalp of Ordemann and Westergaard, as well as Cutler and any of the heavyweights who want a match with him. He has heard of Hassan, the Turk, who is training with Frank A. Gotch at Humboldt, Iowa, at the present time, and says he is willing to meet this man in a finish match.

Fans of Duluth have shown in the past that they like wrestling when the matches are clean and well conducted. The one objection to some of the matches of the past was that they were one-sided. It was said that Karl Lehto, plucky and game that he is, could not meet men like Hackenschimdt, Ordemann and Gotch and make anywhere near an even match.

With Pilakoff the case would be quite different. The giant is anxious to meet Ordemann, Hackenscmidt, Gama, the wonderful Indian wrestler, should Alfred Benjamin, the English sportsman, bring the product of East India to the United States, or any of the other American or foreign stars.

Last season wrestling in New York and other of the big Eastern cities, and meeting Hackenscmidt and Zbyszko and some of the other stars, Pilakoff showed that he is one of the best of the first-class wrestlers in the United States. Strange as it may seem, he does not claim any championship, but is ready, and even eager to meet any man in the world on the mat.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS.

lation of any term, condition or provision of this ordinance or otherwise, all rights, franchises and privileges whatsoever by this ordinance created or granted shall wholly cease and terminate without any act to be done or notice to be given by the city.

Sec. 4.—The company shall have the right to determine, for a period of seven years after July 1, 1911, whether it shall lay single or double tracks, and whether it shall use gasoline or electricity for motive power; but after such period of seven years aforesaid, the Common Council shall have the right, which it hereby reserves, to determine whether single or double tracks shall be retained or laid, and whether gasoline or electric motive power shall be used; provided, however, that such determination of the Common Council shall not be binding upon the company unless made by a seven-eighths vote of the entire membership of said Council, nor unless said company is given at least ten days' notice of the proposed action and afforded an opportunity to be heard thereon within said time.

Sec. 5.—Said company shall have that portion of its track from the Maple Grove road to the intersection of Palmetto street and Highland avenue completed and in operation on or before July 1, 1912; and the remainder thereof completed and in operation on or before July 1, 1914. But if the remainder thereof or any part of such remainder is not completed and in operation by July 1, 1914, the failure so to do shall not operate to cause a forfeiture of this franchise, but it shall cause such franchise to lapse and be of no effect as to such portion only so not completed and in operation.

Sec. 6.—Where the grade of any highway traversed by the tracks of said company has not been established as provided by the charter of the city, said company shall, at its own expense, bring such highway to such grade, as shall be considered necessary by the company, for a width of seven feet where the same is traversed by a single track and for a width of fourteen feet where the same is traversed by a double track, and shall thereafter, until a grade is established on said highway, as provided by the charter of the city, keep at its own expense such highways for the widths aforesaid in repair and free from snow. Where the grade of any highway traversed by the tracks of said company has been established, as provided by the charter of the city, said company shall, at its own expense, bring such highway to such established grade for a width of seven feet where the same is traversed by a single track, and for a width of fourteen feet where the same is traversed by a double track; and shall thereafter, at its own expense, fill, grade pave, re-pave, sweep, clean, sprinkle, and keep in repair and free from snow such highways for the respective widths aforesaid. The city engineer shall have the right, subject to the approval of the Common Council, to determine the location of the track or tracks of the company in any highway of the city in which the grade has been established as provided by the charter of the city, and when the grade has been established in a highway in which the tracks of the company have been laid before such grade is established, the city engineer, with the approval of the Common Council, shall have the right to cause such tracks to be changed by the company, at its own expense, to such location in such highway as to said engineer may seem proper. Unless otherwise ordered by the Common Council, said company shall pave, re-pave and keep in repair such highways for the widths aforesaid, with the same material and in the same manner that such highway is paved, re-paved and kept in repair outside the portions of such highway hereinabove required to be paved, repaved and kept in repair by said company. In removing snow the company shall not deposit it upon the portions of the highway outside of the tracks, except temporarily; and in every case of such temporary deposit it shall be removed within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Board of Public Works. If, in any case, the requirements of this section made as to the width of the portions of the highways which the company shall fill, grade, pave, repave, sweep, clean, sprinkle, and keep in repair and free from snow, do not cover the distance between the rails as laid and one foot outside the outside rails of any track laid in any such highway, then said company shall be required also to fill, grade, pave, re-pave, sweep, clean, sprinkle, and keep in repair and free from snow, such highways for such distance of one foot outside the outside rails of such tracks. If the company shall either fail or refuse so to fill, grade, pave, re-pave sweep, clean, sprinkle, or keep in repair and free from snow such highways for the respective widths aforesaid, such work may be done by the city, or under its direction, and the cost or expense thereof may, at the option of the city, either be recovered of the company in a civil action or be assessed upon the real or personal property of the company within the corporate limits of the city, and against the company, in the manner provided by law for special assessments against property benefited by public improvements.

Sec. 7. The company shall, at its own expense, construct any new bridges or culverts that may be needed by it in order to lay its tracks and operate its cars under this ordinance. Such bridges or culverts shall be so constructed on plans and specifications that shall be approved by the city engineer before such work of construction is commenced. In case, by reason of the establishment of a grade pursuant to the charter of the city, any bridge or culvert now in place or that may be constructed by the company before such grade is so established, must, in the opinion of the Common Council, be re-constructed to conform to such established grade, the company shall pay to the city such percentage of the total cost of the construction or re-construction of such bridge or culvert as fourteen bears to the total width of the highway in which such bridge or culvert is constructed. The company shall, at its own expense, pave, floor, repair, clean, sprinkle and keep free from snow the floor or pavement of each bridge crossed by its tracks, seven feet in width for each track laid on such bridge, subject to the same provisions and conditions in this ordinance contained in respect to like work or improvement on highways. The company shall provide and keep in repair for the use of the public a sidewalk at least four feet wide, with suitable approaches and railings, on each bridge constructed by the company on a public highway. In case any bridge or culvert needs to be strengthened in order for the company to operate any of its cars over such bridge or culvert, the entire expense of strengthening such bridge or culvert accordingly shall be paid for by the company; but the plans and specifications for the strengthening of such bridge or culvert shall be approved by the city engineer before such work is commenced.

Sec. 8. The city shall have a right to the free use of any poles of the company to carry the police and fire alarm telegraph and telephone system of the city now or hereafter owned by it.

Sec. 9. If the company shall cease to operate cars over any of its tracks or any portion thereof, it shall remove such tracks upon the order of the Common Council. In case such removal is ordered by the Common Council and not made by the company as ordered, the city may remove the same and collect the cost and expense of such removal from the company. In every case of removal of tracks, the company shall restore the highway to the condition of the adjacent portions thereof, at its own expense.

Sec. 10. Any other railway desiring to enter the city with its cars over the tracks of the company shall be given trackage and terminal facilities, equal in use and enjoyment to that of the company, upon such fair and reasonable terms as may be agreed upon by such companies and the city, or as may be determined by the district court of St. Louis county, Minn.; but no contract shall be made to furnish such trackage or terminal facilities to such other company, except with the consent of the Common Council; and a copy of any and all contracts by which the company agrees to furnish trackage or terminal facilities to any other such company shall be filed with the city clerk. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to prevent the city granting a franchise to any other railway company on any highways of the city.

Sec. 11. The city shall not be held liable by the company for any damage that may be occasioned by the breakage of any gas or water pipes, or from any delays that may be occasioned by the laying or construction of sewers, water or gas pipes or conduits, or from the improvement or repair of any highways. There is reserved to said city the right to take up and remove the rails of said company whenever it shall be necessary for the repair or improvement of the highways, or for the construction or laying of water or gas pipes or conduits or sewers or for other public purposes, in, on or under the highways on which said rails may be laid, and the tracks of said company shall be taken up and re-laid by and at the cost of said company whenever the Common Council may require the same to be done for any of the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 12. The company shall maintain an office within the business portion of the city at a location satisfactory to the Common Council, and shall not remove its principal office or any books, accounts, original vouchers of receipts and expenditures, or other records, beyond the limits of the city. The company shall continue to be a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Minnesota, and no assignment or transfer of this franchise shall ever be made to, nor shall said railway ever be operated by, any grantee or operator which is not a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Minnesota.

Sec. 13. The rights and privileges hereby granted, and all the provisions of this ordinance, are and shall be subject to the provisions of all ordinances now in force or which may be hereafter enacted by the Common Council of the City in the exercise of its police power; but, without intending to limit or restrict the exercise of such power in any manner or to any extent, the City hereby requires the company, and the company hereby agrees, to be bound by the following provisions, viz:

The fare to be charged for the carrying of either passengers or freight shall at all times be fair and reasonable.

Subject to the foregoing paragraph, the company shall be entitled to charge passengers, during the term of this ordinance, the following rates of fare, to-wit: for a continuous trip in one general direction within the present or future limits of the city, over any railway covered by this ordinance and all extensions thereof, whether owned, leased or operated by the company, the sum of five cents for each passenger five years of age or over; provided that children under five years of age, accompanied by a person paying fare, shall be permitted to ride free. Hand baggage in the possession of passengers and not of a size to obstruct seats or passageways of cars shall be carried free.

The Company shall be required to issue a transfer to each paying passenger demanding the same, so as to enable him to make a continuous trip to his destination to any point within the corporate limits of the city on any railway owned, leased or operated by the Company. Whenever and as soon as any company operating a street railway in the city of Duluth shall notify the Common Council that it is willing to issue transfers to the railway operated by the grantee of this franchise, either free or upon payment by the passenger of an additional fare of less than five cents, the company operating under this franchise shall, and by the acceptance of this ordinance does agree to issue transfers to such other street railway upon the same terms, except that said grantee of this ordinance shall not be obliged to give transfers to any passengers transferred to it.

All poles erected by the Company shall be neat and symmetrical, well painted in such color as the Common Council shall prescribe, and with no electrical apparatus, wire or other attachment thereto less than twenty feet above the surface of the ground.

The Company shall establish and maintain, at such place or places along its lines as the Common Council may direct, suitable passenger and freight stations.

The Council may prescribe the style of rail to be laid.

The Common Council shall have the right to determine the speed at which cars may be operated.

All cars shall be equipped with efficient and serviceable fender devices, head-lights and sand boxes.

Said cars shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair, and shall be thoroughly ventilated.

All cars shall be kept well heated, and illuminated in such manner as the Common Council may prescribe.

Each car shall bear appropriate and conspicuous signs upon both its sides and front end, so placed as to indicate, both day and night, the route and destination of such car.

Conductors shall distinctly announce to passengers the names of all highways crossed, as the cars approach the same, and they shall observe the same rule when nearing the track or station of any other railway company.

Cars shall run as often and at such hours as the Common Council may determine; but fares on cars operated after 12 o'clock midnight and before 5 o'clock a. m. may be double the ordinary maximum single fare rates.

After July 1, 1916, the inner rail of any track of the Company shall be within two feet nine inches of the center line of any highway in which it is laid, and in case any such rail is laid in a different location prior to said date, the Common Council shall, after said date, have the power to cause the same to be changed in order to comply with this provision.

After July 1, 1916, all poles, wires, rails, cars, and other equipment of the Company shall be of first class material and workmanship and of the best style and class used by street railways in other cities.

The Company is hereby authorized and permitted to operate funeral cars, and separate cars for the use of the United States Postoffice department for the carriage of mail, and chartered cars for private parties.

No freight train consisting of more than two cars in addition to the motor shall be permitted to run on any highway, except between the hours of 8 p. m. and 6 a. m. Freight cars will not be permitted at any time to stop on highway crossings. The carrying of mail or freight shall not in any manner hinder or delay passenger cars, and places for the delivery of mail and freight must be so situated that the stopping of the cars used for such purposes while loading and unloading will not needlessly obstruct highways or hinder or delay traffic.

Sec. 14. The company shall furnish to the Common Council a full and complete statement of its plant and appliances and of the cost and value of the same, verified by two of its general officers, within sixty days after the completion of said plant. The company shall file annually, on the first Monday in February of each year, in the office of the city comptroller, a statement subscribed and sworn to by two general officers of said company setting forth in detail for the preceding calendar year, the then actual cost of the plant or business operated by said company, the actual encumbrances, debts and obligations of said company, if any, the amount of stock issued and to whom issued and the consideration thereof, the gross earnings, the expenses and nature thereof, the net income after deducting all proper costs and expenses, the names and residences and the amount of stock of all stockholders of the company; if any bonds have been redeemed and not cancelled, that fact shall also be stated. The city shall at all times have right of access to the books, papers and records of the company, and the Common Council may from time to time designate, by resolution, representatives of the city to make examination of the books, papers and records of the company, that the Common Council may be able to verify the statement hereinabove required to be made by the company.

Sec. 15. In case said company is now or shall at any time hereafter become amendable or subject to any state law relative to interurban or other railways, the company by the acceptance of this ordinance and franchise, agrees to also be bound by all of the provisions of this ordinance and subject to the supervision and control of the city, as provided for by the terms of this ordinance. In the event that the rights, franchises and privileges granted to the company by this ordinance shall hereafter be extended by act of the legislature, or any other authority superior to the city, beyond the term herein fixed and defined, or the company shall be authorized to continue to operate its railway within the corporate limits of the city beyond the restrictions and limitations of this ordinance, all rights, privileges and reservations of and to said city contained in this ordinance shall continue in full force and effect during the period that said company may be authorized to or shall operate a street railway within the corporate limits of the city beyond the term for which said rights, franchises and privileges are authorized by the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 16. No sale or assignment shall be made of the franchise herein provided for to any person, firm or corporation, nor shall any purchase by or transfer to said company, its successors or assigns, be made of any other street railway plant, franchise or right in operation in said city, without the consent of the City of Duluth, duly expressed by ordinance; and in the event of any such sale, assignment, purchase or transfer being made, without such consent as aforesaid, or of the making of any assignment for the benefit of creditors, or of becoming the subject of any insolvency or bankrupt proceedings, or the allowing of a judgment to remain unsatisfied of record against the company for the period of sixty days without any appeal being taken therefrom, or if an appeal shall be taken and such judgment, affirmed, the allowing of such judgment to remain unsatisfied for the period of sixty days from the date of such affirmance, then and in any such case, the franchises, rights and privileges hereby granted shall terminate and become void at the option of the Common Council.

Sec. 17. The company shall forever indemnify and save harmless the city against and from all damages, judgments, decrees, costs and expenses which the said city may suffer, or which may be recoverable from or obtained against the city for or by reason of the granting of the rights and privileges hereby conferred upon the company, or for or by reason of or growing out of or resulting from the exercise by the company of the rights and privileges hereby granted or any of them, or from any act or acts of the company, its servants or agents, under or by virtue of the provisions of this ordinance; and to secure the performance of this section the city shall have a first and paramount lien on all the property of the company.

Sec. 18. The company, by the acceptance of this ordinance, agrees to faithfully observe and perform, all and singular, the covenants and conditions required to be kept and performed by it. If the company shall wilfully fail, neglect or refuse to observe and perform the conditions imposed by this ordinance, or shall not comply with the reasonable regulations of the city in respect to the operation of its street railway, or shall fail to maintain said street railway in a good state of efficiency, and such failure, neglect, refusal or default shall continue for a period of ninety days from and after the adoption of a resolution by the Common Council declaring said default, neglect or refusal on the part of the company, then and in such event the city shall have the right to immediately institute legal proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction within and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, to have a forfeiture declared and enforced against the company, and all rights of the company granted under this ordinance or exercised by it shall be terminated by proper decree of forfeiture, and the rights of the city reserved in this ordinance fully conserved.

Sec. 19. Wherever the words "the company" are used in this ordinance the Suburban Traction company is referred to, and wherever the words "the city" are used the city of Duluth is referred to.

Sec. 20. This ordinance shall take effect thirty days after the publication thereof, as provided by Sections 460 and 461 of the charter of the city.

MARINE NEWS

MAY EXTEND WATER LINE

Lake Shore Owners Unable to Get Deep Water for Docks.

U. S. Engineers Order Work Now in Progress, Stopped.

A petition will probably be made to the local corps of United States engineers to have the water line along the lake shore upper portion of Minnesota Point extended several feet, in order to give the owners of the land on the water front more room for docks. The petition will be the result of the action taken yesterday by John H. Darling, principal engineer to Maj. Francis R. Shunk, in stopping the work being done by Whitney Bros., contractors of Superior.

The contractors have started work on the construction of a dock on the east shore of the point, and already have piling driven into the lake five feet beyond the water line. This is a direction violation of the navigation laws, but was not intentionally done by the Superior men.

This firm is the owner of 300 feet of land there which it desires to improve, and which will be used for dockage purposes, and for a large warehouse. They contend that on account of the shallowness of the water at this point, they are compelled to go out farther than the government will allow them.

Whether it will be necessary to get many petitioners on a request for the extension of the water line, is still a question. It was in former years an easy matter to have the water line extended a few feet, but so many troubles have arisen, that the war department is much stricter in this matter now. It is an easy matter for the government to extend the line, but a far more difficult one for them to bring it nearer the shore again, should the necessity be felt for so doing. The government gives owners of land on the water front permission to build as far out as they wish up to the water line, but not beyond it, and should a number of land owners build to the water line, the bringing of the water line toward the shore would cause much trouble. Such a case recently occurred at Ashland.

MORE FREIGHT BEING HANDLED

Package Business Is Picking Up, Say Local Shipping Company Agents.

During the last few days there has been an improvement in the shipments down the lakes in merchandise lines. The package freight business has picked up a little, according to agents of shipping companies, and the outlook for a still greater improvement is good.

There was an encouraging improvement in the shipments of flour in the past ten days, according to one big shipping concern. The officers of which state that the amount sent to lower ports may be said to be heavy, considering the condition of the markets up to this time.

In the shipment of grain, there is also an improvement. One railroad, which does not do a big grain business to Duluth, has brought a large number of carloads of grain from Minneapolis for shipment down the lakes. One train included twenty-nine cars of grain, and more were scheduled on another.

The ore shipments during this week are very light as compared with last week, and unless business picks up during the latter part of the week, the record will fall far short of last week.

BUFFALO SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Received 7,000,000 More Bushels of Grain This Year Than Last.

Buffalo, July 27.—"The port of Buffalo shows an increase of grain to date over last year to the extent of about 7,000,000 bushels," said George E. Pierce of the Monarch Elevator company this morning. "The grain situation for the month of July of this year is the best that has existed for six or seven years, and the outlook is even more promising for the balance of the season. My estimate of the grain receipts for the port of Buffalo for this entire season is 150,000,000 bushels.

"There is, you might say, no limit to Buffalo's capacity for grain. The elevators of the city can handle 900,000,000 bushels a year, if the railroads have a sufficient number of cars on hand to carry it away. The railroads are now preparing for the coming strong movement by sending out orders for the gathering in this city of all spare cars, and I think in consequence everything will run smoothly."

BARGE IS SIGHTED.

Montezuma Lying Safely at Anchor Thirty Miles From Grand Island.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The barge Montezuma, which broke away from the steamer near Whitefish point in Mondays' storm, was sighted by the steamer Delaware thirty miles northwest of Grand Island last night. The barge was at anchor and members of the crew are all reported safe. The Delaware reported the Montezuma's location to the Great Lakes Towing company's office here, and the Sacramento bound down with Matanzas left that barge here and returned after the Montezuma this morning.

BUFFALO CUSTOM HOUSE OFFICIALS MAKE REPORT.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27.—According to the report of W. H. Bradish, special deputy collector of customs in the Buffalo district, the aggregate customs receipts amounted for the fiscal year ending on June 30, 1911, to $1,362,279.09.

There were 723 vessels entered this port from foreign ports, and 625 cleared from here for foreign ports. From domestic ports there came to Buffalo 2,753 vessels, and the total clearances numbered 2,833. The value of the foreign exports was $1,393,102; and of the domestic exports was $44,826,232. The value of the foreign imports was $7,300,151, and of the domestic imports from November 1, 1910, on was $774,907.

STEAMER SINKS DURING GALE

Rappahannock Springs Leak and Is Beached on Jackfish Point.

Bay City, Mich., July 27.—The steamer Rappahannock, owned by Capt. James Davidson of this city, was sunk off Jackfish Point, Ont., in the seventy-mile gale which swept Lake Superior Tuesday night, but her crew was saved. Her tow, the barge Montezuma, is somewhere on the lake, and the steamer Sacramento of the Davidson fleet left the Soo last night in search of her. Both vessels were coal-laden, Ashtabula to Duluth.

The Rappahannock sprang a leak in mid-lake and Capt. W. A. Ratley of Algonac, headed her for Jackfish. Before reaching the harbor, the vessel filled so fast that she was run aground on Jackfish point in eighteen feet of water. The crew was barely off the vessel when she began to sink into fifty feet of water. She will be abandoned. The Rappahannock was 335 feet long and had 3,500 gross tons ore capacity. She was built in Bay City in 1895 and had been rebuilt here last winter.

WORK STARTED ON NEW BREAKWATER.

The following notice was received yesterday afternoon by the local hydrographic office from the office at Buffalo:

"Work has been started on the new breakwater at Ashtabula, Ohio. The west arm is to extend 1,700 feet, 30 degrees. A red gas buoy, flashing red every ten seconds, has been placed about 1,800 feet, 40 degrees north northeast ¾ east of the light on the north end of the west breakwater. Wooden buoys and ranges with white lights, weather permitting, will be placed along the line of the extension.

"Vessels entering this harbor should keep to the eastward of the red gas buoy and must use caution when approaching the boats of the construction company. A white anchor light, fifteen feet above the lake level, has been placed on the north end of the east breakwater."

The E. Gillen Construction company of Racine, Wis., is doing the work.

America Inspected.

The steamer America of the Booth line, was re-inspected yesterday by local United States vessel inspectors, Capt. Monaghan and Capt. Chalk. She was found to be in good condition.

Big Load of Cement.

The Yale arrived in the local port this morning with a cargo of 75,000 sacks of cement from Port Huron to the Cutler dock. While this is not the largest load this boat has brought of cement, it is considered a fairly big one.

Work Suspended.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dredging of the westerly part of the channel at Sailors' Encampment is temporarily suspended, the men employed having quit their jobs.

The operations have been carried on by the Standard Contracting company of Cleveland.

The equipment necessary for the work is still in the channel, although the contract is not completed.

Building New Boat.

Work has been started on the new Boland & Cornelius ship which is being built at the new shipyards at Ashtabula. The new yards are the most complete of any on the lakes. The boat, according to the report of the contractors, will be ready for delivery early next season.

Kidney Diseases Are Curable

Under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: 'I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound.' Ask for it. MECHANICS ARE PUZZLED

Car From France "Floors" Them When Brought for Repairs.

T. T. Merrill of the French Capital Brings Car to Duluth.

With an automobile of French make, T. T. Merrill of Paris, France, arrived in Duluth yesterday. The car was shipped direct to Duluth from the City of Fashion.

When the car was taken to a local garage this morning for some minor repairs, the mechanics employed at the shop were up against it to know how to begin. The motor is of a different type than they ever saw before and they saw no way of even making a beginning on it.

Mr. Merrill had heard a good deal about Duluth and he shipped the car here and came directly here himself. He expects to spend several weeks in Duluth.

Motorists from all over the world have visited the Zenith City during the present season. Four times as many automobile tourists have been in the city since May 1 as any other year since automobiling became popular.

At the present time there are about fifty transients in the city. During the week of the carnival there were at least 100. Some automobile men say there must have been as many as 125.

They come from both East and West. Duluth is somewhat out of the way for some of them but they all state that after visiting in this city, they would not have missed coming.

A partial list of the automobile parties in Duluth at present is given below. The list is from only one garage and as there are many at other garages, there must be close to fifty parties in all. When it is remembered that each car brings from five to seven people, it will be seen that travel by automobile is popular:

A. B. Bennett is from Terre Haute, Ind. He came all the way in his car. Oscar Rohn is driving from Chicago to Butte, Mont., his home. Among others are S. A. Anderson, St. Paul; T. H. Bunn, Pine Island, Minn.; Peter Beckey, St. Paul; H. S. Cusen, Hibbing; John Haley, Hibbing; A. L. Meyers, Biwabik; H. E. Peck, Kenwaee; N. D.; P. R. Vall, Virginia; C. W. Hubbard, Lake City; J. F. Harris, Lake City; J. F. McGee, Minneapolis; C. E Deckert, Minneapolis; W. T. Nears, St. Paul; G. E. Houghton, Winnipeg; James Neary, Hibbing; Thomas Foley, St. Paul; G. E. Woehler, Minneapolis; W. A. Bertram, Minneapolis; Mrs. Jefferson, St. Paul; Capt. Rice New York city; J. W. Day, St Paul; J. H. Pearce, Minneapolis; Murdock McDonald, Virginia; C. M. Lakewood, Virginia; George Scott, Hibbing and Mark Eddy, Eveleth.

FIVE KILLED AND FIFTY INJURED

Seaboard Airline Train Is Wrecked at Hamlet, N. C.

Hamlet, N. C., July 27.—An excursion train from Durham, N. C., running as second No. 33, on the Seaboard Airline railroad, bound for Charlotte, rushed head-on into a freight train in the yards at this place at 10:20 o'clock this morning. Instantly killing five people and wounding between fifty and seventy-five.

Many of the injured will die.

HELD BELATED CELEBRATION

Three Lakeside Boys Put Explosive on Street Car Tracks.

Arthur Johnson, 18 years old and Victor and Ernest Oman, 16 and 14 years of age, respectively, held a late Fourth of July celebration near their homes at Lakeside last evening. They are said to have placed considerable quantities of a high explosive on the street car tracks. It went off with a heavy roar which could be heard blocks away.

But they were unfortunate in their selection of the time and the place. Chief Troyer was two blocks away and heard the heavy explosion and saw the clouds of smoke rolling away. Hurrying to the scene he procured the names of the youthful celebrators. This morning Johnson was arraigned in police court on a charge of discharging an explosive in the city limits. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $3, receiving a reprimand in addition. The brothers will be brought to the juvenile court to explain their part in the affair.

BADGER TURPENTINE PLANT IN OPERATION.

Wausau, Wis., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Badger Turpentine company has its plant in commission. There are twelve retorts at the plant. Each will hold four cords of stumps and three burnings can be made each week. It is estimated that each cord of wood will yield fifteen gallons of turpentine, giving a total output of 2,160 gallons of turpentine each week.

If some feature of your business must be temporarily neglected, let it be something less important than your advertising.

THOUSANDS SEE AERONAUT FALL 700 FEET TO DEATH.

Chicago, July 27.—Falling from a height of 700 feet, Harry Darnell of Chicago, a veteran balloonist, was dashed to death last night in the presence of thousands of horrified men and women attending a celebration at Plainfield, Ill., forty miles southwest of here. Every bone in the aeronaut's body was broken. Darnell had promised to turn a double "flip-flop" in the air and catch the trapeze with his toes. He leaped, turned twice and then missed the bar.

WHEAT GOES UP AGAIN

Advance Continues Into New Session, With Duluth Market Leading.

Movement From the Country Lighter and Congestion Is Being Relieved.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 27.—Wheat advanced in all American markets again today, Duluth leading with an advance of 1c to 1⅛c for the September option.

Part of the advance was a continuation of yesterday's upward movement induced by the foreign situation. The reports of wheat sold for export yesterday, with estimates on what has not been reported, leads to estimates of foreign business yesterday far beyond the realization of traders at the close of the market. Cables were lower today and the war news was more reassuring, but the effect of yesterday's movement held over into today's market.

In addition, there has been a falling off in receipts, and the estimates for tomorrow, especially in the Southwest, are below the movement for some time past. The indications are now that there will be marked relief in a few days for the prevailing congestion of stocks and movement from the country, and the relief is being discounted in the market.

The imminence of the adoption of the reciprocity agreement by the United States and the prevailing belief that Canada would take immediate action brought out wheat from the country and had its effect on the market. Now that Canadian action on reciprocity may not be expected for some time, the country is showing a disposition to curtail the movement to the primary centers. A continuation of the heavy movement which was on the early part of this week and last week, with the large accumulation of stocks at primary centers, threatened a congestion that would have had a serious effect on prices. The relief afforded by export sales the last two days and the curtailment of the movement from the country now in progress, was the bulls' leverage today and it sent prices to higher levels.

July wheat was inactive on the Duluth board and closed 1⅛c up at $1.01¼ nominal. September wheat opened ⅛c off to unchanged at 97⅛c, declined to 97c, advanced to 98¼c and closed at that figure. The linseed market was inactive and closed unchanged, July at $2.10 nominal, September at $2.02 nominal and October at $1.95.

The cash demand was good again today at 3c over September. Durum wheat was unchanged. Oats were ⅞c up at 42⅝c and corn was ⅝c up. Rye was unchanged.

Wheat closed ⅛d to ⅜d lower in Liverpool, ⅜c to 1c higher in Paris, ⅝c lower in Berlin and ⅛c up in Buenos Ayres for September.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The American cables were steady and these together with the firmness in Buenos Ayres caused the market to open here steady and ⅛d to ¼d higher with December ⅛d lower. Following the opening, dullness characterized the trading but the undertone became easier and later declined ⅛d to ⅜d with the principal pressure in October. Consols showed more firmness and the feeling here is less apprehensive regarding the Morocco question. There is a quiet demand for both parcels and cargoes with more favorable outlook in India for rain.

"At 1:30 p. m. the market was dull but easier with July ⅛d higher and otherwise ⅛d to ¼d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was neglected and unchanged. American parcels were offered slightly lower.

"Our Buenos Ayres agent cables that there is a generally better feeling among holders with speculators buying on the less favorable outlook in the north as a result of continued dryness. This was shown in the sharp advance yesterday in wheat. Corn remains strong with light offers."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Becomes Easier on Brighter Outlook for Peace.

Chicago, July 27.—With the Morocco situation appearing less acute the wheat market today became easy. Moreover, there were signs of larger world shipments this week. Dispatches from India, too, brought word that rain had fallen in the provinces and also in the Punjab. In addition, current gossip regarding the American spring wheat crop inclined to favor the bear side. It was asserted that the fields have sufficient moisture for the present, and that although black rust was doing some damage an accurate estimate of the actual harm had been found difficult. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅛c down. September started ¼c to ⅜c lower at 88c to 88½c and declined to 87¾@87⅞c.

A rally ensued on account of export sales and the fact that for the first time in a long while shipments from Chicago exceeded receipts. There was a rumor that black rust had appeared at Regina, N. W. T. The close was steady, ⅝c net higher at 88¾c for September.

Considerable selling pressure developed in corn. A leading authority was quoted as declaring the crop in good condition, and predicting that if no setback occurred from now on a large yield might be expected. September opened unchanged at 62⅞c, but sagged to 62⅝c.

Other reports, however, said to indicate deficient moisture and a sensationally poor crop condition, led to an upturn. The close was steady with September ½@⅝c net higher at 63⅜@63½c.

Oats weakened with other grain and because both in quality and quantity the harvest was turning out better than expected several weeks ago. September started a shade to ¼c@⅜c off at 39⅝c to 39⅞c, and fell to 39½c.

Demand was less urgent for hog products, and there was plentiful selling by packers. Initial transactions were 5c lower to 2½c up with September delivery $16.90 for pork, $8.57½ for lard, and $8.70 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rise on Covering, Light Offerings and Support.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—Shorts covering, light offerings and some moderate support forced wheat prices higher again today. Further reports of damage were received. An unconfirmed rumor of black rust in Regina caused apprehension of damage to Canadian crops. July closed 1½c higher than yesterday; September, ⅞c higher and December, ⅝@¾c higher. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 500,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis today received 128 cars of wheat against 139 cars a year ago; Duluth, 56 against 45; and Winnipeg, 132 against 117. Cotton Market.

New York, July 27.—Cotton opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 10 points in response to rather better cables than due, reports that rains were officially predicted for India, larger English spot sales, covering and continued buying for a reaction. Offerings were heavy at the initial advance and during the first few minutes the market eased off to a net decline of 9@11 points on the new crop months, but yesterday's buyers became more active on this decline and prices steadied up again to about the closing figures of yesterday during the middle of the morning. Weather advices were considered generally favorable and the South continued selling here.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 13.50; middling gulf, 13.75. Sales, 1,100 bales.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Opens Slightly Lower, Improves But Sells Off Again.

Partial Recovery in the Last Hour, But Net Losses Registered.

New York, July 27.—A slightly lower level prevailed at the opening of the stock market today. Losses were fractional, being heaviest among the Northwestern railroad group. St. Paul lost ⅜ and Great Northern preferred ½. The only gains were made by Consolidated Gas, which advanced a point, Denver & Rio Grande ¾ and American Smelting preferred ½.

Heavy buying of Reading was the feature of the first hour's trading. The stock advanced to 160¼, its highest price for more than two months. The general list improved after the opening, and most of the initial losses were recovered. Bethlehem Steel common and preferred and St. Louis & Southwestern preferred gained a point each.

Trading was less active today and variations in prices of stocks during the morning were small. For the third successive day buying of the coalers was conspicuous. Trading in Reading during the early part of the session constituted more than one-third of the total and with Lehigh Valley, which became increasingly active and strong in the second hour, overshadowed the remainder of the list. Board room gossip connected the name of a prominent trader, who is reported to have lost heavily in the cotton market, with the recent selling of stocks, particularly Reading. This stock was offered so liberaly today that it fell back to yesterday's closing after its early advance. Lehigh Valley rose 1⅜ and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie a point. Bonds were steady.

The selling movement assumed the proportions of a bear raid in the afternoon and prices gave way rapidly. The bear party professed alarm at cabled reports of Premier Asquith's speech on the Morocco controversy, but their attack apparently did not uncover a large amount of long stock. Canadian Pacific was the heaviest loser among the leading issues, declining 2⅝. Union Pacific's loss reached 2⅛. Southern Pacific fell back 2 and United States Steel, Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Erie common and first preferred, Westinghouse, Electric and American Beet Sugar 1 or more each.

The market closed heavy. Partial recovery was made in the last hour, Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and the Hill stocks all selling fractionally above the low point, but the list as a whole registered net losses.

SUPERIOR

FIFTY-NINE INDICTMENTS

Many of Them Believed to Be Against Census Padders.

Out of the fifty-nine indictments which were returned yesterday by a grand jury in the United States district court at Eau Claire, many are believed to against the alleged padders of the official census.

As the nature of the indictments and the names of those indicted are not given out until the warrants are served, nothing is known on this point ouside of the government officers and the grand jury.

However, as the alleged census frauds at the city of Superior were under the grand jury probe during the past several days of the sesion, fifty-five witnesses being examined, it is safe to say that some of the fifty-nine indictments returned were against the alleged padders of the census at Superior. Judging from the nature of some of the evidence presented before the grand jury in this matter and which seems to have leaked out, there must have been "something doing"—and on an extensive scale—in the way of boosting the last census figures at Superior, and the impression seems to be at Superior that men high in the affairs of the city and some prominent citizens were mixed up in it, as well as the enumerators.

It is said that the enumerators were paid bonuses for padding their returns by Superior parties; that the enumerators' reports sent in to the census bureau turned out, upon investigation, to contain hundreds of bogus names whose places of residence proved to be vacant lots, office building rooms or boarding houses and hotels. It is said that the residence lists at the hotels and boarding houses as given in the enumerators' reports were so large that they would make the most prosperous landlord turn green with envy, while tenement houses were found to be credited in the reports with a family for each room.

The investigation of the alleged census padding at Superior was carried on some time ago by W. A. McKenzie, special agent of the bureau of commerce and labor in census matters, and he has been in constant attendance during the session of the grand jury. C. A. Newton, special assistant to the United States attorney general in census fraud cases, examined all the witnesses in the Superior census matter before the jury.

BUSY SESSION FOR EXPERTS

Students of Municipal Problems Inspect Water Plant and Hear Addresses.

Delegates to the annual convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which is being held in Superior this week this morning made a trip of inspection through the plant of the Superior Water, Light & Power company, which supplies the city with water.

W. C. Lounsbury, superintendent of the waterworks plant, who gave a lecture on the waterworks system of Superior to the delegates at the high school auditorium last evening, showed the visitors through the place and explained the workings in detail.

At the session held this morning, Prof. George J. Davis, Jr., of Madison gave a talk on "Sewage Disposal" and John Icke, city engineer at Madison spoke on "Oiling Streets." This afternoon the visiting city officials were taken out for an excursion around the horn.

This evening, there will be a general reception at the Commercial club, after which C. B. Whitnall, city treasurer of Milwaukee will give an address on "City Planning." A business session will follow and committees for the coming year will be appointed and also selection made of the city for the next convention.

Tomorrow morning officers will be elected for 1912. Ford McGregor of Madison will give a talk on "Municipal Reference Bureau;" Erich C. Stern of Madison will tell of the work which was accomplished by the last legislature; and J. M. Cadby of Madison, inspector employed by the railroad commission, will speak on "Determining the Quality of Service Furnished by Public Utilities."

In the afternoon the visitors will come to Duluth and visit the industries of the Zenith City. A trip will be made to the steel plant site and other points of interest.

MILWAUKEE MAN MADE PRESIDENT

W. E. Brown Elected Head of State Firemen—Wausau Lands Convention.

Capt. W. E. Brown of Milwaukee was elected president of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association at the closing session of the 1911 convention in Superior today. The next annual meeting will be held at Wausau.

The other officers of the association for the ensuing year are: J. P. Welsh of Eau Claire, vice president; Ole Norman of Superior, secretary; and John H. Kratz of Manitowoc, treasurer.

This afternoon the firemen joined the Municipal League convention delegates on a boat ride around the harbor. The convention was one of the most successful in years.

Grocery Men at Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Superior grocery men is being held today at Billings Park. The usual list of athletic events was given this afternoon, one of the features of the day being a bread baking contest. The street car company has placed a number of extra cars on the Billings Park line, so that the picnickers will have no trouble in reaching or getting away from the grounds. In former years, it has been customary to hold the annual outing at Solon Springs.

HAITI GOVERNMENT APPEARS DOOMED

Wireless Message Is Relayed From Island to Warship.

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 27.—The American cruiser Des Moines, which arrived here Wednesday, received a wireless dispatch frob Jeremie, signed by the American, French, German and Dominican consuls there, stating that a bombardment was expected at any moment and asking that a ship be sent immediately to protect foreign citizens. The American gunboat Petrel responding, left here for Jeremie.

The wireless dispatch was addressed to "any foreign "man-of-war."

The American naval tug Peoria has proceeded from Cape Haitien to Gonaives. The American cruiser Chester remains at Cape Haitien.

Conditions in Haiti are greatly unsettled, with the revolutionists in control at practically all points except this city, the capital. It seems that the government must fall soon.

INDICTMENTS IN THE LORIMER CASE DRAW SENATORS' ATTENTION

Detective Is Asked About His Work on Illinois Election.

Young Holtslaw Bears Out Confession Made By Father.

Hanecy Claims Deposit Slips at Bank Were Juggled.

Washington, July 28.—The multiplicity of indictments growing out of the so-called White confession was a subject to which counsel for Senator Lorimer devoted much time today in cross-examining Detective Thomas McGuire, a witness before the senate Lorimer committee. McGuire described his work in several of these cases.

Expressing his firm conviction that his father, Former State Senator D. W. Holtslaw, received $2,500 from a man who offered to pay him that sum to vote for Lorimer for the senate, Herschell D. Holtslaw of Tuka, Ill., testifying before the committee, substantiated his father's famous "confession." The son appeared in his father's stead and produced two physicians' certificates to prove that his parent was too ill to leave his home for Washington.

Was Cashier of Bank.

The son was cashier of his father's bank on June 16, 1909, the date the father claims to have received the money from Senator John Broderick, and from knowledge obtained in that position and from talking with his father, he declared on the stand that the deposit slips he put in evidence proved absolutely that his father received the money.

The son told the story of how the

BEULAH BINFORD.

Richmond, Va., July 28.—H. C. Beattie, Jr., is under arrest here charged with killing his young wife, Paul Beattie, his cousin, and Beulah Binford are held as witnesses. Beattie brought his wife home from a motor ride dead from a shot-gun wound. The police say he inflicted this wound or hired someone to inflict it so he might get rid of his wife as he was interested in Beulah Binford. It is a matter of record that Beattie contributed to the support of Miss Binford and her child. The woman is only 17 years old.

SEVEN HURT IN PANIC ON CAR

Explosion on Chicago Traction Vehicle Scares Passengers.

Chicago, July 28.—Seven persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, today when the controller box of a swiftly moving North avenue trolley car exploded and filled the vehicle with smoke. The car was crowded with passengers at the time of the explosion and many jumped to the street before the vehicle could be brought to a stop.

CONGRESSMEN ON THE OHIO

Rivers and Harbors Committee Delayed By Low Water.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28.—The steamer Kanawha, with the rivers and harbors committee of congress on board, left here early today for down-river points. The first stop probably will be at Madison, Ind.

An inspection of the newly completed Fernbank dam, eight miles below Cincinnati, was on the program of the committee, but the Kanawha has been so frequently delayed by low water that this was eliminated and the party proceeded through the dam without stopping.

TWO ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF JUDGE

Kentucky Court Action Hastened to Suit Public Sentiment

Somerset, Ky., July 28.—Guarded by heavily armed deputy sheriffs, James Ellis and Fount Helton were placed on trial here today charged with the murder of Magistrate A. B. Beatty and Constable W. F. Heath in Beatty's courtroom three weeks ago. They were killed in a pistol fight which grew out of the arrest of the defendants on charges of selling liquor illegally.

The men are being tried at a special term of court, which was summoned largely to allay popular feeling over the affair

MODERN METHODS ON FARMS IN PHILIPPINES.

Washington, July 28.—Frederick W. Taylor of Colorado has been appointed director of agriculture of the Philippine Islands to succeed George Nesom, who recently resigned. He will enter upon his new duties early in October and will make his headquarters in Manila. Mr. Taylor is considered one of the ablest agricultural experts in America and his appointment will mark the beginning of the application of modern scientific methods in land culture in the development of the Philippines.

HANNA TELLS HIS VERSION

Coal and Iron Man Asked About Tennessee Company Deal.

Steel Trust Investigators' Agents Looking Into Ore Carrying.

New York, July 28.—That the financing of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company syndicate in 1905 did not cost as much as "a postage stamp," was the declaration made today by L. C. Hanna of Cleveland, Ohio, brother of the late Mark Hanna, before the Stanley Steel trust investigating committee.

Mr. Hanna, who was a manager of that syndicate before the company was absorbed by the United States Steel corporation in 1907, also testified that the main purpose of the men who took over the Tennessee company in competition with the Steel corporation was to develop the great mineral resources rather than the mechanical equipment of the property.

Did Not Employ Morgan.

"In the organization of that syndicate," Mr. Stanley asked, "did you employ Mr. Morgan or any other financial syndicate to float your bonds?"

"The financing of the Tennessee company did not cost the price of a postage stamp," Mr. Hanna said. "There were no bankers employed."

"Did you ever get an order for steel rails from Mr. Harriman?" asked the chairman.

Got Harriman Order.

"Yes," Mr. Hanna replied. "Mr. Harriman gave us an order for 157,500 tons of steel rails."

"How long was it after Harriman gave you this order," asked Mr. Stanley, "till you learned that your company was in trouble in Wall street?"

SWEARS COOK TOLD HIM THE SAME STORY

McCordic of Chicago Testifies Before Lorimer Committee.

Recounts Relation of Hines' Telephone Talk at Hotel.

Hanecy Seeks to Show Prejudice Against Lumberman.

Washington, July 28.—Testifying before the senate Lorimer committee today, Alfred E. McCordic, a Chicago attorney, formerly of Duluth, declared that Wirt H. Cook of Duluth repeated to him, the day it is alleged to have occurred, the conversation over the long distance telephone in which Edward Hines was said to have stated that Lorimer must be elected and that he was going to Springfield "with all the money necessary."

Cook had testified that he overheard this conversation in Chicago and that the man at the Springfield end of the line was supposed to be Governor Deneen. The conversation is alleged to have occurred the day Lorimer was elected.

What Cook Told Him.

McCordic, who testified today, is Cook's attorney. In detailing what Cook told him on May 25 or 26, 1909, McCordic said:

"He said Mr. Hines had told the governor that he had just come from Washington, and that it was the desire of President Taft and Senator Aldrich that Lorimer should be elected and Hopkins defeated, and that he was prepared to furnish all necessary funds and would be down on the next train."

"As a matter of fact, are you not a promoter and a broker?" asked Mr. Hanecy in cross-examination.

"Oh, no," replied McCordic.

Seeks to Show Prejudice.

Other questions were asked which counsel explained were intended to show that McCordic had been connected with an attempt to make Hines buy certain stock from Cook and that the witness was prejudiced against Hines.

THREE KILLED IN STRAW RIDE CRASH

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—The third death resulting from last night's collision between an Albany Southern trolley car and a hay rack near Nassau, nine miles east of here, occurred today.

Of the other sixteen injured, four of whom are in a hospital, two are in a critical condition.

Samuel Hoffman was driving for the straw ride party and it is believed that the members were making so much noise that they drowned the sound of the whistle of the trolley car.

BRITISH STAND MAY AVERT WAR OVER THE MOROCCAN AFFAIRS

French and Germans Agree Asquith's Plain Speaking Has Cleared Air.

Treaty of Algeciras Shown to Be Only "Patch-Work."

Paris, July 28—Greater optimism prevailed at the capital today, though it was admitted that the negotiations with Germany regarding the Moroccan affair remain difficult. The statement of Premier Asquith in the British house of commons yesterday and Premier Caillaux's advice to the French to keep cool and be prudent, relieved the tension at a moment when relief was most needed and when the discreet military preparations of the government were giving rise to the apprehension that war was not impossible.

These preparations included orders to the cavalry to be ready for the field at the first signal, the heavy provisioning of the forts on the eastern frontier by special supply trains run out of Paris at night, and the mustering of all regiments to their full quota.

German Demand Modified.

It is understood that Baron Kidderlein Waechter, the German foreign secretary, who is conducting the negotiations with Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, has modified his original program and is now asking for part instead of the whole coast of French Congo, but at the same time naming other conditions which France would find difficulty in accepting. Nevertheless, there is a strong feeling that a solution will be found.

The morning papers welcome Mr. Asquith's speech as clarifying the situation and hastening a settlement. The Figaro understands that Emperor William told personal friends that the Moroccan question could be settled amicably with France.

PREFER BASEBALL TO CHURCH GOING

Preacher Announces Discovery at Des Plaines Camp Meeting.

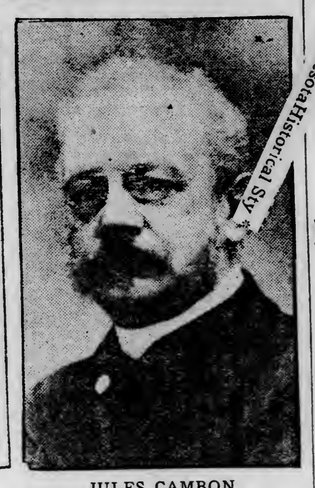

Chicago, July 28.—"There are plenty of men who will sit on the edge of a high board fence for three hours watching a baseball game who get very restless sitting in a church pew one hour," declared the Rev. C. G. Carswell, pastor of the Avondale Methodist Episcopal church in an address to the Des Plaines camp meeting today.

"The trouble with such men is that they lack the joy of the Lord and in consequence church going has become, to them, the performance of a duty. They get their real joy at a ball game."

CLAIM SWITCH WAS UNLOCKED

Officials Are at Work on Disaster on Great Western.

Kansas City, Mo., July 28.—Railroad officials and detectives are investigating the wreck of Chicago-Great Western passenger train No. 5, at Edgewater Junction, Kan., last night, in which W. Rose of Des Moines, the engineer, was killed; Fireman Hugo Smith, also of Des Moines, was probably fatally injured, and several other persons hurt, one seriously.

The officials say the accident resulted from the deliberate work of wreckers who left a switch open after prying off the lock. Both Rose and Smith stuck to their posts when they saw the open switch. Rose died with his right hand clasped to the throttle of his engine in an effort to check the speed of the train.

BELLHOP IS MURDERER

Lad of 17 Admits He Killed and Robbed Aged Broker.

Says He Got Only $6 and Gold Watch From Wall Street Man.

New York, July 28.—Geidel was indicted this afternoon by the grand jury for murder in the first degree.

New York, July 28.—Paul Geidel, a 17-year-old bellboy, with the smooth, sallow complexion of the youthful cigarette smoker, was arrested here early today as the murderer of William Henry Jackson, the aged Wall street broker who was found murdered in his hotel apartments in Forty-fourth street yesterday.

An hour after his arrest, Police Commissioner Doughterty and District Attorney Whitman brought out of the room where they had been closeted with Geidel, a long typewritten confession which they said the lad had dictated and signed, giving a full account of the crime. Robbery was the motive, according to the lad's statement, but the murder netted him only $6 in cash and a gold watch, which he pawned for $18 more.

Was Bellboy at Hotel.

Geidel was a bellboy at Mr. Jackson's hotel, the Iroquois, until last Friday, when he was discharged. He was without money. On going to his rooming place he noticed a bottle of chloroform which the landlady had purchased a few days before in order to kill painlessly an ailing pet dog. It occurred to Geidel, the confession says, that he might obtain money by chloroforming and robbing the aged broker, who was reputed to carry large sums about with him.

The confession, as given out by the police, continues substantially as follows:

Last Wednesday night I entered the basement of the hotel and walked, unobserved, by the rear stairways to the tenth floor. I climbed into the bathroom of Mr. Jackson's apartment through a transom on the corridor.

Awoke and Started Fight.

"He awoke as I was preparing to drop the chloroform-soaked rag over his face, and instead of going unconscious at once with the drug, he began a desperate fight. I hit him hard in the face and he sank down helpless.

WALSH CASE NOT TO BE CONSIDERED

Federal Parole Board Says Law Must Be Fulfilled.

Washington, July 28.—The federal board of parole has decided not to consider the case of John R. Walsh, the convicted banker, to whom President Taft recently refused executive clemency, unless the remaining indictments against him are in some way disposed of. According to the law Walsh will be eligible to apply for parole when the prison board meets at Leavenworth penitentiary in September, but the rules forbid the consideration of any prisoner who is still under indictment.

STANDPATTERS ASK PRESIDENT TAFT TO VETO ANY WOOL BILL

Tell Him Democrats and Insurgents Seek to Put Him "in a Hole."

Compromise Measure Received in House Amid Applause.

Indications Are That Some Such Provision Will Be Passed.

Washington, July 28.—President Taft today was urged by several standpat Republican leaders of the senate and house to veto any wool revision bill that is likely to be agreed upon in the forthcoming conference on the house and La Follette compromise woolen measures.

Senator Crane of Massachusetts, Representative Weeks of the same state, and Representative Bertholdt of Missouri were among the men who gave this advice to the president.

It was their belief, they said, that Mr. Taft would not injure himself in the eyes of the country by vetoing a wool revision bill not based upon scientific data furnished by the tariff board. The congressmen advanced the idea that the senate coalition of the insurgents and Democrats was an attempt to put the president "in a hole" politically. Executive disapproval of a measure designed for such a purpose, they told the president, could not work to his discredit.

President Is Silent.

While the president himself maintains silence as to what course he will pursue if a wool revision bill is presented to him, the intimations are stronger today that he will not hesitate to use the veto. This would put an end to all attempts to revise schedule K, and would serve as a deterrent to revision of other tariff schedules at this time.

Amid applause, the house today received the new compromise wool bill from the senate. No action was taken, the bill being laid on the speaker's table and the cotton tariff revision debate proceeded with.

Informal conferences indicate that the house will agree to some sort of wool bill, based on the La Follette compromise measure.

Democratic leaders in the house con-

FIFTY HURT IN LEHIGH WRECK

Broken Rail Sends Three Pullmans Down Ten-Foot Bank.

New York, July 28.—The Lehigh Valley railroad received word today from Burdette, on Seneca Lake, in the central part of the state, that fifty passengers had been injured when an excursion train from Western points to Atlantic City was derailed. Most of the injuries are slight and thus far no deaths have been reported.

The accident occurred at 2:40 a. m., and was caused by a broken rail, about two miles west of Burdette. Three Pullmans left the track and rolled down a ten-foot embankment. All the injured were in these cars. The rest of the train, consisting of the locomotive and tender, baggage car, four more Pullmans and a day coach, remained on the rails.

The train was running at forty miles an hour and carried 230 passengers from Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton, Ohio, to Atlantic City. The only person seriously injured is Mrs. W. J. Twenhofel of Cincinnati. Her back was badly sprained, but according to the hospital authorities at Sayre she has no broken bones.

TELLS TAWNEY HE IS EXONERATED

Chairman of Lorimer Committee Sends Telegram to Minnesotan.

Winona, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to a telegram received this morning by James A. Tawney of this city from Senator W. H. Dillingham, chairman of the Lorimer investigating committee at Washington, the committee does not deem it necessary for him to go to Washington and appear before it to deny under oath the charges made against him by Mr. Keeley of Chicago of his being connected with a lobby or otherwise active to secure mail privileges for the Fire Proof Magazine of Chicago. Mr. Tawney had requested by telegraph the opportunity of appearing before that committee and submitting himself to any examination its members might want to make, but the committee holds him not implicated in any of the matters before it, as the following telegram shows:

"Washington, July 27, 1911.

"To James A. Tawney—Your telegram of yesterday was duly received and has already been read into the record of the committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer. In the record there appears my statement as chairman that there is no evidence before the committee which in any way implicates you in any of the matters mentioned in your telegram, and that in the opinion of all the members there is no need for you to appear before the committee to exonerate yourself.

"Chairman."

MARINE

LITTLE GRAIN NOW MOVING

Stocks of Duluth and Superior Elevators Are Getting Very Low.

Fall Wheat Movement Is Expected to Begin About August 15.

From the opening of navigation to date, about 11,500,000 bushels of grain of all kinds have been shipped out of the Duluth-Superior harbor. The total is about 3,000,000 bushels less than for the same period last year.

Just now, there is very little grain moving. Stocks in the elevators at the Head of the Lakes are low and most of the grain being shipped is being diverted through the local port from Minneapolis. In fact, the shipments of Minneapoli's wheat through Duluth and Superior at this season of the year are rather surprising to marine men.

The report on grain stocks at the board of trade today shows that Duluth and Superior elevators hold 550,000 bushels of spring wheat, 35,000 bushels of durum wheat and 51,000 bushels of bonded wheat, a total of 636,000 bushels. Corn in elevators amounts to 169,000 bushels, oats 513,000 bushels and flax 161,000 bushels, bringing the total of all grains to 1,479,000 bushels.

During the last few days the Duluth of the Western Transit line, has taken on 9,900 bushels of durum at the Peavey elevator, 38,000 bushels of spring wheat, 7,000 bushels of durum wheat and 14,000 bushels of bonded wheat at Capitol elevator D. The steamer A. Mitchell has taken on 30,000 bushels of spring wheat at Terminal elevator K and is now loading 65,000 bushels of spring wheat at Capitol elevator D. The Wissahickon of the Anchor line is taking on 20,000 bushels of spring wheat at the Capitol elevator D. As most of the shipments at this time are in small lots, the package freighters are getting most of the business and there have been few charters of large carriers in the last few weeks.

The fall wheat movement is expected to begin unusually early this year. The movement from the country to the local elevators has been heavy for about a week, increasing stocks somewhat, but that movement has fallen off now. It is expected that new wheat will begin to arrive between Aug. 15 and 20 and that from that time on, the movement will be heavy. Barley and rye are expected to come in during the first week in August and marine men are looking for an increase in business early next month.

Although the Northwest crops have been badly damaged by black rust and deterioration is being reported, a fair average crop is expected from North Dakota and Minnesota. The South Dakota crop promises little. The railroads are preparing for an average movement of grain this fall and the marine men are following the same course. A number of the big carriers which have been in ordinary practically all season will be brought out in the course of the next week to prepare for the grain movement.

CAPITAL IS SURROUNDED

Haitien Rebels Appear Certain to Oust President Simon.

Clash of Rival Revolutionaries Is Feared By the People.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 28.—The revolutionists encompass the capital. President Simon appears to recognize the inevitable, but if he has left the palace the fact is not known. It is believed he planned to embark at the last moment, but it is thought that if he remained in the city he could help to assure public order following the occupation by the enemy.

General Leconte is at the head of the invading forces. Leconte's candidacy for the presidency progressed with his march on the capital, and there was a consequent loss of ground by Gen. Firmin, commander of the rival wing of the revolution and also an aspirant for the office of national executive in succession to Simon, whose forced retirement is at hand.

Fear Clash of Rivals.

General Firmin's arrival here is awaited impatiently by his partisans, and with some anxiety by the public lest the overthrow of the present government result in a clash between the supporters of Leconte and Firmin.

In the crisis Simon has had the forethought to lease his private residence, situated in a suburb, to a man named Archer, who is an American citizen, in order to insure its protection in case of pillage.

People Stay in Doors.

The city has a deserted air. No one ventures out of doors except on nesessity. The sellers of produce have ceased coming into town and the food supply is fast being exhausted.

A lumber mill on the banks of a lake at Assney has been burned by the revolutionists and with it 200,000 railroad ties which had been cut for the new railway which is being constructed by an American company.

Simon's Home Town Taken.

It is rumored that Aux Cayes, President Simon's home town, has fallen into the hands of the revolutionists. If this is true, it is a severe blow to the administration.

Considerable activity noticeable among the soldiers in the palace grounds is believed to have some bearing on events likely to transpire within the next few days.

Advices from Port de Paix on the northern coast indicate uneasiness at that point, and the American cruiser Chester has gone there from Cape Haitien. A crisis in the government appears to be gradually approaching.

ONLY ONE ESCAPES DEATH IN WRECK

Survivor Is Washed on Nova Scotia Shore From Steamer Irwin.

Halifax, N. S., July 28.—The steamer John Irwin struck a rock and sank off Beaver Harbor last Tuesday morning. Willie McLeod of Halifax was washed ashore on a hatch at Liscomb, ninety miles east of here, and is believed to be the only survivor of the dozen or more men in the steamer's crew.

STAKES RAN VERY HIGH

Evidence Showed That $100 Was Risked on Turn of Card.

Judge Cutting Takes Carter-Fitzgerald Case Under Advisement.

Games of chance in the East end are liable to run rather high as to stakes, sometimes, according to the testimony submitted in the case of J. G. Carter against Charles W. Fitzgerald, which was concluded in police court yesterday afternoon. No decision was rendered by Judge Cutting, the matter being taken under advisement.

In summing up the case Attorney Hunt, for the plaintiff, stated that the evidence was to the effect that $100 was risked on the turn of a card. This is said to have been the limit reached when Fitzgerald and Carter were "high spading," after the poker game had been concluded.

The witnesses Fitzgerald put on the stand to show that he had been gambling with Carter were Lee W. Farmer and D. G. Cutler, Jr. They stated that they had engaged in a poker game about a year ago in the East end, and that at the conclusion of the game Carter was a loser. Later it seems that Carter and Fitzgerald continued play alone. Fitzgerald claims that he lost $500, for which he gave Carter a check. Carter claims that he received no check at any poker game and that the check was cashed by him at the Commercial club for Fitzgerald at his (Fitzgerald's) request.

WOULD RAISE FUND TO BACK SMALL FACTORIES

Duluth Man Suggests That Williamsport Plan Be Adopted Here.

No Bonus Involved, But Working Capital Would Be Provided.

Why should Duluth not adopt the Williamsport plan of going after new industries?

That is the question asked by J. R. McGiffert of the Clyde Iron works, and one of the active members of the Public Affairs committee of the Commercial club.

Few Duluth people are familiar with the workings of the Williamsport plan, although it has attracted quite a little attention among those interested in municipal problems in the East during the last few years. There is no bonus system involved, but the struggling small manufacturer is helped raise working capital.

"Williamsport adopted its plan eleven years ago" said Mr. McGiffert. The business men got together and raised by subscription a fund of $250,000 to be used for the purpose of backing financially worthy manufacturing projects, which were in need of ready money to push their plans. The money was not given outright to these enterprises, but this fund was used to guarantee the paper of these concerns at the banks, and enable them to negotiate loans. The loans might be small, and even in case of a loss, it would be a trifling matter, as it would be distributed pro rata among all the backers, and would not be felt.

"But the losses were very few. The projects were most carefully investigated, and few that were not worthy got by the committee. Under this plan in eleven years, something like 125 small manufacturing plants have been given encouragement, and have been enabled to establish themselves.

City Advertised.

"Of course the city was widely advertised as a result, and literally thousands of schemes were presented to the committee. Only a very small percentage of them were worth considering, but out of the vast number, the committee was able to select a number of most desirable projects, and these were given every assistance.

"After the first five years the fund was doubled, largely by the original subscribers, and at the end of the second five years, another $250,000 was added, giving the city $750,000.

"The plan proved so successful in Williamsport that it was quickly adopted by other cities, including Easton, Atlanta, New Orleans and Boston.

"I know of cases right here in Duluth now that need just such a fund. I have in mind one little industry that has thrived in spite of all obstacles. Two men, who were thoroughly familiar with their work, started a little manufacturing plant on a very small scale. They had practically no money —only their own brains, skill and honesty. They worked hard and they have finally established themselves firmly. they are making money now and branching out, but if they had had such a fund behind them, they would have been saved several years of hardship, and would be just that much further along now.

"While they have overcome their difficulties, others have not, and have failed where a little ready money would have carried them through.

Reflex Action.

"The reflex action of such a fund would be of even more value than the fund itself. Here is the way it would work out. Let us suppose that some project were presented to the committee for its approval. Some good mechanic or workman has an invention which he wants to manufacture. He knows his business thoroughly, and his invention is a meritorious one. But he does not know how to approach financiers and raise money to back his own brains and skill. He comes to the committee with his plans. They investigate thoroughly and find that he is deserving of support and that his plan will result in the establishment of a legitimate industry. They go to the bank and offer to back him for the amount he needs. But meanwhile the members of the committee have been investigating his plans. They are moneyed men looking for good investments, and the chances are that one of them will offer to put up the money as a private speculation, and the fund need never be touched. That is the way it will work out and does work out in other cities. It interests the men with means in small local manufacturing plants, and this result is worth even more than the plants which come through the fund itself. Of course, if no private citizen comes forward, the committee goes ahead and backs the plan.

"Then the advertising it gives a city is most valuable. It says to the world, 'we have a fund to back worthy manufacturers. We want factories, and we are willing to put up money to help them get established.' That is sufficient guarantee that the city will stand behind a manufacturing concern and give it all the support it can, and that information spread broadcast will bring many plants that will never need a dollar backing from the city or citizens.

"Duluth's manufacturing interests have had a wonderful growth in the last ten years. The census figures showed that, and they were a surprise to many Duluthians, I believe, who thought this city was not progressing along manufacturing lines. But that growth can be greatly augmented by adopting such a plan as the Williamsport one, and Duluth is ripe for its adoption."

BRITISH STAND MAY AVERT WAR OVER THE MOROCCAN AFFAIRS

conclusion of the cabinet meeting today, when President Fallieres presided, two official announcements were made. The first was that Foreign Secretary De Selves, in explaining to his colleagues the external political situation, had said that the pourparlors between France and Germany were proceeding normally.

The second announcement was that the cabinet had decided upon the reorganization of the army, which represents "the crowning of the military work pursued by the republic for the last forty years."

Leave Powers Out.

Berlin, July 28.—It is believed in official circles that France and Germany will be able to untie the African knot by direct negotiations and without opening the doors to the participation of Great Britain and the other powers. Rosy optimism, however, is not manifested, Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg and probably Foreign Secretary Baron von Kidderlein Waechter leave today to join Emperor William, who will arrive tonight at Swinemunde from his cruise in northern waters. Definite predictions would be misplaced until after his meeting.

The foreign office was fully prepared for Premier Asquith's statement, and now confirms that it had earlier assurances that Great Britain would not intervene so long as Germany and France were trying to settle the matter directly, and also that Chancellor Lloyd-George's speech was not meant as a veto of a Franco-German arrangement on the basis of a French Congo understanding, as a section of the British press has intimated.

Print Asquith's Statement.

All the newspapers publish Mr. Asquith's statement verbatim on the principal page. Some of the leading journals, however, make no editorial comment. These are chiefly the conservative pan-German organs. The others refer briefly to passages in the British premier's statement that are considered here as unnecessarily sharp.

The liberal papers unanimously acclaim the premier's speech as one tending toward peace.

Cleared the Air.

London, July 28.—It was generally conceded today that Premier Asquith's statement has helped to clear the air and to that extent to ease the tension in the Moroccan situation.

It is the hope of the British government that the Algeciras act now having been shown to be mere diplomatic patchwork, some more lastng settlement will be effected which will tranquilize the European situation as well as the Moroccan difficulty.

Mr. Asquith's announcement that Great Britain has not the least disposition to obstruct a Franco - German agreement in West Africa, it is hoped by the officials here, will dissipate the German belief that the British government is pursuing a policy of endeavor to thwart Germany's desire for territorial expansion.

London Is Optimistic.

Optimism over the situation is indicated by the fact that King George is making definite arrangements to attend the Cowes regatta tomorrow while the members of the cabinet are preparing to leave town for the week-end.

The prime minister's statement was couched in diplomatic, though not reassuring, language. At the very opening he said:

"It is obvious that this Moroccan question has reached a point at which it will become increasingly difficult embarrassing and anxious unless a solution is found."

Later he said:

"We thought it right from the beginning to make it clear that, failing of a settlement such as I have indicated, we must become an active party in the discussion of the situation. That will be our right as a signatory to the treaty of Algeciras, as it might be our obligation under the terms of our agreement of 1904 with France. It might be our duty in defense of British interests directly affected by further developments."

Support of Opposition.

In promising the support of the opposition to the government, Mr. Balfour said:

"If there are any who supposed that we would be wiped off the map of Europe because we have our difficulties at home, it may be worth while saying that they bitterly mistake the temper of the British people and the patriotism of the opposition."

Such plain speaking on a question fraught with possibilities of a great European war has not been heard in the British parliament in many years. The outcome of the situation appears to rest almost wholly on Germany's shoulders.

If, as some German papers say, Germany has reached the stage of national development where the necessities of her population demand that she branch out into foreign fields, and considers this vital to her national interests, and imposes upon France conditions which Great Britain thinks threatens her vital interests, the only result, so far as those best informed see it, will be the oft-threatened and long averted European convulsion.

BARGAIN IN CIRCUS SEATS

Sells-Floto Show Charges Only Half the Regular Price.

Speaking of the visit of the Sells-Floto shows to Seattle the Star had this to say:

"There are three vital defects in the Sells-Floto circus. In the first place, you pay only 25 cents to see it; in the second place, the employes are all civil, even courteous; and thirdly, there is no 'grafting' in the show.

"Whoever heard of a civil ticket seller in a circus? Whoever conceived of a circus without pickpockets and grafters? And, finally, who ever expected to see a real big tent show for 25 cents?

"Surely, Mr. Tammen, one of the owners of the show, is ignoring custom. Perhaps the public is pleased with the policy. It would seem so, as 4,000 people were turned away from the big tent last night. If you arrived after 8 o'clock you didn't see the inside of the main tent. This disappointed ones, instead of returning home, found solace in the sideshows.

"Of course, it was the same old-time sideshow, but you saw it all for a dime. Two or three thousand people were turned away in the afternoon as well.

"The show itself is not quite as extensive as some which Seattle has seen; but that is an attraction in itself; you can see it all. When it comes to paying 50 cents to go to the old-time eight-ring circus or 25 cents to Sells-Floto, a lot of fellows will choose the latter.

"The equestrian acts are better than any circus ever brought to Seattle. The clowns are good, with several brand new acts. The famous Nelsons, who know no peers in acrobatic work and the Borsines, with their rolling globe, are top-liners in the tent work. None of the eighteen big acts is unworthy the largest show in the country."

The Sells-Floto shows come to Duluth on Friday, Aug. 4 The popular price remains the same and the show itself has been enlarged to almost double the size of former years.

MARQUETTE DROWNING.

Workman at Ore Dock Falls From a Raft.

HANNAFORD, N. D., MAN WINS PRIZE HORSE TROPHY.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 28.—Donald Campbell of Hannaford, N. D., was the best and biggest exhibitor of grade horses at the North Dakota state fair, and was awarded the splendid cup put up by the publicity committee of the Minneapolis Commercial club. The Campbell exhibit competed with several others.

O'GORMAN PREFERS BENCH.

Does Not Care for Job in the Senate.

Washington, July 28.—It is no longer a senate secret that Senator James A. O'Gorman does not like his new job as well as he did the old one of a justice of the supreme court of the state of New York. The detail involved in attending to his correspondence is not to his liking. He leaves this largely to a competent secretary. Two months ago there was a discussion of the possibility that Senator O'Gorman might resign, be re-elected to the bench and drop a legislative career. This was occasioned by his dislike for the senate. Time has done little to place him in closer sympathy with the work of congress. He enjoys the construction of the law from the bench better than its making in the senate.

Friends of Senator O'Gorman in the senate, like Senator Bailey of Texas, Senator Percy of Mississippi and others, for he has made many in the senate, believe that time will help to make Senator O'Gorman a devoted member of the senate. That he has not had his family with him in Washington much of the time during the extra session is given as a reason for his being out of tune with that honorable body.

Mr. O'Gorman receives as a senator $7,500, which is about half as much as he would be paid as a justice of the supreme court.

Hayrake Prongs Kill Man.

Neenah, Wis. July 28.—Caught under a hayrake pulled by a runaway horse, Edward McMurchie of Wheeler was instantly killed when the iron rake prongs pierced his head. His body was punctured in mank places by the prongs.

Mother and Children Poisoned.

Green Bay, Wis., July 28.—Mrs. Stanley Cygan of Poland, Wis., and her two children are near death from the effects of poisoning, due to drinking a Paris green solution. The children are aged 4 and 6 years. The physicians are of the opinion that the three will be saved.

WEST END

BOY TAKES A LONG FALL

Three-Year-Old Roy Olson Leaned Too Far Over Balustrade.

Strikes Head on Cement Walk But Will Probably Recover.

Three-year-old Roy Olson leaned too far over the railing of a second-story balustrade at his home, 2307 West Second street, yesterday afternoon, and fell a distance of thirteen feet, striking headforemost on a cement pavement.

That he was not instantly killed seems remarkable. The child's skull was not fractured, as far as can be learned, there being only an abrasion of the scalp. The little fellow was unconscious for several hours during the afternoon and evening, but this morning showed signs or recovery.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil H. Olson. Mr. Olson is a member of the firm of Enger & Olson, a West end furniture concern. The boy is under the care of two physicians.

The accident took place shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

WEST ENDERS WANT A TUNNEL

Say Rice's Point Project Is More Important Than Park Point.

"Tunnel for Park point? Maybe, some time, but first let's have a tunnel from Rice's point to Superior, instead of the present interstate bridge."

This is the way that a Garfield avenue business man sizes up the present discussion of the inadequacy of the aerial bridge to handle large crowds.

He points out that there is no comparison of the traffic which crosses the two bridges. It is only in summer that there is anything approaching a rush on the aerial bridge.

A tunnel could be constructed, he says, to take care of all kinds of traffic, train, team or foot. The cost would be nothing compared to that of tunneling the Detroit river and there would be many corporations and interests that would stand a share of the expense.

NEW ELEVATOR IS NEARLY COMPLETED.

An important addition to the industrial activity of the West end is the new Nelson & Peterson elevator and feed mill, which will be completed and ready for use next week.

The structure has a capacity of 20,000 bushels of grain and a grinding output of sixty tons of feed a day. Because of concrete and fireproof construction, it is up-to-date in every particular.

Vergedal-Tollakson.

A wedding of interest to many West end people is that of Miss Hilda Vergedal and Harris Tollakson, which will take place Saturday evening, Aug. 5, at the bride's home, 2207 West Sixth street. A number of invitations have been sent out and the affair promises to be a notable social event. The wedding ceremony will be read by Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Benson have returned to their home at Grand Forks, N. D., after a visit with relatives in the West end.

Miss Ida Jacobson of 2437 West Third street has gone to Minot, N. D., to visit her sister for three weeks.

Miss Alice Gregory of Cannon Falls, Minn., is a guest at the home of her cousin, Miss Mamie Gregory, of West Third street.

Mrs. J. W. Goodrich of Detroit, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Topliff of 2507 West Eleventh street.

Mrs. L. Steen and daughter, Mrs. E. Larson of Chicago, are visiting at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. Edward Erickson of the West end.

Miss Irene Miller of Muskegon, Mich., has left for Chicago after a visit at the home of Mrs. C. T. Plummer of 2825 West First street.

Rev. Edward Erickson and family, who have been camping at Fond du Lac for the past two weeks, have returned to the West end. Mr. Ericksos is pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church.

Marion Goodwin of Mantistique, Mich., who has been the guest of friends and relatives in the West end for the past week, returned yesterday to his home.

Duluth Manufacturers Not Directly Interested in the Case.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—Louis D. Brandeis, who will be counsel in the congressional investigation of the Controller Bay affair, has been retained as general counsel of the Shoe Manufacturers' alliance with a view to aiding the government in presenting evidence against the United Shoe Machinery company in Boston. Jackson Johnson, president of the alliance, says Brandeis was once counsel for the shoe machinery company.

While the local shoe companies are interested in the outcome of the fight, they are not directly interested in the case.

Duluth manufacturers use the machines of the United Shoe company. They state, however, that the company has always been fair and that the smaller concerns get the same rate as the large manufacturers.

It is understood by local shoe men that the larger shoe manufacturers will fight every inch of the way. They have been preparing to do this for some time.

It is stated that they have become dissatisfied and now think their profits would be larger if they could use other and independent machines.

The Duluth concerns claim that they have received fair treatment and have no complaint to make.

So far as known none of the Northwestern manufacturers is directly interested in the suit.

PROCTOR WINS CLOSE EVENTS

Three Times Duluth's Suburb Is Tied With Schley Mine Team.

Proctor, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The present Mesaba range volunteer firemen's tournament being held here is strong on ties between the local and the Schley teams. They have tied three times so far. In the association race yesterday Proctor and Schley tied after making the run of 100 yards and attaching the nozzle in 26 4-5 seconds each. On the toss of a coin Proctor was declared the winner. Again this morning the two teams tied twice. They were declared even in the combination hook and ladder race. It was run over again and Proctor won, time 24 4-5 to25.

Tied In the Flag Race.

In the flag race this morning the two teams tied in 70 seconds and this race will be run again this afternoon. The Biwabik department won the prize of $10 for making the best appearance in the parade, while Aurora won the same amount for having the most men in line.

The baseball game yesterday afternoon between the Proctor Juniors and Grand Rapids Juniors, resulted in a victory for the visitors, 9 to 5. The same teams will play this afternoon. The racing will also be concluded today. The ball in Odd Fellows' hall last night was voted a huge success.

Chief Randall of the Duluth department witnessed the races yesterday afternoon with other Duluth people. The tournament has been voted a great success and Proctor people are being praised for the manner in which they have entertained the city's guests.

"SPOILS SYSTEM RUNNING MAD"

Senator Kern Makes Charge During Speech in Senate.

Washington, July 28.—Senator Kern of Indiana, speaking today on a resolution to add several employes to the payrolls, charged that "a spoils system ran mad" in the senate, where Republicans so systematically divided patronage that members often were awarded "half a man." Senator Dixon, Republican, retorted that the Democratic house had discharged all Republican employes.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS MAKE PLANS.

Advance Guard From Duluth Arranging for Annual Outing.

Crosby, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The advance guard of the Y. M. C. A. boys of Duluth is expected here this evening. They have engaged Ingall's barge to take over all their baggage and equipment and will go into camp at the old place known as Camp Miller. From July 31 to Aug. 12 the camp will be in possession of the boys under 14 years of age. From Aug. 12 until Aug. 26 the boys of 14 or over will enjoy the outing. This year about sixty boys will be in the first body and John R. Batchelor and Norman D. McLeod will again be in charge. The spot selected is ideal for camping.

On Wednesday an inventory was taken of the stock of the three branch lumber yards of the Mahlum Lumber company at Crosby, Deerwood and Ironton, and they were sold to the King Lumber company. These yards will be placed in charge of A. F. Mayer of Watertown, Wis. At Crosby attending to details were Mr. Mayer, Frank King, the general manager of the King Lumber company, William King of Watertown, Wis., P. J. Walters, F. M. Hagberg and A. B. Anderson of Brainerd, F. J. Thomas of Deerwood.

Mrs. J. H. McFarland passed away Monday noon and the funeral services were held at the home Wednesday, Rev. Mr. Elges of the Presbyterian church officiating. It is a sad case as the husband is left with five children, one a baby only a week old. Interment was at Deerwood. This is the first funeral held in Crosby.

Recent events have shown that Crosby has made no provision for a cemetery. The climate is most healthful and few people die, but when they do, some might express a wish to be buried near home and that wish could not be gratified until some provision is made for a burying ground.

Ben Mizen has returned from Duluth.

R. H. Warren has bought a motor boat.

TYPHOID FLY ON RANGES

Prof. Washburn Exposes Insanitary Conditions Among Minnesota Miners.

In Magazine Article He Marvels at Small Number of Epidemics.

An article appearing in the current number of the Popular Science Monthly, entitled "The Typhoid Fly on the Minnesota Iron Range," by Professor F. L. Washburn, of the Agricultural Experiment station, St. Anthony Park, Minneapolis, is of special interest to the people of the range, and should be read with profit not only by residents of the northern part of the state but also those of every section, for it well depicts the conditions under which the commonest carrier of disease exists, and the utter disregard for scientific advice on the part of so many of the working people.

The article is the reproduction of an address delivered by Prof. Washburn before the Entomological Society of America, at its winter session held in Minneapolis, and was well illustrated with stereoptican slides, cuts being printed with the article. The information contained was gathered by the professor himself when he visited the range.

He devotes the article especially to the miners of the range, of whom, he states he was informed, there are 16,000. However, he states, it is unfortunate that the people who are responsible for all the filth and unsanitary conditions are not the ones to suffer most from the typhoid epidemics which break out periodically on the range.

He attributes this to the fact that that the working men among whom the epidemics start are in the habit of eating their meals and lunches recently cooked; that they drink little milk and practically always beer.

Prof. Washburn describes the settlements where these miners live; the huddling in small buildings, many of which are but temporary in character. He calls attention to the fact that the miners are working in open mines, and that "under such conditions, other things being equal, in the highest degree hygienic."

Housing Conditions.

Continuing, he states, in regard to the conditions:

"We find, on the range, houses, boarding houses and others, swarming with flies. We find garbage cans, old, dirty stables sheltering miserable cows and horses, with the accompanying manure pile, and the dangerous open privy close to dwellings; dish water and other filth deposited in close proximity to wells, dairies that are unholy, so horrible are the conditions of their environment; sidewalks covered with the expectorations of all sorts and conditions of men, through which and over which filth walk hordes of flies in summer and early fall; alleys there are, too, the filth in which can hardly be described. Last, but by no means least, we note absence of screens in the windows and doors of dwelling houses, or, if there are any screens at all in the house, the good they might do is nullified by the presence of other screenless windows or screenless doors in the same building. Add to these conditions dense ignorance on matters of hygiene, indifference and intolerance of being interferred with, together with the fatalistic spirit above referred to, and one realizes that conditions there are almost always ripe for an epidemic.

The Typhoid Fly.

His description of the common house fly, begins with a brief history of the discovery that it is by far the most common carrier of the typhoid bacillus, the evidence against which became so strong by the many bacteriological tests. It was so evident that the house fly was the chief offender, he states, that the name "typhoid fly" is a proper one to call attention to the danger of its presence, and this name was suggested and adopted by entomologists.

Speaking of the fly he says, "the eggs of a house fly hatch in from six to twelve hours, and the maggots issuing therefrom reach their full size in from four to seven days. The outer layer of their body then hardens and turns brown, forming the puparium, while the parts within become what is known as the pupa. The duration of the pupal stage is from five to seven days, at the expiration of which time the adult emerges as a perfect fly. The life of the house fly then occupies from ten to twelve days and there may be from ten to thirteen or more generations in a summer depending upon the character of a season and the latitude.

"A female house fly which has hibernated in a dwelling house, or elsewhere, may produce in the spring, at the lowest estimate, one hundred and twenty eggs. Assuming that one half of these hatch females, and allowing that the breeding goes on without check for four months, we have as the descendants of a single hibernating individual 214,557,844,320,000,000,000 flies. Now a house fly measures exactly one-fourth of an inch in length; the distance around the earth at the equator is said to be 24,800 miles. It would take, therefore 3,688,312,000 flies placed end to end to go around the world once. Using this number as a denominator, and the number of flies produced in four months from one mother as a numerator, we find she will give rise, in the course of a summer, to enough flies to encircle the globe at the equator five thousand times, and have plenty of progeny to spare!"

Filthy Stables.

Many houses and boarding places are so filthy, and the yards and stables about them in such an unsanitary condition, that flies are attracted there. These flies are allowed to crawl over the food. In some cases the housewives have the tables covertd with fine netting but under it are imprisoned hundreds of flies which are given the freedom of the table.

Considering the conditions under which these people live, he states that it is remarkable that more of them are not made the victims of the disease. Among some of the cases which he cites are the following:

"At a house which contained a typhoid sufferer, the privy which received the refuse from the sick room was on the bank of a lake or pond, and this pond furnished water for washing to at least one family in the immediate vicinity. At one location visited there had been a case of typhoid in a house adjoining a dairy where about twelve cows were kept. The doctors accompanying us were known to the people, and one was asked to look at the dairyman's wife, who was 'ailing.' He diagnosed the case immediately as incipient typhoid, and the milkman, whose milk house, by the way, was quite a fly trap, was told that he must take his wife immediately to a hospital at Hibbing or elsewhere, or stop doing business. He chose the former alternative. This case is mentioned as showing the need of constant, intelligent supervision of these people on the part of conscientious experts. Why more of them do not die of typhoid, under existing conditions, is a wonder! The same kindly providence which keeps an intoxicated man from harm must be caring for them in their blind ignorance."

He attributes the epidemics which have broken out as due to the unsanitary conditions rather than to its being spread through milk or water, for chemical examinations revealed no germs in either. The fact, however, is brought to light, that previous to epidemics of typhoid there have been numerous cases of dysentery, caused by various germs, which leave the patient in a weakened condition and unable to overcome the attack of typhoid germs.

To make the fight more difficult the miners will not carry out instructions given them. In speaking of this condition he states that the women of the higher classes are forced to enter the crusade in defense of their own families.

ferred informally today over plans to meet the senate's sudden move in brushing aside the house wool bill and passing the La Follette compromise measure through a Democratic - progressive Republican coalition.

General sentiment among the Democratic representatives early in the day seemed to favor a compromise between the La Follette bill, as it passed the senate, and the house bill, along the lines of a 30 per cent ad valorem on raw wool. The house Democrats are almost unanimous in the belief that a bill of some kind will be agreed upon in conference.

Penrose and Payne.

The revolt of Chairman Penrose and other regulars of the senate finance committee involves the likely selection for conference of Senator La Follette, progressive Republican, and Senators Bailey and Simmons, Democrats, while the house conferees will be Messrs. Underwood, Alabama, and Randall, Texas, Democrats, and Payne, New York. In the past there generally have been five conferees on the part of each house on tariff bills, and in that case the senate probably would add Senator McCumber and another regular Republican, probably Mr. Penrose, if the latter should reconsider his determination to remain off the committee.

McCumber May Get On.

Senator McCumber is a member of the finance committee and one of the two regular Republicans who voted for the La Follette compromise bill. It is possible that with only three senators on th committee he might displace Senator Simmons, but in any event the members of the new combination are determined to have a majority of the senate conferees.

Democratic Leader Underwood said that there probably would be no conference on the wool bill for two or three days on account of the house being busy with the cotton revision bill.

BELLHOP IS MURDERER

Then the chloroform did the rest.

"I went through the room and his clothes, took the little money he had and his watch, and hurried out as I had come."

The finding of the empty chloroform bottle in Mr. Jackson's apartment and bloody finger prints on the bed clothes and the victim's pajamas afforded the clues that led to Geidel's arrest. A pharmacist's record showed that the chloroform had been purchased a week ago by a Mrs. Kane of West Fiftieth street, New York. The detectives went to her house. Mrs. Kane admitted that she had purchased the chloroform and said that the bottle was in her bathroom, but when she looked there, it was missing.

"Why - aul Geidel, one of my roomers, must have taken it," she said. "He was asking me about it the other day."

Geidel, who was in his room, was immediately arrested, and after a little grilling by the detectives admitted the police say, that he had committed the crime.

Love of clothes and finery caused Geidel to attempt the robbery which resulted in the killing. Jackson was a liberal tipper and the bellboy believed "he had money in every pocket."

"I don't care what happens to me," said Geidel, "but what of my poor mother and sisters in Farmington, Conn.?"

District Attorney Whitman said today that he would bring the case to the grand jury next Monday and there would be a speedy indictment and trial.

INDICTMENTS IN THE LORIMER CASE DRAW SENATORS' ATTENTION

Holtslaw family received the blow of the father's confession and of his father's telling him that every word of it was absolutely true.

In cross-examination Attorney Haney, representing Senator Lorimer, declared that the deposit slips had been juggled, both at the present and at the first Lorimer investigation. In explanation he absolved attorneys or others connected with the committee from his charge.

The cross-examination was terminated suddenly when Mr. Haney persisted in asking the witness, after he said he had no knowledge of the subject, about indictments brought against his father.

Chairman Dillingham suggested that other witnesses could give better testimony on the point and assured Mr. Haney that every witness he desired would be compelled to attend the hearings if possible.

Question the Detective.

McGuire, the detective, told of working on the so-called White confession. For the first ten days of his services, the detective said, he was employed by the Chicago Tribune, but when he turned over to State's Attorney Wayman the information he obtained during that period and entered the service of the state's attorney, that official not only paid him for his work during the ten days he had been employed by the Tribune, but reimbursed him $25 he had advanced to White for a board bill, at the suggestion of the Tribune's counsel.

At one time in his testimony the witness said he knew both Senator Lorimer and Edward Hines, because both had been his clients. Later he explained that he did not mean Senator Lorimer personally, but Lorimer's bank.

"I don't remember exactly, but I think it was several months."

Mr. Hanna told the committee his version of events connected with the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the Steel corporation in 1907.

The inquiry into that transaction, initiated in Washington more than a month ago, will be pursued here for several days. Mr Hanna was one of the managers of the Tennessee company before the merger. E. W. Oglebay of Cleveland, who also was connected with the Tennessee Coal & Iron syndicate, will follow Mr. Hanna on the witness stand. He now is a director of the Republic Iron & Steel company.

Knows Lake Superior Ore.

When Mr. Hanna took the stand he was questioned first as to his expert knowledge of raw material in the iron and steel business. He stated he had been connected with the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co. all his life, identified with ore in the Lake Superior mines and coal in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and later with the Tennessee Coal & Iron company.

The Tennessee Coal & Iron syndicate was formed, the thought, about November, 1905. In the original purchase of its stock he had 10,000 shares. As to the value of the Tennessee property, Mr. Hanna said:

"It was a well known fact that Tennessee company owned a large amount of mineral, iron and coal and flux stone, and the values of ore have greatly increased in the last ten years."

Why Steel Prices Rose.

That advance the witness attributed to the greatly increased consumption of iron and steel, the growing export trade and the increase of transportation facilities.

The investigation, transferred from Washington to this city, will be directed into many channels, but the Tennessee transaction will have precedence here. The charge has been made that when the United States Steel corporation gained control of the Southern ores, the only great field of non-Bessemer ore in this country, it completed an actual monopoly of the iron ores of the United States.

Whether the price paid for the Tennesse properties was fair will be asked of the witnesses. Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States corporation, told the committee the price was too high. John W. Gates, another member of the Tennessee syndicate, testified thhe price was far too low.

Look Up Ore Steamers.

While the committee is at work here, its agents are engaged in Chicago developing a line of inquiry that later may take the investigators there. The relations between the International Harvester company and the Steel corporation are being inquired into in Chicago, and there and in other cities the operation of theh Steel corporations ore steamers and its effect on independent ore shippers is under investigation.

George W. Perkins, who is interested both in the steel corporation and the Harvester company, is expected to occupy the witness stand several days. Interesting developments are expected from him.

Former President Roosevelt may be requested to testify concerning the Tennesse Coal & Iron transaction. Former Attorney General Bonaparte is being sought as a witness for his knowledge of the Tennessee deal, he having been attorney general at the time, and of the investigation by the department of justice into the International Harvester company.

WHEAT QUALITY BETTER

In Minnesota This Year Than It Was Last Year.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—Wheat cutting in Minnesota is progressing favorably and harvesting in North Dakota is expected to start within a week, according to reports received by the Northwestern Miller. South Dakota is harvesting wheat, but the crop is light. Black rust has made its appearance in the Northwest and has affected crops to an extent.

Reports from Hector, Kensington, Appleton, Austin, Little Falls, Benson, Crookston, St. Cloud, Mankato, Janesville, Browns Valley and Jackson, in Minnesota, indicate that the wheat yield will average from fifteen to twenty-five bushels an acre. The quality of the wheat is averaging better than that grown last year. Oats and barley in some sections are poor, but the corn crop generally is better than usual.

Reports from Glen Ullen, Minot, Devils Lake, Bismarck, Valley City, Oakes, Cooperstown, Cavalier, New Rockford, Milton, Minot, Ellendale, Grafton and Gladstone, in North Dakota, indicate that the wheat yield will be from three to twenty-two bushels an acre. Oats and flax will be light. The drouth has affected part of the state.

Reports from Armour, Brookings, Groton, Montrose, Ashton, Canton and Lake Preston, in South Dakota, vary to a marked degree. Armour reports a fair crop, while Groton and vicinity will not raise enough wheat to return the seed which was sown.

To Lay Cornerstone.

Minneapolis, Minn. July 28.—The Rev. Samuel Meisels, Cantor of O'Have Sholem synagogue, Chicago, is here with a chorus of fifteen voices to participate in the cornerstone laying exercises of the new Hebrew school here Sunday. Rabbi Silber of Minneapolis, will lay the cornerstone in an elaborate program according to the Hebrew rites.

SAYS SENATE HALTED SUIT

Bonaparte Telegraphs Statement on Harvester Trust Charges.

Wickersham Says That Fight Against Monopolies Is Being Made.

Baltimore, Md., July 28.—In a dispatch to the Evening Sun Former Attorney General Bonaparte declared that while he was attorney general, the department of justice recommended action against the so-called Harvester trust, but that the suit was postponed pending the conclusion of an inquiry by the bureau of corporations which was requested by the senate. Mr. Bonaparte's dispatch is dated St. Andrews, N. B., and reads as follows:

"After full consideration, the department of justice recommended action against the so-called Harvester trust, but the senate, having requested inquiry by the bureau of corporations, which litigation would prevent, it was decided that respect for the senate required postponment of the suit until that bureau finished its inquiry. The investigation was still unfinished when I left office. I do not remember who preferred the charges."

Statement by Wickersham.

Washington, July 28.—The department of justice is planning immediate prosecution of all trusts or monopolies which do not dissolve or take other steps to obey the Sherman law as it has been interpreted in the Standard Oil, tobacco and powder trust cases. Attorney General Wickersham is authority for the statement that all cases will be brought before the court as soon as cases can be instituted.

To make the Sherman law effective, the department's anti-trust bureau is now being worked to its capacity. Probably 1,000 complaints of existing monopolies, restraints or illegal agreements to control the price of commodities, ranging from feather dusters to telephones, are now being investigated. The secret agents of the bureau have been scattered all over the country and in many instances an investigation of an alleged trust is going on in a dozen states at the same time.

One of the promised results of this policy is that the government will have in the courts before the end of the calendar year probably a dozen anti-trust suits in which the department feels assured of success.

In a broad sense the government's anti-trust actions may be divided into two classes: Those to which the Sherman law, as interpreted by the supreme court, directly applies and those where the additional question of control of property by ownership of patents is involved. The case now pending against the electrical trust and the proceedings against the United Shoe Machinery company represent questions regarding patents.

All the anti-trust cases on hand which have not proceeded to the point of action, are being systematically investigated and either are dismissed when no violation of the law is discovered or are turned over to the law department for prosecution.

FOURTH STREET OWNERS MEET

Discuss Plans for Improving Highway; Want Underground Work Done First.

Sentiment in favor of improving East Fourth street between Fourteenth and Twenty-seventh avenues east was expressed at a meeting of the East Fourth Street Improvement association last evening.

It was stated that if the street car company will not pay for any of the paving, a twenty-six-foot roadway, is all that should be laid, and that if the company will favor the property owners, a thirty-eight-foot roadway should be laid. A committee was appointed to draw up and handle a petition for the improvement of the street.

One of the chief objects of the association, which is composed of property owners on East Fourth street, is to make certain that all underground work is done before the pavement is laid. In the past many first class pavements have been practically ruined and the appearance of the street destroyed by trenches which have been dug at different times for water, sewer and gas. The city officials for some time past have urged that the underground work be done in advance. They state that this is a money saving proposition and should not be neglected. The property owners on East Fourth street hold similar views, and do not wish to expend large sums for a costly pavement only to have it torn up after. If necessary they are willing to wait until next season to get the pavement, provided the underground work is done this year. This would enable the contractor to start laying the pavement as early in the spring as the weather would permit. In a recent opinion sent to the council, City Attorney Bert Fester said that this could be done legally and would not invalidate the petition. In the same opinion the city attorney stated that the property owners could be saved the necessity of paying the 80 per cent assessment at once by having the council postpone it until a certain date.

At the meeting last evening it was the opinion that the present system of collecting 80 per cent of the estimated cost of the improvement in advance is not for the best interests of the city. Members believed that the payments for improvements should be extended over a period of five years.

NEWSPAPER SALE ORDER REVERSED BY COURT.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 28.—A decision of the United States court of appeals handed down at Chicago today, reverses the order of Judge A. B. Anderson of the Indiana district, for a sale of the Indianapolis Star, the Terre Haute, Ind., Star and the Muncie, Ind., Star, and decrees the discharge of the receiver of the properties. The newspapers are owned by the Star Publishing company, in which Daniel G. Reid of New York and John C. Shaffer of Chicago are the controlling stockholders. In the lower court the petition of George F. McCulloch, a stockholder, for a sale of the properties, had been sustained.

HENWOOD SENT UP FOR LIFE

Convicted Man Denounces Judge When Summoned for Sentence.

Denver, Colo., July 28.—Frank H. Henwood, convicted of murder in the second degree for killing George F. Copeland while shooting at L. Von Phul, the St. Louis aeronaut, whom he also killed in a hotel barroom here on the night of May 24, was yesterday sentenced to life imprisonment. Immediately after Attorney John T. Bottom, for the defense, announced that he would take an appeal to the supreme court.

Never in the history of local tribunals have the presiding judge and prosecutor been subjected to such an excoriation as that pronounced by Henwood when asked what he had to say "why sentence should not be pronounced."

FRANK H. HENWOOD.

"Sentence, Not Justice."

He walked to the bench and began by saying:

"I come for sentence, but not for justice, from a jail where for two months I have been surrounded by prisoners whose faces become blanched and who tremble with fear when they contemplate coming to this court for trial so long as Judge Whitford sits in this division."

Henwood characterized his treatment by the court and prosecutor as "persecution" and declared that his attorney had been "bound and gagged by rulings of the court," and that his trial for the killing of George F. Copeland had, in reality, been turned to a preliminary hearing of the divorce case of John W. Springer.

Henwood recalled that he had been denounced by the prosecutor as a "destroyer of Mr. Springer's home," but maintained that he was and is today "John W. Springer's best friend."

FOUR KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS MOTOR

Husband and Father of Two Victims Is Dying of Heart Trouble.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—Four persons were killed and one seriously injured when a fast express train on the Pennsylvania railroad struck an automobile at a grade crossing at Wilkinsburg, a suburb, late yesterday. The dead:

EDWARD S. BATCHELOR, aged 52, superintendent of the Union Stock Yards of this city.

MRS. MARY F. BATCHELOR, aged 70, his mother.

MISS MAY FERNLEY, aged 21, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a niece of Mr. Batchelor, and a teacher at the Margaret Morrison Carnegie school of this city.

MRE. JOHN REED, aged 46, of Wilkinsburg.

Miss Blanche Reed aged 18, serious injuries. Her nose was broken and she was badly cut.

A freight train blocked the crossing when Batchelor, who was driving the machine, reached the tracks. He stopped the car and waited for the freight to move. As the freight got away Batchelor started across the tracks, six in number. Many screamed to him, but he could not hear on account of the noise, and the fast express crashed into the automobile. The four victims were hurled a great distance and met instant death. Miss Reed was found in the machine.

At the Reed home, Mr. Reed is dying of heart failure and does not know of the accident or that his wife is dead and his daughter seriously injured.

HE CLAIMS OFFICIALS HAVE RIGHT TO LETTERS.

Washington, July 28.—Government officials have a right to take with them when they leave the service copies of letters and other data which might be used later in proving that there had been an unlawful attempt made to put a lawful concern out of business, in the opinion of Edwin C. Madden, former third assistant postmaster general. Mr. Madden made this declaration before the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department as attorney for the Lewis Publishing company of St. Louis, which was deprived of the second class mail privileges because of alleged fraud.

"If any official," said Mr. Madden, "was satisfied, as I was, that there was a conspiracy to put a legitimate concern out of business, he has a right, as I had, to take copies of correspondence."

Spoke to Attorney General.

"I have called to the attention of the attorney general," said Representative Austin of Tennessee, "the acknowledgement made by Mr. Madden several days ago that he took with him when he left the postoffice department the original of a letter written to him in his official capacity by Former Postmaster General Cortelyou. The attorney general informed me he would give the matter proper attention."

Mr. Madden said that, although the letter was addressed to him in his official capacity, it was a personal letter and he had a right to it. He said the letter attempted to put on his shoulders all the faults the postmaster general had committed in connection with the Lewis case.

SETTLE CLAIMS OF KING OF WAIOU'S HEIRS.

Auckland, New Zealand, July 28.—The governor, in opening parliament yesterday, announced that the claim for land purchased by William Webster, a deserter from a whaler, from Maoris in the Auckland district, prior to the proclamation of British soveriegnty, had been satisfactorily settled with the United States government.

William Webster, who was known in Auckland as the "King of Waiou," at one time had in his possession lands in Auckland province valued at $2,500,000. He was dispossessed of the lands by Governo Hobson in 1841. He sent a claim from San Francisco, where he resided for a time, and his heirs made another claim for compensation through the Washington government. Sir Robert Stout, who was commissioned to investigate the case by the New Zealand government reported against the claimants in 1909.

BURNS AGENCY TO BE PROSECUTED BY LABOR.

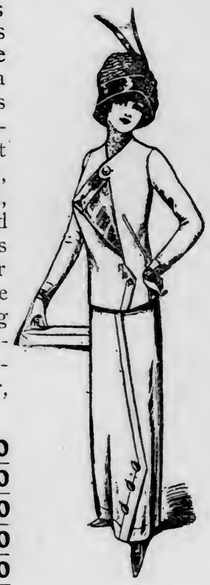

Washington, July 28.—Organized labor proposes to prosecute the Burns detective agency for its part in arresting the men charged with destroying with dynamite the newspaper plant of the Los Angeles Times. In an appeal for funds with which to defend the alleged dynamiters at their forthcoming trial, it is declared that every man who was connected with the kidnaping of the McNamaras will be prosecuted to the full limit of the law and that punishment will be meted out "to detective agencies that assume to be superior to the law."

GOOD SHIP GOPHER WILL SAIL FOR CHICAGO AUG. 5

With the members of the Minnesota State Naval militia on board and all drilled up to the minute, that the best possible showing may be made at the annual maneuvers, which will this year take place at Chicago, the good ship Gopher will sail Saturday, Aug. 5.

Both the officers and the men are anxious for the date of the sailing. The long trip is the event of the year with the members of the naval militia and while there is a good deal of work connected with the trip, every one seems keen to be off.

A larger number than were ever before taken will go on the trip this year. Since the trip of last year many new members have been recruited and they will go on their first voyage this year.

It is probable that the Gopher will be anchored near Chicago for nearly a week. All the boats will take an active part in the opening of the new naval school and an elaborate program has been arranged at Chicago.

On the way back it is probable that a stop will be made at Milwaukee. This stop will be made that the men may have a chance to see the city. A stop was made at Milwaukee two years ago. Last year the trip to Buffalo was so long that it was impossible to make many stops at other points.

The members of the militia are drilling daily for the many different events which will take place at Chicago. There will be the usual races, man overboard drills, fire drills, signal reading and other events. The Duluth crew has always given a good account of itself and this year the boys are out for as many prizes as they can capture.

TOOK NEAL CURE FOR DRINK HABIT

WAS CURED IN THREE DAYS

"Eats Like a Horse and Sleeps Like a Baby."

F. G. Cordoff, treasurer and general manager of the Neal Institute, located at Superior, Wis., where the Neal three-day treatment for drink habit is accomplishing such wonderful results, recently received a very interesting letter from a Neal cured patient, a traveling salesman, who several months since took the treatment, and expresses his satisfaction and gratitute in the following way:

"It is now a little over six months since I took the Neal Treatment. I was taken there a moral, mental and physical wreck—hard language to use regarding myself, but true. Within a few hours the terrible thirst, craving and gnawing for the infernal 'red stuff' was turned into a disgust and loathing for it, which, I am thankful to say, continues to this day. I have continued to improve in every way from the first day of my treatment. My good wife says that I 'eat like a horse and sleep like a baby.' While I do not want my name used publicly, I will be very glad to recommend the Neal treatment to any one who will address me, 'Traveling Salesman,' in your care."

When such an opportunity is offered to those that are suffering from the awful habit, with a contract that the treatment shall be absolutely free unless the patient and his friends are entirely satisfied at the end of only three days' treatment, it is the duty of all interested to call upon or address Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh, Superior, Wis.

WATCH FOUND IN STOMACH

Of Alligator May Explain Disappearance of Florida Girl.

Forsythe, Ga., July 28.—The finding of a valuable gold watch and chain in the stomach of a large alligator that died in a pond near here, is believed to solve the mystery of the disappearance of 12-year-old Janet Thornton from the home of her parents at Island Grove, Fla., two years ago.

The alligator was captured near Island Grove some weeks after the girl disappeared, and was brought to this place by J. M. Jackson. The little girl has never been heard from since she disapeared. When last seen she was standing on the bank of the lake where Jackson captured the alligator, and she was wearing at the time a gold watch of the Waltham make, with her initials engraved on the back of the watch.

The same initials are on the back of the watch discovered inside of the dead alligator. It is believed by Jackson and others that while the girl was playing on the bank of the lake the alligator came upon the bank and devoured her.

The parents of the girl have been notified, and the watch will be returned to them.

BURDEN ON THE PUBLIC

Transportation of Commodities and High Cost of Living.

Improvement of Waterways Would Lessen Tax on People.

Washington, July 28.—Under our complex civilization every man, woman and child depends for at least part of the necessaries of life on the transportation of commodities. This burden it is fair to recognize as a tax. It is recalled that in 1905 our annual payments to railways (in which about 70 per cent was for freight) first rose above $2,000,000,000; that in 1907 they exceeded $2,589,000,000, and in 1908 they declined to a little below 2,400,000,000, the current average being reckoned at $2,500,000,000.

This vast amount of money spent for the transportation of the things that we eat and wear and use; the coal that we burn, he brick, the iron ore and the thousand and one things which enter into the life of the people, if reckoned as a head tax would be equivalent to over $27 per capita for our 92,000,000 inhabitants; as a family tax it is $135 annually for each average family. Reckoned as a land tax it is over $1.25 an acre for every acre of our vast national domain, or an annual figure corresponding with the price for which most of the public lands were sold; and if figured as a tax on the improved land which yields our abounding farm products it averages $6 yearly for each of our 415,000,000 acres.

Burden Is Weighty.

The question therefore asserts itself with brutal force—how long can production continue under so weighty a burden? No wonder the quantity of farm production of the necessaries of life has fallen off since the year of congestion, 1906, though the value of the products continues to increase under the inverse relation brought out by the secretary of agriculture in his last report; and no wonder that retail prices of food have soared since the farmers learned in 1906 to limit their production to what the railways can carry.

There are in the United States 295 navigable rivers of a total length of 26,400 miles. If these rivers could be made to do a quarter of the hauling of freight, and thereby move that freight at a quarter of the current cost, there would be an apparent saving of $500,000,000 annually in traffic charges, reducing the current transportation burden to $20 per capita, of $100 per family, or $1 an acre on land, all of which saving might be measured in reduced cost of living.

Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith, in speaking of the crying needs for a comprehensive policy by the general government toward the waterways of the United States, which has been the slogan of the National Rivers and Harbors congress since its organization fifteen years ago, said that our waterways must be made an integral part of our entire carrying system.

Unification Essential.

"The tremendous predominence of through traffic in the United States between widely separated sections makes unification with the whole transportation system almost essential for the life of any part of that system," said Mr. Smith. "We find, however, that general water traffic is almost isolated from the main currents of the traffic of the country. By general water traffic I mean the traffic that is not carried upon water lines controlled by or closely affiliated with the railroads. There is a surprising lack of co-ordination between the rail lines and general water lines. And until we have close physical rail and water lines with close commercial connections at the through terminals of the railroad the enormous charge for transportation cannot be appreciably reduced.

"My personal opinion is that the construction of waterway channels by the government should be absolutely conditioned upon the present or future assured existence thereon of adequate terminals provided by the locality and by it kept permanently open for the general benefit of these users of that channel. The local authorities are the only ones who can furnish and keep open the proper terminal frontage, and such a requirement would not only result in providing terminals, but would also go far to prevent the presentation of worthless and visionary schemes of waterway improvement. If the locality is required to stake its own money on such terminal improvements, it is not going to urge upon congress channel work of such futile character as will mean loss of money invested. This is the system in many places in Europe, and, judging from the results there, it has certainly worked admirably."

$25,000 in Rebates.

It is estimated that the Pullman company will have to pay $25,000 in rebates to the public on over-payments for sleeping car service because of the order of the Illinois courts in the Pullman cases. The interstate commerce commission ordered a reduction in March, 1910, and the company appealed. That wouldn't be a marker on the rebates people could get if they got back the money paid for poorer beers than golden grain belt beers, the best by test. They make friends everywhere. RECREATING THE TOBACCO TRUST

Steps Are Taken to Comply With Supreme Court's Order.

New York, July 28.—Steps toward recreating the American Tobacco company out of the elements now composing it, in harmony with the decision of the supreme court of the United States, were taken yesterday when announcement was made of the formation of protective committees by holders of the 6 per cent bonds, the 4 per cent bonds and preferred stock.

The chairman of the 6 per cent bond holders' committee is Alexander J. Hemphill, president of the Guaranty Trust company. His associates include Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National bank, and T. Dewitt Coyler of Philadelphia. The committee's notice refers to the desire of the American Tobacco company to comply with the order of the supreme court and urges united action on the part of the bondholders.

Similar representations are made by the committee for the 4 per cent bonds, of which Charles H. Sebin, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, is chairman, and the preferred stockholders' committee, of which J. N. Wallace, president of the Central Trust company, is chairman. The three committees join in requesting that certificates of bonds and stocks be deposited not later than Aug. 28 next.

POTATOES ARE LOWER

Duluth Fares Better With Tubers Than Many Other Centers.

Butter and Eggs Are Higher —Little Change in Vegetables.

A message from Calgary yesterday announced that potatoes were selling up in that country for the modest sum of $5 per bushel. There are worse places than Duluth, as far as the high cost of living is concerned. With potatoes as an example, the price of the new variety—old potatoes have gone off the market—shaded off on Michigan street during the past week from $1.70 to $1.45 per bushel and the latter is the prevailing quotation to retailers.

Nobody is laying in a winter's supply of potatoes at present prices, but Duluth is not faring so badly as some other places on the map. The tubers are scarce just now and the immutable law of supply and demand keeps prices up in consequence. The demand for potatoes seldom lets down at any season of the year, while supplies are heavy and light by periods. The man who buys potatoes as he uses them can't beat the game.

Duluth will probably fare a little better this fall in the matter of potatoes than most communities. Although the potato crop in Northeastern Minnesota will not be as bountiful as expected, the potato belt to the south of Duluth has fared well and will have a good average crop. In some of the other potato centers, the heavy spring rains damaged the crops—ruined them entirely in some cases. The general crop will be light this year and prices high, but Duluth is the nearest market to a good supply and will far accordingly.

Butter and eggs, two staples of fluctuating values, are in the ascendancy this week. Fancy creamery butter has advanced from 25 cents last week and this week is quoted at 26 to 27 cents. Dairy butter, which was 18 cents last week, is 23 cents this week. The increase in eggs amounts to 2 to 3 cents. Bulk eggs were 18 cents last week; this week they are bringing 20 to 21 cents on Michigan street. Fresh eggs in cartons are 21 to 22 cents this week, against 19 cents last week.

Egg receipts are fairly heavy, but they are matching up with the demand and the facility with which receipts are placed has a tendency to keep prices up. The egg market is a few cents below the level of this time last year, however, as the market has been easier all this summer. Now it is stiffening up and the advances are a little greater than the ordinary week-to-week advance in a stiffening market.

The green vegetable market is in rather a chaotic condition as far as the commission centers are concerned. Farmers from the surrounding country are coming into Duluth and selling their produce direct to the retailers or to consumers. They make their own prices and in most cases undersell the produce that goes through the regular channels of trade. Receipts of green vegetables at the commission houses are kept just at the level of the demand. The commission men are not taking any chances of having green stuff accumulate and the receipts are held down.

There have been few vegetable changes in the last week. Florida tomatoes have been supplanted by the Texas variety, with the price holding at $1.50 for a four-basket crate. Iowa cabbage is easier, with the price $4.25 per crate, instead of $5.75 least week. The receipts are heavier and the cabbage is of good quality. Green corn is selling at 15 cents a dozen. Home grown peas have dropped 25 cents a bushel and are now selling at $1.50. Home grown cucumbers are $2 per bushel; last week they were selling at $3.25.

Red raspberries have gone off the market, as have currants. Blackberries and blueberries are holding the attention now. Blackberries have dropped from $2.50 to $2 per crate and blueberries are holding steady at $1.75 to $2.

* * *

Barrel apples have had a sharp decline this week, going from $6 to $4.75. Receipts are fairly heavy and the demand is good.

* * *

Oranges and lemons are unchanged. Elberta peaches have made their appearance on the market and are bringing $1.50 a box. The Eastern markets are forced to draw on California for their peaches this year, the Georgia crop having been a complete failure, and that fact has stiffened the market all thruout the country. Other fruits are arriving in good quantities, but the market is high for this season of the year. Canteloupes and watermelons are holding steady.

* * *

Beef and veal have shaded off a little this week, while pork and mutton are a shade higher. Lard is 1c up and is now bringing 10c.

The fish market is holding steady, with whitefish and trout in demand.

STRANGE EPIDEMIC

Which Is Baffling the Physicians of North Carolina.

Asheville, N. C., uly 28.—A fatal epidemic prevails in Mitchell county, which has heretofore been unknown to medical science, and is baffling skilled physicians, who have made every effort to check the malady which manifests itself by small blood-shot stains on the tips of the fingers, passing through the arm into the body, and resulting in death within a few days after the first sign appears.

The plague has claimed a number of victims in Mitchell county, one of whom was Dr. F. P. Slagle. Dr. Charles Buchanan, a prominent physician, became affected a few days ago, and was sent to Johnson City, Tenn., hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

There are no paroxysms accompanying the attack. The disease appears to move rapidly from the finger tips, along the arms into the body, and reaches the heart within a day or two, resulting invariably in immediate and apparently painless death.

No permanent relief has thus far been discovered and it is reported that the rapidity with which the malady is spreading has become alarming.

RECTOR'S ENGAGEMENT

Broken on Eve of Accepting Call to Cincinnati Church.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—It is formally announced that the engagement of Rev. Guy E. Shipler, former assistant rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church of St. Louis, and Miss Margaret Strong of 4454 Drexel boulevard, Chicago, has been broken. Reasons were not given.

Mr. Shipler has announced the withdrawal of his acceptance of the rectorship of the Episcopal church at Laurel, Del., to which charge he was to go in September, and his acceptance of a call to an Episcopal church in Cincinnati.

The wedding was to have taken place July 12, at Wilmington, Del. Just before that date, however, cards were sent out stating the wedding had been postponed indefinitely, owing to Bishop Kinsman's illness, due to the sting of an insect. It was the bishop's wish to marry the young couple, as the clergyman was his protege and close friend.

RIGHT EAR GONE.

Fight at Homestead Results in Man's Ear Being Bitten Off.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—James McCord is in the Homestead hospital with his right ear gone, but there is no chance of a grafting operation, because William Lamone, who bit off the ear, completed the job by swallowing it. The Morningside club of Homestead, near here, had an outing in the country and while fun was at its height McCord and Lamone had a little difference which resulted in coats being removed for a definite settlement of the point at issue.

McCord was getting the better of the argument when his adversary drew the other's head close to his own face.

McCord suddenly uttered a shriek. When Lamone released the other's head the right ear was gone. Lamone had seized the member between his teeth, bitten it off clean, and then gulped it down in the excitement of battle. McCord was hurried to the hospital. Lamone fled and the police are looking for him.

"RULE OF REASON" BRINGS TRUST CASE REVERSAL.

New York, July 28.—The "rule of reason" laid down by the supreme court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases has caused a reversal of judgment in a suit brought by Hugo A. Thomsen and others against the Union Castle Mail Steamship company. In overturning its former decision granting damages against the steamship company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, the United States circuit court said that its former action was based upon the supposition that it was immaterial whether restraint of trade was reasonable or unreasonable.

CURE FOR SUMMER COMPLAINT

At no time of the year are the bowels put to a severer test than during the hot weather. Thousands become afflicted with "summer complaint," or running off of the bowels. The cause very often lies in the drinking of impure water, the eating of unripe fruit or tainted food. But whatever the cause it is useless to try to cure the trouble with an astringent remedy, an opiate, or salts and such things. The bowels need not only a thorough cleaning out, but the stomach needs strengthening and toning, so that they may have a new start. All this is best obtained by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a great stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. It will quickly stop the unnatural passages, which are so weakening and give rise to vertigo. Thousands of families are using it steadily and thereby avoid all digestive troubles summer and winter. Buy a 50 cent or $1.00 bottle today of your druggist and you will be surprised at the quick and lasting effects. You will find it a mild, gentle laxative, agreeable to young and old. DISCOVERS GOLD MINE

Former Minneapolis Fruit Dealer Who Is Led By "Visions."

Says That Place Was Indicated to Him in Dreams.

Rogers, Ark., July 28.—On top of the Ozark mountains, a few miles from here, is a diamond-shaped excavation, each side 125 feet long, from which gold is being taken day by day as a result of a vision that came to William H. Kruse, a former wholesale and retail fruit dealer and member of the board of trade of Minneapolis.

Beside this excavation there is a crude smelter, where ore is baked and from which gold flows. This mine is not a mere venture, but a reality that promises to make its discoverer and his followers somewhat better off in this world's goods.

This gold mine, the only one in Arkansas, is on a little farm, the property of Kruse's father, and is in a geological formation to which gold is foreign. Expert metallurgists who assayed the ore are unable to account for the phenomenon.

The vision that pointed out to Kruse the location of his gold mine is but one of many that have been profitable to him and to his friends. In fact, Kruse declares, all his actions in the last decade have been guided by these visions.

Followers Believe in Him.

Kruse believes religiously in them. And he has followers that believe he is endowed with supernatural powers. So strongly are they impressed, that on a day set apart by Kruse as the one upon which he should uncover gold, scores of residents of this town, headed by a band, marched to the little farm southwest of Rogers.

A noonday meal was served to them by Kruse, and at 2 o'clock all pitched in and helped work the mine. This was a part of the festivities. By 5 o'clock five pails of ore had been taken out, the first ore being reached at a depth of seven feet. This was shipped to St. Louis and assayed.

Krause avers that his power of prophecy comes to him as a sort of sixth sense.

In 1900, when the Leiter wheat corner was on in Chicago, Krause was a broker in Minneapolis and wrote the market quotations on a blackboard in his office. One day he noticed that he wrote figures not authorized by the wire, and was astonished when, a few minutes later, those same figures came to him by telegraph.

Kruse told his brother-in-law, Joseph P. Huber, to get thirty small slates and on them write the figures dictated by him. Huber wrote as directed and Kruse forecasted the Chicago wheat market for one month in advance. Subsequent developments verified all his predictions even to the scenes of riot and disorder in the Chicago pit that marked the breaking up of the Leiter corner.

Declined to Sell Visions.

At one time, Kruse says, a firm of Minneapolis millers offered him $50,000 for the use of his visions in regard to the wheat market. He declined. At another time, Kruse said, he was told that he would make $1,400 in three days on a capital of $1. He took $1 and invested it in wheat. The first day he cleared $9. He invested the second day and made $90. Again he bought wheat and made $1,400.

Kruse says that it is impossible for him to disobey one of his "warnings," even though his personal business be neglected. Twice he made trips to other large cities, but for what reason he declares he does not know.

Now Kruse transcribes his visitations in the form of letters of which four copies are made. Kruse keeps one, another goes to his father, Edward Kruse, in Rogers; Henry G. Kruse of Vinton, Iowa, gets one, and Hubert, the brother-in-law, gets the last. All keep the letters on file and mark the prophecies that are fulfilled. In the last eleven years Kruse has written hundreds of these, and, according to the check marks upon those kept by his father, nearly every one has come true.

Kruse's first gold mine vision came to him when he was in Minneapolis, in 1899. He was told there was great wealth under the ground of his father's farm on the heart of the Ozark mountains. In 1902 Kruse came to Rogers. He was inactive for days, but another vision pictured an apple sapling on his father's farm. Finding such a tree he began digging.

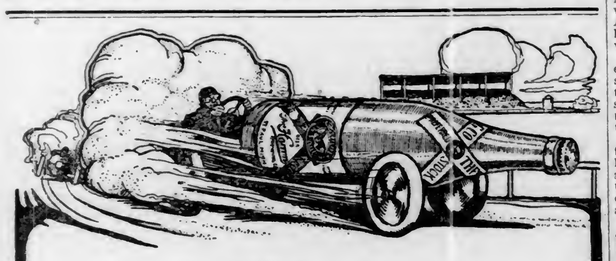

Dug in Vain.

Aided by E. J. Kruse, he removed the apple tree to another part of his farm. The three men dug down for seven feet in the flint earth. Then they drilled. The drill became fastened and could not be withdrawn. But they found no gold.

Kruse left Rogers, returning to Minneapolis. In 1905 he received another visitation and he came back to Rogers. Again he sought the spot where the little apple tree stood. A rude tent was erected and he began excavating.

The vision had told him that the excavation should be diamond shaped, sixteen feet long on each side. A little later came another vision that it should be sixty-five feet long and diamond shaped. Kruse hired men and teams to remove the dirt.

A third vision came that the excavation should be increased to 125 feet in length and still diamond shaped. He advertised for men and teams. Then the "opening day" was set. The first ore taken out was shipped to St. Louis and stored after being assayed.

BIG GATES FOR PANAMA LOCKS

Forty-Six Pairs of Them Were Included in the Contract.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—Steel gates 47 to 82 feet high, weighing up to 280 tons each, completely assembled as they will be when they are in position at the Panama locks, have been set up at the plant of the McClintic-Marshall Construction company, the independent structural concern that beat out the Steel trust in the government bidding for the 80,000-ton contract for the steel work at the canal.

The first three of the lock gates, or leaves, as they are known in technical parlance, have been set up complete to be passed on finally by the government inspectors at the plant.

There will be 46 pairs of these gates, or 92 leaves, ranging in height from 47 feet four inches to 82 feet. All will be completely assembled at the Rankin works of the McClintic-Marshall company for final inspection, then dismembered and shipped in sections to Colon, to be placed in position by the working force of nearly 500 men the company already has on the Isthmus. The gates at the Gatun locks will be the first installed. For the entire contract the company has until Jan. 1, 1913.

The Panama steel contract was the largest structural contract ever let in this country. The gate in themselves, without their anchorages and other auxiliary construction, call for 58,000 tons of structural work and steel castings. The aggregate contract calls for $5,000,000, this providing for all the erecting work at the Isthmus. The construction company has set up its own plant at the Isthmus, and its own unloading apparatus at the Colon docks.

Each of the leaves of the gates now being fabricated at the Rankin plant consists of a heavy framework girders, sheathed with continuous nickel-steel bearing plates. Concrete bracing will occupy the upper section of each leaf, and above the top girder will be a concrete footwalk, with movable hand-railings. The lower portion of the leaf will form the air chamber, subdivided by vertical frames into smaller, air-tight compartments.

These air-tight compartments are, some of them, big enough to furnish accommodations for a healthy mass meeting.

Vanadium steel, bronze bushings, and forged nickel-steel will figure in the giant hinges for these gates. At the top the leaf will be secured to the lock wall by a nickel-steel pin revolving in a bronze bushing in a cast vanadium steel yoke, which forms a part of the anchorage. Each leaf will be operated independently by an electrically-driven engine located in the lock wall, and will be drawn into proper position and held tightly by a mitering device at the miter ends. The whole will be calked and made watertight from the bottom of the leaf to the top of the air chamber, above which point the cement-filled construction will give the gate more the character of a dam than a movable structure. Each leaf will be pierced by four manholes, large enough to accommodate riveting machines and other repair apparatus. Free access will thus be given to all parts of the leaf.

A special erecting shop had to be built at the Rankin plant and special machinery was installed for the handling of the heavy parts.

GARFIELD BOOM FOR PRESIDENT

Politicians Are Not Inclined to Consider It Too Seriously.

Washington, July 28.—Maybe the Progressivists just started that story about making James R. Garfield of Ohio a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination to see what would happen to it. Few politicians here will treat the story seriously at present. Of course, Mr. Garfield, who was here at the time, would say nothing about it. No one believes that Mr. Garfield is seriously a candidate for the presidency, but rather it is the opinion that should he enter the contest it will be merely as a favorite son of the Ohio Progressives in the hope that he may be able to draw off a few votes from the president's own state in the national convention. There is no evidence even from insurgent quarters to indicate that the former secretary of the interior intends to make any canvass in any other state for the selection of delegates to support him in the national convention.

The bolder Progressivists declare they have some arrows yet in the quiver that have not been suspected. A fight on Taft in his own state is one of these.

Recognizing that no outside man could stand a chance to take the delegation from the president, Mr. Garfield's friends have been feeling out the situation with the thought of making Garfield their standard bearer in a state-wide fight.

They have recently declared that the president's hold in his own state is so weakened, and the feeling so strong that if nominated he would be defeated, that many Ohio Republican leaders are turning to the idea of Garfield.

It is a matter of desperate seriousness with these leaders. They believe their state would be certain to go Democratic if Taft and Harmon should be the opposing candidates. An Ohio Democrat at the White House would give so much strength to his party in the home state that Republicans would be hopelessly demoralized. It might be many years before they could restore a condition in which Republicans would have an even chance.

The candidacy of Mr. Garfield would be particularly embarrassing to Senator Theodore E. Burton. He and Garfield both belong to the Cleveland wing of the party; each is a promising candidate for the gold medal to be voted to the favorite son of the north end of the state. Mr. Burton has of late been appearing more or less in the attitude of a spokesman of the administration.

THEY COULD HAVE MADE FORTUNES

Now British Government Gives Pensions to Their Daughters.

London, July 28.—The annual distribution of $6,000 in civil list pensions generally recalls some romance or tragedy in the worlds of science, letters and art. Last week there appeared in the list the name of the daughter of the late Dr. George Gore.

When Dr. Gore died two years ago at the age of 82 he left most of his small fortune, $30,000, to the Royal Society and the Royal Institute for the Furtherance of Original Scientific Research, which accounts for his daughter's need of the small pension now granted to her. The amount of money Dr. Gore might have made it would be difficult to estimate. Upon the chemical discoveries which resulted from his patient investigations and experiments with phosphorus are based the safety match. Upon the researches in electrometaiurgy are based nickel plating and the electro deposition of other metals. If he had received a small percentage of the profits derived from the commercial uses to which his scientific discoveries were applied he would have been many times a millionaire.

Another interesting name recalled by last week's pension list is that of the late Frederick Greenwood. It is well known that owing to Greenwood's suggestion England acquired a controlling interest in the Suez canal shares, which represent an actual profit of $100,000,000 apart from the incidental advantages resulting from the purchase. Greenwood made not a penny out of his knowledge. He could easily have made himself a wealthy man but he considered that he had no right to make use of a state secret for his own pecuniary advantage. He died a poor man and the state has now awarded his daughter an annuity of $500.

If a store could be run without buyers, it would not be necessary to advertise.

Reggie Vanderbilt Is Doing Real Work to Reduce Weight.

Newport, R. I., July 28.—It's the worst known form in Newport society to be stout, especially for women. Those who are carrying large weights among the ladies are moving heaven and earth to thin down. But no one imagined the men folks would take up the thinning-down fad. It has happened and Reggie Vanderbilt is the author and experimentalist.

Think of Reggie Vanderbilt mounting one of his best saddle horses from Sandy Point farm every morning at 8 o'clock, wearing three and sometimes four heavy sweaters, riding in the saddle for more than an hour at a time, and then returning home to partake of a light breakfast. Perspiration is what the author of how to reduce weight is after, and he is getting results and looks the best in a number of years.

Reggie Vanderbilt has taken off 10 pounds in two weeks. He hopes to further reduce before he finishes his training course. He swims a lot at Bailey's beach and from his own beach in Portsmouth; walks, motors and keeps in the air largely.

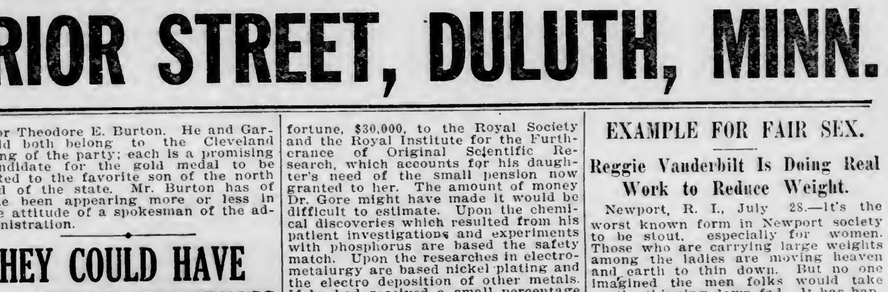

Now that Reggie has introduced the newest fad Newport will see the ladies riding horseback and wearing sweaters for thinning-down purposes.

ANTI-DUST LAW VALID

Ordinance Requiring Covering of Fruit Upheld By Court.

State Tribunal Says It Is Not Unreasonable Restriction.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The ordinance is a movement in the right direction. It speaks for health and cleanliness, and every right-thinking person ought to be in sympathy with a movement of this kind."

This is the stand taken by the state supreme court in the test suit over Dr. Lankester's ordinance requiring the covering of fruits and berries exposed for sale, and the protection of the goods against flies and dust.

The court, in a decision handed down this morning, upholds the ordinance and denies the appeal of Charles Bacigalupo from District Judge Kelly's denial of an application for a writ of habeas corpus against Chief of Police O'Connor.

The supreme court's opinion is written by Justice Lewis, who says the ordinance is not an unnecessary interference with private rights, is not an unreasonable requirement, and is constitutional.

The case has been hard fought by fruit dealers and the produce exchange.

Special sale now on at Barthe-Martin company, 102 West Michigan street.

ELECTRIC TRUST IS READY TO DISSOLVE

Submits Satisfactory Decree to the Attorney General.

Washington, July 28.—Attorneys for the Electrical trust have submitted to Attorney General Wickersham a decree which it is said they are willing to have entered against the alleged combination in the government's suit for dissolution. The significance of this move is that the trust is willing to dissolve without a fight. It is said that, with some probable modification, the proposition may be acceptable to the department of justice.

PHYSICIANS AS WITNESSES

Will Try to Estimate What an X-Ray Treatment Is Worth.

A number of the most prominent physicians in the city have been summoned as witnesses in the case of W. F. McCabe and C. S. Wilson, which was started before Judge Cutting in municipal court today. Mr. McCabe is a physician and Mr. Wilson an attorney.

Mr. McCabe is suing to collect $50 for services alleged to have been rendered in the taking of an X-ray photograph of an injured knee. Mr. Wilson claims that $5 is all the work was worth and refuses to pay the $50 demanded. The answer to the complaint states that he offered $25, but that that sum was refused. Among the physicians who are summoned to testify are Doctors Boyer, Linnemann, Schwartz, Lum and Taylor.

BACON STAYS TO CONCLUDE TREATY

Franco-American Arbitration Agreement Is Nearly Completed.

Paris, July 28.—Robert Bacon, the American ambassador to France, had planned to sail on La Provence from Havre tomorrow for New York on a leave of absence, but the negotiations of the Franco-American arbitration treaty not being concluded, he has postponed his departure. Mrs. Bacon and their son, Robert L., however, will go on the La Provence.

It is understood that the text of the treaty will not be given out in France until it has been made public at Washington.

THE RIDICULOUS CAMORRISTS.

Los Angeles Times: "The Camorrists in their huge cake at Naples, groaning and weeping and shouting all manner of nonsense—there was something ridiculous about that Camorrist trial."

The speaker was Prof. Edward C. Heminway, the noted archaeologist of Chicago. He resumed:

"The Camorrists are always ridiculous. One of my assistants at Pompeii was walking, one dark night, out the Sorrento road when three Camorrists set upon him. The rascals took his money, watch, scarfpin and rings—they even took his overcoat. But he objected stoutly to this. The night was cold, he said, and without his coat he would freeze.

"Then one of the Camorrists drew off his own filthy, ragged overcoat and made my assistant put it on.

"'There you are,' said the scoundrel 'You won't freeze now.'

"And the Camorrists, laughing heartily over my assistant's ridiculous appearance in the ragged coat, hurried off into the night.

"My assistant in his turn hurried off, and then, putting his hand in the torn coat's pocket, he hurried very much faster—for the coat that had been forced upon him contained all the booty of which he had just been robbed."

RAILROAD NEWS

LOW RATES ARE HELD UP

South Shore Road Wins Temporary Victory in Michigan.

Two-Cent Rate Will Not Take Effect Until Sept. 26.

The temporary injunction ordered Wednesday afternoon by Judge Angell of the United States circuit court at Lansing, Mich., upon a complaint of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, and served yesterday upon Attorney General Kuhn, holds up the Michigan 2 cent law, which was to go into effect on Aug. 2, and requires the passengers of Michigan to pay the 3 cents fares at least until Sept. 26, when a hearing before three federal judges will be held.

The complaint was based upon the same grounds that the railroads used prior to Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota cases, in which it was stated that the rate is confiscatory and in direct violation to the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.

At the hearing the South Shore was represented by Vice-president A. B. Eldridge and Pierce Butler, a St. Paul attorney, and the defendants were Franz C. Kuhn, attorney general of Michigan; Cassius L. Glasgow, George W. Dickinson Lawton T. Hemans, members of the Michigan state railroad commission; John R. Van Evera, Morgan W. Jopling and Fred S. Case of Marquette, who are named as defendants representing the entire traveling public.

Before presenting the application for an injunction to the United States court, the auditing department of the road was called upon to furnish the data of the company's business.

It was shown that the average passenger traffic per day on the South Shore is 1,900. As to the immediate effect of the 2 cent fare, the complaint stated that it would deprive the South Shore of a large part of the interstate business, as the sum of the new Michigan fare plus the fare in another state would be less than the legal fare between two interstate points as approved by the interstate commerce commission. By reason of this discrepancy the complaint avers, that the South Shore would be deprived of a large part of the interstate business.

It was further agreed that the immediate effect of the two-cent fare law will be to create unfair and unjust discrimination in favor of the passenger business of the South Shore local to the state of Michigan and against all its passenger business between Michigan and other states, or between Michigan and Canada.

During the fiscal year 1910 the total operating revenue of the passenger business was $956,214.46, of which $539,502.50 was chargeable to intrastate business. The total expenditures of the passenger department were $701,413.71, of which $126,956.42 were chargeable to intrastate business. The net earnings for the year were $256,920.10 of which $113,740.14 were chargeable to intrastate business.

It was also shown that on account of increased wages, and increased cost of material, the operating of the railroad had been going up steadily during the past few years and that the probabilities would be that the increase would continue and the earnings would be decreased.

For these reasons it was contended that the two-cent rate law would have a tendency to deplete the revenues of the road to such an extent that it would not derive any fair and reasonable return upon the value of the property, particularly that part chargeable to intrastate business.

TWENTY-FOUR-MILE LINE IS SOLD FOR $480,000.

Little Rock, Ark., July 28.—Official announcement is made that twenty-four miles of the track of the Little Rock, Hot Springs & Western railroad, between this city and Benton, has been sold to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific system. The price paid was $480,000, according to C. J. Pratt of Little Rock, one of the stockholders of the former company. The line extends from Little Rock to Hot Springs. The Rock Island had leased the portion bought by it for several years and the rest may be sold to the Iron Mountain.

CLAPP TO GO WITH NORTHERN PACIFIC.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Within the next few days circulars will be issued announcing the appointment of M. H. Clapp as superintendent of telegraph and telephone service of the Northern Pacific railway, vice O. C. Greene, who will resign Aug. 1. Mr. Clapp has been district superintendent of telegraph for the Western Union company at Chicago. He is an expert in telephone matters and his appointment to the position on the Northern Pacific shows the invasion of the telephone on the telegraph in handling trains.

WHERE COURAGE IS NEEDED.

Los Angeles Times: Joseph H. Choate, in a brilliant analysis of a Washington diplomat, said in New York:

"His nervous daring is accompanied by a queer nervous shrinking, almost a nervous cowardice."

"'Dizzy's physical courage is slight. For example, I always have to pull the string of the shower bath for him.'"

MUST TAKE TRIP ON TIME

After Aug. 1 Railroad Tickets Will Have a Time Limit.

Additional Charges Will Be Made for Boarding Train Without Ticket.

Changes in the single trip tickets on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern read will go into effect on and after Aug. 1, according to announcements which were made this morning.

Tickets for single trips limited for one day from date of issuing will be honored only if presented within the time limit. Unused tickets will be redeemed by the agent of any selling station within the time limit, but after the time of expiration, they will be redeemed only by the general ticket department at Duluth. All tickets sold prior to Aug. 1 and unused, will be redeemed by the general ticket department, when presented by the original purchaser.

Another change which goes into effect on Aug. 1 relates to passengers who have not secured tickets at stations where tickets are sold. Any passenger aboarding a train without a ticket at such stations will have to pay an additional 5 cents for fares under 50 cents, and 10 cents for fares over that amount. A receipt for the amount of the fare will be given to the passenger by the conductor and the extra fare paid the conductor will be refunded at any selling station upon presentation of the receipt.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern has not raised its rates from 2 cents to 3 cents as other roads have, and according to one official the rates wil remain the same.

INDIAN TRIBES PASSING.

Toronto Globe: The removal of the Songhee Indians from Victoria harbor to Esquimalt harbor serves to emphasize the fundamental difference between the tribal and civilized attitude toward the world and its goods.

Under tribal conditions the sins of the fathers are not, in regard to possessions, visited on the children. No child can be disinherited through a parent's wastefulness, so preventable destitution is virtually unknown. The wealth that has wings may be small, but the land, from which all wealth is taken and to which all wealth must return to be brought forth again and again, is the common property of all. The natural limit of all men to a life tenancy is also the legal limit as expressed by custom. The passing generation never presumes to give title or to alienate for all time.

This attitude has been so far modified by civilized ideas that the passing generation of Songhees have to a large extent claimed the reserve of which they inherited only a life tenancy. They have sold it to the Dominion government for $125,000 and another reserve on Esquimalt. The changed attitued is shown by the present generation taking this sum, the price of the perpetual heritage of the tribe, and dividing it among themselves. The various heads of families are receiving sums varying from $8,000 to $10,000 each. This will place them in easy circumstances. Many have already begun the building of comfortable and artistic homes, for there is a good standard of education and intelligence among them. But as the sun is not funded for the tribe, the children of wasteful parents will have no claim or heritage. The Songhees have inclined toward the civilized attitude revealed in the question: "What has posterity done for us?"

It will be remembered that the leading men of the tribes in what was formerly Indian Territory in the United States made a strong though ineffectual appeal to President Cleveland against the usurpation of tribal property by the existing generation. The earth seemed to them an entailed estate in which no one could acquire more than a life tenancy. They saw in the plan for appropriation and division the disinheriting of coming generations. They also saw the advancement of the more enterprising, but did not regard it as compensating for the sufferings of the disinherited.

The Songhees have not appropriated all the tribal heritage. The new reserve on Esquimalt is still an entailed estate of the tribe. The monetary division has made a serious inroad on the heritage of the next generaiton, but there wil be sufficient left to insure all against actual want. The settlement is a compromise between tribal and civilized attitudes toward wealth. The weaker members of the tribe will be removed from many temptations, for proximity to Victoria made it easy for Chinamen and others to make illegal sales of liquor among them. The healthful stimulus of individual property, the influence of comfortable surroundings and the removal of temptations should prepare the way for further advances toward the social adjustments of civilized society among the Songhees.

A GOOD OFFER—TAKE IT.

W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Soo and one of the most skillful publicity agents in the business, in an interview in The Herald Wednesday evening made an offer which Duluth should lose no time in accepting.

"We stand ready to co-operate with Duluth in every way, in advertising this city as a summer resort," said Mr. Calloway. "We will get out a special pamphlet on Duluth and circulate it together with a supplementary pamphlet prepared by the Duluth Commercial club, if that organization cares to enter into such an agreement. There are 286 summer resorts on the lines of the Soo road, and Duluth is lost among all of them in the general pamphlets; but we will devote a special pamphlet to the good points of Duluth as a summer resort. We must get prompt action on it, for we begin circulating this literature in January and February, and it must be ready by then."

Duluth should by all means embrace this offer.

Taking the excellent "Duluth Outdoors" pamphlet as a basis, the Commercial club should prepare a comprehensive booklet properly illustrated, telling not only what a good place Duluth is to spend a summer vacation in, but what points of interest and places of recreation can be reached from Duluth as headquarters—Isle Royale, the north shore and other lake points; Lake Vermilion, Hunter's Island and the innumerable canoeing and fishing trips available in the northern part of the state; the bass lakes of Itasca county; Solon Springs, Deerwood, and the many fishing resorts of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, etc.

The railroad method of distributing such literature as this is just the method Duluth needs to make the most of the unrivaled attractions that lie in and around this city. During the late winter and early spring, when thousands all over the country are planning their vacation trips, these pamphlets are distributed South and East, in the large cities in which most of the tourist business originates, and in every place where there is a likelihood that they will reach the right people.

Mr. Calloway's offer should be accepted immediately, and the right sort of a pamphlet prepared and printed in time for the winter distribution. Mr. Calloway can be depended upon to carry out his part of the agreement to the letter.

THE SINGLE TAX IN MISSOURI.

A great many people, who perhaps in earlier years scoffed at the single tax idea and who may not realize that they are unconsciously embracing it now in a more or less modified form, are coming to realize that to tax improvement is to penalize it and to put a premium on sloth, and that it will be well, therefore, to give patient hearing to new schemes of taxation that will leave most of the burden of taxation on land, the original source of wealth.

In like manner many a man who has heaved bricks at Populists has come to embrace much of Populism, and many a man who has condemned Socialists as anarchists has come to hold and declare many ideas that are distinctly Socialistic.

But attempts to devise workable and just schemes of taxing personal property have been so futile, and the injustice of penalizing a lot-owner, for improving his lot, by increasing his taxes has been made so clear, that there is widespread interest in plans for the readjustment of the burden of taxation in the interests of home-owning and improvement. The experiments of the western Canadian provinces are very appealing, and they have given an impetus to the search for improvement in tax methods in this country.

Missouri is about to take up seriously the consideration of this problem. In Missouri it is possible for the people to initiate proposed constitutional amendments, and the Initiative and Referendum league and the Single Tax league of that state are planning to give the voters, at the next election, an opportunity to inspect and to approve or reject the Henry George theory as a basis for taxation. The proposed amendment has been drawn up and this fall petitions will be circulated in every congressional district asking that the amendment be placed on the ballot. The leagues have organized in several of the large cities and in many of the smaller towns.

The amendment proposes to put property into four classes. The first includes every kind of personal property that does not belong to public service corporations. No property of this class is to be subject to taxation after 1913. All improvements on real estate are included in the second class. After 1913 all owners will be entitled to an exemption of $3,000 on the value of their improvements, and by 1922 a sliding scale will cut off all taxes on improvements. Into class three go all lands except those now exempt from taxation and the rights of way of public service corporations. No property in this class is ever to go untaxed.

The property of public service corporations is to go into class four. This property, real or personal, is to be assessed at its true value and the price it would bring at a voluntary sale, and a levy on one-half that value is to be made. But wherever these corporations accept regulation of their charges, and the values of their franchises are so reduced that the companies shall make only a reasonable return on the actual value of their physical holdings, further exemptions may be made.

This is not strictly the Henry George plan, but it goes a long way toward it; perhaps as far as it would be wise to go at this time.

It is clearly a move in the right direction, and though many will feel that an income tax reaching all incomes above a certain good sized exemption would improve the system, the outcome of the Missouri experiment will be watched with close interest.

Oregon, it is to be remembered, has adopted a system of county option in taxation which enables any county that wishes to levy its taxes and its proportion of the state taxes on land alone, or on land and such other holdings as it is deemed wise to include.

Sometime the silly attempt to tax personal property and the absurd policy of penalizing land-owners for improving their land will vanish before the clear breeze of common sense; and not until then will there be the remotest possibility of justice in taxation in this country.

SHEARING THE WOOL TARIFF.

The average wearer of clothes probably doesn't care a heap whose name is attached to a law reducing the tariff tax on wool and woolen goods, nor what political party gets credit for its enactment. He may give some heed to these details later, but at present he is chiefly concerned in getting relief from the conditions which make woolen clothing almost prohibitive, and which have substituted for wool in the poor man's clothing material accurately classified as "shoddy."

Pathetically glad that somebody is paying attention to his needs, he is watching the proceedings in congress with anxious uncertainty. One thing he can see that increases his anxiety: that there is at least as much partisan politics in it as there is of real, undivided desire to lower the tariff tax on wool and woolens.

The Democratic house passed the Underwood bill, cutting wool duties about in two. The senate yesterday voted down the Underwood bill by a strictly party vote, the "progressives" joining with the reactionaries to do it. Then it also voted down the La Follette bill, following that action by adopting a compromise between the La Follette and Underwood measures, this being achieved by a combination between the Democrats and the insurgents. The La Follette bill made a smaller cut in the duties than the Underwood bill, and the compromise bill provides duties nearer the La Follette level than the Underwood. There is a prospect that in conference a schedule of duties between the Underwood level and the compromise level will be provided, and that both houses may pass the conference measure.

Will the president veto this bill if it is passed? He has said that Schedule K is indefensible, even in the speech in which he humorously called the Payne-Aldrich bill the "best tariff law ever enacted." If congress enacts a law making reasonable reductions in this infamous schedule, he will find it harder to explain a veto than he has found it to explain anything else in his administration—and he has had, unfortunately, to do a good deal of explaining.

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

When we noted that Collier's Weekly was discussing the problems of Northern Minnesota we read its comments with keen interest, because we wanted to see how outside impressions of the situation in Minnesota would compare with impressions formed by those living on the ground.

It was with added interest that we noted a remarkable similarity between the conclusions formed by Collier's and those reached by the men of Northern Minnesota who have given time and study to the consideration of the problem of developing this great part of a great state. In spite of minor and inconsequential errors of detail—for instance it is a little bewildering to attempt to follow the boundary line which Collier's draws of the sections needing development—the Collier's editorial is surprisingly accurate and sound. For these reasons most of it is published here:

"Of the total area of Minnesota, approximately half is still undeveloped. The agricultural possibilities of that area of the state which lies in general north of a line drawn through the counties of Pine, Todd, Red Lake and Kittson, are equal to those of the prairie section long since developed. The problem of clearing this land is a serious one, the cost ranging from $10 an acre where the timber is light to as high as $100 an acre in some sections of the more thickly wooded country. A large part of this undeveloped land is in the hands of speculators. Much of the land needs draining; without drainage there can be neither roads nor market facilities, nor continuous settlement, nor schools. Minnesota owns nearly three million acres of the swamp and school lands. By the sale of these lands to speculators, the state is not developed, but the would-be settler is exploited. Minnesota spends a large amount of money to advertise its resources. Yet when a stranger goes to Minnesota to buy a piece of land he can find out little or nothing about the character of the soil, marketing conditions, road and school facilities, or the kind of social life that may be afforded in any particular community. The state is at present selling its lands for about $6 to $7 per acre, and on long time. In one county alone, which contains more than 800,000 acres of swamp lands, but 5,600 acres have been sold within the past three years, and one actual settler secured.

"Minnesota should remedy this condition. A complete soil, waterpower, mineral and social survey should be made as the first step toward reform. Then a certain area near to a railroad that affords access to ready markets should be mapped out. Such drainage as may be necessary could be put in—roads built—a few acres cleared. In this way this country could be opened up to settlers and taken out of the hands of speculators. Every western state that does not expect to lag behind in the great onward march of the near future must take active, if not heroic, steps, by a careful watchfulness over speculators to save its lands to actual settlers. The states that do this are going to lead in the development of the new West."

One hundred dollars an acre is a high figure for the cost of clearing Northern Minnesota lands, and it occurs as an exception when it occurs at all. The state hasn't sold much land to speculators, but unless the legislature re-enacts the wholesome restrictions repealed at the last session it will be selling more to speculators than it has.

Aside from these few minor matters, the Collier's survey is correct, its indictment is absolutely right, and its remedies are those regarding which the best and most matured thought of Northern Minnesota is agreed.

If the Twin City dailies keep up their clamor against an extra session a little longer the country districts will see the point—and increase their demand for the summoning of the legislature.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SLEEPING ON THE BRINK OF NIAGARA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In an article summing up the condition of Minnesota's state lands in Collier's Weekly for July 22, I find this: 'Minnesota owns nearly three million acres of these swamp and school lands. By the sale of these lands to speculators the state is not developed but the would-be settler is exploited. The state is at present selling these lands at from $6 to $7 per acre on long time. In one county containing 800,000 acres only 5,600 acres have been sold in three years and one settler secured. The state should improve its laws.'

But it is a mistake to think the laws are at fault. The laws are, or have been very good. It is the administration of the law that is bad. As well try to make an anti-trust, or railroad regulation law that is judge proof as to make a state land law that will work well under "poor" administration. Mal-administration of law is worse than anarchy; in fact, mal-administration of law is the very worst form that anarchy can take and will bring chaos faster.

While the land laws of the state have been all right in spirit in the past if the present tendency continues they will not remain so.

The "interests" were very active in the last legislature. Most of the committees were "packed" by the interests with which they had to deal; the committee on public lands to a greater degree than most of the others. The laws were changed, not to facilitate settlement but to tighten the grip of the land gambler. Meantime the public sleeps on. A few men get hold of the party machinery and shape everything for the "interests," and with their agents in office it matters not to the loosers what the law may be.

There are two ways the people can act, manipulate the party machinery themselves, or render the machinery powerless by independent voting.

But will they do it? One Haynes, congressman of the long ago and advocate of "nullification," said in a speech that they would go so far with nullification and then stop, and Daniel Webster likened it to going over Niagara Falls and stopping half way down. The people are asleep on the brink of Niagara and may wake up half way down; but what good will it do?

Buffalo Bill.

Chicago Evening Post: Boys of the East got their first soul-satisfying knowledge of the deeds of Buffalo Bill from the pen of Ned Buntline, who forty years ago wrote for the New York Weekly. As a youthful favorite the bison-killer and Indian fighter soon put "Wrestling Joe, the Dandy of the Mines," on the mat with three points down.

William F. Cody has been a good deal more than a buckskinned hero of the to-be-continued thriller, the stage and the "Wild West" ring. At the end of the present season he will stop riding and shooting in public and will lead no more parties to the rescue of the passengers of the overland coach. We are sorry that time is forcing Buffalo Bill to turn away from the trail to camp for the rest of his life under the shade of the cottonwoods. He has been more than picturesque; he has been worth while.

When Maj. John M. Burke writes in the Wild West program of the records of his friend and principal's career, Indian familiar that he is, he is not drawing the long bow. Buffalo Bill has an assured place in the history of the winning of the West. His services have been recognized by nearly every commanding officer in the field against Indians since the year 1867, when the Kiowas and the Comanches were raiding Western Kansas.

When the ghost dance craze took hold of the Sioux in the late fall of 1890, Gen. Miles was ordered to the front. He made his headquarters at the Pine Ridge agency in Southwest South Dakota. The soldier sent for the scout and Cody joined Miles just south of the White river. The two rode out together and from a bluff they overlooked the camp of the hostiles, Short Bull and Kicking Bear. A picture was taken of the veterans at that time and for some years it served the somewhat unhallowed purposes of advertising. It is probable now that the picture will remain as the last faithful representation of a scene in America's last great Indian war.

Buffalo Bill is in his last season of active work as a scout in the saddle. It is only a show, but it is a show of truth as it was. The chief figure is to be missing before long, but the picture is one strong enough to last. Let the show proceed.

The Story of Katy Did.

"Who stole my hat?" the tree toad cried,
"Why, Katy did," a voice cried.
"She did." "She didn't," one contradicts.
"Well, anyhow she's in a fix."
The cricket chirped beside the wall,
The insects gathered, great and small,
To sift the matter how or why.
"Get the police," buzzed the fly.
"What's wanted? I'm already here,"
Blue bottle's voice, buzzed very near,
"To catch a thief," spoke up a gnat.
"She's gone and hooked the tree toad's hat."
"She did!" "She didn't!" a chorus sounds,
And great excitement now abounds.
The bumble bee buzzed loud and louder,
Grasshoppers sizzed like burning powder;
The timid roaches hurried by
Quie frightened at the hue and cry,
The honey bees came flying in,
Adding their hum unto the din,
Mosquitoes flew now here, now there,
Trying to find the culprit's lair.
"She's only gone," exclaimed the spider,
"To get some of her friends to hide her!"
The wasp was waiting on the wing,
Ready to use his sharpest sting.
"I always thought her rather queer,"
Whispered the moth in beetle's ear.
"Oh, yes, no doubt she thieved before"—
Now so increased the great uproar,
That granddad toad at last awoke,
He gave a wise judicial croak,
Then hopped upon a stone and said,
"Why, tree toad's got it on his head!"
Judge Toad was counted very wise,
Because he'd learned to use his eyes;
So came this maxim in toadland,
"Look where you leap," I understand.

A New Sensation.

Youth's Companion: Little Jean had visited one of the large summer amusement parks for the first time, and with the courage possessed only by those girls whose playmates are boys older than themselves, she had not hesitated, when invited, to take a ride on one of the "thrillers" that abound in such places.

To her mother, on her return from the park, she confided the emotions she had experienced as she swung around the curves of the "figure 3" with her elder brothers.

"Mamma," she said, "when I went round those awful turns so fast I felt just as if I had freckles on my stomach!"

When Days Are Hot.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Do you realize that the ice water tank you have just drunk from may be swarming with microbes?" asked the fussy health faddist, just as we had finished refreshing ourselves.

"Yes, I do," we answered, defiantly. We mopped our perspiring face as we spoke and attempted to pull our wilted collar together in front for dignity's sake.

"And aren't you afraid of those microbes in the ice water?"

"No, sir; we are jealous of them."

THE YOUNG MAN AT THE DOOR.

New York Evening Post: He comes in modestly and asks for the city editor. He finds the city editor busy. He waits patiently for a lull in the agony of successive editions and presents a letter from his professor of rhetoric. At college he did not write much, his interests lying chiefly in athletics and music. Only he used to read the newspapers and it struck him that it ought not to be very hard to write like that. He felt no particular inward urge towards newspaper work, but there was nothing else he could do. It was summer. Wall street was dead. The book publishing business was dead. Lawyers' offices were running at half speed. Business in general was torpid, and high-salaried men yawned in their offices and looked at the clock. So, thinking there might be an opening on a newspaper, he hunted up the letter from his rhetoric professor, with which by an inspiration he had provided himself before commencement. He did not in so many words say why he believed newspaper offices exempt from the universal summer heaviness, but his idea was, of course, that if one sits down and makes things with a pen, and other people read them, there should be just as large a demand for the product in summer as in winter.

The wise and humane cartoonist of the Chicago Tribune has pictured, in the adventures of Dawson, '11, the Odyssey of the average college graduate in quest of a job. There are few mutations in human fortune that are as sudden and complete as the change from two month before commencement to two months after commencement. The tradition of undergraduate conceit built up by the professional humorists is, of course, ridiculous. The undergraduate suffers from no illusions as to his importance in the real world he is about to enter. He is prepared for the battle of life. But that is where the deception comes. He looks forward to battle, to the stresss and glory of struggle against mighty forces. Repeatedly in song he has vowed to Alma Mater ever to be loyal to her teachings, and never to cease giving battle to the powers of evil. His baccalaureate orator has warned him against the temptations that Wall street holds out to the young man and has exhorted him never to bend the knee to Mammon. When he begins walking the offices he finds that he has been warned against imaginary dangers. Nobody really refuses to give him a job because he declines to be disloyal to Alma Mater or to the best that is in him. In not a single lawyer's office has he been asked to make compromise with the spirit of righteousness. No hardened Wall street broker has offered him a whack ing salary on condition that he immediately bend his knee to Mammon. The trouble is much more prosaic; everywhere they are "full up," and men are being laid off and there is no chance of anything turning up at all until the autumn. The poor young fellow goes out. You can grapple with a hydra or an incubus or a force of unrighteousness, but you can't assault a thin, heavy-eyed clerk who asks you to come back in the fall.

He goes home and ponders with his head between his hands and finds that there is another illusion from which he thought he was free, but he is only half free; and that is the way in which his college education will be useful to him. He was not a fool; he knew nobody would offer him a $10,000 salary on a silver platter merely because he was a college man; he was prepared to compete against the unschooled man. But he did believe that in this competition his college training would stand him in good stead. He had been told so by his professors and by his baccalaureate orator. He had heard it from successful men of business who stood up on the platform and regretted the missed advantages of a college education. And all this was quite true. But what he did not recognize was that it is only well up in the race that a college education begins to count. In a world where men began as bank presidents and ended up as messenger lads, or began as members of the United States supreme court bar and ended up as subpoena servers, or began as chief editors and ended up as copy boys, in such a world the effects of college training would be instantly visible. But in aspiring towards the position of an office clerk, or bookkeeper's assistant, he could not honestly feel that what Alma Mater taught him was of great immediate importance. It was like holding a check signed by Mr. J. P. Morgan, dated July, 1925.

So he tells the city editor that he used to write pretty good themes at college, and that he would be glad to take a very moderate salary. But here the agony of the next edition heaves up, and the city editor flees with an unearthly shriek. The young man goes out quietly, and one is sorry for him, but not too sorry. This is the test by shoe leather which is our modern substitute for the ordeal by fire. Only as he goes out, the thought occurs that in one way his path might be made easier. Why should not commencement day be transferred from the summer to the spring, when fame hides in a bungalow in the mountains, when service finds it hard enough to hold its own end up, and self-respect goes about the hot streets without coat or collar? Commencement day just before the Christmas holidays, when trade is at its liveliest when bankers are busy drawing up the year's accounts, when even the city editor experiences the humanizing influence of the festival season—that would be the eminently proper time to set the young man with a diploma hunting for work.

The Men of '48.

Chicago Tribune: In the death of Anton Hottinger, "father of Lincoln park," not only has Chicago cause to regret the loss of a good citizen and early official, whose foresight and public spirit many generations will have reason to bless. Chicago also has occasion for recalling once more the men of whom Mr. Hottinger was one—the German political emigrants and exiles of '48. They were the stuff of which the best citizenship is made; men who were far ahead of their day in Germany—idealists, patriots, lovers of liberty, who put all to the test, and, failing, fled to a land where already men were free.

In that loss Germany's veins were drained of much good blood, to America's rich gain. The Germans of that generation had a fiery baptism in citizenship in our civil war, and today their children and their children's children are American of the Americans.

There was in this transference of allegiance an allegiance to something higher than nationality, for the Germans who became Americans were but marching forward on the path of their race—a path lighted by ideals of individual freedom and of the dignity and worth of the indivíual. That the free spirit born in the primitive shallows of the northern forests had a fuller and further development in England, under that branch of the Germanic race we call Saxon, did not make it the less Germanic or native to the men who fought absolutism and the cynical reaction of Metternich. In America they were simply taking their proper place in the van of their own race destiny.

It is well for Americans of every strain at this time to consider what was in the strong souls of these Germans of '48 and to consider whether we are making the best of our birthright and theirs.

The Court's Way.

Success Magazine: An associate justice of the supreme court of Patagascar was sitting by a river.

"I wish to cross," said a traveler.

"Would it be lawful to use this boat?"

"It would," was the reply; "it is my boat."

The traveler thanked him, and rowed away, but the boat sank and he was drowned.

"Heartless man!" said an indignant spectator. "Why did you not tell him that your boat had a hole in it?"

"The matter of the boat's condition," said the great jurist, "was not brought before me."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Sounds Good.

Le Seuer News: Wilson will sound all right for a president's name.

A Democratic Misfortune.

Walker Pioneer: About every time the Democrats do something that seems to them sensible, they find out that they have greatly displeased their three-time presidential candidate.

A Sad Oversight.

Fergus Falls Journal: There is one thing which Sam Fullerton and the lunch overlooked in connection with the "Battle of Puposky." They ought to have had a moving picture machine there. This would have shown what a corps of press agents do in a battle.

Congratulations.

Frank Ives in Cass Lake Times: Tomorrow will be our birthday; we shall then have attained the ripe age of 80 years. Some call us "old man" but we don't feel it and take as much delight in the daily round of work as we did fifty years ago. We are going to Thief River Falls today to visit relatives and celebrate the event of being the oldest editor in the state who is in active control of his paper. We expect to remain in control of The Times as long as we are able to dictate its course and to remain in the harness until it begins to gall.

Good Sense, This.

Cannon Falls Beacon: These propositions to so amend the Sherman law as to absolutely prohibit combinations is the height of folly. We do not want to return to competive conditions, and could not do so however much we might wish. The economic advantages of combination have been demonstrated; all we need now is to have combination so regulated as to divert the saving from the pockets of the few to the pockets of the many. And that is what will be done, despite the lamentations of the pessimists and the "view with alarm" of the capatalists.

One Bright Spot.

Bovey Iron News: The Mesaba roads are the only railroads in the state that have not raised their passenger rate to 3 cents a mile. Here is an item in the cost of living that we have it on those of other sections of the state, and for which we are truly thankful.

The Injustice of It.

Stillwater Gazette: Really there doesn't seem any justice in Judge Sanborn's decision that require the average person to pay 3 cents a mile on a railroad while those who have the price can purchase mileage books good for 2,000 miles at 2 cents a mile. That is a case of to him who hath shall be given, which gives the great majority of people the privilege of paying 50 per cent more for a ride than the wealthy, or remain at home. The most good to the largest number calls for a straight 2-cent fare.

The Flitting Governor.

Cannon Falls Beacon: With the care free abandon of youthful irresponsibility the governor of Minnesota is flitting about from one more or less bogus advertising function to another, while the people who pay the bills find it pretty hot work earning the money that his peregrinations cost.

Thanks.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Duluth may have its faults, but it never fails in any big undertaking. This week it entertained the lawyers of the state and had a big water carnival and both events were handled in a manner that gave everyone the biggest and best kind of a time and reflected great credit upon the city and its hospitable and energetic people.

THE FASHION.

One Sunday morn of recent date,
Adown the street with funny gait
A female passed, who gally wore
Contraptions never seen before
On earth.

She had a bucket on her head;
'Twas upside down and garlanded
With vines and flowers, fruits and grass,
Which brushed the faces of the mass
Of people.

Pins bristled out on every side,
Which gouged the eyes and pricked the hide
Of innocent bystanding men.
Oh, what a roar ascended then
To heaven!

Her jacket—no, it was a waist—
Collarless and made in haste—
'Twas full of holes a peek-a-boo;
The wind went through it—glances, too,
Of kids.

For skirt she wore a gunnysack,
Straight up and down in front and back;
Cut off it was above the shoes,
Revealing hose of varied hues
Like rainbows.

And shoes! such things you seldom see;
Outlandish, homely as could be.
The heels were up six inches 'most
And made her look like leaning post
A-wiggling.

On every finger was a ring.
She led a puppy on a string,
That tugged in vain himself to free,
As though ashamed some one should see
Him with her.

Soon may we see the happy day,
When sights like this shall fade away,
And men of honor shall be led
Women of modesty to wed,
Unfrightened.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

J. Pluvius turned loose a bountiful series of showers early this morning and was considerate enough to get busy when most people slept. When the city awoke, Pluv turned in and soon after the hum of industry had begun the sun came out and cheered up the atmosphere. The day is warm and a little sultry. Fair weather is predicted for tonight and Saturday.

The sun rose this morning at 4:42 and it will set at 7:46 this evening, giving fifteen hours and four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Light to copious showers fell during Thursday or last night over Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Northwestern Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Western Missouri, Kansas and Wyoming in connection with the low pressure centered over Manitoba. An increase in pressure over the Dakotas and Wyoming is attended by cooler temperature. During Thursday hot weather prevailed over Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas. At the Head of the Lakes further showers will occur during today, followed by clearing weather tonight."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 28. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Showers this afternoon and tonight; Saturday probably fair, except showers in extreme east portion.

Iowa—Fair in west, showers in east portion this afternoon or tonight, cooler; Saturday fair.

Wisconsin—Fair in west, showers in east portion tonight, slightly cooler; Saturday generally fair.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Saturday.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight, Saturday fair, slightly warmer in west portion.

Montana—Fair tonight, warmer in northwest portion; Saturday fair, warmer.

Upper Lakes—Brisk south shifting to west winds with probably squalls this afternoon and tonight. Showers tonight followed by clearing Saturday.

FRAUDS AT WHITE EARTH

Judge Burch Continues Expose of Swindling of the Indians.

Gus Beaulieu Called "Traitor Steer"—Simon Michelet Criticized.

Washington, July 28.—Chippewas on the White Earth Indian reservation are not capable of coping with white real estate agents and in time the reservation will be wiped out under the law allowing mixed bloods to sell their lands, according to Judge M. C Burch, counsel for the government in 1,100 suits for the recovery of property alleged to have been sold by minors and full blooded Indians.

Judge Burch, who appeared yesterday before the house interior department expenditures committee, described the activities of the agents as a "work of fraud and demoralization." He said he was informed that Simon Michelet, former government agent in charge of allotments on the reservation, was a struggling lawyer when appointed, but, having resigned after seven years of service, "is no longer in the struggling business."

Judge Burch also gave some attention Gus Beaulieu and questioned whether Gus is really an Indian. He called Beaulieu a "traitor steer," a phrase borrowed from the Chicago stockyards, where "traitor steers" are used to guide the fresh arrivals of steers to their destruction, just as Beaulieu is alleged to have delivered the Indians into the hands of the grafters and speculators, while pretending to be guarding their interests.

Judge Burch charged that all the legislation passed by congress since the Nelson act of 1889, Morris act of 1902, Clapp-Lindbergh act of 1908 and Clapp amendments to Indian bills, allowing mixed bloods titles to their lands, is part of a gigantic conspiracy by lumbermen and others to despoil the Indians of their valuable lands and pointed out that hundreds of allottments have been obtained by speculators for a mere fraction of their value by fraud and deception.

COAL STORAGE PLANS.

Fuel Concern to Build Extensive Plants Near Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—The most important industrial plans of the kind ever effected in Minneapolis by which the M. A. Hanna Coal company, the Sullivan Coal company, the St. Paul & Western Coal company and the Minneapolis Coal company will build new yards on Great Northern tracks in the Hoag Lake district of Minneapolis and by which the Northwestern Fuel company will construct a large coal storage plant covering two entire blocks on Great Northern trackage and the Pittsburg Coal company will build on Soo Line tracks and eventually will also enter the Hoag Lake district, were completed yesterday. No such development, it is said, looking to coal storage and distribution, ever was projected at one time in any coal market in the West outside of Chicago.

The Great Northern has instructed P. J. Clarity, superintendent of terminals in Minneapolis to push the work of constructing the yards from Clearwater Junction beyond the city and 550 men are now at work there.

"REJUVENATION OF AUNT MARY"

Watching the Process Brings Unalloyed Pleasure to the Spectators.

Watching Aunt Mary become rejuvenated is becoming a habit with American theater goers.

Each year Miss Robson comes around and tells about a new play for next year. Hopeful and probably in all sincerity, she speaks of the new vehicle in which she is to star, but somehow she can't seem to shake "Aunt Mary."

There is something about Aunt Mary which grips an audience. The sentiment is delightful and the change from pathos to comedy so instantaneous and unexpected that it is irresistible.

Anne Warner, the author of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," watched the play from a box at the Lyceum last evening, and something like 1,200 Duluthians watched it from the pit and galleries, in spite of the fact that Duluth's society was supposed to be at the Orpheum attending "Jappyland." The Lyceum was almost as completely sold out as the Orpheum, and the audience must have been a delight to the company of players, so responsive and enthusiastic was it.

As for Miss Robson—well she is the same Miss Robson that Duluth chuckled with a year ago, and again two years ago. A dictionary of adjectives could be used is describing her as Aunt Mary. She is charming, natural, delightful, pretty, whimsical, and last but not least, amusing in the extreme. Watching Miss Robson rejuvenate Aunt Mary is about as good a form of entertainment as can be devised for theater goers. She can make the proverbial "tired business man" sit up and take notice; can draw chortles of merriment from said T. B. M.'s wife; and can make the children of said T. B. M. shriek with glee.

The same Lucinda is with her again this year—Nina Saville, and Miss Saville's Lucinda is worth seeing if there was nothing else in the performance.

The effervescent Mitchell, in the person of Paul Ducker is also still to be seen, and he makes his part stand out as he did last year, and injects ginger and life into the scenes with the chums.

The role of "Jack" is well handled by Jack Storey, and Fay Cusick makes an attractive Peggy.

The company throughout has been kept fully up to the standard, and judging from last night's reception it will emulate Tennyson's brook and go on forever.

Amusement Notes.

Westropp Saunders plays two roles this week in the production of "A Man and His Wife," which will be presented at the Lyceum theater this evening and for the remainder of the week with Saturday and Sunday matinees. In the first two acts he appears as the butler, a most staid and dignified butler, but in the last act he does a bit of character acting that is as delightful as any seen this season with the Forbes company. Mr. Saunders appears as Jim Mendel from down East, and his make-up and his twang and little peculiarities of speech and manner make the few moments he is on the stage among the most delightful during the performance.

"A Man and His Wife" has as its central theme the thought that money and matrimony are the two most vital influences on a man's life and only in the proper adjustment of these two can he live in peace and harmony. The play is a thrilling one and the bank panic scene is one of intense excitement. "A Man and His Wife" was presented at Superior last evening before a large audience. It will be given at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow and Sunday night, with Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Miller & Mack, the clever dancers, who are delighting the patrons of the Empress this week, are one of the best known dancing teams in America. Just before opening on the Sullivan & Considine circuit, these boys completed a fifty weeks' engagement with Gertrude Hoffman, the well-known star. Miller & Mack were born in Philadelphia and have been chums since childhood. They were employed in one of Philadelphia's large factories and used to spend their leisure time in practicing dancing. At first they had no intention of going on the stage, but merely danced because they liked it.

On the first appearance in public they were greeted with tremendous applause, but thought the audience was "kidding" them until the manager came back and informed them that they were the hit of the show. The boys gradually worked themselves up in the show world until they were booked to appear at Hammerstein's. They were greeted with such applause that they soon became the talk of New York and they were immediately booked by Gertrude Hoffman to appear with her in "The Review," one of her greatest successes.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

OUT THROUGH SMALL HOLE

Prisoner Crawls Through Ventilator in Spooner Jail and Makes Getaway.

Aperture Less Than a Foot Square Large Enough for Joseph Hall.

Spooner, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Hall, who was arrested here last week on the charge of maltreating his wife and who waived examination and was bound over to await the fall term of the district court, made his escape from the jail here yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Helmer of Bemidji had arrived to take Hall to Bemidji to the county jail. When the officer went after Hall in the afternoon he was not there. Escape was made through a ventilator 10½ by 11 inches, seven feet from the ground. The bars in front of the ventilator were wrenched away. It is difficult to conceive how a man could make his escape in such a manner but it is believed that Hall had outside assistance. He fled to Canada.

NORMAL SITE IS NOT YET CHOSEN

North Dakota State Normal Board Adjourns Without Selection.

Minot, N. D., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a strenuous session in which some plain speaking was indulged in, the stae normal board has adjourned without taking definite action on the Minot normal site, and postponed the question until next Tuesday when the board will meet in Bismarck.

The question as to whether the board has the right to reconsider its action in selecting the south hill site will be put to Attorney General Miller. The deeds to the south hill site have been turned over to the state and are on record, and there is a legal question as to whether the board can change the site, even if it wants to.

Threshed Out at Bismarck.

This matter will be threshed out at Bismarck. As the matter now stands, there will be a reconsideration, provided Attorney General Miller holds that the board has a right to reconsider. If the vote is reconsidered, this means that the entire matter will be thrown open again, and new sites will be considered and inspected.

The residents of the south side are going to put up a hard fight to oppose a change in the location. Many of these people have contributed heavily to clear the title to the property selected by the state, and they maintain that the state has assumed an obligation that it cannot get away from. Further than this they claim that the arguments against the south hill site are misleading and many of them untrue, and an effort has been made to prejudice the board.

MINNESOTAN COMES THIRD IN SCORING

Hallock Man Scores 94 in North Dakota Fair Butter Contest.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Tellman of Rosebud, N. D., is the winner of the trophy for the highest scoring creamery butter on exhibit at the North Dakota state fair. His score was 94½. L. A. Gramka of Youngton, N. D., scored 94¼, and A. Rasmussen of Hallock, Minn., 94. Thirty-two butter exhibits scored over 90.

O. A. Storwick of Albert Lea, federal dairy expert, and Prof G. L. Martin of the North Dakota agricultural college scored the exhibits and the former declared that the percentages of North Dakota creameries exhibiting were larger than those shown in Minnesota.

One of the features of this year's butter exhibit, the largest that has ever been shown, was the quality of workmanship. The trophy cup proved a big incentive in securing such a large exhibit of butter.

BARAGA COUNTY MAN MURDERED

Body Found in Lake After Coming to Hancock to Meet Woman.

Hancock, Mich., July 28. — (Special to The Herald.)—John Aho of Herman, Baraga county, was the victim of foul play here, according to the police, after his body, with the neck broken and other indications of his being attacked, was taken from the waters of Portage lake. The man is said to have come here with considerable money to marry a woman with whom he had been corresponding, but on the body was only found 55 cents. Letters in the dead man's pocket show he came to Hancock, Mich., to meet Hilda Aho, a girl who advertised for a husband through a matrimonial agency. He also had letters from three other girls seeking husbands.

Was to Wear Red Tie.

The letter from the Aho girl made an engagement to meet Aho at the Hancock depot Saturday, July 22, his identity to be known by his wearing a red tie and ribbon in his coat lapel. The drowned man wore a red tie.

The police located the Aho girl last night. She denied having met Aho Saturday or ever having seen him, but admitted corresponding with him regarding the marriage. She denied all knowledge of the supposed murder. The girl is being held pending a more thorough investigation of the case.

MENOMINEE BLIND MAN AUTOMOBILIST

Has Completed 1,000-Mile Tour With Friend and Enjoyed Trip.

Menominee, Mich., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Buth, the blind merchant, of this city, has added to his enjoyments the pleasure of automobiling. Mr. Buth has one of the finest cars in the city and has just completed a 1,000-mile tour of Wisconsin, accompanied by his friend, John Kuhnle, who drove the car and other friends.

Mr. Buth is a moulder by trade and it was while at work in a Menominee foundry, many years ago, that he met with an accident which deprived him of his eyesight. He opened a cigar and tobacco store here and has prospered exceedingly. So methodical is he in his ways and so finely has he developed his sense of touch that many people transact business over his counter without suspecting that the affable salesman is blind.

It has been the policy of Mr. Buth to keep abreast of the times and to enjoy himself as other people do in spite of his affliction. When bicycling was the proper caper he rode a tandem, mounting behind his young friend, John Kuhnle, and they were a fine pair, breaking all the local records in three places.

MILL IS REORGANIZED.

Ashland Flour Plant Will Be Operated Again.

Ashland, Wis., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ashland Flour Milling company has been reorganized and put upon a sound basis and is to be opened and operated by experienced milling people.

The concern has been a paying proposition and upon the death of the late Senator Stout the estate desired to settle all business matters and demanded payment of a $10,000 mortgage which they held against the company. The demand brought matters to a focus and after considerable negotiation H. H. Pagel of Stevens Point and A. O. Wright of Menomonie, the secretary of the old company, agreed to take over the plant and organize a new company, pay the mortgage and other debts and take care of the Ashland stockholders so that they would not lose by the transfer.

At the meeting Wednesday over two thirds of the stock of the old concern was represented in person or by proxy and they voted unanimously to accept the proposition of Messrs. Pagel and Wright and to wind up the affairs of the old company.

Under the arrangements made all the preferred stock is held by Messrs. Pagel and Wright and the Ashland stockholders receive stock in the new company to the amount of fifty per cent of their present holdings. The arrangement is a happy solution of the present difficulty and brings to Ashland Mr. H. H. Pagel an experienced flour milling man, who will devote his entire time to making the mill a success. Pagel is a stockholder in the First National bank of Stevens Point and one of the best and most public spirited citizens.

It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this:

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. Today there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend. —Sam Hoover, Progress, N. C.

GROWING GIRLS NEED A TONIC

When They Become Thin and Pale If Proper Development and Healthful Womanhood Is to Be Assured.

Poverty of the blood, scientifically called anæmia, is common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors and makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized. Taken in time the disease is readily curable, the specific being a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body.

Mrs. Nellie E. Roscovius, of Tulalip, Wash., was strong and healthy until her fourteenth year when she went into a rapid decline. For the next year she suffered from anæmia and was not cured until she gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. She says:

"When I was fourteen years of age I went into a decline and was miserable for a year. I had not a particle of color and my blood was turning to water. I was very weak and could not walk up stairs without great effort. I had dizzy spells and headaches all of the time and was compelled to leave school.

"The doctors pronounced my trouble anæmia but I did not receive much benefit from them. Through a neighbor, who had given her daughter Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I began their use. After a short treatment with the pills I was stronger. I quickly regained my health and strength and have had no occasion to use the pills since."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is successful because it acts directly on the blood, purifying and building it up to its normal health. It thereby keeps the body healthy even under unusual conditions.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for a copy of our free booklet, "Diseases of the Blood."

POLICEMAN'S LOT UNHAPPY

London Bobby Makes Protest Against the Humanitarian Authorities.

Bits of Old Tires, Loaded, Found Effective With Hooligans.

London, July 28.—For years it has been notorious that although the London police are in many respects the best in the world that they have been sadly handicapped in dealing with roughs and crooks by the fact that they were inefficiently armed, their only weapon being a short pocket baton, which they are allowed to use only in circumstances of extreme danger.

After the Houndsditch affray with armed foreign burglars an agitation was fruitless, but now the police are arming themselves in secret. Firearms on account of the cost and difficulty in concealing them have not been adopted, but weapons which can be used to quite as deadly effect and leave no mark are now carried by the police in rough neighborhoods. This dangerous weapon is just a few feet of loaded gutta-percha such as is used for carriage tires. It is more dangerous than a sandbag and in the hands of a large London bobby it becomes quite a formidable weapon and will lay a rough out before he can get time to draw his pistol or knife. And the constables use it freely now; they are beginning to realize that their superior officers are extremely short-sighted and hold views entirely too Utopian to be put in practice on a Whitechapel beat.

Inadequately Armed.

"It's like this," said a constable the other day. "We are armed with a short truncheon about a foot long and we've got to keep it out of sight in our pockets. We are supposed never to use it unless we are practically in danger of our lives. The authorities don't allow us any latitude—they tell us we are intelligent fellows, but all the same they don't allow us any private judgment at all. Every magistrate who has a court in a low-class district knows or ought to know that the police are always being damaged by the hooligans. Yet if a hooligan is found with a bump on his head, we've got to go through what they call the third degree in America. That makes us shy of using what bit of a weapon we have got, and so we have either taken to using the bit of rubber on the quiet, which leaves no traces, or taking the chance—really it's more a certainty than a chance—of getting mauled now and then. Now if we had a good stout stick or something like that, fairly effective and dangerous looking, it would be a lot better for everybody. In the first place, it would make the roughs afraid of us and if it didn't we could make them afraid with it and at the same time the public wouldn't have to pay for the unkeep of so many men on the sick list—which, of course, means the damaged list.

Force Discontented.

"What we want is to be put on the same level as the police in New York, not only with regard to arms, but with regard to uniforms and general treatment. There is a lot of discontent all through the force because we don't get light enough clothes for summer wear. They give us a uniform for hot weather, but it's hardly any different from the winter one, and naturally these hot days it makes us feel pretty wild with the authorities. Inside the ranks we look on our administrators with a great deal of respect, for all of us know that as organizers they are first rate, but on this question of arms they seem to have muddled badly. We are having to solve the problem for ourselves, and we have done it as well as any commissioner with a title as long as my arm would have done. These swells who boss us generally come from the army, and they really haven't any idea how to clear the street of factory girls or stop a roughs' fight. We have, because we've had actual experience, and that's why we invented the gutta-percha weapon and put it to good use, while they were writing reports and making inquiries at Scotland Yard."

Unique Management.

An interesting feature of the London force is its unique management. The metropolitan police is a government department and is on something like the same footing as the army. It is managed direct from the home office by the secretary for home affairs. The metropolitan police area extends for a radius of twenty miles—roughly—round the center of London. The office of the commissioner of police—the title of the chief of the force—is quite an important one. Before the royal processions Sir Edward Henry, the present commissioner, rode up and down the route with even more show than Lord Kitchener, who was in command of the military arrangements for the day. Despite the fact that most of the constables were on duty for stretches of longer than twelve hours, the entire police arrangements were perfect throughout the recent festivities.

A great deal of amusement was created over the arrangements for feeding the police on duty at the coronation. Each man was provided by the authorities before he went on duty with a slab of plain chocolate, three or four patent concentrated nutritive biscuits and a box of special thirst-quenching tablets. The comments on this gift by the men were mordant.

"Dog bite 'em," wrathfully exclaimed a huge red-faced policeman in the crowd. "Do they think we're a lot of kids? Wish they choked with it."

Then he exhibited a huge package of meat sandwiches, a veal and ham pie and other condiments from his deep pockets, including a great bottle of cold tea. "That's food!" he roared, and took a huge bite out of the pie.

MULATTO IS WEDDED

To White Girl By Chicago Justice of Peace.

Chicago, July 28.—The arrest of Robert Arantz, wanted by the Omaha authorities, revealed another marriage mill which is being operated in Chicago by a country justice.

Arantz, a mulatto, July 15, married Mabel Warren, 16-year-old white girl with whom he had eloped from Omaha a few days before. The ceremony was performed by Edmond R. Polk of La Grange, a justice of the peace, who has offices across the street from the county building.

The girl's husband, who is not yet 20, told Police Inspector Hunt after his arrest, that the justice had married them "with no questions asked," and charged him $3.50. Two negroes acted as witnesses. Arantz was a saloon porter in Omaha when he became acquainted with the little girl who is now his wife. She is the daughter of J. A. Warren, a master mechanic in the railroad shops of Omaha.

When she first met Arantz the girl and her friends believed him to be white. Becoming infatuated, she readily consented to an elopement.

MATCH FOR SWINDLER

London Chemist Gets Even With Sharper Posing as American.

Couldn't Tell Difference Between Bicycle Bell and 'Phone Bell.

London, July 28.—King George's coronation and the hordes of visitors that have come from all parts of the world to London to see it brought in their train a plentiful supply of crooks, a great many of whom are reaping a rich harvest by confidence tricks and other devices. The most astonishing part of it is that nine time out of ten it is the old, old trick that works so well in gammoning the flats. Occasionally, however, the sharper meets his match and a refreshing case of this has just come to light here.

A chemist named Warner was sitting in his shop in the Tottenham Court road the other evening when a hansom drove up and a smartly dressed American tumbled out of it into the shop and asked for a pick-me-up, explaining that he had been knocking about town all day and was quite used up. Warner supplied him with a drink, during the quaffing of which he noticed a very fine gold ring on the stranger's little finger. When the drink had disappeared, the American put his hand in his pocket and not finding there what he expected, began a vigorous search all over his person for some cash, but without any solid result. He then asked the chemist if he would accept a check.

"Sorry I can't do that, sir," said Warner. "To begin with, it's 5 o'clock and all the banks are closed, and in any case, I make it a rule never to take checks from strangers."

Offered Ring As Security.

"Quite so," replied the American. "Well, will you accept this ring in payment?" Saying this he drew off the gold ring, at the same time asking the chemist to advance him $10 on it, to enable him to get home.

Warner took the ring to the back of his shop and subjected it to an acid test, which it stood quite well, but wishing to be on the safe side he sent it to a jeweler down the street with the request that he value it for him. The jeweler returned it in a few moments, saying it was worth about $5. Warner therefore handed $2.50 to the stranger, who left, saying he would come back in two days' time and redeem his ring.

Warner put the ring in his pocket and forgot all about it until three days after, when happening to turn his pocket out for something he came upon a singular green object among its contents, which on examination proved to be the American's ring. He looked at it ruefully, put himself down as a "mug" to have been taken in so easily by such an old device, and decided to say nothing about it. His $2.50 was gone, never to return, anyway.

About a fortnight after that, the son of a saloon keeper who lived a little way down the street came over with a note saying that a stranger had tendered a gold ring, which was inclosed, in payment for a drink, and asking Warner to test it. It was identical in appearance with the one that had taken him in a fortnight before, and a plan of revenge immediately suggested itself to him. He sent a message to the saloon keeper asking him to send two men over with a few cents each to purchase something in the shop and then to tell the stranger that if he would come over he would advance him $10 on his ring, hardly dreaming that the man would fall into the trap so easily. However, in a few minutes, in the man walked, and the chemist, making signs to him to indicate that he did not wish to conduct such private business before the other two customers in the shop beckoned him to a room behind, which had a door leading into a shed where Warner kept his bicycle. Just as they got into this room the chemist, making an excuse that he had to go to the telephone, slipped out into the shed, leaving the door ajar.

Imaginary 'Phone Talk.

He then rang his bicycle bell vigorously for a second and commenced an imaginary telephone conversation.

"Is that you, Inspector McIntyre?" he asked in low tones. "will you come round at once with two policemen? I'm single-handed and I've got the man here who swindled me over that ring a fortnight ago. Right, good bye."

Warner went into the next room and found his man had attempted to skip, but had been stopped by the two men in the shop.

"Now then," he said, taking out his watch. "It's just five minutes' walk from the police station here, and you hand me over that $2.50 you swindled me out of the other day, or off you go into quod when these two policemen arrive. I know I'm compounding a felony, but I'll risk that. Now, then, quick."

The American protested, blustered and swore, but he saw he was fairly cornered and finally handed out the coin and prepared to go.

"Stop," said Warner. "I haven't quite done with you yet. I must have another half dollar to square these two policemen when they come." At this the American brought up fresh batteries of cusses and swears, but they were quite unavailing, and, throwing down the half dollar he left the shop, black with rage. As he reached the door, the chemist called out to him:

"And if you can't distinguish between a telephone and a bicycle bell, it's not my fault!"

INDIANA GIRL RESCUED

From Death By Brakeman, Who Lifts Her to Engine Pilot.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 28.—Fannie Vaught, aged 15, stepped from the side of a watchman's house on the Vandalia track at Paris, Ill., as a freight train approached at 15 miles an hour. Brakeman E. O. Brake was on the pilot of the engine.

Reaching out he caught and lifted her so that the momentum of the engine brought her against him with such force that both were thrown against the boilerhead. Neither was seriously injured.

"She seemed to be dazed," said Brake. "Her head bumped my jaw and it was all over in a minute. I am mighty glad it was not worse.

ENEMIES NOW LEFT BEHIND

Fondest Wish Granted When He Sails on World Cruise.

New York, July 28.—James G. Hammond, aged inventor of typewriters, had his fondest wish granted last week, when he was able to sail from America and business worries aboard the Lounger II, a gasoline yacht built to his own design.

For years Mr. Hammond intends to rove the seven seas, secure from annoying relatives and designing employes. But few men have had so many enemies as Mr. Hammond. Because of his generosity to employes, relatives, it was charged, had the millionaire inventor spirited away to a sanitarium on his 69th anniversary. They declared he was insane. It cost Mr. Hammond no little money and worry to prove the allegation unfounded.

Mr. Hammond was accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Holmes, his nurse, masseur, chauffeur, his pet dogs, a canary and his big phonograph.

By the time he is 100 years old Mr. Hammond expects to come back and live ashore. Then he will present his boat to the government as a model of marine architecture. The Lounger II is 95 feet long, 16-foot beam, has a draught of 3 feet and can make a speed of 15 knots under sail and power.

WHAT HE REPRESENTED.

Los Angeles Times: Mayor Gaynor, at a dinner in New York, was discussing a divorce commission that had been appointed in a neighboring state.

"But, sir," said a reformer, "I note a bachelor on this commission. What is the good of a bachelor on a divorce commission?"

"Oh, said Mayor Gaynor, smiling, "he represents the co-respondents."

EXCEEDED ITS POWERS

City Had No Right to Molest Powder House Outside Limits.

Lower Court Reversed—Personal Injury Case Also Thrown Out.

Three St. Louis county cases were decided by the state supreme court today.

The most important was in the case of the city against Frantz D. Orr of the DuPont Powder company. The city attempted to prosecute him for maintaining a powder house within a mile of the city limits, and the supreme court held that the city had no right to do so.

The power and jurisdiction of a city are confined to its own limits and to its own interna concerns, according to the decision in which the order of the lower court is reversed.

In February, 1900, Duluth adopted a city charter in which was a provision regulating the use of explosives within the city, or within one mile of the city limits. It is held that the city of Duluth had no authority to legislae beyond its corporate limits, even though the control of such territory and people would be convenient and gratifying to the people within the city. The syllabus:

A city, adopting a charter for its own government under the constitutional and statutory authority, is not authorized to extend its power and jurisdiction to territory and residents outside the boundaries of the city.

Reversed.

Opinion by Justice Simpson.

The second case was that of Patrick F. Murphy, respondent, vs. Duluth Crushed Stone company, appellant.

While acting as engiher on a self-propelling steam hoist, for the purpose of testing whether the hoist would hold when stopped on an incline track, it was discovered that it would not hold, but skidded back down the track, and the plaintiff jumped off and was injured.

It is held on the undisputed evidence, the plaintiff was familiar with the conditions, and the deendant was not negligent in directing him to operate the hoist without giving him further instructions.

Held, also, that plaintiff assumed the risk of operating the hoist under the circumstances.

Reversed. Opinion by Justice Lewis.

The third case was that of W. J. Laughren, respondent, vs. M. W. Barnard, appellant. The syllabus follows:

"1—A written contract by which plaintiff leased or hired to defendant certain horses for a specified term, construed and held to have imposed upon defendant an absolute obligation to return the horses to plaintiff in as good condition as when received, and not as creating an ordinary bailmen imposing upon defendant the exercise of reasonable care.

"2—The measure of damages for the breach of such a contract, by a return of the horses in an injured and damaged condition, whether the injury be permanent or temporary, is the difference between the value of the horses when delivered and their value when returned, the diminution in value, if any, being caused by the injury, and not the natural decline in the market value.

"3—Assignments of error considered and held to present no ground for reversal.

Order affirmed.

Opinion by Justice Brown:

The following from Itasca county —W. J. Powers, et al, as W. J. and H. D. Powers, appellants, vs. James Sherry, Carrie Sherry, Charles S. B. Bunnell, George Becker, Mena Becker, et al, respondents.

A suit to redeem part of a tract of land sold under foreclosure.

Judgment affirmed.

Runaway at Funeral.

Oconto, Mich., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A serious accident was narrowly averted at the funeral of the late G. C. Morrow. Horses attached to a carriage containing three ladies became frightened at a passing train and bolted. The hack was overturend but the occupants fortunately escaped without serious injuries.

MOTOR TO GOLF MEET

Duluth Golf Enthusiasts Leave for State Tournament at Minneapolis.

Northland Club Will Be Represented By Strong Team.

R. T. Goodell, R. S. Patrick, E. P. Alexander, R. P. Dowse and several other golf enthusiasts of the Northland club, left today in an automobile for St. Paul. The state tournament will open Monday at Minneapolis, and there will be many other members of the club leaving tomorrow and Sunday.

Represented by such players as R. T. Goodell, R. S. Patrick, E. P. Alexander and Mayer Cullum, it is believed that the Northland club will make a very good showing in the tournament.

It is expected that Mr. Goodell and Mr. Patrick will make a very strong showing in the play for the state championship, which is held by Harry Legg of Minneapolis.

The Duluth players have been practicing very hard for the state tournament with the view of making the best showing that the local club has ever made.

While neither of the local championship events have been played through as yet, and will not be until the return of all of the Duluth players from the tournament, the red card contest will be the feature of the play at the Northland club tomorrow.

Chairman Bagley of the games committee has requested that all players who have been taking part in these contests be present for the play tomorrow afternoon, as it is expected that one of the best contests of the series will result.

BOATS WILL RACE AGAIN

Two Speedy Motor Boats Will Settle Question of Supremacy.

Program of Water Sports Will Be Held at the Boat Club.

One of the big events of the season will be held tomorrow afternoon at the main house of the Boat club. First of all there will be a meeting between the two fastest motor boats at the Head of the Lakes, the Little Bob, owned by Julius H. Barnes, and the D. B. C., the speed wizard that is the property of Richard Schell.

In the first race between these two boats last Saturday, "Bill" Jones, driving the Little Bob, made a mistake in rounding one of the posts near the grand stand. He wanted another race and got it. The race tomorrow is expected to determine definitely the faster boat and should be a great test of speed.

In addition to the race between the motor boats there will be a fifty-yard swimming race in which the entries extends to all the best swimmers in the city. The making of this event a free for all has brought in a large list, and a great contest of skill should be the result.

There will be canoe races and sailing races, and to cap the program for the afternoon, there will be the third race between the ladies' war canoes.

The first race between the Reds and Blues was protested and ordered paddled over again. The second race, held during the last day of the carnival, resulted in a victory for the Reds by a scant yard. The contest is sure to be exciting and filled with interest.

DULUTH EIGHT WILL NOT ROW UNTIL SATURDAY.

A telegram received this morning from A. A. Michaud, coxswain of the Duluth crew at Saratoga, stated that th eintermediate eight-oared races would be rowed Saturday, with the senior events. This will mean that the Duluth boys will not compete until tomorrow, unless a four is sent into one of the events.

The message also stated that everything was well with the Duluth crews, that the men were feeling fine, and that the prospects for a good showing were the very best.

License Suspended.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28.—The second class pilot's license of Capt. Frank Moon, master of the steamer Seabreeze has been suspended for thirty days by Capt. F. L. R. Pope and William P. Nolan, United States steamboat inspectors for the alleged violation of the law prohibiting unnecessary sounding of the steam whistle on a vessel while in port. In the testimony before the local inspectors it was brought out that Capt. Moon was guilty of the offense in the harbor at Charlotte, and the federal authorites made this ruling.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The first performance of "Jappyland," the dainty musical comedy given at the Orpheum last evening for the benefit of the Children's home by local talent, proved the professional ability of Duluth's young people in an event of this kind. It was one of the most beautiful productions ever witnessed here and the audience which filled every seat of the pretty theater was insistent with its applause and praise. The opera went with a smoothness and professional finish hardly deemed possible in an amateur company and H. E. Coats, who staged the opera, and his assistant, Miss Thelma Gilmore, have received many compliments today on their success.

With a simple little plot built up with an admirably arranged collection of specialties the performance runs from one tuneful, catchy number to another.

Miss Thelma Gilmore in the prima donna role of "Sang Foy," an American heiress in Japanese disguise, won her audience on her first number and remained a favorite throughout the evening, being greeted with insistent applause on each entrance, her clear, beautiful soprano voice and easy grace of dancing winning for her many encores.

Leading Tenor Role.

Ralph Errolle, who took the leading tenor part, that of Carl Neville, an American lover of Sang Foy's who goes to the Island of Dreams with a yachting party in search of his sweetheart, was also one of the most favored soloists of the evening. He has a magnificent tenor voice which he knows how to use and his numbers were greeted with such enthusiastic applause that he was forced to respond to many encores. His solo "La Donna E. Mobile" from Rigoletto, which he sang in Italian costume was perhaps his best number.

One of the prettiest features of the play was the singing of Mrs. Ralph Errolle in her part of "Dorothy," a rich New York girl, who is a member of the yachting party. Mrs. Errolle was, before her marriage last spring, Miss Marie Clark of this city and her ability as a singer is well known in social and musical circles here. Her singing last evening delighted the audience and she responded prettily to repeated encores in all of her numbers.

George Suffel sang the part of Capt. Nelson with his well known ability and although he was hardly what might be called an ardent lover, his voice blended so beautifully with Mrs. Errolle's in their duet number, "Love's Confession," in which he is accepted by "Dorothy," that his rather half-hearted embrace and anything but tight clasp of arms about her was easily pardoned.

Philip Gordon Brown made a magnificent emperor of the "Island of Dreams" and his make-up was such a complete disguise that it was not until he commenced to sing that the audience was able to place him. He sang his part beautifully and received a generous share of applause.

Graceful Dance.

Miss Marie Agatin as leader of the fairies in the opening scene contributed a graceful fairy-light dance number for which she received tremendous applause and her duet dance with James A. McLennan was also one of the best numbers. Both of the dancers in the latter number in gorgeous Chinese costumes, were exceptionally good and well supported with a chorus of maidens dancing in the background.

Mr McLennan also danced a duet number with Miss Patsey Ann Epperson of Louisville, Ky., which "brought down the house." Mr. McLennan was the butt of much good natured "kidding" which rather "fussed" him much to the delight of the crowd of his friends who occupied front row seats and the audience insisted that he respond to a curtain call which he was very loath to do. Miss Epperson was charmingly graceful and sang and danced in a most professional manner. Her solo the much loved "Hero" song took very well too.

Miss Elcey Cole made a most regal empress in a magnificent oriental costume.

Miss Frances Burris sang her parasol number with ease and a most pleasing voice and a chorus of six flirtatious girls in dainty costumes of black and white sang and danced "Underneath a Parasol."

Miss Barbara Rumley was charming in her song and dance number and abandoned herself to it with an ease and grace truly professional. Her chorus too, in brilliant red costumes made a pretty picture.

Miss Jean Wanless sang a quaint little Japanese number with a chorus of six Japanese maidens which was very well received.

C. Herbert Smith as "Ban-Ko" the matrimonial agent had a pretty solo number with a chorus of little girls who were most light and graceful which took well.

Another number which is deserving of special mention was the Spanish chorus in which twelve dashing senoritas in dazzling costumes executed a brilliant dance lead by Miss Gilmore.

All of the choruses did their work with cleverness and ease and the entire evening was free from hitches and mistakes common in amateur affairs.

H. W Plerong, manager of the Orpheum theater who had already donated the use of the theater for this evening's performance has added tomorrow afternoon to the donation and an additional matinee performance will be played at that time in order that many who have been unable to secure seats for the evenings will have opportunity to go. The prices have been cut for the afternoon show.

The audience last evening was composed of Duluth's society folk who turned out in full evening dress and enjoyed every moment of the show from the opening fairyland scene to the last strains of "America" with which chorus the show was brought to a close. The audience rose during the singing of the national song and many joined with those on the stage in the singing.

The play will be repeated this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

THE EVENING STORY

THE OTHER WOMAN

By Vincent Beach.

"I wish the storm would burst," said Helen Lake wearily to her friend, Lelia, who was pensively watching the heavy black clouds from their bungalow window.

"So do I, for the heat is so oppressive, and, besides, you know how frightened I am of the thunder. I want to get the ordeal over."

Lelia Johnson looked once more to the westward as she spoke and the sun sinking behind some angry clouds let a beam escape from its hiding place, and for an instant Lelia's eyes were dazzled by the brilliance. Her face was sad and pale, while the chestnut hair, with its clusters of curls, made her large blue eyes seem shadowy and mystical.

"Lelia, dear," said her friend hesitatingly, "do you ever hear anything of Harry King since your engagement was broken off?"

"Nothing. I only know that he went abroad—I believe to be married. I never inquire."

"Is that why—why he sent you that cruel letter?"

"Yes," answered Lleia, a tiny sad smile curling the corners of her lips at Helen's faltering indulgence of her besetting sin. "But I would rather not talk about it now. It opens old wounds, and I came here, to this tiny fishing village, to forget a little of the pain."

That night the promised storm broke over Harlam in all its fury, and in the isolated bungalow the two girls were a little frightened. It was Helen who owned the Cot, as the abode was called, and had invited Lelia there for a few weeks' rest.

She thought of those at sea as the thunder rumbled and growled, and the horizon was every now and then lighted by flaming lightning.

Presently a lantern flashed over the windows, and, to Helen's horrified amazement, she saw a number of fishermen enter the garden gate, and an instant later a loud knock sounded at the front door.

The sight that met her eyes made her shudder with sudden fear, for the men, clad in oilskins and southwesters, from which water ran in rivulets, were carrying what appeared in the uncertain light to be stretchers. They were talking in low voices, which instantly paused as the front door was thrown open. "Sorry to disturb you, miss, but there has been a bad wreck out past the bay, and only two have survived, and we have brought them here, your bungalow being the nearest."

Mechanically, Helen held open the door, and the men, accepting the silent invitation, carried their precious burdens into the welcome shelter.

It was the work of a moment to rouse Lelia, and in a very short time the girls had prepared their respective rooms for the visitors. The woman was given into Lelia's charge, while Helen, who had had some hospital experience, tended the man. As he was being placed on the bed by the men, he stirred slightly, and the light from the lamp fell upon his face. Helen started back in dismay. "Harry King!" The words escaped her lips before she could control them. Once alone, she drew the wrappings, soaked with the sea, away from his head.

"Yes, it is he!" she whispered to herself. "I wonder whether you know who is under this roof? Lelia the girl whose heart you broke. She must not know, though it will be a hard fight to prevent it."

Twenty-four hours were spent by the girls in weary and anxious watching for the Reaper strove hard to claim the two souls for His own. The fishermen declared that the woman claimed the man as her husband before lapsing into oblivion. The night following the storm found no change in either of the patients, and Helen, as she sat at Harry King's bedside listening to the difficult breathing, wondered how the grim fight would end.

She lapsed into a reverie, out of which she was suddenly startled by the man raising himself up in bed. "Lelia, come back to me! Lelia, dear, won't you come to me?" he called wildly in his delirium.

Helen tried to soothe him, but her attempts to silence the well known voice and its pathetic pleading were too late, for the door had opened Helen stared for a moment in dumb agony at her friend, who was swaying slightly as she paused in the doorway, her hand upon the lintel.

"I heard him call my name," she said unsteadily; and even as she spoke the voice rang out again! "I am drowning! Where is Lelia? Oh, I can't see! I thought Lelia was there, but she has gone!" Tears were streaming down Lelia's face, and the sobs shook her. Helen came quickly to her side, and placing her arms round her friend, she drew her from the room, and shut the door.

"Dear, don't think of it," Helen said, feeling that her advice was very practical.

"Yes, you are right, but I shall think of Harry until I am ill and dying, like the woman who is his wife, and whom I am trying to save for the man I love," she replied wearily; and rising from her seat, she went back.

That night, tired with nursing and nervous anxiety, Helen fell asleep at last, if a fitful doze can be called by so comforting a name. She stirred uneasily as the grandfather clock in the hall struck 1, opened her eyes, and stifled a yawn. To her astonishment, he was breathing quietly, and as she bent over him his eyes flickered, and slowly opened.

"Where am I, and who are you?"

"Hush! You must not talk," whispered Helen, her heart beating quickly. "You were shipwrecked, and brought to my bungalow. Your wife was also saved," she added.

"My wife?" the man repeated weakly.

"Yes, your wife is here, and quite safe," reassured Helen.

"But I have no wife!" was the startling assertion; and the eyes closed again in sleep, for the short conversation had exhausted the invalid's strength.

"No wife!" echoed Helen to herself, a wild hope springing within her.

Six weeks passed by—six weeks of tireless nursing, and at last the two girls were rewarded by victory, and the Reaper, vanquished, no longer hovered over the cot. "Out of danger, both of them, thanks to you two young women, who to judge by your nursing have both missed your vocation," said the little doctor, beaming at them over his spectacles. The girls smiled in answer. The doctor, seizing his hat, bid them a cheery good bye.

"Well, Leila dear, they are out of danger, and well enough to suit the most critical person, considering all they have gone through," said Helen.

Lelia did not answer for a moment. "Yes, they are well, and soon Harry will be able to go his way, as I must soon go mine. Those six weeks have been mingled pain and pleasure. Now that I know that he is not married, and that his companion in misfortune is a Mrs. Thompson, I do not know whether I am glad or sorry. Supposing, Helen, supposing he does not love me?" And the girl clasped her friend's hands.

"Supposing he does love you, Lelia, what will your answer be?"

"What it is, and what it will always be," was the reply.

A few days later, Harry King was installed in an invalid chair on the tiny lawn behind the cot. He was thin and pale, and was gazing wistfully at the mountains towering, as it appeared, out of the sea. A blue dress fluttering in the breeze attracted his attention, and he peered through some bushes to gain a better glimpse of its owner, and as his wish was granted he saw Leila of old carrying a basket. Why was she here? Why had he not been told? The blue dress suddenly disappeared, and the click of a garden latch drew Harry's attention to the gate, and then, with the sun lighting up her glorious hair, and her cheeks flushed with the sea air, Leila and Harry were face to face after one long year.

"Leila!" he whispered, and held out his arms.

For a second the girl hesitated, then something in the man's eyes told her all she wanted to know, and with a little glad cry she knelt beside the chair and was gathered into the haven of his arms.

"Harry," she said, after a few minutes, "why did you write me that letter?"

"Because, darling, I wanted you to think me a blackguard! I thought it would make you forget me. There was no other woman, dearest. There has never been anybody but you. When I cut myself off as I thought for ever from happiness, I did so because I did not want you to marry a man whose brother was a forger." Tears came to Leila's eyes.

"Where is ——?"

"He is dead. Providence claimed him before his crime was discovered."

The Nursery

Care of Baby's Clothing.

A hanger for a baby's clothes can be made from a piece of a small white enameled curtain pole about twenty inches or twenty-two inches long, finished at each end with a small brass or white knob, to which may be tied, with rosettes or bows, the ribbon hangers. A row of brass screw hooks are fastened in the pole for the little clothes. A brass ring is also caught through ribbon at the top for hanging. If plain ribbon is used the words "Baby's Clothes" can be painted or embroidered upon it.

Washing Up.

As soon as the baby's bottle is emptied it should be washed at once with cold water. When the milk has been washed out of the bottle with cold water rinse it with hot water and then use a bottle brush until the glass is sparkling. After rinsing it again fill a basin with cold water and let the bottle stand in it until it is wanted for use. At the same time turn the rubber nipple inside out and clean it thoroughly. Let it stand in a glass of cold water until it is wanted again.

The Tender Little Head.

It is necessary when washing an infant's head to remember how delicate and sensitive the scalp of a child is. A baby's head should be washed every morning with good soap, and it is important to rinse the hair and head properly with clean water and to dry it with a soft towel very gently. The very softest brush that can be obtained is the right one for baby when there is hair enough to brush, and no comb is needed.

ON THE IRON RANGES

NOW FACING NEW CHARGE

Girl in Case Having Disappeared Rebrovich Faces Another Charge.

Now He Is Accused of Trying to Kill His Successful Rival.

Eveleth, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Rebrovich, who is alleged to have tried to kill Miss Frances Derovich because she would not marry him, is now facing a new charge. He is accused of trying to kill George Krobich, his successful rival in the girl's attentions. The charge of trying to kill the girl by placing dynamite under her bedroom has been dismissed, as the girl has left town and the state, and will be joined later in Michigan by George Krobich. She feared to leave her new address, as she believed enemies would kill her and her future husband.

The police believe they will be able to furnish sufficient evidence to bind Rebrovich over to the grand jury Tuesday, when he has a hearing, as it is said he recently waylaid Krobich and attempted to kill him with stones and other missiles. Rebrovich only recently started work after being out of employment for a year, and was unable to raise his bonds of $500 and was accordingly remanded to jail. It will probably be necessary for the court to furnish him with counsel, as he is in straitened circumstances.

May Try to Locate Girl.

Should the state fail to win the case Tuesday, it is very likely efforts will be made to locate the Derovich girl and prosecute the first charge, that of his attempting to take her life.

Miss Derovich and her fiance, George Krobich, were to have been married next week. Their coming marriage was announced twice, as is customary in Catholic churches, and plans had been completed for the wedding when the girl's home was dynamited. She stated shortly after the explosion that she would be unable to marry Mr. Krobich, fearing that they would be unable to live together safely for two days, as her life had been threatened by enemies of the couple.

FARMING NEAR AURORA PAYING

Farmer South of Town Clearing Land and Prospering Nicely.

Aurora, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. Hautala of south of town has demonstrated conclusively that farming pays well in this vicinity.

Last year Mr. Hautala cleared four acres of land on his farm. In doing this work he purchased $60 worth of dynamite, fuse and caps, besides expending considerable labor on the piece of ground. This year he put three of the four acres into potatoes and the other acre into mixed crops. He states that one-half of the crop from these four acres will more than pay for all the money and labor used in clearing the land.

Mr. Hautala intends to clear about six acres this fall and recently purchased $85 worth of explosives to use in the work.

TWO EVELETH MEN CANNOT BE FOUND

Friends Believe Either Lost or Have Jumped Town to Beat Bills.

Eveleth, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Phillip Socrates and Joseph Germ, formerly employed at the Malta mine, may be lost in the woods about six miles from Sparta. Some friends believe they left town to escape paying a board bill at Ignas Russ's boarding house.

The two left the Malta mine early Wednesday morning after being unable to secure employment at the mine and reported they were going hunting and picking berries in the woods near Sparta. After being missing all day Wednesday friends from the Malta location went in search of the missing pair, but their efforts proved futile. Yesterday afternoon the Schley and Malta mine whistles were started blowing in the hopes that the missing men, if they are in the woods, will be able to hear the noise and guide their steps accordingly.

MURDER SCENTED IN RAHIER CASE

Belief Grows at Bigfork That Homesteader Was Intentionally Killed.

Bigfork, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The latest development in the case of George L. Rahier, the homesteader found killed near here is that he was murdered instead of accidently shot for a deer as first claimed. This is strengthened by the result of the post mortem conducted by Coroner Herried and Dr. Hanley of Deer River which disclosed Rahier was shot twice and by a revolver instead of a rifle.

Harry Phinney, assistant county attorney, is here from Deer River looking into the case.

H. A. Rahier cashier in the M. & I. freight depot at International Falls, a brother of the deceased is also here and proposes to leave no stone unturned to run the guilty ones to cover.

Two Men Are Suspected.

Suspicion points strongly to two men, who, it is said, are known to have been enemies of Rahier and have had trouble with him before.

It was first thought that Rahier was shot while bending over and that the bullet entered his head and came out under his arm. The post mortem examination by the doctors showed instead that he had been shot in the head and again under the arm, the latter bullet passing through the lung and emerging at the other side. Both wounds were caused by a .38 caliber revolver bullet. Coupled with the fact that the body had been dragged some distance and partly concealed behind a windfall makes the murder theory the only plausible one.

SECTION 30 HAS QUIT SHIPPING

Property Near Ely Will Continue to Raise Ore Onto Stockpiles.

Ely, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Section 30 mine shipped its last ore from the mine this summer yesterday, according to the mining officials. This is said to be the result of the company not being able to sell any of their ore. The mine will continue, however, to hoist and dump the ore on their already large stockpile.

The news that it would discontinue to ship ore was not unexpected here, for it was expected about two weeks ago. This is expected to put the open pit out of business, too, until better prospects for the disposal of the ore is presented. The pit is about 200 feet across and almost as deep. They dump the ore from the pit in a chute and it is hoisted up with the ore dug up by the miners.

BUILDING ELY ALLEY

To Conform With Recommendation of Board of Health.

Ely, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city is constructing a new alley at the lower part of the city, between Main and Camp streets. This alley is being constructed at the recommendation of the board of health. The residents here throw all of the refuse on the ground, as the scavenger cannot get by, and so lay the pails furnished by the city for that use, as there is no road by which they can get close enough to them. They are at work now for a few days, and before they will be through it will be necessary to move a few sheds and barns which are right in the center of the proposed alley. This used to be one of the worst places in the city. With the completion of this road, it will be quite a saying in time to the delivery men, for they will not have to go three blocks out of their way to get in touch with a few houses.

NEW EVELETH SCHOOL WORK STARTS SOON.

Eveleth, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Excavation work on the new Fayal school of ten rooms facing McKinley avenue will start next week under Contractor John Donland of Superior, the building to be completed by Jan. 20, the contractor receiving $35 each day for completing the work before the time limit and forfeiting $35 per day for each day after Jan. 20.

School directors are being visited by applicants for the principalship made vacant by the resignation of Arthur M. Cannon of Shelbyville, Ind., who will be principal of the new Hollilday high school in Portland, Or., next term.

JURY AWARDS HIM $1,975

Verdict for That Amount Rendered After Deliberating Long Time.

John Pebrich Given Considerably Less Money Than He Sued for.

Hibbing, Minn., July 28.—(Special to the Herald.)—John Pebrich who risked his life trying to rescue a fellow workman from being killed by an explosion in the property of the Leetonia Mining company and sued the company for $15,000 damages because he sustained the loss of an eye and other injuries from the blast was awarded $1,975 by the jury that heard the case before Judge Dibell in the district court.

Hard Time Agreeing.

The jury deliberated on the case about twenty-seven hours before reporting a verdict about 10 last night, which under the orders of the court was sealed and read in open court this morning. Twice during its deliberations the jury came into court to receive additional instructions and once told the court an agreement looked impossible but the twelve men finally agreed on the amount stated.

The man whose life Pebrich sought to save from the impending blast was killed and Pebrich's suit for damages for the injuries he sustained gave him and the case much notriety in this section and it was call a "hero case."

Virginia Burying Ground to Care for Bodies in Winter.

Virginia, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Greenwood Cemetery association proposes to erect a vault at cemetery capable of accommodating 60 bodies with a provision for 150 if necessity requires. The object of having this vault built is to take care of the bodies in the winter time when the weather is so severe that it is almost impossible to excavate ground for graves, the bodies to remain in the vault until the frost is out of the ground in the spring.

The vault will be provided with a vestibule where the mourners and friends may go while the bodies are being stored away. The association has also provided a house in which a fire will be kept during the winter months to protect those who go to the cemetery when the weather is cold or stormy.

NORTHWEST GETS A SOAKING RAIN

Head of the Lakes Country Receives Another Thorough Drenching.

Duluth got another good soaking rain last night, and Duluth was not the only part of the Northwest to benefit.

The local weather bureau reports a rainfall of .84 inches, which, translated into popular parlance, means a good, drenching downpour. The rains were widespread through the Northwest and covered all of Minnesota and Wisconsin, Eastern North Dakota, practically all of South Dakota, and a large part of Iowa and Kansas.

Last night's rain puts the total rainfall for the year ahead of the normal figures, and July to date is far ahead of the normal.

The forecast is for fair and warm weather tonight and tomorrow.

GLADSTONE GIVEN NEXT TOURNAMENT

Upper Peninsula Firemen to Meet in That City During Next Year.

Bessemer, Mich., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is thronged with people attending the annual tournament of the Upper Peninsula firemen and the various races and tests of skill are being watched with interest by excited and enthusiastic partisans of the different participants.

It was voted to hold next year's tournament at Gladstone, and the following officers were elected: President, J. J. Ellis; first vice president, L. Voetsch of Houghton; second vice president, Ernest Dear of Ironwood; treasurer, G. J. Murray of Michigamme; secretary, T. J. Flynn of Negaunee.

Yesterday was a memorable day for Bessemer and all who visited here on that day. Three thousand tickets were sold on the Chicago & Northwestern road for Bessemer, and the little city was a lively place.

All the different churches sold lunches and warm meals and every accommodation that could be made for the visitors was made. The rain the first of the week hindered the progress of the preparations and the races could not be held on the scheduled time.

Aeroplane Big Card.

The aeroplane was the chief attraction. This was placed in an open field west of the city and a demonstrator explained the machine in the afternoon about 5 o'clock. It is known as the Curtiss bi-plane and weighs when the aviator is in his seat about 1,000 pounds. It has an engine of sixty-horse power. James J. Ward, the famous bird-man, who went over 6,000 feet in the air this week at Hastings, Neb., made three excellent flights between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening. Thousands of people witnessed the flights. Never before has there been such a thing seen in this part of the country. A large crowd of people came from Ashland.

Results of Races.

Regulation hose race—Iron River, first, time 20 3-5 seconds; Gladstone, second, time 23 seconds.

Regulation hook and ladder race—Red Jacket, first, time 23 3-5 seconds; Ironwood, second, time 24 seconds.

Couplers' race—Iron River, first, 4 1-5 seconds; Wakefield, second, 6 4-5 seconds.

The judges were: F. Lhane, Michigamme; Ed Campbell, Soo; J. N. Mitchell, Hancock; Henry Werner, Lake Linden; and E. R. Bayliss, Bessemer.

The timers were: J. F. Finnegan, Verona; J. Lacey, Ishpeming; and William Rintenback, Hancock.

William Martin of Bessemer was starter.

In an exciting race this morning Ironwood won, the result being as follows: Ironwood, first, 65 2-5; Mohawk, second, 66 1-5; Red Jacket, third, 67 3-5.

MERCY FOR EMBEZZLER

Railroad Collector Cheats Death and Gets New Opportunity.

Given Chance to Retrace His Steps and Health Restored.

Kansas City, Mo., July 28.—It was indeed a tangled web that the great, unseen forces wove about Charles W. McDonnell.

The Master of Human Destinies knocked unbidden at his gate. McDonnell was feasting and he failed to rise. He was sleeping and did not awake. Opportunity passed on.

Death peered into the window. McDonnell laughed defiantly.

Justice stalked in and took her dues.

Then Fate, the trickster, stepped in, cheated Death, tempered Justice and made of Opportunity retrace his steps over the trodden cities and fields, the hovel, mart and palace and knock again at McDonnell's gate. And the man so buffeted about by the powers that be for their amusement, seized his second chance.

Fate is laughing now.

The man is hopeful.

When Opportunity Came First.

For a year and a half McDonnell had been collecting bills for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad company. His hours of leisure he devoted to gaiety—the brightly lighted places where all was animation. That was the feast that Opportunity could not tempt him to leave.

All through his devotion to the bright lights, McDonnell was keeping within his income. But Excess began to pay off in sorrow on the investment of energy it had received from the day worker and night spender. McDonnell began to reap the whirlwind. He lost weight. A cough came, stayed, grew worse.

Death Looks In.

"Quick consumption," the doctor said. "Only a few weeks to live. I'm sorry."

Death had looked in.

"You can't scare me," McDonnell said to the face at the window. "If I've got to die, I'll die, but I'm going to have a good time in those few remaining weeks of life. Watch me go."

He started. A few weeks later, May 1, he was arrested. The railroad accused him of having stolen $2,100 in collections. Every cent of the stolen money had been spent. A diamond ring and stud, for which McDonnell had paid $230 were the only tangible evidence of the good time he had had.

The Second Chance.

May 7 McDonnell pleaded guilty, Judge Latshaw sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary. He was too ill to go. They took him to the county jail, supposedly to die. Justice had collected.

Enter tricky Fate. Two months and a half of jail life cured the cough and restored the lost flesh and health. A few days ago Judge Latshaw paroled McDonnell. A position paying $75 a month has been obtained for him. Under the terms of his parole he must pay the railway company half of that wage every month until every cent of that stolen $2,100 has been repaid. Four times a year he must report in court to Judge Latshaw. If he fails, a bond of $1,000, signed by Charles and Joseph McDonnell, relatives, will be forfeited.

Opportunity, who returns no more, for once came back and knocked again.

SPENT MONEY LAVISHLY

In Bohemian Circles—Body May Go to Potter's Field.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 28.—Unclaimed in an undertaking establishment in this city is the body of Mrs. Carolyn Hazelton, of New York, who in life was possessed of means that enabled her to spend money lavishly and be a leading spirit in the Bohemian life of Europe and America.

Death, it appears, took away a $25,000 annuity, and she had lived so close to the margin that not enough remains to pay for decent burial.

Mrs Hazelton, who was 65 years old, but who had a mania for cosmetics that gave her a youthful appearance, died at the Hotel Raleigh. A young companion has disappeared and there is no one to carry out her dying wish that her body be cremated and the ashes scattered to the winds from the top of the Statue of Liberty.

Among her acquaintances, it is said, were Mrs. Frank Leslie and Vallin, the celebrated pianist.

CUYUNA GRANTS SOLE LICENSE AT HIGH FIGURE.

Cuyuna, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the recent council meeting Charles Peterson, the proprietor of the only saloon, was again granted the sole saloon license. The annual cost was raised from $500 to $1,000.

Frank Buchanan's services as street commissioner were discontinued.

OHIO MURDERER OF TWO DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Columbus, Ohio, July 28.—Cletus A. Willaman, who killed his wife's father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Koons in Stark county, was electrocuted in the Ohio penitentiary here shortly after midnight.

Attended by his guards and about twenty physicians, Willaman was marched to the electric chair at 12:02 o'clock a. m. Just before the electric current was turned on, he exclaimed "God have mercy on a sinner."

After two applications of the current the condemned man was pronounced dead.

It was the theory of the state that Willaman killed his wife's parents in order to come into possession of their property. He was not quite 30 years of age.

Last day tomorrow. Take any suit in the house for $10 at the 3 Winners.

MILWAUKEE COUPLE HELD ON MURDER CHARGE.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—Weak and tottering, Mrs. Mary Novkovic was half shoved, half carried before Judge Neelen in district court. The attitude of Pavlow Mrvaowic was resolute. Both were charged with murder in the first degree for killing Stephen Novkovic.

MEDICS ARE CALCIMINED

Worman Is Again Pitching Star; Holds Enemy to Four Blows.

Sox Gather Two Runs Off Reynolds' Twirling By Hitting in Clusters.

Yesterday the Sox took the second game of the series from the woe-begone Medics, brushing over the wire a winner by the score of 2 to 0. Red Robert Worman was again the pitching star, this being the second offense for Robert within the past four days. On July 24 the auburn-topped one held Superior to one measly blow.

The story of the game is simple and to the point. The Medics could not hit Worman and the hitting of the locals was tinely. Hits were bunched in two innings and in these two innings sufficient runs were scored to win the game.

In the second, the first run was gathered. Miller doubled up against the right field fence. Altermott struck out and Kramer was safe on Dunn's fumble of his grounder, Miller taking third on the play. Hargrove hit a dinky infield hit which Miller beat to the plate.

But three hits were gathered off the twirling of Reynolds from the second to the eighth inning. In the eighth the Sox bunched two more hits and scored their second run.

After Miller had struck out, this on top of making three hits, and Altermott had flied to left field, Kramer singled past third base. Hargrove drove the ball to deep center for two sacks. Kramer galloping home on the clout.

The visitors did not threaten once during the game. They never got a man past second, only three of the Medics reaching second during the course of the contest. Errors upon the part of the visitors marred their play.

PIRATES BEATEN IN LONG CONTEST

Second Game of Series Goes to Superior By 2 to 1 Score.

In the present series between Superior and Winona there is a desperate fight on for the league leadership. Yesterday's contest went thirteen innings, the Red Legs finally winning out by the score of 2 to 1. The game was desperately fought from the start to finish and was one that at times brought the spectators to their feet.

Dunbar held the Pirates to six scattered hits and twirled great baseball all the way through. Ballilles started for the Pirates, but was taken from the mound in favor of Dauss, who pitched from the ninth inning on. Continual wrangling with Umpires Jones and Lyman marred the game.

ASKS THAT TIME BE EXTENDED

John J. Gleason May Yet Become Officer of Boston Team.

Boston, Mass., July 28.—The deal by which John J. Gleason of San Francisco is expected to acquire a large minority interest in the Boston National baseball club and to become its vice president, hangs fire, although Gleason's option was due to expire yesterday. He wired President W. H. Russell from New York asking for an extension which was granted. President Russell says Gleason made the request for personal reasons and that he has no reason to believe the San Francisco man will not buy the stock.

MANY CARS PENALIZED.

Run Into Great Falls, Mont., Tough One for Automobilists.

Great Falls, Minn., July 28.—The Twin-Helena automobilists left here this morning for the last run of the trip—to Helena, about ninety miles.

With Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, blazing the trail, the automobilists arrived here last night.

Pilot Harrington and his crew overworked and mud-spattered, after having traveled to within twelve miles of the Canadian line, were willing to quit for the day. Mr. Hill's machine had been loaded on the train at Malta, but hearing of the sad plight of the touring party, he ordered it taken off. The motor again started and Mr. Hill marked the way, bringing in the bedraggled tourists here last night.

Having negotiated the hardest part of the journey yesterday and having covered 210 miles, the motorists took Great Falls by storm last night. Many cars were penalized. At almost every station after leaving Malta, the hotel special train was flagged to repair a broken car.

The scheduled route was greatly changed yesterday owing to bad roads

FORMER BALL PLAYER MAKING A FORTUNE AS AN EVANGELIST

"BILLY" SUNDAY.

The baseball managers are after "Billy" Sunday, an oldtime player. They want him back in the game and he could easily get $500 a month from one of the major league teams. But "Billy" is making fourteen times as much working as an evangelist. His methods are crude, but popular, and it is figured that he profits $2 every convert he makes.

REGATTA AT SARATOGA

Oarsmen Battle for American Rowing Honors on Historic Lake.

Match Between Riley, Saratoga Veteran and Ten Eyck Is Abandoned.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 28.—Saratoga today experienced a revival of the once famous regattas on Saratoga lake. Over a mile and a quarter straight-away course scores of oarsmen were prepared to battle for America's rowing honors, today's thirty-ninth annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, marking the fifth time that championship contests have been decided on the lake.

A match race between James P. Riley, the Saratoga veteran, and James T. Ten Eyck, the Syracuse 'varsity coach, had been considered one of the possibilities of the regatta, but was abandoned.

Canada sent the pick of her scullers to compete in several of the events, thus lending an international interest to the occasion.

Nominations for the championship singles included a quartet of well known oarsmen—John W. O'Neill of Halifax, Samuel F. Gordon of Philadelphia, Fred Shepard of New York, and Lou F. Sholes of Toronto, but the last will not compete. O'Neill, a winner in 1909, is one of the fastest amateurs who ever sat in a shell. Shepard, with Fred Fuessell, has been in the winning senior doubles for two years, and Gordon, the Vesper sculler, won the association senior singles last year.

Shepard and Fuessell have entered in the doubles in the hope of winning for the third successive time, and Fuessell planned to start in the quarter-mile dash, the fourth event on tomorrow's program. It was in this event last year that he rowed a dead heat for second place with E. B. Butler, of the Toronto Argonauts.

With the exception of the quarter mile dash all the races today and tomorrow will be over a mile and a quarter course.

Today's events, which were scheduled to begin at 3 p. m., with half hour intervals, included intermediate single scull shells, (association), intermediate four-oared shells, intermediate double scull shells, champion senior single scull shells, and senior four-oared shells.

James D. Denegre of St. Paul, Minn., is the referee of the regatta.

The Duluth Boat club will start in the intermediate eight-oared race, and while James E Ten Eyck refuses to advance any opinion as to the chances of the Westerners, the Duluth eight will be watched very closely.

It is generally believed that the crews entered in the intermediate class are faster than ever. This seems a season when eights all over the country are fast, and coaches and rowing experts who have watched the crews in their workouts, have given it as their opinion that the race will be a close one.

In their workouts the members of the Duluth eight have showed form and power. The Western men are heavy and strong, and here the opinion prevails that if the stroke of the Duluth men is smoothed down before the race and they can get their boat away fast and keep a comparatively high stroke going evenly and together, that they will be a very dangerous combination.

The Argonauts of Toronto are the favorites for the intermediate eight event. The Toronto men always send a strong crew to the National, and coaches who have watched the eight sent here this season, are of the opinion that it is one fully up to the standard.

The Rockrimon club of Springfield, Mass., and the Nalias of Philadelphia will also compete in the intermediate event. The race is expected to be one of the best eight-oared races that has been held at any of the National regattas for years.

McGraw Suspended.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28.—Manager John McGraw of the New York Nationals received notice from President Lynch that he had been suspended for three days because of his verbal attack on Umpire Johnstone during the game here Tuesday. McGraw was on the field during the game when he received the telegram notifying him of his suspension.

Semi-Finals Reached.

Lake Forrest, Ill., July 28.—Semi-finals were reached in the Western Tennis tournament this afternoon at the Onwensia club in all events except the men's singles, in which Conrad D. Boyle of Washington, D. C., and C. M. Bull, Jr., of New York, are scheduled to play their fourth round match this morning.

Two matches were played in the fourth round of the men's singles, besides the victory scored by C. M. Bull of New York in playing off his the tenth Heath Byford of Chicago. Walter Hayes of Chicago furnished a surprise when he easily defeated his fellow townsman Harry Waldner in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

BREAKS ARM IN TRAINING MATCH

Juseff Hassan Suffers Injury While Training With Champion Frank Gotch.

Humboldt, Iowa, July 28.—Juseff Hassan, who is said to have been the most valuable man in the Gotch training camp, suffered a broken shoulder during a bout with the champion late yesterday afternoon.

After fifteen minutes of fast work Gotch secured a half-Nelson and a crotch hold on the Turk, who was thrown heavily to the floor, Gotch landing upon him with all his weight. When lifted to his feet, the Turk's arm hung helpless at his side. His injury, which is similar to the one Abe Attell suffered in the ring a few months ago, will keep him off the mat for months, and will also seriously retard Gotch in his training.

NEIL SNOW IN DULUTH

Former Michigan Athletic Star Comes Here on a Lake Trip.

Neil Snow of Michigan, the greatest end the Wolverine institution ever turned out, and a member of Walter Camp's All-American team, is in the city on a short visit. Mr. Snow came up the lakes and will remain here but a day or so.

Snow played his last year at Michigan under Fielding Yost. That season Yost used Snow at end on defense and at full back on offense, so powerful a line hitter was the big Michigan man.

In addition to being perhaps the greatest lineman that Michigan ever turned out, Snow was one of the greatest all-round athletes that the West has ever produced, ranking right along side of big Ed Merrill of Beloit.

Snow was the best high jumper in Michigan and also entered in all the weight events. In addition to this he was one of the greatest outfielders in the Western baseball field and received numerous tempting offers to turn professional baseball player after he graduated.

The big Michigan man comes of a football family, his brother playing at Michigan before him.

GOTHAM TO SEE SOME BIG MILLS

New State Boxing Law Will Permit World's Championship Fights.

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—Under the provisions of the new boxing commission law in this state, which will go into effect within a few days, there will be no more chance of police interference with boxing bouts. Ten rounds will be the limit, as formerly, but licensed clubs can arrange matches between the foremost pugilists in the profession.

A battle between Jack Johnson and Sam Langford, should they agree to meet, could be decided without opposition from police headquarters. The doors of the club will be thrown open to the public in general instead of to members only, and the state commission will have absolute authority to permit or prohibit decisions by referees.

Purses hung up for competition can be divided on a winner and loser basis, and forfeits can be posted to guarantee weight and appearance. Already one big club, which is practically sure of a license, has arranged to put on Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, and Fireman Jim Flynn some time in September. It is understood that these men have been guaranteed a purse of $15,000, of which Morris will receive the lion's share, win or lose. Five per cent of the gross receipts will be turned over to the state commission to defray expenses.

PAPKE AROUSES MANY PROTESTS

Fighter's Say Kewanee Man Has No Right to Claim the Title.

Chicago, July 28.—In assuming the middleweight title, left by the untimely death of Stanley Ketchel, Billy Papke has stirred up a storm of protests among the men in his class. The latest addition to the pugilists who claim recognition is Joe Thomas of San Francisco, who was beaten by Ketchel. Thomas has not taken part in many fights in the last year, but has been in light training at his Mission Athletic club in San Francisco. Thomas declares he has as much right to the crown as Papke, and that he is ready to prove it. In Chicago Tony Caponi is making the same plea as Thomas.

Boxing enthusiasts are awaiting with interest the arrival of Tom Jones, manager of Ad Wolgast, in Milwaukee today. Rumor has it Jones and Wolgast are at outs because of the match made by Ad with McFarland. Jones was in Los Angeles when the articles were signed between the two lightweights at Milwaukee, and is said to have strenuously objected to the champion making a match with Packey except with the weight 133 pounds ringside.

For Golf Championship.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Chicago and Pittsburg will clash in the semi-final matches today for the amateur golf championship of the West. Each of the four men who will compete on the Detroit Golf club's course for the honor of reaching the finals, is a champion or an ex-champion—each has been a strong favorite since the commencement of the tournament. Robert Gardner of Chicago, Yale athletic and ex-national champion, and W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburg, is the national amateur champion.

Kathryne Is Winner.

Oshkosh, Wis., July 28.—The sixth annual regatta of the Lake Butte Des Morts Yacht club was won by Kathryne of the Butte Des Morts club, Menasha of the Menasha Yacht club, second; Gretchen of the Neenah Nodaway club, third. Senorita of the Oshkosh Yacht club, was disabled by a broken spar. Today and Saturday the fourteenth annual regatta of the Oshkosh Yacht club will be held on Lake Winnebago. The historic Fikete" cup will be the prize Saturday.

Lincolns After Games.

The Lincolns are looking for gamts. They would like to arrange a game with the Twin Ports, and the Towers of Superior. Games can be arranged by telephoning Albin Olund, Melrose 2144. Address 615 Twenty-sixth avenue west. Next Sunday the Lincolns will meet the fast Bingham Juniors of Superior on the latter's grounds.

The real property in the county is valued at $720,000,000, while the personal property is estimated to be worth $652,710,448, or a total of $1,372,710,448.

BROWN PACER ACTS BADLY

After Winning Two Heats Vernon McKinney Goes to the Bad.

Manitoba Horse Gives Excellent Exhibition Only to Fall Down Later.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 28.—Repeated misbehavior on the part of Vernon McKinney, R. J. Mackenzie's great brown pacer, yesterday lost his owner the long end of the Comstock $5,000 purse for 2:12 pacers.

After the Manitoba horse had impressively won the first and second heats, the first in 2:03¾ and the second in 2:03¾, the fastest time stepped in harness this year, he went entirely to the bad. Leading into the stretch in the third heat, Vernon McKinney broke into a run which lasted almost to the wire and resulted in his being placed sixth. In each of the two ensuing heats, he repeated this performance and victory was easy for Branham Baughman. Murphy's Sir R., which gets third money, never threatened to win. The time, it was announced from the stand, is the Grand Circuit record for a five-heat pacing race.

It was a bad day for followers of the Geers flag, the distancing of Akar in the big stake race and the poor showing of The Huguenot in the 2:14 trot being the cause of considerable disappointment.

The Huguenot, strongly backed as the favorite in this race and a greatly fancied candidate for the M. & M. honors at Detroit next week, acted badly throughout. Almost directly following the start of each of the three heats, he broke badly and failed to finish better than fifth in any trial.

Akar appeared out classed in the stake race, finishing sixth in the first heat and drawing the distance flag in the second.

The only victory of the day for Geers was in the 2:05 trot, which Hallworthy won in two straight heats with Oro, the favorite, just a stride behind all the way.

The 2:14 trot went to Chatty Direct in straight heats with Densmore, or Oxford Boy, Jr., close up all the way.

The first heat of the 2:17 pace was a joke, won by Dora J. in the slowest time of the week, 2:15¾. Murphy, driving Longworth B., Snow behind Eddie Dillard and Hogan, Rose C.'s pilot, were each fined $100 for not driving to win. They cut loose in the next heat, clipping 9½ seconds from the mark for the previous heat and Eddie Dillard won in straight heats from then on, the slowest in 2:10¾.

Today's program, the final, includes the weight handicap free for all pace, an innovation in the Grand Circuit.

VETERANS NOT ILL-TREATED.

Report Is Made on Investigation Ordered By Taft.

Washington, July 28.—A report branding as false in every particular the charges that 50,000 disabled volunteer soldiers of the Civil and Spanish wars in the national soldiers' homes in various parts of the country receive neglectful and inhuman treatment, has been made public by President Taft. The report is from J. W. Wadsworth, president of the board of managers of the national homes. Gen. Wadsworth says the old soldiers in general are contented and enjoy such degree of happiness as is permitted by their disabilities and unavoidable separation from relatives.

The charges were brought to the attention of President Taft by the United Spanish War Veterans at their Poughkeepsie, N. Y., encampment and he immediately instituted an investigation. The food supply of the old soldiers was reported to be insufficient in quantity and inferior in quality. This, Gen. Wadsworth said, was untrue.

Some Black Rust.

Regina, Sask., July 28.—Deputy Minister of Agriculture Mantle says that reports coming to him indicate black rust in many portions of the Saskatchewan wheat fields, but that so far it has not become an alarming feature.

SHE SETTLED CASE FOR $50

And Now Miss Nickander Claims Railroad Agents "Browbeat" Her.

Is Suing for $10,200 Damages in United States Court.

Alleging that the injuries she received on February 6, 1910, while a passenger on the Northern Pacific train from Aitkin to Duluth, were of a serious and permanent nature, Miss Bessie Nickander has brought suit against the company in the United States court for $10,200. The case is now on trial before Judge Morris and a jury.

In her complaint she sets forth that at the station of Ude, the car in which she was sitting was derailed and she was hurled about in the car, with the result that she received serious injuries.

In answering, the company admits the derailment of the car, but alleges that it had paid her $50 on Feb. 7, the following day after the accident, and that she had given a receipt for the same.

In replying to the answer, the plaintiff alleged that the agents of the company took her to a hospital in Duluth and kept her there, without giving her permission to see her friends or to notify them, and that while there they "browbeat and intimidated" her, and taking advantage of her ignorance of the English language forced her to sign a document, the meaning of which she did not understand.

The case was started yesterday afternoon, when a jury was drawn, and the first evidence was given today. Herbert Spencer and F. W. Hall are the attorneys for Miss Nickander, and Oscar Mitchell, of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, is appearing for the Northern Pacific.

The sealed verdict brought in yesterday afternoon in the case of The Liverpool & London & Globe Insurance company against Herbert N. Harding was opened this morning before Judge Morris and read. It was in favor of the defendant. The insurance company sued Harding for money paid as a loss upon a risk which the company had assumed through Harding as its agent. The company alleged that it had ordered Harding to cancel a policy upon the risk, but that Harding had failed to carry out its orders. In the meantime the house burned and the company had to pay the loss. Harding claimed that he had received the order but that the due course of law had to be carried out, with which he was complying.

EXPRESS RATES ARE INVESTIGATED

State Commissioners Are Holding Hearing in Chicago.

Chicago, July 28. — Sharp verbal clashes between representatives of express companies and shipping interests marked the opening of the nation-wide investigation of express rates by a committee of railroad commissioners here. It was contended, on behalf of the shippers, that the graduate scale of rates is unfair, that there should be a more reasonable time limit within which claims against express companies for overcharges can be collected, and that the contract system between express companies and railroads should be subject to severe scrutiny.

Staples Is Chairman.

"There has been more or less complaint against the express companies in all parts of the country and it is our purpose to find out what fault, if any, exists," said Charles F. Staples of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, chairman of the committee.

Besides Commissioner Staples, members of the committee include O. F. Berry, chairman of the Illinois railroad and ware house commission; Alfred Erickson of the railroad commission of Wisconsin; O. P. Gathlin, chairman of the Ohio railroad commission; and E. S. De Pass of the railroad commission of Arizona.

CLOQUET CITY CLERK IS DEAD

J. A. E. Grenier, Who Has Four Sisters in Hibbing, Dies.

Cloquet, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. A. E. Grenier, city clerk of Cloquet, died at 12:30 today following an illness of five months, from a complication following inflammatory rheumatism. No funeral arrangements have been made, except that they will be under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus of Duluth.

Mr. Grenier was 41 years old and had lived in Cloquet since childhood. He leaves a wife, his parents and several sisters. He was a member of the local lodges of Eagles and Woodmen. Four sisters, Mrs. Close, Mrs. Dees and Nora and Ethel Grenier reside at Hibbing.

WANTS COPIES OF TARIFF REPORTS

House Authorizes 5,000 of Data on the Cotton Schedules.

Washington, July 28.—During the discussion in the house today of the cotton tariff revision bill, Democratic Leader Underwood asked that 5,000 copies of the report on the cotton bill be printed. Republican Leader Mann suggested that this would be rather expensive.

"When the president has said $200,000 was spent by a tariff board to gather information for him," replied Mr. Underwood, "there ought to be no objection to spending a few hundred dollars so that this house may have the benefit of the information gathered by the ways and means committee."

The issue was authorized.

Mr. Underwood, in explaining the bill said:

"We do not propose a radical reduction. We hope to reduce every tariff schedule before we get through to a revenue basis, but not in a radical way."

AN AMERICAN DUCHESS.

Los Angeles Times: The Duchess Decazes, as all the world knows, was an American — a daughter of the enormously rich Singer family.

The duchess was once taking part in some amateur theatricals at Ragaz when a New York girl said to her mother:

"Is she a real duchess?"

"Yes, my dear," the mother, a Knickerbocker, answered. "Yes, real, but machine-made."

One of the First Women Reporters Fighting to Keep Her Fortune

NELLIE BLY, OR MRS. ELIZABETH SEAMAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Seaman, who is better known to the world as Nellie Bly, is going through an extraordinary experience in the courts of New York. Mrs. Seaman was one of the early women reporters. She made a trip around the world which gained some fame for her and also did some sensational stunts for a New York paper. Then she married Mr. Seaman, who was an elderly, wealthy man. He was engaged in making metal barrels or cans. Mrs. Seaman continued the business under the name of the Ironclad Manufacturing company, and also established another business under the name of the American Steel Barrel company. Recently the Ironclad company was thrown into bankruptcy and efforts were made to put the other company in the same position. It developed that Mrs. Seaman's financial troubles were due to forgeries by which employes of her company obtained large amounts of money from banks on checks signed with her name. Two of these men were indicted and Mrs. Seaman is fighting to preserve her property from absolute ruin. A curious thing about the affair is that the checks on which Mrs. Seaman was robbed of her wealth were cashed by a bank in which she had no account. Mrs. Seaman claims to be able to manage her own affairs and is fighting all efforts to have her removed from that management in the interest of the creditors.

HOUSING THE WORKINGMEN

American Princess Builds a Model Paris Apartment—Yearly Rents for Flats Range All the Way From $44 to $82.

Paris, July 28.—Two years ago a big corporation in Paris erected a little workingman's city for the benefit of its employes. Now an individual, a society woman and an American, the Princess de Polignac, nee Singer, has been instrumental in building a double apartment house, the first of a series, for the families of the laborers who have hitherto been housed in the crowded, squalid quarters of Paris which are hot-beds of disease and moral corruption.

Princess de Polignac has an absorbing love for music and devotes a great deal of attention to art. In her hotel on the Avenue Henri-Martin she is surrounded by every luxury, yet this condition has not sapped her energy in bettering the lot of the less fortunate. When the idea came to her that she would like to remedy the tenement evil, she approached Comte d'Haussonville, of the French Academy, who is so competent to give advice on the question of the working man, and the famous architect Vandoyer. The present building is the outcome of this consultation. Ground was bought near the fortifications, far from the center of the city. The building is a marvel as far as hygienic principles are concerned. It is constructed of white brick with borders of colored brick and stone trimmings.

Little attention has been paid in Paris to the housing of the laborers. Napoleon III. had projects of a model workingman's city with comfortable homes at a cheap rental which under his reign never matured. The republic has taken thirty years to think about it, but the Princess de Polignac has set the example by building a desirable home for the poor. An innovation is the arrangement whereby each family, for $4 a year, can have one of the sixty-five little gardens that are spaced off and divided by fences. An ornamental fountain in the center serves for drinking purposes and also supplies water for the plants. Here they can raise vegetables and flowers, and the children have a safe playground away from the dangerous public thoroughfares.

The building has four staircases which have double handrails, one at a height for the young children. There are sixty-five apartments under its roof. Everything is of brick and iron as a precaution against fire. The rents vary from $44 to $82 a year. The flats at $44 a year have one bedroom, a kitchen which is large enough for a living room, and a large clothes closet. Those at $72 have two bedrooms and a large kitchen, and for $82 one can have two bedrooms, a dining room and a large kitchen with ample closet room. The rooms are bright and airy and each contains a pretty mantelpiece. On the left side of the court are a shed for the tenants' bicycles, a place for the baby carriages and a room expressly for the washing of clothes which are afterward dried in the open air. On the right side of the court is a room containing the baths and shower baths, adjoining which is a doctor's office for consultations. Two shops are on the basement floor, one of which is to be occupied by a baker and the other by a grocer.

NAMING THE PULLMAN CARS.

Indianapolis News: The mystery of the namings of the Pullman sleeping, dining and parlor cars was explained to the members of the state board of tax commissioners today by J. D. Ferguson, representating the Pullman company.

"One of the by-questions always asked me whenever I lay myself open to questions concerning the business of the Pullman company is 'Who names the cars?' It is popularly supposed that some one is employed by the year to name the cars. One report is that the employee is a woman and that she is paid $5,000 a year for the work

"The Pullman cars are named by the clerk who happens to be in charge of the naming department when a car is to be named. There is something of a system in naming them. I recall that all the cars of one line are named for flowers. Another is named from a line of ancient Egyptian kings. Other names are chosen haphazard. At any rate no one is paid $5,000 a year for naming them. If the company were paying that and got the kind of names it does, I would, to say the least, have my own idea about the returns on the outlay."

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

Los Angeles Times: "Uncle Joe" Cannon, at a dinner in Washington, said of speakers' errors:

"All speakers make queer errors now and then. Usually, though, they correct them with address.

"Once, in the Illinois legislature, there were two men, Montague Harrison and Harrison Montague. The first was very short, the second very tall; but the speaker during a debate once addressed the former as the latter.

"He recovered himself, however, quickly. He said with a chuckle:

"'It is strange that I should take Harrison Montague for Montague Harrison—that I should make such a mistake as that—for there is as great a difference between you two gentlemen as there is between a horse chestnut and a chestnut horse.'"

ACCIDENTALLY TRUE.

Los Angeles Times: "There's many a true word spoken by accident," said F. Hopkinson Smith, the noted author and artist, at a dinner in New York.

"I dropped in at a picture sale one day," Mr. Smith resumed. "The auctioneer displayed a daub and said:

"'Now, ladies and gentlemen, what am I offered for this superb Velasquez, probably the best Velasquez that ever came from the master's hand?'

"There were no bids whatever, so the auctioneer took up another picture.

"'Very well, ladies and gentlemen,' he went on, 'I now offer you a Titian by the same artist.'"

"FREE GRATIS."

Los Angeles Times: Bishop Mallalieu, apropos of the queer creeds that spring up among the ignorant from time to time, said in Auburndale the other day of a coronation visitor:

"Well, I hope when he comes back, he won't bring any more religion with him."

"Oh, no fear of that, bishop. The custom house to too strict," an Auburndale physician remarked.

"Ah, but," said the bishop, "these new religions, you must remember, never have any duties attached to them."

BOY CAME PREPARED.

Anderson correspondence Indianapolis News: Many farmers and their families from the vicinity of a district school near this city were in circuit court today to attend the trial of Vance Connors, who was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery because, it is alleged, he whipped with switches the 13-year-old son of Samuel Hoppes.

The teacher does not deny having chastised young Hoppes, but says he did not punish him severely. The boy says he was told three days prior to the whipping that he would be punished and on the eventful day he wore two pairs of trousers. His father alleges, however, that the boy was badly bruised about the legs.

A SON TO BE PROUD OF.

Los Angeles Times: Ambassador James Bryce, at a dinner in Washington, said of the American spirit:

"But you have not a monopoly of this independent, this democratic spirit. I once knew, for example, an Oxford don, a very prominent man, whose father was a humble carpenter.

"As the don stood conversing one day before the Mitre with a group of distinguished visitors, the old man, in his working clothes, slunk by on the other side of the street, thinking he would spare his son the mortification of a salute.

"But the son, breaking off his conversation, called out in good Hampshire dialect of his childhood:

"'Eh, feyther! If thee hain't ashamed of I, I hain't ashamed of thee!'"

COUNTY HAS FINE CROPS

Hay, Potatoes, Celery, Corn and Oats Are All Thriving.

Some Farmers Have More Clover Than They Can Cut.

While the hay crop in many parts of the country is failing and while the price holds steady at the present time at about $22.50 a ton, St. Louis county farmers, aided by the fine haying weather, are getting into their barns, the largest hay crop in the history of the county, it is said.

While even in adjoining counties the hay crop is, according to reports, far below the ordinary, St. Louis county farmers will this year harvest their annual bumper crop.

The crop this year is only out of the ordinary because the crops in other parts of the country are failing. The splendid crop is not unusual in this county, but rather the usual thing. In all parts of the county the crop is very large and is averaging from 2½ to 3 tons to the acre. None of the land is producing under two tons to the acre, according to those who spend a good deal of their time among the farmers of the county and some of it is running over three tons.

Out at the Jean du Luth farm there is a tract of 180 acres in clover. The land is yielding an average of 2½ tons to the acre and fifteen teams are engaged in hauling the fodder to the large barns where it is being stored for winter use. Five mowers are going from early morning until night and the big farm force is hustling the gigantic crop into the barns.

Ideal Weather.

Thus far the weather has been ideal for haying. The days have been fair, the sun hot and the rain has come at times when it did not hurt the hay.

The farmers in St. Louis county will do well this year, it is said, no matter what they grow. The potato crop is as big as the hay crop. Celery, a plant which it was thought impossible to grow here a few years ago, is doing well all over the county and many farmers are now growing it extensively.

"To the people who rather scoff at the idea of farming in St. Louis county," said a man this morning who spends a good deal of his time among the farmers, "I would say, get out and see what is going on al around you. We are going to have at our door one of the finest farming countries that lies out doors and the wildest dreams in the farming line hav ealready come true. It was claimed that corn would not ripen here. Just wait until fall and you'll see some of the finest corn that was ever grown."

In many parts of the country the farmers state that they will this year be unable to cut all their hay. Some of them forseeing this have turned their cattle into the clover, fencing off a portion for them. The clover is very heavy of stalk and as to make the best hay it must be cut at a certain time, the farmers find that they have more than they can do. The clover is so heavy that it is now falling over and tangling. This makes it almost impossible to cut unless caught before it falls. It is estimated that hundreds of tons of clover hay wil go to waste in St. Louis county this season, in this way.

The crop of potatoes and other vegetables is said to be larger than usual. It is stated that there will be no potato famine in this county this year.

A man who visited at Floodwood where a new creamery has just been established states that 1,200 pounds of butter is being made each week. This, he says, is remarkable, because it is at a time when the farmers are busy haying, and have no time to take their cream to the creamery.

The farmers about Floodwood are also having an enormous crop of oats this year. There are two thrashing machines in the district this year and hundreds of bushels of horse fed will bethrashed, he says.

It seems to be the same throughout the county. Whatever the farmer is raising he is getting large returns on his money and time.

Those who have been among the farmers say that the crops in St. Louis county this year are going to be the greatest advertisement the county ever had.

CANADA AFTER HARVEST HANDS

Saskatchewan Offers Wages of $2.50 Per Day and Higher.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Canada wants 20,000 men from the United States to help harvest the crops of Saskatchewan.

F. Hedley Auld, special labor commissioner of the province of Saskatchewan, appointed to secure the men, has arrived in Minneapolis.

"Saskatchewan will harvest 200,000,000 bushels of small grains this fall and summer and we have not the men to help in the work," said Mr. Auld upon his arrival here. "We want men from the United States and special inducements have been made by the railroad companies and immigration authorities to induce them to go to Canada. We can assure them of ten weeks work, starting about Aug. 10, wages are from $2.50 a day up. That is the minimum and I would not promise more, but much more is being paid and will be paid."

PLUMBING FIRM BANKRUPT.

H. O. Roberts Company Files Petition in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The H. O. Roberts company, engaged in the plumbing and heating business in Minneapolis, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court today. Liabilities are scheduled at $25,865.85 and assets at $45,758.39. Of the assets the company claims $24,700 includes policies of insurance. There is also $10,658.39 included in the assets, which are open accounts on the ledger.

In its statement of liabilities the company shows $1,269.39 due its employes as wages. The company has a a branch at Pierre, S. D.

CRACK RIFLEMEN OF STATE COMPETING.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The crack sharpshooters of the three infantry regiments of Minnesota began target practice today on the range at Lake City in the qualifying shoot, preliminary to the national tournament at Camp Perry next month. About 100 marksmen are entered. The preliminaries will end tomorrow.

OVERDOING IT.

Los Angeles Times: Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, being asked at the Knickerbocker club if he would drive his London-Brighton coach again this year, answered with a smile:

"This is coronation year, and the streets of London are apt to be overcrowded for coaching. They are apt to cause a good many repetitions of Kit Sykes's accident.

"The famous buck, Christopher Sykes, once conceived a sudden ambition to drive a mail phaeton in Hyde Park. Though he had no training all went well till there came a crush near Hyde Park corner, when Sykes, unable to control his horses, sent his pole crashing through the back of a brougham.

"He instantly tossed his reins to the groom, ran to the door of the damaged carriage, and apologized so gracefully and gallantly that the old lady within expressed her entire satisfaction.

"Sykes, undaunted, sallied out again that afternoon. He soon got into another crush, however, and once more his pole pierced a brougham. Again he ran to the brougham's door, and, hat in hand, again he began a voluble apology.

"But an angry voice interrupted him.

"'What! You again? No, sir. I'll never forgive you! Twice a day is too much.'"

THE VANISHING PIGTAIL.

Shanghai National Review: A large number of Shanghai officials, merchants and others have now cut off their queues, and every day the new fashion is coming more into popular favor.

Time was, and that within the last two years, when any reference to this subject among representative people in this country was tabood, while today it is a subject of comprehensive discussion, and similarly to the vicious practices of opium smoking and foot binding, the wearing of a "pigtail" is rapidly becoming bad form.

A SPIRIT OF SKEPTICISM.

Los Angeles Times: The late Paul Morton, at a dinner in New York, praised stoutly the unexampled efficency of America's great corporations.

"Some Americans," he said, "refuse to admit that anything American can be extraordinary or superfine. They have the spirit of the little girl whose mother was telling her about George Washington.

"The mother in her narrative praised particualaly George Washington's veracity.

"'He couldn't tell a lie,' she said. 'He couldn't tell a lie.'

"'What was the matter wiy him, mamma?' said the little girl. 'Couldn't he talk?'"

IS NOT YET CAPTURED

Strange Man Seen in Woods Is Still Running at Large.

Boys Say They Have Not Seen Him Since Wednesday.

Many are firmly convinced that the man seen recently on several occasions by boys who are camping near Lester park is Dr. John Jackola, the Duluth physician, who has been missing since June 22 last, but he has not yet been captured.

According to the story told by the boys he runs and jumps a great deal. When seen from a distance he seems to be amusing himself in this manner.

Friends of the doctor who have visited the boys at their camp, state that the doctor was fond of track athletics and that if mentally unbalanced he might act in this way.

Robert Chrudinski, one of the young men who is camping on the shores, and one of those who has seen the "wild man," says that the stranger has not been seen in two days. The boys are anxious to capture him and have been looking for him each evening when they go to their camp, but have not seen him since Wednesday.

The man appears at times when least expected. He wears no clothes and if no one is apparently about he runs and jumps. The boys have heard him laugh and sing and talk loudly to himself in a foreign language.

Sometimes he has appeared with a book in his hand. Once he stood on a large rock and orated to the lake, apparently on what was contained in the book.

The bed which he made in the woods is being closely watched and efforts will be made to catch him if he appears again.

From his picture the boys think that he is the missing doctor. They think from his appearance that he had been roaming the woods for some time for he has a shaggy, though short beard.

VULGAR SHOW.
Los Angeles Times: "Mrs. Julia Ward Howe," said a Bostonian, "abominated the vulgar ostentation of the twentieth century millionaire.

"She told me at a suffrage meeting, apropos of a New York society woman who kept 110 servants at her country place, that the twentieth century millionaire reminded her of a rich old farmer who once had his portrait painted.

"When the portrait was finished, the old farmer looked at it, shook his head, and said to the artist:

"'Very good. Very good, indeed. But there is one fault that you must remedy. Please make the right side of the chest bulge out. That is where I carry my wallet.'"

BARS BOYS FROM FEDERAL SERVICE

Bill Is Introduced in the House by Victor Berger.

Washington, July 28.—A bill prohibiting the employment in any capacity of persons under 16 years of age by the government or any government contractor, and providing that special delivery letter carriers shall not be less than 18 years old, was introduced today by Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the Socialist member. This is a result of Mr. Berger's investigation of the case of Albert Dewey Carter, a 12-year-old delivery boy in the Beaumont, Tex., postoffice, who was sent to an institution for five years for stealing $5.00.

INJUSTICE.

Chicago News: "If I had a plug hat and a lot of aluminium jewelry," sadly remarked the intellectual hobo, "I'd never be molested. A faker might come into this town with the deliberate intention of sewing up the inhabitants, and the cops would never try to head him off, if he happened to be wearing real clothes and a poached shirt and a nicely groomed bunch of whiskers. He might have the word 'faker' written all over him, but if he flashed a roll of $1 bills and put up at a ten-story hotel he'd get the glad hand from everybody, especially the police.

"But if a poor but respectable man blows into the town wearing a hat that he found in an alley and a suit of clothes reminding one of a total loss every hand is against him.

"If the ideal policeman existed he would look upon such a stranger compassionately and say to himself: 'Let me not be in too great a hurry to swat this afflicted stranger with my trusty truncheon. Let me inquire into his antecedents. All is not gold that glitters. Perhaps beneath these unseemly rags there beats the heart of one of nature's noblemen. Peradventure this stricken stranger, who has been buffeted by misfortune, is a mute, inglorious Milton or a village Hampden. Therefore it is up to me to take my club in abeyance until I have this mystery explored.' That's the way the ideal policeman would commune with himself. But the ideal policeman lives only in fancy.

"A man can't follow my profession and wear good clothes. To ride a few miles on the trucks of a freight car is ruin to a dress suit, and a few nights spent in haystacks will make any man look unfashionable. Barber shops are not frequent on the country roads and so a man's whiskers naturally take possession of his face. It's impossible for a confirmed tourist to look like a bridegroom. Why don't the plain people consider these facts?

"A man with a clean shave and creased trousers can call on a horny-headed farmer and sell him half a mile of lighting rods or a lot of mining stock and be invited to sit up to the table and eat dinner and then spend the evening in the parlor singing songs with the girls of the family. If that same farmer goes out to the barn and finds an unfortunate traveler with two inches of rich brown whiskers on his face and a suit of clothes that needs pressing, that farmer, I say, will reach for his muzzle-loading pitchfork and call up Rover and Towser and send a riot alarm to the sheriff's office at the county seat, and the traveler will be chased over twenty miles of landscape and prodded with the pitchfork at every jump. Meanwhile the dogs will be bitting him in several places and farm dogs always have more teeth than a dentist's show case. Now, is there any justice in this sort of thing?

"It seems to me," observed the sympathetic citizen, "that you could save yourself a lot of travail of spirit, to say nothing of physical suffering, if you would get yourself a decent suit of clothes; have your whiskers pruned and try to give an immitation of a human being.

"That's always the way," sighed the intellectual hobo. "I never can find a man capable of looking at the fundamental principles underlying this matter. People always consider the externals alone. I insist that, under the constitution, I have the right to wear shredded raiment and as many kind of whiskers as I wish. I have the right to sleep outdoors and sidestep industry of every kind. Do you admit that right?

"It doesn't seem to make any difference whether I do or not, since the police don't agree with you. And, speaking of the police, I see a large husky officer headed this way."

"Great Scott! It's the same cop that pulled me out of a freight car the other day! It's me for the high places and the distant timber line!"

SWISS WINDOW BOXES.
Those who think all the delights of Switzerland lie among the high Alpine peaks or in the joy of winter sports will find upon visiting it that much of its strong appeal lies in the picturesque charm of its farm and village scenes.

Famous for its chocolate and cheese works, the town of La Gruyere still clings to its ancient customs and surroundings. Many of the houses date back to the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, while the chateau of the Counts of La Gruyere is of an even earlier period.

Ancient buildings, however, soon become commonplace to the European traveler, says County Life in America, and so probably the first thing one notices in this interesting village is the prevalence of window boxes.

They are everywhere. No matter how old or tumbledown the house may be, there are always flowering plants in the windows and they brighten up the whole town wonderfully. Gay colors are the rule; pink and red geraniums are most common, although one sees a few occasional nasturtiums and carnations, with an occasional hydrangea.

Unlike American window boxes, which are boxes in actuality containing a considerable quantity of soil, those usually found in Switzerland are a sort of grated box, with sides much like a picket fence, in which potted plants are placed. These boxes are either set upon the broad window sill itself or just outside upon brackets secured to the wall of the house.

When there are very heavy storms which might do damage to the plants the blinds may be closed to afford protection in the former case or the pots may be taken indoors one by one in the latter.

GOLDEN WEDDINGS.
London Standard: A dozen couples have celebrated their golden weddings at Morbecque, a Belgian town of 3,000 inhabitants. The twelve families were serenaded in turn by a band outside their windows according to their years of married life.

The oldest couple are M. and Mme. Delhuit, who have been married fifty-six years, and they headed the procession of venerable happy lovers to church. A banquet was given to the twelve families by the municipal councillors, in the afternoon presents were brought to them by almost every man, woman and child in the town.

THE PHILOPENA.
Los Angeles Times: Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture places the high cost of living on the middlemen.

Secretary Wilson, after citing a case where the farmer only got 9 cents a bushel for potatoes that the consumer paid 75 cents for, resumed, at a dinner in Washington:

"These middlemen resemble the young lady who won the philopena.

"'Well,' said the gentleman who lost, 'I've lost—what shall I give you?'

"'Your photograph, nothing but your photograph,' she answered, 'in a pretty little gold mounting, set in a gold bracelet, with a sprinkling of emeralds, and just one solitaire—one only, mind you—no more!'"

MONEY LEFT FROM FOURTH

West Duluth Committee Has Balance of $300 Remaining.

May Incorporate and Make Celebration an Annual One.

Will West Duluth's Fourth of July celebration become a permanent feature for the western end of the city?

The question will probably be decided at a meeting of the association, Tuesday, Aug. 1, when the affairs of the recent celebration will be wound up. There is considerable sentiment among the business men at West Duluth favoring making the demonstration an annual event and in that case, it would be necessary for the association to incorporate.

The celebration held this month was the most successful one ever attempted at West Duluth, both in point of attendance and in a financial way. The association has a good financial standing and will wind up its affairs with about $300 on the right side of the ledger.

There are some who believe that a celebration should be held next year and that a flying machine should be brought here for the occasion and other new features introduced. After the meeting Tuesday, a statement of the financial condition of the association will be sent to all subscribers to the fund.

MAKE EFFORT TO HOLD MEETING

Warm Weather Interfering With Attendance at the Commercial Club.

In spite of the warm weather, an effort will be made to hold a meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening. There is much business for the club to attend to. For the past two weeks, only a small number have attended and the meetings have been postponed.

The club will consider giving its indorsement to a new kind of a bed spring, the inventors of which, desire to manufacture in Duluth. If the indorsement of the club is received capital will be interested in the venture and a factory undoubtedly established this fall in West Duluth.

The club is much interested in the action of the council in ordering the city engineer to make an investigation into the plans of the Canadian Northern railroad as to the cut at Fifty-ninth avenue west. At this point the street has to be lowered to clear the spans of the overhead bridge. It is claimed by some that the grade is too steep in the cut that the railroad has made.

The matter of the proposed extension of the street car line from its terminal on Raleigh street, down Sixty-third avenue west to the bay front may also be brought up, but it is not known whether the club will make any recommendations in the matter of not.

IS BELIEVED TO BE MAX SMITH

The body of the young man, supposed to be from West Duluth, and partly identified as Max Smith, who was killed Tuesday by a train at Carlton, is still held by Undertakers Kelley & Moses at Cloquet.

Dr. O. S. Watkins of Carlton, who is in the city today, attended the young man and sent him to the hospital at Cloquet, where he died an hour or so after the accident.

Dr. Watkins said that the young man had been warned not to attempt to jump on the moving freight train but that he paid no attention to the warnings. He tried twice before he was successful. The train was moving at such a rate of speed that the young fellow was swung completely off his feet. When his feet dropped down again they caught in a "frog" at the crossing and pulled him down to his death. The body was badly mangled.

The young man, if Max Smith, has a mother living at Willow River. He had the name and address of E. J. Zauft, a West Duluth contractor, in his notebook. Mr. Zauft does not know him.

Birthday Party.

A birthday party was given last evening in honor of Rev. C. Schevenius, pastor of Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The affair was in the nature of a lawn social and took place at the home of Mrs. C. Paulson of 20 South Sixty-ninth avenue west. About sixty-five people were present. Rev. Schevenius was presented with a purse. Speeches were made by C. Matheson, A. P. Lund, R. Jensen, the guest of honor and others. Songs were sung by the choir and the musical society of the church.

JOHN McCUTCHEON PASSES AWAY.

John McCutcheon, aged 60, for the past fifteen years a resident of New Duluth, died this afternoon at his home following a three weeks' illness of stomach trouble.

Mr. McCutcheon is survived by a wife and seven children. No funeral arrangements have been made.

He had been in poor health for about a year, but his condition was not regarded as serious until a few days ago.

Mr. McCutcheon belonged to the Modern Woodmen order, which will probably have charge of the funeral.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION MEETING.

A meeting of the West Duluth Educational association will be held Tuesday evening, Aug. 1, at the Irving school. Several matters of a civic nature will probably be considered. During the summer months, it is planned to make the meetings short and a prolonged session is not looked for.

Among other things, the proposed general half holiday in the stores will be discussed by the club members.

Beemer Funeral.

Funeral services for Levi Beemer, aged 65, 424 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, who died Wednesday night in a hospital at International Falls, Minn., will be held tomorrow afternoon at Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street. The funeral will be in charge of the West Duluth lodge of Odd Fellows, of which Mr. Beemer was a member. Rev. William G. Boyle will officiate and burial will be in Oneota cemetery. The body arrived this morning from International Falls, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Beemer and daughter, Mrs. C. A. Bronson, both of West Duluth.

Missionary Will Speak.

Rev Harry E. Giffin, a returned missionary from China, will make an address at 7:45 o'clock Sunday evening at the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue. Rev. Mr. Giffin is a Duluth man. He spent seven years in China, where he had charge of a large inland mission.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Mary L. Barnes of 831 North Fifty-seventh avenue west will leave this evening for Detroit and other points in Michigan. While away she will visit her former home at Albion, Mich.

Charles I. Towner of 414 North Fifty-ninth avenue west returned yesterday from a lake trip to Cleveland, Detroit and other lower lake ports. He was gone two weeks.

Miss Edna Winters of St. Paul is visiting with West Duluth friends.

Walter D. Mattson of Shattuck, Ill., is visiting in the western end of the city.

Stanley Gilpin will leave tomorrow for a short visit to Minneapolis.

Edward Holland left this afternoon for a few days' visit with friends in the Twin Cities.

Herman Thompson of Fifty-eighth avenue west left yesterday for Eau Claire, where he will visit friends and relatives for a few days.

A. C. Johnson of Virginia is a West Duluth business visitor today.

Hurst. Watch repairing, West Duluth.

SUPERIOR

EDGERTON ELECTED: WAUSAU IS SELECTED.

Mayor E. S. Edgerton of Oconomowoc was elected president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which closed its annual session in Superior today. Wausau was chosen as the meeting place for 1912.

Frank R. Crumpton, mayor of Superior, was elected vice president of the organization and Ford McGregor of Madison was named as the secretary and treasurer of the league.

Many of the delegates this afternoon visited the steel plant and other points of interest in Duluth and vicinity. Others attended the ball game.

DOUGLAS COUNTY TO GET $6,020 FOR GOOD ROADS.

Douglas county next year will receive the sum of $6,020 from the state for constructing highways. Under the goods roads bill, passed by the legislature, the new highway commission has about $350,000 to apportion among the various counties next year. The largest amount to be received by any one county is $68,000, which will go to Milwaukee county. The $6,020, together with what the county board will appropriate, will go a long way towards giving Douglas county some good roads.

FIVE NEW MEMBERS ON HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY.

Of the twenty-nine members of the faculty at the Superior high school this fall, five will be new teachers. Miss Sarah Smith of the Cummnock School of Oratory and Charles C. Evans of Wesleyan university will teach English. Miss Mae Belle Allstrand of Carroll, Iowa, will be a new German instructor. Andrew Schneider of Lawrence university will teach commercial geography and Miss Deborah Jenkins of Elroy, a graduate of the state university, will teach in the English department.

LITTLE GETS RATE JOB ON DAKOTA COMMISSION.

James Little, traffic manager and rate expert of the Superior Commercial club for some time past, left yesterday for Bismarck, N. D., where he will take up his new duties as head of the rate department of the North Dakota Grain & Warehouse commission.

Father Babinsky Funeral.

The funeral of Rev. Father A. A. Babinsky, pastor of St. Stanislaus Polish Catholic church, who died Monday evening on a train while on his way to Stevens Point, was held this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Stanislaus church. Bishop Schinner said the requiem high mass over the body and was assisted in the funeral ceremonies by several Duluth and Superior priests. The body was sent to Winona for burial.

ENTERTAINING CONGRESSMEN

Four House Members Have Trip Down Lake on Steamer Vidette.

Four Minnesota congressmen are in the city this afternoon on their way to Two Harbors, from which port they will take a steamer for the lower lakes, en route for Washington. They are Fred Stevens of St. Paul, Frank Nye of Minneapolis, Halvor Steenerson of Crookston, and A. J. Volstead of Granite Falls.

While here they were entertained by L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs, being taken for an auto trip around the boulevard and then to Two Harbors on the government launch Vidette.

TRUE LOVE.

Chicago News: "I've just finished reading a silly book by Gwendolin Beryl Hemingway," remarked Mrs. Wagstaff, impatiently. "I never saw such rubbish. I was in a hurry when I bought it and I supposed it would have some substance to it, because the author has three names. I don't know why it is, Mrs. Cumback, but when I see a book or a magazine article by a person with three names I always feel sure that it will be helpful and uplifting.

"But this book was simply twaddle. The hero promised to the same girl four or five times and he always fell upon his knees to do it. I don't believe any man ever got down on his knees to propose."

"I'm sure Mr. Cumback didn't," observed the caller, wearily. "He bullied me into marrying him. I don't mind confessing that I wasn't a bit in love with Charles Edward Cumback when I took him for my husband. I was infatuated with Clarence Toogood, who had published a volume of the sweetest poems, all about daffodils and maidenhair. Clarence had spent a winter in London and learned to use a monocle properly and he parted his hair in the middle and talked with a lisp. He was just too sweet, Mrs. Wagstaff. I was perfectly infatuated and I expected a proposal from Clarence at any hour.

"I was barely acquainted with Mr. Cumback, having met him only a few times, so you can imagine how I felt when he came up one night, when Clarence and I were seated on the porch in the moonlight talking about art and poetry. He took Clarence by the collar and lifted him off the porch and took the chair himself.

"'I have made up my mind to marry you myself,' said he, 'so you'll have nothing further to do with that little tin poet.'

"Before he left that night he had completed all the wedding arrangements. And I'm thankful I didn't marry that poor dear Clarence, for when I heard of him last he was peeling potatoes in a hotel kitchen."

"I don't think a man could domineer over me like that," said Mrs. Wagstaff, "but, of course, a woman never knows what she'd do in another's place. Mr. Wagstaff won my consent to marry him by pure persistance. I had high ambitions when I was a girl, and wanted to marry a man with plenty of money. I had been reading too many novels for my own good and I was always thinking of dukes and other noblemen and of marble halls and vassals and serfs. The idea of marrying a poor man seemed ridiculous to me.

"Then Mr. Wagstaff began coming to see me. He was a clerk in a hardware store and earned $14 a week. They sold oil in that store and he often smelled of kerosene and had tar on his hands. So when he proposed to me one night as we stood out by the front gate it seemed so preposterous that I couldn't answer for laughing.

"He stood there looking at me as calm as he could, and said that he was glad to observe that I had a keen sense of humor, as he couldn't tolerate a woman who was deficient in that respect. Then he told me that he would propose to me at 9 o'clock every Thursday evening until I agreed to be his wife.

"The next Thursday night at 9 o'clock I was walking with a girl friend, when Mr. Wagstaff came up and renewed his proposal right before my friend.

"On the next Thursday night I stayed in my room to avoid him and he got a ladder and placed against the house and came up to my window, where I was sitting, and asked me to be his bride.

"I resorted to all sorts of stratgems to prevent him from making his weekly proposal, but they did no good. He was always on hand at 9 o'clock on Thursday evening and it made no difference who was around. He'd ask his question.

"This went on nearly a year before I gave up. One night I was on the programme at an entertainment and was singing a sentimental song. I was in the middle of the second verse when a man stood up in the audience and raised his hand to command silence.

"'It's 9 o'clock, Miss Jones,' said he in ringing tones. 'It's 9 o'clock of a Thursday evening, and the wind's in the south! Will you marry me?'

"I was so excited that I accepted him before the whole audience!"

BAD GUESS.

Chicago News: "Now, it's no use opening your valise," said Mrs. Curfew, with great determination. "I simply won't buy a porcelain potato masher or a machine for grating nutmegs and beating eggs at one operation. Even if I wanted such a thing, I haven't time to look at your samples, for my daughter's here visiting me. She teaches school eight miles out in the country and she's afraid she'll have to give up her school, for the son of one of the directors has fallen in love with her and is always pestering her to go buggy riding, and so she comes to me for advice, and I'm sure I don't know what advice to give, for I've troubles of my own."

"But, my dear madam—" began the stranger.

"Oh, I'm tired of being dear madamed," declared Mrs. Curfew. "You agents are all the same, with your dear madaming. There was an agent here the other day, and it was dear madam this, and dear madam that, and he sold me a lot of poultry powder that would make my hens lay, he said, and goodness knows I wanted them to lay, so I bought some of his powder and he gave me his word of honor that it would make the hens lay.

"So I fed it to the hens according to the directions on the wrapper, and I had my daughter read the directions, too, so there would be no mistake, for my daughter is highly educated and teaches school in the country and boards with a family by the name of Sparks. And when I went to the hen coop next day with a bushel basket to gather the eggs there all the hens were dead or dying, and I think that agent sold me rat poison by mistake. I'm done buying things from agents."

"If you would permit me to say a word—"

"Then you would say 40,000,000 words, and wind up by selling me a patent washing machine or some kind of coffee mill that will do to roast peanuts. Oh, you can't fool me, mister. There isn't a woman in this country who has been pestered by agents as much as I have and I've bought so many foolish things that the neighbors all laugh at me.

"An agent came along a while ago and sold me a toy circus for my little daughter who is just the image of me, only she will persist in walking on her hands and sliding on the railings when she comes down stairs and so she's always getting hurt, poor thing, and her father says it keeps him poor buying court plaster. I bought a toy circus and menagerie for that little girl, and there were several green elephants and the paint on them must have tasted good, for the little girl always had their trunks in her mouth, and the first thing I knew she was taken down sick and it took three doctors to cure her, and the doctors all said she was poisoned by those green elephants. And they gathered up all that circus and dumped it in the stove, and it will be a cold day for that agent if I ever see him again. He was one of your dear madamers, and he had a dissolute look about him, with black whiskers like Capt. Kidd's, and I don't doubt that his father and grandfather before him were pirates.

"My husband is so bitter against agents that he says he's going to sell this place and move to some secluded spot where the agents can't find me, and this morning he nailed up a sign on the gate post saying the place was for sale."

"It was because I saw that sign," said the stranger, "that I came to your door. I am looking for just such a property as this, and have the money to buy it, and if you can forget the agents long enough to tell me what the price is, I'll be obliged to you."

CALIFORNIA WINE INDUSTRY.

Percy T. Morgan, a pioneer in the California wine industry and until recently president of the California Wine association, says that European demand for American wines is constantly increasing.

"On account of the decrease in the production of wine in Europe, especially in France, where the phylloxera devastated whole vineyards, the French have had to import wine for several years," says Mr. Morgan in the Wholesalers and Retailers Review. "In 1909 that country imported over 164,000,000 gallons.

"Most of it came from Algeria, but this last season the shortage was so great that they were practically compelled to give California wines a trial. Samples have been sent, and the wine experts of that country have been surprised.

"And that isn't all. The trade in the Orient is slowly but constantly increasing. Prospects in Canada are fair. Hawaii continues to use an increasing quantity of our sweet wines. And on account of the shortage in Europe, with the consequent high prices, our Central and South American markets are growing and are in better condition than ever. England also continues to call for the brands of our wine that have become popular there.

"You must understand that all pioneering in wine making in this state has been done. We know just what can be expected from any section of the state. For instance, we know that the counties north of San Luis Obispo and west of Merced, Fresno, Stanislaus and San Joaquin are dry wine countries. The low lying hills, gentle slopes, sea frogs and warm sun make that part of the state an ideal dry wine section, the equal of any part of Europe.

"This section will continue to produce dry wine of a quality that commends it to wine drinkers the world over. Getting it down still closer, we know just what part of that section will produce the best red wine and what part grows grapes adapted to making the white wines.

"The interior, with its level valleys and hot climate, will continue to produce the sweet wines for which that section has already become noted. Port, sherry, madeira and malaga are the principal varieties, and will continue to grow in popularity as the people become acquainted with them.

"Of course, in making our sherries we are hindered a little by federal restrictions. A good sherry can not be made without fortification, and under the revenue laws we can not fortify wine that contains less than 4 per cent sugar.

"Hence we have difficulty in getting our sherry dry enough. This trouble could easily be remedied by blending, but here we again are prevented by the well-meant, but not always wise, interference of Uncle Sam. However, these conditions are gradually being recognized by the department and being corrected.

"I believe that the greatest development that has taken place in the wine industry of our state during the seventeen years that I have been interested in it has been the rapid growth of the sweet wine business. Why, it's actually marvelous the number of vineyards that have been set out to sweet wine grapes and the way the markets for those wines have expanded.

"Ten years ago last season there were only about 9,000,000 gallons of sweet wine made in the entire United States. This season just passed we made over twice that much right here in California alone, and we are going to sell it too.

"With the building of large wineries in the sweet wine belt and other improvements of a general nature the sweet wine business has made wonderful strides. Our brandy business, while not anything to boast of as yet, has almost kept pace with the sweet wine. And the markets made by California port and brandy are permanent markets."

GETTING HOME WITH THE STUFF.

Los Angeles Times: William Loeb, Jr., New York's prominent collector of customs, was discussing smuggling.

"Though it is wicked to smuggle," said Mr. Loeb, "it is always somehow laughable. It is especially laughable when a smuggler gets 'stung.' Even when a customs officer gets 'stung.'

"In the English county of Wiltshire," he continued, "the natives are called 'moon rakers.' There's a Wiltshire story, over a century old, about some rustics who were found one night raking away in a pond at the reflection of the moon, which they took for cheese.

"That's a very good story, a very funny skit on the men of Wiltshire; but ask a Wiltshire man about it, and with a contented chuckle he will say:

"'Oh, yes, people tell as how they give the name o' 'moon rakers' to us Wiltshire people bekase a passel o' scoundels one night tried to rake the shadder o' the moon out o' the brook, takin' it for a thin cheese. But that's the wrong end o' the story. It's altogether the wrong end. Them chaps as was doin' this was smugglers, and they was fishin' up some kegs o' brandy, and only pretended to rake out a cheese. The policeman as axed 'em what they was about had a good laugh at 'em; but, by Harry! they had a better laugh at him when they got home with the stuff.'"

A MISINTERPRETED QUESTION.

Los Angeles Times: "That was an intentional misunderstanding," said Senator Bankhead, in a political argument in Fayette. "It was as intentional as the young Canadian's.

"A young Canadian, you know, came to Washington last month to spend the holidays with a pretty cousin and her family.

"As he was motoring with his pretty cousin one afternoon, she said to him:

"'Do you have reindeer in Canada?'

"'No, darling,' he answered quickly; 'at this season it always snows.'"

ALWAYS OF GOOD REPORT.

Los Angeles Times: A magazine editor, at the Franklin inn in Philadelphia, was heard talking about Andrew Carnegie.

"We never hear anything but good of Mr. Carnegie," he said. "The last thing we have heard—his gift of $10,000,000 for the promotion of peace—is the best yet. But everything we hear is good.

"A friend of mine has brought back from Dunfermline a study about Mr. Carnegie and an old woman.

"Mr. Carnegie, the 'laird of Skibo,' was making some improvement in Dunfermline, and one day, at the noon hour, an old woman appeared on the scene with a sack. She hurriedly filled her sack with chips and bits of wood from the work, and then she turned to a handsome, genial, gray-bearded man and said:

"'Hi, laddie, gie us a lift wi' this sack afore the laird comes.'

"Thereupon the laird of Skibo promptly helped the woman to escape from himself."

THE ELEPHANT AFRICA'S CURSE.

Wide World Magazine: The region between Lakes Tanganyika and Nyassa teems with elephants. The vast supplies of ivory already drawn from its forests and swamps, and the thousands of tusks still being exported, enable us to realize how enormous are the tracts of country, as yet unoccupied by man, over which the creatures roam. This vast wealth in ivory has for centuries attracted the Arab merchant, and latterly the sport of hunting the elephant has drawn Europeans thither. To penetrate the dense bush or to tramp through swamp thorn country close on the heels of a mighty tusker whose trunk, foot and tusk are each capable of inflicting instant death is, I think, one of the most exciting phases of sport as enjoyed by the big game hunter. To face a bull elephant, with his gigantic ears outstretched to detect his pursuer's approach, and with his trunk uplifted straight in the air to catch his scent, and to known that between the hunter and his quarry there is a distance of but a few paces, is to experience a sensation that, once felt is never forgotten. A false move, a crackling twig, and the spell is broken. That mighty bulk, but a second before immovable, plunges forward with curved trunk and raised head, giving vent to an unearthly shriek which in itself is enough to spoil the aim of the best marksman. Crushing past the spot where his attacker is standing he hurls down trees like ninepins in his mad rush through the forest. Then follows a long, arduous tramp of perhaps ten miles or more, the final contest, and the securing of the much-prized trophies of the chase. The midnight destroyer of native gardens, the terror of whole villages, is removed after, may be, a hundred years of a free life in the woods.

Apart from big game hunting, what tragedies have been and are being enacted for the sake of ivory! How it is obtained and transported I cannot deal with here, but it is safe to say the elephant has been one of the greatest curses to Africans.

NO UNION.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. O. H. Belmont, at a luncheon at the Colony club in New York, urged on women the necessity for union.

"If we are to get the vote," she said, "we must stand together. "Too many women face this question as they face all others—like the elderly belles at the charity ball.

"'What a flatterer Wooter Von Twiller is!' said the first belle.

"'Why, did he tell you you looked nice?' said the second.

"'No,' was the reply. 'He told me you did!'"

WHEAT JUMPS TO NEW LEVEL

September Option Goes Over $1 for Advance of 2 5-8 Cents in Duluth.

Hail Adds to Damage Already Caused By Black Rust.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 28.—The wheat market leaped upward today, Duluth showing a gain of 2⅝c; Minneapolis, 3⅛ and 3c, and Chicago, 1½c for the September option.

Hail added to the black rust damage already reported caused the route of the bears and sent the market bounding upward. The shorts got out from under yesterday in a large measure, and those who remained on the bear side of today's market were squeezed. The black rust damage reports are at their height and command the situation. There is little doubt but that the North Dakota crop is seriously damaged. The hail, which swept through part of the state last night added to the damage. Only the northern counties continue to report normal crops and the crops are not far enough advanced there to escape the rust, should it continue to spread.

Everything is against the traders who were behind the "sell this wheat" slogan last week. The reciprocity agreement has not become effective yet and, if it carries in Canada, it cannot be for several months. In the meantime, the farmers who were rushing their grain to market in anticipation of a drop when the agreement became effective, are losing their haste and are complacently waiting for better prices. In consequence, receipts fell off in primary centers today and there is likely to be a marked falling off in the visible increase next week. There is no consolation for the shorts in this market.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Becomes Easier on Brighter Outlook for Peace.

Chicago, July 27.—With the Morocco situation appearing less acute the wheat market today became easy. Moreover, there were signs of larger world shipments this week. Dispatches from India, too, brought word that rain had fallen in the provinces and also in the Punjab. In addition, current gossip regarding the American spring wheat crop inclined to favor the bear side. It was asserted that the fields have sufficient moisture for the present, and that although black rust was doing some damage an accurate estimate of the actual harm had been found difficult. Opening prices were the same as last night to ½c down. September started ¼c to ⅜c lower at 88c to 88½c and declined to 87¾@87⅞c.

A rally ensued on account of export sales and the fact that for the first time in a long while shipments from Chicago exceeded receipts. There was a rumor that black rust had appeared at Regina, N. W. T. The close was steady, ⅜c net higher at 88¾c for September.

Considerable selling pressure developed in corn. A leading authority was quoted as declaring the crop in good condition, and predicting that if no setback occurred from now on a large yield might be expected. September opened unchanged at 62⅞c, but sagged to 62⅜c.

Other reports, however, said to indicate deficient moisture and a sensationally poor crop condition, led to an upturn. The close was steady with September ⅛@⅝c net higher at 63⅜@63½c.

Oats weakened with other grain and because both in quality and quantity the harvest was turning out better than expected several weeks ago. September started a shade to ¼c@⅜c off at 39⅝c to 39⅞c, and fell to 39½c.

Demand was less urgent for hog products, and there was plentiful selling by packers. Initial transactions were 5c lower to 2½c up with September delivery $16.90 for pork, $8.57½ for lard, and $8.70 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 27.—Cotton opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 10 points in response to rather better cables than due, reports that rains were officially predicted for India, larger English spot sales, covering and continued buying for a reaction. Offerings were heavy at the initial advance and during the first few minutes the market eased off to a net decline of 9@11 points on the new crop months, but yesterday's buyers became more active on this decline and prices steadied up again to about the closing figures of yesterday during the middle of the morning. Weather advices were considered generally favorable and the South continued selling here.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 13.50; middling gulf, 13.75. Sales, 1,100 bales.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

New York, July 27.—A slightly lower level prevailed at the opening of the stock market today. Losses were fractional being heaviest among the Northwestern railroad group. St. Paul lost ⅜ and Great Northern preferred ½. The only gains were made by Consolidated Gas, which advanced a point, Denver & Rio Grande ⅜ and American Smelting preferred ½.

Heavy buying of Reading was the feature of the first hour's trading. The stock advanced to 160¼, its highest price for more than two months. The general list improved after the opening, and most of the initial losses were recovered. Bethlehem Steel common and preferred and St. Louis & Southwestern preferred gained a point each.

Trading was less active today and variations in prices of stocks during the morning were small. For the third successive day buying of the coalers was conspicuous. Trading in Reading during the early part of the session constituted more than one-third of the total and with Lehigh Valley, which became increasingly active and strong in the second hour, overshadowed the remainder of the list. Board room gossip connected the name of a prominent trader, who is reported to have lost heavily in the cotton market, with the recent selling of stocks, particularly Reading. This stock was offered so liberaly today that it fell back to yesterday's closing after its early advance. Lehigh Valley rose 1⅜ and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie a point. Bonds were steady.

The selling movement assumed the proportions of a bear raid in the afternoon and prices gave way rapidly. The bear party professed alarm at cabled reports of Premier Asquith's speech on the Morocco controversy, but their attack apparently did not uncover a large amount of long stock. Canadian Pacific was the heaviest loser among the leading issues, declining 2⅞. Union Pacific's loss reached 2⅛. Southern Pacific fell back 2 and United States Steel, Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Erie common and first preferred, Westinghouse, Electric and American Beet Sugar 1 or more each.

The market closed heavy. Partial recovery was made in the last hour, Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and the Hill stocks all selling fractionally above the low point, but the list as a whole registered net losses.

SUPERIOR

FIFTY-NINE INDICTMENTS

Many of Them Believed to Be Against Census Padders.

Out of the fifty-nine indictments which were returned yesterday by a grand jury in the United States district court at Eau Claire, many are believed to against the alleged padders of the official census.

As the nature of the indictments and the names of those indicted are not given out until the warrants are served, nothing is known on this point ouside of the government officers and the grand jury.

However, as the alleged census frauds at the city of Superior were under the grand jury probe during the past several days of the sesion, fifty-five witnesses being examined, it is safe to say that some of the fifty-nine indictments returned were against the alleged padders of the census at Superior. Judging from the nature of some of the evidence presented before the grand jury in this matter and which seems to have leaked out, there must have been "something doing"—and on an extensive scale—in the way of boosting the last census figures at Superior, and the impression seems to be at Superior that men high in the affairs of the city and some prominent citizens were mixed up in it, as well as the enumerators.

It is said that the enumerators were paid bonuses for padding their returns by Superior parties; that the enumerators' reports sent in to the census bureau turned out, upon investigation, to contain hundreds of bogus names whose places of residence proved to be vacant lots, office building rooms or boarding houses and hotels. It is said that the residence lists at the hotels and boarding houses as given in the enumerators' reports were so large that they would make the most prosperous landlord turn green with envy, while tenement houses were found to be credited in the reports with a family for each room.

The investigation of the alleged census padding at Superior was carried on some time ago by W. A. McKenzie, special agent of the bureau of commerce and labor in census matters, and he has been in constant attendance during the session of the grand jury. C. A. Newton, special assistant to the United States attorney general in census fraud cases, examined all the witnesses in the Superior census matter before the jury.

BUSY SESSION FOR EXPERTS

Students of Municipal Problems Inspect Water Plant and Hear Addresses.

Delegates to the annual convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which is being held in Superior this week this morning made a trip of inspection through the plant of the Superior Water, Light & Power company, which supplies the city with water.

W. C. Lounsbury, superintendent of the waterworks plant, who gave a lecture on the waterworks system of Superior to the delegates at the high school auditorium last evening, showed the visitors through the place and explained the workings in detail.

At the session held this morning, Prof. George J. Davis, Jr., of Madison gave a talk on "Sewage Disposal" and John Icke, city engineer at Madison spoke on "Oiling Streets." This afternoon the visiting city officials were taken out for an excursion around the horn.

This evening, there will be a general reception at the Commercial club, after which C. B. Whitnall, city treasurer of Milwaukee will give an address on "City Planning." A business session will follow and committees for the coming year will be appointed and also selection made of the city for the next convention.

Tomorrow morning officers will be elected for 1912. Ford McGregor of Madison will give a talk on "Municipal Reference Bureau;" Erich C. Stern of Madison will tell of the work which was accomplished by the last legislature; and J. M. Cadby of Madison, inspector employed by the railroad commission, will speak on "Determining the Quality of Service Furnished by Public Utilities."

In the afternoon the visitors will come to Duluth and visit the industries of the Zenith City. A trip will be made to the steel plant site and other points of interest.

MILWAUKEE MAN MADE PRESIDENT

W. E. Brown Elected Head of State Firemen—Wausau Lands Convention.

Capt. W. E. Brown of Milwaukee was elected president of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association at the closing session of the 1911 convention in Superior today. The next annual meeting will be held at Wausau.

The other officers of the association for the ensuing year are: J. P. Welsh of Eau Claire, vice president; Ole Norman of Superior, secretary; and John H. Kratz of Manitowoc, treasurer.

This afternoon the firemen joined the Municipal League convention delegates on a boat ride around the harbor. The convention was one of the most successful in years.

Grocery Men at Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Superior grocery men is being held today at Billings Park. The usual list of athletic events was given this afternoon, one of the features of the day being a bread baking contest. The street car company has placed a number of extra cars on the Billings Park line, so that the picnickers will have no trouble in reaching or getting away from the grounds. In former years, it has been customary to hold the annual outing at Solon Springs.

HAITI GOVERNMENT APPEARS DOOMED

Wireless Message Is Relayed From Island to Warship.

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 27.—The American cruiser Des Moines, which arrived here Wednesday, received a wireless dispatch frob Jeremie, signed by the American, French, German and Dominican consuls there, stating that a bombardment was expected at any moment and asking that a ship be sent immediately to protect foreign citizens. The American gunboat Petrel responding, left here for Jeremie.

The wireless dispatch was addressed to "any foreign "man-of-war."

The American naval tug Peoria has proceeded from Cape Haitien to Gonaives. The American cruiser Chester remains at Cape Haitien.

Conditions in Haiti are greatly unsettled, with the revolutionists in control at practically all points except this city, the capital. It seems that the government must fall soon.

PEAVEY AFFAIRS PROGRESS.

Committee Ends Its Meetings in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chicago members of the creditors' committee of F. H. Peavey & Co. will leave for Chicago tonight, according to F. O. Wetmore, chairman of the committee. The meeting today in the offices of F. H. Peavey & Co. was for the purpose of attending to routine business.

Mr. Wetmore announced that matters are progressing satisfactorily and the report to the creditors of the company will be ready about Aug. 1. Outlook for the affairs of F. H. Peavey & Co., according to Mr. Wetmore, is favorable.

ON THE ROAD.

Chicago News: It was on a country road. The automobile was going about sixty miles an hour when it struck the man with a canvas vest. He flew through the air and brought up against a tree at the roadside. The occupants of the automobile hastened to him and put a flask to his lips. In a minute or two he regained consciousness and began to talk.

"So this," he said, "is the sort of protection the government gives its people? In times of peace we pay taxes and in times of war we rally round the flag. We are always making sacrifices for the government, and yet we can't walk along a country road in peace and quiet without being hoisted half a mile by an automobile.

"I have no use for a government that permits such an outrage as this. Show me an American eagle and I'll wring its blamed old neck. The talk of a government of the people, by the people and for the people, and yet there is nothing to prevent a taxpayer from being run down by a machine that weighs forty tons, and when he is propped up against a tree, with his back broken in three places and all his joints dislocated, what does the government do for his relief?"

"The government may not help you, but we'll do what ever we can," said the man who owned the automobile. "Let us place you in the car and take you to town and have a surgeon examine you."

"You might as well have a piano tuner examine me," said the afflicted man. "I haven't a bit of confidence in surgeons. They have but one remedy for every ill. Is the patient suffering from a bad cold? Then saw off his leg. Are his bronchial tubes out of whack? Saw off his leg! Is his sight failing? Saw off his leg! You give a surgeon a saw and turn him loose in a crowd and he won't rest while there's a leg left. No, gentlemen, you shan't take me to a surgeon and you don't seem to realize that there's a principle involved in this mix-up. The whole theory of government is involved.

"What is government for if it isn't for the protection of the taxpaying citizen? We are spending vast sums for a police system in the Philippines. We are mighty jealous of the welfare of our citizens in those islands. If a native there throws a boomerang or a bolo or a bologna or whatever it is that the natives throw and it hits an American there is a thundering fuss, and a regiment is sent into the field and several tribes are exterminated. Why can not the government do as much for the citizens here at home? Why can't it?"

"We regret this accident deeply," said the man who owned the automobile, "and we are anxious to do everything possible for your comfort."

"Then hand me my valise that's lying in the ditch there. Thanks. Now, my friends, I want to show you a copy of a magnificent work for which I am eht agent. It is entitled "The Poets of Missouri: Their Songs and Sufferings,' with portraits of fifty of the bards, a critical preface by Harry Thurston Peck and a department devoted to the horse and how to care for him in sickness and in health. This admirable work also embraces 300 tested recipes for making vinegar and other household——"

The members of the automobile party hastened to their machine and went up the road at full speed, while the agent worked himself to his feet by degrees and then limped away.

THE WRONG SPIRIT.

Los Angeles Times: Frederick Townsend Martin was condemning the spirit that animates too many "slum" expeditions.

"A little girl from the East side," he said, "was invited the other day to a garden party given by a very aristocratic lady to a group of little East siders.

"The little girl, as she drank her tea and ate her plum cake on a velvet lawn under a white-blooming cherry tree, said to her hostess:

"'Does your husband drink?'

"'Why—er—no, not to excess,' was the astonished reply.

"'How much does he make?'

"'He doesn't work,' said the lady. 'He is a capitalist.'

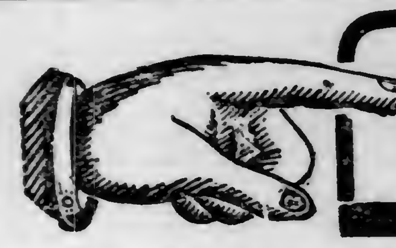

"'You keep out of debt, I hope?'

"'Of course, child. What on earth—'

"'Your color looks natural—I trust you don't paint.'

"'Look here,' exclaimed the hostess, 'what do you mean by all these impudent questions?'

"'Impudent?' said the little girl. 'Why, ma'am, mother told me to be sure and behave like a lady, and when ladies call at our rooms, they always question mother like that.'"
